Biographical History

Fritz Machlup was born in Wiener-Neustadt, Austria, on December 15, 1902. He was a professor of economics and international finance. Machlup received his doctorate under Ludwig von Mises at the University of Vienna in 1923 and had already published four books and over 150 articles before 1935.

Fleeing Hitler and the National Socialists, Machlup first arrived in the United States in September 1933 on a student visa. He was offered a one-year teaching position at Harvard University in 1934 and formally emigrated to the United States in 1935. Machlup's distinguished teaching career included the University at Buffalo, New York (1935-1947), Johns Hopkins University (1947-1960), and Princeton University (1960-1971), as well as visiting professorships at universities in Europe, Japan, and Australia.

In addition to his teaching and research activities, Machlup was the founder in 1963 of the Bellagio Group. Bellagio is a collaborative of scholars from the United States and Italy, which acted as consultants to the U.S. Department of the Treasury during the late 1960s and early 1970s.

Fritz Machlup died in Princeton, New Jersey, on January 30, 1983.
