Historical Note

Organizational charts in this collection span a wide range of the University's history, from the era of the State College for Teachers (1914-1959) through the various iterations of the State University, culminating in the present day University at Albany. The organization of the University changes frequently. Sometimes these changes have been minor: for example, slight changes in department names. Some of the changes have been more significant: the University has undergone major restructuring at various points in its history.
