

Mission Statement Page

https://s3.amazonaws.com/usuppsychology/images/8-June-2010-035-1122010151549\_standard.JPG

Idea—

The American Indian Psychologists and Psychology Graduate Students' mission is to advance psychological education and training, scientific practice and organizational change to enhance the overall well-being, dignity, welfare, and future of native indigenous people and psychology.

- Presentation of psychological research—providing a forum for research to be presented and published
- Professional development opportunities
- Collaboration and networking among academics, practitioners, scholars, researchers, and students
- Sustaining growth of AISP
  - Increasing the number of student scholarships for the annual conference
  - Developing a list of strong candidates for the USU Psychology Graduate Program

https://s3.amazonaws.com/usuppsychology/images/6-May-2008-043-1122010152131\_standard.JPG