Schenectady Urged To Act Quickly on CSEA-Proposed City Pay Plan Revision

(Special to The Leader)

SCHENECTADY, May 30—Schenectady City Council was urged last week to undertake immediately an employee salary plan revision proposed by the Civil Service Employees Assn.

CSEA representatives also told a Council caucus meeting that a minimum 10 per cent raise in salaries should be given to City employees.

F. Henry Galpin, CSEA salary research analyst, and Patrick G. Rogers, field representative, told the Council that an Association survey showed that the City salary plan is "way out of line."

The CSEA representatives pointed out that at the present time, under Schenectady's salary plan, a qualified sanitary chemist, makes $300 a year less than a gardening foreman and a public market attendant, and a civil engineer, senior, makes $1,400 a year less than an electrician and $900 less than a plumber.

Schenectady City Manager Arthur Blessing said the city was in the process of engaging an outside consultant to conduct the salary plan survey as the Association had suggested.

Mr. Galpin said the 10 per cent pay raise request was the result of an analysis comparing Schenectady wage rates with comparable rates in private industry, based on an area wage survey by the U. S. Bureau of Labor Statistics. The CSEA analyst said that in addition to salary data the Association had already provided Schenectady, a survey comparing the City's pay scales with those in effect in cities of comparable size throughout the State would be completed and given to City officials in the near future.

Ask Vacation Liberalization

In addition to salary recommendations, Mr. Rogers also spoke in behalf of a CSEA request for liberalized vacation schedules for City employees, on which the Council is expected to vote at its regular meeting this week.

The CSEA plan is similar to the one it won for Schenectady County employees. Under that plan, employees receive two weeks vacation after one year and one additional day for each year of service after 10 years up to a maximum of 20 days for 20 or more years of service.

Presently, City employees re-

Nassau's Three Towns Follow County's Lead And Give Pay Raises

(From Our Long Island Correspondent)

MINEOLA, May 30 — Nassau County's three town governments acted this week to institute pay raises for 2,5500 employees. The wage boosts, which will distribute an additional $1,300,000-a-year to town workers will go into effect July 1.

In approving the higher pay rates, the Hempstead, North Hempstead and Oyster Bay town boards stepped into line with the Nassau County Board of Supervisors which moved to increase wages for 9,000 county workers. The town additions to their graded salary schedules matched the increases being granted county employees. Under the program, employees will average $600-a-year in higher pay. A new sixth step has been added to the five-step plan now in effect and longevity payments also are to be increased.

Adaptation of McKinsey Report

The overall pay raise program was suggested by Assembly Speaker Joseph Carlino, new Nassau Republican leader, and introduced by the county board of supervisors for action this week. The towns, after consultation with Carlino, decided to adopt similar plans. The county raises will cost an estimated $4,200,000-a-year.

Hempstead workers, numbering 1,400 will get raises costing about $720,000-a-year, North Hempstead has 400 employees who will share $180,000 and Oyster Bay's 700 workers will receive about $400,000-a-year additional.

The entire program represents a town and county adaptation of the McKinsey report, which formed the basis of the recently adopted state salary plan. The Nassau chapter of the Civil Service Employees Association has campaigned for improved wage conditions in the county and towns for eight years.

Oyster Bay Supervisor John Burns, in approving the raises for his town, said, "We must keep our salary program comparable to those currently existing both in municipal services and private industry. Employees working for a municipality in a large suburban town have the same financial responsibility as those homeowners employed elsewhere."

West Conference Meeting Set For Niagara Falls

Niagara Falls will be the site of the June 10 meeting of the West-ern Conference of the Civil Service Employees Association when the Conference meets at the Alps Restaurant to install a new slate of officers.

The afternoon session will begin at 2 p.m., with a County Workshop session being conducted simultaneously. At a joint session of both county and state delegates, Charles Sandler, CSEA regional attorney, will be guest speaker.

Three important speakers also will be featured at the evening dinner session. They are State Sen. Earl Brydges and Assemblymen Ernest Curto and Harold Altro.

Arrangements also have been made for excursions around Niagara Falls and a social program has been set.

Tickets for the dinner meeting are priced at $4.25 and may be had by contacting Elmer Ellis, Niagara Frontier State Parks Commission, Prospect Park, Niagara Falls. Reservation deadline is already past and any last minute requests must be made at once.

State Association officers have been invited to attend, as well as several public officials other than those mentioned above.

Your Public Relations IQ

By LEO J. MARGOLIN

(Mr. Margolin is an adjunct professor of public relations in the New York University School of Public Administration.)

The public relations profession is not educating its young. What little educating is being done is mostly on a hit-and-miss basis. Of the nearly 2,000 institutions of higher education in the United States, only 176 offered any kind of training in public relations, according to a report issued by the Public Relations Society of America in September 1959.

Most colleges and universities offer only isolated courses in the field, unconnected with an orderly training for the successful pursuit of any vocation. The PRSA report showed but one American university offering a degree in the subject, only five with departments in public relations teaching, and less than 15 had it as a major.

The failure of public relations practitioners to undertake a broad affirmative program of education for their own field has brought on a crisis which threatens the profession's future.

At New York University we have found that even a single public relations course is valuable.

In the specialized field of "Public Relations in Government," more than 250 graduate students from 15 foreign countries have been given training in the last 10 years at New York University.

We have scraped the bottom of the barrel in recruiting competent practitioners. Frankly we are acutely embarrassed in attempting to fill our expanding ranks. How often has this embarrassment been acted out in this manner:

We are retained by a multi-million dollar corporation to solve its public relations problems, and there are many.

We make a survey of the client's company and its problems.

We make our recommendations after determining our objectives.

We reevaluate our objectives to be sure our targets are correct. We have ascertained our public. We have crystallized our themes and appeals. We have devised ways and means of communicating our appeals effectively, even to the point of inventing brilliant new techniques. On paper, our strategy and tactics should win for us a "Silver Anvil."

Then, what do we do? We put in charge an untrained, untried, unschooled, inexperienced executive, seriously lacking in judgment. Also missing is a knowledge of psychology, sociology, human relations, principles of communications, facility in his own language, including grammar and spelling, geography, and technical competence in the basics of carrying out this program.

Is assigning a boy to a man's task any different from permitting a first-year medical student to perform a delicate, highly complicated, risky surgical operation?

Why then do we in public relations find ourselves in the position of assigning a neophyte to perform a public relations heart operation?

Unfortunately, many of the wells from which we have drawn our operatives have dried up.

In March 1959, the Public Relations Society of America, through The Vocational Guidance Sub-Committee of its National Education Committee, conducted a survey, "Staffing for Public Relations." The findings should have put everyone in our profession on notice that a crisis existed then, even as it does now.

Reported one public relations executive:

"There is a dire shortage of people who can think problems out, 'sell' management, and perform the work."

Our experience has taught us

Town & County News Roundup

AT JEFFERSON COUNTY CIVIL SERVICE BANQUET: Theodore Wenzl, left, treasurer of the New York State Civil Service Employees Association, Inc., Senator Henry A. Wisse, Watertown Republican, center, and Clarence B. Evans, Watertown president of the Jefferson county chapter, figured prominently in Thursday's annual dinner-meeting of the country organization at Tomacy's Restaurant, near Adms, N.Y.

Local Growth Boosts CSEA Membership, Field Man Says

(From Our Watertown Correspondent)

WATERTOWN, May 30 — Joseph Donnelly, Albany, field representative for The New York State Civil Service Employees Association, Inc., credits growth of the state organization to the development of county chapters in New York State.

Mr. Donnelly said all county chapters have a "great potential" for organizational development. He spoke at the annual meeting of the Jefferson county Chapter, held at Tomacy's restaurant near Adams Thursday night.

Wenzl Predicts

At the same meeting the state association's treasurer, Theodore Wenzl, Albany, predicted that the Jefferson county organization has "a potential of 700 members." It has 212 at present.

Mr. Wenzl also discussed the statewide membership drive to be inaugurated June 1.

Clarence B. Evans, city, president of the Jefferson chapter, presided at the annual dinner meeting, Mrs. Doris Clark, city, was chairman of the meeting committee. Senator Henry A. Wise was introduced to the meeting by President Evans.

Making brief remarks on the program were: Raymond Castle, Syracuse, second vice president of the state association, and Vernon Tapper, also of Syracuse, third vice president.

Syracuse Stenos Get Pay Boost

(From Our Syracuse Correspondent)

SYRACUSE, May 30—Salaries of court stenographers in Syracuse's Municipal Court were increased, at the request of the court's three judges, who complained they could not obtain qualified stenographers at the former rates.

The Common Council boosted the beginning salary of stenographers from $4,375 to $6,000, an increase of $1,625. Under the new salary plan, stenographers will get four annual increases to a top pay of $8,500. The former top salary for stenographers in the court was $5,125.

The three judges, James A. Farrell, Roger O. Baldwin and Jesse E. Cantor, said in a letter to Mayor Anthony Henninger that they could not hire any new stenographers because of the low pay scale.

A replacement for one veteran stenographer who retired could be found at the former salary, the judges told the mayor. They asked the mayor to increase salaries to at least a $6000 base.

In their letter, the judges pointed out that seven persons passed the civil service test for court stenographer but none would work for Municipal Court because they could obtain higher salaries in other local courts.

Salaries of stenographers in other courts here is: County Court, $7,000 to $7,800; Children's Court, $5,900 to $6,600; Surrogate's Court, $4,400 to $4,900; Compensation Court, $5,620 to $6,850; Supreme Court, $11,265, and State Court of Claims, $10,600.

Retired Syracuse Police, Firemen Get Pension Hike

(From Our Syracuse Correspondent)

SYRACUSE, May 30—The Syracuse Common Council last week (May 22) boosted pensions of 157 retired policemen and firemen to a minimum of $1,800.

The men, 61 police officers and 96 firemen, retired under the old Syracuse Pension System, which gave them half pay upon retirement. Since fire and police personnel's pay when they left their jobs was less than one-half the current rates, the pensions of these men have, in many cases, been less than $100 a month.

The pension hikes were recommended by Mayor Anthony Henninger and the Common Council's Safety Committee, headed by Councilman Albert Halstead. Under the revision, the retired men will now receive a minimum of $150 monthly.

Authority for the increase is contained in a new state law sponsored by State Senator John H. Hughes of Syracuse. Under this

C.S.C. to Issue Report Covering 'Outside Jobs'

The Civil Service Commission is preparing a report in regard to regulations concerning outside job and business interests of Federal workers.

The rules are not expected to prohibit moonlighting as such, but they are expected to cover any activity that is considered a "conflict of interest."

Activities which interfere with performance of a job or which would conflict with the interests of the Government are expected to be prohibited.

Employees are expected to be able to hold outside teaching posts, as long as the course is not on the subject of passing a civil service examination.

nectady General Depot. The citation accompanying the medal read: "For demonstrating outstanding leadership in the field of personnel administration which has materially enhanced the accomplishments of Department of the Army missions within the Second U.S. Civil Service Region. Nationally recognized for his competent direction of programs affecting employee-management relationships, Mr. Googe represents the ultimate standard of Federal Career Service and epitomizes the manifestation of all those exemplary qualities required by the career servant."

Macy Letter to U. S. Units Stresses Merit

Civil Service Commission Chairman John Macy, Jr., has advised heads of Federal Departments and agencies that the C.S.C. is re-examining its regulations, instructions, and standards to assure full compliance with the Presidential policy and intent that "career employment practices be maintained without discrimination and with equal opportunity."

In a letter sent to over 60 agency heads, Mr. Macy announced that the Commission will soon issue changes in its instructions to agencies to reflect renewed emphasis on the principles of merit selection and nondiscrimination in the operation of promotion programs in the career service.

The letter stated that "critical and continuing review of the operation of promotion programs in the career service" is needed to give full effect to Presidential policy and intent, and it urged that each agency now "review in detail its own operating methods and practices relating to the promotion of career employees to be certain that individual merit without discrimination is reflected in every aspect of procedures and at every level of operation."

Labor Cautions Young Job Seekers on Law

The U.S. Department of Labor has issued a memorandum cautioning young job seekers to make sure that his proposed employment meets the standards of Federal and State child labor laws.

It sets a 16 year minimum age for general employment and an 18 year minimum age for employment in jobs in which the Secretary of Labor has declared hazardous. Those under 14 and 15 years old are permitted to work only outside school hours for a limited number of time.

Mr. Sullivan's successor as executive assistant to Senator Mahoney is Albert J. Abrams of Newburgh, now a special assistant to the majority leader. He will receive $17,500 a year.

PERSONS INTERESTED IN CIVIL SERVICE

Some individuals, learning that an examination is about to be held for a position for which they feel that they are qualified, make further inquiries, file an application, enroll at a Civil Service School of established reputation and diligently apply themselves to this specialized preparation. In their case there is considerable hope for eventual success.

However, others content themselves with filing an application, visiting libraries, and obtaining books which are usually out-dated and of doubtful value. These individuals often study intensively but their haphazard approach to preparation brings them to their exam with little or no hope of success.

ADVANTAGES OF CIVIL SERVICE

Appointments are strictly on a merit basis. Duties are interesting and offer good chances of promotion plus job security, liberal vacations, sick leave and social security benefits in addition to pensions.

We Salute Mrs. Pritz

IT ISN'T OFTEN that an individual is called upon to perform an act of bravery beyond the call of duty. But on April 26, Mrs. Irma Pritz, teacher at Public School 192, Brooklyn, without hesitation, boldly took the brunt of an on-rushing car seconds after shoving a group of youngsters, under her charge, out of the way.

The school's faculty, children, parents and other school staff members, have issued a scroll commending her brave act and expressing their pride in having her as a friend and teacher at P. S. 192.

Mrs. Pritz is now recovering from injuries at a Manhattan hospital. Her split second action avoided what could have been a catastrophe. Her readiness to sacrifice is unquestionable.

Civil Service and the Board of Education can well be proud of having the likes of Mrs. Pritz in service.

Kings Park Reminder

CORRESPONDENCE from a member of the Civil Service Employees Assn. at Kings Park Hospital serves to remind us this week that a major employee grievance remains to be settled in State service.

This grievance concerns the 37½-hour week for institutional clerical employees. These State workers are on a 40-hour week while their counterparts in other agencies are on a 37½-hour week.

In essence, the State says it cannot adjust the institution clerk's work week because of "insurmountable adjustments."

Well, Mrs. Grace C. Walsh of Kings Park has an answer to that: she suggests that if clerical help in institutions is so valuable, then pay more money for the job by upgrading clerks who work in institutions.

After all, equal pay for equal work is a theme supported by government itself. If one works more then one should be paid more.

These employees deserve to have this problem settled, if not in Mrs. Walsh's fashion then at least by reducing the work week and maintaining uniform employment tandards throughout State service.

Questions Answered On Social Security

Below are questions on Social Security problems sent in by our readers and answered by a legal expert in the field. Anyone with a question on Social Security should write it out and send it to the Social Security Editor, Civil Service Leader, 97 Duane St., New York 7, N. Y.

Do I have to wait until the month I'm 65 to apply for retirement payments?

A man can apply three months before he's 65. A woman can apply three months before she's 62. It will save time if you bring a record of your age with you to the social security office. Also bring a record of your last year's earnings. If your wife is 62, bring her with you and proof of her age if you have it.

A husband and wife are both working and covered by social security. If the wife dies, can the husband receive benefits for his minor children?

Yes, provided certain conditions are met. These conditions chiefly concern how long and how recently the wife was working. For a detailed explanation, you should check with your social security office.

I understood that a person receiving retirement benefits could be sure of getting his check for any month in which he earned under $100 in wages and did not render substantial services in self-employment even if his total for the year was over $1200. Have the 1960 Amendments changed this rule?

No. If you earn more than $1200 in 1961, your total benefits for the year can be reduced by $1 for each $2 that you earn up to $1500 and by $1 for every $1 over $1500. The exception you refer to still stands, however.

I am 66 years old but haven't retired yet. Is it true that I can get some payments even though I'm making over $1200 a year?

Possibly. Your social security office will be glad to find out for you. Bring them a record of your earnings for last year and an estimate of what you will earn this year.

Criticizes Pay Scale Giving Provisional More Earning Power

Editor, The Leader:

I would like you to examine the tables below showing salary relationships between a provisional and permanent employee in pay grade 16.

I. Table for new employees starting the same time:

Current base salary: provisional, $6,400; permanent, $6,400.

7 per cent as of July 1, 1961: provisional, $448, subject to Federal Withholding tax. Permanent, nothing.

N.Y.C. contribution to pension: provisional, nothing. Permanent, approximately $300.

Total salary: provisional, $6,848; permanent, $6,400.

II. An existing condition:

Current base salary: provisional, $6,400; permanent, $6,400.

7 per cent as of July 1, 1961: provisional, $448, subject to Federal income tax; permanent, nothing.

N.Y.C. contribution to pension: provisional, nothing; permanent, approximately $312.

Increment: provisional, $300; permanent, not due until after January.

Total: provisional, $7,148; permanent, $6,830.

Length of service: provisional, 1 year; permanent, 7 and-a-half years.

Here are some interesting facts born out by above tables.

1. It is evident being a permanent employee doesn't help financially and neither does one's length of service.

2. A permanent employee working 5 years and then leaves will not be entitled to the $448 per year that the provisionals has already taken home in his paycheck.

3. Permanent employees with many years of experience train new provisional employees to assume similar duties to their own and still — the provisionals starting salary is more than that of their instructors.

4. Discourage provisionals from taking Civil Service Exams. (Passing an exam will result in a loss of take home pay.)

5. The only way it is possible for a permanent employee to collect the money that provisionals takes home every payday, is to work long enough to retire, then live long enough to collect it.

Another case would be one where a permanent Civil Service Employee resigns or is physically unable to work after 5 or 10 years, the money contributed by the city to this employee's pension fund as an "Equivalent Raise" is lost; whereas a provisional employee has been regularly receiving this sum in his bi-weekly paycheck. This is a gross inequity and probably illegal pending an initial court decision to determine it's validity. It is certainly unethical and demoralizing.

I believe that a permanent employee should have the option of choosing whether this "Equivalent raise" should be added to his salary or his pension fund.

Civil Service LAW & YOU

By HAROLD L. HERZSTEIN
Mr. Herzstein is a member of the New York bar

Anniversary

IT WAS ABOUT a year ago that Paul Kyer, the editor, asked me to do this column. I have worked diligently week after week; and while I came close to my deadline a few times, I never missed it. As a result of that diligence, I feel that I rate one installment for myself and this is it.

I WAS LITTLE uncertain about interest in "Civil Service Law and You," suggested by Mr. Kyer. Shortly after the suggestion was made, I had some business with William C. Robbins, an Assistant Attorney General, who does a considerable amount of civil service work for the State Department of Law. Before joining the Department, he had a tremendous amount of legal experience, covering a wide range of both territory and subjects. When he told me that he never knew a group of people more interested in the law which applies to them than civil service employees, the column was on its way. Bill was right.

I HAVE A LOT OF regard for this paper. I have been one of its readers from the time it sold its first edition in 1939. It states the case of the competitive civil service employee honestly and effectively. Until a short time ago I never realized that outside of the regular dailies in western New York, it is first in circulation in this State. I appreciate that that is oddly but favorably stated. I like to think of the paper that way. Staying in our own pond, it is the largest government employees' paper in the world. I feel honored to write a column for it.

I WANT TO PAY MY respects to some of my professional colleagues connected with the civil service in one way or another.

IN MY OPINION John T. DeGraff of Albany, is the leader of the civil service bar. He brings honor to the civil service and to our profession. In many respects I try to imitate him and his methods, although I know that I do not succeed.

JOHN HAS ACHIEVED the highest recognition a lawyer can achieve at the hands of his colleagues; that is the chairmanship of the State Board of Law Examiners. The Chief Judge of the Court of Appeals is a higher position. However, it is one given by the people, and I was talking about the highest position given by a lawyer's colleagues. John was selected by the Court of Appeals to determine who are to be the lawyers of the next generation. No lawyer can be more highly honored by those in his own profession.

I MAY HAVE CAUSED a little confusion. Yes, judges and lawyers are professional colleagues. Very often when a lawyer or judge wants to express admiration for a judge, they will say: "He is a good lawyer." To use thinking, a la civil service, a judge is a lawyer who has had an upward reclassification and reallocation.

JOHN J. MOONEY, Counsel to the Civil Service Department, is the bridge between the civil service and the civil service law. Francis H. Sullivan, the Senior Attorney in that Department, is a walking Corpus Juris on civil service law. I am happy that he criticizes me as often as he does, because, in that, I am complimented to know that he consistently follows this column.

THE CIVIL SERVICE Employees Association has a grand bunch of regional attorneys who cover the entire State. Thomas H. Dyer of Marcellus, who used to be chairman of the Onondaga County Board of Supervisors, is one of the leaders of the State Bar Association. Edmund L. Shea of Ogdensburg and Charles R. Sandler of Buffalo are, respectively, among the leaders of the bar in the north country and in western New York.

ANYTIME ANY OF the lawyers whose names I have mentioned, and many of my other friends whose names I have not mentioned, have finished a case which they feel would interest the civil service, they have an open invitation to be my guest columnist. I am sure that we will all be glad to read what they write.

ON DECEMBER 14, of last year, I was toastmaster at a dinner given by the Association of New York State Civil Service Attorneys, Inc. Louis J. Lefkowitz, the Attorney General, and one of the best friends the civil service ever had, was the principal speaker. He lauded the civil service lawyer. I do the same thing now. It is a pleasure to deal with those men. They use their legal training, which is excellent training for any work, to the best advantage in the various government departments.

THERE ARE APPROXIMATELY 1,100 positions in the State service in the field of legal practice, requiring an attorney or open to an attorney on an alternate basis. Up to this past session of the legislature, the salaries for attorneys' grades were pretty poor. From conversations I have had with Jacob B. Ward, one of the leaders of the attorneys' group, I believe that their old complaint about low salaries has been substantially cured by the Governor.

THE ATTORNEYS HAVE one gripe left, and it is a justified gripe. For professional men and women they do not have sufficient promotional opportunity. They would feel more like lawyers if they were given a chance to grow. The recent reclassification by the State Civil Service Commission put high level attorney's positions in the exempt or non-competitive classes. It has left doubts in the minds of many attorneys as to the desirability of a legal career in the State service. Yes, most of them are staying; but it is not wholesome for men and women to be working with such a sense of restriction. I hope that the State administration will request the State Bar Association to undertake a study about the futures of my professional colleagues who are in State service.

Filing Ends On June 30 For City Civil Engineers

Two City examinations in the civil engineering field will close on June 30. These tests have been open since Sept. 1960. One test is for junior civil engineer, paying from $5,150 to $6,590 a year. The other test is for assistant civil engineer paying from $6,400 to $8,200 a year.

Candidates for the junior civil engineer test must have a baccalaureate degree in civil engineering or graduation from high school and four years of practical experience in civil engineering work. A satisfactory equivalent of education and experience will also be acceptable.

For assistant civil engineer candidates, a baccalaureate degree in civil engineering and three years of experience in civil engineering work is required. High school graduation and seven years of experience or a satisfactory equivalent combination of education and experience is also acceptable.

Experience counts for all of the total grade for the junior civil engineer test. Applicants for these jobs who do not have a civil engineering degree must also pass a qualifying written test. For the assistant civil engineer exam, the written test counts for all of the total grade.

Junior civil engineers are eligible for promotion examinations to assistant civil engineer after six months. Promotion examinations to assistant civil engineer are currently being held approximately twice a year. Assistant civil engineers are eligible for promotion to the title of civil engineer at a starting salary of $7,800 a year.

Mayor Asks U.S. to Grant Overtime Cost

The New York City Police Department handed the U.S. Congress a bill for $3,063,500 through Mayor Robert F. Wagner.

Mayor Wagner appeared recently before the sub-committee on Economics of the Foreign Affairs Committee of the U.S. House of Representatives, requesting reimbursement of the sum to New York City. The $3,063,500 represents cost at straight time for 1-million man power hours of police work.

The time put in by members of the Police Department was in the fall of 1960, when heads of state of missions at the United Nations visited the UN in New York. Their appearance in the City, Mayor Wagner told the congressional committee, made it necessary for the Police Department to effect beefed-up security measures.

He told the congressmen that policemen were called in for duty extending into overtime periods, well beyond the norm. Mayor Wagner stressed that the New York City Police was every effective in maintaining order when the slightest agitation would have meant riot.

A measure sponsored by Rep. Edna Kelly of Brooklyn, H.R. 4441, has been proposed recommending the reimbursement, Mayor appeared before the congressional group in support of this measure.

In commending the policemen for the work performed last fall he said, they successfully carried out one of the toughest security jobs in the history of the world.

423 on Police List

An approximate total of 423 names will appear on the next patrolman's list for the New York City Police Department. This was indicated after last week's physical examinations given at Van Cortlandt Park, The Bronx. The men tested had successfully completed a written test on March 25.

Facts . . . not speculation

Stock market experts advise their clients about investments on the basis of fact . . . not speculation or rumor.

Facts should be the basis on which a plan for hospital and medical care protection is chosen. This is essential to assure that a family or an individual is making the wisest and most secure investment with maximum dividends in the form of benefits.

Government employees in New York, state and local, as well as public school teachers are eligible to join the Statewide Plan for hospital and medical care benefits. This plan is a combination of Blue Cross, Blue Shield and Major Medical which offers the most liberal benefits at the lowest possible cost. This is an established fact. It's also a fact that the Statewide Plan is the only plan that provides uniform coverage for all New York State employees, active and retired.

Be secure. Be Safe. Be sure. Get the facts about the Statewide Plan now. See your Personnel or Payroll Officer. Make a wise investment.

Your Public Relations I.Q.

Recently, one harassed public relations executive said he was constantly looking for "the judgment of an experienced person of 60 in a 25-year-old body." Directly reflecting this attitude is this composite from actual advertisements in newspapers and professional journals:

"Public Relations Executive - Must have had at least 10 years all phases newspaper experience, 10 years executive broadcasting position, minimum 15 years general PR, at least 10 years in No. 2 spot in top PR agency. Age limit 35." Where and how do we obtain able practitioners for a profession which has grown in the United States alone from 1,000 30 years ago to an estimated 100,000 today? Where will we find the 250,000 people to carry through the programs for which, American clients will spend six billion dollars a year in 1969?

Perhaps part of the answer may be found in the remarks by W. Howard Chase, former president of the Public Relations Society of America, at its 12th National conference in November 1959: "There will be changes in the sixties in both the qualities and qualifications of public relations personnel. While we shall continue to draw some of our best talent from the journalism profession, we shall turn more and more to young people with broad educational backgrounds, with sound understanding of the world around us, and to young people with broad intellectual interests and aspirations."

Already we are getting some of these bright young people from places other than communications. We are finding some of them in the personnel and legal departments. We are even discovering them in the academic ranks among Ph.D.'s in psychology, sociology, business management and the humanities.

We can assure our colleagues that we will not be able to recruit this enormous army unless we make that army ourselves. We propose a world-wide educational program in cooperation with leading universities in every region of the globe to train public relations men and women.

This program should be directed on a broad basis from the top by this international organization, with every national society cooperating within its own borders. From that point, the national groups should generate similar programs through regional or state organizations in their respective countries.

We shall find our teachers within our own ranks. Every active professional in our field must devote himself to some teaching, just as many of us have done for the past 10 years.

Unless we ourselves assume the responsibility of solving the problem of education for public relations, we will be faced with a downgrading of public relations.

The "Death Gamble"

DURING THE RECENT legislative session in Albany, Governor Rockefeller signed into law a bill effecting retirement provisions of New York City teachers. The enactment of this law will certainly lead other civil servants to press for similar treatment.

BRIEFLY THE LAW states that any teacher working past retirement age (55 in most instances) and dying while in service shall be considered retired effective the day before death. This would result in the beneficiary getting all of the employee's contributions to the retirement system plus the city's contributions.

ANY EMPLOYEE COMING into civil service receives a salary plus certain fringe benefits. The leading fringe benefit being a pension upon reaching a certain retirement age. This is in the form of a contract in which the employee pays a designated percentage and the governmental jurisdiction contributes a set amount. Together these two portions represent a pension upon retirement.

DUE TO THE inflated cost of living few employees can afford to retire at age 55 and often continue in service until eligible for social security. Under the present state retirement system should any employee work past 55 years and die in service, the contract is abrogated and the beneficiary received only the employee's contributions plus a death benefit.

THIS IS OBVIOUSLY unfair to the employee, because he has performed the necessary services for a required number of years and his rights to a retirement allowance should be fixed. Actually this pension contribution is something the employee has earned down thru the years. There should be no gamble on his part should he decide to work past age 55.

THE CIVIL SERVICE Employees Association representing all State workers will at the next legislative session fight for the correction of this inequity. The die has been cast by the New York City teachers. The State Civil servants deserve equal protection.

Stephen Hartigan, president of the Correction Officers Benevolent Association will be re-elected in the City. A representative of that employee organization which seems to be having trouble keeping members was condemning the recent gains made by C.S.E.A. to a group of young Correction Officers. They nearly mobbed him, because the equalization of salary gain was the greatest thing that ever happened to them.

St. Lawrence Chapter Elects Officers June 9

The St. Lawrence State Hospital chapter, Civil Service Employees Association, will hold their annual election of officers on June 9, in accordance with the local Chapter constitution. Chapter president Marty Douglas advised that ballots will be available at Curtis Hall and at the Payroll Office of the Hospital.

A general meeting was held at Curtis Hall on May 2 where the nominations were presented by Nancy Powers, a member of the nominating committee. No nominations were made from the floor so the nominating committees selections were unanimously endorsed.

Russell and John Seguin; vice president, Norman A. Martel and George Needle; treasurer, Edward S. Carmody and William K. Burrows; secretary, Kay B. Ramie and Helen Dilcox; delegate, Hugh M. Story and Ralph T. Briggs. Retiring president Marty Douglas will automatically become a delegate.

Selected to represent their department on the executive committee are: Maintenance, William G. Kroeger and Earl J. Gilbert; Safety, George P. Travis and Harold Jackson; Plumbing, Electric and Powersouse, Paul F. Briggs; Laundry, Jeanette G. Mann and Jane LaFountain; Laboratory, Pharmacy, Dental, Doctors and Chaplains, Beatrice K. Murray and Edward J. Knight; social service, occupational therapy, Housekeeping and Recreation, Naomi M. Kinch and Harold J. Henry; nurses, William J. Wood and Dorothy R. Bedard and Dorothy Rivard; Stenographers, Bookkeepers, Clerks, Photographer and Telephone Operators, Lillian M. Kelly and Kathleen Ann Larkin.

These who vote should place an X in the space provided before the name selected. Space is also provided for write-in votes.
