UNIVERSITY AT ALBANY TASK FORCE REPORT SUGGESTS FUTURE ACADEMIC PROFILE

The report of the Presidential Task Force on Priorities and Resources, made in recent days to Emmett B. Fields, president of The University at Albany, is the first comprehensive review of all academic, administrative, operational, and service components undertaken by a committee on the campus, and the 13-member task force, in its introduction to the report, stressed its commitment "to maintain this campus first and foremost as a university center with a balanced set of programs in the humanities, social sciences, natural sciences, and the professional schools." Dr. Fields is expected to make known to the university community his determinations about the recommendations during the week of Mar. 8.

Although faced with sizeable mandated budgetary and staff reductions, the task force maintained "awareness that The University at Albany must run a place which provides a rich educational experience for its undergraduates, fosters high level graduate and research programs, trains a variety of practitioners, and serves the needs of contemporary society in general and the region of the state within which it is located". The overriding concern of the task force was described, in the report, as making "decisions which deal equitably and humanely with immediate issues facing us" and also making them "so they enhance as much as possible the long-term achievement of a first rate university." Task force members also emphasized that its recommendations were made relative to the course of development at the university for the next few years.

1400 WASHINGTON AVENUE • ALBANY, NEW YORK 12222 • AREA CODE 518 457-4901

TASK FORCE REPORT

The recommendations are viewed by the task force as resulting at a minimum, if fully implemented, in a series of strong programs at the university center. Continued would be 41 bachelor degree programs; 32 master degree programs, in humanities (10), social and behavioral sciences (7), science and mathematics (7), School of Education (12), School of Business (2), School of Criminal Justice (1), School of Library and Information Science (1), School of Public Affairs (3), School of Social Welfare (1); and 19 doctoral programs, humanities (4), social and behavioral sciences (4), science and mathematics (6), School of Education (2), School of Criminal Justice (1) and School of Public Affairs (2).

The task force, chaired by John Spalek, chairman of the university center's German department, has advised strengthening in the departments of classics, English (if the doctoral program be continued), philosophy, rhetoric and communication, economics, history, psychology, and computer science; the School of Business; School of Criminal Justice; and Graduate School of Public Affairs. Other recommendations call for the termination of programs in 13 academic areas; the reduction of 99 fulltime equivalent positions this year and another 34 in 1977-78; abolition, by 1979, of the Office of the Dean of Undergraduate Studies; and the merger of the Office of International Programs with the International Student Advisement Office.

Academic programs, which would be terminated if President Fields concurs, are bachelor programs in comparative literature, Italian, environmental studies, inter-American studies, astronomy, speech pathology, and nursing; master programs in art history, comparative literature, Italian, Latin-American studies, and speech pathology; and doctoral programs in classics, French, and Romance languages. Other programs to be terminated would be the Bachelor of Arts art history sequence and the office practice sequence in business education.

Under the recommendations, the School of Nursing would be phased out over a three-year period, ending in 1978-79. In its report, the task force "reluctantly" recommended termination of the School of Nursing, noting it "deeply regrets that this high quality program could not be maintained because of the reduced resources allocated to the university." The task force also suggested the consolidation of six doctoral programs offered by the School of Education into two programs, one a Doctor of Philosophy and the other, Doctor of Education.

If all recommended personnel cuts were made, a savings of $1,272,195 would accrue. The amount is short of the $1,343,200 mandated by the Executive Budget, but the task force notes that the difference would be made up by such devices as employing personnel at a somewhat lower rate than budgeted.

President Fields said that the task force had carried out "its demanding charge with competence and conscience". He added, "Its work will enable the campus not only to chart its course through the severe straits of immediate budgetary cuts but also to reach toward the future with promise of confidence and strength." For a number of years academic programs have been systematically reviewed by outside evaluators and last year a select committee conducted a complete review of academic programs and recommended some eliminations. During the past year evaluations have been conducted of most of the non-instructional activities of the university.

The university president this week is receiving responses to the report from academic and administrative leaders, and reaction from the Council on Educational Policy and from the Executive Committee of the University Senate, before submitting his final decisions to State University of New York Chancellor Ernest L. Boyer by Mar. 15.

STATEWIDE CONFERENCE ON AFRO-AMERICAN STUDIES SLATED FOR UNIVERSITY AT ALBANY MAR. 15-19

More than 400 persons are expected to attend the second annual state-wide conference on critical issues in Afro-American studies for a week beginning Monday, Mar. 15, at The University at Albany. The theme of the conference will be "Agenda at Mid-Seventies". Harry O. Ododa, assistant professor, department of African and Afro-American studies at the university, is the chairman.

Mr. Ododa said that the primary objective of the conference is "to bring together scholars, researchers, and educators involved in African-Afro-American Studies in New York State to discuss issues critical to the teaching of The Black Experience." Some 30 papers will be presented and tentative plans call for their being published at a later date. Participants will be welcomed by Frank G. Pogue, chairman of the university center's department of African and Afro-American Studies.

Sessions, all of which will be held in Lecture Center 19, will be devoted to such concerns as "The Challenge of Black Education in America: Schools, Scholars and Students", "Redefinition and Organization of Afro-American Studies: Alternative Models", "Research Priorities: Public Policy and the Black-Puerto Rican Communities in Urban Settings", "The Relationship between Afro-American Studies and the Black Community", "Issues in Structuring Afro-American Studies", "The Relationship between African and Afro-American Studies", and "Teaching Methodologies in African-Afro-American Studies".

Among the prominent program participants will be State Senator Major R. Owens and State Assemblyman Arthur O. Eve; Robert J. Cummings, director of the Center for Afro-American Studies, University of Miami, Fla.; Curtis Porter, director of Afro-American Studies, University of Pittsburgh; V. Subramanian, professor of political science at Carleton University, Ottawa, Ont.; James E. Lyons, vice president for academic affairs, Barber Scotia College, Concord, N.C.; and James Turner, director, Africana Studies and Research Center, Cornell University.

Cultural and other accompanying activities during the week of the conference will include an art exhibition, "Black Dimension in Art"; poetry reading by "Black Gold", a group of students, and Philip M. Royster, of the UA department faculty; a performance by the Burundi Dance Troupe of the university; and a forum on Angola and Southern Africa.

In addition to Mr. Ododa, other conference committee members are Karla J. Spurlock and Mr. Royster, assistant professors; and Rosz Lei Patton, Cathy Morse, Clovis White, and Michael Barker, students.

WIDE VARIETY OF NON-CREDIT COURSES SET FOR SPRING AT UNIVERSITY AT ALBANY

Clara Tucker, assistant professor of history at UA, will lead a seminar on aspects of Russian culture, beginning Wednesday, Mar. 10. The illustrated presentations will include religious art, Peter's world, golden age of Russian literature, discovery of people through painters, and Russian arts that shocked the world.

As an outgrowth of the environmental law and citizen involvement course offered the past two years, a one-day environmental law briefing and update is planned for a Saturday either this month or next. Representatives of the U. S. Environmental Protection Agency, the State Department of Environmental Conservation and other authorities will be invited to participate.

Additional information about the spring non-credit program is available from the College of General Studies, Draper 100, 135 Western Avenue, Albany 12222. Telephone inquiries may be made by calling 472-8494.

BRITISH VIEW OF AMERICAN REVOLUTION SUBJECT OF BICENTENNIAL LECTURE AT UNIVERSITY AT ALBANY

Catharine Newbold, professor of history at The University at Albany, will give the third lecture in the Alumni Bicentennial Series at the university on Tuesday, Mar. 16, beginning at 8 p.m. in the Recital Hall of the Performing Arts Center. Her subject will be "The American Revolution from the British Viewpoint".

Dr. Newbold will discuss the way the British saw the Revolution and how their viewpoint affected the outcome. The British had a dramatically different view of the American Revolution from that of the Americans.

Since 1946 Professor Newbold has taught at The University at Albany where she has been a full professor since 1962. She holds degrees from the University of Iowa, Cornell University, and the University of Michigan where she received her doctorate. For a year she was a Fulbright teacher in The Hague, Netherlands.

The historian's professional memberships include Phi Beta Kappa, American Historical Association, Mississippi Valley Historical Association, Southern Historical Association, American Studies, American Association of University Professors, and American Association of University Women.

NOTED POET TO OPEN WOMEN'S STUDIES PROGRAM SERIES AT UNIVERSITY AT ALBANY

The Women's Studies Program at the University at Albany will present Marge Piercy, poet, author, and activist in the women's movement, on Thursday and Friday, Mar. 10-11, as the first in a series of speakers scheduled for this month and April. Ms. Piercy will give a poetry reading on Thursday, Mar. 10, from selections of her published and unpublished works in Humanities 354 at 8:30 p.m. On Friday, Mar. 11, she will conduct a poetry workshop in Humanities 290 from 9:30 a.m. until 11. All interested persons are invited to attend.

Ms. Piercy, a resident of Wallfleet, Mass., has published poems, fiction, reviews, and essays in literary journals, general periodicals, women's journals and newspapers and the alternate press.

Included in her books of poetry are Living in the Open and Hard Loving. Victor Contoski wrote, "Words are wrung out of her dripping with sweat, sometimes with blood...Marge Piercy stands out for her vision, her technique, and her intensity...One may quibble about the word 'perfection' ...but...Hard Loving is a holy book."

Her fiction includes Going Down Fast, Dance the Eagle to Sleep, Small Change, and Woman on the Edge of Time, scheduled for publication in May.

John Leonard of the New York Times said, "Dance the Eagle to Sleep is a vision, not an argument...She writes it down on bandages, and suddenly we are aware of our wounds. What a frightening, marvelous book."

Other speakers scheduled to appear include Phyllis Tribble, Mar. 18, "Two Women in a Man's World: A Reading of the Book of Ruth," co-sponsored by the Division of Humanities; Elain Showalter, Mar. 25, "Desperate Remedies: Dangerous Women in Victorian Fiction," co-sponsored by the English Department; Caroline Whitbeck, Apr. 7, "Patterns of Bias in Theories of Sex Differences," and Laura Petrochko, Apr. 22, "Worts, Witches, and Leeches."

ENVIRONMENTAL STUDIES AT UNIVERSITY AT ALBANY RECEIVES GRANT FOR NEWSPAPER

The Environmental Studies Program at The University at Albany is the recipient of a $1,000 grant to expand its environmental education opportunities. The grant was made to "NYEN: New York Environmental News", the bi-weekly newspaper published by the program.

Commenting upon the anonymous grant, Rosemary Nichols, assistant professor and editor, said, "We are very grateful for this grant which gives us an opportunity to expand our environmental education efforts into areas which we have not previously been able to serve." The grant will provide 00 one-year complimentary subscriptions to the newspaper.

"NYEN" has been published since October 1973. One subscriber has described it as "the most influential environmental publication in the state." The publication provides an opportunity for faculty and students to contribute to environmental education throughout the state. It is used in some classrooms and also has been made available through many high school and college libraries.

TELETHON '76 ALL SET TO GO AT ALBANY UNIVERSITY

They're getting it all together for Telethon '76, the original college campus telethon and the largest student-run telethon in the nation, which begins Friday, Mar. 19, at 8 p.m. in the Campus Center ballroom at The University at Albany and continues until Saturday evening at 8. Benefiting from the multi-faceted endeavors of the university students will be the Wildwood School for Developmentally Handicapped Children which is located in the O.D. Heck Developmental Center in Schenectady.

A look at but a few of the many highlights in entertainment Friday night: The Society for the Preservation of Barber Shop Quartets; Chet Arthur and His Flaming Aces of Union College, specializing in music of the '50's; the Sagnettes, a sextet from Russell Sage College; and an operatic baritone singing selections from "Man of La Mancha."

Also, on opening night, Albany Major Erastus Corning, long a booster of the fund-raising event, will be on hand for a greeting.

Saturday's program includes special events for children from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. when there will be a carnival with a Walt Disney theme. Twenty-five children from Wildwood are expected to be among the guests. McDonald's will provide refreshments and dolls and there will also be an international entertainment provided by Sayles residents.

PRESIDENT FIELDS ISSUES REPORT ON UNIVERSITY AT ALBANY'S FUTURE

University at Albany President Emmett B. Fields today issued his Report on Priorities and Resources, detailing the shape of the institution in the immediate future.

"The University at Albany is moving swiftly through a watershed in its history in which a part of the past falls visible away and the future begins to take shape," Dr. Fields said. "As always with a people moving consciously through transition, we are obligated to exhibit enduring human qualities of understanding, self-restraint, and courage in the face of anguish and difficulty. Our great and common task is to preserve the still-vital inheritances of our past, take sober stock of the present condition of the University, and reshape it wholesomely for the burdens of an unfolding future. This is the general condition of universities everywhere, but we are now in the hours of choice."

Briefly summarized, the president's 23-page report recommends to State University of New York Chancellor Ernest L. Boyer the continuation on the Albany campus of 41 bachelor's degree programs, 47 master's degree programs, 21 doctoral degree programs, and eight university certificate programs; the termination of seven doctoral programs, five master's programs, and eight bachelor's programs; and the elimination of 102.71 fulltime equivalent (FTE) positions.

The Executive Budget required the elimination of 88 positions, a reduction it estimated would result in a savings of $1,343,200. Because the Executive Budget established higher average salaries for those positions recommended for termination than is actually the case, the university was able to effect savings of only $1,263,200 even by eliminating 102.71 FTE positions. The $80,000 difference between Executive Budget requirements and savings effected through position eliminations will be made up through anticipated savings in temporary service expenditures and in hiring staff at lower rates.

The FTE position reduction does not include 30 positions previously eliminated as part of the base budget reductions imposed in the current fiscal year, prior to the Executive Budget. The total dollar reductions for next year is nearly $2 million.

The financial constraints gripping New York State started in motion the process that led to today's announcements by President Fields. The deliberative process began Jan. 22 when President Fields appointed the Task Force on Priorities and Resources. German Department Chairman John Spalek headed the 13-member body, made up of university faculty, students, and administrators. Dr. Fields charged the Task Force to "assess all academic and support programs...recommend priority rankings for program claims on resources, and...consult with and advise (him)...on the development of the university's operating budget for next year." The Task Force submitted its report to the president on Feb. 23.

President Fields/invited academic and administrative leaders whose areas were affected by the Task Force recommendations to respond to him. Those responses and the Task Force's procedures and conclusions then were reviewed by the University Senate's Executive Committee and Council on Educational Policy. Finally, the Task Force issued an addendum to its report, following its receipt of the other bodies' reactions. The final step is President Fields' determinations announced today.

President Fields concluded "that the Task Force recommendations concerning academic program terminations and resource allocations were rightly made, and I accept them in their entirety." He noted that the Task Force, after reviewing responses to its original report from affected offices and academic areas and from university governance bodies "concludes that none (of the questions raised) is of sufficient weight to reverse Task Force recommendations."

Thus, the president will recommend to Chancellor Boyer that 20 degree programs be terminated, with students currently enrolled in the programs "free to complete their degrees on this campus if they wish." Scheduled for termination are doctoral programs in Classics, French, Romance Languages, and four of the six in Education, with the remaining two representing a consolidation of the other four; master's programs in Art History, Comparative Literature, Italian, Latin-American Studies, and Speech Pathology and Audiology; and bachelor's programs in Astronomy, Comparative Literature, Environmental Studies (with selected courses in the area of environmental analysis continuing to be offered by some departments), Inter-American Studies, Italian (with selected courses continuing to be offered in the Division of Humanities), Nursing, and Speech Pathology and Audiology; and the B.A. sequence in Art History (with some courses continuing to be offered for other majors).

President Fields also announced several changes in administrative offices and functions. The Office of Undergraduate Studies and the Vocational and Veteran's Counseling Center will be eliminated and their functions and responsibilities reassigned or absorbed by other units. The Office of International Programs and the International Student Advisement Office will be consolidated. The Student Affairs Division, Education Communications Center, University College, and other areas will undergo internal reorganizations. Increased automation within accounting, budget, registrar's, student accounts, and other areas will enhance efficiency. Each of the actions will effect staff reductions.

Of the 102.71 FTE positions being eliminated, two-thirds are in administrative and support areas such as student services, maintenance, library, organized activities, instructional support, public service, and general administration.

The overall reduction in teaching faculty positions for 1976-77 totals 48.33 FTE, taking into account not only the 31.33 deletions recommended in Dr. Fields' report, but also six to meet the base budget reduction, seven to redeploy fulltime faculty positions, and four to convert four faculty lines into 16 teaching assistantships.

"Absorbing budget cuts by reductions in the University's program array present a complex methodological problem unless, of course, one is willing to terminate programs abruptly," President Fields noted. "Neither I nor the Task Force were willing to consider such a course of action and proceeded, instead, on the conviction that all students currently enrolled should be free to earn their degrees here if they wished, and correspondingly on the conviction that affected faculty and staff should have as much time as possible after notice of termination in which to find other employment..."

"Student pressure for admission to most of the University's programs continues to be heavy without predictable surcease. Looked at as a social obligation, it would be extremely unfortunate to reduce enrollments appreciably, because the University exists to serve learning, the learning that students come here to receive. We will find it necessary to reduce our overenrollment, but I am instructing the offices of admission to permit an average headcount enrollment next year of 14,900 students, which is slightly more than the University will be funded to educate..."

"I know of no university, outside the State of New York at least, whose programs have been as thoroughly evaluated as ours," Dr. Fields stated, adding that "All of the evidence available to the Task Force and to the governance bodies has also been available to me. I have studied it all. Numerous communications have been sent me from on and off the campus, and I have read these as well. I feel with the Task Force and everyone else the pain of these choices..."

"I think it is time to admit, to ourselves and to others, that the University is overextended," the president said. "We offer more programs than can be sustained with available resources. We must now give up some for the sake of others. We must contract to a more compact front of program activity. In this selective way we can follow the age-old principle of the greater good for the greater number and continue strong in all that we do."

FRITZ REDL, Ph.D.
Robert A. Pinkerton
Visiting Professor

Professor Redl is a distinguished psychoanalyst, and is noted for theoretical and research contributions that have demonstrated the practical applicability of psychoanalysis. Dr. Redl's books, articles and speeches are admired for their originality of thought, richness of illustration, and ingenuities of phrasing. Substantively, his writings are unique in extending psychoanalytic thinking to group phenomena, and in the linking of therapeutic approaches to the world of education and behavior management.

It is acknowledged that Fritz Redl has contributed substantially to clinical theory and to the advancement of our understanding of disturbed delinquents, and that no one has contributed more to the art of therapy in institutional settings for youthful clients.

Professor Redl's books have become classics in their field. His best-known works are Children Who Hate, Controls From Within, and When We Deal With Children. Dr. Redl's last academic position was as Distinguished Professor of Behavioral Sciences at Wayne State University. He has been President of the American Orthopsychiatric Association, and is the recipient of innumerable honors, citations, awards and honorary degrees.

Professor Redl's administrative positions have included that of Chief of the Child Research Branch of NIMH. He was the founder and Director of Pioneer House and of the Detroit Group Project.

Wine and Cheese Reception to Follow

MUSIC FACULTY CONCERT TO FEATURE JAZZ THEME

The University at Albany's Music Department Ensemble will present a jazz theme on Sunday, Mar. 28, at 8 p.m. in the Recital Hall of the Performing Arts Center.

Principal performers Irvin Gilman, flutist and Paula Ennis, pianist of the university's Music Department, will be joined by guest artist Frank Stagnitta, pianist and composer and director of the jazz ensemble "Fresh Air." The group is composed of Jody Shayne, vocalist; George Kaye, bass; and James Cole, drums.

Featured on the program will be Kent Kenna's "Night Soliloquy", a favorite among flutists for giving the instrument its full range of expression and tone color from moody reflection to soaring exhilaration.

Mr. Stagnitta's composition of "Three Pieces for Flute and Piano," will feature Mr. Gilman on flute and the composer on the piano. The music is in the classical-romantic tradition with influences of jazz reflected in the texture of the music. The first movement features alto flute and second and third, the flute.

"Song and Dance," composed by Ed London for Mr. Gilman features "Fresh Air" and the flutist in an expanded transcription of the work to allow for improvisation. The music is generally in a "funky-Bop" vein and makes use of a Charlie "Bird" Parker melody, "Billie's Bounce." Performed by Mr. Gilman in New York, Detroit, and New England, it is the first time he is playing it with an established jazz group.

The concert will conclude with Prokofieff's "Sonata in D Major", considered a tour de force for both flutist and pianist. There is no charge for admission and tickets are not required.

BICENTENNIAL PROGRAM AT UNIVERSITY AT ALBANY TO FEATURE AREA RADIO
PERFORMERS AND FOLKSINGERS LEE AND RICHARD WILKIE

"The Golden Days of Radio", presented by Albany Civic Theatre, and "Two Hundred Years in Traditional American Music", with Lee and Richard Wilkie, will be the Bicentennial series offering of The University at Albany Saturday, Mar. 27, at 8:30 p.m. and again on Sunday, Mar. 28, at 2:30 p.m. in Page Hall on the university's downtown campus.

Performing in a program of historical sketches, written by Lorraine Maloy, and produced for Schenectady radio station WGY's "Your Home Town" series in the 1940's, will be some of the area's best known radio and television personalities. They include Martha Brooks, Bill Edwardsen, Dave Kroman, Hank Maloy, Earle Pudney, Lloyd Symansky, and John Wolfe. The three radio dramas, focusing on the early history of the Mohawk Valley, are "A Woman's Place...", "The Tender Amazon", and "The Big Laugh". The series of historical narratives ran for about three years.

The Wilkies will be heard in a program of songs either sung or collected in the United States during the last 200 years and representing various ethnic and work groups. Their one-hour performances will include "Angeline, the Baker", "Green Grow the Lilacs", "The Railroad Song", "The Sloop John B.", and "Cannonball Blues."

In the full cast of "Golden Days of Radio" are Lorraine and Hank Maloy, Irma and David Droman, June and John Wolfe, Earle Pudney, Bill Edwardsen, Alisa and Judy Swire, Lloyd Symansky, Maggie Nolan, Hal Gilman, Martha Downey, Nancy Kent-Eliot, Mike Steese, Jim Gray, Margaret Lamar, Bette Herzog, Fran Fanuele, and Lee and Richard Wilkie. Mr. Symansky (Lee Stewart) will be master of ceremonies.

The Wilkies play mountain dulcimer, autoharp, banjo, harmonica, and limber-jack. Their programs, a combination of solos, duets, dialogues, and sing-alongs, have become increasingly popular in recent years. They are members of the Hudson River Sloop Restoration, Pickin' and Singin' Gatherin', and Friends of Sing out!

There is no admission charge for the Bicentennial program and no tickets are required.

"PEOPLE'S BICENTENNIAL" FOUNDER AT ALBANY TUESDAY

Jeremy Rifkin, founder and national co-director of the People's Bicentennial Commission, will speak on "From King George III to ITT, GM, and Exxon" at 8 p.m., Tuesday, Mar. 23, in Lecture Center 7, The University at Albany. His appearance is sponsored by the University Speakers Forum. Admission is 50 cents.

The People's Bicentennial Commission has been described by nationally syndicated columnist James Kilpatrick as "a lot closer to the true spirit of '76 than the promoter-politicians and public relations men in charge of the White House Commission. While it may seem sorely out of character, let me put in a plug for the People's Bicentennial Commission."

Mr. Rifkin founded the organization in 1971, since which time he has written two books on the American Revolution and social change: Revolution American Style and Common Sense II. He also has contributed articles to several publications, appeared on national television, and spoken throughout the country to university and community audiences. He previously was coordinator of the Citizens Commission of Inquiry into U.S. War Crimes in Vietnam and was a VISTA Volunteer in Harlem.

The 29-year old Rifkin is a graduate of the Wharton School of Finance and the Fletcher School of Diplomacy. He has called himself a revolutionary - not like Marx and Lenin, but like Paul Revere and Nathan Hale.

ALBANY ART DEPARTMENT SLATES LECTURE SERIES

The University at Albany Art Department will present a three-day lecture series on "The Fascinating Image" at 11 a.m. Mar. 22, 23, and 24 in Room 126 of the Fine Arts Building. Three distinguished American artists with diverse points of view will discuss and show slides of their work. There also will be a mini-exhibition in the Gallery.

On Monday, Mar. 22, printmaker Warrington Colescott will lead off the series. Mr. Colescott has taught at the University of Wisconsin and at Slade School of Art, London, as a Fulbright Scholar. He also was a Guggenheim Fellow in 1966. His prints are narrative, moralistic statements about his environment and experience. He has been described as "a satiric historian of his age."

Sculptor Varugan Boghosian will be the Tuesday speaker. He has served as artist-in-residence at Dartmouth College and as sculptor-in-residence at American Academy in Rome, as well as having taught at Cooper Union, Pratt Institute, Yale University, Brown University and Dartmouth. His work deals with the Orpheus myth and other myths in a sculptural form of elegance and beauty combining bronze, porcelain, and other materials.

The final speaker, on Wednesday, will be painter Moe Brooker, whose work is a free-flowing, inventive use of structure and color. He has taught at the University of North Carolina and the University of Virginia's Tyler School of Art. He also has been a frequent panelist at Franklin Institute.

UNIVERSITY REPRESENTED AT SILVERMINE COLLECTION EXHIBITION

Four members of The University at Albany, two faculty members of the Art Department and two graduate art students, have samples of their work on display at the prestigious "Silvermine National Print Exhibition" being held in New Canaan, Conn., through Tuesday, March 23.

Thom O'Connor, professor, is represented with a color lithograph entitled, "Dance Figure," while the offering of Robert Cartmell, assistant professor, is a large serigraph entitled, "Big I at Luna".

"Tools Diner" is the Itaglio print on display by graduate student Lori Goldkamp. Susan Rogers' color lithograph, "Medicine Bag," has been awarded a purchase prize and will become part of the Silvermine Collection.

The exhibition is one of the most important shows in the United States, drawing the most significant works in the print media from coast to coast. It is a highly competitive exhibition with 110 prints selected from more than 4,000 submitted for judging. This year's juror was the internationally-known director of the Associated American Artists Gallery in New York City, Sylvan Cole.

BICENTENNIAL LECTURE RESCHEDULED TO MARCH 16

History Professor Catherine Newbold's Alumni Bicentennial Series lecture on "The American Revolution from the British Viewpoint," postponed by last week's storm, has been rescheduled for 8 p.m., Tuesday, Mar. 16, in the Performing Arts Center Studio Theatre, The University at Albany. Her address is the third in the series.

Dr. Newbold, a member of the Albany faculty since 1946, will discuss the way the British saw the Revolution and how their viewpoint affected the outcome. She holds degrees from the University of Iowa, Cornell University, and the University of Michigan where she received her doctorate. For a year she was a Fulbright teacher in The Hague, Netherlands.

The historian's professional memberships include Phi Beta Kappa, American Historical Association, Mississippi Valley Historical Association, Southern Historical Association, American Studies, American Association of University Professors, and American Association of University Women.

STUDENT RECITALS SET FOR MARCH 27 AND 28

Two University at Albany music majors will perform their senior recitals on Saturday and Sunday, March 27 and 28, in the Recital Hall of the Performing Arts Center.

Warren Stein will present his percussion recital on Saturday, March 27 at 8:30 p.m. Mr. Stein will be accompanied by Rose Mauro and Laura Toland on piano.

The program will include Concertino for Marimba, by Creston, Stockhausen's Zyklus No. 9; Tanner's Sonata for Marimba; Albagli's Composition No. 10, and Carter's Recitative and Improvisation for Four Kettledrums.

On Sunday afternoon at 3, Diane Guernsey will perform her piano recital featuring Stravinsky's Duo Concertant, Elliott Carter's Piano Sonata, which is termed a difficult and revolutionary work that is seldom performed by students on the college level, and selected works by DeBussy and Mendelssohn.

Both recitals are free and tickets are not required.

ABBA EBAN TO SPEAK AT UNIVERSITY AT ALBANY SUNDAY, APRIL 4

Abba Eban, former Israeli Minister of Foreign Affairs, will speak on "Prospects for Peace in the Middle East" at 8 p.m., Sunday, Apr. 4, in The University at Albany Gymnasium. His appearance is co-sponsored by Speakers Forum and Jewish Student Coalition-Hillel. Admission is $1

Mr. Eban served for five years as Israel's Permanent Representative to the United Nations and Israel's Ambassador to the United States. At 35, he was the youngest person to hold such a rank among the diplomatic corps in Washington. He also served as Minister of Foreign Affairs from 1966 to 1974.

Mr. Eban was born 61 years ago in Cape Town, Union of South Africa. He was educated at Cambridge University, where he subsequently taught Hebrew, Arabic, and Persian literature. During World War II, he was assigned to Jerusalem as Liaison Officer of Allied Headquarters to secure missions in the Middle East and Europe. Later, he became Chief instructor at the Middle East Arab Centre in Jerusalem.

After the war, Mr. Eban entered the service of the Jewish Agency in Jerusalem. In 1948, he was appointed Israel's Representative to the U.N. and, after pleading successfully for Israel's admission to that body, became Permanent Representative.

In 1959, he returned to Israel and entered politics. Subsequently, he held positions as Minister of Education and Culture, Deputy Prime Minister, and Minister for Foreign Affairs, among others.

Mr. Eban has received a number of honorary degrees, has authored numerous articles and books, and is a Fellow of the World Academy of Art and Science, Stockholm.

RUTGERS PROFESSOR TO DISCUSS WORLD WAR I AT UNIVERSITY AT ALBANY

Paul Fussell, professor of English at Rutgers University, will discuss memories of World War I in a Monday, Apr. 5, lecture at The University at Albany. His talk, scheduled for the Performing Arts Center Recital Hall at 8 p.m., is entitled "Art and Factual Testimony: Towards a Theory of the Memoir." Sponsoring the address are the Department of English and the Office of University Affairs.

Dr. Fussell has written several books, including The Great War and Modern Memory, which gained him the 1975 Critics Award (formerly the National Book Award). He also has contributed many essays and reviews to such publications as Saturday Review, Encounter, Partisan Review, and Virginia Quarterly Review.

A graduate of Pomona College in his native California, Dr. Fussell took his Ph.D. at Harvard and taught at Connecticut College before moving to Rutgers in 1955. He has served as Fulbright Lecturer at the University of Heidelberg and as a regional chairman for the Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation. He also has won the James D. Phelan Award for non-fictional prose and the Lindback Foundation Award for outstanding research in literature. During 1973-74, Dr. Fussell was a senior fellow of the National Endowment for the Humanities.

NATURAL HISTORY LECTURE SERIES TO RESUME MARCH 30TH

The University at Albany's Atmospheric Sciences Research Center, the Five Rivers Environmental Education Center, and the New York State Department of Environmental Conservation are once again sponsoring a series of free natural history lecture every other Tuesday in Lecture Center 18 on the university campus at 7:30 p.m.

On Tuesday evening, Mar. 30, the program will be "Mountain Realm: The Adirondacks." Conducted by William Berner, the lecture will consist of the best of several thousand slides taken by Mr. Berner over the past five years throughout the Adirondacks in remote as well as accessible locations during all seasons and under all conditions. Mr. Berner is a member of the Adirondack Mountain Club, the Adirondack 46'ers, the Capital District Botanical Society, and the Eastern New York Chapter of Nature Conservancy.

On Apr. 13, Marcia Franklin, Executive Director, Eastern New York Chapter of Nature Conservancy, will present a slide-illustrated lecture on "The Nature Conservancy: Saving Natural Areas." The lecture will explain the role of the Nature Conservancy in preserving important natural areas for their education and scientific value. The organization is a national, membership-supported, land preservation group that has been active in New York for the past 22 years.

Tuesday, Apr. 27 Dr. Joseph Brian, Assistant Professor, Harvard School of Public Health, will give an illustrated talk on "How the Lung Defends Itself Against Environmental Insult."

The final program will be held on Monday evening at 7:30/will deal with "Tornadoes, Twisters, and Cyclones--Facts and Myths."

Allen Pearson, Director of the National Severe Storms Forecasting Center in Kansas City, Mo., will discuss the various forms, distribution, and vagories of one of nature's most violent weather types.

An illustrated weather briefing by Ray Falconer, Research Associate, Atmospheric Sciences Research Center, will precede each lecture.

"DER FREISCHUTZ" AT ALBANY APRIL 8

On Thursday, April 8, the Opera Workshop of The University at Albany will perform a new, English-language adaptation of Carl Maria von Weber's opera "Der Freischutz".

The opera will be performed in concert version by the university chorus and orchestra under the direction of Stephen Osmond. The lead tenor part of Max will be assayed by veteran performer Blake Stern. Mr. Stern is a professor at Yale University School of Music and has performed opera and oratorio throughout this country and Europe. Several roles will be sung by local talents including Patricia Danzig, Anne Turner, Terrence Dwyer and John Malthouse. The role of Samiel, the Dark Hunter, will be played by Stephan Temesvary and the narration will be read by Karl Peterson.

For this production, a new adaptation has been written by Richard Stanford, based on a translation of the opera on which Mr. Stanford collaborated with Thomas Nadar of the university's German Department. It took nearly four months to complete the adaptation, which, in Mr. Stanford's words, "attempts to update the naturally romantic language without sounding silly or coming off like a British version."

The story-line of the opera depends strongly on two legends-- that of the Devil's Gorge in Bohemia and that of the Devil's Magic Bullets. Devil's Gorge was a wild area of forests and treacherous ravines thought to be the Gates of Hell. Any hapless soul caught wandering there would be lost forever. The Devil's Magic Bullets were forged of enchanted ingredients in the presence of Lucifer himself. Only seven bullets could be cast at one time. In order to cast them, a man would have to promise his soul to the Devil, and, once the bullets had been molded, six would strike whatever-- or whomever--the owner wished. The seventh, however, was guided by Satan.

The SUNY-Albany Opera Workshop will give only one performance of "Der Freischutz" at 8:00 p.m. on Thursday, April 8, 1976, at Albany's Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception. Tickets will be sold at the door and will cost $2.50 for adults and $2.00 for students with I.D.

UA CO-SPONSORING NATIONAL LINGUISTIC INSTITUTE

The University at Albany is one of several campuses of State University of New York cooperating in the sponsorship of the 45th Annual Summer Institute of the Linguistic Society of America. It will be held this year at the State University's Oswego campus from June 28 through August 20, where two-week, four-week, six-week, and eight-week courses in linguistics will be offered.

Francine Frank, Director of The University at Albany's Linguistics Program / <sup>and</sup> member of the Department of Hispanic and Italian Studies, is the institute coordinator. Lyle Campbell and Marianne Williams of Albany's Department of Anthropology have been invited to join the institute faculty.

A distinguished faculty of linguists from throughout the United States and abroad has been assembled for the courses, carrying graduate credit and designed to be of interest to linguists alike.

Professor Carol Justus, Director of the 1976 Linguistic Institute of the Linguistic Society of America, has announced that fellowships will be available for students wishing to attend the institute. Both graduate and undergraduate students are eligible to apply for fellowship funds.

Further information is available from the Linguistic Institute, State University of New York, Oswego, NY 13126 or from Francine Frank, Linguistics Program, University at Albany, Albany, NY 12222.

RUTGERS PROFESSOR TO DISCUSS WORLD WAR I AT UNIVERSITY AT ALBANY

Paul Fussell, professor of English at Rutgers University, will discuss memories of World War I in a Monday, Apr. 5, lecture at The University at Albany. His talk, scheduled for the Performing Arts Center Recital Hall at 8 p.m., is entitled "Art and Factual Testimony: Towards a Theory of the Memoir." Sponsoring the address are the Department of English and the Office of University Affairs.

Dr. Fussell has written several books, including The Great War and Modern Memory, which gained him the 1975 Critics Award (formerly the National Book Award). He also has contributed many essays and reviews to such publications as Saturday Review, Encounter, Partisan Review, and Virginia Quarterly Review.

A graduate of Pomona College in his native California, Dr. Fussell took his Ph.D. at Harvard and taught at Connecticut College before moving to Rutgers in 1955. He has served as Fulbright Lecturer at the University of Heidelberg and as a regional chairman for the Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation. He also has won the James D. Phelan Award for non-fictional prose and the Lindback Foundation Award for outstanding research in literature. During 1973-74, Dr. Fussell was a senior fellow of the National Endowment for the Humanities.
