

South African Rugby Tour Spurs Controversy

by Susan Milligan

Despite a request by Los Angeles Mayor Tom Bradley that permission for the controversial South African Sprinkboks rugby team to compete in Albany be rescinded, Mayor Erastus Corning II said he will not change his position.

Bradley's press secretary Tom Sullivan said the Los Angeles mayor sent a mailgram to Corning and Chicago Mayor Jane Byrne urging that the games scheduled for September 19 in Chicago and September 22 in Albany be canceled "because of the violent reaction in New Zealand... and the threat of many nations to boycott the 1984 Olympics" if the tour goes on. The Washington Post reported Saturday that the Soviet Union intends to ask the International Olympics Committee to move the 1984 summer Olympics from the planned site of Los Angeles if the Sprinkboks are permitted to play.

Corning said he has not yet received the letter, but maintains his decision that the 37-member South African team be allowed to compete against the Eastern Rugby Union (ERU) in the city-owned Bleeker Stadium.

"Which came first — the Olympics or the U.S. Constitution?" Corning asked. "And which is a better champion of human rights, freedom of speech, and freedom of assembly — the Soviet Union or the United States?"

Corning released a statement August 24 that asserted "the worldwide tour of the South African rugby team has brought far greater awareness and knowledge of apartheid than all previous publicity ever."

"I abhor everything about apartheid... (but) our constitution guarantees an individual the right to publicly espouse an unpopular cause, and the same right to a number of individuals in peaceful assembly," the statement continued.

Corning said that he does not plan to attend the game and added that he "cannot see how anyone can rationally argue" that permitting the South African team to play in Albany is a tacit sanction of the South African racially segregationist policy of apartheid.

New York City Mayor Ed Koch has refused to allow the Springboks to play in that city; a previously scheduled Rochester game has been canceled; and Chicago Mayor Byrne yesterday introduced a resolution unanimously approved by the City Council to "publicly denounce the intent of the South African Springboks to play in Chicago." The Springboks intend to play the previously planned Rochester game at an undisclosed northeastern city; and barred from public stadiums in Chicago, they have announced they will play in Chicago, but at an undisclosed location.

Corning has maintained his position amid protest from the NAACP, religious organizations, women's organizations, sports groups, and anti-nuclear organizations.

Stop the Apartheid Rugby Team (SART) spokesperson Mike Young said the group and others "are organizing to show the American people our opposition to apartheid and of the American government support of apartheid."

The groups argue that the granting of visas by the State Department to the team — among whose constituents are four members of the South African Defense Force, two members of the South African police, and only one non-white — violate a United Nations resolution. In 1969 the General Assembly adopted an international declaration that requests "all states to suspend cultural, educational, sporting, and other exchanges with the racist regime and with other organizations or institutions in South Africa which practice apartheid."

Beatrice Russell, spokesperson for the State Department's Africa bureau, said the visas "were granted to the individuals on an individual basis... each was found to be eligible."

"We do not regard this as a U.S. government matter," she said. "Our position is that it is a private sporting event and we do not interfere with private sporting arrangements."

Corning said of the charge of violation of U.N. resolution that "as mayor, I cannot make American foreign policy."

Also in question is the acceptance of a $25,000 contribution from a

Wharton Urges Peaceful Protest

by Susan Milligan

The Albany Coalition Against Apartheid has been joined in its opposition to the South African-Eastern Rugby Union game planned in Albany by several SUNY spokespersons.

SUNY Chancellor Clifton R. Wharton released a statement yesterday strongly condemning the rugby tour and apartheid.

"International sports events do have political overtones," the statement read. "The government of South Africa continues to endorse and enforce a ruthless, inhuman policy of apartheid. It is imperative that we see apartheid as it really is: not simply segregation, but de fact slavery."

"Black South Africans are not people merely kept apart; they are people systematically brutalized, denied education, housing, freedom of speech and assembly, the right to vote and more."

Wharton said he "urges all of us who are opposed to South African apartheid to commit ourselves to a determined but peaceful response to this event."

SUNYA President Vincent O'Leary announced he joined the Chancellor in his sentiment, remarking that "the presence of the South African team reminds us all of the terrible thing apartheid is... I hope our peaceful protest by peaceful and lawful conduct will contrast with the lack of democracy in South Africa."

SUNY Chancellor Wharton condemns the game.

In addition, the University Senate yesterday passed a resolution 37-22 encouraging all university constituents to participate in the peaceful demonstration planned by the Albany Coalition September 22. Protestors plan to march from the State Capital to Bleeker Stadium at 5 p.m. and demonstrate until 9 p.m., when the game will end.

However, SUNY still has investments of millions of dollars in SUNY endowment fund stocks in

Class of '81 Overspends Budget

by Wayne Peereboom

They may have graduated, but the Class of 1981 has left a debt behind.

According to SA Controller Tom Serpe, the class overspent nearly $8,000.

Class of 1981 Treasurer Brad Rothbaum explained the class had anticipated a surplus of $1,500 late in the spring semester. However, he said, faulty projections and money-losing events during senior week led to the deficit.

Serpe said the class owes Brennan Bus Co. $6,600 and the Five Quad Ambulance Service approximately $1,100.

It is still uncertain as to who will pay the bills. Serpe said there is a possibility the Class of 1981 officers of SUNYA could pay, but there is a good chance SA will pick up the tab.

SA President Dave Pologe said "I'm not crazy about the Student Association paying because what will stop the Class of '82 from doing the same thing?" Further, he objected because the money would have to come from mandatory student fees. Class dues are a separate payment.

"A lot of it is up to Brennan (Bus Co.)," he said. "It depends on who he sues first. We're certainly not going to jump in and pay unless somebody asks for the money."

Serpe said the Brennan Bus Co. has exerted no real pressure for the payment so far.

Class of 1981 President Gary Schatsky felt the financial loss to SA would be offset by the money SA had collected in interest from Class of 1981 funds. He estimated the interest to be $9,000.

The class' financial woes began with Senior Week. Schatsky said a trip to Atlantic City lost $1,800.

State Senators' Outside Interests Examined

by Eric Koll

John Flynn has been a very busy State Senator this year. Representing part of the Bronx and Westchester in the New York State Legislature, Flynn has introduced bills that would affect New York banks and hospitals.

However, Flynn's hard work and dedication may not stem solely from his concern for his constituents. Flynn happens to be on the Board of Trustees of the Manhattan Savings Bank and St. John's Hospital.

But despite this possible conflict of interest, Flynn also serves on the Senate Banking and Health Committees, on which he votes on most legislation that would affect savings banks and hospitals.

Flynn's case is by no means an isolated one.

An investigation through public records of all 93 New York City State Legislators has found three other legislators whose interests, as reported on their financial disclosure statements, imply conflict with their committee appointments and bills that they have introduced.

Those legislators are:

★ Senator Israel Ruiz, D-Bronx. Ruiz is president of Community Upgrade Inc., a company involved with rehabilitating buildings in the Bronx. Ruiz is also a member of the Senate Housing and Community Development Committee, on which he votes on legislation concerning Urban Rehabilitation. Ruiz also has introduced legislation that would help rehabilitation companies save money on labor costs.

★ Assemblywoman Elizabeth Connelly, D-Statens Island. Connelly is a member of the Board of Trustees of the Staten Island Hospital. She also serves on the Assembly Health Committee where she votes on most legislation affecting hospitals. Connelly has introduced legislation that would help hospitals save money on malpractice suits.

★ Assemblyman Mark Allen Siegel, D-Manhattan. Siegel's father is a part owner of the Terrace Heights Hospital in Queens. Mark Allen Siegel is on the Assembly Health Committee, where he votes on legislation that would affect his father's hospital.

These legislators have not yet this year abstained from voting on legislation that would affect their extra-legislative interests.

No rules, regulations, or guidelines prohibit these legislators from introducing and voting on bills that would affect their interests; the state's conflict of interest laws apply only when a legislator has a direct financial interest. Because Flynn, Connelly, and Siegel do not directly profit from the banks and hospitals they have connections with, they are immune from the state's conflict of interest laws. And Senator Ruiz's interest in Community Upgrade is not considered a conflict of interest by the Senate Democratic leadership.

However, the positions these legislators have taken on certain bills question how immune from conflict these lawmakers really are.

Senator Ruiz started Community Upgrade in 1979. Ruiz said he has put $18,000 into Community Upgrade so far, and the company has taken over one 50-unit apartment building in the Bronx that Ruiz plans to rehabilitate.

On Feb. 11 of this year, Ruiz introduced a bill into the Senate (Number 2747) called the Urban Rehabilitation Work Program. This bill would allow rehabilitation companies, like Community Upgrade, to hire inmates from state prisons to do rehabilitation work and only pay them minimum wage, instead of the $9.30 per hour that rehabilitation workers are now getting.

Ruiz admitted that "it is possible" that Community Upgrade could take advantage of this legislation to hire cheap labor. However, he insisted that the legislation did not conflict with his interests.

"I don't think that Community Upgrade would use prisoners," Ruiz said. Ruiz also maintains that his ownership of Community Upgrade has no influence on his position on the Senate Housing and Community Development Committee—even though the committee considers most legislation affecting Urban Rehabilitation.

"I don't think that there is anyone in my district who would knock me if I did my job as a legislator and I supported them and took care of their interests 100 percent, anyone who would knock me for going and developing a piece of property, or opening a couple of stores," Ruiz said.

"If I was chairman of the Housing and Community Development Committee, then it might be a different question. But as one member

State Assemblyman Mark Allen Siegel

Said he cannot benefit from father's business.

out of 13, I would not be foolish enough to introduce legislation that would just help me. I'm not that stupid."

Ruiz said that he started Community Upgrade as a way to make extra money because his $35,788 a year salary as a State Senator was not enough to get by.

"Sometimes I'm two months behind on my rent, and I live on my American Express card," he said.

"Being a legislator is great, but if you don't have another source of income, there is no way in heck that you can make it financially. I've come to the point where I have to go out and try to make money as a private citizen."

The Senate Democratic Leadership did not consider Ruiz's interest in Community Upgrade to be a conflict of interest when they appointed him to the Housing and Community Development Committee.

According to Joe Polser, spokesperson for Senate Minority Leader Manfred Ohrenstein, "We don't see any conflict. There is nothing to indicate one in his voting record."

However, Polser added that because of the small number of Democratic Senators and the large number of committee assignments, sometimes potential conflicts cannot be avoided.

Mischler Begins New Duties

by Jill Langella
 The Legal Services Search Committee has chosen a recent Boston College Law School graduate, Mark Mischler, for the position of SA full-time attorney. Mischler, who graduated in June, began work August 10. However, he will not receive notice of acceptance to the Bar until December contingent upon his passing the New York State Bar Exam he took this July. Mischler said he "will be careful not to present myself as an attorney" before he receives notification from the Bar. Until that time he will be available to students through the Legal Services Office in CC 116 for research and consultation on legal matters. SA part-time attorney Lewis Oliver will still be available for litigation cases, and former SA full-time attorney, Jack Lester, will remain until January to handle court appearances.

Mischler's contract is expected to be renegotiated if he does not pass the Bar examination. The Legal Services Search Committee, an ad hoc group of four students, Oliver and Lester that was formed to fund a new attorney, realized the disadvantages of recommending Mischler for the position before his acceptance to the Bar. However, they felt that his experience in housing and consumer remedies, as well as in draft counseling, gave him an advantage over the other 28 applicants.

The search committee also felt Mischler would better develop the Legal Services program, and pointed out that the third year

Massachusetts law students are allowed to practice law before taking the Bar exam. Mischler explained that because of the Massachusetts Student Practice Rule he was able to counsel clients and go to court for a neighborhood legal services office this year. He said he worked on cases in family law, welfare benefits, consumer law, child abuse and neglect, and landlord/tenant disputes. SA President David Pologe, who had been authorized by Central Council to contract with an attorney after the search committee made its recommendation, felt Mischler "showed a genuine concern for working in a legal services office rather than in private practice." Mischler said he had been looking primarily for a legal services job, and that he was interested in working with the students. He is also "interested in preventative legal education, and in demystifying the law for the students here through articles and informal forums" to be held in the dorms, he said.

Fires Break Out in Colonial and Dutch Quad Dorms

by Bruce J. Levy
 Fires were reported on both Dutch and Colonial Quads last week, causing some damage to furniture but none to persons in the halls, according to Public Safety Department Assistant Director Karl Scharl.

A fire in Ten Eyck hall on Dutch Quad around 1 p.m. last Monday caused minor damage to a hall couch and scorched a ceiling tile. It may be a case of arson, said Scharl, "but no one knows for sure; there was no smell of accelerants, but there were papers wedged between the cushion and the bottom of the couch." "The paper might have been there from last semester," Scharl added, "But the lounge had been painted over the summer, and the furniture cleaned, so that is not very likely. . . so it has been reported as arson."

Scharl explained the fire was discovered by an unidentified student who pulled the fire alarm and extinguished the fire. The flames were out by the time the Albany fire department arrived.

Around 5 p.m. the same day another fire in Ten Eyck melted a plastic trash cart in the basement garbage room, said Scharl. Dorm sprinkler systems extinguished the fire before the arrival of the fire department. However, damage included the $200 cart and almost an inch of water covering the garbage room and hallway, he said.

Scharl of Public Safety Suspects Arson

Scharl said no accelerants or matches were found at the site of this fire. "The fire could have been started by someone emptying an ash tray into the trash bin. . . but it could have been arson," he said.

After the fires, all the halls on Dutch were locked and a "fire watch" instated for the safety of the residents, said Ten Eyck Dorm Director Jackie La Mar.

Also, a false alarm had been pulled around noon that same Monday, according to La Mar.

In addition, an electrical fire broke out last Wednesday in Herkimer Hall's mechanical room on Colonial Quad. "The building was evacuated and the Albany fire department called. . . but the fire was out by the time they arrived," Scharl said.

Colonial Quad Director Howard Woodruff explained that a few years ago "five rooms on the quad and on another quad were found to have asbestos on the walls of the electrical rooms. . . it was sealed with silicone and it was silicone on the wires that burned."

Woodruff said "the room was checked so that this shouldn't happen again."

ROTC Recruiters' Practices Are Questioned

CPS — Along with an increasing number of student protests against military recruiters' access to school records, two University of Northern Iowa students say they have formally complained to the federal government about UNI's release of a list of about 500 students to an ROTC recruiting officer.

The students — sophomores David Burrow and Kris Baughman — say they filed a formal complaint on August 28. However, the federal agency to which they complained — the U.S. Dept. of Education's Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act Office (FERPA) — had not yet received the complaint a week later.

Both Burrow and UNI Registrar

Robert Leahy say the trouble started last April when Lt. Col. Michael Bartelme, a ROTC officer at the University of Iowa, asked for a list of UNI students with grade point averages over 2.9.

Leahy forwarded a listing of each student, the student's g.p.a., and other directory information to Bartelme, who in turn sent letters inviting the students to join Army ROTC and apply for a ROTC scholarship.

"We just got a little suspicious" that ROTC had gotten what Burrow considered private information because "the letter said something like 'since you have such a good grade point average,'" Burrow recalls.

UNI rules about the privacy of student records say "directory information can be given out only for a legitimate educational interest, and can't be given to a person who is not a part of the university," according to Burrow.

"But Lt. Col. Bartelme is not employed by this university," Burrow asserts. "He works at the University of Iowa, not here."

Registrar Leahy says the Iowa ROTC officials are also UNI officials because UNI has just established a ROTC branch on its campus.

As Leahy recalls "the UNI Board of Regents had not yet approved establishing the ROTC branch when he released the student records to Bartelme, but that the Faculty Senate had already approved bringing ROTC to UNI."

"About five days before the regents were to vote (on the ROTC issue), I helped assist" Bartelme with the student records, Leahy said. "Everyone knew the regents were going to approve it anyway."

He decided to give Bartelme the records even though the regents hadn't voted yet "because the deadline for applying for the scholarships was two days before the Board of Regents was to vote," he says.

Leahy contends that the subsequent controversy was unwarranted because he was helping arrange financial aid, not military recruitment.

"The students saw it as a recruitment letter, and it was a scholarship letter." It had been approved by the school's vice president for academic affairs, he adds.

But Leahy says he's willing to listen if the government wants to talk to him about it.

"If they decide we should have waited five more days, that's fine. In the future, we wouldn't do that."

A statement like that is all Burrow wants. "We want a statement that says yes, the registrar did act wrongly."

In Washington, D.C., Pat Ballinger, director of the Education Dept.'s FERPA office, says such statements are the usual punishments in cases of improper disclosure, though the government could impose an "ultimate sanction" of "termination of federal education funds."

Typically, if a school improperly discloses private student records, "we'll try to call the school first, and attempt informally to change their practices. We don't like to come in as the heavy-handed feds."

Ballinger says that with the advent of military registration, "we get a lot of questions from schools" about what information they should or should not give out to military recruiters.

The answer is generally that "the school can release (directory information about the student) to the recruiters, but it's not required to. It's their choice," she explains.

Under the federal Privacy Act, a school must post "public notice" of the items it considers to be "directory information" about the student. A student then has 15 days in which to inform the school that he or she does not want that information released.

"It's one of the few instances in the law in which a person's silence is consent," Ballinger points out.

She says that "a very, very small percentage of students respond" to the public notice by barring the school from releasing the information.

Nevertheless, the number of inquiries about military and govern-

One Dies In Police Chase

by Sue Smith

A car chase involving SUNYA Campus police and a Colonie man in August ended in a fatal head-on collision.

Robin Hill, 22, of Altamont died of injuries sustained from the crash. Hill was a passenger in a car driven by Steven Millham, 20, of Colonie. Millham has been arraigned on felony charges of criminally negligent homicide and first-degree reckless endangerment.

Police said Millham was driving erratically on SUNYA's Perimeter Road when a university police car, driven by Patrolman Gary Slykes, attempted to stop him.

Millham failed to comply, police said, and the patrol car chased him west on Washington Ave. According to police, Millham ran two red lights and turned south onto Fuller Road.

There, police said, he made a U-turn and was traveling north in the southbound lane when the two cars collided.

Millham and Slykes were taken to St. Peter's Hospital in Albany.

Aid Cuts

"You're going to see some terrible anxiety (among students this fall)," Martin suggests. Many "students just aren't aware of the changes."

There are other immediate effects, "many of them invisible for now," Martin says. He recalls talking to textbook publisher who complained that bookstore managers, unsure of what to expect, are "ordering books conservatively" until they can more accurately gauge demand.

Other observers foresee temporary lapses in services like campus food operations, whose directors may have withheld ordering for the school year until they saw how many students had to drop out because of an inability to pay.

Smith estimates that 175 of the 500 students in Vanderbilt's nursing school would have had to drop out if "we hadn't made it up with about $100,000 in institutional funds."

But "I don't know what we're going to do next year" if Congress doesn't re-fund a nursing loan and other aid programs, Smith says.

A change of heart is unlikely. Most Washingtonians promise even deeper cuts next year. "Anyone who believes that Stockman is content with this year's cuts in (Guaranteed Student Loans) is as loony as David Stockman himself," says Jerry Roschwalb of the National Association of State Universities and Land-Grant Colleges.

Recruitment

ment access to student records has increased since military registration began in July, 1980, according to both Ballinger and Trudy Haydn, a privacy expert with the American Civil Liberties Union in Washington.

The Selective Service System initially toyed with the idea of using student records to track 18-year-olds who failed to register, recalls Joan Lamb, a Selective Service spokeswoman.

"It was discussed as one of many ways of acquiring" a list of 18-year-olds, she says. "But we haven't gone any further with that. We have no intentions of trying to secure school records."

Instead, "we're waiting for a bill to get out of Congress" that would allow Selective Service access to Social Security numbers as a way of finding non-registrants.

Lamb emphasizes that Selective Service is an independent agency which has nothing to do with military recruitment or ROTC, which are administered by the U.S. Dept. of Defense.

Burrow, for one, understands the difference. He classes his opposition to giving student records to ROTC not as part of the resistance to military registration, but as anti-ROTC effort.

He says he's been part of the two-year effort to keep ROTC off the UNI campus. As vice president of the student government, he's helped pass "five or six" student government resolutions against allowing ROTC on the campus.

Until last spring, the Faculty Senate had also voted against ROTC. In a change of heart, however, the Faculty Senate approved ROTC, which was finally sanctioned by the regents in April. ROTC officially begins on the campus this fall.

Jersey PIRG Threatened

CPS — A conservative legal foundation, in what critics claim is a test case for a rightist assault on Public Interest Research Groups (PIRGs) nationwide, has vowed to continue its courtroom challenge to the way PIRGs gain use of student fees.

The Mid-Atlantic Legal Foundation has sued Rutgers University of behalf of three Rutgers students, who object to student fee funding of the university's chapter of the New Jersey Public Interest Research Group (NJPIRG).

The suit says the funding procedure violates the First Amendment.

NJPIRG, like PIRGs on campuses across the country, is funded by a "check-off" system. At Rutgers, $2.50 of each student's fee automatically goes to NJPIRG. If the student doesn't want PIRG to get the money, the student can

If you think "pads and rollers" are just a California craze, you're not ready for New Memorex.

Pads and rollers are key components of a cassette's tape transport system.

This system guides the tape past your deck's tape head. It must do so with unerring accuracy. And no cassette does it more accurately than totally new Memorex.

The new Memorex tape transport system is precision engineered to exacting tolerances.

Flanged, seamless rollers guide the tape effortlessly and exactly. An oversize pad hugs the tape to the tape head with critical pressure: firm enough for precise alignment, gentle enough to dramatically reduce wear.

Our unique ultra-low-friction polyolefin wafers help precision-molded hubs dispense and gather tape silently and uniformly, play after play. Even after 1,000 plays.

In fact, our new Memorex cassette will always deliver true sound reproduction, or we'll replace it. Free.

Of course, reproduction that true and that enduring owes a lot to Permapass™, our extraordinary new binding process. It even owes a little to our unique new fumble-free storage album.

But when you record on new Memorex, whether it's HIGH BIAS II, normal bias MRX I or METAL IV, don't forget the importance of those pads and rollers. Enjoy the music as the tape glides unerringly across the head.

And remember: getting it there is half the fun.

check a box on the registration form, and will have the money refunded.

Mid-Atlantic claims the system forces students to support causes with which they don't agree. A U.S. district court judge disagreed with the argument in July, dismissing the suit. Mid-Atlantic, however, has now filed an appeal, and promises to pursue the issue.

The political battlelines involved in the case are classic: PIRG was originally the idea of Ralph Nader, who conceived the organization as a means of channeling student energies into a permanent, ongoing business watchdog group.

PIRGs now exist on campuses in roughly half the states, operating independently of each other, though sharing ideas and information. They generally lobby on behalf of consumer, equal rights and environmental causes.

The Mid-Atlantic Legal Foundation, on the other hand, is one of six separate but interlocking law groups organized to litigate on behalf of conservative issues — and often against the government regulations upon which consumer and environmental groups depend for protection.

Interior Secretary James Watt's former employer, the Mountain States Legal Foundation, is a charter member of the alliance of conservative law groups.

The Rutgers case is "a constitutional issue," says Myrna Field, a Mid-Atlantic attorney. "Each Rutgers student is currently forced to pay a mandatory fee to a private group, which is supposed to be educational but a actuality is very politically motivated."

"At private schools," she adds, "such groups have their status regularly reviewed in order to obtain continued funding. At Rutgers, there's no accountability."

Not so, says Ed Lloyd, a NJPIRG official. "Every three years we come up for a student referendum at Rutgers. A checks-and-balances system definitely does exist."

"If this were a genuine free speech issue," Lloyd says, "I'd object right along with the three plaintiffs. But in the case of PIRG at Rutgers, students can totally opt out if they want."

Lloyd suspects NJPIRG was singled out as a test case by the organized Right. "We know the Young Americans for Freedom and others had circulated questionnaires among students dealing with PIRG in order to structure a lawsuit against us. Rutgers was obviously a perfect test. It was very clear what the school's procedure was, and where the money went."

"I think there's clearly a political motivation in Mid-Atlantic's suit," Lloyd suggests. "If we happened to be anti-abortion, pro-nuclear power and anti-ERA, I don't think a suit would have occurred."

Mid-Atlantic attorney Joseph

Marshall rejects the notion of an ideological attack. "I'm not sure a foundation of lawyers has the luxury of taking an ideological position."

"I've felt no pressure to conduct myself ideologically. We're just hired guns."

In the case's first legal go-round, Mid-Atlantic's suit was dismissed by U.S. District Court Judge Stanley Brothman, who ruled Rutgers' policy not only failed to constitute a denial of free speech, but in fact encouraged the First Amendment rights of organization, association and expression.

"We believe in combatting excessive interference by government into business and into our daily lives," Field asserts with unabashed ideological fervor. "The Rutgers administration is providing just this kind of interference, and we'll fight as long as it takes to win on this issue."

That's because the odometer in his car was running backwards. When Ballou bought the car a few weeks back, the odometer showed the car had traveled 33,535 miles; this week, after nearly a month of driving, the odometer read only 32,923 miles.

Ballou suspects that it's not just an accident that his odometer is acting up; he believes that someone may have been monkeying with the device before he bought the car. Says Ballou, who has complained to the Local Consumer Affairs Commission, "I feel I've been ripped off. God knows how many miles it has on it."

Consumer Affairs Commissioner Kenneth Rosenblum is investigating Ballou's complaint. And Rosenblum says: "If he drives it long enough, it'll turn into a new car."

frozen babies

Australian scientists have frozen a dozen human embryos which they believe can be thawed and implanted in infertile women to produce healthy children.

Carl Wood, leader of the scientific team at the Queen Victoria Medical Center, however, says the technique raises a host of "frightening" legal and ethical questions that would have to be resolved before its use could become widespread.

The scientists say two frozen embryos were thawed and resumed growing outside the womb. They were implanted in their mothers' wombs, but failed to result in pregnancy, the scientists said. However, that doesn't mean the technique is a failure, they report, because the success rate for implantation of embryos that have not been frozen is only about 5 percent.

social loner

A study of psychologists says it has discovered that Americans work hard when they are working alone.

The psychologists suggest that Americans work hard in groups because they are afraid they will not be held personally responsible for any loss in output. The psychologists even go further, saying that "social loafing" may account for the slowed growth in American productivity.

coup de coors

One of the longest-running drinking controversies on a college campus has been settled, at least for now: students at the University of Colorado have voted to allow the sale of Coors beer on campus for the first time in 12 years.

The decision, confirmed in a student vote in February, lifts a ban against Coors which was initiated in 1968.

The ban had been enacted by students to protest Coors' alleged discriminatory employment practices. It was initiated shortly after Joseph Coors, one of the owners of the brewery, joined the Board of Regents at the University of Colorado.

Coors upset many students when he proposed that all university students be required to swear to loyalty oaths.

Worn out by Big Mac attacks? There's a whole army of new fast foods heading our way. McDonalds, for instance, is test-marketing McNuggets -- that's chicken -- and McRibs -- they're pressed pork with barbecue sauce. Burger King, not to be outdone, is readying a multi-item dinner basket featuring fish, guacomole and tortilla chips. Happy Eating!

Trouble in Preppie-Land: General Mills, which owns the U.S. rights to all those alligator shirts, has filed suit against three companies for making fake Lacoste and Izod sport shirts. The defendants, Mutual Buying Syndicate, B and F Exports, and Pennent Sportswear, are accused of selling "inferior-quality" shirts with the distinctive alligator in front. The suit asks for a court injunction, all the profits from the bogus preppie-wear and triple damages.

mr. neutron

A noted British political journal is claiming the Reagan decision to build the neutron bomb is a smokescreen to cover the fact that neutron bombs have, in fact, been in production for almost three years, and may be already based in Europe. Back in 1978, President Carter announced the U.S. was delaying production of the weapon -- which is supposed to kill people without destroying property -- but, the New Statesman says he continued research into ways of converting regular nuclear warheads to neutron bombs. Once that research was complete, the magazine says, the U.S. began storing neutron components in Europe without actually constructing a bomb -- just as it separately stores the components of long range nuclear missiles in Nato countries. Although the actual location of American tactical weapons is secret, The magazine says U.S. policy requires them to be stored "near the front line." meaning they could be at a dozen sites in Germany, Britain, Turkey and the Netherlands.

snake fate

Good news for drug addicts -- your habit may protect you from slithering venomous creatures. The Times of London reports a drug addict sleeping in his home at Faizabad, India, was bitten by a poisonous snake. The man lived. The snake, however, wasn't so lucky. Officials reported that the reptile died.

summertime blues

The sexiest season of the year isn't spring -- it's summer. At least, that's according to a very unromantic statistic. It seems the most popular months for contracting a social disease are August and September.

help. The walkout is the toughest on the borderline cases -- the ones who are willing to fly to overcome their fears. They listen, when strikers warn about air safety, and Ross says the warnings confirm their fears and "give people permissions not to fly." Boston psychologist Albert Forgione is more direct: In his words: inexperienced controllers and reports of near-misses "scare the hell" out of already anxious flyers.

overloading zone

Automobiles are starting to rival airlines as revenue sources at some of the nation's major airports. The Dallas-Fort Worth Airport, for example, is expecting to take in 17 million dollars in parking fees this year, a quarter of total revenue, and nearly as much as it collects from airlines.

space splash

Are you the type who likes to take long, hot baths? Well, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration is looking for you. NASA scientists at Moffett Field in California are looking for six men and six women to volunteer to spend eight hours immersed in warm water. Project Director John Greenleaf says the study is to determine how astronauts' body fluids react in orbit. Subjects will be required to exercise for an hour before entering an eight-by-four-foot tank of water heated to skin temperature, and stay there for eight hours. "We'll entertain them," Greenleaf says. "We have a TV and there's someone there all the time who can throw them a rubber lucky or whatever." The pay, if you're still interested, is five bucks an hour -- no smokers, please.

America's fitness craze is hot-tomting out. Interest in sports like racquetball and roller skating seems to have peaked, and that's taking its toll on sporting goods manufacturers. A.M.I. says sales are off more than three percent this year, and things would be worse if it weren't for a pair of durable old standbys -- golf and tennis.

blown away

One industry is booming, thanks to the air traffic controllers' strike: the phobia business -- the clinics, psychiatrists and psychologists who treat people that are terrified of flying. Jerilyn Ross, who directs a phobia program in Washington, calls the "white knuckles" -- and there are a lot of them. A Boeing company survey estimates that one traveler in six -- 25 million Americans -- fears flying. And Ross and other in the field say since the strike began more of them than ever have been seeking professional

Randi, Karen and I

Elaire, You and I have lived, loved, laughed, and cried together for two years, and during that time we've shared countless memories that will always remain precious to me. Together we have built a very special friendship, too special to let separate rooms come between us next year. So keep that in mind, and we won't really be saying goodbye. I'll always be there for you when you need someone who cares. "Winter, spring, summer, or fall" I think you know the rest.
Love always, Karen

Bev, Have a fantastic birthday and enjoy Santans. I'll be in touch.
Love you, Michael Troy

Kevin, Hang in there baby. Just one more day. Good luck tomorrow.
Love, Amy

Johannesburg businessman to the ERU. The donation was made in the same month the ERU invited the Springboks to tour in the U.S., but ERU president Tom Selfridge said the donation had nothing to do with the tour.

Mayoral candidates Fred Dusenbury and Charles Touhey have each expressed opposition to Corning's decision.

"Tom Selfridge is making the assumption that sports and politics shouldn't mix," Dusenbury said. "But the South African government is not making that same assertion. . . . When Tom Selfridge cashes a check for $25,000 — equal to the ERU's annual budget — we know his opinion about sports and politics has been bought and paid for."

Touhey said he "is opposed to it being played in a public place. . . . paid for by taxpayers money."

"Why should we be placed on the map for this kind of controversy?" he said.

and the sale of T-shirts netted $1,200 less than expected.

Further, Rothbaum said, an additional $1,500 is fees was required for the Senior Clambake. He said these fees had not been anticipated because of a misunderstanding with University Auxiliary Services (UAS). He also said the class had anticipated that more dues would be paid by Senior Week.

Both the class officers agreed that much of the deficit was due to faulty estimation of the number of tickets sold to senior class members versus non-members. Schatsky said a higher percentage of class members purchased lower priced tickets than was anticipated.

He added the Class of 1981 charged "30 to 60 percent" less for tickets than other classes.

"With so many different activities, there is more chance for error," Rothbaum said. Schatsky estimated the Class of 1981 sold three times the number of tickets than other classes.

Meanwhile, Serpe said, "We're going to set up a policy so this won't happen again."

corporations which have ties with South Africa.

Hundreds of SUNYA students protested in November of 1978, demanding divestment and questioning Wharton's position on the Board of Directors of Ford Motor Company, which does business with South Africa.

Wharton opposed divestment, and wrote in a column in Long Island's Newday that it would be a hollow act of symbolism.

"Many U.S. black leaders who have visited South Africa have studied the situation, reluctantly concluding that the withdrawal would set back precisely the group of South African blacks who represent a cutting edge of the economic change and progress," the column read. "Now some U.S. activists would have us protect the truly horrible plight of most South African blacks by wiping out the few gains they have made through the progressive influence of U.S. firms."

Alcohol has been known to produce memory blackouts. Now, researchers report that, when consumed in moderate quantities, alcohol may actually improve the ability to remember.

Dr. Elizabeth Parker and other researchers, writing in the publication Psychopharmacology, report that sixteen males who were moderate users of alcohol and marijuana were tested twice — with and without the drugs — in experiments one week apart.

The men drank alcohol or smoked marijuana immediately after studying 10 pairs of scenic slides. Three hours later, they were tested for their ability to remember details of those slides. The researchers report only two subjects scored perfectly in the first non-drug test, compared to 7 who made perfect scores after the alcohol experiment.

In another experiment, 72 light-to-moderate drinkers were divided into alcohol or placebo groups and sorted out 30 words into five categories. The next day, those subjects who had alcohol immediately after the word task reportedly recalled significantly more words and categories than the placebo group members.

bum ticker

Many people, as they grow older, complain that time seems to be going by more quickly.

Now, research at Pennsylvania State University indicates that we do have an "inner clock" that does, in fact, speed up as we get older.

Dr. Margaret Newman reports asking three different groups of volunteers how many seconds had transpired as a clock, which was out of sight of the volunteers, ticked off exactly 40 seconds.

The young people estimated that it took 43 seconds for the 40 seconds to pass; the middle-age group estimated 31 seconds; while the older group, with an average age of 71, guessed that only 17 seconds had expired in the 40-second period.

Newman says that aging really does seem to speed up a person's sense of "retrospective" time.

nag, nag, nag

If you've tried everything you can think of to help yourself stop smoking cigarettes, but are still puffing away, maybe you should get someone to . . . nag you.

A ten-year study being conducted by the National Heart, Lung, and Blood Institute has found that smokers who are high risks for heart attacks can, in effect, be nagged into kicking the habit. The study involves nearly 3,800 smokers at 22 medical centers who participated in the Institute's "Mr. Fit" stop-smoking program.

Unlike other stop-smoking programs in which 75 percent of the people who quit smoking are said to have started again within a year, the Institute's program claims success so far in preventing all of the 45 percent of the participants who stopped smoking four years ago from starting again.

How did the Institute do it? Well it has "nagged" smokers with a steady barrage of anti-smoking education, counseling, hypnosis, weekend retreats, and other methods such as giving quilters "I Quit" buttons.

anti-crime shots

Criminals of the 21st century will be treated with drugs and hormones, and not locked in prison cells.

This is a prediction coming from The Futurist magazine, which alleges that — by the turn of the century — society will consider violent crimes to be a product of "biological abnormalities" that can be treated with medicines.

The author of the article, University of South Carolina criminology professor Gene Stephens, says that genetic engineering techniques may be used to completely eliminate what he calls "offensive traits" from future generation.

Professor Stephens predicts that in the future, only couples that are capable of having "super" babies will be licensed to breed; while other couples, who are especially suited to provide love and compassion, will be licensed to rear these children.

Stephens concludes by stating that "despite concern by civil libertarians and other groups, 21st century society will deem it necessary to store data on all citizens, beginning at birth, in computers. The data will be used," he says, "to identify anti-social tendencies in the name of crime prevention, and to help single out budding terrorists and sociopaths for early re-socialization.

"With only 25 Democratic Senators, you can't preclude all outside interests," he said.

Senator John Flynn makes no attempt to hide the way he feels about banks. "Anything I can do to help the Savings Banks, I'll be glad to do," he said.

Flynn has served as a member of the board of trustees of savings banks for twelve years. As a trustee of Manhattan Savings Bank, Flynn currently is paid $300 for each monthly meeting of the board of trustees he attends and is in a position where he is partially responsible for the success or failure of the bank.

Flynn is also on the Senate Banking Committee and has introduced a number of bills affecting the banking industry. One bill that Flynn introduced (Senate number 1083) would allow for the first $200 or $400 a person receives in interest from a savings bank to be tax-free. Flynn said the bill is necessary—among other things—to increase the quantity of deposits in savings banks. "I hope and pray that we pass that one. What's happening is that the senior citizens put their money in savings banks, come up with $300 or $400 in interest, and get clobbered with taxes when they should be getting a break. And it makes sense to try to keep the money in the banks. The withdrawals coming out of the savings banks right now are the worse they've had in all my lifetime. Something has to be done."

Flynn believes that his membership on the board of trustees in no way influences either his position on the banking committee or the bills that he has introduced. Rather, Flynn thinks his experience with banks is a definite asset.

"When you deal with the everyday activities of the bank and you are familiar with what the problems are, you can address yourself to these problems," he explained.

"It would be different if I was in a commercial bank and owned stock, and the profits of the bank benefited stockholders. But I'm in a savings bank, where any improvement in the bank only goes to benefit the depositors."

Flynn says that his pro-savings bank beliefs come from a concern for his constituents. "I'm concerned with protecting the people in my community, and knowing they have small amounts in that bank, I will do anything I can to strengthen the bank and make them feel secure and to make sure the bank stays on its feet."

Flynn feels the same way about his position on the board of trustees of St. John's Hospital, a 200-bed volunteer hospital in Yonkers. Even though Flynn is partially responsible for the success of St. John's hospital, he is at the same time considering bills affecting hospitals in the Health Committee. Flynn says he has not had trouble balancing the two responsibilities. "I'm concerned with the health and welfare of our people, and I want to make sure the hospital gives the best kind of service. All of it is a volunteer service, I don't even get a cup of coffee."

Even though Flynn doesn't financially benefit from his position as trustee of St. John's, the responsibility involved with the position may have had some effect on his voting in the Health Committee. Flynn voted in favor of each bill considered by the Health Committee this year that were supported by the Hospital Association of New York State, the largest hospital lobbying group in New York.

Assemblymen Mark Allen Siegel and Assemblywoman Elizabeth Connelly also have interests in hospitals. Connelly is a trustee of the 440-bed voluntary Staten Island Hospital. She is also on the Health Committee, and considers a substantial amount of legislation affecting hospitals. Earlier this year, Connelly introduced a bill that could save hospitals a great deal of money on malpractice suits. The bill would allow hospitals to present patients with an arbitration agreement. If the patient signs the arbitration agreement, then any claims that the patient makes against the hospital for improper medical treatment would be settled through arbitration; the patient couldn't sue the hospital.

Connelly says that the bill is intended to help cut down rising hospital costs. "Arbitration is to cut down on malpractice suits, and I think that malpractice is running away. Soon you won't be able to afford the hospital bill or hospital costs anymore. I look at malpractice from the point of view of rising hospital costs, and how it reflects on the inability of persons to pay their hospital bills."

Connelly insists that her position as a trustee does not conflict with her responsibilities as a legislator, or her position on the Health Committee. Rather, she says that it makes her more knowledgeable on hospital issues. "I think that it is rather beneficial. It gives me the ability to understand the hospital's problems, as well as knowing the State's problems."

Mark Siegel is also on the Health Committee. However, his father is a part owner of the Terrace Heights Hospital in Queens. Siegel insists that his father's interest has no effect on his voting, that there is no way that he could benefit from his father's interest, and that the only reason he is on the Health Committee is because of his interest in abortion. "My father's hospital has no influence on me at all. It absolutely doesn't affect the way I vote. I make up my own mind. You have to resolve your Oedipus complex before you can be an effective legislator."

However, Siegel said that the situation would be different if he were the chair of the Health Committee instead of just a member.

"If I were offered the chair of the Health Committee while my father was the owner of the hospital, I would turn it down. I think being the member of the Health Committee, being one out of 20 people is not the same impact as if you were the chair. You want to make sure that you have the appropriate appearance also, because you want the integrity of government to be respected."

rounded to third.
Rich Gale, 6-6, relieved rookie Wright, who had made the first part of his major-league career, with one out in the fourth and banned the Angels on two hits the rest of the way.

Red Sox 5, Tigers 2

BOSTON (AP) Jerry Remy ripped a two-run, bases-loaded single to snap a 2-2 tie in the sixth inning and led the Boston Red Sox to a 5-2 victory over the Detroit Tigers Monday night.

Remy lined his two-out single to left-center off Dan Petry, 8-7. With one out, Tony Perez and Rich Gedman singled and with two out pinch-hitter Dave Stapleton walked to load the bases.

The Red Sox added a run in the seventh when Perez's single scored Carl Yastrzemski, who had doubled and advanced to third on a fly out.

Detroit had tied the game 2-2 in the top of the sixth on Steve Kemp's ninth home run of the year, a solo shot off starter Mike Torrez. Bob Stanley, 9-6, replaced Torrez later in the inning and picked up the win.

The Tigers scored an unearned run in the first when Rich Peters walked, moved up two bases on a groundout and catcher Gedman's passed ball and came home on Kemp's groundout.

Boston tied the game in the bottom of the first when Carney Lansford singled home Dwight Evans, who had walked and taken second on Petry's wild pitch. Jim Rice's 14th homer in the third gave Boston a 2-1 edge.

Yanks 10, Brewers 2

MILWAUKEE (AP) Reggie Jackson knocked in four runs with a homer, double and an infield out, and Bob Watson and Lou Piniella slammed solo homers to power the New York Yankees to a 10-2 victory over the Milwaukee Brewers Monday night.

Tommy John, 9-5, scattered nine hits. The defeat went to Mike Caldwell, 11-8, who had a 9-1 career record and six straight victories against the Yankees going into the game.

The Yankees jumped to a 2-0 first-inning lead on a RBI single by Piniella and Jackson's infield grounder.

Watson belted his fifth homer of the year leading off the second to make it 3-0. Piniella's fourth homer came an inning later.

The Brewers scored in the bottom of the third on a run-scoring single by Robin Yount, but the Yankees scored again in the fourth on Rick Cerone's RBI single.

The Yanks added three runs in the fifth to lead 8-1. Two walks preceded Jackson's run-scoring double, an RBC single by Graig Nettelles and a wild pitch that brought home Jackson.

A single by Dave Winfield and Jackson's 10th homer make it 10-1 in the seventh. Carlie Moore homered for the Brewers' final run.

White Sox 5, Mariners 2

SEATTLE (AP) Dennis Lamp pitched a five-hitter and snapped a personal three-game losing streak as the Chicago White Sox defeated the Seattle Mariners 5-2 Monday night.

Lamp, 6-4, who struck out five and walked two, lost the shutout in the sixth when Joe Simpson singled home Julio Cruz with two outs.
After forcing Jerry Narron, who had singled, for the second out, Cruz stole second and third before Simpson dropped a looping single over first base.

Jim Morrison socked a solo homer, his seventh of the year, in the third and Lamar Johnson added an RBI double in the fifth to give Chicago a 2-0 lead.

Floyd Bannister, 6-8, lost his third straight game, allowing five hits and four runs in seven 1-3 innings.

Twins 6, Blue Jays 3

TORONTO (AP) Glen Adams
drew a bases-loaded walk from Roy Lee Jackson in the eighth inning, and Ron Washington followed with a two-run single to pace the Minnesota Twins to their seventh consecutive victory, a 6-3 triumph over the Toronto Blue Jays Monday night.

Brad Haves, 3-4, limited the Jays to just three hits before he was replaced with no outs in the eighth by Doug Corbett, who earned his 13th save, allowing two hits in the last two innings. With the game tied 3-3 going to the eighth, Toronto starter Jim Clancy, 5-10 retired the first two batters before giving up a double to John Castino.

Reliever Jerry Garvin intentionally walked pinch-hitter Roy Smalley before giving way to Jackson. After both runners advanced on a wild pitch, pinch-hitter Gary Ward was walked intentionally, bringing up Adams, the Twins' third pinch-hitter of the inning.

Lopes Hopes To Win Back Fans

(AP) Davey Lopes hopes to steal back the hearts of Los Angeles Dodger fans with his fast bat and quick feet.

He showed both to good advantage Monday night while helping the Dodgers beat the San Diego Padres 10-5.

"He looks like the Lopes of old," said Dodger manager Tommy Lasorda after watching Lopes belt four hits, including a three-run homer, and drive in four runs. "He can beat you so many ways — base hits, stolen bases and hitting the ball out of the park."

After struggling below the .200 mark for most of the season and incurring the wrath of Dodger fans, Lopes has come to life in September as a hitter. Coming off a groin injury that sidelined him for two weeks, the 35-year-old veteran has collected 14 hits in his last 35 at bats for a .400 clip.

"I wanted him to know he wasn't going to lose his job when he was on the disabled list," said Lasorda. "I told Davey when he was ready to come back, he was our second baseman."

Lopes: "I never lost confidence in myself. There has been no pressure. Pressure is when you are afraid of failure. It makes me believe in myself even more. I felt given the opportunity I would produce, regardless of what other people think."

can only fight me one way."

He said he is "going to make Tommy Hearn's think and when Tommy Hearn's starts to think he is in trouble."

Hearn's is a power puncher and his manager, Emanuel Steward, said "Thomas has the ability to end this fight with one punch, and that is a lot of danger to face for 45 minutes."

But Leonard is prepared to face that danger. "He tries to knock you out with every punch," he said. "I don't think Hearn's can box." Both camps are predicting the fight will end by a knockout. Steward predicted a fifth round knockout by Hearn's, who already has a painting of himself standing over a fallen Leonard. Leonard said, "It won't go past 10. I promise that."

The bookmakers here have the betting line on the fight even.

Giants End Losing Skid; Yanks Top Brewers

Giants 4, Braves 2

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) Jerry Martin capped a three-run first-inning outburst with a two-run single Monday night, sparking San Francisco to a 4-2 victory over the Atlanta Braves and snapping a three-game Giants' losing streak.

The Braves played the game under protest over a disputed run-down play in the third inning.

Martini's single off loser Tommy Boggs, 3-11, followed two Atlanta errors and two walks, the second one a bases-loaded pass to Milt May that gave the Giants their first run.

The Giants increased their lead to 4-0 in the fourth when Martin tripled and scored on Johnnie LeMaster's squeeze bunt.

The Braves scored their runs off Tom Griffin, 8-6, in the fifth on a single by pinch-hitter Brian Asselstine, a walk to Brett Butler, singles by Claudell Washington and Bob Horner and a sacrifice fly by Chris Chambliss.

Dodgers 10, Padres 5

SAN DIEGO (AP) Davey Loves belted a three-run homer to key a six-run seventh inning as the Los Angeles Dodgers rolled to a 10-5 victory over the San Diego Padres Monday night.

The game was tied 4-4 when Mike Scioscia and Mike Marshall each stroked two-out pinch singles off reliever Eric Show, 0-2, to start the rally. Derral Thomas followed Lopes' fifth homer of the year with a single and scored on Pedro Guerrero's double to cap the inning.

Lopes, hitting just .202 at the start of the game, rapped four hits in six trips, drove in four runs and stole a base to lead a 17-hit Dodger attack against six Padre pitchers.

Rookie Ted Power, 1-1 got the victory, working two 2-3 innings in relief of Dodger starter Burt Hooton.

Reds 4, Astros 3

HOUSTON (AP) Bruce Berenyi stifled the Houston Astros on four hits and Johnny Bench drove in three runs with three hits to lead the Cincinnati Reds to a 4-3 victory Monday night.

Berenyi, 8-5, allowed two runs in the first inning but settled down to retire 21 straight batters and 24 of the next 26 he faced before Dennis Walling singled with two down in the ninth. Berenyi struck out 12 and walked on in giving Houston its first home loss in 13 starts and only its second defeat at home during the second season.

Bench's first-inning single off loser Vern Rühle, 3-4, scored Ken Griffey and Dave Concepcion from second and third. Both had singled and moved up a base on George Foster's groundout.

Houston matched the Reds in the bottom half of the first. Phil Garner walked and Terry Puhl doubled with one out. Garner scored on an error by Bench at first on Jose Cruz' groundout and Walling's grounder knocked in Puhl to tie the score.

Heisman Winners Do In Rams

(AP) Send a rookie Heisman Trophy winner out against the Los Angeles Rams and victory is yours.

Now two games in two years do not necessarily constitute a pattern, but something funny is happening with that team whose home sits just across the street from Disneyland.

A year ago, the Detroit Lions, not considered to be among the National Football League's fiercest teams heading into the 1980 season, sent Billy Sims against the Rams. All he got was 153 yards rushing and three touchdowns in the Lions' 41-20 shocker.

On Sunday it was George Rogers' turn. He rolled up 162 yards and a touchdown as the New Orleans Saints stunned the Rams 23-17.

It's probably not time to put them on the critical list just yet. In 1980, remember, the Rams also lost their second game, 10-9 to Tampa Bay. Then they turned around and trampled Green Bay 51-21 to start a five-game winning streak which helped propel them to an 11-5 season and a playoff berth.

It should be noted that the Rams are not the only 0-2 surprise this year — and the others should not be written off just yet.

Cleveland and Pittsburgh, which were selected by most experts to battle down to the wire in the American Conference's Central Division, have each lost the first two games of 1981. The Steelers were routed 30-10 by Miami last Thursday night and on Sunday the Browns were beaten 9-3 by Houston.

The Browns, you may recall, were 0-2 at this point a year ago, before winning seven of their next eight games and charging to an 11-5 record and the division title. And the Steelers, who got off to a 2-0 start in 1980, wound up at 9-7 and out of the playoffs for the first time since 1971.

Raiders Continue MNF Domination

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) Jim Plunkett tossed two touchdown passes and Burgess Owens returned an interception 30 yards for another score as the Oakland Raiders continued to dominate Monday night football with a 36-10 victory over the Minnesota Vikings.

The Super Bowl champion Raiders put the game away with two fourth quarter touchdowns, including one on a 52-yard fumble return by veteran defensive lineman Cedric Hardman. Oakland, rebounding from a 9-7 defeat by Denver last week, held the sputtering Vikings offense to just 42 yards rushing, but gave away 119 yards in penalties.

The victory was Oakland's 13th consecutive Monday night win, dating back to 1974, and also increased its overall record in prime time to 17-1-1, best in the National Football League.

Plunkett completed just 11 of 24 passes for 109 yards, but fired scoring passes of 21 yards to Todd Christensen late in the second quarter and 12 yards to Morris Bradshaw midway through the third quarter.

Oakland was leading 3-0 on Chris Bah's 21-yard first-quarter field goal when Owens picked off a pass by Steve Dils and raced 30 yards for his fourth career touchdown via an interception.

The Raiders led 16-0 late in the first half, but Eddie Payton then electrified the crowd with a 99-yard kickoff return and Rick Danmeier booted the extra point to cut the margin to 16-7.

Danmeier added a 37-yard field goal early in the third quarter, but Plunkett, last year's rags-to-riches Super Bowl hero, marched Oakland 69 yards in eight plays, capped by his 12-yard scoring pass to Bradshaw for a 23-10 cushion.

Hardman, a 12-year veteran, then scooped up a fumble by reserve quarterback Wade Wilson with 8:45 left in the game and galloped untouched into the end zone. The Raiders closed out the scoring on a 61-yard pass from reserve quarterback Marc Wilson to Malcolm Barnwell.

A's 5, Rangers 2

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) Cliff Johnson scored a run and knocked in two more with a single to back the seven-hit pitching of Rick Langford as the Oakland A's cruised to a 5-2 victory over the Texas Rangers Monday night.

Johnson doubled and scored on a single by Tony Armas in the first inning. In the second, Texas starter Doc Medich issued walks to Wayne Gross, Jeff Newman and Dwayne Murphy and gave up a run-scoring single to Dave McKay before Johnson's two-run blow gave the A's a 4-0 lead. Texas tallied twice in the bottom of the second on singles by Buddy Bell, Pat Putnam and Jim Sundberg, plus an infield out by Tom Poquette.

Gross added a solo home run, his ninth of the year, in the sixth for Oakland's final run.

Landford, 9-9, walked one and struck out two. Medich, 8-5, gave up eight hits and five runs before he was relieved in the eighth.

Hearns, Leonard Fight Tomorrow

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) All the cards are on the table for one of the biggest games of showdown this town has seen.

Sugar Ray Leonard and Thomas Hearns are set to meet in the biggest money fight ever for the undisputed welterweight championship Wednesday night at Caesars Palace.

The stakes are high and both fighters know it. Hearns, who figures to make about $5 million, says: "Ray has had everything, now I want everything."

And Leonard, who will make at least $8 million and possibly as much as $13 million, lets it be known he intends not only to keep what he has, but add Hearns' World Boxing Association welterweight title to his own World Boxing Council version.

"Those that say I'm not a hungry fighter don't know Sugar Ray Leonard," he says.

Leonard's strategy will be to move laterally and use his speed to try to out-box Hearns. "I'm capable of fighting any way," Leonard said Monday. "Hearns

Royals 4, Angels 3

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) Frank White's two-run homer in the eighth inning capped Kansas City's comeback from a 3-0 deficit and gave the Royals a 4-3 victory over the California Angels Monday night.

Veteran right-hander Bruce Kison, in his first start in over a year, held a 3-1 lead with two outs in the eighth inning.

But a double by U.L. Washington and Willie Wilson's RBI single knocked out Kison and brought on left-hander Andy Hassler, 4-2. White greeted him with the homer over the left-center field fence.

The Angels had taken a 3-0 lead in the first inning on a three-run homer by Don Baylor following a single by Rick Burleson and an error by second baseman White, who couldn't handle George Brett's throw to second when Dan Ford

Women's Soccer Team Growing

by Marc Haspel

"The women's soccer program at Albany is still a very young one. In fact, it was only four years ago that the team first came into existence on the club level. That year the rookie team endured an 0-6 season, and looked more to the future than the present.

Today, four years later, that future has arrived. The team has just been elevated to the varsity level and Albany State women's soccer coach Amy Kidder feels that a promising season lies ahead in 1981.

What really excites Kidder about this team is its depth. The team's deepness comes at a good time since the Danes are trying to fill the void left by the transfer of last season's leading scorer Lynn Burton and the injury to center halfback Lisa France.

Freshmen Sue Slagel and Janine Vosseler have been designated by Kidder to try to fill Burton's wing spot. Both these women lack the quickness of Burton, but, according to Kidder, they each make up for it with very sure skills.

"They can read the game and cause scoring opportunities," Kidder said of the pair.

While France remains sidelined, Karen Bartz and Catherine Russo, also freshmen, will pick up the slack in the midfield. Ironically, even with the injury to France, Kidder believes that the midfield will be the Danes' strongest area. "We're going to be really strong in the midfield," she said.

Defensively the Danes have a lot of experience. In the backfield JoAnn Sheeran is in her third season with the team, while Lori Cohen, Marcella Hain, Lauren Johnson and Lisa Vince each are playing in their second season.

In goal will be the Dane mainstay of the last two seasons senior Laurie Briggs. Here, though, the Danes may be lacking experience because playing behind Briggs is a freshman, Tatiana Chelekian.

Briggs will be one of two co-captains this season. The other is Sue Stern a senior who will be moving from left wing to left midfield, adding that much more depth in the middle.

"She's doing a tremendous job," said Kidder. "Both captains are take charge people."

Kidder will be aided this season by a new assistant, Mari Warner from the University of Maine. Warner feels the key to the load of talent on this year's squad is the prior training the younger players received before joining the Danes. "They've really been trained well, coming in with good field sense," she said. "They work so well together."

"The older kids have respect for new talents coming in and are not scared by it. That's how close this team is," added Kidder.

Kidder describes the schedule as a good one, which includes some top competition in Colgate, Syracuse, Castleton, Rochester, Hartwick and Springfield. But that tough competition does not dampen Kidder's hopes for the upcoming season.

In addition, Kidder is chairing a newly founded Soccer Sports Committee formed under the NYSIAW which has created New York State's first post-season championship for Division III women's soccer. A possible trip to the championship could add incentive this year.

"The State championship is a definite goal which in the past we have not been able to have because of a lack of post-season play," Kidder said.

"We've as good a chance as anybody to be in the State championship. We have to get the act together early," Kidder said.

The Danes open the 1981 season with an away game at Siena on Thursday, then return home Saturday to meet Skidmore.

Bad Breaks

in nine carries from the fullback position.

"I can't get no breaks around here, but bad ones. It was the same exact situation as last year. Same game. Same quarter," said Covington.

The second time he touched the football in his freshman year Covington went down with a broken leg that sidelined him the rest of the season. His bad luck continued into spring practice when the sophomore tailback contracted mononucleosis, depriving him of his first opportunity to show new Coach Dick MacPherson what he can do with the football.

MacPherson was so impressed with Covington's running ability in fall practice that he shifted the 198-pound sophomore to the fullback position to allow his to play in the same backfield with the No. 1 Syracuse rusher, Joe Morris. "Jaime was the second-best running back on the team," MacPherson said. "He loss means quite a bit. We don't have another back like him."

"We're going to miss his versatility," said Syracuse flanker Willie Sydnor. "Jaime added a lot of depth and talent to the offense with his strength and power on inside running and his speed on the outside."

"I really trained hard for this season. I knew what to expect of myself. I felt I could help this team out this year. I was one of the strongest backs we have," said Covington.

Women Netters Very Optimistic

by Michael Dinowitz

Under the leadership of coach Peggy Mann, Albany State's women's tennis is in the midst of preparing for the upcoming season. A feeling of optimism is apparent as the women open the 1981 season on Thursday. With the entire team returning, with the exception of graduate Sue Bard, Mann thinks that 1981 "should be a good season."

Leading the team are co-captains Nancy Light (sr.) and Carrie Solomon (so.). Both have improved greatly and are in the process of playing off for the first singles spot. Solomon was ranked in the Eastern Tennis Association, while Light is in good shape after teaching in tennis camp over the summer. Three other members of the team also worked in the same camp and according to Mann are "really in shape and ready to go."

Returnees include seniors Nancy Levine, Karep O'Conner, Joan Phillips, and Anne Newman. Levine is much improved over the past four years, and will be playing doubles this fall. Phillips will be playing doubles with Nancy Light in the Eastern Collegiate Tennis Tournament which is run by Mann. Karen O'Conner will be playing in the third singles spot. Anne Newman will also be playing singles.

There are eight new members on the team, all of whom will most likely be playing for the junior varsity this fall. But according to Mann "there may be a few surprises." The J.V. squad will be lead by coach Areta Rakoczy. Rakoczy is especially optimistic about the freshman crop. She feels "they have great potential, and with a little experience can be excellent prospects." The varsity women open against Plattsburgh at home on Thursday at 3:00 p.m.

Covington Gets Only Bad Breaks

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) Jaime Covington came to Syracuse University with high expectations of making a name for himself as a running back who can carry a football in the tradition of past Syracuse players like Jim Brown, Floyd Little and Ernie Davis.

But the elusive running back from Queens has never had a real opportunity to show what he can do with the football.

Covington underwent knee surgery Sunday at the Upstate Medical Center and will miss the remainder of the season.

The sophomore running back injured his knee when he was tackled in Saturday's loss at Temple. He left the game after running 48 yards ing the big plays. Saturday was filled with them.

For example: Ithaca's ball, first and four from the four. Two plays later, it's third and as close as you can get without being in the end zone. Twice in a row Ithaca tries the middle and twice in a row they are pushed backwards. In previous years, they probably would have scored.

For example: Third and inches for Albany in their own territory. In past years, Ford would have tried to force the ball up the middle — live and die by the wishbone. Not this year though. Pratt hit soph receiver Bobby Brien on the left side for the first down. He then hit him again on the right. He then hit Mike McGuire in the end zone. Touchdown, Albany. And they did it in the air.

For example: Fourth quarter, Ithaca marching into Dane territory. The momentum is swinging to the Bombers. Quarterback Cory Davies hurls a dart over the middle. Linebacker Ed Eastman, in his first start, lunges to his left and picks it off, preserving the win. In past years, the pass would have been completed, Ithaca would have won, and Albany would have kicked itself all over the place, angry at the one that got

But no. — not in 1981. There will be no 'only if's' this week. Maybe Bob Ford has found the formula he has been searching for to get rid of those deadly 'only if's' this week. Maybe Bob Ford has found the formula he has been searching for to get rid of those deadly 'only if's' for the whole year.

Of course, September is way too early to start talking playoffs. But if things can continue this way, if the Danes can stay healthy, 1981 just may not be another one of those only if type seasons. Yes, 1981 may be quite different.

was held to only two receptions netting a grand total of 15 yards. The speedy end is always a deep threat (career total of 971 yards) but he only threatened to break one big play, but he couldn't hold on. Ed Ragule, Hardy and Collins all contributed greatly to a superb defensive effort.

The big story was the defensive line. Canfield, Matt Brancato, Mike Scully and Jeff Carone put tremendous pressure on Ithaca quarterbacks all afternoon. DeCarr and Davies completed only 12 of 37 pass attempts, the longest for only 17 yards, and threw two interceptions. The big pass rush has long been missing on Albany teams and it made pass defense easier for the secondary with receivers having less time to run their patterns.

U.S. Open Crown Eludes Borg

NEW YORK, N.Y. (AP) — Bjorn Borg's dream of winning the U.S. Open was shattered by John McEnroe and sullied by two death threats.
The Swede, who has captured five Wimbledon titles and six French Open crowns, failed for the 10th time to add America's premier tennis event to his list of laurels. It was the fourth time he has gained the final. Only to lose.
The record will show McEnroe demolished Borg, 4-6, 6-2, 6-4, 6-3 Sunday, giving the left-hander his third consecutive national title—the first man to do that since the legendary Bill Tilden won six straight from 1920-25.

The record book won't mention the two anonymous calls to the National Tennis Center threatening Borg's life. One came Saturday before Borg crushed Jimmy Connors 6-2, 7-5, 6-4. Lennart Bergelin, Borg's coach, was notified, but Borg was not told until the match ended.

Saturday's call was received at the National Tennis Center switchboard just as Borg was capturing the first set against McEnroe.
"The call came at approximately a quarter to five," said Lt. Robert Becker, a police officer who was immediately notified. "It was a male. He said he would kill Borg when he walked on the court."
Becker said no one was informed of the second call until after the men's singles final ended.

After Borg's service return sailed long at match point, the Swede congratulated McEnroe at the net, gave the traditional salute to the umpire and gathered up his rackets and jacket. Surrounded by security personnel and police, Borg skipped the awards ceremony, showered and immediately went to a waiting station wagon.
He refused to answer any questions. Bergelin said: "Everything is OK."

On Monday, Borg canceled several personal appearances he was to make in the New York City area. No reason was immediately given. In other championships decided Sunday, Anne Smith teamed with South Africa's Kevin Curren to capture the mixed doubles, 6-4, 7-6 over JoAnne Russell and Steve Denton. Smith also won the women's doubles with Kathy Jordan, defeating Rosie Casals and Australia's Wendy Turnbull 6-3, 6-3.

On Saturday, Tracy Austin defeated Martina Navratilova for the women's singles, 1-6, 7-6, 7-6. Other champions crowned during the centennial celebration of the United States Tennis Association included McEnroe and Peter Fleming, who took the men's doubles when Reinz Gunthardt of Switzerland and Peter McNamara of Australia defaulted.

seven-yard scoring pass. Tom Lincoln mishit the extra point try, but somehow the ball sneaked through the uprights for a 7-0 Albany halftime lead.

The Danes carried their momentum into the second half when they marched 66 yards in 13 plays to the Ithaca 14 yard line. Pratt seemed more confident directing the wishbone, using running backs Priore, Dunham and Jay Ennis as well as three keepers to pick up five first downs. Lincoln came in on fourth-and-twelve and connected on a 32-yard field goal that hit the crossbar and barely wobbled through.

Albany had another chance to add to their 10-0 lead early in the fourth quarter, set up by a 73-yard punt by Hardy that pinned Ithaca on their own one yardline. The Bombers had to punt from their own end zone and Frank Quinn returned the 30-yard kick to Ithaca's 18. This time Ithaca's defense held the Danes and Lincoln's 32-yard field goal attempt was wide to the right.

The Bombers' defensive success seemed to inspire them and when Duncan returned a Hardy punt 36 yards to the Dane 26 with 10:20 left in the game second string quarterback Cory Davies was there to capitalize on it. On third-and-ten the junior signalcaller hit Greg Gatz on the right sideline for a 12-yard gain. Kevin Didio dove in for the touchdown to bring the Bombers to within three points.

Momentum had shifted to Ithaca. On the Danes' first play linebacker Bill Rosecrans stopped Pratt for a one-yard loss. Bob Nearing rushed for five yards, but Albany was faced with a third down and what seemed like a very long six yards on their own 23 yard line. Then came the play of the game.

Pratt dropped back and threw a perfect 38-yard strike to Brian streaking down the right sideline just beyond the grasp of cornerback John Kelleher. Momentum swung back to Albany as the Homecoming crowd of 4300 fell silent. Eight plays later Pratt delivered a perfect seven-yard play action pass to McGuire all alone in the left corner of the end zone with 3:53 remaining in the game. Lincoln's kick was good, 17-7 Albany.

Ithaca had one last chance to close the gap, and advanced as far as the Albany 39 yard line, but Dane linebacker Ed Eastman intercepted a Davies pass to seal the victory.

"If we hadn't gotten that first down I think we might have lost the game," admitted Ford, who sends the plays in from the sideline.

"That was it," agreed Butterfield. "Right there we really had momentum going up until that point."

"It was gutsy play calling," said Pratt.

"It wasn't a great call — it was a great throw and a great catch," Ford said.

Butterfield, a man not used to losing (93-42-1 lifetime record at Ithaca) had no excuses after the game.

"They outplayed us," he said. "They handled our offensive frontage with ease — we were manhandled in the frontage. It wasn't even a contest up front."

"I expect a threat from Albany every year. When they run the wishbone they are a threat against everyone," Butterfield continued. "Our defense gave them a lot of time — you can't give a wishbone time."

Despite the Danes' shaky offensive start they showed many positive signs for the upcoming year.

"We had the first game jitters for awhile. We just had to get settled and play our kind of football," noted Pratt, who turned in a very promising performance in his first start at quarterback.

Pratt was the Danes' leading rusher with 80 yards and he passed for another 118 yards. He displayed a strong and accurate passing arm — something that was missing in last year's 5-5 campaign — which gives Albany the added dimension of the deep threat.

Brien, a sophomore, at split end adds to that threat as one of the fastest players on the squad. He teamed up with Pratt on four receptions on Saturday, netting 86 yards.

"I think he (Brien) is going to be the greatest split end we've ever had. He's a great athlete," said Ford.

Another highlight was the performance of Albany's defensive secondary. A question mark in the preseason, with only Bruce Collins expected to return from last year's squad, the secondary held Ithaca's receiving corps in check. Duncan, Ithaca's record shattering receiver,

Men Booters Beat Siena 4-0 in Season Debut

by Marc Haspel

Led by the exciting combination of Afrim Nezaj and the sure-footed Gerry Isaacs, the Albany State varsity soccer team easily handled Siena Monday afternoon to open its 1981 season with a 4-0 victory.

"It's a good opener, a fine opener. It's good to win," said Albany State soccer head coach Bill Schieffelin. "Nezaj-Isaacs is about as good a combination as you'll see in Division III."

It was that pair which accounted for all four of the Dane goals. Albany jumped out early in the first half when Nezaj put the ball by Indian goal-keeper Mark Eliseo on the right side at 5:15.

Twenty minutes later, Nezaj headed the ball in on a beautiful play set up by Isaacs on a direct free kick. "Isaacs to Afrim was a super play, a dynamite play," said Schieffelin.

The Danes made it 3-0 just before the end of the first half, when Isaacs, who was penetrating the opposing defense with ease, netted the rebound of his own blistering kick.

"I was doing a lot of running. The defense was not marking me, giving me a lot of space," said the Dane sophomore, who was assisted by John Isselhard with a great feed on the third goal. "There was good movement up front."

Albany only scored once in the second half despite some excellent opportunities. The one goal came as Nezaj used some fancy footwork and then sent a low ground shot in on goal. The ball rolled through the back of the net, delaying the referee's signal. But Eliseo of Siena motioned to the official that the shot was indeed a goal.

Nezaj was awarded a penalty shot midway through the half after being pulled down in front of the Siena net. His attempt was saved by Eliseo who went down to the ground to cover the shot.

Though he was hardly tested, Dane keeper Billy Steffen played a fine game, preserving the shutout. "He quarterbacked the defense," said Schieffelin.

Schieffelin also had to be very pleased with the play of Henry Peterson. Peterson, a freshman, played very well in his first game as a Dane, handling the ball with great poise against the chippy Siena squad.

Siena head coach Jimmy Djernes had only respect for the Dane booters. "They're a strong team. They're fast and quick with the ball," he said.

If anything, Albany's first victory of the season was too easy, Siena is not the same calibre as the Danes. The lack of tough competition frustrated some players as they found themselves open often without the ball. Isaacs echoed that sentiment, "A lot of time, I got frustrated because I was open and I didn't get the ball."

After only one game, the Dane coach does not know how good his team can be. "We really don't know what we're made of, we will find out soon."

Yes they will as the Danes take on Oswego Wednesday afternoon and Oneonta at home on Saturday. "It's one of 16 games," Schieffelin said of the Siena victory, "but we've got fifteen more to go and they don't get any easier."

Booters Eye Success If New and Old Players Gel

Last season the Albany State men's varsity soccer team fell just shy of making the NCAA playoffs. The NCAA chose four qualifying teams in New York leaving the Danes behind. This season the Danes under the direction of head coach Bill Schieffelin figure to be back in the thick of playoff competition as they return several seasoned veterans and a lot of good young talent.

Returning for Albany this year are, in the eyes of Schieffelin, three All-American candidates in Afrim Nezaj, Gerry Isaacs and Alex Pagano. Nezaj will roam the midfield for the Danes, Isaacs will be up front and Pagano will be at fullback. Pagano returns after sitting out last season. Isaacs is an explosive forward with excellent skills and Nezaj, a senior, plays with great intensity and has emerged as a commanding team leader.

According to Nezaj, the Danes are peaking up where they left off last season — near the top. "Right now we're ranked fifth. They took the first four and we were fifth. We almost made it to the nationals. So we're there, ranked fifth," said the Danes' center halfback.

Billy Steffen, who played so well last season filling the shoes of the injured Alberto Giordano (now playing professionally for the New York Eagles) is getting the call as first string goal keeper this season. Steffen has looked sharp in preseason, leaving little doubt as to his ability to guard the net for Albany. However, unlike last year, Giordano's graduation leaves the Danes with only one proven keeper.

The Danes seem to be very strong in the middle. Joining Nezaj will be Dorian Fanfair, an exciting freshman, Jorge I-raro, Bob Garrett and Rich Andrews.

The defense is particularly strong this season — unlike last year when it was Schieffelin's greatest concern. Besides the talented Pagano, in the backfield will be John Markes, who played excellent defense last season, Eddie Monsolve, who can play both halfback and fullback, David Tenace, Bob Bueciferro and Guy Romain.

With the great turnover of players each season, each year there is a new question mark. Last year's was the defense, which gelled admirably because of the strong play of Keith Falconer and Luis Arango. This year's is the wing position. The Danes lost a fine shooter in Leslie Severe who transferred after last season, leaving the wing situation wide open.

However, Schieffelin is very excited about the play of 6-2 Werver Kempf, an exchange student from Germany who will be playing with the Danes this year. "He's (Kempf) excellent. He could be really good," said assistant coach Chris Waterbury.

Kempf may be able to help out on wing along with sophomore Garfield Williams and John Isselhard, freshmen Scott Cohen, Henry Peterson and the scrappy, hustling, very physical Luis Morales.

Though the Danes seem to have good team depth, it is still a very young team — over half the players are either freshmen or sophomores.

"We're predominantly freshmen and sophomores so we have to gel too," said Schieffelin. "We'll have to take one game at a time. The important thing is to play good soccer."

Questions Arise As Dane Netmen Get Ready

by Michael Carmen

The men's tennis team is preparing for the upcoming season with very few changes in personnel. No one has graduated, and only Andy Diamond, who is preparing for his law boards, is not returning.

Despite a year more experience, coach Bob Lewis is apprehensive about the approaching season. "The team is not sharp and I'm disappointed with their games. I feel they should have played more this summer," evaluated Lewis.

This afternoon the Danes will open the tennis season with a match against the University of Vermont. Returning as the number one seed for Albany is Barry Levine. Moving up from the fourth spot is Dave Ulrich who beat both Fred Gaber and Rob Karen in challenge matches to achieve his number two standing. Gaber, who was seeded at one and two at various times throughout last season, is now in the third position.

Karen, who is only a sophomore, will compete in the fourth position and Russ Kasow and Dave Lerner will play in the fifth and sixth spot, respectively.

"Ulrich and Kasow look as if they are the most improved on the team and the experience we have gained should be helpful," added Lewis.

Insecurity about the approaching season was also expressed by the Dane players, despite sending two players (Gaber and Levine) to the NCAA championship last spring.

The squad's main goal is to defend their SUNYAC championship. Binghamton is their main rival, having beaten them twice by one match in their last two encounters.

"In the fall season we expect threats to be posed by the University of Vermont, Oneonta and the University of Massachusetts," expressed Lewis.

The coach did add that the team has been working hard and expects them to be prepared when Albany hosts the Great Dane Tennis Classic on September 25 and 26.

Danes Stun Ithaca in Opener 17-7

Big Plays, Tough Defense Ignites Fired Up Albany

by Larry Kahn
ITHACA — Incredible. That's the only way to describe Albany State's stunning 17-7 upset victory over Division III power Ithaca College at Ithaca's South Hill Field on Saturday. Last year the Bombers finished second in the nation in Division III football after copping the national crown in 1979.

But on Saturday Albany was king of the hill. Combining a tenacious defense, led by tackle Jim Canfield and linebacker Bob Cohen, a balanced offensive attack, and a knack for coming up with the big play, the 1981 Danes became only the second Division III team in four years to beat Ithaca in the regular season. The other was also Albany, back in 1978.

"It's great to beat Ithaca," said Albany Head Football Coach Bob Ford. "I felt we were going to give them a hell of a ballgame. The question was whether we were going to blow the thing offensively ourselves."

The Albany offense was suspect in the first quarter, turning the ball over twice in their own territory, but Ithaca could not capitalize. The Bombers had excellent field position on their first five possessions, but the Dane defense turned them back with tremendous ferocity.

The Albany offense passed their first big test when on their first possession they were faced with a fourth-and-one situation on their own 24 yard line. Ford elected to go for the first down and junior quarterback Tom Pratt dove over center for the yard. However, four plays later Ithaca linebacker Dan LaNoir picked off a Pratt pass on the 50 yard line.

Ithaca couldn't move the ball, though, and also wasted a 45 yard punt return by speedster Jim Duncan on their next series of downs as Albany's defense played with great intensity. But the big defensive play of the game came at the start of the second quarter. Pratt fumbled and Ithaca recovered on the Albany 32 yard line to give them another golden opportunity. The Bombers began to drive. Running back Gerry Cooper burst through the middle for gains of eight, five and 14 yards to give Ithaca a first-and-goal on the Albany four yard line.

Then the Danes dug in. Cooper picked up three yards up the middle in three tries, bringing up a critical fourth-and-goal situation on the one. Ithaca Head Coach Jim Butterfield elected to send sophomore runningback Mike Moreau straight up the middle, but the 5-9, 196 pound fireplug was stopped cold.

"That did a lot for our defensive unit," noted Ford. "They were pumped."

Canfield, a sophomore transfer from C.W. Post who was exceptional at defensive tackle all day long, was a critical figure in the goal line stand.

"He's awesome. He's going to be a great Division III football player," Ford said.

"Everyone on the team was so emotional," Canfield noted. "The linebackers, everybody, played super."

It appeared that the two teams would go into the lockerroom knotted in a scoreless tie when with just over two minutes remaining in the half Dane defensive back Dave Hardy intercepted quarterback

Doug DeCarr's pass and returned it 25 yards to the Ithaca 38 yard line. A clipping penalty brought the ball back to Albany's 32, but then Pratt came alive as the Danes worked their two minute drill to perfection.

Fullback Chuck Priore ran for three yards up the middle and John Dunham went around end for six more, leaving a third-and-inches situation. Pratt caught the Ithaca defense off guard as he found split end Bob Brien 23 yards downfield along the left sideline for his second of four receptions on the day. A facemasking penalty tacked on 15 more yards, giving Albany a first down on the Ithaca 20 with 0:51 left in the half.

Pratt again found Brien open, this time on the right sideline for a 13 yard pickup. Finally, with 28 seconds on the clock, Pratt connected with tight end Mike McGuire cutting across the end zone with a

This May Not Be Another Year of Only Ifs

by Bob Bellafiore
ITHACA—I know the season is only one game old, but sitting up in the booth at Saturday's 17-7 Great Dane victory over national finalist Ithaca, the feelings only became stronger and stronger. They told me that this year's Albany football team, the 1981 version of Bob Ford's purple gang, may just be a little different — check that — a lot different than those teams of the past few years.

SPORTS ANALYSIS

For the last four years, Albany has suffered from terminal "the one that got away" syndrome. No matter how talent-laden those teams may have been, something always got in the way. Something freakish always happened that put a massive hitch in Albany's season. For example:

1977 — Albany marches to the NCAA semi-final game. They are in the final four of Division III football. They possess a punishing defense and an explosive offense that is among the national leaders in yardage gained. But in that last step on their way to the championship game, three of the four players that comprised the machine of a backfield that was the Albany wishbone were injured. The Danes lost, thinking of what could have been.

Only if....

1978 — After an opening loss to Division II King's Point, the Danes efficiently disposed of almost everyone on their schedule. Ithaca came to Bleeker Stadium and ABC television decided to bring their cameras. Regional coverage for a game that the NCAA selection committee had to be watching closely. Ford had to pull out all the proverbial stops for that one. Dario Arango, the goalie for the Albany soccer team, was recruited, just for some insurance. The Danes won, 9-6. Arango booted a 45-yarder for the win. Albany was thinking playoffs.

But then came the "almost" as in "almost everyone." The killer. On a snowy and mucky Rotary Field in Buffalo, the Danes were upset, 15-8, by a University of Buffalo team that wished it was good enough to be an also-ran. Ithaca, with only one blemish on their record, went to the playoffs instead of Albany, which had two.

Only if....

1979 — Like in 1977, Albany had a crushing defense, a steamroller offense, and a quarterback that had TNT — as in explosive — in his system. Undeclared in six games and ranked in the top five nationally, the Danes went to Ithaca. A week earlier the Danes engineered what was one of their most thrilling comebacks in Albany history against a pack of bruisers from Norwich. Albany has momentum. But the battered and limping Danes fell behind very quickly and could only muster up six points. Ithaca on the other hand, had 46. Norwich may have lost their game to Albany, but they inflicted such a physical beating on the Danes that one measly week was not enough to recover. That may have been Albany's year, but so many key players were hurt.

Only if....

1980 — Well, that was the year that got away. Ford knew what he had to do to win, but maybe he just did not have the tools. There were flashes, though, like a great win over the behemoths from Central Florida in the Tangerine Bowl and the offensive displays that made up the middle of the season. But basically, last season was a year to learn what not to do to be a winner.

Now it appears as if Bob Ford has everything he needs. The team is young, maybe inexperienced, but definitely talented. The defense is as good as any the Danes have fielded and the offense is exciting — yes, exciting. Tom Pratt seems to have matured at quarterback. Saturday, he ran the wishbone to near perfection and he gives Albany something they have lacked in the past — a throwing arm. The Danes are making
