Schlossberg Named Chairman Of Metropolitan Conference; Galpin Addresses Delegates

Irwin Schlossberg was elected chairman of the Metropolitan Conference of the Civil Service Employees Association when the Conference held its election meeting recently at Pilgrim State Hospital.

He succeeds A. J. Coccaro, of Kings Park State Hospital. Mr. Schlossberg is employed in the State Insurance Fund.

Other officers elected were Salvatore Butero, first vice chairman; Solomon Bendet, second vice chairman, and Kenneth A. Valentine, treasurer.

The post of secretary is undecided at the moment.

Galpin Speaks

Chief speaker for the event was Henry Galpin, CSEA salary research analyst.

Mr. Galpin reviewed the salary push of the Association for 1958 and stated that although the "political climate" was not favorable for pay increases this year, next year appears "to hold promise."

Many employees have not had a salary raise in two years, Mr. Galpin said, and he declared that "many serious inequities exist."

Particularly pressing are the appeals of clerical personnel, the Association official said, and these are being pushed with the Director of Classification and Compensation.

Conference Business

Following Mr. Galpin's talk, discussion was held on the possibility of urging a special session of the Legislature to reconsider action on salary increases for State employees.

Acting upon a motion of Mr. Bendet's, the Conference approved a resolution calling on the

Also approved was a motion calling for a CSEA committee to meet with the State to study the variable annuity plan recently proposed for consideration by Comptroller Arthur J. Levitt. Mr. Schlossberg then asked for the Conference to form a committee of its own to study the plan and this was given approval, too.

Jones Beach Meeting

The annual Jones Beach outing of the Conference will be June 28, at which new officers will be installed during a luncheon meeting.

Mr. Schlossberg pointed out that the outing offered most of the facilities of the beach.

The Conference voted to pay special tribute to Mr. Coccaro for his work with the Conference and to Edith Fruchthendler be honored for her outstanding service. Both were voted honorary members and delegates to the Conference.

Hours Cut First Step In Solving Basic Problems Of Troopers, Says CSEA

ALBANY, May 26 — As the first step toward solving the multiple problems existing in the State Police set-up the Civil Service Employees Association has asked that troopers be given a reduction in work hours as soon as possible.

Association officials met with a high level Administration group May 19 and proposed that the hours for troopers serving in the field be cut from the present average of 109 hours per week to a maximum, for the present, of between 60 and 70 hours. Several methods for accomplishing this were outlined by the Association.

A second meeting on State Police problems scheduled for last Friday was postponed until early this week.

Hours Cut Rumored

Following the meeting between Association and Administration officials, Albany newspapers reported Gov. Averell Harriman would order a slash in hours "within two weeks."

The news story said that the Governor, attending a meeting in Florida, was sufficiently concerned about the trooper situation to confer with his aides by telephone and that he came to the conclusion that such a work reduction was necessary at once.

It was reported that the cut would apply to standby or reserve duty hours at barracks.

Administration officials later denied that any such action was contemplated immediately.

News sources insisted, however, that the Governor would cut trooper hours for the time being, followed by a legislative program to cope with this and other State Police problems to be presented to the Legislature next year.

Fight for 40-hour Week

Following the first meeting on trooper problems John F. Powers, CSEA president, announced that the Association's goal for State Police would continue to be a 40-hour week.

In commenting on the work hours proposals of the Association Mr. Powers said "We emphasize that the present proposals are necessarily limited, as we realize that the full 40-hour week, which is one of the prime factors in our program for State Police, cannot be accomplished without the necessary legislation and appropriations."

"However," Mr. Powers continued "regardless of the outcome of the present negotiations we want to definitely state that the Association will continue to press for a 40-hour week for State troopers."

Present at the May 19 meeting with Mr. Powers were Joseph Lochner, CSEA executive director; Henry Galpin, CSEA salary research analyst, and John J. Kelly, Jr., counsel.

Representing the Administration were Clark Ahlberg, Director of the Budget; William J. Murray, Administrative Director of the State Civil Service Department; Superintendent Francis McGarvey and Deputy Superintendent George M. Searle, of the State Police, and Howard Miller, Deputy Budget Director.

Wives Meet Again

Members of the Policemen's Benevolent Association met with this same Administration group May 22.

Several wives of troopers again held a public meeting in Albany to protest the working conditions of their husbands.

Health Report Condemns Capitol Eating Facilities

ALBANY, May 26 — Plans to remodel and expand the restaurant for state workers in the State Capitol have brought to light a Health Department inspection report condemning present facilities.

The inspection, made last year, found numerous violations of the sanitary code and concluded:

"The kitchen space is entirely inadequate. The equipment is badly arranged leading to gross inefficiency."

State officials plan to remodel the restaurant kitchen, installing new refrigeration equipment and expanding dining facilities. Estimated cost is $84,000.

Among the comments made by the Health Department inspector are these:

1. Improper lavatory facilities for employees.
2. Cooking utensils antiquated and over-worn.
3. Inadequate cleaning of dishes, trays and equipment.
4. Lack of storage space.
5. Insufficient refrigeration.
6. Generally insufficient operating space.

BREGARD WINS SYRACUSE AWARD

Letter from Europe

By VIRGINIA LEATHAM

(The Civil Service Employees Association, for the first time, has sponsored a low-cost tour of Europe for its members. The Leader has asked one of the tour members—Miss Virginia Leatham, of Troy—to give us her impressions along the way and let us know how the trip is going. Here is another of her letters, written to the folks back home. The Editor.)

Our first glimpse of Holland was at 5:30 in the morning from the deck of the steamer, "Duke of York," which had brought us across the North Sea from England to the Hook of Holland. Another bright and sunny day. Too good to be true.

Waiting to greet us on the pier were our bus driver, Louis, and our guide, Teddy. This same driver and very comfortable coach will stay with us for the next eight days, which will be nice. This guide, however, will be with us only while we are in Holland. In each other place along the way, we meet a new English-speaking guide to show us around.

Land of Flowers

The thought of having to get up so early wasn't pleasant, but the next morning we were glad we did. Seeing the countryside of Holland in the early morning sunshine was ideal. Such lovely little houses with windows all around and so clean. Everything is scrubbed looking. We drove through the hot house section where the people grow grapes. It is the largest concentrated area of hot houses in the world. Then, the flower beds! Anyone who hasn't seen the miles and miles of tulip, jonquil, and hyacinth beds would never believe there could be anything so breathtaking. Their beauty brought "oh's" and "ah's" from all of us as we passed them. Add the lingering fragrance of hyacinth to all this technicolor and imagine how it made us feel.

We reached The Hague about 7:30 A.M. and went to the Park Hotel for breakfast. The menu was different from our American breakfasts and those we had in England, but everyone seemed to enjoy it. It consisted of sliced cheese and smoked pork (looked like raw bacon) and a variety of breads with sweet butter and jam. The coffee was the first good coffee we had in Europe, and it will probably be the last. Bless those few gals who thought to pack some good old American instant coffee.

When we entered The Hague it was so early that the streets were deserted and the city was quiet. What a shock when we came out from breakfast and the people were starting out for work. Bicycles came streaming out of every street in endless procession. There were a few cars, those little ones, but very few of them. Everyone rides a bike.

Crossing the street on foot was a major operation. No traffic signals—just dodging.

Dressed Up Day

On our way to visit the Peace Palace of The Hague, our coach driver took us through the narrow streets, to get a look at the city. It is pretty ordinarily, but it was especially "dressed up" today. Flags and banners, all very colorful, were flying from every window. They had been put up the day before in honor of the Queen's birthday, and were left out for that day which was May 1, Labor Day for the Socialists.

The Peace Palace, the seat of the International Court of Justice, was built largely with money donated by Andrew Carnegie in 1913. Each country belonging to the League of Nations contributed some permanent fixture of decoration to the building.

From outside, it is impressive, as any large and graceful structure can be, but on the inside it is magnificent. One of the beautiful features inside the building is the handcarved oak used in the ceilings—a gift from the United States. It would take hours and pages to describe each room—one more beautiful than the next—so I shall not attempt it. It is something worth seeing and we were all very glad we made the visit.

After leaving The Hague, we drove through the fashionable seaside resort of Scheveningen, which is just getting ready for vacation season. A lovely spot, a little like our New Jersey resorts. Then we continued through the villages of Holland, constantly admiring the generally clean look of them and the flower beds.

The Bike's The Thing

When we reached Amsterdam we saw more decorations and some different ones. In the squares of the city all the trees were decorated with lights—the color of an orange, but larger in size. They were strung like Christmas tree lights and made the trees look like orange trees. The House of Orange certainly was responsible for the selection of this color.

The City of Amsterdam is really a series of islands separated by a network of canals. The buildings are constructed on piles driven into the soft foundation. Because of the many canals and a housing shortage, many people live in houseboats on the canals. Further incentive for living on houseboats is the fact that people do not have to pay taxes on them.

We thought The Hague had bicycles, Amsterdam was worse. In the city there are 900,000 inhabitants; there are also 450,000 bikes. You would have to see it to believe it. Cars, buses, trolleys, and bicycles (mostly bicycles) all rolling along through the center of the city. Outside the city there are special bicycle lanes to the side of the road. The people are expert bicycle riders, too. We even saw a young man and his girl friend riding along on separate bikes holding hands.

Travelling by bike is easier in Holland because it is so flat. There are no hills at all except the man-made dykes which keep the sea away from the lowlands. Most of Holland is equal to or below sea level. Just imagine pumping one of those bikes up Capitol Hill in Albany!

Diamonds But No Samples

We checked in at Hotel Fleissig, had lunch there, and then went on a visit to a diamond manufacturing plant. It was very educational and interesting to see the many steps and the great skill necessary to saw a diamond, shape it, and polish it. No samples were given out, but we did see some lovely stones.

After a short visit to the Ryks Museum, which houses a large number of Rembrandts, and an hour or so for shopping, we called it a day.

In the evening we went to the highly recommended and well-known restaurant, "The Five Flies," in Amsterdam. We had dinner in one of the small dining rooms which comprise the restaurant. The atmosphere is quaint and the food is very good—so is the wine. It is a rustic type of place—open fireplaces—wooden tables and open kitchens. Decorations are copper pots, fancy antique glassware, and wine kegs. Very different, and we enjoyed it.

It is breakfast time Friday now and we are just about ready to be on our way. Simon is counting the sheep to see that we are all here.

D.A.'s MAN SUES TO FORCE PATROLMAN APPOINTMENT

A lawsuit was instituted in Kings County Supreme Court by Thomas A. DeRiso for appointment as a patrolman (P.D.).

For the past 10 years, Mr. DeRiso has been under contract to supply automobile service to District Attorney Edward Silver of Kings County and the members of his staff. On call 24 hours a day, Mr. DeRiso drives the District Attorney and members of his staff to scenes of crime.

An honorably discharged veteran, Mr. DeRiso was investigated by the D.A.'s office, because the services rendered by him give rise to a confidential relationship. In support of his application, District Attorney Silver submitted a certificate stating: "As a result of this contact he has become familiar with the procedures followed by this office and with police procedures and practices."

Despite the recommendation of the D.A., the Police Commissioner has refused to appoint Mr. DeRiso.

Represented by Attorney Samuel Resnicoff, Mr. DeRiso claims that the Police Commissioner's refusal is arbitrary and discriminatory.

Children in H.I.P. get an average of fifteen services from their medical group physicians during the first year of life.

The pediatrician is one of the specialists in each of the thirty-two H.I.P. medical groups which provide comprehensive prepaid medical, surgical, maternity, pediatric and other specialist care for 535,000 New Yorkers.

NYC Fireman Exam Requirements Are Now Being Weighed

The fireman (F.D.) examination, tentatively scheduled to open in September, promises to be the most popular New York City one of the year.

Prominent among listed advantages is the retirement plan for firemen, which, like the police pension plan, is the most liberal in the City government. The City pays 75 percent of the cost, the employee 25, contrasted to the approximately 50-50 ratio for other City employees. Also firemen, like policemen, may retire on half pay after 20 years. A man entering the department at 21 could retire at 41.

For each year that a fireman works over the 20, he receives an additional $50 a year for up to 10 years of such continuance, thus half-pay plus $500 a year becomes possible. Now that firemen have been made eligible for Social Security it is possible, if one is 65, to retire at half-pay, plus $500 a year and Social Security. The compulsory retirement age will be 65 under the Fire Pension Fund, but no man will be forced to retire for age until he is eligible for Social Security.

Promotion Opportunities

There are 27 Fire Department titles in the present budget and the same number in the new budget that goes into effect June 1. Firemen are eligible for promotion to lieutenant, and thereafter the employee can rise to captain, battalion chief, deputy chief, and chief of department. A lesser line of promotion is open to marine engineer (uniformed) and chief marine engineer.

The last fireman list was established January 22, 1957, with 3,375 names, and 1,100 men were appointed last year. The last number appointed was 1,854. However, no appointments have been made since January 1, 1958.

Quota Increased

The City budget allows a total quota of 10,088 firemen for the fiscal year beginning July 1, a rise of 60. Also, retirements are increasing, and producing more vacancies.

Starting pay for the post is $82.40 with a $100 uniform allowance. After three years pay becomes $108 a week.

What Price Bargaining?

ALTHOUGH the "Little Wagner Act" has been the law in New York City for nearly two months, it can not be said to be in operation, as some features of it have proved obnoxious to important unions.

The chief provision in Mayor Robert F. Wagner's executive order that constituted the new law is the one establishing the opportunity for exclusive collective bargaining. Even the objectors do not object to the principle of such bargaining, for they are part of international unions committed to that principle. The objection lies in the method, including authority vested in the Labor Commissioner to decide at will in which groups the competition for exclusive bargaining is to be permitted, under either secret ballot vote, or, if that's rendered unnecessary by circumstances, then by tally of checkoff rolls, or, lacking checkoff, by a count of membership cards.

Field Day for Small Groups

If small groups, one after another, are to be allowed to hold elections to determine the majority entitled to exclusive collective bargaining, then a large number of splinter groups could mushroom in the City government. That would hardly be in the spirit of the Wagner Labor Relations Act on which the interim order is founded, and thus the Mayor hardly would be following the precepts established in the industrial law that his late father sponsored in the U. S. Senate.

The purpose of a Little Wagner Act for New York City is to end confusion, not create more of it.

The Labor Commissioner should call a joint meeting with representatives of labor unions and other organizations, with a view toward establishing substantive rules and regulations. The present ones are only procedural.

The main reason for objection is self-preservation. It is one thing to favor a principle and another to permit the principle to be applied in a way that threatens the very existence of a union. The Labor Commissioner could put selected unions out of business under the present provisions, not that he has any such intention of course. A plethora of splinter groups could make the remedy worse than the ailment. One purpose of the Little Wagner Act is to eliminate all the wear and tear and futility of dealing with large numbers of organizations on a single issue.

Can't Sidestep Ramifications

There are ramifications that have to be discussed frankly. The benefits to accrue to City employees are supposed to put them on a footing substantially equal to that of workers in private industry, but in private industry the employees have the right to strike, while the right to strike is forbidden not only to employees of the State and its communities, but also to Federal employees.

The State law that forbids strikes is the Condon-Wadlin Act. Governor Harriman, when running for office, spoke in favor of its repeal, but the law is still on the books. Even conservative independent organizations feel that it should be repealed, so that employee groups that have any compunction against such strikes could express it in their constitutions. Such a provision, for instance, is in the constitution of the Civil Service Employees Association.

Must Suit Existing Conditions

The application of labor relations remedies must be tailored to conditions. In New York City, for instance, it is impossible for any one employee group to have city-wide exclusive bargaining rights, outside the ranks of

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

TIME-AND-A-HALF RATES

Editor, The Leader:

H. J. Bernard in his "Looking Inside" column in the May 6 issue of The Leader, discussed the remarks which I was privileged to make at the spring workshop jointly conducted by the Metropolitan and Southern Conferences of the Civil Service Employees Association.

He quoted me correctly as having said that "premium pay for extra work is an accepted employment condition in private employment . . . (and) there is no reason why this should not apply to public service." He then goes on to write that "the speaker (Mr. Lefkowitz) mentioned premium rates, but did not define them. But, well informed as he is, and strong advocate of government matching industry, he must have had in mind time-and-a-half rates."

Not only did I have in mind time-and-a-half rates but I so stated.

LOUIS J. LEFKOWITZ
Attorney General,
State of New York.

TAX EXAMINERS THANK HARRIMAN FOR VETO

Editor, The Leader,

Governor Harriman's statement disapproving of Senate 605, which would have amended the law in relation to the public practice of accounting, is a gem. It indicates the thought and consideration that the Governor gave to this matter. It is an evidence of real statesmanship.

Laws should be enacted in the spirit of democracy and in the atmosphere of reason. Important legislation should not be rushed through in the closing hours of a session.

TOM CORNEILSON,
President,
Society of New York State
Income Tax Examiners

IDEA THAT BROUGHT AWARD OF $10,000 SHOWN IN MOVIES

W. L. Stuart, manager of the suggestions awards plan of the American Can Company, addressed the Federal Incentive Awards Association of Metropolitan New York in the General Services Administration auditorium. Mr. Stuart who is president of the New York City chapter of the National Association of Suggestion Systems, also showed a film based on a $10,000 suggestion award.

the uniformed forces. In those forces exclusiveness already exists, although the groups would like official sanction, particularly in the hope that backward policies would give way to enlightened ones, for instance, a grievance procedure in the Police Department, and grievance procedures as a matter of right instead of as a matter of indulgence in the Fire Department. The problem therefore lies outside the uniformed forces in which the organizations have nearly 100 percent of the employees as members, nor would the problem exist in the State government, where the membership of the Civil Service Employees Association, 80,000, practically saturates the State rolls.

In New York City the new labor relations program should not be permitted to remain in a state of suspended animation. The City Administration can not expect that unions will unanimously favor the plan as it now stands, though a few of them have approved it.

Whose Ox Is Gored

The State Constitution would have to be amended, if continuance in a public job is to depend on becoming a member of a union that wins exclusive bargaining, but if we are to have collective bargaining it must be on a practical, sensible and equal basis, and not on a merely theoretical basis.

LOOKING INSIDE

By H. J. BERNARD
Contributing Editor

The Emphasis Should Be on the Exam Itself

MINIMUM REQUIREMENTS, to permit one to compete in an examination for a public job, often seem stringent. Civil Service Commissions do their utmost to recruit the most capable, but it is questionable that stiff minimum requirements serve the good cause as well as administrators imagine.

After all, stiffness of minimum requirements is a term of exclusion. In a sense many prospective candidates "fail" an examination because rejected entirely from the competition. This tends partly to substitute the minimum requirements for the examination itself. It might be better to establish more liberal rules of admission of candidates and put almost exclusive emphasis on the results of a wider-gauged examination.

Stiff minimum requirements disappoint many thousands of prospective candidates each year, many of whom, I suppose, otherwise would pass the test.

Room for Improvement

In certain fields the nature of the position dictates the minimum requirements, to an extent, especially for professional positions like those in medicine, law, psychiatry and psychology, but in most instances in which onerous terms are imposed, the necessity is not so apparent.

There is considerable room for improvement of examining techniques which, if more searching, and of still greater validity, would give civil service commissions more confidence in the test itself and tend to liberalize the minimum requirements.

They're Pretty Much Alike

Minimum requirements are at a practically standard level in all jurisdictions, probably because a good deal of copying goes on. The result is a reduction in the number of candidates even in fields in which government finds recruitment difficult. Government may pride itself that its minimum requirements are higher than those of private industry, but that doesn't mean that private industry gets only the washouts of government, especially as industry has prompt flexibility for meeting or even exceeding pay standards while government in general is both more reluctant and slower to come up to par.

The minimum requirements thus tend to undermine their real purpose, and become a routine of a developed pattern. Experience requirements for Federal jobs will certainly call for "progressively responsible" experience; a responsible employee of a "one man office," may be a genius but is given no opportunity to prove it, while some hack who happened to get a job, however small, in a large business, benefits.

Swamped by Detail Work

Civil service commissions must see that a vast amount of clerical detail work is promptly and accurately performed. Besides, they have advisory duties relating to pay, hours, and working conditions, and must conduct many a hearing on proposed amendments to rules, on disqualification cases, and in appeals cases. No wonder all commissions don't have time to improve the examining techniques to the extent that they would prefer. Yet a test can appraise whether a candidate is conscientious, has initiative and resourcefulness, and a sense of devotion to duty, factors hardly considered worthy of even experimental attention in nearly all examinations, although the U. S. Civil Service Commission's bureau devoted to improving examining techniques has made some worthwhile improvements.

Much more can actually be tested than is being tested now.

Panel Discusses Aid to Epileptics

New hope for persons with epilepsy was the theme of a panel session of the Brooklyn chapter of the United Epilepsy Association at the St. George Hotel in Brooklyn, May 22. The meeting was sponsored jointly by the New York City Department of Health and the Nurses Association of the Counties of Long Island. Dr. Sidney Carter, epileptologist, was general chairman.

The meeting consisted of a panel discussion with each speaker telling of "new hope" as he or she saw it from a specialized point of view. Advances in treatment and research, as well as in public understanding, were discussed.

GOOD EATING DEPT.

Long ago, at PETIT PARIS, we departmentalized our restaurant. Like government itself we realized we could hardly hope to supply the best in quality and service without employing specialists and dividing our operation into sections best fitted to perform their special duties. Top of the list is our GOOD EATING DEPT. Every PETIT PARIS employee has a share in the responsibility of its success. That's why State employees, from commissioner down to file clerk, have made PETIT PARIS their rendezvous for good food. Cost? A few cents more, perhaps, than at the truck stops and the chain store lunch counters. But it's worth it. PETIT PARIS, 3000 Madison Ave., Albany, N. Y. Dial 3-7884 for large party reservations.

Social Security Questions

HOW CAN MY WIFE and I live on our combined social security benefit of $162.80 a month when we are having trouble right now with my full salary? P.R.

The Old-Age and Survivors Insurance Program was never intended to provide an income equal to that earned during an individual's working lifetime. The basic purpose of this social insurance program is to provide protection by replacing in part earned income which is no longer available because a worker is retired, disabled, or has died. It was anticipated that social security benefits would be supplemented whenever possible by additional income from investments, private insurance, rentals or part-time employment. In other words, this program will help; but it will not relieve you of your responsibility to make adequate provisions for your future.

MY WIFE AND I are both eligible for Social Security benefits. I run a small grocery store and usually make about $2,400 a year. I've been told we couldn't draw benefits while I made that much. I don't understand that when each of us is allowed to make $1,200 and still draw benefits.

S. W.

You and your wife may each earn up to $1,200 a year and still draw the full year's benefit. But, since you operate the store, the $2,400 would be your earnings. These cannot be divided to come under the $1,200 rule.

Tells How Cost of Car Insurance Can Drop

"Automobile insurance costs can be reduced if the general public becomes aware of the existing causes for increased insurance rates," said Milton D. Felson, president of State-Wide Insurance Company of 152 West 42nd Street, New York City. "Speeding, following the car in front too closely, cutting in and out, failing to signal and refusing to give another driver the right of way, are but a few illustrations which prove the point," said Mr. Felson. "In addition there is an increasing number of grossly exaggerated or entirely baseless property damage and personal injury claims made in even the most minor accidents."

What Workers Want

Opinion Research Institute of Princeton, N. J., in a recent survey among workers in industry, found this is what they want, in order of importance: increased unemployment insurance, increased hospitalization and insurance, guaranteed annual wage, shorter work week for the same pay, larger pensions and, way to the bottom, more money.

This, of course, is not true with State employees. First, employees in industry generally earn more money than civil servants in comparable jobs. Secondly, in most cases industry absorbs the cost of fringe benefits, while in State service every new benefit cuts into the take-home pay of the civil servant.

The State employee needs more money, today, tomorrow, and next year. While not wishing to appear avaricious, the plain, unadulterated fact is, the State worker is at a distinct disadvantage when it comes to the green. When I say more money I am not talking of $100 yearly raise. All State workers should get a $500 raise next year.

Years back, when John L. Lewis had just signed a fine contract for his miners, the newsmen asked him, "What will you look for next year?" and Lewis replied, "More."

In State service we have had no "fine contracts" but we are looking for more money in the year 1959.

A True—But Sad—Story

The following story is true. I was there and in some small measure it indicates the aroused interest in employee problems in our Department.

During the 1956 legislative session, a 40-hour bill for correction officers was introduced by a legislator who, for obvious reasons, shall remain nameless. The Civil Service Employees Association and Correction Conference delegates were meeting in Albany and, as is the usual custom of these delegates, they went from office to office in the State Capitol seeking support for this bill. Some legislators promised support, others just gave us the brush-off, but hope springs eternal in the hearts of CSEA delegates and the survey continued.

After a few disappointing visits, the delegates found themselves in front of the office of their Messiah, the legislator who had introduced the bill. Heavy hearts and feet grew lighter as they opened the door to see their friend. As the delegates walked into the office, they were met by bellows of rage and incoherent screaming, "You guys are prison guards; get out, get out. Ever since I introduced your bill my life has been a living hell. My secretary has thousands of letters you sent. My phone keeps ringing day and night. When I go home, you fellows are breaking down my doors. Get out. I am going to introduce a bill so you fellows will work 60 hours a week and you won't have time to bother me—out—out."

ACTIVITIES OF EMPLOYEES IN STATE

Capital Armories

The regular annual meeting of the Capital District Armory Employees Chapter was held at the Cohoes Armory, Cohoes, on May 17. Fred Rosekrans, president of the chapter presided.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. The treasurer's report was read and approved. A special meeting will be held June 11 at the Saratoga Armory for the election of officers at which time the chapter will honor Stewart Tiffany, superintendent at Schenectady Armory and William Thiessen, engineer, at the Troy Armory who will be retiring soon. This will be a dinner meeting after the election of officers.

Members can show their chapter loyalty by being present 100 percent at this meeting.

The chapter wishes to welcome back John Witbeck of the Troy Armory who was confined at St. Mary's Hospital recently but who is now back on the job. William Thiessen, also at the Troy Armory, is recovering nicely from his recent illness.

Creedmoor

The next meeting of the Creedmoor chapter will be held in the social room of the assembly hall on Tuesday, June 10 at 8:30 P.M. President Raymond Sansone and John MacKenzie will report on the recent Metropolitan Conference in Bayshore. Members should plan to be at this meeting.

Mrs. Brunet, transfer agent, and William Lindsey of building 8 have just returned from vacations in Florida. Milton Glass of building 39 is starting his vacation.

Raymond Kane of building 8 is very much interested in starting a Boy Scout troop for the children in building 39. He is actively distributing books to some of the employees.

The chapter extends deep sympathy to Mike Ryan, policeman, whose wife, Helen, died.

Margaret Kelly, Howard Chavis, Henry Chatham, Joseph Butler, Albert Wirths, and John Jennings are sick. Hope to see them all back on the job soon.

Mr. and Mrs. Van Hart just returned from a vacation in Florida—sunburn and all.

The Creedmoor softball team won its second game in a row by defeating the Wassaic Hospital softball team. Guy Sparrow, Creedmoor's pitcher, held the boys from Wassaic in the palm of his hand. It looks as though Creedmoor is well on the way to winning the Metropolitan Mental Hospital league championship.

Onondaga

Arthur Darrow, chapter president, and David Rogers, former president, gave interesting and informative reports on the Binghamton workshop at the last meeting of the Onondaga chapter. The chapter appreciated the attendance of Field Representative Ben Roberts at this meeting.

Patricia Baker McCall, typist, Veterans Assistance Division, has taken an indefinite leave of absence while awaiting the arrival of the long-legged bird. Fellow employees gave a luncheon in her honor at Tubberts Restaurant.

Bertha Davies, clerk, Veterans Assistance Division, is on a trip to California with the Syracuse delegation participating in the Womens Bowling Congress.

Craig Colony Installs Its New Officers

Over 100 members, friends and guests attended the installation dinner of the Craig Colony chapter of the Civil Service Employees Association at LaDelfa's Hotel.

Speakers of the evening were Dr. Robert A. Wise, assistant director of Craig Colony; Kenneth Willard, Assemblyman for Livingston county; Albert Killian, 5th vice president, CSEA, and Jack Kurtzman, field representative, CSEA.

Dr. Wise, in behalf of the director, Dr. Warner, congratulated the new officers on their election and spoke briefly on the history and progress of the Craig Colony chapter.

Mr. Willard spoke on the legislative program and possible future legislation which might be of interest to state employees.

Mr. Killian welcomed the members of the chapter into the Western Conference which they had recently voted to join. He spoke of pensions and legislation and of future plans of the Association.

Mr. Kurtzman reviewed bills sponsored by the Association in the last legislative period. He referred to the intricacies of legislative mechanics and spoke hopefully of the future of civil service employees.

Glenn Green acted as toastmaster, introducing the guests and amusing the audience with interesting anecdotes and quips relevant to the occasion.

Culminating the evening's activities was the installation of officers, in which Jack Kurtzman, as field representative, represented the Civil Service Employees Association in formally installing the new officers.

Officers installed on this occasion included:

George DeLong, president; C. M. Jones, vice president; Paul Hally, secretary; George Northrup, treasurer; Sam Cipolla, CSEA delegate and Irving Fisher, MHEA delegate.

Correction Conference Aims To Be Discussed June 9, 10 At Semi-Annual Meeting

By ALBERT FOSTER
President, Correction Conference

The New York State Department of Correction Civil Service Conference will hold its semi-annual meeting in Albany at the Wellington Hotel on June 9 and 10. Business sessions will begin at 9 A.M. each day.

A luncheon meeting on June 9 with the Commissioner of Correction is planned. New delegates and officers will be introduced to the Commissioner.

One of the principal aims of this Conference meeting will be to establish a definite program to correct salary inequities throughout the department. In addition, in most cases when an employee accepts a promotion he must take a substantial cut in pay. We are continuing to backslide as long as this type of injustice persists. We ask the State Administration, the legislative leaders, and the Classification and Compensation Director to correct this serious situation and its effect on morale.

Own Policy Ignored

The State Civil Service Department ignores its own policy of "like pay for like work" for State employees. The merit system is undermined. The older employees in the department are captives in their jobs; they can no longer look forward to promotion because they cannot afford to take a cut in pay to get ahead in their field of work.

Reallocation Denied

Once we were told that reallocation was the means of correcting a situation like this when we had the senior and junior guard problem. The classification director saw fit to change the guard from grade 10 to grade 11 to correct it and everyone was happy. In 1956, with the beginning of reduction in hours, the very same problem was recreated.

Troy City Unit Elects Watson

In its first election, the Troy City Unit of the Rensselaer county chapter, Civil Service Employees Association, elected Harold Watson of the Troy Water Department president.

Others elected were George Elson, Public Works Department, vice president; William Breen, City Comptroller's Office, treasurer; Patrolman Peter Perfetti, Police Department, secretary, and Detective Leo Barry, Police Department, and Captain John E. Prendergast, Fire Department, representatives. Edward O'Connor will serve as sergeant-at-arms.

President Watson appointed Detective Barry, Captain Prendergast, Walter Maloney, Mr. Elson, and himself to the grievance committee, and Mr. O'Connor, Alexander B. Plante, and Frank Hart to the publicity committee. Grievance committee members will also serve as the membership committee.

Frank Casey, CSEA field representative, spoke to the meeting. Next meeting of the unit will be held June 3 at 8 P.M. at Central Police Station.

A hearing for reallocation to grade 14 last March for the same corrective reason, resulted in denial.

Cost of Living Called Strong Factor

At this hearing the Classification Director asked us not to use the cost of living index in our arguments as everyone is affected by this. However, the fact still remains that the 40-hour employees received a $300 and six percent raise in 1956 and 1957 which to some extent offset the rising cost of living for them, while Correction employees, perhaps because they worked in excess of 40 hours, remained at the same pay. This caused the buying power of the Correction group's dollar to decrease. Cost of living should have been considered in our case.

Affect on Morale

This Conference has repeatedly pointed out to the Administration, the legislators, and the Commissioner of the department that the salary situation that exists today in the department, if continued, can very well undermine the morale of its personnel to the extent that security and good operation in the department may be adversely affected.

At the forthcoming meeting the Conference will adopt resolutions and set up a legislative program for 1958-59.

Other Topics to be Discussed

Other subjects on the agenda are full uniform allowance, better retirement plan, personal leave, sanitary wall posts, civil service examination suggestions, air conditioning in Attica, and ideas and suggestions for the good of the department.

The officers of the Conference will meet with the Commissioner of Correction on June 10 to discuss the agenda.

Nassau Chapter Elects Flaumenbaum

Irving Flaumenbaum has been re-elected president of Nassau County chapter, Civil Service Employees Association.

The results were announced by Mrs. Helen Kientch at an election meeting held by the chapter May 21.

Other officers are Margaret Gibbons, first vice president; James Treuchtlinger, second vice president; Henry Bennowitz, third vice president; Edwin Perrott, fourth vice president; Grace McCullough, secretary; James Keating, treasurer; J. John Jonata, financial secretary, and Dorothy Magulre, corresponding secretary.

A total of 804 ballots were cast, Mrs. Kientch reported.
