ELECTIONS TO BE IN 11:10 ASSEMBLY

Association Will Elect Seven Officers; Candidates Are From Three Classes

The new president of the student association for next year will be elected in the assembly this morning at 11:00 o'clock in the Page hall auditorium, although his or her identity will not be disclosed until Moving-up day, Isabel J. Peard, '32, president of the student association, announced today. Four juniors are the candidates for this position. They are: Bruce Filby, Elizabeth Gordon, Ralph Harris, and Katherine Moore.

The other officers of the student association to be elected are vice-president, secretary, faculty member of the finance board, College song leader, and two College cheer leaders. The student association will also vote for two members for Myskania from the list of eligible juniors, the three getting the highest totals becoming members by popularity vote.

The candidates for vice-president of the association, chosen from the present sophomore class, are: Letitia Connelly, Dorothy Griffin, William Nelson, Grenfell Rand, and Robert Robinson.

The members of the present freshman class who have been nominated for the secretary of the association are: John Bills, Mary Clark, Dorothea Galagan, Betty Gregory, and Daniel Van Leuvan.

Professor George M. York, head of the commerce department, was the only nominee for faculty member of the student board of finance.

The student association song and cheer leaders will be chosen from candidates submitted by the present freshman, sophomore, and junior classes. These candidates will be one from each of these classes for song leader, and one man and one woman from each of the classes for cheer leaders. Try-outs for these positions will be conducted in assembly immediately preceding the election.

Following the balloting, there will be practice for the Ivy song which is sung on Moving-up day and rehearsal for Moving-up. The rehearsal will be conducted by Katherine Traver, '32, grand marshal for Moving-up day.

To facilitate the rehearsal, classes are asked to take the positions designated for them on Moving-up day, in assembly this morning, Miss Traver said. The seniors will occupy the center section of the auditorium from the front row as far back as necessary; the junior class will take its place in the section on the assembly's right downstairs; the sophomores will fill the entire main section of the balcony; freshmen will take seats in the section downstairs on the assembly's left and in the loges upstairs. Any extra juniors or sophomores who can not find seats in their own sections, will take places in the rows behind the seniors in the main section, Miss Traver added.

THREE ARE RIVALS FOR IVY SPEAKER

Discussion of Memorial Gift to Be Conducted Today in Senior Meeting

The ivy speaker for the senior class will be elected today at a class meeting in the Page hall auditorium immediately following assembly, according to Dorothy Hill, president. The nominees are Florence Friedman, Kenneth Miller, and Robert Rankins. The person elected will speak for the class at the planting of the ivy on Moving-up day.

The class will also decide upon its gift to the College, Miss Hill said. Suggestions for this gift which were made at a recent meeting of the class by the committee in charge of investigating the matter include establishing a scholarship or a loan fund, placing bronze plaques on each of the three new buildings, and installing chimes in the clock in tower of Page hall. The committee recommended that the class place a clock similar to the one which was the gift of the class of '31 in the front of Draper hall. Members of the committee were: Andrew Hritz, chairman, Ruth Brezer, Josephine Holt, and Walter Anderson.

Nominations for class day officers will be conducted at the meeting. The officers, who will be elected by the class to speak on class day, June 18, are historian, poet, prophet, and testator.

The headquarters for the convention this year will be at the Mayflower hotel in Washington. The theme of the meetings will include discussions on "Art in Education" and "Art in Life". The conference last year was conducted in Brooklyn, with headquarters at the Hotel St. George. Miss Mead and Ruth Hughes, '31, former president of the council, were the delegates to these meetings.

VALUE OF TRACK WILL BE DECIDED, MAY 13 AT MEET

State college students, under the leadership of Gus Asikis, '34, are making concerted efforts this spring to revive track as a minor sport.

The nucleus of the present squad is built around Asikis, Horwood, Lazarou, Amerbach, Collins, Garrett, Supera, Amhurst, Story, Robson, Jones, and Collins.

Coach Rutherford R. Baker has declared that he is in favor of establishing track at State provided that the candidates for the squad showed sufficient promise in competition to warrant expenditure for training the squad.

A meet is planned arranged for Friday, May 13, to determine how the members of the present squad will show up in competition. Daily practices are now being conducted on the Washington avenue campus of the College.

Seniors, Seeking Positions, Find That Current Depression Hits Teaching Field

Fewer seniors at State college are assured of teaching positions next year than ever before, according to records of the college placement bureau.

Not only are jobs scarce, but salaries run from $100 to $300 lower than in other years.

Forty-one members of the graduating class have received appointments to date through the College bureau. This is scarcely one-sixth of the graduating class of 260 students, not counting graduate students whose numbers will bring the total number of degrees to be awarded this June to 399.

Seven men and 34 women have been placed, chiefly in small rural schools scattered throughout the state. Teachers of commerce are most in demand, followed by science and library science. Twelve of the 39 commerce majors have positions to lead the College departments in that respect. History majors have the hardest time getting placed, the record shows.

Last year at this time 70 per cent of all were placed at positions, Miss Emilia Nicos, a member of the placement bureau, said. At present, indications are that only slightly over one-third of the class will be placed.

In previous years the average

THE SENIOR MEMORIAL

The senior class does well in desiring to establish a class memorial, following the example of other classes in the past decade. Yet the question of what constitutes a suitable memorial seems to be a debatable issue.

The senior committee appointed to draw up suggestions for it came through with the idea of a clock in another of the College buildings, possibly to supplement the very able timepiece in Page Hall. Other suggestions came from members of the class.

The senior class of 1932 has distinguished itself in many ways. It has among other honors an excellent scholastic record. It would seem both fitting and proper for the class to establish its memorial in the form of a scholarship fund or a prize.

The principal from which the source of the endowment would come would be necessarily limited. Nevertheless, the class would have a sum sufficient to arouse student interest. It is not the size of the award that is of primary importance; rather it is the fact that such an award is extant and that it would be made each year on Commencement day in the name of the senior class.

The idea of a loan fund was advocated by some. Yet the idea of a loan fund does not carry with it very much that keeps the memory of the class alive. It is a sum of money, announced on an obscure page of the freshman handbook, available each year for students who need it and for College expenses. Little is generally known regarding its disposition, beyond the fact that it has been loaned out to someone.

A class' memory is kept green only by the acts of its members and the publicity it gets. While the present class is not an organization of publicity seekers, it must be borne in mind that a scholarship or prize will do far more to keep it in the minds of succeeding classes.

The fact that the amount of the prize award would be small, comparatively, should not be a deterrent. The President offers a speaking prize of $25 yearly. The students who can compete for this prize always look forward to the contest, not for $25, but for the honor of winning. The class fund, if it could produce a sum approximating the President's prize, should be invested for this purpose. It will be the best way to encourage and recognize outstanding achievement.

WORTHY OF COMMENDATION

The News takes this opportunity to congratulate the members of the Girls' Athletic Association as well as the director who combined to produce what is generally acclaimed the finest student directed performance to be witnessed in the College in several years.

The roles, scenery, costumes, and operetta were combined with an artistic technique that is seldom to be found in amateurs. Their performance is a triumph, not only for the participants, but for the professor in whose class they gained the dramatic instruction which they used so skillfully.

MENE, MENE, TEKEL, UPHARSIN,

The News prints today the final installment of a series of three articles dealing with sorority and fraternity participation in the extra class activities. In every instance this newspaper published facts that had been run at some time during the past four years, either in the News or in one of the other undergraduate publications.

There has been misunderstanding in some circles regarding the purpose of the editor in printing these stories. The paper and board have no axes to grind and have endeavored to serve no interests save those of the College and those groups which have figured prominently in the stories. This may seem contradictory. Yet an investigation of the facts point to that conclusion.

There can be no question but that an impartial investigator would state that there has been over-participation by certain of the Greek letter societies in certain fields of extra-class endeavor. It does not necessarily imply that these groups went about the task of gaining direction of clubs, councils, or publications in cold-blooded fashion. It is quite logical to assume, on the other hand, that groups of men and women with similar interests continued and developed these interests by joining that group which best represented students with like abilities.

But this does not alter the fact that appearances are against them. Personal conference with members of one council has convinced the editor, at least, that while that group is overwhelmingly in control of but two sororities, it has an unusual series of coincidences which have brought it about. This cannot be said for all. Members of the boards of several publications have declared that in their opinion sorority connections have played parts entirely out of proportion to what they should.

It is difficult for an editor, business manager, or president to avoid showing some favors, however unintentional, toward those bound to him by strong ties. It is this danger which must be guarded against. Any action which would lead the student association at large to conclude that offices in any of the activities it supports are placed in position mainly by play of politics would be disastrous. Democratic equality for every candidate for a position must be maintained. Ability and personality should be the main criteria upon which selections should be made.

Aside from the issue of public opinion, there is the welfare of the organization to be considered. Regardless of the care which is exercised, students of a single sorority or fraternity who move with clocklike regularity into positions are bound to look with a certain carelessness upon that position. They feel a certain confidence that they in turn will move into it. This means that their best efforts are not put forth and that the real ends of competitive practice fail in their purpose—that of bringing out the best that is in each candidate. Almost anyone of average ability can move into a position and fulfill its duties in passable fashion. But there should be more than this to motivate the newly chosen leaders when they come into power. They should have come to know the problems of the organization with which they are connected; actual and strenuous competitive experience should have pointed out its strength and weakness and they should come prepared to build up the first and strengthen the second. The records of progress of the several publications, for example, are records of the achievements of individuals who have composed their boards and directed and formulated their policies. Thus the names of Van Kleek and French stand out on the News; that of Wolner on the debate council; that of Diamond on the Pedagogue; and that of Scholl on the Lion. There are many more to quote.

A summary of the facts presented leads to the following conclusions regarding control of the extra class activities:

1. There has been too much concentration, intentionally or otherwise, in certain of the College organizations, notably on the publications and one council.

2. In some instances this concentration has had decided benefits for the organizations concerned, in at least two others, it has had undesirable results. It is not necessary to name organizations here; they are known and their members know who they are.

3. The coming month offers opportunity for a change of old policies and memberships. There will be a chance to distribute more equally among the several societies those positions which have, by custom, come to be regarded as "ultra-elite". There can be no question of the desirability of the action indicated.

Now all of the facts have been presented and placed at the disposal of both organizations and the molders of general public opinion. All of the pertinent facts which have come to light during the past four years have been presented. Ignorance of past history can no longer be held up as an excuse. These organizations now are on trial before the bar of public opinion. If that opinion be intelligent, it will look for the changes which the impartial judge would see. If the heads of the organizations are intelligent they will legislate in such wise as to prevent any possibility of a recurrence of conditions which have been in vogue for the past several years.

Numbers alone must not be considered in judging this case. Large or small numbers of a given society on a publication mean little. The News wishes to draw attention not to the representation in ratio to the total number on the organization, but to the contributions of its officers and departments. Herein lies the danger. And it is this that the layman must sweep home.

The amount that people of kindred talents tend to tie up together will not hold here. Business ability is business ability, whether the candidate try out on Pedagogue, Lion, Echo, or News. If he or she has the stuff, success is assured, whether it be achieved under the watchful guidance of a sorority sister or an impartial stranger.

Again the News urges the student association to check carefully on elective and appointive offices this month. The only power that can change things, in the event that directors fail to heed the warning on the wall, is the student association itself. It should not hesitate to act in order to safeguard its integrity.

Things should not be allowed to go progress, that when they reach their logical conclusion, it can be said: "Mene, Mene, Tekel, Upharsin."

News Reveals Sorority Participation In Women's Athletic And Music Council

This is the final of a series of articles, published by the STATE COLLEGE NEWS, dealing with sorority and fraternity participation and control of College activities.

The NEWS presents this week information regarding the distribution of Girls' Athletic association council, and music association council offices, covering a four year period.

An investigation shows that of the 51 council members of G. A. A., there were 15 members of Delta Omega sorority, an average of four each year. Chi Sigma Theta was represented with 12 members, three each year. Other offices were distributed among the various other sororities.

A survey of music association council, consisting of 21 officers for the four years, shows that Beta Zeta led with six members, Delta Omega, with three members, and Eta Phi, with two, came next. Other sororities were represented in a scattered fashion.

There were approximately 21 officers of Young Women's Christian association during a four year period, 30 members of dramatics and art council, 35 Lion board members, 52 Echo board members, 150 Pedagogue board members, 25 News board members, 51 G. A. A. council members, and 21 music association council members.

1934 WINS 8 TO 3 LEAD IN RIVALRY

Sophomores Take Unanimous Decision in Debate With Freshmen

The unanimous decision of three judges for the sophomore debaters Friday noon places the rivalry score 8-3 in favor of the sophomores. The subject for the debate was: "Resolved: That women teachers should remain unmarried."

The sophomores upheld the affirmative of the argument. Their team consisted of Dorothy Griffin, captain and first speaker; Robert Stern, second speaker; Frances Higgins, third speaker; and Grenfell Rand, rebuttal speaker. They divided their arguments into three main issues: that teaching by married women is a detriment to home life; that a married teacher is a detriment to the profession; and that a married woman teacher is unfitted mentally and psychologically for teaching.

The freshmen were represented by Carolyn Sharlet, first speaker; Bessie Hartman, second speaker; Samuel Spector, third speaker and captain; and Lucile Hirsch, rebuttal speaker.

The issues they upheld were: that a teacher should marry for her own benefit; that she should marry for the benefit of her students; and that she should marry for the benefit of the community.

The judges for the debate were Dr. Harry W. Hastings, chairman of the English department; Dr. Harold W. Thompson, professor of English; and Miss Marion Kilpatrick, instructor in English.

The result of the debate gives the sophomores the lead in inter class rivalry by five points. The score had been a tie, the sophomore class having won the girls' basketball games, while the freshmen were victorious in the men's basketball games.

PROFESSOR TALKS AT SENIOR DINNER WEDNESDAY NIGHT

Professor John M. Sayles, principal of Milne High school and professor of education, was the speaker at the third senior class dinner meeting conducted Wednesday night in the cafeteria.

Mildred Smith was general chairman for the dinner, and toastmistress. Miss Anna E. Pierce, dean of women, was the only other faculty guest present, since Mrs. Bertha E. Brimmer, executive secretary of the alumni association was unable to attend.

Dorothy Hall, president, opened a business meeting immediately following the dinner. At that time a report was made by Charles Simmons concerning graduation announcements and programs. Miss Simmons' committee consists of Marie Stuchaver, and Frances Keller. Quotations from several prayers were submitted and the class voted to decide to which company it would give the contract on announcements.

Miss Keller made a report of the work of the dormitory committee for the class.

Other matches are now being arranged with the following high schools: Catholic Central, Troy; Lansingburg, Cohoes; and Mount Pleasant, and with the Rensselaer Polytechnic institute freshmen.

The team will be picked from Raymond Seymour, Samuel Spont, Alard, Louis Blumberg, Gordon Coulter, George Taylor, and Clifford Roll. Roll is captain of the team.

This is the first time that a freshman tennis team has been organized at State college. Coach Ruth Goodrich has commended the project for it will increase the field of sports here and allow more men to participate.

LATIN PROFESSOR SPEAKS ON CAMP AT Y. W. C. A. DINNER

Miss Edith O. Wallace, assistant professor of Latin, Asenath Van Buren, '32, president of Young Women's Christian association, and Erma Brown, '32, were the speakers at the annual Y. W. C. A. Silver Bay dinner Tuesday night in the cafeteria of Husted hall.

Miss Wallace had attended the Silver Bay conference at the conclusion of her sophomore year at State college. Since then, she has attended in the capacity of faculty member, accompanying State college delegations. Miss Wallace emphasized the importance of meeting the most interesting people from other colleges and countries. An eight day period is not long enough for consecutive study, but it is long enough to come in contact with religious leaders of the continent, she said.

Miss Van Buren and Miss Brown, who have both attended the conference, spoke on the routine at Silver Bay, social functions, and various discussion groups, the main feature of the conference. The technical hours, Miss Van Buren said, are especially interesting in that they deal with all sorts of college problems, including those of athletic associations, dramatic associations, and similar institutions.

Dr. Nelson Announces Summer Session Plans

A varied and enlarged program of courses for elementary, junior and senior high school teachers, supervisors, and administrators, has been announced by Dr. Milton G. Nelson, director of State college's annual summer session, to be conducted from July 5 to August 13.

The catalog for the summer session features a series of charts showing for each department not only the courses offered but also the probable course offerings for that department for the summer of 1933, 1934, and 1935. Tentative schedules of the courses to be offered during the next four summer sessions precede the description of courses under each subject department. Dr. Nelson said, "Every effort will be made to adhere to the schedules as listed; however, circumstances which are beyond control may cause minor changes. Students may expect that courses will be added to a single summer from time to time as demand indicates and as financial support permits," he concluded.

HARTWICK DOWNS STATE SATURDAY

Team Loses Ten Inning Game; Brooks and Young Star As High Scorers

The State varsity baseball nine opened their season last Saturday when they lost a hard fought battle to the Hartwick college nine by a score of 7-6. The game lasted ten innings.

The Oneonta hill toppers scored six runs in the first inning on two hits and five errors and then were held scoreless by "Ossie" Brooks, State twirler, until the tenth inning when they captured a run on successive hits by Haight and Sherman and an error by Brooks who dropped McCune's line drive, Haight scored on the mis-play.

Hartwick was forced to use two moundsmen, Reinhart and Beebe to stop the State nine. Reinhart left the diamond at the end of the eighth inning and Beebe, his successor, was found for three runs and five hits in the two innings he hurled.

Young and Brooks starred at the bat with three hits each. One of Brook's bingles was a three bagger which reached the left field wall. Lohmas and Graig with two singles each led the Hartwick attack.

State fought an uphill battle scoring three runs in the seventh inning when Johnnie Detlefson smashed a two bagger to deep center. The Purple and Gold grabbed three more runs in the ninth on two passes and singles by Blum and "Hack" Young.

"Who Will Compose New Myskania?" Is Most Pertinent Student Question

Around this time of the school year, practically all of the students indulge in an innocent speculation as to what students will be elected to various class, student association, and organization offices. Much of the questioning concerns the selection of Myskania for next year.

It seems to be the most pertinent question on everyone's lips as the annual ceremonies of Moving-up of May 20 approaches. At this time the members of next year's honorary society will be "tapped."

Guesses, wagers, "inside tips", and logic based on this year's most active juniors are being called into use by those who wish to determine ahead of time the exact membership of Myskania. Each year eleven, twelve, or thirteen members are chosen, but until the actual ceremony no one but the retiring members knows how many or who will be "tapped."

Results of student elections and votes of all sorts including the high and low major offices, publications elections, and active organization elections are being watched as indicators of those students who may be considered. The process consists of selecting a list of students and comparing it with the final selection with the idea of seeing how close one can come.

Leadership Considered

Myskania members are chosen for their leadership in athletics, debate, dramatics, scholarship, literary effort, journalistic ability, and in other undergraduate extra-curricular activities. This year there are eleven members on Myskania, while for the two years preceding there have been thirteen members.

Today each student eligible to vote will tow juniors from the list below as his choice for members for Myskania. The three receiving the highest votes will be selected. The president of the student association is a member of Myskania automatically. The members of the student association, thus, choose four members for next year's Myskania. This is of little aid to those making their own lists as the results of the elections are not announced until Moving-up day.

The remaining members of Myskania are chosen by the retiring group "at its discretion". "Dopesters", trying to figure out the membership have little success in consulting precedent, for not a single office conveys with it the membership except the president-elect of the association. Scarcely there are wide variations in membership.

The names of one hundred and eighty-six members of the junior class whose scholarship is of the standard set for eligibility for membership on Myskania, the senior honor society, has been announced. Each of them has seventy hours and seventy credit points necessary for consideration for membership.

The list which follows will be read in assembly by a member of Myskania. From it each member of the student association will be able to vote for two people whom he thinks should be included in the 1933 Myskania.

ELECTS OFFICERS

Elizabeth MacCombs, '33, has been elected president of Sigma Alpha sorority for next year. Other officers that were elected are: Carolyn Kramers, '33, vice president; Marie Duberty, '31, secretary; Elizabeth Bennett, '35, correspondent; and the secretary.

The SHELTON
at 40th and Lexington NEW YORK

When the Shelton opened (7 years ago) we began catering to college men and women. Gradually their patronage has increased; we feel safe in asserting that more students make the Shelton their New York home than at any club or other hotel. One reason for this is the free recreational features plus a desire to serve on the part of Shelton employees. Room rates have been greatly reduced. Rates from $50 per month upward. A room from $2.50 daily.

Club features (free to guests) are as follows: Swimming pool; completely equipped gymnasium; game rooms for bridge and backgammon; roof garden and solarium. Restaurant and cafeteria service at reasonable prices.
