O'Leary will resign from presidency in May

By Ian Wagreich
NEWS EDITOR

The man who is heralded as pulling SUNYA through three fiscal reenactments and also carrying the university through a transition from the 1970's to the 1990's announced Thursday his intention to step down at the fall faculty meeting.

SUNYA President Vincent O'Leary, 65, made the announcement at a university-wide faculty meeting saying he felt fine, and it is time to go back to teaching, something he has been thinking about for a few years.

"One of the things you have to do is provide for an orderly succession," O'Leary said.

The time to find a new president is when you feel vigorous and in good shape," O'Leary said, "You must move on to a new president in full tilt.

"This university is strong, poised to move on to a new president for student affairs," O'Leary said. "This is a new era for SUNYA as a leading research university."

O'Leary will resign from presidency in May 2000, he said.

Sunstein car parking is a problem.

Ban steers freshmen cars away from campus

By Raffi Varonian
EDITORIAL ASSISTANT

Due to a parking crunch aggravated by the construction of a new 5,000 seat fieldhouse, resident freshmen have been restricted from registering their cars on campus.

This new policy, outlined to incoming students in a letter from Mitchell d. Livingston, vice president for student affairs, applies to all freshmen living in university residence halls on the uptown and downtown campuses.

But despite the ban on freshmen cars, parking lots are still crowded.

And while one SUNYA official said he saw no solution to the problem in the near future, students feel the parking lots are more congested now than ever.

Despite the ban on freshmen cars, parking lots are still crowded.

Weather

Rain seems to be in the forecast for the next few days. Hopefully, however, it will clear up in time for us all to enjoy Larkfest.

Index

Aspects... 18-20
Classified... 10
Digests... 7
Letters and opinions... 8-9
Sports... 18-16
SUNYA issues stern warning to beer drinkers in the dorms. See page 4

FILE UPS

Despite the ban on freshmen cars, parking lots are still crowded.

Search for his successor may be a lengthy one

By Ian Wagreich
NEWS EDITOR

Two committees of the University Council, SUNYA's policy-making body, are already in action conducting a nationwide search for a successor to SUNYA President Vincent O'Leary, who announced his resignation Thursday.

The committee, a search committee and an advisory committee, will report to the University Council which will make a final recommendation to State University of New York Chancellor D. Bruce Johnstone. A final decision will be made by the SUNY Board of Trustees.

The Council has employed a nationwide search firm to seek out candidates. The University Council will concentrate on interviewing prospective candidates on the SUNYA campus as well as those selected by the firm.

The advisory committee will define what type of person SUNYA needs and will meet continued on page 11

continues on page 11

Ban steers freshmen cars away from campus

By Raffi Varonian
EDITORIAL ASSISTANT

Due to a parking crunch aggravated by the construction of a new 5,000 seat fieldhouse, resident freshmen have been restricted from registering their cars on campus.

This new policy, outlined to incoming students in a letter from Mitchell d. Livingston, vice president for student affairs, applies to all freshmen living in university residence halls on the uptown and downtown campuses.

But despite the ban on freshmen cars, parking lots are still crowded.

And while one SUNYA official said he saw no solution to the problem in the near future, students feel the parking lots are more congested now than ever.

Despite the ban on freshmen cars, parking lots are still crowded.

Weather

Rain seems to be in the forecast for the next few days. Hopefully, however, it will clear up in time for us all to enjoy Larkfest.

Index

Aspects... 18-20
Classified... 10
Digests... 7
Letters and opinions... 8-9
Sports... 18-16
SUNYA issues stern warning to beer drinkers in the dorms. See page 4

FILE UPS

Despite the ban on freshmen cars, parking lots are still crowded.

Search for his successor may be a lengthy one

By Ian Wagreich
NEWS EDITOR

Two committees of the University Council, SUNYA's policy-making body, are already in action conducting a nationwide search for a successor to SUNYA President Vincent O'Leary, who announced his resignation Thursday.

The committee, a search committee and an advisory committee, will report to the University Council which will make a final recommendation to State University of New York Chancellor D. Bruce Johnstone. A final decision will be made by the SUNY Board of Trustees.

The Council has employed a nationwide search firm to seek out candidates. The University Council will concentrate on interviewing prospective candidates on the SUNYA campus as well as those selected by the firm.

The advisory committee will define what type of person SUNYA needs and will meet continued on page 11

continues on page 11

Ban steers freshmen cars away from campus

By Raffi Varonian
EDITORIAL ASSISTANT

Due to a parking crunch aggravated by the construction of a new 5,000 seat fieldhouse, resident freshmen have been restricted from registering their cars on campus.

This new policy, outlined to incoming students in a letter from Mitchell d. Livingston, vice president for student affairs, applies to all freshmen living in university residence halls on the uptown and downtown campuses.

But despite the ban on freshmen cars, parking lots are still crowded.

And while one SUNYA official said he saw no solution to the problem in the near future, students feel the parking lots are more congested now than ever.

Despite the ban on freshmen cars, parking lots are still crowded.

Weather

Rain seems to be in the forecast for the next few days. Hopefully, however, it will clear up in time for us all to enjoy Larkfest.

Index

Aspects... 18-20
Classified... 10
Digests... 7
Letters and opinions... 8-9
Sports... 18-16
SUNYA issues stern warning to beer drinkers in the dorms. See page 4

FILE UPS

Despite the ban on freshmen cars, parking lots are still crowded.
NEWS BRIEFS

Body found

Greenvale, N.Y. (AP) State police in Catskill are investigating the killing of a 21-year-old man whose body was found on the side of a rural road.

The body of Arthur A. Maxwell of the Albany County town of Medusa was found on Route 26 in Greene County early Thursday morning by a passing motorist, state police said.

He was pronounced dead at the scene by the Greene County Coroner.

Troopers on Thursday would not comment as to the cause of death or whether they had any suspects in the homicide.

An autopsy was scheduled to be performed on the body late Thursday.

Rudy 'formidable'

Albany, N.Y. (AP) Democratic Gov. Mario Cuomo said Wednesday that Republican Rudolph Giuliani could "of course" win the New York City mayoral race against Democratic nominee David Dinkins.

"Of course he can win. Of course he can win," said Cuomo of Giuliani in an interview with Albany public radio station WAMC. "I know Rudy. He's a friend of mine."

Cuomo has announced his support for Dinkins.

In acknowledging the possibility of a Giuliani victory in overwhelmingly Democratic New York City, Cuomo noted that GOP political consultant Roger Ailes, who played a key role in George Bush's presidential campaign last year, had joined Giuliani's campaign.

"He is one of the best in the country," Cuomo said of Ailes.

"This is a formidable team. They will have plenty of money and it will be a real contest."

Army is in Peru

(AP) The U.S. military presence is small but slowly spreading in the heart of South America's cocaine country.

Expansion is most evident in Peru, where about 20 U.S. Army Special Forces members arrived three months ago to provide paramilitary training to national police in their battle against a fearsome alliance of cocaine traffickers and Maoist guerrillas.

In Bolivia, where the fight is less dramatic but equally entrenched, about a dozen Green Berets have been conducting training and support operations from low-profle jungle base camps for years.

The confidential White House directive giving the American military more leeway in the drug war was crafted with Peru and Bolivia in mind, according to officials in Washington.

In Columbia, home to the biggest cocaine cartels, U.S. officials deny any military intentions beyond those associated with the delivery of hardware.

S. Africans march

Cape Town, South Africa (AP) More than 20,000 peaceful protesters sang songs of freedom and waved banners denouncing police brutality on Wednesday in the biggest anti-government march ever permitted in this country.

Police stayed out of sight as marchers - led by black leaders and Cape Town’s white mayor - clashed a mile-long route leading from St. George’s Anglican Cathedral to City Hall.

Organizers described the march as a historic occurrence in this racially divided nation.

"We have scored a great victory for justice and peace,” Anglican Archbishop Desmond Tutu told a crowd of 1,000 black, white and mixed-race marchers who packed City Hall while thousands of others stood outside.

He said acting President F.W. de Klerk should have been present "to see what this country is going to become... a technicolor country."

PREVIEW OF EVENTS

Preview of Events is a free service to campus groups. They are not ads, but just a bulletin board of the happenings at SUNYA. Bring your free listings to CC 329. Deadlines are Wednesday's at 3 pm for the Friday issue, and Sunday at 3 pm for the Tuesday issue.
Candlelight vigil protest racial violence
400 call for patience and respect

By Paul C. Webster

Nearly 400 SUNYA students, holding candles and uniting in the hopes of fighting racism, gathered in front of the small fountain on Tuesday night in remembrance of Yusef Hawkins and other victims of racially motivated violence.

Hawkins, a 16-year-old high school student, was murdered in August by a group of whites in the Bensonhurst section of Brooklyn, as they sought another black youth who had been dating a local white woman.

The vigil, co-sponsored by the Albany State University Black Alliance and Fuerza Latina, drew a broad representation of the Albany campus, with administrators and students alike calling for peace and a collective effort by all races to end racism.

"All I want is for all of us to be able to live in this country and trust each other with respect," said Jacob Walthour, president of ASUBA as he spoke to the crowd which stood silently outside the campus center, "We must all come together and become a strong alliance and work together."

Walthour, was just one of several campus leaders who spoke out against bias and discrimination, taking time to remember those who died in the Holocaust and those who have been victimized because of their gender or sexual preference.

Speaking at the gathering, Michel Livingston, SUNYA vice president for student affairs, announced upcoming plans at the university that would severely punish those who violate the human rights of others on campus.

"I want to share with you my anger and frustration that a person would have to key down his life because he was in the wrong place, at the wrong time, and because he had the wrong skin color," Livingston said. "I'd like to give a personal commitment to each and every person that the university, in a matter of time, will announce a set of priorities and guidelines...so we will not change pledging processes in ending all pledging in all fraternities."

By T.E. Kane

By Paul C. Webster

By Ian Wagreich

NEWS EDITOR

SUNYA administrators went to the students Wednesday night and called on them to form a committee that would advocate a "just community" and full respect in an ethnically and racially diverse community.

The formation of the Committee is in response to recent incidents that have defied what O'Leary considers to be "powerful values, including honesty, fairness and a deep sense of responsibility to others."

The idea of the committee, originally brought out by some students a year ago, is in response to reasons including recent incidents in Bensonhurst, Beijing, China and other location where diversity created conflict, O'Leary said.

"The University at Albany has a special responsibility to address what the Bensonhurst tragedy and others like it mean.

"Pashion must translate outrage into effective action," O'Leary said at the annual fall meeting of the University Faculty. He said the Committee would consist of faculty, students and administrators and the number of members could be as high as 60.

"I want people to talk together," O'Leary said. "We'll fairly deal with the handful of those who break our rules."

"But while rule enforcement is important, we must do more to create the kind of community we want," O'Leary said.

Also at the University-wide faculty meeting, O'Leary announced a new General Education Guidance - a diversity requirement - that is being
The SUNYA administration is cracking down on students who get caught with beerballs or kegs in their dorm rooms. The University announced stricter penalties this year for those who violate the alcohol policy.

A recent letter sent to students living on campus said that the use of bulk containers (kegs and beerballs) in suites and rooms within residence halls is prohibited. Individuals who violate this condition of the alcohol policy will be referred to the judicial system and if found guilty, expelled from the residence halls, the University said.

The order revises a policy that previously only warned students. According to Vice President of Student Affairs Michiel Livingston alcohol abuse is a concern for both those on and off campus. However, "at least on campus we have some authority to promulgate rules and put them into effect. We want to make sure that our rules are very consistent and that they do not send mixed messages to students, as we are very serious about alcohol abuse."

We intend to enforce our policy in a strict and serious way. We will not offer light sanctions to violators of our container policy. It is now very likely as an outcome for a person to be removed from the residence halls if they violate these policies, whereas in the past they may have been placed on probation. The major change is a more likely severe penalty for people found guilty of (violating) the container policy," Livingston said.

Livingston said there have been other kinds of difficulties on campus with certain types of violations. "Students may not get clear signals from us regarding the seriousness of certain types of misconduct, whether it be cheating, false alarms or tampering with fire equipment. As a result, we have identified those kinds of offenses which are "capital" in nature and the ultimate sanction would be exercised - the removal of people from the University, should regulations be violated," Livingston said.

According to John Murphy, director of judicial affairs, if students are informed of the major prohibited conduct, then they are in a better position to manage their own behaviors and avoid doing those things that will affect their citizenship on campus.

"It is a conscious decision made by the student when this alcohol policy is violated. The student is asking for trouble and should expect to be removed. The likely sanction for such an offense is expulsion from residence halls if found guilty by judicial review board. The student does retain the right to due process and the right to appeal a decision for such an offense," Murphy said.

"We want students to be responsible decision makers. The issue is not the actual presence of a bulk container, but the irresponsibility that is associated with it.

Bulk containers brought on campus are seen as likely to cause trouble. There is a tendency to consume the contents faster, which may lead to disruptive behavior, property damage and the possibility of people taking violent actions toward one another. It is abusive to the community and the entire environment, according to Karleen Karlson, assistant director of Judicial Affairs.

"If (president George) Bush can speak of a war on drugs, we can certainly speak of different strategies to approach issues of substance abuse... It's not just getting tough, it is also trying to be more comprehensive, " Livingston said.

According to Student Association President Andy DiPalma the reason why Residential Life is taking a stricter stance on bulk containers is twofold. First, approximately three-fourths of all incidents reported to Residential Life are alcohol related. Kegs and beerballs contain large amounts of alcohol enabling students to get drunk and cause trouble.

"Secondly, students who are seniors or those who know they won't be living on campus the following year, would throw keg parties, knowing that if they received any punishment, it would result in probation or something equivalent to "slap on the wrist,"" DiPalma said.

Many students expressed disapproval about the alcohol policy. Senior Jason Acevedo said, "Students who are in college are supposed to be grown up if they drink. The kegs are not a problem on campus. The problem is the students who drink and cause trouble."

Middle Earth is a volunteer organization of students helping students.
SA supports New Paltz eight, condemns 'brutal' police acts

By Morgan Lyle
NEWS EDITOR

The Student Association Central Council passed a resolution Wednesday night condemning the actions of the SUNY New Paltz campus police force in the July arrest of eight students.

At the same meeting, the Council, which is the Student Association's legislative branch, was visited by SUNYA President Vincent O'Leary and Vice President for Student Affairs Mitchell Livingston.

Also, Dutch Quad representative Laurie Beth Cohen announced her resignation at the meeting. Cohen, who will graduate in December, left to allow her seat to be filled by a new member in the fall elections. Council Chair Nadya Lawson called Cohen's move "generous."

Both the resolution and the visit by O'Leary and Livingston dealt with bias toward minorities.

O'Leary announced his desire to form a coalition of students and administrators to foster the concept of a "Just Community" at SUNYA. He and Livingston took questions from Council members and guests at the meeting.

The resolution addressed the July 29 arrest of the eight students, seven of them black. New Paltz student leaders have said the arrest was racially motivated and the students were verbally and physically abused by white campus and town police officers. The New Paltz campus police have denied the allegations, saying only necessary force was used.

The Council resolution, which passed by acclamation, said the arrested students were "harassed and brutally beaten" by police, and that the treatment they received was "provoked by racism and bigotry."

Along with the condemnation of the police, the resolution said "the Student Association of the State University of New York at Albany stands in full support of the eight arrested students and the Student Association at New Paltz and pledged SA's help "in any way possible."

The eight students were charged with disorderly conduct and resisting arrest just a few days after the dismissal of the New Paltz campus police chief, Fred Olsen.

Olsen had been accused of using racial slurs and telling two black students to "get the fuck out" of his office when the students complained of being harassed by a campus policeman.

The students - former New Paltz Student Association President Anthony Winn, Gary Wilson, Steven Stuart, Christopher Alston, Michele Gentile, Broderick Clarke and Donna Cardwell - are due to appear in court Oct. 12, after several earlier appearances were postponed.

Council aims to shed bureaucratic image

By Ian Wagreich
NEWS EDITOR

With an almost entirely new Student Association Central Council already in action, newly appointed Chair Nadya Lawson plans to steer members away from the image of "bureaucratic board."

"We want people to know it is a real political body that addresses real political and social issues and does not struggle over policy," Lawson said Thursday.

"We spent too much time last year fighting over policy," Lawson said. Her plans are to make the six committees of the Council more active and involved. Lawson said any student can get involved in the committees and attend three meetings can be a full voting member.

With an increased attention to the committees - Student Action, Student Community, Finance, Inter-Collegiate Athletics, Internal Affairs and Academic Affairs - Lawson said activities of the Council can affect students.

"Our focus will be more external," she said.

Lawson said she hopes to steer the Council toward issues that adversely affect students. She also plans to help bridge the gap between the students and faculty.

"She said she hopes to develop a better sense of community.

There are 33 seat on the Council. Only four members this year are from last year's Council.

On Oct. 10 and 11 there will be a campus-wide election for 14 seat that are not filled yet.

Central Council is the lawmaking body of SUNYA student government. They frequently take a stance on issues affecting students and the campus community and pass laws affecting campus life.

EARN EXTRA MONEY TO SUPPORT YOUR BOOKS, TUITION BILLS, ETC.

TMI Corporation has 50 part time telemarketing positions available immediately:

We provide:
* Flexible Day & Evening Hours
* Company Activities
* Earning Potential of 7-$10/hr
* Guaranteed wage of $6.50/hr

Must possess good communication skills and a strong desire to succeed.

Contact Mrs. Weiss 438-4436
A bias issue is resolved

By John Jenkins

For years, there have been allegations of illegal discriminations on the cheerleading team. Initially, it was just word of mouth. A young woman would gather up the courage to go to an audition and feel helpless and unsure of herself. She may have been the recipient of words like "jag," "shut," "colored" and other derogatory epithets. She may have had the style of cheering that she has practiced all of her life referred to as "unprofessional." She may have left feeling she wasn't competent of skilled after being judged by a single jarer. There was times when the cheerleading coach was the only one chosing who made the squad.

Upon leaving, this young woman may have told a few friends of her experience, but that was as far as it went. The first case for the Affirmative Action Officer of Student Association was against the cheerleading association. I immediately went in to speak with the coach. After two long sessions of mediation we came to some resolutions.

1. The cheerleading try-outs will now be judged by a panel consisting of four or five members, only two of which are university cheerleaders associates (Coach and Co-Couch).
2. There must be at least a week's notice and proper posting procedures met when soliciting for prospective cheerleaders.
3. The coach must work with the Affirmative Action Office and Campus Life officials on leadership and sensitivity training skills.

In the Office of Affirmative Action are dedicated to assuring equality and respectful treatment to all. Only when this is achieved will organizations on our campus thrive on the benefits of diversity and plurality.

Prospective cheerleaders are invited to come try out tonight at 7 p.m. Please come out and audition or support friends who do.

The writer is the Affirmative Action Officer of the Student Association.

Hispanic Heritage Month celebrates a rich culture

By Ian Wagreich

NEWS EDITOR

Fuerza Latina, SUNYA's Hispanic student group, kicked off its celebration of Hispanic Heritage Month by holding a dinner banquet at the Thursday House, featuring state Senator Olga Mendez, D-Bronx, as the keynote speaker.

"We must understand the complexity of our culture," said Mendez, who is from the Dominican Republic.

Hispanic Awareness month includes various cultural and educational events that highlight Hispanic heritage and try to teach those who are ignorant of that heritage, according to Guillermo Martinez, chair of the month-long celebration that begins today.

"Students should not only organize around Hispanic Heritage month but continue to start networking to maintain that heritage," Mendez said.

Mendez said students should not underestimate their potential.

Mendez said the first bill she passed in the Legislation 11 years ago dealt with a 16-year-old student that was given voting right in his home state. He added that by the turn of the century the largest ethnic group in the state will be Hispanic.

Mendez said, because she "should rethink and reevaluate the state of race relations in our land and eradicate ignorance."

Some events Fuerza Latina plans for this month are films, a candle-light ceremony and a Spanish dance theater performance.

New Stafford loan rules causing delays

(CPS) New, hastily imposed federal rules have pitched many campus financial aid offices into a crisis in recent weeks, dramatically delaying the process of delivering Stafford Loans to students, financial aid directors around the country say.

The crisis could keep some students from getting their loans until after their tuition deadlines have passed, the directors add.

"Students aren't liking it well," said Gereeley Myer, aids director at New Mexico State University (NMSU). The rules, designed to try to minimize the student loan default rate, require campus counselors to contact students taking out their first Stafford Loan about how to repay the loan.

"Some students have already been through this with their lender," Myers noted. "Here's one more round of bureaucratic paperwork."

"I already pretty much knew all that they told me," affirmed Daryl Fambrough, a NMSU freshman, after a counseling session.

Aids directors like Myers say they simply didn't have time to implement the rules efficiently. The announcement that the rules would be implemented for the rules efficiently. The announcement that the rules would be in place for this semester - instead of next spring or fall, as most assumed - was published in the Federal Register August 24, leaving aids officials scrambling to find time and staffing to counsel students just as students began returning to school.

"I'm finding it overwhelming and depressing, especially when I think of having to do this every semester," said Baylor University's David Bond.

"There was no way to plan ahead," complained Kenneth Cook, aids director at the University of Wisconsin in Oshkosh.

Anticipated bottlenecks - where borrowers are stuck without money to pay for food, books and tuition until they get their loan, which they can't do until they're properly counseled - haven't appeared, at least not yet.

"There could be some delays (In paying tuition), but the university will take a pretty lenient posture," promised Lenton Clark, aids director at the University of Arkansas.

Most schools have resorted to offering group sessions several times a day, using a video to warn students of their repayment obligations and the consequences of defaulting.

Though using a video has eased some staffing burdens, aids officials had to identify who was taking out a Stafford Loan for the first time, a task that called for combing through records by hand.

"This whole process is slowing down our personnel from giving other students help," Baylor's Bond charged.

Arkansas officials didn't even try to tag beginning borrowers.

"It's almost impossible to identify new borrowers, so we're making everyone (who takes out a Stafford Loan) go through the process," Clark said.

The counseling dictum is part of a multi-pronged attack, first unveiled June 1, aimed at punishing schools that do a bad job of collecting loans.

Under the Stafford, or "guaranteed," loan program, students actually borrow money from banks, but the government guarantees the banks if the students fail to repay their loans.

As the default rate has grown, the government has taken enormous losses.

This year alone, it will pay banks $18.1 billion to cover bad student loans, or about $37 cents for every dollar congress appropriated for student aid.

Past efforts to get more students to repay their loans have helped. On August 10, the Dept. of Education unveiled six new federal education programs like Stafford Loans, reported the default rate fell four percent, to 17 percent, from 1987 to 1988.

The command to scoundrels grew from a belief that some students may default simply because they are unaware of their borrowing responsibilities.

But the new anti-default rules have a tougher side. They demand that some 1,803 schools that have default rates higher than 20 percent immediately formulate new loan collection programs.

Starting in October, 1,040 schools with rates above 30 percent must wait to release additional information on the bad loans.

Part Time Position Available

ADMINISTRATIVE SUPPORT STAFF

TMI Corporation has two part time positions available; we provide:

- Flexible day & Evening Hours
- Paid Holidays
- Sick Pay
- Competitive Wage

THE CHOSEN INDIVIDUALS MUST HAVE:

- Good Typing Skills
- Good Communication Skills
- Professional Image
- A High Degree of Organization
- Ability to Learn Quickly

If Interested, call Mrs. Barach At 438-4436 For A Interview

TELECOMMUNICATIONS MARKETING, INC

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 15, 1989 ALBANY STUDENT PRESS 6

Introducing

The New International

"SPIRAL PERM"

REG. $45.00

NOW ONLY:

$25.00

Precision Haircuts... $10.00
Scalpulated Nail Tips... $19.99
Relaxers...$12.50

B.FORMAN CO.

COLONIE CENTER
459-3278

SUITESWEST PLAZA
458-4444
We also offer facials, manicures,
defibulation, waxing,
foot highlighting and hair extensions

OPEN EVENINGS TIL 8:00 P.M.

IF YOU WANT TO BE A PHYSICIAN WE'LL PAY FOR IT.

IF YOU'RE WILLING TO INVEST YOUR SKILLS AND KNOWLEDGE AS A PHYSICIAN, WE'LL INVEST IN YOU AND PAY FOR YOUR EDUCATION THROUGH medical school. IF YOU QUALIFY, THE AFFIRMATIVE ACTION OFFICE WILL PAY YOUR MEDICAL SCHOOL TUITION AND FEES. Sell us a dream, maybe.

Continued on page 13
DIGESTS

Frat's ready for rush

The Inter Fraternity Council and its member fraternities will have tables set up in the lecture center hallways from noon to 4 p.m. Monday, Sept. 18 to Wednesday, Sept. 20 for all students interested in rushing a fraternity. The IFC will also tour the quad flagrooms on the same dates. Representatives will be present at 7 p.m. on State and 9 p.m. on Indian on Sept. 18. Colonial, Dutch and Alumni quad's Brubacher ballroom will be visited on Sept. 20.

Dr. Barlow honored

Dr. David H. Barlow, a University at Albany psychologist who is one of the most important figures in the field of anxiety disorders and their treatment, has received a major award from the American Psychological Association, the University said in a prepared statement.

Barlow, of Delmar, was named recipient of the Distinguished Scientist Award from the Clinical Research Section of the APA's Division of Clinical Psychology at the group's annual convention in New Orleans recently. The APA represents more than 68,000 psychologists in some 40 divisions nationwide, including more than 6,000 individuals in the Division of Clinical Psychology who are primarily interested in research.

Research clinic

According to Dorothy E. Christiansen, Associate for Library Development, between Oct. 2 and Nov. 24 the University Libraries will again offer personalized advice and instruction on how to do library research. This library Research and Term Paper Clinic will be staffed at least eight hours a week or sessions are also available by appointment.

If you'd like to take advantage of this individualized assistance, pick up an appointment form at the Reference Desk in the University Library, go to ULB 16 and sign up for one of the available time slots on the schedule sheet or call Jacquelyn Gavryck, Coordinator for Bibliographic Instruction (442-3552) for a special appointment. Your advisor will meet Dr. Barlow honored

By Pete LaMassa
ASSOCIATE ASPECTS EDITOR

Adirondack Trailways has announced that on Fridays, beginning September 8, there will be three afternoon trips from the Administrative Circle to downstate locations. The three trips leave the Circle at 1 p.m., 3:10 p.m. and 4:15 p.m. Students presenting valid SUNYA identification are eligible for special reduced fares.

Tickets and schedules may be obtained from Copies Plus on the main floor of Campus Center.

Michael LetteraUPS

RESERVE OFFICERS' TRAINING CORPS

BELIEVE IT OR NOT, THIS GUY IS IN CLASS.

Contact Major O'Connor..................438-2010

NEW BUS SERVICE

Michael LetteraUPS

ADVERTISING

THINK ABOUT IT...
Everything has to do with advertising, what you wear, how you think, what you eat. Take a bigger step in your life and become a part of this growing field.

By Pete LaMassa
ASSOCIATE ASPECTS EDITOR

Adirondack Trailways has announced that on Fridays, beginning September 8, there will be three afternoon trips from the Administrative Circle to downstate locations. The three trips leave the Circle at 1 p.m., 3:10 p.m. and 4:15 p.m. Students presenting valid SUNYA identification are eligible for special reduced fares.

Paul Provost, Vice President of Business Development for Adirondack Trailways said that a student travelling to Hempstead, for example, will get a one-way ticket for $15 instead of the regular adult fare of $25.75.

"There is a large number of students who travel by bus, and it's a market we had to address more seriously," Provost added.

Tickets and schedules may be obtained from Copies Plus on the main floor of Campus Center.

By Pete LaMassa
ASSOCIATE ASPECTS EDITOR

Adirondack Trailways has announced that on Fridays, beginning September 8, there will be three afternoon trips from the Administrative Circle to downstate locations. The three trips leave the Circle at 1 p.m., 3:10 p.m. and 4:15 p.m. Students presenting valid SUNYA identification are eligible for special reduced fares.

Paul Provost, Vice President of Business Development for Adirondack Trailways said that a student travelling to Hempstead, for example, will get a one-way ticket for $15 instead of the regular adult fare of $25.75.

"There is a large number of students who travel by bus, and it's a market we had to address more seriously," Provost added.

Tickets and schedules may be obtained from Copies Plus on the main floor of Campus Center.

Business Development for Adirondack Trailways said that a student travelling to Hempstead, for example, will get a one-way ticket for $15 instead of the regular adult fare of $25.75.

"There is a large number of students who travel by bus, and it's a market we had to address more seriously," Provost added.

Tickets and schedules may be obtained from Copies Plus on the main floor of Campus Center.

Business Development for Adirondack Trailways said that a student travelling to Hempstead, for example, will get a one-way ticket for $15 instead of the regular adult fare of $25.75.

"There is a large number of students who travel by bus, and it's a market we had to address more seriously," Provost added.

Tickets and schedules may be obtained from Copies Plus on the main floor of Campus Center.
A Sad Day for SUNYA

When University President Vincent O'Leary formally announced his resignation yesterday, he signalled the end of an era at Albany State. His resignation is not effective for a year, but it is already apparent that finding a replacement for O'Leary will be no easy task. He has done incredible work during his years at SUNYA, and although students have, at times, found their relationship with him to be of an adversarial nature, they have always respected him and held him in high regard. Finding a president who can command the respect O'Leary did will be no easy task.

Since taking the helm in 1978, O'Leary has helped SUNYA grow to become one of the most popular universities in New York state. On the academic level, O'Leary helped increase programs and saw the academic reputation of the university rise. Crisis after crisis, time after time, Vincent O'Leary came out calm and usually successful.

There's still another year left, and a lot can happen in one year. Already, there are signs of a further commitment to athletics, as committees investigate the possibilities of going Division I. Although this probably wouldn't happen for some time, O'Leary deserves a lot of credit for getting the ball rolling on what could be the biggest change this school has ever undergone. Chances are excellent that an upgrade in athletics would be a tremendous success, one O'Leary probably wouldn't be credited with, but one he's sure to be proud of.

There's a lot that O'Leary could do, and probably will do, in a year. But a year from now, the world of criminal justice will have a fine, dedicated man back in their midst, and SUNYA will have bid farewell to years of fine leadership.

Bored?

Tired? Looking for something to do, but you just can't figure out what? That's funny, because almost every student group leader on campus will talk about how many uninterested, apathetic soap-watchers there are on campus, and how they wish they could get across to these students.

Maybe there's just a lack of communication between those who want to get involved and those who are looking for people. But there are hundreds of groups, whether social, professional, cultural, ethnic, or political, that cater to almost every taste, hobby and interest around. Some students might be sick of hearing all about getting involved, but it really is an essential aspect of life on this campus.

If you doubt it, just ask some of the people who got involved in an organization. They'll talk about the friends they made, the people they hate, and all the times in between. They'll tell you how much they learned, and how much they are better off for it.

So when you see an interest meeting poster, and it looks interesting, go. In the long run, you'll be better off for it.

A Drink Down Memory Lane

Kathleen A. Bove

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Too late</th>
<th>Night, Day, Late night Wandering, Littleless,</th>
<th>My face Away from The desire To delved</th>
<th>Is a Poor man's _ _ _</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>To tell</td>
<td>Day, Littleless,</td>
<td>Into a dream Of Vodka Kahlan</td>
<td>Joke;</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Na, Ma, Ya never</td>
<td></td>
<td>And cream, Ma,</td>
<td>Laughing</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Told me</td>
<td></td>
<td>Hell yeah,</td>
<td>His way Into</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
| It gets | | It gets real | \\
| This way, | | Scaring myself Bad As bad as, As a monster. | Flame into |
| These days | | Baby | Around and |
| Been like | | | And the |
| Way worse, | | | Leaving |
| Than hell. | | | |
| And guess what? | | | |
| It's not over. | | | |
| Got aloft | | | |
| To head out with. | | | |
| Before my | | | |
| Angled age, | | | |
| Gets me older, | | | |
| Makes me dumber. | | | |
| Ah, Ma, | | | |
| I got bad | | | |
| A while back. | | | |
| I bit | | | |
| My lip, | | | |
| It hurt | | | |
| So much, But never | | | |
| Did I | | | |
| Abuse | | | |
| Or Touch | | | |
| That | | | |
| Fucking bottle | | | |
| I | | | |
| Chucked | | | |
| Aside. | | | |
| I bit | | | |
| My lip | | | |
| And took | | | |
| A ride; | | | |
| Around | | | |
| Around, Up and down, | | | |
| What it means | Is a Poor man's _ _ _ |
| To think | Joke; |
| And feel. | Laughing |
| Now, | His way Into | | Thoughts | | |
| Flames | | |
| Around and | | |
| And | | |
| The uncomfortable, Queer Sense Of nowhere. | |
| It's bad In here. | |
| I finally Found | |
| A face For fear With | |
| A giant Smear Of a whiskey Smear | |
| On a tangled Thing Without An ear To hear | |
| My screams Sleep | |
| Sleep Slips into Slides over And | |
| Snags on, Cherry Coke | |
| Stop | | |

The staring Start
| The caring | The caring |
| 'Cause | 'Cause |
| It's only | Me. |
| And | And |
| Sometimes, Alo | Of times, Too many | | Times, | |
| I can't see | Past |
| The neck Of the bottle; Like | |
| The wheel Of a bus I used | To throttle |
| While I Stumbled, | Stammered |
| To \. | |
| It's in | All of us |
| This | |
| I know, But it Doesn't lift | That |
| Fucking | Fucksuck |
| Louthome Out there. | | |
| They all Look at me As though | |
| They see | They never |
| I'll never Make it To the day | |
| When I'm Done | |
| To get Further out | To begin |
| The strangled Shout. | | |
Shelleyan Orphan:
Poetry in Motion

Some people just don't like talking on the phone. Or about themselves. Black Francis doesn't like doing either. Nor will he agree to meet in person very often. He's the lead singer of Boston's The Pixies, America's biggest college radio band this week, and his real name is Charles. He doesn't seem to like others knowing his real name — he doesn't even offer a story behind the alias ("dunno, just a name").

Raymond Rogers

"That's precisely what we'd like to know," said vocalist Caroline Crawley, who makes up the core of Shelleyan Orphan with Jemaur Tayle. "We've certainly never heard pre-Raphaelite music before."

The two are learning how first impressions really can stick, especially if enhanced by a bandwagon press corps. "Once you've got a bloody label, it's bloody hard to get rid of it," Crawley said. While on tour with the Cure in France, Crawley was pursued by a tenacious admirer. "I tried very hard to knock myself off this pedestal he put me on. He had this vision of me being pre-Raphaelite and dressed in long, flowing robes and head in his dark brown hair down a bit since last year's debut "Helborine" and sits, keenly interested in a blue turtle neck. There is nothing "psudo" at all about those two — they think before answering, and counter or compliment each other accordingly. Crawley was even a half hour late, for which she apologized, upon catching her breath as she entered. They live in a comfortable suburb of north London.

"People don't understand — we're just like anyone else. I'll go out dancing, or go for a pint, but they just can't seem to get away from those stereotypes," Crawley said.

They've certainly proven themselves everyday people, but the music they make is thoroughly literary. They're very keen on bands who use strings, and even a few who've used choirs (Dream Academy, even Julian Cope), but none others who've melded them into such a gloriously unabashed, unorthodox tapestry.

"We've never studied music before. We just think of how we want it to sound in our heads, and then hum it into a tape recorder or play it on the guitar and play it for the musicians," Tayle said. "People are so shocked at the way we do it, we just can't believe we can actually "write" music."

"It's just that no one ever told us we couldn't do it this way, so we just did it," Crawley explained. "If you're told you can't do that, then you won't. But we weren't told that until afterwards, so we didn't know any better and we did do it."

"When we met all of these really studied musicians, it was so hard to believe how uncreative they are with so much knowledge. Here we are doing this and we can't even technically write or read music."

Some people just don't like talking on the phone. Or about themselves. Black Francis doesn't like doing either. Nor will he agree to meet in person very often. He's the lead singer of Boston's The Pixies, America's biggest college radio band this week, and his real name is Charles. He doesn't seem to like others knowing his real name — he doesn't even offer a story behind the alias ("dunno, just a name").

Raymond Rogers

If you've ever seen him you'd think Charles quite fitting — he's a large pot-bellied guy. He likes flannel. This may be why he didn't agree to do a face-to-face interview. Hearing him is quite another matter. He sings songs like "Wave of Mutilation," a band in America. (Another contradiction.)

Their music is brutally beautiful, or gongingly ugly if you prefer. Listen to them, hate them, listen to them, and go see them. Just don't give 'em a call.

The Pixies: Doolittle, say even less.

We're being pressured to learn now. They'd really like to learn how to use the instruments themselves. Crawley always wanted to take lessons as a child, but her mother thought she was too precocious to begin with. Tayle has tried picking up the oboe on his own now, but just doesn't have the time.

"There's just a lovely human element that has to go into those instruments, the sounds are wonderful, but it's people's personalities that come out through those instruments. You can't tell anybody's personality or their emotions when they're playing a sample keyboard or a synthesizer," Tayle said. "With the oboe it's more immediate, it's very important to what we do."

The two blend the classical instruments with their beautiful, bonafide poetry into a kaleidoscope life-cycle of emotions. The melodies can be so uplifting, while the lyrics are almost always distressing. Tayle says that is intentional. "We wanted the songs to be blistered or double-edged; so you might have a really jolly melody and the lyrics can be quite cutting. I think it's like that anyway. It's always double-edged."

For instance the first single, "Shatter" is about an emotional break-up, but the stinging words are mixed between screaming sax lines, crescendo-ing strings, and Crawley's, or Tayle's, or both vocals flittering in and out of it all.

The two are learning how first impressions really can stick, especially if enhanced by a bandwagon press corps. "Once you've got a bloody label, it's bloody hard to get rid of it," Crawley said. While on tour with the Cure in France, Crawley was pursued by a tenacious admirer. "I tried very hard to knock myself off this pedestal he put me on. He had this vision of me being pre-Raphaelite and dressed in long, flowing robes and head in his dark brown hair down a bit since last year's debut "Helborine" and sits, keenly interested in a blue turtle neck. There is nothing "psudo" at all about those two — they think before answering, and counter or compliment each other accordingly. Crawley was even a half hour late, for which she apologized, upon catching her breath as she entered. They live in a comfortable suburb of north London.

"People don't understand — we're just like anyone else. I'll go out dancing, or go for a pint, but they just can't seem to get away from those stereotypes," Crawley said.

They've certainly proven themselves everyday people, but the music they make is thoroughly literary. They're very keen on bands who use strings, and even a few who've used choirs (Dream Academy, even Julian Cope), but none others who've melded them into such a gloriously unabashed, unorthodox tapestry.

"We've never studied music before. We just think of how we want it to sound in our heads, and then hum it into a tape recorder or play it on the guitar and play it for the musicians," Tayle said. "People are so shocked at the way we do it, we just can't believe we can actually "write" music."

"It's just that no one ever told us we couldn't do it this way, so we just did it," Crawley explained. "If you're told you can't do that, then you won't. But we weren't told that until afterwards, so we didn't know any better and we did do it."

"When we met all of these really studied musicians, it was so hard to believe how uncreative they are with so much knowledge. Here we are doing this and we can't even technically write or read music."

Some people just don't like talking on the phone. Or about themselves. Black Francis doesn't like doing either. Nor will he agree to meet in person very often. He's the lead singer of Boston's The Pixies, America's biggest college radio band this week, and his real name is Charles. He doesn't seem to like others knowing his real name — he doesn't even offer a story behind the alias ("dunno, just a name").

Raymond Rogers

If you've ever seen him you'd think Charles quite fitting — he's a large pot-bellied guy. He likes flannel. This may be why he didn't agree to do a face-to-face interview. Hearing him is quite another matter — he speaks in another story — he shrinks and holliers very, very dark tales, the kind a Black Francis would. He sings songs like "Wave of Mutilation," "Dead," and , his personal favorite, "Gouge Away."

Poetry violent imagery there, eh Chuck, or, uh Black? "Yeah, there's some violent tales," he admitted. "But they're just words, don't mean anything. I just write 'em down, whatever comes into my head, all said by phone from a hotel in Providence, Rhode island.

"Monkey Gone to Heaven," the band's college radio hit, is a melodic/guitar crunch struggle. Francis explained, "It has some memomental references in there [underwater guy got killed by ten million pounds of sludge from N.Y. and N.J./ 'underwater guy got killed by ten million pounds of sludge from N.Y. and N.J.']. It has some memomental references in there [underwater guy got killed by ten million pounds of sludge from N.Y. and N.J.]."
If you are looking to become involved in

STUDENT ASSOCIATION ELECTIONS

applications are now being taken for

Area Coordinators and Poll Watchers

Applications available in Campus Center 116 or contact 442-5640

---

The letter would have read something like this:

"Imagine my surprise when a friend of mine from a small town in upstate New York called to tell me that my town — Shirley — had made it big. I could hardly contain my excitement, knowing that my town was mentioned on the pages of Rolling Stone Magazine. I had just two beaches other than Jones Beach made it on the Long Island page of the "where to go, what to do and what to see" page, and one of them is right here in Shirley. Thank you, RS, thank you so much."

Of course I never wrote such a letter, nor would I mail it if I had, but the sentiment is real, even if I wasn’t all that excited. But having my town — the object of much ridicule by both outsiders and insiders alike — mentioned on the pages of Rolling Stone (the one with the Who on the cover) was something to relish. Until now, I confess, it wasn’t a town with a very hip image. It’s been very easy to trash my town. Shirley is a town whose residents (myself not included) rallied to change its name to Floyd Harbor.

And the premise did have its strengths — the idea was to upgrade the image of the town, to start anew. Even Floyd as a replacement for Shirley seemed sound; William Floyd was a signer of the Declaration of Independence whose estate is in the area, while Walter Shirley was merely a developer. But the funny thing is (and here’s the catch) — we don’t have a harbor. Thankfully, the plan didn’t get too far off the ground.

So it’s easy to “town-bash” with Shirley. I also love to point out to people that the pizza place across from Wm. Floyd High School has a sign above it that reads, “Dining Room.” That’s right. For fine dining, grab a table at the dining room. I thought of taking a snapshot of it and making it into a postcard. Below the sign I would stand with a sign that reads: “Help.”

It’s not always me, though that trashes Shirley — usually it’s outsiders. And it all comes down to the name. “Where are you from?” people ask and when I answer “Shirley” I get one of the following:

"Surely, you jest?"
"Hey, does Laverne live there?"
"Shirley? Shirley?"

Then when I came to Albany a few years ago, it seemed much easier to just say “Long Island.” But the usual rebuttal to that is “Oh, (with obnoxious accent) you’re from LongIsland.” “No,” I’d say, “I’m from Long Island — it’s two words.” Or if felt like being testy about it I’d say, “I’m from the island that’s long.”

Even that, however, would get complicated, because most people pursue the issue — which brings me right back to Shirley, the town recently elevated in status on the pages of Rolling Stone. I figure that the folks who change the name to Floyd Harbor (unless they build a harbor, then succeed) would love to erect a sign that would read: “Welcome to Shirley, home of Smith Point beach, cited in Rolling Stone Magazine.” Then I’d like to create a postcard of me standing before it, magazine in hand, with a sign that reads: “Make a left to get to the dining room. To get to the harbor, start building... (Surely, you jest? Yeah, I guess so...)"

---

Comedy Night @the Ballroom

Student Association Presents:

Randy Levin

$5 Student
$6 Non-Student

SEPT. 21st
8 p.m.
CAMPUS CENTER BALLROOM

---

WQCB Ten Most for 11 Sept. 89

1. Pogues: Peace and Love
2. Fetchin Bones: Monster
3. Hoodoo Gurus: Magum Cum Louder
4. B-52’s: Cosmic Thing
5. Bevis Frond: The Aunt Winnie Album
6. Nirvana: Bleach
7. Half Japanese: The Band That Would Be King
8. Buffalo Tom: Buffalo Tom
9. Exene C: Old Wives Tales
10. Red Hot Chili Peppers: Mother's Milk
Bigmouth Strikes Again?

Mort says "zip it." He was wearing a white pressed shirt that accentuated his tan and his sleeves were rolled up to just below the elbow, signifying casual but classy. On his shirt he wore a button that read, "Mort says, "Zip it.""

Stef McDonald

That's zip it as in shut up. Pipe down. Pull up on it. Seal it. Muffle it. Save it. Shhbb.

The controversial two-year old "Morton DowneyJr. Show" is off the air. cancelled. Essentially, they told Mort to zip it.

With the announcement that his show was being dropped, Mort almost immediately grabbed the headlines, claiming, "I've been given up by a gang of skinheads, proving that his career had indeed defied the adage, "you don't have to shout to be heard." Downey shouts to be heard—it's that simple.

But soon after the alleged assault, plans were launched for a sit-com to star the talk show "loud mouth." It's to be called "That's Our Dad," it's to air on NBC and in it he'll play a washed-up country singer living in a trailer. His daughter on the show will be played by Downey's 23 year old old fiancée, Rafael. "I became the linebacker" of the show created a new frontier for talk. Let's give him a bit of a break, but he also claims to be open-minded, and willing to be swayed. "I sincerely believed in the issues I was fighting for," he said. He also credits himself for breaking new ground for other talk show hosts like Phil Donahue, Geraldo Rivera, Oprah Winfrey, and Sally Jesse Raphael. "I became the linebacker" of the talk show team, he said. Now it's time to sit on the bench for a while, and if Downey is bitter, he does a very good job of concealing it. " Obviously I feel I need a rest from it," he said. "I had to take an awful lot of heat for being frank, and we think we've come up with something. Again, a step forward." As it is, Downey has been rescued by the media at large, and just about everybody likes him. His skepticism is understood, but he's certainly done his own share of trash. This night he tells the tale of a confrontation last year with Kirry Dukakis. After her publicity was publicly traded by Downey before the primaries, the governor's wife was defensive and informed Downey that in his opinion she was an "advocate". Unlike The Unbearable Lightness of Being there isn't a single shot of nudity, and this film isn't nearly as dull. By the time the credits start rolling up you may feel a bit empty inside. You will suddenly realize that the people you have just spent the last two hours with are just characters on a big screen. If that happens, you're thinking about what they're developing proves to be fruitless. Downey simply smiled and offered, "They that say my show created a new frontier for talk, let's create another one." For now, he's opted to just zip it.

Clarence Eckerson

sex lies and videotape: tales between the sheets

Rarely does a film engage the viewer the way sex, lies, and videotape does. Director Steven Soderbergh uses a mobile camera to enhance an intelligent script, creating a mood that transports the audience. The remarkable cinematography of the camerawork provides us with our own invisible camera. The motions the camera makes are the ones an invisible person would make. The camera pans about the room or zooms in on characters. This forever alters the stability of their lives. Soderbergh has made brilliant use of camera angles and editing to convey an impression that we are within the space that actors occupy. In critical scenes he has the camera pan about the room or zoom in slowly to close-ups. But he does it so subtly that we hardly notice. The motions the camera makes are the ones an invisible watcher would make, what we feel we are seeing is real life and not a movie at all. Also to Soderbergh's credit is the well- penned script. Not only is it an outstanding drama but it is injected with spots of humor. For example, when Ann isoph, he's with her therapist discussing a topic of masturbation she says, "I've only tried it once and I felt uneasy doing it...Like my dead grandfather might be watching me or something." The film makes us laugh not because of its funny lines, but because we have all done or said the same things in similar situations.

Credit for the success of this film must also go to four solid performances. Most notable is James Spader, who at first tempts us with his charm and childhood innocence to scorn us when we find out about his disgusting sexual oddities. His character, however, comes full circle when we learn why he is this way and we want to help him as he struggles to overcome it. The remaining three characters also go through similar periods of the and dislike and all handle their roles in the same sophisticated way.

The title of the film may give off a negative connotation in that there is a superfluous amount of sex, but the events that take place are true. Unlike The Unbearable Lightness of Being there isn't a single shot of nudity, and this film isn't nearly as dull.

SEPTEMBER 15, 1989 ASPECTS 3A
NEWS Beat

No Dice

Comic Andrew "Dice" Clay won't be seen on MTV any time in the future, following his objectionable performance at last week's sixth annual MTV Video Music Awards Show in Los Angeles. The comic reportedly violated an agreement with the network regarding the nature of his routine to be performed for the live broadcast. According to an MTV spokesman, both Clay and his management assured MTV that he would cut out any obscenities from his act, and when he rehearsed, his opening patter showed no indication of a violation of that deal. But when Clay took the stage he started off with his usual infamous rhymes, and even introduced a few new more "roughly" ones. He continued with talk of how he likes "big tits." Dick Clark was reportedly on stage with his arm folded, glaring at Clay to clean up the act, and there were even some boos from the audience. Immediately following his act, an MTV executive greeted members of the press backstage to announce that Clay would be banned from the network. An official statement released by the network apologized to viewers and made it known that the comic won't be seen on the network. A publicist from Clay's record company Def America compared the incident to the one in which late comic Lenny Bruce was arrested for using the word "cock sucker" in his act. That Clay was banned from MTV he said is "great," citing it as great publicity.

This note's for them

...Meanwhile, Living Colour walked away the biggest winners of the night with three awards for their "Cult of Personality" video, for best new artist, best group, and best stage performance in a video. The New York band currently out on the road supporting the Rolling Stones were presented with the awards by Mick Jagger, via a live satellite remote. The surprise winner of the night, however, was Neil Young, who was awarded in the Best Video category for "This Note's For You," a video that MTV wouldn't play because of its numerous references to commercial products, many of which advertise on the network.

Mad about her message

Belinda Carlisle, who has made herself known as an activist for both animal rights and environmental protection, will attempt to bring her message directly to her fans with the release of her up-coming album, Carlisle, who appears on the Greenspace Rainbow Warriors album and was one of the celebrities present at the first annual communication industry conference on the environment in Los Angeles this past month, will include in her album Runaway Horses two inserts to help further spread her messages. One will come from P.I.T.A. and will, of course, promote the ethical treatment of animals, while the second will pitch for "environmental awareness."

He won't back down

Meanwhile, Tom Petty, another supporter of Greenspace, met with some opposition at two recent venues on his current tour. At Jones Beach last month, the Greenspace representatives, who set up tables to inform fans of their work, were banned from the grounds. Petty expressed his disapproval on stage to the fans, asking them to write to the Governor to complain. Then less than a week later, at the Garden State Art Center in New Jersey, Petty was informed again that the Greenspace representatives would have to go, but this time Petty objected — and they were allowed to stay.

Rock'n'Fashion

The Rolling Stones may not be the first veteran band to return to the stage after an absence, but it is the first to put out a fully designed clothing line. Featuring about 46 pieces, "Rolling Stone Rockwear" offers fans an alternative to the t-shirt, with items such as leather jackets, polo shirts, skateboards, and even sneakers (licensed through Converse), with the trademark tongue or steel wheel (as on the new album Steel Wheels) as a logo. The line is manufactured by Brockum Manufacturers, the sister company to go, but this time Petty objected — and they were allowed to stay.

This note's for them

...Meanwhile, Living Colour walked away the biggest winners of the night with three awards for their "Cult of Personality" video, for best new artist, best group, and best stage performance in a video. The New York band currently out on the road supporting the Rolling Stones were presented with the awards by Mick Jagger, via a live satellite remote. The surprise winner of the night, however, was Neil Young, who was awarded in the Best Video category for "This Note's For You," a video that MTV wouldn't play because of its numerous references to commercial products, many of which advertise on the network.

Mad about her message

Belinda Carlisle, who has made herself known as an activist for both animal rights and environmental protection, will attempt to bring her message directly to her fans with the release of her up-coming album, Carlisle, who appears on the Greenspace Rainbow Warriors album and was one of the celebrities present at the first annual communication industry conference on the environment in Los Angeles this past month, will include in her album Runaway Horses two inserts to help further spread her messages. One will come from P.I.T.A. and will, of course, promote the ethical treatment of animals, while the second will pitch for "environmental awareness."

He won't back down

Meanwhile, Tom Petty, another supporter of Greenspace, met with some opposition at two recent venues on his current tour. At Jones Beach last month, the Greenspace representatives, who set up tables to inform fans of their work, were banned from the grounds. Petty expressed his disapproval on stage to the fans, asking them to write to the Governor to complain. Then less than a week later, at the Garden State Art Center in New Jersey, Petty was informed again that the Greenspace representatives would have to go, but this time Petty objected — and they were allowed to stay.

Rock'n'Fashion

The Rolling Stones may not be the first veteran band to return to the stage after an absence, but it is the first to put out a fully designed clothing line. Featuring about 46 pieces, "Rolling Stone Rockwear" offers fans an alternative to the t-shirt, with items such as leather jackets, polo shirts, skateboards, and even sneakers (licensed through Converse), with the trademark tongue or steel wheel (as on the new album Steel Wheels) as a logo. The line is manufactured by Brockum Manufacturers, the sister company to go, but this time Petty objected — and they were allowed to stay.
To the Editor:

Young Communist League. This bemused band of (Groucho) Marxists are out to save the world from capitalism so they may control it themselves in the name of peace, love, and totalitarianism. Unfortunately, they have spent too much time cheerfully daydreaming of the good'ole days of Stalin and the Gulag, that they have failed to see that communism’s epiphany has been practically written on the Berlin Wall. We have witnessed communism’s failure in the west in the Soviet republics, in the brutal massacre of students in China, in the massive exodus from East Germany and in the capitulation of the communist Polish government to Solidarity. These to name but a few, however, the YCL will claim that these are not “true” communists. Never less, as they say, “if it walks like a duck and quacks like a duck,...”

Perhaps one member has read something other than the Peoples (Propagandized) Daily World, because their latest poster boasts that you need not be a communist to join the YCL. Comical as that may sound, it is a clear indication that the YCL is driven less by ideology, than by immaturity.

I suggest that students interested in politics look into Young Democrats or the College Republicans. The College Republicans is the largest, most active political group on campus, meetings are every Monday night at 8 p.m. in LC12, all students are welcome.

—Rory P. Whelan
Chairman, College Republicans

The Albany Student Press is looking for an Editorial Pages Editor

This is a paid position and requires 10-15 hours of work a week.

It involves choosing the letters and political cartoons which appear on the Opinions and Letters Pages.

All those interested should submit two writing samples to Managing Editor Sandie Weitzman in Campus Center 329.
Classified ads are being accepted at Campus Center 332 during the hours of 10-4. Classified advertising must be paid in check or cash at the time of insertion. Minimum charge for billing is $25 per issue.

No ads will be printed without a full name, address or phone number on the advertising form. Credit may be extended, but NO refunds will be given. Editorial policy will not permit ads to be printed which contain blatant profanity or those that are in poor taste. We reserve the right to reject any material deemed unsuitable for publication.

All advertising seeking models or soliciting parts of the human body will not be accepted. Advertisers seeking an exception to this policy must receive permission from the Editor in Chief of the Albany Student Press.

If you have any questions or problems concerning classified advertising, please feel free to call or stop by the business office.

JOBS

GOVERNMENT JOBS! Now hiring in your area, both skilled and unskilled. For a current list of jobs and application, call 1-615-383-2627, ext. P 206.

WANTED

Students and Clubs to join the 99-'90 Student Travel Services Sales Team. Earn CASH and/or FREE Winter and Spring Break vacations. Travel with the ASP to our exciting ski and sun destinations. For information call 1-605-449-4875.

Drivers wanted

Valet parking service needs responsible drivers. Flexible hours, good pay. Call John at 438-5427. Leave message.

Immediate Employment Opportunities

Olan Mills

1321 Central Avenue

Excellent Income Opportunity

Part time or Full time 15-20 hrs/wk

Advertising department - Delivery people. Call today 456-7555.

Legal Secretary/ SA Legal Services

All 20 hour week $4.25-$4.75/hr. Legal secretarial training or experience necessary. Call 442-5654.

Temporary Jobs Available

Excellent phone manner; understanding of English language; ability to work with computer keyboard; spelling and grammatical proficiency. Excellent wages. Hours flexible. Call 509-339-2387.

FOR SALE

Attention - Government seized vehicles from $100. Fords, Mercedes, Corvettes, Chevys. Surplus Buyers Guide. 1-602-836-8685 EXT A5175.

ENTREPRENEURS

If you have a genuine desire to make $50 and are willing to work for it, 20 year old CO. Seeks individuals to head up campus operation. Contact Mr. Brooks at (614)432-8244 for APPT.

FEMALE SEeks non-smoking roommate. Furnished Townhouse Central air, microwave dishwasher. lush carpet, fenced yard. No lessee 250 - 456-5083 Days

GETTING PERSONAL

California Couple Happily married for 10 years. Antique to adopt newborn infant.

Do you have frozen Vanelona?

Make mine Velveeta!

Mmm... soo good!

721 Main

Rule number one is broken - Go to Heman's.

Welcome back Lara Bernstein

We missed your love, Heidi

DPhiE

Epsilon sorority welcomes everyone for their SUNDAY look for our Informal Fall Rush '89.

Why

Happy Birthday! I hope that you have a great day. I love you with all my heart. Love always and forever, Heidi

DELTA PHI EPSILON sorority Informal Rush '89

DELTA PHI EPSILON

Epsilon Sorority Informal Rush '89

DELTA PHI EPSILON sorority Informal Rush '89

DELTA PHI EPSILON sorority Informal Rush Fall '89

DELTA PHI EPSILON sorority

Informal Rush Fast '89 Check us out!

INGRID

You know, I still owe you a beer, health kick notwithstanding. P.S. - the ASP's not the same without you.

Bryan, Morgan, Matt, and John,

WHAT A NIGHT!!! I just want to tell all of you just how amazing you are. It was definitely not an easy night for any of us, but you made my first night as M.E. just a little bit easier. Once again, you have proved that student crews can do it. THANKS!!

Mom and Dad,

I know you worry about me and the time I spend here, but again, please realize that I DO love what I do. Don't worry, I know where my priorities are. Most of all, just remember that I love you both very much, even though I don't tell you enough or call when supposed to.

Love, Sandle

To all of Y'!

Let's look forward to a great year!!!

WE ARE the SORORITY to WATCH!!!

Yours in PNG GAM.

Sande-

Congratulations (same to you, John). You've put in your time and done a terrific job, and I expect more of the same. Here's to an awesome fall!!

To GAL,

thanks for coming through in a pinch, it was appreciated.

MGT

IW-

I miss you already, but I'm proud to have worked with - UH! - you. And it'll be fun to - UH!- hang out with you on a slightly leisure time - UH! - basis. See you in - UH! - LC 20.

Sandle-

To all of YOU!

WE ARE the SORORITY to WATCH!!!

Love, Sandle

IW-

even despite all the fights and shit, I hope that leaving the ASP is best for you. When it's no longer fun, it's no longer...
parking

Continued from front page

O’Leary noted “an incredible growth in the number of cars” in the past few years, and in regard to creating more parking facilities, reiterated the issue of being “caught between environment and convenience.”

The issue of whether or not freshmen will regain parking privileges will not be decided until the fieldhouse is built. The project is scheduled for completion in 1991.

According to Utermark, some freshmen, in an effort to retain parking privileges, register their cars under someone else’s name or address. When checked against Department records, the owner of the parking decal confiscated and the car ordered off campus. “Parking privileges are rescinded, and if the car is found again, we tow it,” Utermark said. The registration fee of $10 is not refunded.

The only exception to the new policy is for freshmen who qualify as handicapped drivers, a determination made by the University Health Service.

Exceptional circumstances are also considered, but very few have been granted. Utermark stated that there is no foreseeable solution to the parking problem in the immediate future.

Search

Continued from front page

with finalists, according to Sheila Mahan, SUNYA special assistant to the president.

The search committee will do much of the legwork, such as screening candidates.

The complexity of the process is “a way to ensure the campus has a voice as to what type of president we look for,” Mahan said.

Although the Council does not have a deadline to decide on a successor, O’Leary intends to resign at the end of the academic year but will stay on until a person is chosen.

“The selection process will be that much more effective because he has left us that much more prepared during a time of strength,” said University Council Chair Alan Vjedin.

O’Leary stressed in his speech at a University-wide faculty meeting yesterday that the process of selecting a candidate is a confidential one and all must be given a fair chance.

O’Leary was selected in 1977 after the resignation of Emmett Fields, who went on to become president of Vanderbilt University in Nashville.

O’Leary was picked from more than 200 candidates screened in a similar process in 1977 and 1978.

Originally he declined to become president, but changed his mind afterwards, saying, “after eight or nine months here, you begin to recognize some things you want to put your commitment to.”

Just commun.

Continued from page three

Developing. Livingston is currently working with developing the Committee, which O’Leary called the “most important work of the decade.”

“We cannot build on that which divides us, only on that which unites us,” O’Leary said.

Alcohol

Continued from page four

classified as adults, and people should be responsible for themselves.”

Jeff Volo, a senior, said that students should receive a fine for a violation such as this, not removal from residence halls, especially if the offender is 21 or over.

“Tells ridiculous that they have any rules about kegs because students can go out and buy ten cases of beer—it’s just as much as a keg. With a keg, though, you save a little money, and it’s actually neater—no bottles or glass is left around. The 21 drinking age just makes you do it sneakerly,” Junior Colleen O’Brien said.

According to sophomore Jordan Stone, “I think you should be given one warning, and if you violate that, then be thrown off,” Stone said.

What better way to say it than with an ASP personal? take out personals in cc 332.

Their way.

You can save literally days of work between now and graduation. Simply by using an HP calculator. To keep you from endlessly retracing your steps, ours have built-in shortcuts.

Such as the unique HP Solve function for creating your own formulas. Menus, labels and prompts. Program libraries. Algebraic or RPN models.

Better algorithms and chip design help you finish much faster and more accurately than their way. So, whether you’re in engineering, business, finance, life or social sciences, we’ve got the best calculator for you. For as little as $49.95. Check it out at your campus bookstore or HP retailer.

There is a better way.

Our way.
the Albany Student Press

Bringing students the news they want to know--on campus and beyond.

We are the Albany Student Press, a financially and editorially independent student newspaper.

Come up to our offices in the Campus Center and become part of an important tradition. We need reporters, typists, advertising sales representatives, and much, much more.

No experience is required, and some of the positions are paid.

Check upcoming ASP's for more info about our interest meeting, or call us at 442-5665.
Sex course irks Nassau politicians

(CPS) Nassau Community College students won’t be going to any gay bars or chatting with prostitutes any more in their human sexuality course.

The Nassau County (N.Y.) Board of Supervisors threatened to reject the school’s budget, and thereby delay the start of the fall semester, unless the homework was modified.

Also nixed from the class were assignments such as masturbas, taking a bubble bath, and viewing 80 slides of make and female genitalia. Students will get to see a film that explicitly portrays sexual intercourse.

This isn’t the first time that such “sex” courses have gotten a rise out of schools’ governing boards.

Last year at Villanova University, a Catholic school in Pennsylvania, a religious studies professor was criticized for allowing a student to have sexually explicit video in a “Christian marriage in the Modern world” course.

And in 1986 Centuries College in California dropped two sex-relationship courses after a debate about whether the course material was “appropriate.”

Other unusual courses already have raised eyebrows this year.

The University of Nevada-Reno unveiled the first gambling institute July 1 where students can eventually earn undergraduate minor degrees.

The program is in response to the growing interest in gambling, with many states getting into gambling to generate government revenue.

San Francisco State University students this fall will be able to take a course titled “Homelessness and Public Policy,” in which they can live on the streets for a while.
THE

ALBANY STUDENT PRESS

IS LOOKING FOR A

MINORITY AFFAIRS

EDITOR

THIS POSITION REQUIRES APPROXIMATELY 10-
15 HOURS WEEKLY, AND AN EXCELLENT
BACKGROUND IN MINORITY ISSUES ON CAMPUS.

ALL THOSE INTERESTED SHOULD SUBMIT 2-4 WRITING SAMPLES TO MANAGING EDITOR SANDIE WEITZMAN IN CC 329 (THIRD FLOOR) OR CALL
442-5660 BY FRIDAY SEPT. 15, AT 5:00 P.M.

GET INVOLVED!!!!

Delta Phi Epsilon
congratulates its newly initiated sisters:

Gayle Bleiberg
Lynn Bove
Amy Brown
Lisa Caporale
Cheryl David
Mary Jane Estrada
Gayle Finkelstein
Michele Fox
Jennifer Frank
Patricia Keogh
Deanna Korcha
Alison Kurzon
Kara Lane
Shannon Lough
Christina Mancini
Randi Simanoff
Tricia Sutter
Irene Velonakis
Ann Zimmerman

We Love You!

COUPON

MUSIC AND VIDEO BUYERS
STOP PAYING TWICE AS MUCH
NOW you can save up to $200.00 or more on Compact discs, Records, Tapes or Blank Videos. Buy one at regular price or lower and get a 2nd selection FREE! Original Artists...Original Label...Rock...Country...Jazz...Classical,
Comedy...Children... "IF IT'S SOLD IN A RECORD STORE
WE HAVE IT TOO." No expiration date on coupons and no forced buying. To receive your music catalog and 20 coupon booklet. Send $10.00 to: NORTHEAST CONSULTING SERVICES
NAME
ADDRESS
CITY/STATE/ZIP

COUPON

SUNYA Students... now you can get your RESUMÉ done at CROSSGATES MALL!
Show them you're a tiger with a professionally-typed resumé from
SHIPMATES, Shipping & Office
Services, on the lower level near Penney's & Northeast Savings.
- High Quality
- Fast Turn-around
- Reasonable Prices
- We word process cover letters too!
Call 452-6078!
The Albany women's tennis team won its first match of the season.

By Christopher Sciria
SPORTS EDITOR

Getting off to a good start is always important to one's confidence. The Dane women's tennis team won its first match of the year, 6-3 over Oneonta State on Wednesday.

"We're a good team," Albany coach Nora Breen said. "We thought we should beat them."

The Danes took four out of six singles and two out of three doubles matches.

First seed Lisa Glendening lost to the Red Dragons' Susan Ritter; 6-0, 6-2.

"Lisa came off of a shoulder injury," Breen said. "She's starting to get back."

Albany's number two seed Chrissy Saglimbeni defeated Paige Hotaling; 6-3, 6-1.

"She played four last year, where she got to state's," Breen said. "She's very solid and consistent."

The Danes' third seed, junior Lisa Capebianco had a tough match against the Red Dragons' Ann Marie Logozzo; 7-5, 6-2.

"Lisa is a transfer from Columbia Greene Community College," Breen said. "She was playing well for her first match. She should be an asset to us with her experience."

Fourth seed was played by Denise Sharkey. She lost a tough one to Lori Hannan; 6-1, 7-5.

The Danes took the fifth and sixth matches as number five seed Lisa Granires beat Chris Janssen; 6-3, 6-1. Number six Lauren Herman won over Tina Califano; 6-2, 6-1.

In doubles it was Oneonta taking the first as Ritter-Logozzo beat Glendening and Capebianco; 6-2, 4-6, 6-2.

Albany's first double win was by Ginger Simor and Saglimbeni; 6-1, 6-4 over Rosenberg and Manduca.

Other team members are Bonnie Abrahams, Karen Hughes, Susan Shayegani, Lisa Jakob, and Karen Gordon.

"We needed this win for good morale," Breen said. "We have a strong line up all the way up and down the line."

The Danes travel to Hartwick on Saturday.

W-x-country continued from back page

Newcomer Tricia Shultes was next at 20:24.3 She barely edged out her teammate, Colleen Shine, who wound up with a time of 20:24.8 to finish as number five.

"Trish, Kerry, and I ran together... to the two mile point. (Shultes) helped me a lot in the race," Shine said. "I was surprised that there was only one Hamilton runner separating our top four."

"To be one through four, 24 seconds apart is just outstanding," White said.

Co-captain Denise Buneo was the next Dane to complete the 3.05 mile, varied terrain. She had a mark of 21:56.9 to be ninth overall.

"Our top five, six are in pretty good shape. Our top five runners are running strong," White said.

The next SUNYA runner to finish was freshman Amy Quinn. Her time of 22:35.6 netted her a 12th place finish.

"A very respectable 12th," White said.

Aniy Biddle came in 15th overall and seventh for the University at Albany. She had a mark of 23:31.3. "It (The course) was harder than it looked," Biddle said. "There was a very positive attitude (on our team)."

Freshman Jeannine Brinn was the eighth Albany runner to cross the finish line. Her time of 24:04.1 made her become the 17th runner to finish overall.

"The team is going to go places this season, I'm just concerned about our depth," White said.

The next meet will be on Saturday September 16. It is the Wagner Invitational, which will be held on Staten Island. Several of the Great Danes hail from the area and will be competing in front of their families and friends. Shine said "I hope to do as well at the Wagner Invite."

File continued from back page

Rich Parrinello made his debut as Rochester coach a successful one last weekend with a 40-8 romp over the University of Chicago, a school he used to coach at before succeeding Ray Tellier earlier this year. Tellier is now head coach at Columbia.

Union, trying to recapture the success it enjoyed in the mid-1980's, held St. Lawrence scoreless during three possessions inside its 10-yard-line and pulled out a season-opening victory.

 lange Interest Meeting
Mon or Tue (18 & 19) 7pm
in Campus Center in front of Food Co-op

M 10am-4pm
T 10am-4pm
W 10am-7pm
Th 10am-4pm
Fri 10am-2pm

Discount prices for an hour of work per week!

FOOD CO-OP

General Interest Meeting

Mon or Tue (18 & 19) 7pm
in Campus Center in front of Food Co-op

M 10am-4pm
T 10am-4pm
W 10am-7pm
Th 10am-4pm
Fri 10am-2pm

Discount prices for an hour of work per week!

BAGELS-FRESH PRODUCE-JUICES-CHEESE-LUNCH AND DINNER ITEMS

Read ASP

Sports For Dane Sports

442-5992
Sports File

Vincent is new commissioner

MILWAUKEE

(AP) Fay Vincent was elected baseball commissioner Wednesday, less than two weeks after A. Bartlett Giamatti died of a heart attack.

Vincent, 51, had been deputy commissioner under Giamatti. His election was recommended Tuesday during a meeting of baseball's executive council, which had been running the sport since Giamatti's death Sept. 1.

"I take this job. I do not replace Bart. I know that his is not the way to get this job," Vincent said at a news conference.

Vincent, who was given the unofficial title of acting commissioner by the executive council of Sept. 2, will serve the remaining 4 1/2 years of Giamatti's term, through April 1, 1994. He is baseball's eighth commissioner.

Albany looks for first triumph

By Christopher Sciria

SPORTS EDITOR

After facing UMass in New York number one ranked Ithaca, you would think that the Danes would schedule a breeze to get an easy "W.”

That's not the way Albany head coach Bob Ford plays football.

The Danes will be on the road again as they travel to Alfred to face the Saxons. Alfred is (1-0) as they beat Western Connecticut last week 24-6. The Saxons are ranked fourth in that poll. Albany is ranked sixth.

The Danes (0-1) after the 17-7 loss to Hamilton. Moretti is expecting the Danes to stay with the southwest and the run.

"We had a pretty good defensive effort," Alfred coach Jim Moretti said.

On defense, the Saxons are led by linebacker John Hauck and cornerback Joe Udice.

Ford expressed some interest in throwing the ball more than he did in Ithaca.

"We expect Hamilton to be stronger and looks doubtful.

Even though Albany's defense gave up a lot of yardage last week, they got very stingy within their own 20 yard line. Two fumble recoveries within the five and an interception in the endzone demonstrate this.

Alfred's offense had a tough time moving the ball.

"I see a low scoring game," Moretti said. "Both teams have struggling offenses." Moretti also said he was pleased that the Danes are back on the Saxons' schedule. He also expressed his "unmitigated respect" for the Albany program.

Albany needs a win against a quality team like Alfred to gain some momentum into their home opener, next Saturday night (7:00) against Division II Springfield College.

"Kerry's back in true form," White said. "He was very happy that they were always at that pressure. You just had to mentally keep yourself going. I ran as hard as I could,"" added Charron.

"It's the best," Mack said of the win. "It was a great win. We really stuck together as a team. They (Hamilton) were a good team."

"We expect Hamilton to be stronger and looks doubtful."

"If we win the Big South, we're going to make the NCAA's," Charron said.

"We were beat by a hell of a ball team." Ford said.

"It's the best," Mack said of the win. "It was a great win. We really stuck together as a team. They (Hamilton) were a good team."

"We expect Hamilton to be stronger and looks doubtful."

"If we win the Big South, we're going to make the NCAA's," Charron said.

"We were beat by a hell of a ball team." Ford said.