West Retires

James H. West, administrative officer in the office of the Commandant of the Brooklyn Navy Yard, will retire February 1, 1942. Appointed to the office on August 3, 1903, Mr. West was promoted to administrative officer, then known as chief clerk in April, 1913. He was granted a leave of absence November 27, pending retirement in February.

Clark in Charge of Navy Yard Personnel

Lieut. Commander W. L. Clark, U.S.N.R. (Ret.) is the personnel officer in charge of the new personnel section in the manager's office at the Brooklyn Navy Yard. Before he was called into active duty Lieut. Commander Clark was employed in a personnel capacity with Metropolitan Life.

It Ain't Hay

Approximately $38,000 worth of defense stamps and bonds were sold in the Brooklyn Navy Yard during the first week of sale in the yard. A plan is under consideration by which employees may purchase bonds and stamps regularly through deductions in their paychecks.

They've Been There A Long Time

How many years have you been working in the Navy Yard?

Ask this question of the average Brooklyn Navy Yard employee and you will get your answer in a figure smaller than the number of fingers on your left hand. Only 3 men in the Yard have been at the job for more than 45 years, 19 more than 40 years, 2,565 more than 10 years.

Congress Speeds Pay Raises, Pushes Retirement Measure

WASHINGTON.—Congress really has swung into action since the Jap attack. And some of the Congressional work is greatly benefiting Federal workers. On the legislative front:

- 1.—A bill has been reported to the House which would raise the per diem of Federal employees sent on travel duty from $5 to $6 a day within the limits of the United States, and $7 a day beyond the United States limits. The bill is expected to be approved by the Congress as it has the support of the Administration.
- 2.—The Senate Civil Service Committee has reported favorably the Ramspeck-Mead Retirement bill which would bring 400,000 additional Federal workers under the Civil Service retirement act, including members of Congress. In general, the bill would liberalize the retirement law.
- 3.—Funds are now available to give 223,000 Federal workers in-grade pay raises under the Ramspeck-Mead automatic promotion act. The bill was retroactive to October 1 and supplemental checks are now being paid eligible employees.

4.—The House has before it another Ramspeck bill which would modernize the Classification Act. The bill is backed solidly by the Administration and Federal employee organizations. The bill would set a minimum salary of $1,200 for adult full-time work in the Government service. It would raise the base pay of all custodial and sub-professional employees; it would raise guards from a minimum of $1,200 to $1,500; and char workers would be given an increase of 5 cents an hour.

The upper brackets, from $5,600 to $8,000, would be re-adjusted and a new bracket from $900 to $10,000 would be added. The Budget Bureau estimates the bill would cost a gross of nearly $20,000,000 and $15,000,000 net. Of the gross cost, $15,000,000 would go to 150,000 custodial workers.

Naval Employees Ask Time Off for Pay for Holiday Work

The Navy Yard Civil Service Association this week pressed for swifter action on the Byrd-O'Toole Bill providing for compensatory time off or additional pay for naval employees required to work on holidays and on days when the departments and establishments of the government are closed by executive order.

The Association urged that the bill be transferred from the Committee on Civil Service to the House Naval Affairs Committee because it pertains to working hours of only Navy Department personnel.

Resulted From Injustice

The bill was introduced in the House as H.R. 6222 by Rep. Donald L. O'Toole, of Brooklyn, who has since been requested to transfer it to the Naval Affairs Committee. Mr. O'Toole, seeing the injustice of a Labor Day incident affecting 35 clerks in the accounting division of the New York Navy Yard, immediately set about seeking the passage of the legislation. The clerks were ordered to work to prepare the per diem payrolls for about 25,000 Navy Yard mechanics, for which they received no extra compensation or compensatory time off.

Rep. O'Toole has worked in close cooperation with the Navy Yard Association not only to press for passage of the bill but to eliminate the word "regular" from the language of the bill referring to employees of the Navy Yard and Naval establishments. The use of the word "regular" would have excluded temporary workers from any benefits that might accrue under the new legislation.

Senator Harry F. Byrd, of Virginia, on September 25 introduced the bill to the Senate Naval Affairs Committee as S.R. 1930.

LAWYERS WITHIN THE U. S. SERVICE

The Board of Legal Examiners set up within the Federal Civil Service Commission to draft "a merit system for the recruitment, selection, appointment, promotion and transfer" of Government attorneys is struggling with the problem of effective testing procedure.

The steps leading to the Executive Order of April 10, under which attorney positions in Federal service, with few exceptions, were brought into the classified civil service, as well as some problems besetting the Board of Legal Examiners, charged under the order, with the task of developing the merit system for those positions was outlined recently by Herbert Wechsler, Associate Professor of Law at Columbia University Law School, who is executive secretary of the Board of Legal Examiners of the U. S. Civil Service Commission. Mr. Wechsler's address appears in the current issue of the Lawyers' Guild Review.

The Background

The creation of the board and the basic provisions of the Executive Order, Mr. Wechsler states, derive from the report of the President's Committee on Civil Service Improvement of which the chairman was U. S. Supreme Court Justice Stanley Reed. The committee was named by the President following his order staying an earlier decree which would have swept into the civil service system some 5,000 professional and higher administrative positions, of which attorneys constituted the large majority.

The committee was in entire agreement on the desirability of including professional positions in the government service in a broad extension of the merit system but disagreed in the case of attorneys, as to how this should be done.

One Group Wanted Civil Service

One group in the committee wanted the lawyers treated like other applicants for other Federal civil service posts. They proposed that the selection be left to the Civil Service Commission and that the competing candidates be placed on ranked registers or lists with certification for the top three. This plan was rejected in the Executive Order which put into official effect the plan sponsored by that group in the committee headed by Mr. Justice Reed.

Board of Legal Examiners

Under this plan the selection, recruitment, promotion and transfer powers were placed in the hands of the Board of Legal Examiners set up in the Commission and qualified candidates were to be placed on an unranked register, from which department heads might select any man, without limitation.

The written test was flatly rejected by the committee sponsor of the adopted plan and the board is now engaged in efforts to draft a fair and effective rating plan based on the candidate's educational qualifications, coupled with a form of aptitude test which would be part of an oral examination or interview.

The plan, as outlined by Mr. Wechsler, opens attractive public career vistas for many budding young lawyers but it is also intended to provide some opportunities for older men who are struggling against odds in private practice.

However, because of budgetary limitations, the Board of Legal Examiners hasn't been able to start effective work. At this point, the hiring of attorneys for federal positions is in a tangled mess. For the most part, personnel officers are taking on men as they need them. Also, the Civil Service Commission has established a list upon which any lawyer may have his name entered. Then, if an appointing officer wishes to refer to the commission list in hiring, he may do so.

For a complete story on how the system works, see The LEADER of November 18.

Wartime Civil Service: Report No. 2

Vast Changes in Federal Set-up—Non-Defense Agencies Doomed—Shortage of Competent Employees Is Acute—Take Stenos as Young as 17—Christmas Leaves Cancelled—Work-Week Increase—“Selective Service” for Workers Transferred to Defense Agencies—All Alert for Air Raids

WASHINGTON.—On the Washington war front:

1.—Figures that would have seemed fantastic only a few months ago are being quoted here as the number of new Federal workers that will be needed to carry on the war. It's now being predicted, for example, that civilian employment will reach 2,000,000 within a year. Now there are 1,450,000 employees. It's estimated that 100,000 additional workers will be needed in Washington.

2.—Vast reorganization of the Federal government is in prospect. Congress has approved the Overman Act which will give the President authority to consolidate, abolish and merge Federal bureaus. It's now proposed that the Government itself be placed on a defense basis, and non-defense agencies are probably doomed.

3.—The shortage of competent employees in nearly all classes is becoming acute. The shortage of stenos has become so urgent that both the Office of Production Management and the War Department are begging people to take jobs. OPM has many openings for Grade 3 stenos. The jobs pay $1,620, but applicants must have had government experience. If you are interested, see or write to Helen Thomas on the first floor of Temporary Building E, which is located at Fourth Street and Adams Drive, S.W.

Stenos As Young As 17

4.—War Department will hire stenos who are as young as 17, if they can take dictation at 80 words a minute and can type 40 words a minute. If interested, apply at Temporary Building No. 2, at 20th and Virginia Avenue, N.W., Room 2008. OPM will take stenos hired in other government agencies, but the War Department won't.

5.—Federal employees and officials are on the alert for an air attack. Venetian blinds must be lowered and slats closed or shades drawn at 4 p.m. daily. They mustn't be opened until the following morning. The char force has been instructed to report violators. Air-raid wardens are being appointed in each Federal building.

Longer Work Week

6.—Navy has abolished Saturday afternoon holidays for the duration. Its employees are on a 48-hour week. All Civil Service employees are now on a 44-hour work week. FBI employees are averaging 50 hours a week and the Commerce and Treasury departments are expected to soon place their employees on extended work weeks. Incidentally, the drive to extend hours has diminished somewhat. Cooler heads pointed out that the war effort should be shifted down before hours of all employees are lengthened.

Xmas Leave Cancelled

7.—Xmas leave is being cancelled by the Government over. Civil Service is limiting its employees to a single day's leave, and only two hours' leave will be given all employees on December 24 instead of the full day, as is the usual custom. OPM and OEM have cancelled Christmas leaves as have the War and Navy departments among a great many others.

President Sanctions Transfers

8.—As predicted in The LEADER, the President has issued an executive order which will give defense agencies priorities on the services of Federal employees. Thousands of workers are expected to be transferred to defense agencies such as War, Navy, OPM and OEM under the sweeping order. The order will be administered by the Civil Service Commission and it will request the transfer of persons to defense agencies when it is determined these people can be replaced in their present jobs. The employees and agencies where they are employed must agree to the transfer but the order gives the Commission a big stick and the opinion of the agencies won't be permitted to stand in most cases.

9.—The Government gives the employees transferred the same protection given employees who are drafted for military service. In a sense, the President's order is Selective Service for Federal workers. After the emergency, the employee can get his old job back or one similar. But if the job is abolished, he will be placed on the re-employment list and will be given preference in filling vacancies.

Settling Civil Service Disputes in Britain

By W. J. BROWN

General Secretary, British Civil Service Clerical Association

A number of meetings would take place between the two sides at the end of which, one of three things would happen. We might perhaps secure agreement upon our claim. In this case the settlement would be reduced to paper, and copies of it would be circulated to all departments with instructions that they were to put the new scale of pay into effect.

Or secondly, we might get sufficiently near to our objective to induce us to say that, although it fell short of our complete claim, we would accept it. Here again, the terms would be reduced to writing, and circulated to the departments.

Or thirdly, we might reach a deadlock on the claim.

If this happened the next step would be to take the claim to arbitration.

Here I had better explain, that years ago we forced on the Government in Britain the principles of compulsory arbitration on the wages, hours, and leave of Civil Service Servants. At any time when there is an irreconcilable dispute on their issues we can file our claim before the arbitration court, and the Treasury or the Department concerned must enter an appearance to defend its position. The award of the Court is binding on both parties. The court consists of an independent chairman, Sir Harold Morris, K.C., one representative drawn from the panel nominated by the unions and one representative drawn from a panel nominated by the government. So if we reach a deadlock on our claim for the Clerical Assistants, we should then send the case to the Arbitration Court. The Court fixes a day for hearing and the proceedings are rather very much like those in a court of law.

Now apart from the method of direct negotiation between the unions and the Departments, there is another piece of machinery of great importance. In every department there is what is known as a "Joint Whitley Council." This consists of representatives of the administration, and representatives of the unions having members in that department. It meets at regular intervals and discusses and if possible settles by agreement any question affecting the staff of that department. There is also a similar Joint Whitley Council for the Civil Service as a whole. It discusses, and if possible, settles by agreement, matters affecting the whole service or the staff of two or more departments. The staff sides of such councils have the same right to proceed to arbitration in the event of deadlock as the unions themselves possess.

I have now given, I hope, a fairly clear picture of the general set up of the Civil Service in Britain, of its classification, its recruitment and its trade union structure.

tendant is $1,620 a year, for medical technical assistant, $2,000 a year. Applicants for medical technical assistant may qualify in any one of the three following options: clinical laboratory technique, pharmacy, or X-Ray laboratory technique. Employment is in the U.S. Public Health Service, Mental Hygiene Division, Federal Security Agency.

Applications can be obtained at the U.S. Civil Service Commission, 641 Washington Street, New York City.

U. S. Civil Service Issues Report

Pointing out that four times as many new employees were required in the classified Federal service during the year ending June 30, 1941, as in normal years, the U. S. Civil Service Commission reports that the needed workers "have been secured quickly through the combined facilities of the Commission's central office and its district system."

With this statement, the Commission opens its 58th annual report, issued late last week.

U. S. Health Tests Extended

Applications for health education consultant have been extended to January 12, the U. S. Civil Service Commission announced this week. The four grades for which applications are being issued are assistant health education consultant, $2,600; associate health education consultant, $3,200, and health education consultant, $3,800 per year. Applications can be obtained at the U.S. Civil Service Commission, 641 Washington Street, New York, and must be filed at the Washington office of the Commission by January 12.

Guard Attendants

Medical guard attendants and medical technical assistants are needed by Uncle Sam. Applications must have had at least 3 years' active service in the Medical Corps of the Army or Navy, with duties essentially medical in character within the past ten years, according to an announcement of the test by the U.S. Civil Service Commission this week.

What does the war mean to Civil Service and to Government employees? Last Sunday, in an extemporaneous round-table discussion broadcast by radio station WINS, five civil service experts made a first attempt to answer that question. With Foster Williams, WINS announcer, sitting at the left, the others in the photo are: Paul J. Kern, president of the New York City Civil Service Commission; Jerry Finkelstein, publisher of The LEADER, who acted as moderator; H. Eliot Kaplan, executive secretary of the Civil Service Reform Association; William J. Brown, general secretary of the British Civil Service Clerical Association; and Lawrence Baehr, manager of the 2nd District, United States Civil Service Commission. Consensus of the discussion: (1) the merit system will hold up; (2) shortages in Government service will grow, and the number of people to be employed may exceed all previous estimates; (3) employees will work harder and longer; (4) discrimination will break down; (5) government employees will help to win the war. The program originated in the WINS studios at the Mayflower Hotel, 61st Street and Central Park West, New York City.

What the Job Is Like in Hawaii

Uncle Sam Is Doing Lots of Work at Pearl Harbor

Newspaper accounts of the first air-and-naval battle of the war referred to the heroism of civilian workers in the Pearl Harbor area.

Many of these were Civil Service employees. And an interesting document, perhaps of some slight historical value, is the bulletin sent shortly before the attack to prospective employees by the Second District, U. S. Civil Service Commission. It described briefly the working conditions in Hawaii. It read, in part:

Transportation

"Commercial Railway and Pullman Transportation will be furnished appointees from their homes to the point of embarkation which will most likely be Mare Island Navy Yard, California. The only expense to the appointee is the cost of his meals while traveling to California, for which he will be repaid at the rate of $4 per day for the usual number of days required for such railway travel.

"The maximum rate of pay not to exceed eight hours per day is planned to be paid while appointees are en route from the last port of departure on the West Coast of Pearl Harbor, Honolulu,

Hawaii. The trip from San Francisco to Honolulu takes about five days.

Living Conditions

"Rentals and living costs in Honolulu are rather high. However, a cantonment is located near the Navy Yard and is operated on a cost basis, offering accommodations to employees at reasonable rates. Cafeteria service, operated by a concessionaire, is provided, and prices for food at the cafeteria are regulated by the Commandant in order to provide food and service at a fair price.

"Efforts to provide Government transportation for families of employees will be made when the Commandant reports that suitable housing accommodations are available. Transportation by Government vessels for dependents of appointees will be authorized when available. However, the approximate date of the availability of such transportation cannot be stated at this time in view of the heavy demands for accommodations in Government vessels sailing for Honolulu.

"At present most of the Pearl Harbor employees are working over forty hours per week and receiving time and one-half for overtime."

For details of repair jobs just opened at Pearl Harbor, see page 8.

CIVIL SERVICE IN NEW YORK CITY

War Program of N.Y. City Agencies

What Your Department Is Doing In the War Program

With the nation recovered from the first shock of Pearl Harbor but determined to avenge the surprise attack, New York City has become a focal point of the war effort. Every department takes its place in the gigantic task of guaranteeing the safety of the country's number 1 city should disaster come. Below are the various programs to be placed into effect by Civil Service workers.

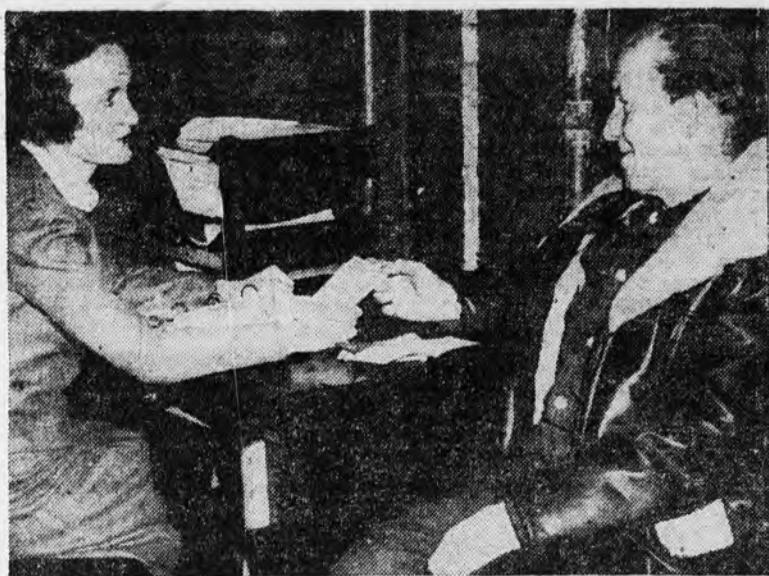

Police

The Police Department, from current indications, is going to be one of the determining forces in civilian defense, but only after a preliminary period of trial and error.

While the Bureau of Operations, part of Chief Inspector Louis Costuma's office, is actually the nerve from which will stem all police activity in emergencies, there remains a strong possibility that each of the city's precincts will establish precedents of its own. For each precinct has set up its own rules for behavior in an emergency and, when the final centralization orders do come, they are likely to fail to penetrate the lines already drawn. For instance, the clerical setup under Deputy Inspector William A. Turk, office manager of personnel throughout the precincts is handled quite differently in each instance. To make one set of records conform with another would entail the reorganization of the whole clerical system at a frightful loss in time.

At any rate, the essential factors in the co-ordination program for Commissioner Lewis J. Valentine's entire department have been fairly securely laid and should become stronger with each passing day.

Another possible source of embarrassment, unless huge numbers of volunteers appear on the scene, is the general undermanning of the department for the emergency that now exists. Of the men in the department, about 500 are currently assigned to intensive civilian defense work; at least 600 or 700 more seem necessary to enable the department to function smoothly. A

One department prepared to undertake large responsibilities in any emergency is Welfare. By available facilities and experience of its employees, Welfare can "do a job" in housing, feeding, and evacuation.

Lack of appropriations even makes procuring of necessary stationery difficult for circularization of pamphlets.

Then, too, there exist such problems as whether the zone air raid warden takes orders from the patrolman on the beat or merely works in co-operation with him and discards all attempts to issue orders.

Nevertheless, the Bureau of Operations has been doing a fairly exhaustive job in correlating the police department activities and pointing them toward full protection for civilians in case of disasters. It has been gathering its manpower and readying all police personnel for the most varied services it may be called upon to handle. Similarly, it has been co-operating with other departments in preparing plans for any emergency.

Led by Assistant Chief Inspector John J. O'Connell, the city's police forces have been shaping their jobs to include the utmost in civilian defense during air raids. Whereas the patrolmen of the department have been assigned to enrolling and registering applicants for air raid duties, investigating and finger-printing them, and supplying them with identification cards, and while others—in conjunction with civilian volunteers—have been keeping active files of all of the enlistments and assignments, a large staff of lieutenants has been assigned to active supervision of the emergency program throughout the city's neighborhoods.

These men have the task of keeping the air raid wardens in line (many petty jealousies, to date, have had to be discouraged), of making sure that sufficient wardens are patrolling their assigned areas, that there is 24-hour protection every day and that correct information is disseminated to interested citizens and groups.

In an actual emergency, these officers would be required to consolidate the activities of patrolmen and air raid wardens, to direct the clearing of streets of civilians, to ascertain if proper blackout measures have been taken (if the raid comes at night), and to direct the handling of electrical switches, to guard against sabotage, to arrange for the evacuation of individuals and families whenever necessary, to co-ordinate the activities of last minute volunteers, and to direct traffic in the proper channels.

The Police Department, of course, has made extensive plans to cooperate with the other civil departments in any emergency and can be depended upon to arrange for sufficient hospitalization and fire fighting equipment and other emergency services as well as to guard against looters.

Police, too, are daily guarding against sabotage, and, in this connection, are patrolling bridges, reservoirs, telephone buildings, power buildings and other objects and plants likely to be the scenes of illegal penetration.

Beginning December 26, a new series of general instruction meetings will be launched for new air raid warden enrollees, in which general duties during an emergency will be outlined. The number of air raid warden volunteers have more than doubled since the outbreak of war.

Health

A CAMPAIGN to make New Yorkers aware of the correct diet for emergency consumption has been conducted by the Department of Health for more than a few days now—one of the opening guns in the Health Department's drive to put New York on graduated from these courses. On November 6, a second class of 22,000 began training in this field.

As a result of all of this training, the city's fire department personnel have delivered lectures to more than 1,000 superintendents of buildings throughout the five boroughs and have thereby helped to solidify their work in any emergency that may arise.

One of the most important developments out of the entire fire fighting program is the creation of Auxiliary Fire Departments, composed of volunteers, which have been set up in 687 independent auxiliary stations throughout the city. With sufficient appropriations, these stations will be equipped to co-operate closely with the regular fire fighting forces in each district to master any difficulty that may arise during an air raid.

A total of 66,000 enrollees will have to be registered as auxiliary firemen, according to Chief McCarthy. 47,000 have volunteered to date. These volunteer forces will have their own trailer pumps, hose wagons and equipment for extinguishing incendiary bombs.

The city's regular firemen also have their speakers' bureaus which is working smoothly and consistently in educating the public in correct safety measures in case of bombing attacks.

The firemen have been training for this emergency for some time; they don't intend to be caught unprepared. Fighting off the results of a bombing attack will merely mean for them working a little harder than in extinguishing the ordinary fire. Their main concern will be in ferreting out incendiaries and delayed action bombs, and they have appointed crews for this purpose, too.

Welfare

THE Welfare Department assumes a new prestige in the war crisis.

Set up to succor the people in time of peace, it turns out that its activities are ideally suited to care for the people's needs in time of war.

Definite plans haven't been worked out yet, though officials are thinking very seriously about the contributions which the department can make. What follows is a prospectus which seems to The LEADER a logical one, in view of the facilities and experience of the department.

1. Welfare employees may help feed the people in case that should become necessary. The Municipal Lodging House along could feed vast thousands. The department has centers throughout the city which could easily be converted into food distributing stations. Today, the department, together with other agencies, feeds children in the schools. With the aid of rolling kitchens, perhaps provided by the Red Cross, food could be sent elsewhere in the city. In all of this, welfare employees would be acting efficiently, doing work which they have been trained to do.

2. Welfare could aid in clothing the people. Here, too, the experience of the department is broad. It is the one agency that "knows the ropes," it has clothing depots in every borough, and could be put to work at once without much ado.

3. Welfare may help house the people. There is today a Housing Division in the department, so the basis is set. It is known that a map is soon to be spotted with prospective emergency stations throughout the city, showing where temporary shelter, feeding stations, information centers, country clubs, skating rinks, and other buildings are located which might be useful "if it comes."

4. Welfare may—together with other agencies, of course—help evacuate children. The experience gained from the work of the Division of Dependent Children would be invaluable. The personnel of the department is highly fitted for this type of work.

Many of the employees are learning first aid work; others are working on a city-wide nutrition program in cooperation with other city agencies.

All in all, Welfare has a nearly-perfect set-up to be an emergency agency.

Some weeks ago, The LEADER made a survey of the lowest possible number of employees which The Welfare Department could utilize: it came to about 5,000. The work of the department, if it should develop along such broad lines as indicated in this article, would require thousands of volunteer workers. It would require, too, the closest cooperation between Commissioner Hodson's agency and other civilian aid units, particularly the American Red Cross.

Water Supply

OFFICIALS of the Board of Water Supply state that very complete plans have been formulated to meet every war-time emergency. The details of these plans, which concern the guarding of reservoirs, tunnels and other restricted areas are military secrets and are not available for publication. Every precaution has been taken for the prevention of sabotage and the leak of vital information to potential saboteurs.

Hospitals

IN 73 hospitals, emergency field units, composed of doctors, nurses and nurses' aides, have been organized, and they are ready for day and night service . . . ready for any air raid emergency.

Plans are crystallizing two for hospital employees to man specially constructed vehicles of the newly-formed catastrophe squads designed to relieve cases of distress. Medical and surgical equipment has been jammed into ambulances to care for emergency patients in case of bombings. Doctors and nurses not only have been prepared to stand by patients and prepare them for any eventualities, but are ready for quick emergency operations.

Employees have been instructed in the testing of emergency dynamo and telephone systems, and in the transportation of patients from one section of a hospital to another.

Arrangements have been made to convert the fourth and fifth floors of Hunter College's strong, bomb-resistant steel-and-concrete skyscraper at 68th and 69th Streets, between Park and Lexington Avenues, into an emergency maternity ward and child hospital during raids. Medical facilities, moreover, will be available on a 24-hour basis. Many of the city's patients will be sent there in dire cases.

But one major problem remains to be cleared up, to date. A survey among superintendents of a dozen hospitals in the city has revealed that no practical method has as yet been found to convey to them the knowledge that an air raid is on the way. Just who is to warn the city hospitals is something that has yet to be determined.

The creation of a central office for this purpose, of course, would be the solution. Most of the hospitals at present obtain their air raid information from the police, but their only means of receiving advance information is from the radio. And even that is too slow for their purposes.

more thoroughly than any other agency in the city, has been prepared for the national emergency the people in New York now face. Under the supervision of Fire Commissioner Patrick Walsh, a comprehensive program has been in preparation for two years to effect precautionary civilian defense measures. Fire Chief John J. McCarthy points out that this program has been based on an extensive study of European—particularly British—methods of fighting fires created by enemy weapons.

Having made a study of the European situation, plans have been formulated for fighting fires on this side of the water with equal effectiveness. Battalion Chief Daniel Deasy, Battalion Chief Fred Wedemeyer and Fireman George Scott have led the delegations in their European studies.

In addition to these explorations, 18 members of the department have made a study of the Edgewood, Md., arsenal. Moreover, they have completed two-week courses in chemical warfare.

Now 5,000 members of the department have been schooled in incendiary bomb and war gas control. This, in fact, has become part of the regular Fire College. The 174 firemen who have qualified as first aid experts as a result of a Red Cross course in turn are now giving standard first aid instructions to 10,000 members of the department, who pass them on to average citizens. Indeed, every fire fighting station is today something of a first aid center.

Last May the training of citizens as auxiliary firemen began, with 60-hour courses being the popular thing. All of 25,000 were recently

Among the measures at Hunter College is one urging all instructors to carry pencil flashlights, smelling salts and hard candy, the latter is to provide quick energy. Medical kits have been hung on the walls of each of the college's 16 floors and pails containing sand have been placed in many parts of the building for fighting fires.

Volunteer nurses are still in demand. To qualify for the Volunteer Nurses Aid Service, an inexperienced young lady need merely enroll first for Red Cross instruction and become skilled in first aid procedure in that fashion before being graduated to the more elaborate units. Emergency Field Units have been organized among the volunteers, too, to help anywhere.

Housing and Buildings

THE Department of Housing and Buildings, having eliminated extreme fire hazards in old-law tenements, has been concentrating on removing similar dangers in commonly known "converted" dwellings.

The annual report of the department for 1940, made public by Commissioner William Wilson, aired plans for tackling this problem of fire protection in the converted dwelling type of residential structures—structures comprising thousands of private homes converted into rooming houses or small apartments.

Fire retarding work and installation of additional fire escapes have been on the program of the department for some time now, and the department has met with much success in consistently enforcing the fire-retarding law in the converted buildings.

Employees of this department have been instructed in the most effective safety measures to be used during air raids and have raids and have been surveying buildings with an eye toward ascertaining how the facilities for these measures can best be installed.

Sanitation

WITH Commissioner Loron G. Kurtz in charge of defense instructions, the Department of Sanitation employees will work as an auxiliary of the Police Department during air raid emergencies.

Most of the department's officers and staff have been given instructions from the civil defense plans for air raid protection issued by the Police Department and the air raid defense emergency instructions for public buildings distributed by the Department of Public Welfare.

Dr. Joseph Weinberg, chief medical advisor of the Sanitation Department, has been conducting first aid classes to acquaint the department's personnel in procedure for protection during air raids. In addition, the department has a special women's division, formed mainly from the Division of Finance and Supply on First Aid. The department is co-operating fully with the Department of Public Works.

The Sanitation Department has a motorized division to assist in demolition work and those men best trained for this type of work will be asked to fill the personnel. At least one of the crew on the truck will be familiar with first aid, so that assistance is rendered adequately, according to plans.

All of the officials of the department have been instructed to be on call at any time, regardless of where they may be. They must keep in close touch with the main office.

It is possible that plans will be worked out to enable all citizens to engage in snow clearance as a war measure. They also may be asked to aid Sanitation Department workers in the clearance of raid-caused debris.

Employees have been requested to familiarize themselves with the operation of special fire-fighting equipment and to know where this equipment is in readiness, if needed.

erations and to bring all transit to a halt.

In the near future, instructions will be pasted up on all subway, elevated and surface lines what to do in case of an emergency.

All power houses, shops and yards will be illuminated during a blackout, in order not to paralyze transportation facilities. And a special signal system has been worked out between the Board and the Police Department to facilitate matters during an emergency.

During an air raid there will be direct communication between signal headquarters at Mitchell Field and the Board of Transportation, thus enabling the board to transmit messages to its personnel and passengers with the utmost speed and accuracy.

Naturally, all schedules will be altered during emergencies.

Subways should not be used as shelters during air raids, the department has requested. Many underground transportation levels are not safe. Moreover, crowding them would tend to slow up traffic or perhaps paralyze it. And, too, pedestrians would be endangered by massing up in this manner.

The board is holding daily conferences with its employees to develop a set of instructions as to what actions may be most effectively taken during an emergency. Suffice to say, a system has been worked out, to date, to halt all subway trains during an air raid and to keep the passengers in the trains; to dispatch all elevated trains during a time of similar stress to the nearest station and then to empty its passengers on the station; to stop all trolley lines and to request passengers to get to the nearest place of safety.

During a blackout, trains will continue to operate.

The Transport Workers Union during an emergency has made plans to aid in the patrolling of powerhouses. In each shop, employees have been designated as wardens for this duty. Defense committees have also been formed to enable the membership to co-operate fully with the police and the Mayor's committees in perfecting civilian defense during air raids. They will help in the handling of passengers and in the rerouting of trains.

Borough President

SEVERAL months ago, arrangements were made to enable the Manhattan Borough President's Office to be on the alert in case of the direst war emergency.

Upon the realization that an air raid in New York could easily disrupt highways and smash the sewage system, thus creating a serious health hazard, plans were set in motion to leave salvaging work in the hands of emergency crews specially equipped to move in on any emergency. A course of training for more than three months has been given to laborers and foremen who will be asked to do much of the job if actual bombing ever comes to New York.

These men have been instructed in so thorough a manner that they will be able, in case of bombings, to make emergency repairs and provide safe structures for the period of the emergency.

These courses have been organ-

HOW TO BLACK OUT WINDOWS

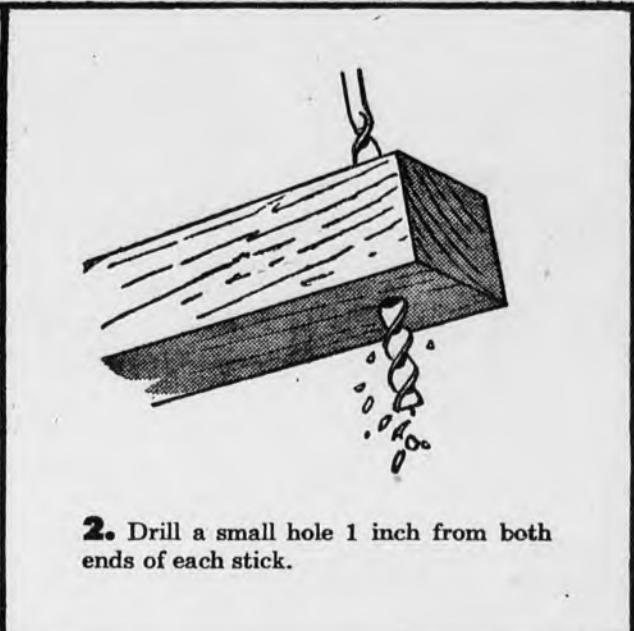

and still enjoy normal lighting

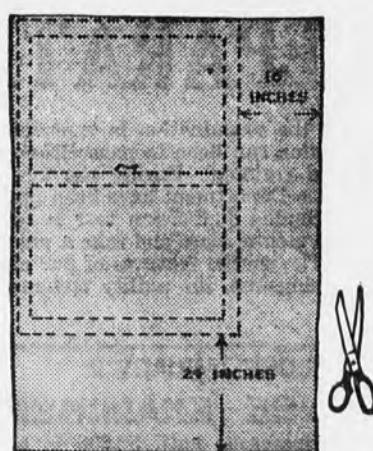

Hung in a jiffy . . . You enjoy your regular light inside and none gets out

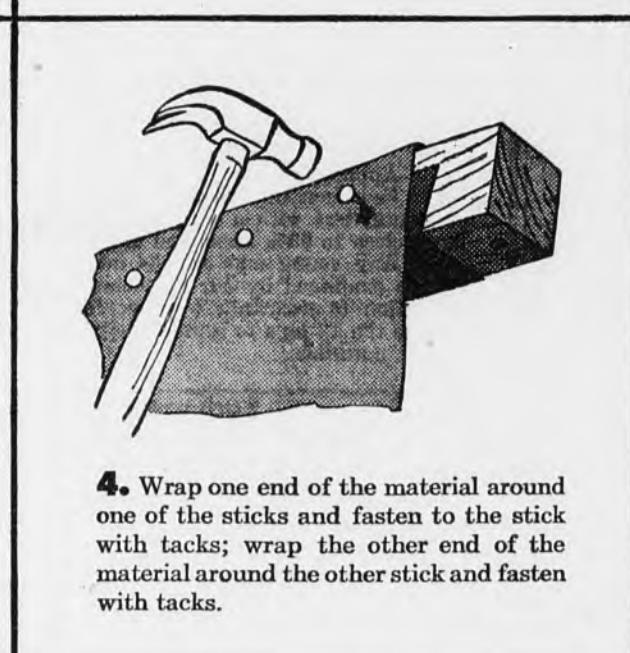

1. Cut two sticks of wood (about 1 inch x 1 inch) into lengths each 20 inches wider than the window to be covered.

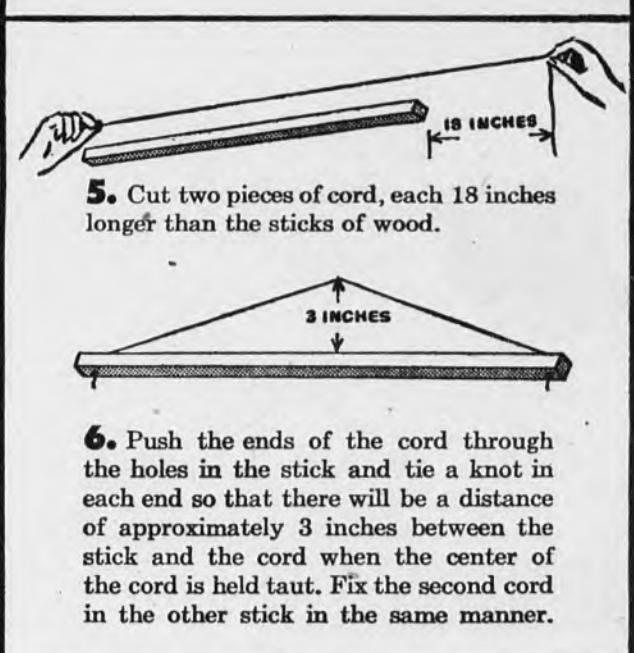

2. Drill a small hole 1 inch from both ends of each stick.

3. Cut a piece of blackout material which is at least 16 inches wider and 24 inches longer than the window to be covered.

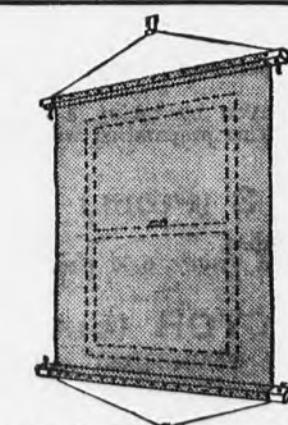

4. Wrap one end of the material around one of the sticks and fasten to the stick with tacks; wrap the other end of the material around the other stick and fasten with tacks.

5. Cut two pieces of cord, each 18 inches longer than the sticks of wood.

6. Push the ends of the cord through the holes in the stick and tie a knot in each end so that there will be a distance of approximately 3 inches between the stick and the cord when the center of the cord is held taut. Fix the second cord in the other stick in the same manner.

7. The blackout screen is now completed. Hang this screen by the top cord on a nail, screw or picture hook, so that the screen is centered over the window and approximately 8 inches above the window and make taut at bottom by fastening the bottom cord over a nail or screw.

Whenever this blackout screen is not in use, it may be rolled up and placed in a convenient corner, closet, etc.

It may be hung over or under the draperies and curtains, provided it extends at least 8 inches beyond the window on all sides. If all windows in a room are effectively screened in this manner, normal light may be enjoyed. This type of screen is simple and inexpensive.

The blackout screen may be of any dark material such as oilcloth, paper, blankets, etc.—in fact, any fabric which will make inside light completely invisible from outside.

Demonstrators in any of our showrooms will, upon request, demonstrate the method of construction and use of this type of blackout screen and will advise as to the size of the sticks, the size of the screen material, etc., required and the best method of hanging the screen if you will give the size of your window and a general description of its construction, curtain and drapery hanging, etc.

The Hon. Fiorello LaGuardia, Director, Office of Civilian Defense, said . . .

COOPERATE . . . DO YOUR PART!

Whether or not we will have blackouts depends upon the decision of the Army . . . During a blackout everything must be kept going—athome—at work—at places of recreation. We must adjust ourselves without interfering with industrial, commercial, or business or family life . . . Make the necessary preparation so that no lights will be visible from the outside if blackouts are necessary . . . It is not intended that you should remain in the dark—that's depressing—and it isn't good for the children. So keep your home cheerful—keep the lights going.

ized under Assistant Commissioner of Borough Works Charles W. Williams, who has been handling the defense problems for Manhattan. Borough President Isaacs has set up a defense committee for the department consisting of Assisting of Assistant Commissioner Charles W. Williams; Harry W. Levy, principal assistant engineer; Warren W. Dyckman, assistant engineer of maintenance, and Gilbert E. Goodkind, assistant to the president.

The department has already gone on a 24-hour a day basis, with fully equipped and competent emergency groups increased in size on duty at all times. In co-operation with Commissioner of Public Works Irving V. A. Huie, who has been placed in charge of public works under the defense program, the department has been put on an emergency basis, with specific duties assigned to each employee, in the event of raids. This program, though not yet completed, is taking shape rapidly and every employee is soon expected to have his specific instructions for work in an emergency. This is in addition, of course, to the training that many of the personnel have received.

Other borough offices are being organized much the same way.

will be served upon thousands of New York State motorists who may lose the right to operate an automobile, unless they provide the security that is necessary under the New York Motor Vehicle Safety Responsibility Act effective January 1, 1942.

THIS NEW LAW requires the commissioner of Motor Vehicles to suspend the operator's license and revoke the owner's registration certificate of an automobile involved in an accident causing death, bodily injury to property over $25.00, unless sufficient security is furnished both for the accident which has happened and for future accidents, whether or not the operator is at fault. Heretofore you were permitted one accident before security was required.

UNDER THE NEW LAW can you afford in the event of an accident to put up hundreds or even thousands of dollars until the courts decide whether you or the other motorist was at fault? Unless you have made proper provision you may be required to do that or lose your right to drive.

THE LAW provides that unless security is furnished:

1. The automobile cannot be driven by anyone, nor can its title be transferred to any other person.
2. Neither the owner, nor the driver can register or operate any car in New York. Violation may mean $500.00 fine and 6 months in jail.

AN AUTOMOBILE LIABILITY POLICY with adequate limits at low cost will meet the demand of the law.

Boochever, secretary to Acting Commissioner Peter F. Amoroso, that "no prisoners in this city will be caught like rats in a trap when air raids come."

Emergency lights and fire fighting equipment have been provided for all of the city's buildings of detention, especially for their hospitals. Test blackouts have been held. Lectures have been given for the protection of offices and property, wherever possible. Medical personnel have been instructed to keep all patients away from glass windows and vulnerable places where fragments may be encountered. Emergency feeding plans have been set in motion to bring food from other penal institutions to any that may be ignited by bombs. "Nobody will be kept in his cell during an air raid," says Mr. Boochever.

The department believes in preparing its inmates psychologically as well as otherwise. By permitting prisoners to walk around with their associates during an air raid, and by having obtained their pledges not to try to effect any escapes during the emergency, Department of Correction officials believe they have solved the major problems.

During raid, inmates will be brought from the top tiers to the lower reaches so as to be protected more adequately. Hospital cases will be removed to lower sections of the building wherever possible, too. Emergency crews have been appointed for these transfers.

If entire institutions have to be vacated, arrangements have already been made with the Department of Transportation for the removal of prisoners in vans to other institutions.

The inmates, according to Mr. Boochever have been extremely willing to participate in all of these plans because "they feel it their patriotic duty to do so. All of them are anxious to help their wardens."

Members of the department have been trained to help in the removal of inmates and in facilitating the transfer of food from one institution to another, as well as in preserving calm. They are now taking an intensive course in this work.

Water Supply, Gas, Electricity

PATRICK QUILTY, career man Commissioner of the Department of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity, stated to The LEADER that "this department is cooperating with the Police, Fire, Public Works departments and Borough President offices in all boroughs in case of any bombing or emergency."

Specifically, Commissioner Quilty pointed out that 200 electrical inspectors are prepared to teach police and air raid wardens how to turn off the time clocks which operate the lights on individual lamp-posts. At the present time approximately 50 or 60 inspectors are instructing air raid wardens at night in this procedure.

Commissioner Quilty explained that time-clocks in the street lamp-posts operate astronomically. The clocks are set to turn the street lights on and off at different times each day, depending upon the season of the year. It is estimated that in case of a blackout, 81,000 air raid wardens will be needed to perform this vital task.

Commission Quilty revealed that a plan to have the present system changed so that all lamp-post lights could be turned off at once is under consideration. "However," the Commissioner said, "This plan would cost several million dollars and take about one year's time to put into effect."

Although the full resources of the department would be brought into action in the event of a bombing, the chief problem facing this vital city agency today is the shortage of water in the city's reservoirs. "The rain last week helped some, but the reservoirs are less than one-third full".

The work of the other New York City departments in the war program will be discussed in forthcoming issues.

CIVIL SERVICE LEADER

War Hits Patrolman Test

Police Shortage in New York City Isn't Impossible

Although definite word from the Mayor's office—via the Budget Director—is not expected until some time this week, indications are that the Patrolman exam will be conducted "as usual" by the Municipal Civil Service Commission.

It will be recalled that the test, originally set for the current December series of the Commission, was postponed at the last minute when the okay from City Hall wasn't forthcoming in time.

Here is the way the changed war situation affects the test, according to the best indications of the day:

First, the Commission would like to give the test as soon as possible. Which means that it will do all in its power to announce the test in the January series. City officials—particularly those directly concerned with civilian defense—fear a shortage of adequate police should New York City be attacked. One precaution would be a good-sized police eligible list. Should the Commission get the go-ahead signal, all parts of the test will be held as soon as practical, and the list can be expected long before the first of 1943.

Requirements to Stand

Second, there will be no slackening of the requirements on the test. Commission President Paul J. Kern strongly feels that in time of war, Civil Service standards should, if anything, be heightened because of the greater need for competent public personnel. He said as much last Sunday at the round-table conference on Civil Service in wartime, sponsored by The LEADER over WINS. The age maximum of 29 will stand, as will the other requirements that have appeared in these columns on many occasions.

Third, should the city actually be in danger of attack, emergency police may be taken on, but they will definitely be of emergency caliber. The regular police force will probably assume control over such a force.

Full details on the patrolman test will continue to appear in The LEADER just as soon as available.

Clerks Admitted to Steno Promotion

Commission Differs With Its Own Examiner

Grade 2 clerks will be admitted to the stenographer, grade 3 promotion test, the Civil Service Commission ruled at its meeting last week.

The ruling was made after numerous grade 2 clerks in the city service protested in writing to the Commission on the requirements for the stenographer, grade 3 test, announced by the Commission this month. The Commission will re-announce the examination with the changed requirement in the near future. Applications will be reopened in order that all grade 2 clerks who desire to take this examination may file an application.

Examiner Refuted

The decision of the Commission was a rather startling one inasmuch as it differed from the opinion of an examiner of the Commission who studied the situation. The examiner had recommended that the requirements remain the same and grade 2 clerks be excluded from the stenographer, grade 3 test.

Wants Broader Base

In commenting on the Commission's decision, Paul J. Kern, president of the Civil Service Commission said, "The broader the promotion base, the greater the promotion opportunity. The Commission has a policy of establishing the broadest base possible for promotion. It benefits the city by obtaining the best personnel and it benefits the employees themselves."

Among those who appealed to the Commission for a change in requirements were Israel Beikopf, 1505 Metropolitan Avenue, Bronx; Jacob T. Hoffman, 24 E. 18th Street, Brooklyn; Ruth Schutzman, 887 Crotona Park North, Bronx; Irving Obles, 3 Beekman Place, New York, and Samuel M. Badia, Riker's Island, N. Y.

As soon as the Commission re-announces the stenographer, grade 3, promotion test, complete requirements will appear in The LEADER.

Supermen Get Closer to Jobs Paying More Money

Sanitation eligibles who have accepted appropriate positions paying less than $1,500 per year, will be recertified in the order of their standing, to appropriate positions paying $1,500 per year or more, according to a ruling of the N.Y.C. Civil Service Commission this week.

Under the former set-up, eligibles on the sanitation man list who accepted appropriate jobs at any salary were not permitted to accept any other appropriate jobs and were eligible only for appointment to the Sanitation Department itself.

Under the new set-up supermen who have accepted such jobs as porter in the Board of Transportation, which pay $.57 per hour, will be certified for other appropriate jobs paying $1,500 per year or more. In turn, eligibles further down on the list will be offered porter and other jobs paying less than $1,500 per year. The opportunities for employment in appropriate jobs of all kinds should be increased immediately to sanitation eligibles.

Eligibles who accept the $1,500 per year jobs will be removed from the sanitation man list for a period of one year. After the year is over, they will be eligible only for further appointments to the sanitation department.

CITY COURSES

With in-service training destined to become one of the most vital branches of public service during the emergency, New York City's Bureau of Training last week launched several courses for city employees:

An administrative conference on municipal personnel problems, with executive and administrative officers discussing personnel matters. Commissioner Wallace S. Sayre presided at the first session last Monday.

Two courses in supervision for Department of Purchase supervisors, given on Mondays and Wednesdays, respectively.

A course in Gragg speed stenography for employees of the Health Department.

A course in Pitman speed stenography for employees of the Hospitals Department.

MORE DUTIES OF LICENSE EXAMINER

Conducting road tests is most important among the duties of motor vehicle license examiners. It's important, then, that every applicant know exactly how examiners go about this work.

Check Permit

1. Check the examination permit against the assignment cards, and see to it that the description of the applicant on the permit agrees with the road test permit. Compare the age of the applicant with the statement of age on the examination permit. If the age of the applicant is under 25, ask him for proof of age, as approved by the Commissioner of Motor Vehicles. If the evidence of age is approved, the examiner must indicate the type of proof submitted by checking in the space provided on the reverse side of the examination permit. The applicant need submit proof of age only for the first road test.

In cases where proof of age is required by the department and not obtainable, the person in charge of the issuing office who has approved the applicant must also approve the road test permit slip. This must be accepted by the examiner, except in the case of a junior operator who must submit proof of age in all cases. No personal approval will be acceptable.

Registration

2. See that the motor vehicles which are to be used by applicants for the examination are properly registered and certificates of registration are in possession of the persons operating the vehicles. If the registration certificate is not in possession of the operator of the car, no road test shall be given. The applicant shall be instructed to return with the proper registration not later than 20 minutes of the following hour and at that time the examination shall be conducted.

More next week.

2 Added to List Of Senior Examiners

Two candidates for the promotion test to senior examiner, State Insurance Department, who missed the oral exam have been added to the list after taking and passing the experience interview. They are: 4A. Jack Salant, New York City, 89.17; 14A. Harry S. Deveey, Albany, 84.85.

The written was held October 26, 1940, and the list established May 17, 1941.

State Prepares for War; Buildings Guarded All Day

ALBANY.—Air-raid wardens, from four to six for each floor, are to be named by all departments in State office buildings in New York, Albany, and Buffalo, as part of a general master-plan for the protection of State property and occupants against bombing and sabotage.

The master-plan, developed by John J. McNulty, superintendent of public buildings, and approved by Commissioner Arthur W. Brandt, head of public works, and Governor Lehman, calls for additional armed guards at all State structures as well. They will form a staff of inside and outside vigilantes on 24-hour duty.

The State office building in New York City, at 80 Centre Street, will be strengthened by installation of sand and planking on the roof. In the event of blackouts the entire building will be blackened with the exception of the offices occupied by the State Guard, the State Defense Council, and the Adjutant General. The windows of these offices will be shrouded in light-proof materials as their occupants are to be on duty around the clock.

U. S. 'Raids' State Employees

Pays $5 Per Name for Eligibles Placed in U. S. Jobs

ALBANY.—The full impact of the nation's united war effort against the brigand aggressors has not yet been felt in State service, but the shadow of things to come already is apparent. Nearly 1,000 State workers are in the armed services, either as draftees, enlisted men, or by virtue of their membership in the National Guard or the reserve organizations. This number will of course be sharply stepped up with increased calls for men.

Some time ago it became apparent that Washington authorities, particularly those in the military and naval establishments, intended to reach into the State ranks and grab every individual with any previous service. The threat of stripping the State's personnel of its more valuable key-men became a genuine concern to the Lehman administration. It was felt that the State Government itself has a function to perform and that it would not be in the public interest or safety to jeopardize essential operations by eliminating the most valuable executives.

Lehman in Washington

Governor Lehman, it is reported, seeing the hand-writing on the wall, personally appealed to the Washington authorities not to raid the key-positions. He agreed to "loan" several State officials whose services were badly wanted by the federal government but on explicit promise that they would be permitted to return. So far that bargain has been pretty well kept, but the State already has lost some valuable men and will continue to do so, it is generally conceded.

The Lehman administration now going into the tenth year, has been a more or less closely-knit organization, with the Governor not only dependent upon a host of trusted and capable executives but knowing them personally as well. All this has contributed to developing an efficient and smooth-running State government, now threatened with many severe dislocations.

Takes Rank-and-File

The federal government is turning its attention not only to the higher executives and skilled departmental key-men but to the rank and file. The State Civil Service Commission has been aiding Administrator Floyd Odlum and the price administration bureau in Washington in staffing that department. A representative of the Commission, Charles L. Campbell, director of classification, has been in Washington assisting federal authorities with their personnel problems.

Federal Gov't. Calls

Inquiry at the Civil Service Department's offices has brought the disclosure from Miss Grace A. Reavy, chairman of the Commission, that the federal government is calling for complete lists of eligibles for personnel technician and research aides. This followed an earlier search for potential State workers who might be suitable for government jobs.

The federal government sent its representatives to Albany and they personally went over more than 200 Civil Service lists for material. Jobs were offered to many on these lists and many more will be called, it was said. Chairman Reavy revealed that an agreement was worked out with the federal authorities by which they agree to pay the State $5 per name for every candidate on any State list who is placed on the federal payroll. This charge is partial reimbursement to the State for its work in conducting the examinations and incidental expenses.

Some of the factors that have served to hamper swift transfer of State workers or State eligibles to federal employment are the differences between the two systems.

Regulations covering war veterans and disabled war veterans differ. A disabled veteran, for instance, goes to the top of a State list but is not recognized in that way by the federal government. Thus federal and State lists can't be used interchangeably where veterans are concerned. The federal quota system is another factor, along with differences in pay for like jobs as well as different minimum and maximum ages. Much of this may be short-circuited and many of the regulations may be shelved for the duration in the desperate effort to build man- and woman-power in essential places.

Reading for Comprehension

A Continuation of the Third of a Series of Articles on Preparation for Civil Service Examinations.

By Gertrude B. Slavin, B.S., M.A. and Alvin Slavin, B.A., M.A.

Our preceding article discussed the underlying principles governing the use of reading passages in civil service examinations. We presented an analysis of paragraph structure and we suggested several specific methods whereby you, the Civil Service candidate, can improve the extent of your reading comprehension. We demonstrated the necessary steps you must pursue to increase your speed in reading. We showed you how you can "spot" the main ideas contained in reading selections. We taught you how to beware of "traps" that confuse the thought. Finally, we listed seven guiding principles that you should follow in answering questions on reading as offered in Civil Service examinations.

If you have applied yourself to the methods we outlined, you will find little difficulty in answering the five reading interpretation questions presented in Exercise IV. These questions were selected from a General Qualifying Language Test administered recently by the U. S. Civil Service Commission. You will, likewise, find additional review exercises V and VI.

We suggest that you clip these articles from week to week so that you may compile a continual study manual.

EXERCISE IV

READING INTERPRETATION QUESTIONS

1. "An ideal is practical when it conforms to laws of nature and when it is worked out from actual experience. The ideal of a more desirable future must be more than simply a plan of a faultless state of things; to be practical, it must make use of as much as possible of the existing order."

According to the quotation, our ideals cannot be practical when we disregard (A) gradual changes (B) prophecies (C) experiments (D) realities (E) simplicity

2. "The operations of Congress are largely determined by the existence of two political parties—one, a majority in control of one or both houses and regarding itself as responsible for the principal legislative policies; the other, a minority bound under ordinary circumstances to criticise and to vote against the measures advanced by the other group."

The quotation indicates that (A) votes in Congress are always cast along party lines (B) legislation ordinarily is accelerated by the party system (C) the party system of Government is constitutionally prescribed (D) legislative policies are formulated by compromise (E) major acts are usually introduced into Congress by the party in power.

3. "A phase of work in the Department of State that is of vital importance is the creation at home of enlightened public opinion on matters relating to foreign affairs. It is through the newspapers and their correspondents that the Secretary of State seeks to inform the American people of what is going on in international affairs."

According to the quotation, the press is used to (A) secure the cooperation of foreign diplomats (B) influence public opinion in foreign countries (C) inform the Department of State concerning popular opinion (D) help inform the public (E) enlighten visitors to this country.

4. "It is true that soil resources in this country are being depleted and that this depletion involves the eventual extinction of agriculture in many localities. Nevertheless, the resources of the Nation are so great that it is very unlikely that the trend of agriculture production as a whole will be affected for several decades at least."

According to the quotation, (A) agricultural production as a whole will not be affected immediately by the present rate of depletion of soil resources (B) successful agriculture is not important so long as a country has other resources (C) agriculture is now being carried on in many localities not suitable for it (D) a shift in the agricultural population will be necessary within the next decade (E) measures must soon be taken to stop depletion of soil resources if we are to hold our place as an agricultural nation.

5. "The acts that a consul performs in the discharge of his official duties when within the scope of his powers may not be examined by authorities of the country to which he is assigned, but the government of that country reserves the right to decide whether any act is official."

Merry Christmas

Christmas is a Day,
An eve, a night;
Christmas is something
People want white.

Christmas is a tree,
A carol, a song;
Christmas is a spirit
That doesn't last long.

Christmas is a sale,
A chime, a week;
Christmas is the night
Little boys peek.

Christmas is a tide,
A stamp, a seal;
Christmas is a wreath
That begins to peel.

Christmas is a card,
A flower, a tie;
Christmas is a rush
And a look in your eye.

Christmas is a season,
A wonderful time,
Christmas is the reason
For this little rhyme.

Christmas is a greeting
Which I extend to you,
A merry, merry Christmas
And a Happy New Year, too!

To Women of America

Now that the first days of excitement are over, we are all settling down to the main job before us—winning the war.

The women of America, though they may not have to man any of our machine guns or pilot our planes—at least for the present—are already anxious to do their bit. They are volunteering for the Red Cross, the Women's Voluntary Services, and other similar groups. That is noble work.

However, we feel that they can do an even more direct part in winning this war.

For months now there has been a shortage of women to take stenographer and typist jobs in Washington, to work in the expanding defense agencies. These departments have actually been forced to take on incompetent employees, and train them while on the job.

The present shortage will be as nothing compared to what is before us. Government and defense agencies are already planning for expansion geared to the victory program. This growth will not only be in Washington but in federal offices all over the country. And the basic and greatest expansion will be among the typists and stenographers, unsung heroines who do the day-to-day routine work without which government would collapse. Remember that for each administrator taken on, to plan and direct government, at least half a dozen stenographers, typists, and clerks must be hired.

Actually with the first shots fired at Pearl Harbor could we hear the first stirrings of our nation's need. Early last week the United States Civil Service Commission issued a hurry call for 670 stenographers to work in Washington . . . and its district offices were told that the need had to be filled within ten days. Yet informal estimates already have it that government will soon be taking on between 500,000 and one million employees.

Here is a need which America's valiant women—of every age—can fill. Learn to typewrite. Learn how to take shorthand.

The CIVIL SERVICE LEADER starts next week a home-study course for typing. Each week we will present another lesson in this course, and urge you to do the week's work faithfully.

It may sound silly—but substantial help in winning this war may come from the army of stenographers and typists.

Join this army!

go on January 15 and the remaining third on January 31.

Budget Probe

The aftermath of both these stories—the claim for higher wages and the jobs of the veterans—may hinge on the third development of the week.

It is known that the investigation made by the Budget Office on alleged overstaffing in the Welfare Department because of lowered case loads has been ended. And the result is bad news for those on Welfare Department eligible lists.

The budgeteers are convinced that the Welfare Department just has too many employees. There will be no attempt on the part of the city to drop those already working, but future vacancies won't be filled. And the first vacancies to remain without occupants will undoubtedly be those to be created when the veterans finally leave their jobs.

Job, Pay Situation In Welfare Dept.

The job and salary situation in the Welfare Department moved ahead on three fronts this week.

First, the hopes of 2,500 social investigators for an increase in their salary maximum from $1,799.00 to $2,099.99 dimmed somewhat when Budget Director Kenneth Dayton withdrew his offer to push for the increase. In a letter to two attorneys representing investigators, he said that "this offer was conditioned upon the suspension or termination of the pending cases." Since both these attorneys have continued with their cases, he asserted that the order was withdrawn.

That places the matter back in the lap of Supreme Court Justice William F. Collins, before whom the three cases were argued several weeks ago. Dayton's offer was originally made to an SCWMA group represented by Nathan Witt. Attorneys Morris Amchan and Albert B. Breslow represent other groups; they are the two lawyers who have continued action.

All three suits contend that the ceiling should be raised as 252 of the investigators appointed from the December, 1937, list, though they may have been low in relative standing, are earning above the $1,799.99 figure.

Veteran Jobs

The status of provisional veterans, who seemed definitely on the way out last week, was continued on a day-to-day basis by Mayor LaGuardia while he tries to get them employment elsewhere. Many of the 191 veterans slated to go last Monday have since filed out applications and were interviewed for positions at the Brooklyn Navy Yard, the Naval Air Station, and other governmental agencies.

Guard jobs seem the most likely prospect, with the war emergency increasing the need for men to watch public buildings. The work history of some, however, shows other qualifications, and several are on federal Civil Service registers. Representatives of the Federal Works Agency and the U. S. Civil Service Commission have also interviewed the veterans. The guard positions pay $1,200.

'With the city about to go on a real economy basis because of the war, settlement of the claims of its skilled employees for the difference between the rate paid by private industry and their own wages now appears imminent. It is known that Mayor LaGuardia, anxious to get the matter over with, is in conference with officials of the Comptroller's Office, and that a decision may be forthcoming this week. The city has been offering a formula previously reported in The LEADER, embracing two planks:

Henceforth city employees will receive the same pay as that given by private employers in those industries where a single wage exists (these are known as Watson case industries, after the Court of Appeals case that first insisted that the city pay the prevailing wage); Employees will accept a percentage reduction in their claims for differences owed them.

The willingness of most groups to accept this formula is attested to by the fact that the bridge-men and riveters, the bridge-painters, and the dock builders are willing to take a 50 per cent cut in their claims.

To All These, Greetings

TO ALL the men and women who are performing the tasks — sometimes humdrum, sometimes exciting—of running the government . . .

To all who hope to work for the government . . .

To all who love liberty, and to those who are fighting for it . . .

To all these, we express the hope that the spirit of Christmas may permeate all men; that the spirit of democracy may permeate the world.

Young Men! Here's a Career

AS WE were going to press, less than 300 young men had filed in the New York City test for apprentice in the automotive trades. This test offers an unusual opportunity to young men for permanent positions in the city service. It is an earn-while-you-learn proposition, with the city paying the young men during their apprenticeship. The test may be taken by youngsters as young as 14.

If you feel you don't meet the requirements (you'll find them on page 16) here's a tip: file for the test anyway. Let the Civil Service Commission decide whether or not you're to be admitted to the test. If they don't admit you, your filing fee will be returned. So you have nothing to lose.

And a career to gain.

Disquieting Fact

WE WERE speaking to an official of the State Employment Service the other day. We learned a disquieting fact.

There is an availability of labor for defense work in New York City. There is a shortage of labor for defense work upstate.

Upstate employers, who don't have enough competent people, won't hire New York City workers who are competent to do the job. They're "suspicious" of New Yorkers.

This is more than unfortunate. It's an obstruction to the efficiency of our victory program.

Please, gentlemen, this is democracy we're fighting for.

A Training Plan

AND talking about defense jobs, here's a suggestion about training for defense jobs. You've been reading a lot this past year about training. Yet likely as not, if you've actually tried to get training for defense, you've been shunted around, tripped up by red tape, and possibly given the impression that the whole training program isn't what it's cracked up to be.

There ought to be a single center devoted to training for war industries, coordinating the training activities of the Board of Education, Training-Within-Industry, NYA, CCC, apprenticeship in private industry, the private tuition schools. This center should be so set up that a man or woman could go there, get a complete picture of all training available in the community. There should be at least a minimum of vocational guidance—that is, persons desiring training should be directed to the best courses in terms of their own desires and the nation's needs. It should be easier for the untrained to get training.

Such a plan is going to become more and more necessary as our young men are drained away from private industry into the army.

In New York City, a unit such as this could easily be set up within the State Employment Service.

Merit Men

at his pipe, it's hard to realize that this is a man who has come to grips with the city's toughest, dirtiest gangsters.

Lockwood has a theory about the luxury of the new District Attorney's office, occupying several floors in the recently-finished Criminal Courts Building. It's this: "There's a psychological value to the dignity of an office like ours. When the little people used to come into our old, unkempt offices, they frequently would get the impression, 'Huh, just another cheap lawyer.' Today, such an impression is impossible. They feel the man they are dealing with is important—and the men with lesser jobs have impressive offices for this reason."

A Place For Young Men

Tom Dewey's quarters are overrun with young men. That's good, thinks 39-year-old Lockwood. "This isn't a quiet harbor into which a lawyer battered and bewildered by life comes for comfort and shelter." The young men in Dewey's office set to do a job, "we have done it, and we are doing it." The pride which goes with this statement has no pomposity in it. Paul Lockwood isn't a pompous guy. His pride arises from this attitude: "The work is more vital than going to the movies or reading detective stories."

The Lighter Side

There's a big notebook which he has collected over the years . . . the lighter side of his work. Some of it is a little sad, lots of it is bawdy or funny. All of it deals with the "little people" who have passed before Lockwood—the little people for whom, with their troubles and their perplexities, he feels a deep compassion.

He reads some of the stories. A mild one is about a man and woman living together without benefit of a license. "Is it a common law marriage?" asks Lockwood. "No, indeed," they insist, "it's a gentleman's agreement."

Blacker is the color of a story about Fritz Kuhn, Nazi Bund leader now languishing in jail. One day, while Fritz was being investigated, he phoned Lockwood, roaring into the phone that Lockwood's assistants had robbed him of $1,700. "The only way to handle a chap who roars is to roar louder," grins Lockwood, and he roared at Kuhn that if there was a complaint, the Bundman could come to Lockwood's office and state it in person. Kuhn came, and told a story that he had left $1,700 in small bills under a small wooden desk tray, then had gone to California. In

TREMENDOUS is the word for Paul Lockwood. Tremendous in physique, in breadth of vision, in zeal for his work.

You go in to get a story about the life and achievements of Manhattan's Executive Assistant District Attorney, and at once you are so absorbed in what the man has to say that you decide you ought to write a kind of psychological profile of him. He talks of many things—of newspapers in the old, glamorous days, of sports "when they didn't have steam-heated press-boxes," of mechanical engineering, of "the poor suckers who get involved in crime." He tells stories about Fritz Kuhn, about curious relics of crime collected in the past six years, about some of the tricks of investigating, and wonders aloud about why we have crime at all. He doesn't look like a lawyer; in proper dress, he could pass for a Viking seaman. There is something about his face which reminds you vaguely of novelist Ernest Hemingway; something in his solid, earthly laugh which reminds you of Rabelais.

That's Paul Lockwood, as unusual an assistant district attorney as ever graced New York's Centre Street.

Enthusiasm

His enthusiasm for his work is boundless. You feel it with an impact that is almost physical. He works furiously, and long hours, "because I love it." Since 1913 he has never missed a day away from the office for illness. But he can relax, too, and as he sits at his finely-made lightwood desk, in deep green upholstery, puffing serenely

The Man Over 40

Sirs: Knowing how your paper has given publicity to the big question, "men of forty and over" trying to get Federal jobs, I, at this time want to make a positive statement that a man of forty years and over has not a ghost of a chance in securing employment in the white collar class.

I talk from experience, having been certified three times in the storekeeper class, and I am still out of a job. The reason is obvious—"past 40." I believe there should be an executive order from the President to all employing officers or officials in the Federal employ, stressing the point that if a person of 40 or over comes up for certification, that person should be given the same consideration as is shown to younger people. Only merit and qualification should be taken under consideration, not age.

I am 40 years of age, a veteran and my rating is 94.75 on the storekeeper list. I have been given a runaround three times since August 15, 1941. I am available at once, but still can't connect with a job. We are supposed to have a merit system—where?

DISCOURAGED.

Age limits on many Federal jobs have been raised in the past year. We cannot pass on this individual case, but we agree that it is reprehensible to deny a Federal position to a person who meets the qualifications purely on the ground of age.—EDITOR.

Manpower Shortage

Sirs: Having read your piece "Manpower Shortage" in the December 2nd issue of The LEADER, I got quite a surprise if not a laugh at the way the State Civil Service Department contradicts itself. It read that the State Public Works Department is crying for Draftsmen, and also says that several new lists have to be established, such as Junior Draftsman and Junior Engineering Aide.

I am on the present list for Junior Draftsman, established in January, 1939. Qualifications for the test required us to be qualified Junior Draftsmen with some years of architectural schooling and some years of actual drafting experience. Getting by those requirements, we had to pass a drafting test—which really qualified us to be first-class draftsmen for a Junior Draftsman's position. Then what happens? They make a few appointments and let the list die.

I can't see very much sense in taking a new test for Junior Draftsman as I'm sure that every eligible on the old list will certainly make the new list. Being three years since the last test gives us three more years' experience. You can be sure that I as well as every other eligible on the list will be just as good a draftsman if he is taken off the present list as we would be if we were called from the new list. It all adds up to a waste of valuable time and money.

Don't

Repeat This!

WHAT batch of 50 "one-day" appointments from the dying Fireman list made to reach the son of a former police lieutenant now in an important city post? . . . Cut-back of war has kept Bill Brown, head of Britain's fighting civil servants, on this side of the Atlantic. . . . Before the State Employment Service issued that call for employees to repair Peal Harbor, there was much hectic phone-calling on the question of giving out information of value to the Axis. . . . Lovely Jean Muir, retired screen star, occasionally helps the City Commission in conducting exams. . . .

Economics

John DeGraff, ASCSE counsel, has been hard at work for months on an air-tight bill to give State employees fair salary increases to meet the h.c. of l. . . DA-elect Frank Hogan has inherited from Tom Dewey a complete plan to curb any crime rise brought on by the war. . . . New York City today has four times as many regular Firemen as did peace-time London, with a larger population to defend.

Names Dept.

Paul Kern was certified to the Docks Department as a porter at LaGuardia Field. He's number 1,338 on the list . . . Bridge expert Ely Culbertson is the latest to come up with a post-war peace plan. It's getting serious attention . . . Sign in the lobby at 299 Broadway, home of the City Commission: "Buy a defense stamp and lick the other side!" . . .

If they are in need of draftsmen, why don't they canvas the present list? I'm sure that everyone on the list is just waiting to be called.

DISGUSTED ELIGIBLE.

The complainant, according to the State Department of Civil Service, is on the list for junior draftsmen, division of architecture, something quite different from a draftsman in the highway division, for which there is need. The list for highway draftsmen was exhausted last month when the Division of Commerce took the remaining eligibles willing to accept jobs. Hence the Public Works Department is asking for a new junior draftsman list—highway draftsmen. If enough cannot be found and it is deemed expedient to go to the list for architectural draftsmen, that may occur. It depends on whether the department wishes to re-train the architectural draftsmen for road building.—EDITOR.

On Living Costs

Sirs: May I congratulate you on your editorial in the November 18 issue on pay raises for Government employees.

The way the cost of living has risen down here in Washington, something should be done immediately about pay raises for the forgotten man, the Federal employee. Continue the good cause.

Leave of Absence

M.F.: You may apply for a leave of absence from the Welfare Department of New York City by writing to William C. Hodson, Commissioner, Department of Welfare, 902 Broadway, New York City. Leaves of absence are discretionary with department heads.

Pay Difference

N.L.C.: You will not be entitled to the difference in military pay and your city salary if you are again called into military service because of your status as a member of the enlisted reserves. Only employees who are members of State Guard and reserve units before these units were federalized receive the difference in pay.

How Long Is Navy Yard Job?

B.B.B.: There is no way of telling how long the position in the Brooklyn Navy Yard for which you have received a permanent appointment will last. A "permanent" appointment to a civil service position does not mean that the position is a lifetime job. Undoubtedly, there will be a cut in Navy appropriations when the war is over. However, it is impossible to estimate whether your position will be among those which will be excluded from future budget appropriations.

Standing on U. S. List

J.K.: There is no way of estimating your chances for appointment or determining your relative standing on the federal list for apprentice, Government Printing office. The U. S. Civil Service Commission does not release registers of eligibles for publication. At the present time the Commission is unable to answer requests for relative standing because of its work in defense recruitment.

The Post Office Department called attention to the fact that postal employees can't take a leave of absence until they have first taken all their annual leave. Intoxicating liquors found in the mail are confiscated and mailers are liable to heavy penalty. . . . Advance checks for $20 were issued on Saturday, December 20, to each employee in the Post Office, to permit unimpeded Christmas shopping. . . . That was a good deed, Mr. Postmaster. . . . The Joint Conference of Postal Employees has issued a call for men who can make short addresses on Salary Increases. The Conference will supply the text. Expenses paid. Phone President

Chances for Appointment

C.U.L.: It is impossible to estimate your chances for appointment from the federal eligible list for translator for reasons mentioned above. An examination for substitute post office clerk-carrier may be announced in the near future.

"Freezing"

L.G.: You may resign your federal position as a laborer in the War Department in order to accept appointment from a New York City eligible list. But make sure you inform your superior of the exact reason for leaving, and get his O.K. The "freezing" order refers to transfers from one federal department to another federal department.

Your Rating

L.M.: Write to the U. S. Civil Service Commission, Washington, D. C., for your rating-on the federal translator examination.

Typist Test

L.R.: As soon as the U. S. Civil Service Commission rates your typist examination, you will receive a notice of rating. There is no way of telling when the rating of this examination will be completed.

Seniority

A.C.: Under a recent ruling of the Municipal Civil Service Commission, your seniority in the New York City Transit System in the title of street-car operator will be credited to your original standing on the eligible list for automobile engineman and not to the length of time in which you have been employed as a street-car operator.

Fantastic Episode Recalled by Lt. Seufert's Death

The death last week of Lieut. Jack Seufert, retired from Eng. 11, recalls the most fantastic, albeit true, episode ever to be recorded in the archives of the N.Y. F.D.

The scene—a 3rd alarm fire on Roosevelt Street, Manhattan; The building—an old structure housing a rag shop; The time—10:30 p.m., the night of January 6, 1907; Officers in charge—Chief Binns for fire-fighting and Dr. Archer for first-aid.

Suddenly at 11:15 p.m., the building collapses burying three firemen, including Lt. Siefert, (then a fireman). While rescue work continued at a frantic pace, the families of the buried men are notified.

When a fireman arrived at the Seufert home, his wife said, "I know why you came. My husband is buried somewhere. At 11:15 tonight while sitting here with my family, I felt my husband's hand on my shoulder and he said: 'Maime, I am buried under a building, but I am alive.' I let up a shriek and scared my family. They assured me it was only imagination." The family testified to Mrs. Seufert's statement.

Reach the Body

Four hours later the body of the first fireman was reached by the rescuers and the next morning the other one was recovered.

An undertaker at the scene told Mrs. Seufert that he had secured the burial of the other two men and that if she would consent to him handling the funeral of her husband, he would give a discount to all three. To which Mrs. Seufert replied: "My husband is not dead."

The morning of the second day, 38 hours later, Chief Binns and Dr. Archer were still directing the digging for Seufert's body when tapping was heard on a gas pipe coming from under the collapsed building. Dr. Archer listened attentively as tap, tap, tap; pause, then tap, tap, came over and over again. "Engine 32," shouted Archer, "it must be Seufert." An elbow over the top of the pipe was cut and Doc Archer called down. "Yes, I'm alive, but get me the h—out of here, I'm hungry," Seufert called up from under tons of debris.

The good Doc poured malted milk (hic) down the pipe and ordered renewed speed in rescue work. Thirty-eight hours after the explosion, Seufert was reached and carried to safety, none the worse for his harrowing experience.

Had there been no elbow on the top of the gas pipe, Seufert would have been drowned, because, he was in such a small spot, that he couldn't even remove his helmet. He could not even bend down a few inches in order to drink the malted milk poured down by Doc Archer.

As for Mrs. Seufert's dream of her husband's predicament, well, you may call it anything you want; premonition, mental telepathy or clairvoyance, or what have you. But it was true.

Judge Cahalan decided against the Fire and Police departments poses in the Army and Navy. These men, who work in the New York area, have an equal number of their co-workers in the armed forces.

These civil service workers are doing this at the call of the Defense Committee of their union, the New York Branch of the Railway Mail Association. More will come forward as soon as the exigencies of their 24-hour, 7-day-a-week industry, the Post Office, with its odd hours of work, permits.

The donations were made at the noon hour at the Red Cross Blood Donor Center, 139 E. 36th Street. A majority of the men were from the evening and midnight tours of duty.

A Merry Christmas to you, merry gentlemen of the Post Office.

IMPORTANT TO ALL GAS USERS!

What to do should bombs fall near by

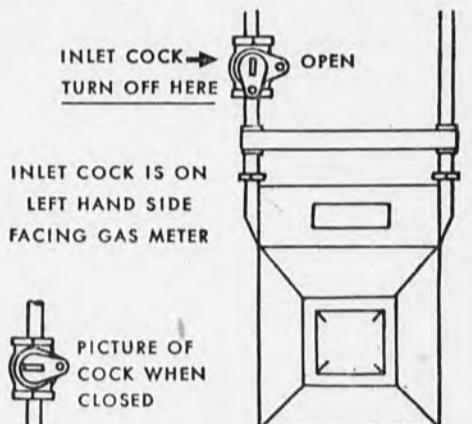

Instructions issued by the Civilian Defense Committee of the City of New York state:

"If bombs are falling in your immediate vicinity shut off the control cock on the inlet to the gas meter."

"If after the all clear signal you do not feel confident in turning on the gas supply and relighting all appliances obtain the services of a plumber or some other qualified help to do so."

It is not necessary nor advisable to turn off the gas at the meter unless bombs are actually falling in your immediate vicinity.

"Bombs falling in immediate vicinity" means when they have fallen close enough to rattle windows violently and to cause you to feel a distinct jar. In such a case there is the possibility of local damage which might affect your gas supply.

The above sketch shows the location of the control cock of the gas meter and its "on" and "off" position. A medium sized monkey or stillson wrench that will fit this cock should be kept handy at all times. In turning the meter inlet cock off or on, do so slowly.

Gas service and appliances including their pilot lights should be operated in the normal manner until the above precautions become necessary.

COOPERATE...DO YOUR PART!

Whether or not we will have blackouts depends upon the decision of the Army.... During a blackout everything must be kept going—at home—at work—at places of recreation. We must adjust ourselves without interfering with industrial, commercial, or business or family life.... Make the necessary preparation so that no lights will be visible from the outside if blackouts are necessary.... It is not intended that you should remain in the dark—that's depressing—and it isn't good for the children. So keep your home cheerful—keep the lights going.

So He Became a Lawyer

"If you can do it, I can do it," said Lockwood. They made a bet on who would quit first. "I paid a year's tuition at Fordham," relates Paul, "he paid a month's tuition at N.Y.U. At the end of the month he quit. But I had invested too much cash, so I had to go through with it."

And that's how Paul Lockwood became a lawyer.

Today, as executive officer in the District Attorney's office, Lockwood is responsible for important decisions. He is the liaison officer who maintains contact with the police, with the FBI, and with agencies all over the United States. As such, he is in large part responsible for the excellent public relations of the Dewey staff.

Lockwood on Crime

About crime, Lockwood has a curious approach:

"Crime is puzzling. Often I think: Why did that poor devil do what he did? The usual explanations don't always fit."

And this:

"Frequently I feel deep pity for everybody in the case—perpetrator as well as victim. In time, you lose the viewpoint of an eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth. Many times, the criminal is a weak individual who's been tossed around by life and gets into one jam after another."

And this:

"One of the secrets of our success is that we know how to get the confidence of everybody in the case."

Lockwood zoomed way up in public esteem during the recent New York City elections. He was one of the four men named by Dewey as a possible successor. The Democrats selected Frank S. Hogan, another assistant and close friend of Paul's, as their candidate. Lockwood might have maneuvered for Republican and ALP nomination. He didn't. He stuck by Hogan. And that is something of the measure of the man.

In those days young men thought there was money to be made in the practice of law. A newspaper friend of his told him he would study law.

Bill Prepared To Raise State Pay

ALBANY.—Republican legislative leaders have taken the initiative in the plan to boost salaries of State workers next year. They announced this week that they will introduce a bill when the Legislature convenes next month providing for pay increases for all State employees earning under $2,500 a year. This would affect about 42,000 of the State's 50,000 workers.

Assembly Speaker Oswald D. Heck explained:

"The percentage of increase would be based upon the cost of living index, which will be determined as of a certain date. Whether there will be a flat increase for all affected or whether the percentage of increase will vary with the block-salaries will have to be decided later. In any event, so far as the Republicans in the Legislature are concerned, we can assure the State employees they have our support for any increases to meet higher living costs."

Heck said that GOP leaders have not consulted Governor Lehman, although it is known that the Governor himself has been considering a number of different pay-boost proposals.

Know Airplanes

Civilian defense workers should know airplanes these days. Aerospere, the 948 page world's aeronautical annual, becomes essential to police, firemen, air raid wardens and other public officials who have the care of our people in their charge. Aerospere contains photographs and complete descriptions of the whole world's planes including German, Japanese, Italian, English, Russian and those of the United States. Recognized as the most comprehensive aeronautical authority, Aerospere is now in use by all governments and military services as well as by the aviation industry as a whole.

IMPORTANT: PLEASE READ THIS

The highest numbers certified on New York City eligible lists for permanent, temporary, and indefinite positions at various salary ranges appear below. Do not add these figures. The first column contains the name of the eligible list; the second column, the department to which the list was certified; the third column, the salaries of the positions to be filled. The fourth column shows whether the certification was to a permanent, temporary or indefinite position. The fifth column shows the highest number reached and the last column, the expiration date of the list. Readers should remember that certification does not necessarily mean appointment as many more names are always certified than there are vacancies.

The Civil Service Commission does not notify eligibles when they are certified. If your number is lower than the number reached on your list and you have not been notified yet, don't worry about it. The department to which you were certified will notify you when you are about to be reached for appointment.

Here are 1942 New Year's Eve prices. They are quoted on the basis of "per person" and include dining, dancing and favors:

Film of the Week

H. M. PULHAM, ESQ. M.G.M.'s film version of J. P. Marquand's best - selling novel, with Hedy Lamarr, Robert Young and Ruth Hussey in the starring roles, heads the holiday program at the Radio City Music Hall.

Directed by King Vidor, "H. M. Pulham, Esq." is the story of a young Bostonian who seeks to escape the mould of tradition in which he is cast, finds the one great love of his life, then is forced back to the conventions of his class. He marries the woman his family had chosen for him, then, at middle age, discovers he cannot recapture the romance of his lost youth.

Robert Young appears in the title role, a part which carries him from boyhood to a settled business man of middle age. Miss Lamarr, playing an American girl for the first time, appears as Marvin Myles, a straightforward advertising woman with whom young Pulham falls in love. Ruth Hussey takes the part of the girl Pulham marries, a conservative Boston aristocrat.

On the stage, a two-part Christmas spectacle composed of the Music Hall's celebrated annual production of the pageant of "The Nativity," and a festive stage show produced by Leon Leonidoff

Rehearsals of "All in Favor," the new comedy dealing with the more or less frenzied activities of a boy's club in Washington Heights, began yesterday under the direction of Elliott Nugent. The play, which was written by who will play Mrs. Wilson in "In Time to Come," the Otto L. Preminger production about Woodrow Wilson, opening at the Mansfield Theatre on December 28.

Lou Hoffman and Don Hartman, is being presented by Mr. Nugent in conjunction with Robert Montgomery, the motion picture star, and Jesse Duncan. It is scheduled to open in New York during week of Jan. 12. . . . Some months ago Gertrude Lawrence undertook the sale of souvenir books for "Lady in the Dark" at the Alvin Theatre.
