A HALLOWE'EN GHOST

It was four days before Hallowe'en Mr. and Mrs. Brown had just bought the large white house on the corner. People believed the house was haunted. At night one might be passing the house and see a white figure, a ghost perhaps standing at the window. As one passed, the figure would wave its hands and shout, "Hello."

Mr. and Mrs. Brown were not afraid. They bought the house just the same. Billy and Johnny Brown were determined to find out what the ghost really was.

Three days after they moved in, everything was in order. During this time no noises were heard in the house.

Johnny thought it would be fun to have a Hallowe'en party and have everybody come dressed in costumes. They decided to have the party on Hallowe'en night.

That evening the boys invited their cousins, Mary Kelly and Dorothy Haines, over to help them make the preparations for the party.

At 8:00 o'clock the girls arrived. They decided to go up to the attic and find some old Hallowe'en decorations which they had used a few years ago. Billy took a flashlight with him so that they could see in the dark.

COME ONE! COME ALL!

Tonight is the big night of the gay party in Page Hall gym. As an extra bit of persuasion, we may say you will see some fine talent in the plays that each homeroom is giving.

We hear that there will be several short skits and some people are planning to play instruments of various types. To say it all in a few words "It's bound to be a marvelous party with all the entertainment, and dancing afterwards."

PARTY DRESS

As you know, our party on Friday will be informal.

Girls: Long evening dresses will be out of style. A three quarter length or party dress will be accepted as stylish. Girls are requested not to wear evening dresses. Of course if you have an evening dress you would like to wear, you may; but if you are buying or making a dress we suggest an informal.

Boys: Your plain school suits will be fine, but if you want to look shined up you may wear a good suit.

CHARACTER SKETCH

For the opening of the character sketches this year we go to room 127. There he or she is a brunette about five feet, seven inches tall. He or she is very quiet classes and is a very good athlete.

If you guess this person's name, write it on a slip of paper and it will be collected. If you are right, your name will appear in the next issue of this paper.

 ? QUESTION BOX ?

(Q) Is it fair to overthrow a homeroom president, when he has been in office only a few weeks?

(A) There is not any Milne law to stop you from doing this, if you have a real reason, but ordinarily when a class elects a homeroom president he holds office for the whole semester.

Now, in Billy's bedroom were the stairs leading to the attic. Just as they reached the bedroom they heard some uncanny yell, "Hello there, aren't you scared?" Mary and Dorothy screamed and ran downstairs, but Billy opened the door and started up the stairs to the attic. He was determined to find out who was the ghost! Johnny did not follow. He just stood frozen to the spot.

Billy reached the top of the stair in a few seconds. He flashed the light all around the room and there in a corner was a white object moving its arms up and down. Billy walked over to it slowly. He looked at it closely and burst out laughing. He quickly decided he would not tell what the ghost was. He would wait till Halloween and tell everybody about it at the party.

He went downstairs and assured everybody that nothing was in the attic. He said he had scared them. They made the last preparation for the party. Mary and Dorothy went home, and Billy and Johnny went to bed.

The next night the party started with great success. There was ducking for apples and all sorts of Halloween games. Just before the party ended Billy made an announcement.

"Ladies and gentlemen, I have found who the ghost is. It is a parrot who had rolled in white flour that had been in the attic. The parrot could talk and say, 'Hello.' It had been just a parrot!"

Then it will make a full page of comics for the Jubilee. The best cartoon every week is to be put on the bulletin board to be judged on the final contest later. There will be a prize for the best comic strip in school.

The sewing club is having a fine time. Here the girls are knitting, crocheting, and making crepe-paper dolls and stuffed animals. Since each one may choose what she will do, the activity is varied.

The art club is already planning to make its work practical by making Christmas presents. Miss Pekins is the club sponsor.

It was decided in Student Council that there would be an information desk this year. Also at the meeting committees for the semester were appointed as follows: social committee Donner Atwood, Doris Holmes, and Estelle Dilg; bulletin board committee, Robert Natell, Miriam Freund, and Betty Tinchor; assembly committee, David Ellison, Doris Holmes, and Norman Andrews.

JUNIOR HIGH RECEPTION

The Junior high is giving an informal reception tonight from 8:00 to 11:00 o'clock. It will be in Page Hall gym. The reception is being held to get the seventh graders acquainted with the eighth and ninth graders.
