749 PAY STUDENTS ASSOCIATION TAX

1934 Leads Tax-Payers' List; Sophomores Are Second; Juniors Rank Last

Seven hundred forty-nine students have paid $10,486 of the $16,068.65 student association budget, according to assistant professor Clarence A. Hidley, treasurer of the student association. The freshmen head the list of those who have paid the student tax, and the juniors are last. Three hundred five freshmen, 166 sophomores, 140 seniors and 136 juniors have paid the tax.

Last year, the record year for tax collection, $11,760 had been collected at the end of the regular collection period, while this year approximately $1,300 less has been collected than last year, according to Professor Hidley.

Since more than 300 students have not yet paid their tax money, an extension of the period of tax collection will be necessary, Mr. Hidley said.

The cut in the budgets of the various organizations will be the same as last year if not less, Mr. Hidley announced.

The officers of the finance board for 1930-31 are: chairman, Professor George M. York, head of the commerce department; treasurer, Clarence A. Hidley, assistant professor of history, and secretary, Norman Collins, senior member of the board. The other members of the board are: Marion Odwell, '31; Dorothy Hall and Robert Rankins, juniors; and Frances McMahon, '33.

The members of the finance board are elected at the time of the class elections in the spring of the preceding year. The seniors and juniors have two representatives on the board and the sophomore class elect one.

COLLEGE ALUMNI TO HAVE ANNUAL DINNER TOMORROW

The annual meeting of the eastern district of the State college alumni association will be conducted tomorrow night at a dinner in the cafeteria of Husted hall, according to Mrs. Bertha Barford, president of the eastern district, who will preside at the meeting. Mrs. Barford is an instructor at the Hackett junior high school.

The dinner will be preceded by a social hour in the lounge of Richardson hall. Mrs. Kenneth MacAffer, formerly Edna Shaffer, '24, will sing. The dinner will begin at 6 o'clock. Mrs. Barford announced. Mrs. MacAffer will also lead informal singing during the dinner.

Miss Margaret Hayes, assistant director of child welfare and social work in Milne high school will be the principal speaker. Her topic will be "Parent Education." Miss Hayes was formerly district supervisor for the state education department of North Carolina.

There will be reports presented from the various committees, Mrs. Barford said. Special attention will be given to the report to be presented by Miss Hazel Rowley, assistant professor in physics, concerning the amendments to the constitution. The annual election of officers will also take place at this meeting.

Mrs. Queenie Homan Faust, former instructor in biology, was in charge of the publicity for the event, Mrs. Barford said.

The next meeting of the association will be conducted in the spring, probably in conjunction with the annual round-table conferences, she concluded.

Hockenberger Is Longest, Fry Shortest Name In Directory

Christine Hockenberger, '34, has the distinction of having the longest name in the State College Directory for 1930-1931, while Sara Fry, '31, has the shortest.

There are sixteen Smiths this year, whereas there were thirteen last year. This year's Browns, seven in number, exceed last year's by two, while the Jones remain the same, eight in both editions. There has been a decrease in Robinsons, however, from five last year to only four this year.

DR. EDDY

DR. EDDY TO TALK TO STUDENT BODY, LUDLUM DECLARES

Dr. Sherwood Eddy, who spoke at the student Young Men's Christian association dinner last night, will be the speaker in the assembly this morning at 11 o'clock in the Page hall auditorium, according to Russell Ludlum, '31, president of student association. Dr. Eddy, who has just returned from a trip abroad will probably speak on the international situation as he saw it in the principal countries of Europe visited during his journey, George E. Graff, '31, president of the Y. M. C. A., said.

This summer, Dr. Eddy visited Europe, Asia, and the Orient. He has spent the majority of his time in past years in foreign countries lecturing and interviewing numerous political, industrial, social, and educational leaders.

After his graduation from Yale in 1899, Dr. Eddy went to India where he worked for 15 years among the students there. He was then appointed secretary of the Y. M. C. A. of India and served in this office for nine years, working among the students of India, Russia, China, and the Near East.

Dr. Eddy has written many books on pacifism, of which he is a firm advocate. He is also known as an authority on sex problems.

'34 PLANS DEBATE FOR DECEMBER 12

Committee Will Choose Team To Contest Philodoxia, High School Team

For the first time in the history of any freshman class, a team will be chosen to engage in an early season debate with the Philodoxia literary society of the Albany High school Friday night, December 12, at 8:15 o'clock. The debate will take place in the Albany High school auditorium upon the occasion of Philodoxia's annual honorary night ceremonies.

Every member of the class who is interested will be given a tryout, according to Grenfell N. Rand, chairman of the committee in charge. "Ample opportunity will be given each candidate for the team to demonstrate his ability," Rand said. The other members of the committee are Frances K. Higgins and Charles B. Dunham.

George P. Rice, '32, will coach the freshman team. The tryouts and selection of the team will be under his supervision.

The team representing Philodoxia will consist of George Caplan, Norman Cochrane, Jack Goodman, captain, and John Carnevale, alternate. Carnevale, who is also president of Philodoxia, said: "I am looking forward with interest to the meeting of our team with that of the freshman class of State college. The results of this innovation should indeed be gratifying."

Two questions have been offered as possibilities. They are: 1. Resolved: That the policy of co-education is desirable in American colleges; 2. Resolved: That armed protection of foreign investments is justified.

This debate will be a non-decision one. The time will be seven minutes for each constructive speaker with one ten minute rebuttal.

G. A. A. to Have Annual Banquet November 22

The annual fall award dinner and gym frolic of the Girl's Athletic association will be conducted on Saturday, November 22, according to Beatrice Van Steenburgh, '31, president. The dinner will be in the cafeteria of Husted hall and the frolic in the gymnasium of Hawley hall, Miss Van Steenburgh announced.

Betty Gordon, '33, is general chairman for the event. The following committees will assist her: entertainment, Katherine Moore, '33, chairman, and Mildred Smith, '32; lampet, Marion Gilbert, '31, chairman, Madeleine Hayes, '31, Vera Burns and Alice Galbin, juniors, and Bertha Buhl and Isabelle Hewitt, sophomores; decorations, Marie Judt, '33, chairman, Helen Cronie and Violet Putnam, sophomores; waitresses, Evelyn Armstrong, '33, chairman; clean-up, Laura Styn, '33, chairman, Mary Moore, Elizabeth Kammerer, and Jean Cragin, freshmen; chaperones, Judy Fisher, '32, chairman; and publicity, Alma Lewis, '33, chairman, and Annis Kellogg, '32.

MEMBER WELCOMED

Psi Gamma sorority welcomes Mr. Harrison M. Terwilliger, assistant professor of commerce, and Mrs. Terwilliger, and Mr. Chester Terrill, assistant professor of commerce, and Mrs. Terrill, into honorary membership.

Milady Will Wear V-Neckline, This Season, State College Co-ed Proves

State college co-eds' style of dress closely parallels the trend which is being indicated by the leading women's magazines, such as the Vogue, Harper's Bazaar, Woman's Wear, and the New York Times, according to a study made by actual count of one hundred State college women. This study was made in connection with the home economics, course 10, a course in costume designing, taught by Mrs. Anna K. Barsam, assistant professor of home economics.

According to the figures compiled by the class by counting the first hundred women who went into the library during their class period, fifty-nine have, or are growing long hair, worn close to the head in a flat knot, while forty-one have short hair.

Presents Book

MISS HELEN T. FAY

Miss Helen T. Fay, manager of the Co-op, who will give a book away each week. Each volume given in this manner will be one written by the faculty and will be autographed.

STUDENTS TO GET FACULTY-WRITTEN BOOKS EACH WEEK

Each week the State college Co-operative book store will present some student with a book written by some member of the faculty, according to an announcement made this week by Miss Helen T. Fay, manager of the book store.

As the students pass into the Lounge each Wednesday at the time of the student-faculty teas, each will be given a slip of paper on which will be written a number. At the close of the reception, an announcement will be made as to which number has been picked as the lucky one.

Among the books which will be given are: "High School Grammar and Composition," by President A. R. Brubacher and Miss Katherine E. Wheeling, assistant professor of English; "Anecdotes and Egotisms of Henry McKenzic," by Dr. Harold W. Thompson, professor of English; "Nutrition and Food Chemistry," by Professor Bernard S. Bronson, head of the chemistry department; and "Constitution of the United States," by Dr. David Hutchinson, head of the government department.

The first presentation was made by Dr. Howard DeBelle, professor of mathematics, to Anne Silverwood, '31, in the Lounge of Richardson hall, at the faculty-student tea last Wednesday afternoon. The book is entitled "The Teaching Profession and Practice," by Dr. A. R. Brubacher.

Debate Council Plans To Have Six Contests

Plans for scheduling six debates for varsity debate teams are practically completed by the debate council, according to George P. Rice, '32, secretary of the council.

The men's team will meet the representatives of the University of Vermont some time in March. The debate will be in Page hall on the question of whether or not the chain-store system is beneficial. State college will uphold the negative. The council plans a return debate with Hamilton college.

G. A. A. TO CONDUCT WEEK OF HEALTH

Poster Contest and Selection Of Healthiest Woman Are Features

The annual health week under the auspices of the Girl's Athletic association will be conducted this year from November 17 to 21, according to Beatrice Van Steenburgh, '31, president. Tentative plans for the week include a poster contest, the selection of the healthiest girl in College, and the presentation of an assembly program, she said.

Annette Lewis, '32, is general chairman for the week. Jean Minkin and Frances Virginia Peck, seniors, will assist her. Leah Dorgan, '32, is in charge of publicity. The other members of her committee are: Annis Kellogg, '32, Augusta Vail, '33, and Helen Barrett, '34.

Every freshman and sophomore member of the gymnasium classes will be required to make a poster for health week and hand it in before November 13, Miss Lewis said. Any subject of health such as posture, sleep, fresh air, exercise, food, ventilation, clothing, and sports, will be suitable, she said. One representative from each gymnasium class will be selected to work with the publicity committee to distribute the posters each day.

The three most original posters will be selected and given the place of honor across the main stairway in Draper hall, Miss Lewis announced. These will be awarded a red seal and ribbon, she said. Miss Eunice Perine, assistant professor of fine arts, will give instruction in the making of posters on Monday and Wednesday from 9 to 12 o'clock to all those who are interested.

The healthiest girl in State college will be selected from representatives of various organizations. Each club or organization, group house, sorority, and gymnasium class will present a candidate for this title. No woman can be a candidate from more than one organization, Miss Lewis said. The names must be in by November 14, at which time the candidates will be examined by a student committee, composed of Miss Peck, Miss Minkin, Miss Lewis, Esther Mead, '32, Naomi Albrecht, '33, and Minnie McNickle, '34.

The five healthiest candidates will be selected by this committee. These will be examined by Dr. Caroline Crossdale, the College physician, and the winner announced in assembly on November 21.

G. A. A. TO PRESENT VAUDEVILLE SHOW AGAIN THIS YEAR

The Girl's Athletic association will present a vaudeville again this year for its annual entertainment, according to Beatrice Van Steenburgh, '31, president. There will be two directors and a business manager appointed this year to manage the presentation, she said.

Last year a vaudeville was presented under the direction of Ruth Hughes, '31. This was the first vaudeville to have been given since 1926. It consisted of a short musical comedy, popular song and dancing acts, and a tumbling and pyramid building act.

Florence Gormley, '29, was director of two of the three musical comedies presented by the association. The one given in 1929 was entitled "Art for Art's sake," in which two members of the present junior class, Mildred Smith and Isabel Peard, played the leading roles.

Marion Sloan, '29, co-operated with Miss Gormley in writing the comedy in 1928. The comedy was entitled "The Third Act," and Edna Wolfe, '28, and Alice Hills, '29, played the parts of hero and heroine.

The first musical comedy, presented in 1927, was named "On the Fence," based on "Then You'll Remember," a popular song of the time.

WILL BE CHAIRMAN

Abbie Dinneen, '33, was appointed chairman of the sophomore soiree at a meeting of the sophomore class recently, Betty Gordon, class president, announced.

A SUGGESTION TO LOITERERS

The groups of gossip-mongers who stand in the vicinity of stairways while classes are passing afford daily examples of what not to do to speed the progress of students from one room or building to another.

This hindrance is not felt so much in the morning when ten minutes is allowed for the passing of classes, but in the afternoon when the time is cut to five minutes, the groups seriously impede traffic and often cause students to be late for classes. This, of course, does not raise the student in the estimation of the instructor. It also causes an interruption at the beginning of the class that would be better avoided.

Milne High school students who loiter are urged upon their respective ways by children who act as traffic officers. But such a procedure should not be necessary for College students. A little cooperation by these socially-minded students would do much to remove the difficulty.

The Lounge of Richardson hall has been provided as the logical place for the students to meet and talk. They should not make the halls a meeting place for lengthy discussions.

The problem of passage is particularly noticeable in Richardson hall where the doors are of insufficient width to permit passing quickly and easily. And it is here that students offend most by loitering.

The solution to the problem lies in enlisting the cooperation of all of the students. When the time draws near for the ending of classes and during the passage of the students, the socially minded should not pause in the halls or near the stairways for pleasant conversation. They should take for their motto—"Keep Moving."

HAVE YOU PAID YOUR TAX?

Calculations by the student board of finance prove that the progress of tax collection is not up to the standard of last year.

To date approximately eight hundred students have paid about $10,000 into the student association treasury. This means that there are more than four hundred who have not yet paid.

Student activities, supported by the association tax, cannot continue as planned unless everyone who can do so pays the tax.

Unless the payments increase, a heavier cut will necessarily result this year.

BRANDED AS "MUCKERS"

Branded as "muckers" and given suspensions by their dean, forty-two Princeton university men will have ample opportunity for a time to reflect upon the foolishness which drew upon them a merited punishment.

Just before the football game with Chicago university, a number of Princeton men indulged in hilarious demonstrations of spirit to such an extent that it necessitated calling out police reserves and closing traffic on a city street. Bottles, furniture and articles of apparel were freely cast by residents of dormitories. One motorist narrowly escaped being injured by a bottle hurled by one of the rioters.

The disturbance went on unchecked for hours. Finally the exuberant spirits were satisfied.

Now that the affair is over, one panics to consider the results of such irresponsible action. The men have brought upon themselves a great amount of criticism. Upon their alma mater they have drawn undesirable publicity. Their action has cast a reflection upon a university whose reputation and traditions are unsurpassed in this country.

What did they achieve? The game with Chicago resulted in a scoreless tie, their administration has become justly incensed, and they are suspended. They have gained nothing and have lost much.

Their foolishness has brought to the attention of the public at large to the unnecessary rah-rah type of behavior who should exist only in novels and who should speak only in "talkies."

The campus newspaper, rather than condemning the act, indicated that it favored leniency in dealing with the culprits. Instead, it should have advocated a punishment commensurate with the transgression they made. Dean Gates acted rightly.

Other colleges may well take their action as a type to be avoided as undesirable, unnecessary, and utterly

1934 STEPS OUT

The class of 1934 has given unmistakable interest that it intends to advance the interests of debate in this College. Already the class has taken steps to organize a team. Already it has scheduled one debate.

Such activity is worthy of commendation. No other freshman class in the history of the College has thus early organized its debate team. No other class has made an attempt to schedule contests for its team, other than the usual interclass rivalry contest.

Material for next year's varsity debate teams will undoubtedly be developed by these debates. Should the present class challenge its interclass rivals to a debate, it will have the advantage of knowing who can debate. It will have debaters of experience upon whom the members of the class can rely.

The freshmen have made a good beginning. Their activity in debate will be watched with interest by the student body as well as the faculty.

BOOKS: ESSAY ON CONVERSATION

Conversation. By Andre Maurois. 82 pages. E. P. Dutton and Co., Inc. $1.00.

In a series of brilliant essays, Maurois, author of the newest biography on Byron, sets forth the principles for the application of conversation for offensive and defensive purposes.

Few people realize, until it is too late, the power and uses of conversation. Fewer still realize the value of silence at the proper moment. One of the most interesting parts of this book is the author's revelation of the uses of silence.

Every individual, and particularly college students, is forced to resort to conversation of different types and under varying circumstances. What conversation can do for the individual when it is employed as an art and what it can do to the individual when unskillfully used is the main theme of the book.

Members of the English department have praised this book and recommend its reading. If the student is already a skillful conversationalist, he can add to his ability by reading this book. If he lacks skill, he can lay the groundwork upon which to build a pleasing and useful reputation as a conversationalist.

Bismarck, the Story of a Fighter. By Emil Ludwig. 661 pages. Little, Brown and Company, Boston. $1.00.

That which is imposing here on earth . . . is always akin to the fallen angel; who is beautiful, but lacks peace; is great in his plans and efforts, but never succeeds; is proud, and melancholy. These words, written by Bismarck, may be taken as the summary of his own career.

Teachers of history in high schools and colleges have done much to keep up the traditional ideas about Bismarck. They have firmly implanted the picture of the man of blood and iron. Bismarck has always been depicted as imperialistic, ruthless, and furthering the interests of the Fatherland at any cost.

After having read the opinions of dozens of authors about the life of the Iron Chancellor, it is refreshing to read this candid and straightforward biography from the pen of a fellow-countryman of the great German statesman.

Although written by a German, the book does not overflow with sentimental and patriotic phrases. Rather does the author present the story of Bismarck, the man and the diplomat, with clearness and with fairness.

With characteristic German thoroughness, Ludwig has paid much attention to the early life of the Iron Chancellor. His action seems justified, because much of the later action in the book is based upon incidents and associations of Bismarck's youth.

The book is the pen portrait of a fighter whose chapter in world history was written in a large bold hand. Exceptional dramatic power has been manifested in this remarkable contribution to modern history from the German angle.

THE STATESMAN

By RAY COLLINS

Despite the scandalous "ragging" of cars parked in the College driveway, the co-eds and their guests were able to enjoy one of the most charming of the "Senior Hops" to date. The ballroom was most skillfully decorated, and the colors were carefully amalgamated so as to harmonize with the exquisite evening gowns and the brilliant complexion of the young ladies. The orchestra was very considerate in that they allowed the couples ample time between dances to return from the lounge where the side shows were being conducted. At this point, we would like to congratulate the chairman and her committee on their splendid piece of work in making the "Hop" such a real big success.

At the Greek dances the following night, the Halloween spirit was still prevalent. Many sororities complained of having lost the major portion of their refreshments as the result of the work of an unknown group of men who very gallantly carried off everything in sight. Other sororities were further humiliated to find "red lights" hanging on their porches; and other fixtures of an undesirable nature. It is rumored that the group was last seen under the grape arbor on the campus of Delta Omega. The Inter-sorority council would appreciate any clues regarding the identification of these men in order that they may be properly disciplined. We trust that the council will invoke punishment according to the principles set forth in Education 2.

After reading the Reusseler Polytechnic, it is very evident that the author of the "Inkstains" has not as yet ascertained the score. In fact, I don't think that he knows which side is at bat. In the first place, the janitorial service was specifically instructed to leave out of suspicious looking characters who might endeavor to invade the gymnasium during Campus Night proceedings. Incidentally, I recall observing several strange looking chaps trying to reason with the janitor at the front entrance, but all in vain. They claimed they had seen the studs but couldn't understand what they were all about. Of course it is not difficult to perceive of such a condition existing among these "pro-positive engineers" (?) However we trust that in the future these unfortunate boys will be prepared to cope with similar situations which may arise. The boys should also remember that the name "R. P. I." is seventh heaven to a State college maiden. Thus they should encounter no difficulty in securing a formal invitation.

G.A.A. Strives For "Highest Standard": Leader Stresses Fair Play And Health

By BEATRICE VAN STEENBURGH
PRESIDENT, GIRLS' ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

Life here at State, as at any college, tends to reach an amazing complexity. With concentration upon a rapid succession of events, the student feels the need of a careful, well-balanced program. Recreation, involving careful attention to the best principles of good health, aids in acquiring the mental and physical vigor necessary for success.

The Girls' Athletic association strives to supply the need felt for types of recreation which will increase both friendships and enjoyable associations with other women at college, stressing the opportunity to provide the physical efficiency needed for a college career. In the program of G. A. A. there are found, therefore, the "highest standards of clean sportsmanship, loyalty to the group, the wisdom of good health, and the pleasure of fair play."

Qualities that contribute to sound leadership are robust health, intellectual curiosity, responsible citizenship, and the thoughtful use of leisure time. The ideals and opportunities that G. A. A. represents are based upon these objectives, for G. A. A. encourages "play for play's sake", the motto adopted by Athletic Council of American College Women, the national athletic organization to which G. A. A. belongs. It encourages every girl in college to play, to play skillfully and hard so that each girl will develop an athletic "hobby"—a hobby that will prove so entertaining that it will be carried on through life.

G. A. A. aids in developing good sportsmanship. It helps you to forget yourself in promoting the team. It furnishes the opportunity for leadership. Thus are derived the benefits of health, leadership, friendship, and the satisfying use of leisure time. But who are entitled to enjoy these privileges? Every girl in college, upon payment of her student tax, automatically becomes an associate member of the G. A. A. She may use its equipment, take advantage of the coaching supplied by the department of physical education and the student coaches—in short, take part in every activity sponsored by the organization. Associate membership may become active membership upon meeting the requirements in any one of the sports offered by the association. Active membership carries with it the right to vote and to hold office.

The association is led by an athletic council composed of thirteen members. This council is made up of four officers of the association elected in the spring, a representative of honor council, together with a representative and manager from each of the three upper classes, a manager from the freshman class, and a reporter chosen by the president. This council meets regularly once a week and attends to all business of the association. The honor council is composed of those members of the association who have been considered by the athletic council the best representatives in their class, scholastically, socially, and athletically. These members are elected in the spring of their junior year and are announced on Moving-up day.

Whatever your pet sport or season, G. A. A. comes forward with a new game. The crisp air of fall brings hockey and volleyball ball. Swimming is also offered as a fall and winter sport. Then, after Thanksgiving vacation basketball starts. Practices are conducted every Monday, Wednesday and Friday, from three until five o'clock, under the direction of faculty and student coaches in the gymnasium of Page hall. On Tuesdays and Thursdays the winter pyramid and tumbling work is practiced.

With the advent of spring comes baseball and track. Besides these, there are bowling, tennis, and the Outing club with its skiing, snow-shoeing, and skating to satisfy individual fancies.

At the close of each season G. A. A. has an award night banquet and a gymnasium frolic, which is an informal gathering with stunts, games, dancing, singing, and retirements. There will be a fall gymnasium frolic this year on November 22.

At present, Camp Cozswell is used for G. A. A. week ends, but one of the ambitions of the association is to secure a lodge of its own. To raise funds for this purpose, each year G. A. A. presents a musical comedy or vaudeville in which every member takes some part. Last of all is the installation of the new officers made at the spring award banquet, which formally closes the year.

Plan now to make it your year!

During the interview, act interested in obtaining the position; have confidence in yourself, being sure that you have something worth selling; be business-like and ask intelligent questions concerning the school situation; and do not be afraid to tell a good story," Professor Sayles said.

In particular, students should remember that they are not going to stay in one position all their life and, after they are out, should take the trouble to keep all contacts open by informing the office of the appointment bureau of any change of address they may make, he concluded.

One of the first things to do to obtain a teaching position is to decide whether you really want a position, or whether you are going to be bound by geographical limitations, according to Professor John M. Sayles, principal of Milne high school, who spoke on the appointment bureau in the assembly Friday morning.

"A senior's standard of demand should take into consideration not only the amount of salary to be received, but also the cost of living in the locality and the proper association of values, with a point of view of the opportunities for growth in mind," Professor Sayles said. "Go with demands breadth of experience, and part of one's outlook should always include a notion of what one is going to do at the age of 30 years," he added.

Professor Sayles also said that it is absolutely essential to keep up one's grades even to obtain an interview with a superintendent or principal, and that approach and the effect of appearance are very important in obtaining a position. Appearance is not necessarily clothes but is more dependent upon good grooming, he said.

"During the interview, act interested in obtaining the position; have confidence in yourself, being sure that you have something worth selling; be business-like and ask intelligent questions concerning the school situation; and do not be afraid to tell a good story," Professor Sayles said.

In particular, students should remember that they are not going to stay in one position all their life and, after they are out, should take the trouble to keep all contacts open by informing the office of the appointment bureau of any change of address they may make, he concluded.

NOTED EDUCATORS PLAN EXPERIMENT

Milne Junior and Senior High Schools Will Be Scene of Investigation

Milne junior and senior high school will be for the next several years the laboratory for an experiment in child development and parental education. Noted educators are at present carrying on the work of discovering what educational content should be provided for the training of high school teachers under the auspices of the Laura Spelman Rockefeller foundation, and with the co-operation of the Milne high school authorities and President A. R. Brubacher.

"This department will be concerned with the investigation and development of the pre-adolescent and adolescent boys and girls," said Dr. Guy F. Hilleboe who will act as director of the experiment. "The active co-operation of the parents will also be solicited from the standpoint of educating them to the values of the school and the whole educative process," according to Dr. Hilleboe.

"It is thought that a great deal of valuable knowledge may be gained from the parents which will materially affect the life of the boy and girl in school."

Dr. Hilleboe was formerly assistant professor of education at Teacher's college at Columbia university and has also taught in the Philippine islands. He has written several theses on child education.

Dr. Eleanor L. Beebe, who will come here February 1, will be associate director of the experiment. Dr. Beebe will be in charge of the nursery school which will be established in connection with the Albany city schools in the near future. She is a graduate of Johns Hopkins university. Her special research work will be in the nature of study of the pre-school age.

Margaret L. Hayes, who will also be an assistant director, was formerly connected with the state department of education of North Carolina in the capacity of district supervisor.

Dr. Robert W. Frederick, formerly of the University of Buffalo, will conduct research with the seventh, eighth and ninth grade pupils of Milne high school.

Dr. Brubacher who wrote an article for the September number of "New York State Education" describes the educational experiment as it is being carried on in the Milne high school.

"The educational development of boys and girls between the ages of 11 and 18 presents problems of unusual difficulty and importance," said Dr. Brubacher in this article. "If it is possible, a course will be established on a graduate level which will seek a closer correlation between the adolescent child and the home and between the home and school activities," he concluded.

BUREAU TO HAVE PART-TIME WORK FOR COLLEGE MEN

Several part-time positions will be available for the men of the college in the near future, according to Samuel S. Dransky, '32, chairman of the committee on employment sponsored by the student Young Men's Christian association. The men will be used in guidance and boy's work, Dransky announced.

Several requests for jobs have been addressed to the Exchange club, the Kiwanis club, and the Rotary club, Dransky said. Although no definite response has yet been received from these service clubs, there is reason to expect favorable results, he said.

Besides Dransky, members of the employment committee are: Kenneth A. Miller, '32, Alvin Shaller and George Hisert, sophomores, and Grenell Rand, '34. The committee will be sent to interview prominent business men of the city in an effort to secure jobs, Dransky said.

A desk will be used for the purpose of filing the names of candidates for positions, and efforts will be made by the employment to secure a telephone.

Alumnae of Sorority Choose New Members

The alumnae association of Epsilon Beta Phi sorority recently conducted a meeting at the sorority house.

Marion Roberts, '31, is the newly elected president. Helen Clifton, '31, will be treasurer.

Novel Dance Programs Are Favors at '31 Hop

Novel dance programs were distributed as favors at the senior hop Friday night in the gymnasium of Page hall. Punch was served for refreshment.

More than two hundred and fifty people attended the dance, Catherine Broderick, '31, chairman, announced. Johnny Ringer's Brunswick Recording orchestra furnished music.

Dr. and Mrs. Harold W. Thompson and Dr. and Mrs. T. Frederick H. Caudlyn were chaperones.

Unusual effects were obtained by engaging an interior decorator to decorate the gymnasium in the College colors.

Most of the guests for the hop attended the week-end dances of the sororities.

BASKETBALL MEN APPEAR FOR FIRST PRACTICE OF YEAR

Twenty-four men responded to Coach Rutherford R. Baker's call for basketball candidates, at the first practice of the season conducted last Thursday afternoon in the gymnasium of Page hall. The squad is slightly larger than that of last year, a rather fortunate circumstance as several vacancies have been left in the team which must be filled from the ranks of the newcomers.

The greatest loss to the team is that of Richard Whiston, captain of last year's five, and Leo Allan, star guard. Both of these players graduated last June after four years of varsity service. The scholastic ineligibility of two other men of the 1929 combination makes the problem of rebuilding this season's quintet a difficult one.

However, with Charles Lyons, Frank Ott and Erwin Clark, seniors, and Gilbert DeLaura, and Benjamin Ingraham, sophomores, all of whom are experienced varsity players, as a nucleus it appears as if Coach Baker will again have a winning aggregation to represent the college.

Practices will be on Monday nights, and Tuesday, Thursday and Friday afternoon until the first game.

ALUMNUS DEFEATS 132 IN EUROPEAN TYPE EXAMINATION

A State college graduate was second in a field of 134 aspirants, representing 34 nations, who took part in an examination conducted at the University of Grenoble, Switzerland, this past summer. He is Richard O'Brien who was graduated from State college in 1920 and received the degree of bachelor of science.

This summer while abroad, Mr. O'Brien was awarded the "Diploma des Hautes Etudes" from the University of Grenoble. This degree was awarded by the faculty as a result of special work in addition to several years of preparation.

The examination for the diploma was of the European type and lasted one week from 7:30 in the morning until 6 o'clock at night. The examinations are open to the public and are held in an auditorium filled with teachers and students. Half of the tests are oral and half written. A critical analysis of Victor Hugo's works, a composition in French, and a translation of Thackeray's works were included in the examination.

After his graduation from State college, Mr. O'Brien was a member of the faculty of the Kings private school for boys in Connecticut, where he taught French. Nine years ago he returned from there and attended himself with the Gilman university at Baltimore, Maryland, where he is professor of French at present.

TWO OF FACULTY WRITE TEXT BOOK

Book One of Series Edited By Dr. A. R. Brubacher and Miss Wheeling

Miss Katherine E. Wheeling, supervisor of English in Milne high school, and President A. R. Brubacher, are co-authors of "High School Composition and Grammar," of which book one was issued in June by the Charles E. Merrill Publishing company.

This book was written to replace one by Brubacher and Snyder and is not a revision of that book. Book one is being used in the ninth and tenth grades of Milne high school. Book two, which is not yet completed, will cover the work of the last two senior high school grades.

The book is built on a plan of diagnosing the difficulties of individuals with sufficiently rich materials from which to choose in meeting special needs. The principles of writing are presented and illustrated by classical selections, followed by illustrative compositions written by Milne high school pupils.

There are exercises in which the pupil puts into practice various principles occurring after each phase of development. The grammar section includes all principles that may be needed for correct speech and writing. Non-essentials have been omitted; essentials have been interpreted in the language of the pupil.

The book also contains diagnostic tests for grammar which enable the teacher to select the part of the grammar section applicable to her needs. There are four illustrations in color.

Mr. Winchell, of the Charles E. Merrill Co., said that the distinctive feature of this book is that the responsibility for learning and for improvement is placed upon the pupil.

HOWARD D. MANN WILL REORGANIZE CHORUS FOR MEN

Plans for the revival of the men's chorus this year have not yet been definitely formulated, according to Howard Mann, '32, student sponsor. The voices will certainly be retested, he said, and an attempt will be made to arrange the chorus for singing.

The chorus was first organized last year by Mann and about thirty voices were tested. An unsuccessful endeavor was made to secure regular college credit for the participants. Plans were formulated to combine the men's unit with the women's chorus for several public performances, but the project was given up because of lack of diversity of material.

With the advent of several freshmen men singers, Mann believes that the men's chorus will be a success. Nothing definite will be done, however, until at a later date, he said.

Are Co-authors

MISS KATHERINE E. WHEELING

Miss Katherine E. Wheeling, above, and Dr. A. R. Brubacher who have cooperated to write a book on grammar and composition for use in secondary schools. The book is at present used in Milne High school English classes.

STUDENTS TO GET CLASS TEACHING IN NEW SPORTS

The gymnasium departments of both Milne high school and State college are conducting classes in horsemanship and swimming, according to Miss Margaret E. Hitchcock, instructor of physical education in Milne high school.

The classes in swimming began last night when three different units met for instruction at the pool of the Jewish Community Center, at 111 Washington avenue. The first group was a class for beginners in swimming, and met at 4 o'clock. At 5 o'clock a class in life saving and advanced swimming was taught. At 6 o'clock a class in fancy diving met. The membership fee in this course is about five dollars, Miss Hitchcock said.

The classes in horsemanship began Wednesday and will be conducted every Wednesday at 3:30 o'clock at the armory on New Scotland avenue. There will be ten classes in this sport, and the fee for the entire course will be approximately ten dollars.

"All those who are interested in these courses are urged to sign on the Girl's Athletic association bulletin board," Miss Hitchcock declared.

1934 Squad Practices With Varsity Quintet

The freshmen basketball team practiced last week with the varsity squad in preparation for this year's court campaign, under the tutelage of Frank Ott, '31, varsity player. The try-outs for the team are: Thomas Garrett, Jack Saunders, Philip Ricciardi, Roger Bancroft, Osmer Brooks, Thomas Ryan, Charles Dunham, John Benedict and Robert Myers.

Garrett is the manager of the team. He is arranging games with the Paramounts, Albany Academy, Industrial high school of Albany, Sacred Hearts of Troy, and a fraternity quintet of Union college. Some of the freshmen contests will be played as preliminaries to the varsity games, on Friday and Saturday nights while others will be played Monday nights, Garrett announced.

VISITS SOCIETY

Rabbi Bernard Bamberger of the Temple Beth Emeth was the guest speaker at the Menorah club reception conducted recently in the Lounge of Richardson hall. His topic was "How to Conduct Menorah Meetings."

Adella Leiman, '33, was elected secretary of the club at that meeting. Marion Weinberg, '31, president, announced.

SPORT SHOTS

By Al Schoor

The initial practice of the Purple and Gold basketball men, revealed two or three possible varsity candidates among the freshmen tryouts. However, as the drill was the first of the season, one cannot form judgment too hastily.

When Richard Whiston and Leo Allan graduated last June, the last members of one of the best basketball quintets that Coach Baker turned out since he has been at State college, have passed into the athletic history of the college.

The freshmen team has some very promising material and it is quite likely that several of the candidates will be used in varsity games if they continue to exhibit their earlier promise. It appears to be a much stronger yearling team than last year's successful aggregation.

The policy of the coach will be to devote more time and effort in developing the first and second year men for future use, thus trying to again build up a crack quintet like the one he moulded in 1926-27. Since Lyons and Ott, seniors, will be lost to the team after this season, and the junior class is weak in varsity players, the plan will not weaken the present chances of the team.

The addition of Middlebury college to the basketball schedule is a good move on the part of manager Haswell. The Vermonters usually have an excellent five; one which will test the ability of the Purple and Gold players to the utmost.

NEW VOTER'S UNIT ELECTS OFFICERS AT FIRST MEETING

Lilly Nelson, '31, was elected president and Laura Styn, '33, vice-president and treasurer of the New Voters' unit of the League of Women Voters at a meeting recently.

Plans were made to have Mrs. Eunice Rice Messent, '22, address the group at the next meeting, Miss Nelson said. A campaign for new members was launched. Those who wish to join may sign up on the bulletin board in the rotunda, she announced.

SENIORS CONTROL SCHOOL ACTIVITIES

Thirty College Seniors Supervise Extra-Curricular Work in Milne High Unit

About thirty students will assist with student activities in Milne high school, according to Miss Marion Conklin, supervisor of practice teaching in English, and Miss Helen Halter, assistant professor of social science in Milne high school.

In the senior high school Carolyn Kelley, '31, is chairman of the dramatics club. Annabelle McDonnell, Elsa Penulke, Pearl Cook, and Edith Hunt, seniors, will assist her. Alfred Basch and Helen Otis, seniors, are in charge of the writing club.

Lawrence Newcomb, '31, is in charge of the assembly programs. In the junior high school, these programs are supervised by Dorothy Brandow and Margaret Hickey, seniors.

The coaches for the dramatic club will be Ruth Edmonds, Mary Goodell, Royal Knox, and Netta Miller, seniors. Ruth Edmonds, '31, is in charge of the junior high dramatics club. She is assisted by Julia Zall and Helen Henderson, seniors; and Helen Mead, '32.

Arnold Copping, '31, is in charge of the radio club. Art will be supervised by Agnes Glenn and Margaret Schroeder, seniors. Ruth Hughes, '31, is in charge of dancing. Stamp collecting will be supervised by Lena Martin, '31.

Russell Ludlum is in charge of aviation. The typewriting club will be supervised by Gertrude Guyette and Bernice Jacques, seniors. Helen Buchan and Theresa Maurice, seniors, will be in charge of the nature club. Earl Bloomingdale, '31, is in charge of the science club.

Issue Appearing Today Entitled "Social Lion"

"Social Lion" is the name of the issue of the Lion appearing today. The next number which will be distributed around Christmas, will be the educational number, satirizing all departments of college, especially the education department, according to Alfred D. Basch, '31, editor-in-chief.

Students in Chemistry Join National Society

Fifty members of the chemistry department have become associate members of the chemistry education division of the American Chemical society, according to Professor Bernard S. Bronson, head of the chemistry department.

This was done through subscriptions to the official organ of the society, "The Journal of Chemical Education," of which Professor Bronson is a contributing editor, he announced.

MEN TO DISCUSS RELIGION SUNDAY

Alfred Basch To Lead Discussion Of Y. M. C. A. Group At Kappa Delta Rho House

A discussion group will be conducted by the Young Men's Christian association at the Kappa Delta Rho house Sunday at three o'clock. The discussion will be on "Judaism and Christianity" and will be led by Alfred D. Basch, '31. All State college men are invited to attend according to Walter Driscoll, '31, member of the Y. M. C. A. council and chairman of the Sunday discussion committee.

"Alfred Basch will give a very interesting description of the intricate and little understood laws of the Jewish religion," said Driscoll. "Besides the information Basch can give about Judaism, several men of the College who have received theological education will be present who can tell of the fine differences between the creeds in Christianity," he added.

"An attempt will be made to discover the basic ideas and ideals which have caused the differences in practice among the different groups. Probably no final conclusions will be reached, but the attempt will prove very entertaining, I am sure," declared Driscoll.

25 WILL ATTEND PARTY OF GERMAN CLUB IN LOUNGE

German club will have its annual Kaffee Klatch tomorrow night from 7:30 until 10:00 o'clock in the lounge of Richardson hall, according to Klara Schroeder, '31, president. It is expected that approximately twenty-five members will attend.

Charlotte Calow, '33, is general chairman of the party. Professor Winfred Decker, head of the German department, will speak about his trip to Germany last summer. Geza A. Biro, graduate student, will discuss German student life. Miss Schroeder, president, will also address the group.

Refreshments will be served, and games and songs will conclude the program for the evening. Miss Calow and Rose Bergstein, '32, will conduct the games; Marion Wenberg, '31, will lead the singing; and Margarata Schroeder, '31, will have charge of refreshments.

"Mother Goose" To Be Y.W.C.A. Bazaar Theme

"Mother Goose" will be the theme of the bazaar to be conducted by the Young Women's Christian association next Friday night. Mildred Hall, '31, general chairman of the bazaar, announced today. Each booth will represent a nursery rhyme.

The entertainment will feature the court of Old King Cole. There will also be a grab bag carrying out this scheme. Ed Newcomb's orchestra has been secured to play for dancing, Miss Hall said.

CHEMISTRY CLASS VISITS FILTRATION PLANT IN ALBANY

The chemistry I class visited the Albany filtration plant recently. The class was divided into two groups which left the college at 9 o'clock and 10 o'clock, respectively.

The groups were accompanied by Mr. Milton F. Prue and Mr. John J. Sturm, instructors of chemistry. Professor Barnard S. Bronson is the instructor of the class.

The students were conducted by the superintendent of the plant who explained and illustrated the various mechanical devices of the plant.

Third Dramatics Class Play Will Be Tuesday

The advanced dramatics class will present its third play of the season in the auditorium of Page hall on Tuesday night, November 11, at 8:15 o'clock. Carolyn Kelley, '31, will act as director.

The play is a fantasy. The actors are Ruth Edmonds, Ethel Smith, and Edith Hunt, seniors, and Katherine Moore, '33.

The following committees have been appointed: publicity, Jean Gillespie, '31; make-up, Ruth Hughes, '31; sets, Annabelle McConnell, '31; properties, Florence Frohman, '32; music, Elizabeth Jackson, '32; and clean-up, Isabel Beard, '32.

Short News Notes

The first regular meeting of Spanish club was conducted yesterday in the Lounge of Richardson hall. The regular business meeting was followed by the presentation of a short play, "El Doble Robo." Martha Hummel, '31, was chairman of entertainment.

Were Weekend Guests

Florence Potter, '28, Evelyn Travis, '28, Margaret Wadsworth, '30, Dorothy Quackenbush, '30, Evangeline Calkins, '29, and Marion Woolcock, '29, were recent week-end guests at Beta Zeta sorority.

Announces Marriages

Psi Gamma announces the marriages of Helen Hines, '27, to Harold Buckley of Albany Medical college; Marorie Greenman, '27, to Norman Chatham of Albany Medical college; and of Myra Hartman, '27, to John B. Moore.

Presents Literary Program

A literary program will be presented at a meeting of the Menorah club to be conducted Sunday afternoon in the Lounge of Richardson hall, according to Bessie Levine, '32, vice-president.

The program will consist of a short talk on Jewish history by Edith Tepper, '33, and piano selections of Jewish composers by Vera Rudolf, '34, Miss Levine said.

Who Has The Banner? Question of Members of Class of 1932

"Banner, banner, where is the banner, who has the banner"; this is the new game that several enthusiastic members of the junior class have been playing as they assiduously searched the College buildings and premises for the yellow and white ensign.

The banner was brought to the College on the night of campus day by Annabelle McConnell, '31, chairman of the decorations, to use in decorating the gymnasium. The other class custodians failed to bring their banners, therefore the junior banner was not used, and was left backstage. When Miss McConnell returned to recover the banner, it had disappeared.

Already an org sized search party has been appointed to discover the whereabouts of the missing banner, with unavailing efforts, thus far, according to M. Curtis Rutenber, president of the class. Rutenber hopes to recover the banner before the junior prom.

ATHLETIC COUNCIL DISCUSSES SPORTS AT LAST MEETING

Intra-mural sports were discussed at a meeting of the athletic council which was conducted Thursday, October 30. The major part of the meeting was devoted to discussion concerning the question of having one manager for tennis and intra-mural sports.

Tennis has been considered a minor sport at the college for the past few years, with a schedule of four to six matches a season. On the other hand, inter-class basketball has been the only intra-mural sport successfully fostered at the college.

The council appointed Ralph Harris, '33, manager of the 1931 baseball team. Dr. Donnal V. Smith, associate professor of history, and chairman of the athletic council, presided.

V-NECKLINE TO BE STYLE OF STATE CO-EDS' DRESSES

A fashion report compiled from the style magazines mentioned above shows that the feminine mode, which is the leading one, is sub-divided into the classic, the romantic, the dramatic, the demure, and the sportif.

Although hair dressers are pushing short hair, illustrations indicate a long hair effect even when the hair is short.

Hem line lengths are from twelve to fourteen inches from the floor of daytime wear, and down to the ankles for evening wear.

"The method of determining style trends by actual count is the modern way of setting styles. Fashion stylists no longer push a certain style simply because some prominent person has been seen wearing it. They must back the style up with observations, indicating what percentage of a certain number of people seen at a certain place were seen wearing the style," Mrs. Barsam said.

A phrase which is indicative of this is one which is found constantly in the Woman's Wear, which always says "they are wearing thus and so," rather than "the style is."

"The study of styles which we have made was conducted in the same manner in which styles are set," Mrs. Barsam said. "Through this study, we discovered what the style is at State college, and by studying the trend as shown by magazines, we found that it closely parallels that of other college girls in the country," she added.

1932 Elects Two Men For Athletic Council

Harold Haswell and Robert Goodrich were elected representatives of the men's athletic council at a meeting of the junior class conducted recently.

Mildred Smith was appointed chairman of a committee to investigate the possibility of having a junior class party soon, Curtiss Rutenbur, president, announced.

Y.W.C.A. TO HAVE STATE CONVENTION

Local Association To Send Delegates To Rochester December 5, 6, 7

A conference of the New York State Young Woman's Christian association and Young Men's Christian association will be conducted in Rochester December 5, 6, and 7, Carolyn Kelley, '31, a member of the state committee for this conference and president of the student Y. W. C. A., announced today. The theme will be "Religious Ideals and Campus Ideas." The sub-topics will be "Personal Religious Growth," "Basic Principles of Personal Religion," "Personal Ideals versus Campus Patterns," and "Men, Women, and God."

The State college Y. W. C. A. cabinet will finance the attendance of two seniors, three juniors, two sophomores, and one freshman, according to Miss Kelley. These delegates will be chosen by the cabinet. Anyone else willing to pay part of her expenses may go also. Delegates will occupy a floor in the Hotel Seneca in Rochester.

ALPHA PHI GAMMA TO HAVE PLEDGE SERVICE MONDAY

Alpha Phi Gamma, the national honorary journalistic fraternity, will conduct pledge service on Monday, November 10, at eight o'clock, according to Alfred Basch, '31, president. Formal initiation will be on Monday, November 17.

The pledges are: Carolyn Kelley, '31, senior editor of the Echo; Rose Koren, '31, business manager of the Echo; Marion Gilbert, '31, business manager of the Pedagogue; Edith James, '31, editor of the Pedagogue; Helen Mead, '32, junior editor of the Echo; Audrey Flowers, '32, advertising manager of the News; Andrew Hritz, '32, finance manager of the News; and Alfred Schoor, '31, associate editor of the Lion and feature editor of the News.

New Research College To Have No Set Rules

N. S. F. A. DISPATCH, Nov. 5. A new university, to be known as The Institute of Advanced Study, will be organized as a college virtually without rules, according to Dr. Abraham Flexner, director. It will begin its existence with a $5,000,000 endowment from Louis Bamberger and his sister, Mrs. Felix Find.

Extra-curricular activities, athletics and similar elements of college life will be barred from the campus of the new university, and every effort will be turned toward establishing a school of the highest rank, its founders hope.

Only professors of ability and reputation will be employed, the directors said.

Women Attend Recent G.A.A. Moonlight Hike

Nineteen women of the Girl's Athletic association took a moonlight hike recently. Starting from the College they went over South Lake avenue and then out New Scotland avenue to the city limits. There in a vacant lot a friendship circle was formed and the popular State songs were sung. The circle broke up after singing the Alma Mater and the hike was continued homewards.

Haswell To Announce Entire Schedule Soon

The schedule for the 1930-1931 basketball season has not yet been completed manager Harold A. Haswell, '32, said but the following contests have been arranged: December 6, Maxwell Training of Brooklyn, New York; December 12, John Marshall College of Law of New Jersey; January 15, Middlebury college of Vermont; February 22, Cooper Union college of New York city; and February 27, New Jersey State College for Teachers at Montclair, New Jersey. These games will all be played in the Page hall gymnasium.

The annual New York trip will be the second week in February, Haswell announced, and the State college five will meet Brooklyn Polytechnic college of New York, February 13; and New Jersey State College for Teachers, at Montclair, New Jersey, February 14.

TO MEET TUESDAY

There will be a meeting of Canterbury club in the Lounge in Richardson hall Tuesday night at 7:30 o'clock, according to Beatrice Hertwig, '31, president. Marion Larbey, '32, will give a report of the conference at Wellesley college which she attended last summer as the delegate of Canterbury club.

12 CONTRIBUTORS WRITE FOR ECHO, EDITOR ANNOUNCES

Approximately twelve students will contribute to the first issue of the Echo, which will be distributed November 15th, according to Helen B. Otis, '31, editor-in-chief. Two of these students are freshmen.

The book section will be larger this year and will contain a book review by Miss Catherine Peltz, instructor in English, Miss Otis announced.

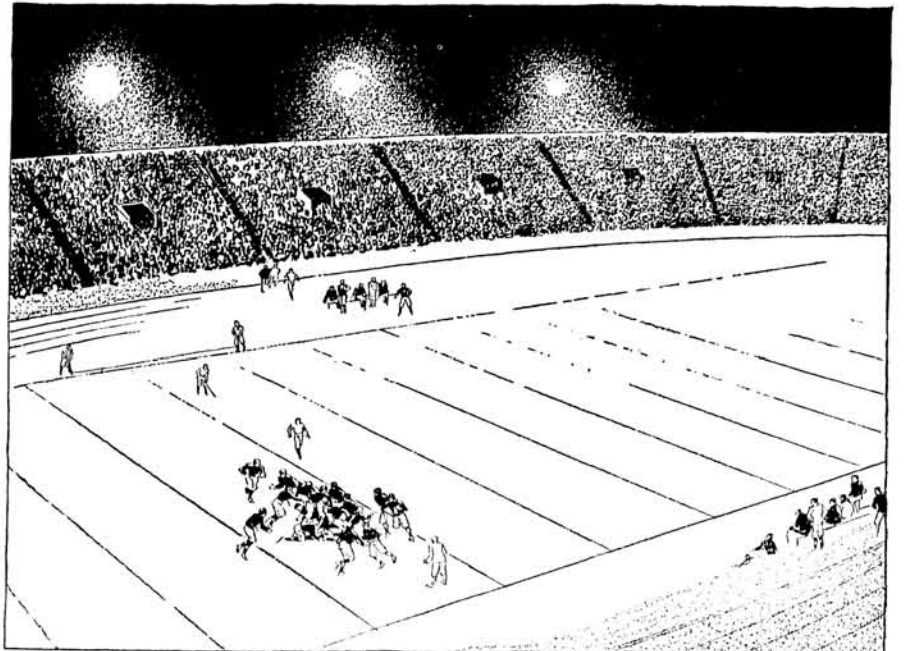

There will be an article on Ruth Draper who is coming to State college on November 17. The cover design will be changed this year, she said.

There will be three other issues, February, April, and June, the same time at which it was distributed last year.

Closed Season Forces End Of Tennis Match

The final matches of the Girls Athletic association tennis tournament cannot be played off because the courts have been closed for the season, Beatrice Van Steenburgh, '31, announced today.

Margaret Cussler, '31, tennis sport captain, is leading in the matches played so far and is the probable winner of the tournament, Miss Van Steenburgh said.

The banks of G-E floodlights at Georgia Tech's Grant Field can be adjusted to illuminate track meets as well as football games.

G-E Floodlighting Wins Favor for Football - Hockey - Track - Baseball - Tennis

G-E floodlighting equipment has a winning record. Its victories are counted in terms of pleased spectators, increased attendance, satisfied coaches and players.

The development of G-E athletic-field floodlighting equipment was planned with every consideration for the fundamental and special playing conditions it must meet. That is why the big Novalux projectors give ample and evenly diffused light over the entire playing area.

The development of General Electric floodlighting equipment has largely been the work of college-trained men in the G-E organization — other college-trained men are largely responsible for the continuing leadership of General Electric in furnishing the many other products which bear the G-E monogram.
