5. ESSAY—"Character"

THURSDAY, JANUARY 29, 1857.

6. MUSIC—"The Song of the Oaks"

Ha! ha! we've stam'd the stream,
A thousand years along
Thy stormy course O Time!
Sometimes in lightning's gleam,
And the water's tossing song,
And the thunder crash sublime.

7. ESSAY—"Why are you a Teacher?"

ADDRESS BY REV. E. D. ROGERS, D. D.
DAVID R. AUSTIN, Sand Bank, Oswego

6. MUSIC—"The song of the Oaks."

"Ha! ha! we've stemm'd the stream,
A thousand years along
Thy stormy course O Time!
Sometimes in lightning's gleam,
And the water's rousing song,
And the thunder crash sublime."

7. ESSAY—"Why are you a Teacher."

DAVID P. AUSTIN, Sand Bank, Oswego.

8. ESSAY—"Individual Life."

ANTOINETTE GREGORY, Otego, Otsego.

9. MUSIC—"Parting Song."

Music by T. C. ESTEE.

Now let the joyful song resound,
Its cheering spell bestowing,
That comfort in our hearts be found,
Though from each other going;
That peace her soft'ning smiles may shed,
And smoothe the parting ways we tread,
And kindly, and kindly quell our dread,
And kindly, and kindly quell our dread.
But noble minds should never quail
And weakly yield to sadness,
O'er little ills that life assails
They high should soar in gladness;
Then let us not renounce our cheer,
And shed the needless, useless tear,
No sorrow, no sorrow should be here,
No sorrow, no sorrow should be here.

We part indeed, but meet again,
The space between us lying,
At most, not long can sway maintain—
How swiftly time is flying!
The power that part us soon shall fail,
And then our fellows glad we hail,
In pleasure, in pleasure will we sail,
In pleasure, in pleasure will we sail.

May heaven's eternal guardian hand
Bestow its kindly keeping,
And save our true and cordial band
From mourning sorrow's weeping:
That when a transient time has flown,
We all again may grateful own
No member, no member yet is gone,
No member, no member yet is gone.
