Ruth Draper To Portray Variety Of Sketches

Dramatics and Arts Council, headed by Martha Sprenger, '45, will present Ruth Draper, the "electrifying mistress of the monologue," tomorrow evening at 8:30 P.M. in the Page Hall auditorium.

On January 20, 1920, she gave her initial performance on the stage of the Aeolian Hall in London. She trouped throughout England and Scotland that year, doing recitals and headlining on variety programs. She appeared on one bill preceded by a tame sea-lion act, and often recalls Nelson Names it consisted of the soft padding of a seal's feet by her dressing room door. After her successful English debut, she went on to conquer new worlds.

This unique artist has been termed a monologist, reciter, diseuse, impersonator, and even an elocutionist, Egyptian, and Japanese. In the last section of the paper is an article with the headline, "64 Plants Menaced by Strike Talk." Says the article, "Officials of the Mechanics Educational Society of America (independent) stood firm today on their threat to tie up 64 war plants in Ohio, Michigan and New Jersey." Mr. Patterson sent a telegram to the effect that "the government of the United States will not be coerced by any group, nor will it allow any group to place the lives of our fighting men overseas in additional peril." Another article states that "company officials and union representatives are scheduled to confer with federal and state conciliators and U. S. Navy officers today in an attempt to settle the two-day strike of nearly 4,000 workers at the Bethlehem Steel Company's Fore River Shipyard." And right across the page is story, exactly the same length commenting that "American soldiers have largely ceased speculating about the end of the war in Europe. . . "They're too basy fighting"." While schools are urged to hold V-E Day services the Yanks unanimous opinion was that "there was hard fighting ahead."

While United States citizens sit glued to their radios waiting for the latest report on the European fight, the future leaders of the "new world," which is to evolve from this struggle, plot for their countries and for themselves, seeing new vistas of power and conquest for the leaders with vision.

The theory that war was lost because a general decided to take a bath may be a little far-fetched but it is only too little recognized the importance of seemingly unrelated and unimportant events. They are the weather-vane which has ceased to predict accurately, put out of service by a gale which has threatened to exterminate the world.

Stuart Chase Speech To Terminate Gathering

Faculty members of the various State Teachers' College will gather Thursday at 9:30 A.M. in Chancellors Hall to participate in the 79th Convocation of the University of the State of New York. This convocation will last for two days and will be terminated on Friday with an address by Stuart Chase, an eminent economist. "Mobilizing Community Resources to Strengthen and to Expand the Scope of Education" is the theme of this year's meeting.

There will be luncheons on Thursday when the different departments will meet individually at the Wellington and De Witt Clinton Hotels.

At 4:30 P.M. the same day members of the association are invited to attend a reception and tea at the Albany Institute of History and Art. At this time there will be incidental music by Frederick Wolinsky, '47. The following art students will act as guides for members of the Association: Catherine Huvar and Athena Demos, graduate students; Babette Davis, Martha Joyce, dents; Babette Davis, Martha Joyce, Leah Tischler, Sunna Cooper, and Directory Begins Betty Howell, Seniors; Jane Becker, Margaret Feehan, and Patricia Fee-Margaret Feehan, and Patricia Feehan, Juniors. this infant group is "Hang on-State needs you!" Old-timers returning to State stare with dismay at the P.O.—where a blanket of silence seems to smother activity; at the Commons -- where one couple is dancing, and one group playing bridge, and where there are numerous vacant places. Last year's Primer was a living example of the result of this indifference. In a college where would-be writers abound, little material was handed in and the quality of the material that was printed was in some cases shamefully poor. It could only be due to laziness and lack of interest. The defense cry thus far has been "The men are gone." For years, women have battled for equal rights. Equal rights take with them the responsi-

Hockey has taken over the WAA sport scene; at least momentarily The game between the Senior and Junior girls last Tuesday ended in a 4-0 victory for '45, maintaining the undefeated record of the class in that sport. The game was not as exciting as others in the past have been. This, however, can be attributed to the general lack of practice on both sides. The skillful playing of Duffy and Winyall was the deciding factor in bringing victory to the Seniors. These two girls were always there to take the ball down the field. At times the action was fast and rough, exhibiting some of the old rivalry spirit. But, for the most part it was slow.

In a practice game held last Wednesday, the Sophomore girls defeated the Frosh in hockey. WAA urges that all freshmen who can play come out for practice. The '45-'47 twenty where Bob point, but Bolles knocked it down, practice is essential.
