STATE UNIVERSITY SUMMER THEATRE ANNOUNCES PLANS FOR SEASON

Edward Golden, director of State University Summer Theatre for 1974, has announced that two plays will be performed in July at State University of New York at Albany.

Charles Aidman's much acclaimed adaptation of Edgar Lee Masters' "Spoon River Anthology," directed by Golden, plays July 3-6 and 10-13. The Off-Broadway hit, "The House of Blue Leaves," by John Guare, opens July 17 and plays through July 20 and again July 24-27. Sets will be designed by Edward Mendus and costumes by Jane E. Morgan.

Open auditions will be announced this month.

Dr. Golden joined the theatre department faculty last September. He was the founder-director of Baltimore's Center Stage repertory company and received his Doctor of Philosophy from Tufts University. He recently directed the successful run of Shakespeare's "Comedy of Errors" at the SUNYA Performing Arts Center.

In addition to State University Summer Theatre, the department of theatre will offer several courses for credit this summer: introduction to dramatic art, design and technical elements of the theatre, scene study, and directing.

Information about the auditions and the summer courses is available from the department's office, 457-8360.

UPCOMING PUBLIC LECTURES AT SUNYA ON RADIATION, LAW, PETRARCH, NATURE

Several lectures of general interest and open to the public without charge are scheduled at State University of New York at Albany.

Monday, May 6, at 8 p.m. in the Patroon Room of the Campus Center Ernest Sternglass, of the Presbyterian University Hospital, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, will speak on "The Biological Effects of Low-Level Ionizing Radiation" following an initiation banquet and meeting of The Scientific Research Society of North America, SUNYA Chapter. Dr. Sternglass, a noted authority on the subject, is co-author with John Goffman of the book, "Poison Power".

On Tuesday, May 7, at 2 p.m. in Mohawk Tower room 1400 the Graduate School of Public Affairs will sponsor a lecture by Max Gluckman, professor of anthropology at the University of Manchester, England. His topic will be "Explicit and Implicit Ideas in African Customary Law".

The "Petrarca Year" lecture series will conclude Wednesday, May 8, at 7:30 p.m. in Humanities 354 with an address by Kenneth J. Atchity, assistant professor, comparative literature, Occidental College, Los Angeles. His talk is entitled, "Petrarch: The Ascent Towards 'Major Man'".

Richard E. Orville, associate professor of atmospheric science, will give the concluding lecture in the natural history series on Tuesday, May 14, at 8 p.m. in Lecture Center 18. His subject will be "Lightning--Protection Through Understanding".

Admission is free and tickets are available at the box office.

The "Verdi Requiem" will be presented Tuesday, May 7, at 8:30 p.m. in the Main Theatre. Arrangements have been made to have the program televised for presentation in Lecture Hall 7 for those who are unable to secure seating. There is no admission charge and tickets are available at the box office.

Ms. Yeend, soprano, has sung with the Vienna State Opera, London's Covent Garden, New York's Metropolitan Opera, the Munich Opera, and the Vernona Opera. Her association with the Verdi "Requiem" spans many years and more than 100 performances. Ms. Fuller, mezzo soprano, is a member of the faculty at SUNYA. She has sung oratorio with many groups including the Indianapolis Symphonic Choir, Evansville Philharmonic Orchestra, United States Air Force Symphony, and Washington Civic Symphony.

Mr. Danner, tenor, was an affiliated artist with the Lake George Opera Company last year and who sang in many of the productions. Currently he is singing in New York productions. Mr. Davis, basso, has sung many operatic roles in New York, Dallas, Houston, Seattle, Philadelphia, Detroit, and Omaha, among other major United States cities. His oratorio repertoire includes Bach, Berlioz, Handel, Stainer, and Verdi.

Paul Goldberg's student recital will be given Saturday, May 11, at 8:30 p.m. in the Recital Hall of the Performing Arts Center. No tickets are required.

The cellist, whose home is in New York, is studying with Mr. Hanani. He is a member of the Albany Symphony Orchestra and principle cellist of the University-Community Symphony Orchestra and Chamber Symphony. He will continue his studies next year at the Manhattan School of Music where Mr. Hanani will be teaching.

On his solo recital are works by Bach, Beethoven, and Tchaikovsky. His accompanist will be George Schlein, of New York, a graduate of the Juilliard School of Music.

SUNYA FOUNDATION PLANS SAMUEL ARONOWITZ MEMORIAL

The State University of New York at Albany Foundation has begun a fund-raising campaign to establish a permanent memorial to the late Samuel E. Aronowitz.

At a recent luncheon of foundation directors and other citizens of the region, Prentice Rodgers, co-chairman of the Memorial Fund Committee, announced early pledges of $4,200.

Co-chairman Alan Iselin spoke of "Mr. Sam's" inspiring devotion to all humane undertakings, including helping the university's library acquire significant religious works, as he outlined the Samuel E. Aronowitz Collection for Scriptural Studies.

Mr. Iselin and Mr. Rodgers pointed out that tax-deductible gifts to the $35,000 campaign may be sent to the SUNYA Foundation-Aronowitz Fund, 1400 Washington avenue, Albany 12222.

SUNYA ASTRONOMER TO ADVISE IRAQ ON NEW OBSERVATORY

An astronomer at State University of New York at Albany has been invited by the government of Iraq to be a consultant for the building of a proposed observatory in Iraq.

May A. Kaftan-Kassim, associate professor of astronomy and space science, recently was a guest of the Iraqi Research Council of the Ministry of Education and Research during the winter recess. During that time she reviewed the search committee's scientific data covering a two-year period. Upon her return to the SUNYA campus she received a letter asking her to select two American scientists to accompany her to Iraq in the summer of 1974 when site tests will be made.

Dr. Kaftan-Kassim pointed out in a recent interview that astronomy "essentially started in Egypt, Mesopotamia (modern Iraq) and the Far East" and that "Iraq encouraged and nourished pure research since the Abasid Empire more than a thousand years ago." She added that the planned Iraqi observatory would be making a considerable contribution in the field and that American astronomers would be able to make observations via multi-mirror optical telescopes or millimeter wave radio telescopes, or perhaps both.

During her most recent visit abroad the professor resided at the University of Leiden in The Netherlands. She made radio astronomy observations on the Westerbork Array, the largest telescope complex in the world. It consists of a series of 12 telescopes rather than the customary one. She also did some work in collaboration with astronomers at Leiden and at Groningen in Holland. Dr. Kaftan-Kassim gave invited lectures at both places and also at the Nuffield Research Laboratory of the University of Cambridge. She also has given recently several invited colloquia in the United States.

The astronomer's particular field of research concerns planetary nebulae and interacting galaxies. Currently there is a sizeable controversy among astronomers about whether or not quasars are cosmological, and the group study of groupings of galaxies and quasars is a determining factor once enough data has been gathered. Assisting her with current research are Jack Sulentic and Gopal Sistla, doctoral students in astronomy, who are studying the radio aspects of the topics mentioned and correlating them with optical data.

During the coming summer Dr. Kaftan-Kassim will re-visit the Lick Observatory of the University of California at Santa Cruz to confer about optical telescopes and equipment. She'll also visit the Kitt Peak National Observatory facility in Arizona where a multi-mirror telescope is located and where staff members have expressed a willingness to help with the plans for the Iraqi observatory. In May 1974 Professor Kaftan-Kassim will go to the National Radio Astronomy Observatory in West Virginia to investigate the building there of a millimeter telescope. The observatory staff also will keep the SUNYA scientist informed about developments there. Additionally, its members have promised help and equipment for the Iraqi project.

Dr. Kaftan-Kassim who joined the SUNYA faculty in 1966, holds degrees from the University of Manchester, Oxford University, Radcliffe College, and Harvard University where she earned her doctorate. She is a member of the International Astronomical Union, the New York Academy of Science, the American Astronomical Society, Iraqi Physical Society, Royal Astronomical Society, and the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

BUSINESS EDUCATION MAJOR RECEIVES AWARD AT SUNYA

Eileen M. Sailer, a senior business education major at State University of New York at Albany, has been selected to receive a National Business Education Association Award of Merit for Outstanding Achievement in Business Education. The announcement and presentation of the Award of Merit Certificate was made by B. Bertha Wakin, chairman of the department of business education at SUNYA. Ms. Sailer also receives a year's professional membership in the NBEA which includes subscriptions to "Business Education Forum" and the "National Business Education Yearbook". The award program is under the supervision of the Executive Board of NBEA and is limited to those colleges and universities with membership in the National Association for Business Teacher Education.

Miss Sailer was an honored guest at the May 4 meeting of Alpha Mu Chapter, Delta Pi Epsilon, national graduate business education honorary, and was introduced to the membership which consists of a large number of business educators from the Capital District and throughout New York State.

The SUNYA senior will complete the requirements of the SUNYA business education program and receive a Bachelor of Science this month. During her senior year she completed student teaching in the Scotia-Glenville Central School. She has been an active undergraduate member of Beta Eta Chapter, Pi Omega Pi, national honorary business education fraternity, serving as historian for 1973-74. She also has been affiliated and active in Phi Beta Lambda, business club at SUNYA.

During the 1974-75 academic year, Ms. Sailer, who has been admitted to graduate study at SUNYA, will be participating in a business education internship teaching program. She will spend a semester as an intern teacher at the Greece-Olympia High School, Rochester, and complete Master of Science requirements in May, 1975.

Miss Sailer is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Sailer of 15 Marc Terrace, Monroe. She graduated from John S. Burke Catholic High School, Goshen, in June, 1970. Following high school graduation, she completed the two-year degree program at Orange County Community College and then transferred to SUNYA in September, 1972.

OPERA SINGER IN CONCERT MAY 15 AT SUNYA

Timothy Nolen, baritone and affiliate artist with the Lake George Opera Festival, funded by The Sears-Roebuck Foundation, will be heard in an informal concert and conversation Wednesday, May 15, at 4 p.m. in the Recital Hall of the Performing Arts Center at State University of New York at Albany. The program is open to the public without charge.

The young baritone, a native Texan, has been acclaimed for his excellent styling and interpretation of the Bel Canto repertoire, his understanding and musical security in contemporary works, his excellence and exuberance as a singing actor, and the beauty and flexibility of his voice.

Mr. Nolen's European operatic debut was at Rouen, France, in January when he sang Pelleas in "Pelleas et Melisande" for the Theatre Des Arts. He returned to Europe last month for the world premiere of Kox's "The Picture of Dorian Gray" with the Netherlands Opera. Other 1974 engagements include those at the Lake George Opera Festival, Portland Opera, and Chicago Lyric Opera.

COLLEGE CLASSICS WEEK AT SUNYA IN JULY

"College Classics Week-1974," sponsored by the Classical Association of the Empire State with the cooperation of the department of classics, State University of New York at Albany, will bring together, for the week of July 7-12, 76 high school students from across the state for intellectual stimulation, fellowship, and an introduction to college campus life. Richard Gascoyne, conference chairman, Harriet Norton, School of Education, and Hans Pohlsander, chairman, department of classics at SUNYA, have planned the program.

Faculty from the classics departments of SUNYA, Hunter College, and St. John Fisher College, of Rochester, will greet and lecture the participants on such topics as Greek and Roman sculpture and painting, Greek dancing, mythology, women in antiquity, the abacus, numismatics, Roman dates and the calendar, and cinematography--a modern method applied to an ancient theme. A bus tour to the Boston Museum of Fine Arts and the Isabella Stewart Gardner Museum will highlight the travel, and a tour of the State Capitol and the Legislative offices in the Empire State Plaza is part of the plan. Morton Spillenger, of the Bureau of Foreign Languages, State Education Department, will host the group in downtown Albany. Sylvia Barnard, Mary Goggin, and Lois Williams, of the SUNYA classics department faculty, will lecture and guide the participants.

Of 116 applicants from 43 schools in the state, 76 participants have been chosen for the program. In their summer study they will be introduced to the world of the classical humanities. In their week of campus life they will be exposed to the auxiliary disciplines of archaeology, epigraphy, numismatics, religion, art, and literature of the ancient world, and they will experience the enthusiasm that has caught the souls of genius through the ages.

DUO PIANISTS CONCERT MAY 12 AT SUNYA

Linda Cuneo and Stanley Hummel, duo pianists, will be heard in concert on Sunday, May 12, at 5 p.m. in the Main Theatre of State University of New York at Albany. Both are residents of the Albany area. The program will be a presentation of Keyboard '74, SUNYA Pianists.

The musicians will play selections by Mozart, Chopin, Debussy, Stravinsky, Rachmaninoff, and Martha Beck, a Troy (N.Y.) composer.

Admission will be $2 and $1, with educational identification card.

Ms. Cuneo has studied in Albany with Mr. Hummel, at Oberlin with Emil Dannenburg, and at Jilliard with Sasha Gorodnitzky. She performs often in New York City and Albany areas and has toured the Caribbean, Rumania, Israel, and Japan. Currently she is teaching a course at the Juilliard School and also is working towards a doctorate at New York University.

Mr. Hummel, well-known area pianist and teacher, was a protege of Josef Lhevinne and has given many recitals in New York's Town Hall and Czrnegie Hall. He has appeared

GRADUATE STUDENT EXHIBITION AT SUNYA GALLERY

Four artists who are candidates for the Master of Arts degree in studio art at State University of New York at Albany will show recent works at the University Art Gallery from May 12 to May 25.

The coming exhibition is one of the requirements for the completion of the master's degree program for Owen McDowell, Peter Prince, Barbara Roman, and Eleanor Rowland.

Owen McDowell, a Loudonville resident, completed his undergraduate work at SUNYA. He has shown prints in a number of Albany area exhibitions and last year was the recipient of a purchase prize at the Drawing and Print Exhibition of the Springfield Art Association.

Graphic works have been the major concentration of Peter Prince. Mr. Prince's embossed etchings reflect his interest in the forms of nature. He is a teacher in the art department of Shenendehowa High School.

Barbara Roman is also an art teacher serving on the faculty of Maria College. She is a graduate of the College of St. Rose. Her lithographs utilize wash techniques in black and white and color.

Glens Falls resident Eleanor Rowland is a Skidmore

College graduate and currently serves on the faculty of Glens Falls Junior High School. She has exhibited in the Mohawk-Hudson Regional in 1971, 1972 and 1973 as well as at the Artists of Central New York Exhibition at the Munson-Williams Proctor Museum in Utica. She will show works on canvas in the coming graduate exhibition.

An opening reception for the artists will be held in the gallery on Sunday, May 12, from 3 to 5 p.m. The public is invited.

SUNYA PROFESSOR TO MAKE ANNUAL AWARD FOR BEST PAPER
IN AFRO-AMERICAN STUDIES

An annual award of $100 for the best paper submitted by a graduate student with a major in Afro-American studies at State University at Albany has been offered by M. Moran Weston, professor of social history at the university. The paper must be based on original research or on a community improvement project approved by the faculty.

Professor Weston has given an initial gift of $500 to support the program for the first five years. In 1972 Dr. Weston offered 10 scholar incentive awards totalling $400 for work in two courses. The courses dealt with problems of the black community and Afro-American family life in the United States. The current program, to be known as the Perry-Drake-Weston Award, honors Professor Weston's maternal grandparents, Rev. and Mrs. John William Perry; Mrs. Weston's parents, Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Fanning Drake; and Dr. Weston's parents, Rev. and Mrs. Milton Moran Weston, -- all of whom were teachers in schools and colleges in North Carolina, Alabama, and Georgia from 1881-1968.

Rev. John William Perry was an Episcopal minister who founded a parochial school in Tarboro, N.C., in 1883, assisted by his wife, Mary Pettipher Perry.

Joseph Fanning Drake was president of Alabama A & M College, Huntsville, from 1927 to 1962.

Rev. Milton Moran Weston, Sr., an Episcopal minister, headed a small parochial school in Savannah, Ga., until 1917 when he took over the Tarboro school and enlarged it to meet the needs of students not served effectively by the segregated schools of the day.

Professor Weston, who holds five earned degrees, founded the Carver Federal Savings Bank, served as its chief executive officer and serves currently as trustee. He also has served as executive director of social research and education for the Episcopal Church of America and as rector and chief executive officer of St. Phillip's Episcopal Church, New York City.

Dr. Weston is trustee at Columbia University, St. Augustine's College, Raleigh, N.C. (chairman); Mt. Sinai School of Medicine; and Columbia University Press.

President Benezet, in acknowledging the award, said, "I am honored on behalf of the University community to accept this annual award. It is always a source of special pride when a faculty member presents something special like this."

Papers will be reviewed by a faculty committee established by Frank Pogue, chairman of the Department of Afro-American Studies and Richard Kendall, dean of the Division of Social and Behavioral Sciences.

SUNYA FACULTY RECEIVE NATIONAL RECOGNITION

Three faculty members at State University of New York at Albany have received national recognition of their work.

Theodore P. Wright, Jr., professor of political science in the Graduate School of Public Affairs, has been awarded a grant from the American Council of Learned Societies to do research in the politics of the Muslim majority in India. The program has been made possible by a grant from the Ford Foundation and is sponsored jointly by the ACLS and the Social Science Research Council.

Professor Wright is one of 14 recipients of grants for research on South Asia from throughout the country. The ACLS, with offices in New York, is a private, non-profit federation of 40 national scholarly associations devoted to the advancement of humanistic studies in all fields of learning.

Ernesto Barreto, senior research associate at the Electrostatics Research Facility of the Atmospheric Sciences Research Center, SUNYA, has been invited to become a member of an ad hoc Panel on Hazards of Electrostatics by the National Academy of Sciences. He attended the initial meeting of the panel recently at the Joseph Henry Building in Washington.

Mr. Barreto has gained world recognition for his research to determine the mechanism in which an electrically charged cloud, produced during the washing operation in oil tanks in large sea-going super tankers, is discharged causing a spark which ignites residual oil vapors resulting in disastrous explosions and loss of several of the ships.

Francis P. Hodge, assistant director, Two-Year College Student Development Center, SUNYA, has been appointed to the National Council of Teachers of English committee to review curriculum bulletins. The council is a professional organization of approximately 130,000 members and subscribers at all levels of the subject field, from elementary school through graduate school.

THREE AT SUNYA RECEIVE FULBRIGHT AWARDS

A graduate student and two faculty members at State University of New York at Albany have been selected for Fulbright-Hays awards by the Board of Foreign Scholarships and the Department of State, according to the announcements by the Council for International Exchange of Scholars.

John E. Prusch, 23, of 150 Spring Road, Scotia, is the first SUNYA graduate student to receive a Fulbright-Hays grant. He is a first-year graduate student in comparative literature with a particular interest in modern literary criticism and theory. The annual awards, for which there is strong competition nationally, provide for a student's studying abroad for a year.

Mr. Prusch will matriculate at a German university, concentrating on German and American literary criticisms. His travel, room, board, tuition, and incidental expenses will be provided.

The student, a graduate of Scotia-Glenville High School and SUNYA, has studied abroad at The Goethe Institute in Germany, under a SUNYA program, and at the University of Dijon in France. Mr. Prusch said he was "very pleased and honored to have this opportunity to study in Germany without any financial cares".

A. Richard Sogliuzzo, assistant professor of theater, has been awarded a Fulbright-Hays Senior Research Fellowship to Italy for the 1974-75 academic year. Dr. Sogliuzzo will continue research on his study of "Luigi Pirandello, Director", and lecture on the American theater at several Italian universities, including the National Academy of Dramatic Art in Rome.

Billie Jean Isbell, assistant professor of anthropology at SUNYA, has been selected for a Fulbright-Hays award to lecture in Peru in social anthropology. Dr. Isbell joined the SUNYA faculty two years ago.

SUNYA ALUMNI PLAN VARIED ACTIVITIES FOR COMING WEEKEND

An estimated 800 alumni will attend Alumni Day weekend activities at State University of New York at Albany, beginning Friday, May 17, on the eve of Alumni Day. Jackie Gavryck and Gary Jones are co-chairmen of events.

There will be a meeting of the board of directors of the Alumni Association on Friday at 4:30 p.m. and in the evening a wine and cheese reception will be held in the Art Gallery. Individual class reunion dinners and parties also will be held that evening.

On Alumni Day registration will begin at 9 a.m. in the Campus Center Gallery and from 9 to 10 a conversation and Continental breakfast will be held. The annual Alumni Association meeting will begin at 10 a.m. University president, Louis T. Benezet, will give the SUNYA stewardship report and Steven Gerber, president, will report for the Student Association. Alumni-student awards will be presented at the session.

Beginning at 11 a.m. individual class meetings and tours will take place. The all-alumni luncheon will be held at 12:30 in the Campus Center ballroom where the Bertha Brimmer Medal and Excellence in Service Awards will be presented. The Class of 1924 will hold its 50th reunion luncheon and induction into the Half-Century Club in the Patroon Room.

A new award this year is one given by Psi Gamma sorority to the senior woman who most exemplifies the ideals of the sorority. The Edna Schafer Mac Affer Award honors the former University Council member who holds a Distinguished Alumni Award and is a member of the sorority.

Afternoon events include an ice cream social in the Campus Center gardens with music by the Ol' Wazoo Good Time Band at 2 p.m., dedication of the Agnes E. Futterer Memorial Lounge in the Performing Arts Center at 4 p.m., Theatre Alumni Association get-together in the Studio Theatre of the Performing Arts Center at 4:30 p.m., an all-alumni cocktail party on the Campus Center Terrace at 6 p.m., and in the evening, at 7:30, an all-alumni banquet at which the Citizen of the University Award and the Distinguished Alumni Awards will be presented. Also, the Kenneth Blaisdell film, "130 Year History", will be shown. Later there will be music for dancing provided by the Class of 1964.

Beginning at noon Sunday, May 19, there will be a picnic at the Mohawk Campus.

CEREMONY AT SUNYA ON MAY 18 TO NOTE PLANS FOR ALUMNI HOUSE-- CONFERENCE CENTER

Ceremonial groundbreaking for the Alumni House-Conference Center at State University of New York at Albany will take place on Alumni Day, Saturday, May 18, at 3 p.m. on Perimeter Road west of Dutch Quadrangle.

The new location, a change from the original site near Indian Quadrangle, has been described by David W. Jenks, director of alumni affairs, as "more desirable for environmental and other reasons". He added, "It provides a better locale for natural solar heating and for protection from the wind; it makes possible a larger parking area; and is a more aesthetically-pleasing, wooded setting".

During the spring phonothon, the addition of $14,000 in pledges brought the Annual Fund total to $153,000 in gifts and pledges for the construction of the Alumni House-Conference Center. The goal is $175,000 and the two-year drive ends in July. Plans call for building to begin in the late summer.

Louis T. Benezet, president of SUNYA, and Annual Fund officers have visited several alumni club branches in recent months to discuss the university's need for alumni support and to encourage contributions to the fund.

Major donations to date have come from Potter Club, Phi Delta, and Kappa Delta, $10,000 each; the Alumni Council, $6,000; the SUNYA Foundation, $5,000; and Psi Gamma, $2,000.

Chairmen of the three giving clubs are working to increase membership in the President's Club, the Anniversary Club, and the Carillon Club. Last year the President's Club (donations of $500 or more) numbered 17 members, the Anniversary Club ($130) had 142, and the Carillon Club ($50) totaled 308.

MILNE STUDENT SELECTED FOR COLLEGE CLASSICS WEEK IN JULY AT SUNYA

Jan Collins, a freshman at The Milne School in Albany, campus school of State University of New York at Albany, is one of 75 special students in New York State to be accepted for College Classics Week. The program, sponsored by SUNYA and the Classical Association of the Empire State, will be held on the Albany campus summer July 7-12.

The purpose of this week is fourfold: to present to high school students important and relevant aspects of the civilizations of Greece and Rome; to introduce students to new techniques which can be used in learning and teaching Latin and Greek; to give students a preview of campus life; and to encourage students to pursue a career in the field of classics.

Students selected for the college experience must have completed one year of high school Latin by June 1974 and be recommended by their Latin teacher. The enrichment program will include lectures by college professors on classical architecture, mythology, and literature; lessons in ancient Greek; a tour of Albany to note the classical architectural influence; a visit to the Boston Museum of Art; an evening of Greek dancing; and a cultural experience at the Saratoga Performing Arts Center.

The public is invited to visit the campus of SUNYA during College Classics Week. Additional information is available from Mrs. Harriet Norton of The Milne School.

HONORED GUEST ELEANOR M. FOOTE SIGNS IN at the official acceptance ceremony and reception marking the receipt by the James E. Allen, Jr., Collegiate Center at State University of New York at Albany of the gift of a visitor's book from John Bradbury, retired vice principal of Chester College; one of England's oldest colleges for teachers and a visiting lecturer at SUNYA in the 1930's when he became a friend of the late Mr. Allen. The gift memorializes Mr. Bradbury's friendship with the educator and his admiration for him. Ms. Foote, of Albany, a mutual friend of Mr. Bradbury and Mr. Allen, and who was with the Albany college at one time, assisted in making arrangements for the gift and represented Mr. Bradbury at the ceremony held in Draper Hall lounge, on the SUNYA downtown campus. Looking on, from the left, are John Ether, also an acquaintance of Mr. Bradbury and a member of the SUNYA faculty; President Louis T. Benezet, Vice President Louis R. Salkever, Vice President Phillip L. Sirotkin, and Allen Center dean, Seth W. Spellman.

GUILDERLAND SCHOOL WIND ENSEMBLE TO PERFORM AT SUNYA COMMENCEMENT

The Guilderland Central High School Wind Ensemble, under the direction of Donald E. Webster, of the music department at the school, has been invited to perform at the 1974 commencement ceremonies on May 25 at State University of New York at Albany.

The 50 pieces, which comprise the Wind Ensemble, represent the select performing band at GCHS. During the 1973 annual spring music competition sponsored by the New York State School Music Association, the ensemble received an exception 6A rating in the competition in acknowledgment of its quality of performance.

In future years other high school musical groups will be invited to perform at the annual commencement ceremony in recognition of the high quality of musical performance at area high schools.

SUNYA ENGLISH PROFESSOR'S TENTH BOOK HIS THIRD ABOUT MILTON

"Milton's Unchanging Mind", a book of three essays by Edward LeComte, professor of English at State University of New York at Albany, has been published by Kennikat Press, Port Washington and London. The volume is Professor LeComte's tenth book.

Douglas Bush, Gurney Professor of English Literature, Emeritus, Harvard University, has written the foreword and the essays are entitled "Milton versus Time", "'Areopagitica' as a Scenario for 'Paradise Lost'", and "The Satirist and Wit". The work is the author's third book on Milton.

Dr. LeComte has written "A Milton Dictionary", "Yet Once More: Verbal and Psychological Pattern in Milton", a widely used paperback edition of "Paradise Lost", "Samson Agonistes" and "Lycidas". His two novels, "He and She" and "The Man Who Was Afraid" achieved wide audiences, as did his biographies, "Grace to a Witty Sinner", "A Life of Donne", and "The Notorious Lady Essex".

Professor LeComte taught at Barnard, Sarah Lawrence, Berkeley, and Columbia before coming to Albany. He received his doctorate from Columbia University.

SUNYA PROFESSOR WINS AWARD FOR BEST PUBLISHED PAPER

A paper written by a professor at the School of Library and Information Science at State University of New York at Albany has been selected by the Special Libraries Association to receive the H. W. Wilson Company Award for the best paper published in "Special Libraries" in 1973. It is "The Concept of 'National Security' and Its Effect on Information Transfer" by Irving M. Klempner.

The award consisting of a citation and check will be presented at the SLA Awards Luncheon in Toronto on June 12.

Dr. Klempner has been on the faculty of the SUNYA school since 1967. He is active in a number of library information science professional associations and has published extensively. He is the author of the book, "Diffusion of Abstracting and Indexing Services" and two years ago received an award from the American Society of Information Science for his publication, "Audio-visual Materials in Support of Information Science Curricula", published by the Educational Resources Information Center Clearinghouse on Library and Information Sciences.

SUNYA UNIVERSITY COUNCIL CHAIRMAN HONORED BY ALUMNI ASSOCIATION

(Written for release after Saturday, May 18)

J. Vanderbilt Straub, Albany attorney and chairman of the University Council of State University of New York at Albany, was honored Saturday evening (May 18) as a Citizen of the University at the annual Alumni Association banquet in recognition of his contribution to the university. The award is given only to a non-alumnus and this year honors Mr. Straub as a "distinguished civic leader, prominent Albany attorney, champion of higher education; providing enduring and exemplary leadership to the State University of New York at Albany as Chairman of its University Council."

Mr. Straub, senior partner in the law firm of Hinman, Straub, Pigors and Manning, has served on the SUNYA Council since 1965 and as chairman since 1967. Past recipients of the Citizen of the University Award, which is given only occasionally, have been Evan R. Collins, former university president and the late Samuel E. Aronowitz who headed the university's Benevolent Association.

The presentation was made at the annual Alumni Association banquet held in the ballroom of the Campus Center at the conclusion of a day of alumni events. Clifton C. Thorne, vice chancellor for university affairs of State University of New York and an alumnus of SUNYA, presided.

Four 1974 Distinguished Alumni Awards, highest award presented by the Alumni Association within the university, were presented to Augusta Baker '33, of St. Albans, retired coordinator of children's services of the New York Public Library, for reaching "the zenith of her profession"; Donald P. Ely '51, Syracuse, professor of education at Syracuse University and chairman of its area of instructional technology, for "humanistic leadership in higher education"; Kathryn Merchant Fitzgerald '22, Albany and Lake George, former Commissioner of the United States Mint and Governor Harriman's Deputy Commissioner of Commerce, for, among other activities, "half a century of practicing politics with gusto"; and Rose Handler Tischler '30, Schenectady, organizer and president, Senior Citizens Center, and organizer and first woman president, Schenectady United Fund, for "giving warmth and understanding to the hundreds of persons whose lives constantly touch her own".

At the luncheon program earlier in the day, 1974 Excellence in Service Awards, given for quality and years of service to the university and to the Alumni Association, were presented to Kenneth C. Blaisdell '67, Ballston Spa; Joy Longo '54, Albany; Lester W. Rubin, Rye' and Clara Fahnestock Stott '24, Albany. The 1973 and 1974 Bertha E. Brimmer Awards, to an outstanding secondary school teacher in a New York State high school, were received, respectively, by Konrad Maier '54, West Seneca, and August Katz Biskin '36, Albany.

Amid the traditional alumni-student awards, a new one was presented this year. The Psi Gamma Sorority Alumni Award was established in honor of the 50th anniversary of the graduation of Edna Shaffer MacAffer '24 to honor the graduating senior woman who best typifies the ideals of Mrs. MacAffer and Psi Gamma Sorority. The recipient was Mary Jane Hunter, Cheektowaga.

Other honors announced were the Agnes E. Futterer Award (theatre) to Victor Saffrin, Rochester; Adna W. Risley Award (history or social sciences), Jeffrey O'Donnell, Northport; Mildred Schmid Award (Latin), John F. McCall, Hammondsport; and Ada Craig Walker Award (woman best typifying ideals of the university), Mary Larkin Beck, Larchmont.

Co-chairmen of the Alumni Day weekend events, which included the ceremonial groundbreaking for an Alumni House-Conference Center and the dedication of the Performing Arts Center lounge in memory of Agnes E. Futterer, were Jackalyn Mann Gavryck '52, Castleton; and Gary L. Jones '61, Scotia.

3,700 DEGREES, INCLUDING 100 DOCTORATES, TO BE CONFERRED
AT SUNYA COMMENCEMENT MAY 25

An estimated 3,700 persons will receive degrees from State University of New York at Albany on Saturday, May 25, at 2 p.m. on University Field during the university's 130th annual commencement program.

In the May group of graduates will be an estimated 1,542 who will receive bachelor degrees and an estimated 775 who will have graduate degrees conferred on them. For the entire year, which includes graduates from August 1973 and December 1973, the estimated totals are 2,086 undergraduate degrees and 1,446 graduate degrees. Seventy-three University Certificates also will be awarded marking the successful completion by recipients of a two-year, 60-credit program designed to prepare specialists in education.

One hundred doctoral degrees will be conferred, the largest annual number to date to be awarded by SUNYA in one year. They include 41, Doctor of Philosophy from the College of Arts and Sciences; three, from the School of Criminal Justice; seven, from Graduate School of Public Affairs; and six, from the School of Education. Three Doctor of Public Administration and 40 Doctor of Education degrees will be conferred.

In addition to bachelor of science degrees from the College of Arts and Sciences, there will be those in business, medical technology, nursing, social welfare, and education. Master's degrees, other than those awarded by the College of Arts and Sciences, will be awarded by the School of Education, School of Business, School of Criminal Justice, School of Library and Information Science, School of Social Welfare, and Graduate School of Public Affairs.

President Louis T. Benezet, in a statement about the 1974 commencement said, "Commencement 1974 at the State University at Albany brings with it the continuing growth in numbers and accomplishments of University students. The 2,086 baccalaureates, 1,446 Master's candidates, and 100 recipients of Doctor's degrees give notice of a University growing not only in productivity but in variety of programs. Our new doctors, for example, will represent 16 different fields, both academic and professional. This is the first time the University Center will confer 100 doctorates at one Commencement. It is useful to remind a public somewhat confused about the purposes of graduate education that these persons will be serving not only as professors, but in a wide number of capacities urgently needed by our complex society."

President Benezet continued, "It is a special pleasure this year to graduate our first members of Phi Beta Kappa. We hope the Capital region is as proud as we that the University Center at Albany has become in 12 years a major producer of quality degree holders at all levels of learning."

Among those who will receive bachelor degrees are 868 honor students. One hundred thirty will graduate summa cum laude; 281, magna cum laude; and 457, cum laude.

Jacqueline Wexler, president of Hunter College of the City University of New York, will give the commencement address. Mrs. Wexler is a former nun who turned Webster College, the Roman Catholic girls' school which she headed, into a secular, co-educational college. The college's conversion in 1967 was the first such action in the United States.

Prior to heading Hunter College, Mrs. Wexler was vice president and director for international university studies at the Academy for Educational Development in New York City. She joined the faculty of Webster College in St. Louis, Mo., as an English teacher in 1959 and subsequently became assistant to the president, vice president for development, executive vice president, and, in 1965, president, a position she held for four years.

The former member of the President's Advisory Panel on Research and Development in Education now is on the board of trustees, New York City Rand Corporation, and a member, by appointment of the Missouri Academy of Squires. She has served on the President's Task Force on Urban Educational Opportunities and, in 1968, was the first recipient of the New York University School of Education Annual Award for Creative Leadership. She also is a member of the Advisory Board on Regents University Degrees.

Mrs. Wexler, who is a cum laude graduate of Webster College and has a Master of Arts in English from the University of Notre Dame, holds nine honorary degrees.

The Guilderland Central High School Wind Ensemble, under the direction of Donald Webster, of the music department at GCHS, has been invited to perform at the commencement ceremonies. The 50 pieces, which comprise the instrumental group, represent the selected performing band at the school. In future years other high school musical groups will be invited to perform at the annual ceremony to acknowledge the high quality of musical performance at area high schools.

The Guilderland ensemble will play "Procession of Nobles" and "Coronation March" during the processional and "March Militaire Francaise" as recessional music.

President Benezet will confer the degrees. Participating in the presentation of candidates will be Phillip Sirotkin, executive vice president and vice president for academic affairs; Louis Salkever, vice president for research and dean of graduate studies; Gray Cowan, dean, Graduate School of Public Affairs; John Farley, dean, School of Library and Information Science; Randolph Gardner, dean, School of Education.

Also, William Holstein, dean, School of Business; Ruth Schmidt, dean, Division of Humanities, College of Arts and Sciences; Vincent Cowling, dean, Division of Sciences and Mathematics; Richard Kendall, dean, Division of Social and Behavioral Sciences; Dorothy Major, dean, School of Nursing; Vincent O'Leary, acting dean, School of Criminal Justice; Charles O'Reilly, dean, School of Social Welfare; and Seth Spellman, dean, James Allen Collegiate Center.

The Most Rev. Edwin Broderick, bishop of the Roman Catholic Diocese of Albany, will give the invocation, and the benediction will be pronounced by Rev. Harold Baum, of the campus ministry.

Prior to the commencement ceremony the faculty will assemble at 1 p.m. and the processional will begin at 1:30.

In the event of inclement weather, the ceremony will be held in the gymnasium of the Physical Education Building. Closed-circuit television coverage then will begin at 1:30 p.m. in the Main Theater and Call Rehearsal Room B-78, of the Performing Arts Center; the Campus Center ballroom and Assembly Hall; and Lecture Centers 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, and 25.

On commencement day a number of university facilities will be open to guests for inspection and tours from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. They are the Art Gallery, Computing Center, Library, Nuclear Accelerator Laboratory, Educational Communications Center, and Atmospheric Sciences Research Center, located on the 22nd floor of the Mohawk Tower, Indian Quadrangle.

SUNYA SENIOR WINS LEHMAN FELLOWSHIP; TWO OTHER SUNYA STUDENTS
ALTERNATES

Eric A. Parsons, a graduating senior at State University of New York at Albany, is among 30 winners of New York State Herbert H. Lehman Graduate Fellowships in Social Sciences and Public and International Affairs. The awards, announced by the State Education Department, are the most highly prized in the program of scholarships and awards presented each year by New York State. Two other SUNYA students, Sheldon Switzer and Lawrence F. Travis, were named to the list of alternates.

Mr. Parsons, who majored in anthropology, plans to continue his graduate work at Columbia University. At SUNYA, where he is graduating with a 3.6 cumulative average, his minor field was the French language.

The Lehman Fellow said he thought he was "very lucky to have come to SUNYA. In particular, I am grateful to the many faculty members who fired my imagination in various ways and got me excited about studying and work in these areas. They were kind of inspirational in that way. I'm planning a career in college teaching and research, and my models, to date, have been members of the faculty here." The student indicated he thought he would specialize in cultural anthropology but that decision would await two years of graduate work. "I think anthropology has been a way to understand myself and others better but that whole undertaking is so broad I'll take time to explore the possibilities."

The Lehman Fellowships were established by the Legislature in 1966 in honor of the former Governor of New York State. The competition is open to outstanding college graduates throughout the United States who plan to pursue graduate study in a college situated in New York State. Recipients of the award may receive up to $19,000 for four years of graduate study, beginning in September.

A special committee composed of senior graduate faculty from institutions in New York reviewed the qualifications of candidates. Awards were based on an evaluation of test scores, academic records, and personal qualifications.

The SUNYA winner lives at 823 Myrtle Avenue, Albany. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Bert H. Parsons of Mineola where he was graduated from Mineola High School.

SUNYA alternate winner Sheldon Switzer majored in economics, with a second field in mathematics. His home is at 618 Ocean Parkway, Brooklyn. Lawrence Travis, the other alternate, majored in sociology, with social studies as a second field. His home address is 176 Depew street, Peekskill.

TWO-DAY NURSING PROGRAM IN JUNE AT SUNYA

Physiology applied to nursing practice will be the subject of a two-day program designed for practicing nurses in all types of clinical settings to be held June 3 and 4 at State University of New York at Albany. It is being offered by the continuing education department of the university's School of Nursing.

Aline Demers, associate professor of nursing at the University of Vermont, will be the speaker. Sessions, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., will be held in the Assembly Hall of the Campus Center.

Content of the program will cover the newer concepts of cellular physiology related to the normal and pathological functioning of the human body. Particular attention will be given to the effects of stress on the metabolic and endocrine systems and the nurse's responsibility in securing the health history of patients as a part of planning for their care.

MOTHER OF 11 CHILDREN TO RECEIVE DEGREE AT SUNYA COMMENCEMENT

Mother of 11 children and grandmother of 17, Mrs. Gladys Taylor, 49, will receive a Bachelor of Arts Saturday, May 25, at State University of New York at Albany. She majored in sociology, with a minor in rhetoric and communications, and already is making plans for graduate study in counseling and personnel services.

Mrs. Taylor's accomplishment attests to the strength of her motivation and determination, in combination with the support of the Educational Opportunities Program (EOP) at the university where her fellow classmates affectionately called her "Ma". She became a mother figure for many students soon after her arrival on the university campus.

It all began in Syracuse, where Mrs. Taylor formerly resided, when the affable woman worked out of the Search for Education, Elevation, and Knowledge (SEEK) program. She completed a high school equivalency course in 1969 and the following year enrolled at SUNYA. All her children were of school age at that time and the youngest was nine. Accompanying her to Albany, where she resides at 48A Dove street, were five children of ages ranging from 13 to 18.

"If it hadn't been for a program like this, I wouldn't have been able to attend any college", said Mrs. Taylor in remarking about the EOP. "I think it's a worthwhile program not only for younger people but oldsters as well. The future rewards have a great potential."

But what about Mother's studies fitting in with family life? "We have a respect for each other and always worked together", explained Mrs. Taylor. "When it's time to study, we study together. A couple of my children had dropped out of school but after I came back they re-entered. My studies have resulted in their trying to keep up with me but, really, I try to keep up with them".

Mrs. Taylor soon became involved in student activities at SUNYA. She produced two children's plays, one with the theatre department and one at the West Albany Elementary School. During her undergraduate years she completed six courses in theatre and participated in four dramatic productions.

Why did she undertake the demanding program? "I long have been interested in problems of juvenile delinquency and in people in general, old and young and all others in between. My main interest is people and sociology studies are a way of learning how you can help them in many situations. The courses in rhetoric and communications have helped me to develop communication skills". Mrs. Taylor also spoke glowingly of the value to her of special work-study courses in mathematics, English competition and literature, and study skills offered through the EOP at the university, stating they had aided her in her regular college course work after having been away from the classroom for more than 30 years.

Among Mrs. Taylor's children, a son, John, 19, is a student at SUNYA and a daughter, Sandra, a graduate of Syracuse University, teaches at the Webster Elementary School in Syracuse. Another son, a graduate of the University of Chicago, is an electrical engineer. He is engaged in research for the Bell Telephone Co. and has begun graduate work.

MOTHER OF THREE AND HONOR STUDENT AT SUNYA TO ENTER MEDICAL SCHOOL

Anyone will tell you that it's difficult to get into medical school these days but Barbara Hormats Edlund, 25, a graduating senior at State University of New York at Albany and the mother of three children, has been accepted by two.

The petite brunette, who married a Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute fellow student, Arthur H. Edlund in 1967, left school after one semester of study. The family grew to include Carl, 6½, Arlene, 5, and Kimberly, 4, before Mrs. Edlund fulfilled her ambition to return to school. She resumed studies at SUNYA in 1971.

Her academic career was successful one and, with a major in biology and a minor in chemistry, the youthful mother is graduating from SUNYA with a 3.86 academic average out of a possible total of 4. She also is among the first members of the newly-established Phi Beta Kappa Chapter at the university.

Mrs. Edlund said, in discussing her desire to study medicine, that she wanted to do "something where I could be directly involved in helping people" and "something with a challenge so I have to use my brain".

What about being a student and caring for children at the same time? "It's been sort of a family process", said the future doctor. "Everybody gets in on it and my children and husband help around the house. My husband has been very helpful, and the children are interested in everything. We try to make them a part of it." Her husband was graduated from RPI in 1969.

Mrs. Edlund continued, "My five-year-old Arlene said the other day that she wanted to grow up and be a Mommy so she can go to college."

SUNYA PROFESSOR TO BE HONORED BY JFK MINORITIES LIBRARY

Joseph Szoverffy, chairman of the department of comparative and world literature at State University of New York at Albany, will be a 1974 recipient of the American Heritage Award of the JFK Library for Minorities "in recognition of his conspicuous achievement and accomplishments in the education field, a naturalized United States citizen born in Transylvania."

The Masterpiece Reproduction sculpture of President John F. Kennedy will be presented to Professor Szoverffy in the Congressional Office of U. S. Representative Samuel S. Stratton, Post Office, 29 Jay street, on Saturday, June 1, at 12:30 p.m.

Dr. Szoverffy is a member of the Connecticut Academy of Arts and Sciences (Yale University); formerly a fellow of Calhoun College (Yale); Guggenheim Fellow in 1961 (for the Study of Medieval Vernacular Lyrics) and again in 1969-70; and has received research grants from Boston College, Yale University, the University of Alberta, and the Ella Cabot Foundation Trust (Harvard University). He also is the author of several books and of more than 100 studies, articles, and reviews of scholarly character published in six languages and fifteen countries in America, Europe, and Asia.

Professor Szoverffy, formerly director of graduate studies at Boston College, received his Bachelor of Arts from St. Emeric College, Budapest (Hungary), and his doctorate in Germanic studies from Budapest State University. He has additional specialization in Latin and folklore. He also holds a graduate degree from the University of Fribourg, Switzerland, with a specialization in Medieval Latin and vernacular literature, and in comparative folklore studies.

SENIOR CITIZENS' GROUP TO VISIT SUNYA JUNE 4

Members of the eight Senior Citizens Centers in the Capital District have been invited to State University of New York at Albany on Tuesday, June 4, for a Senior Citizen Day Program.

Carol Anstett, coordinator for the project, and working with the Office of University Affairs, said the project is a demonstration program by which the university hopes to develop a stronger link with the senior citizens in the Albany area and to become more sensitized to their needs.

Mrs. Anstett, who has been visiting each of the centers to extend the invitation, said, "This is not an open house similar to Community-University Day, but will afford approximately 200 specially invited senior citizens to see the university in a more controlled atmosphere than that of a typical open house program."

At each of the centers Mrs. Anstett has been showing a slide and film presentation, "The Sights and Sounds of SUNYA" by Kenneth Blaisdell. "The members have been very impressed with what they've seen of the university through this medium," she said, "and their response to the university has been most favorable."

The program, which begins at 10 a.m. with welcoming remarks by President Louis T. Benezet, also will include a brief presentation by Hilton Power, dean of the College of General Studies, on "Programs for Senior Citizens".

Another Blaisdell film, "The History of SUNYA--130 Years", will be shown and then Ray Falconer, research associate at the Atmospheric Sciences Research Center, will speak on "Understanding the Weather."

After a luncheon the invited guests will be given a choice of touring the library, the academic podium, or the Computing Center. Following the tours, a concert featuring the compositions of Bach, Beethoven, Chopin, and Debussy, and commentary by noted SUNYA pianist Findlay Cockrell will be given. Michael Sheehan, manager of the Performing Arts Center, then will speak on "The Senior Citizen and the Performing Arts Center".

The program will be concluded with the serving of punch by the SUNYA Faculty Wives.

"Each member of the group," Mrs. Anstett said, "will be given an evaluation sheet to fill out to let us know what they like and what type of connections they would like to see developed between the Senior Citizen Centers and the university. With this information we hope to become more aware of the needs of the senior citizens in this area for a possible future relationship between them and the university on a broader scale.

NEW DEAN AT SUNYA SCHOOL OF EDUCATION NAMED

Gilbert D. Moore, who has been serving as chairman of the Faculty Senate and chairman of its executive committee and also as vice chairman of the voting faculty at State University of New York at Buffalo, will become the new dean of the School of Education at State University of New York at Albany on July 1. He will succeed Randolph S. Gardner, senior dean at the university, who resigned two years ago from the School of Education post but has remained as head of the school until the appointment of a successor.

Dr. Moore has had a distinguished career at SUNY-Buffalo where from 1971 to 1972 he was acting provost of the Faculty of Arts and Letters. Earlier he had served on two different occasions as chairman of the university's department of counselor education. He also was special assistant to Peter Regan, acting president, and executive assistant to Martin Myerson, president, at varying times. For a year he was a Fulbright lecturer at Reading University, Reading, England, while affiliated with the Buffalo institution.

The newly-appointed SUNYA dean received his bachelor's, master's, and doctoral degrees at the University of California at Berkeley. His professional activities include presidency of the American Association of Counselor Education and Supervision, a division of the American Personnel and Guidance Association; presidency of the New York Association of Counselor Educators; chairmanship of the State Ad Hoc Committee on Certification of Pupil Personnel Workers, New York State Education Department; and chairmanship of the Federal Relations Committee of the American Personnel and Guidance Association. Dr. Moore's articles on education matters have appeared in many professional publications.

The educator, a native of Chelsea, Mass., and Mrs. Moore are the parents of two sons and a daughter. They have been residing at Williamsville where Dr. Moore is a member of the Williamsville Central School Board.

SUNYA'S SCHOOL OF BUSINESS UNDERGRADUATE AND GRADUATE PROGRAMS ACCREDITED BY NATIONAL ASSEMBLY

Both the undergraduate and graduate programs of the School of Business at State University of New York at Albany have been accredited by the American Assembly of Collegiate Schools of Business, according to an announcement made at the university's 130th commencement program by President Louis T. Benezet. The SUNYA school is only the second in the 58-year history of the AACSB to receive accreditation of both undergraduate and master's programs simultaneously.

Only one other SUNY unit is accredited by AACSB. SUNY-Buffalo was accredited at the undergraduate level in 1930 when it was the University of Buffalo, a private institution. The master's program there was accredited two years ago.

The accrediting process is a long one. First, there is the preparation of a self-study document which covers the faculty, the curriculum, the resources of the school, the administrative organization, study quality, and other items specified in the standards. In the SUNYA school case, the document was more than 800 pages. Then there is a review of the self-study material by the professional staff of the AACSB and by the master's and undergraduate accrediting committees. At that stage a number of schools are dropped from consideration.

Then follows a visit by a visitation team to go over the programs and the school. Reviewing the program at SUNYA were Dean Kenneth Black, Georgia State University, chairman; Dean Sidney Davidson, University of Chicago; Dean John Mason, University of Toledo; and William Mitchell, partner, Coopers & Lybrand, public accounting firm. Georgia State has one of the largest business programs in the country, with 235 on the faculty of its School of Business. The Chicago university's school is considered to be one of the most prestigious of its kind in the country.

In its report the visitation team commented specifically on the innovative organizational structure of the School of Business at SUNYA and on the quality and innovative nature of its Master of Business Administration program.

Consideration of the team's report by separate master's and undergraduate accrediting committees occurred during the AACSB annual meeting in April. The next step was a vote by an operations committee, following recommendation, and then, the final step, recommendation to the accrediting council, composed of the deans of all accredited schools, for the final decision.

Dean William K. Holstein, of the SUNYA School of Business, reports that in the Bachelor of Science programs in business administration and accounting there are approximately 350 upper division majors in each program, about half from SUNYA University College and the remainder through transfer from other schools, mostly SUNY community colleges.

In the Master of Science program in accounting there are about 50 students, divided equally between full-time and part-time students. Currently the Master in Business Administration program has approximately 100 full-time students and another 100 part-time students.

Other schools in New York State which are accredited include The Bernard M. Baruch College (CUNY), Fordham, Hofstra, and St. John's universities, undergraduate; Columbia, Cornell, and Rochester universities, master's; and New York and Syracuse universities, undergraduate and master's.

Dean Holstein joined the faculty at the Albany university in 1972. Earlier he had served for eight years on the faculty of the Graduate School of Business Administration at Harvard University.
