STUDENT ASSEMBLY

Prof. Hidley Gives Talk on Columbus

An interesting address on the life of Christopher Columbus was delivered by Professor Hidley at Student Assembly last Friday morning. The speaker was introduced by the Senior Class President, George Schiavone.

In discussing the life of Columbus, Professor Hidley said that the explorer had a vision which was successful because he spent years in preparing for it. This preparation consisted of forty years before the mast, and extensive reading of every geographical and navigation report he could get hold of. Columbus' aim was two-fold: to find a new world and to explode the theories of the day about the size and shape of the earth. His aim was not to find a new route to India as many are inclined to believe.

Professor Hidley thinks that the biography of Columbus should be reconstructed along lines of historical research because of the many erroneous statements made in regard to this man. He further remarked that due credit ought to be given to the aim and purpose of this great navigator, for no man has contributed more to the changing of human history than Columbus.

Before dismissing the students, Mr. Schiavone announced that Myskania would revive a college tradition that has not been practiced for the past two years. This tradition of Class Mornings is to be begun by the Senior Class on Friday, November 14. On December 19, assembly period will be given over to the Juniors.

VESPER SERVICE

Miss Larmon Speaks on Service

The second of a series of vesper services was held in the auditorium Sunday afternoon, October 12, under the auspices of the college branch of Y. W. C. A.

Mina Larmon, '21, was the leader. The theme of her talk was the "call to service," which comes when one is busy about everyday tasks, and the "joy of service" which makes the smallest effort on our part so worth while.

A short musical programme was given as follows:
Piano solo, . . . Myfanny Williams, '21
Violin solo, . . . . . Castella Hees, '21
The singing was led by Elinor Hees.

STATE COLLEGE TO HAVE TRADE TEACHERS' CLASS

Entering Class Will Be Limited to 12 Men

The evening class for trade teachers will begin its sessions at the State College for Teachers for the season on Tuesday, October 21. This is one of four classes conducted in the State under the general direction of the State Department of Education, Di-

Competition For News Board Begins

Candidates Must Be Members of Press Club

The "News" Board announces the opening of its annual competition for membership. According to the constitution drawn up by Myskania those students who are competing for editorial appointments must belong to Press Club. Following is that portion of the constitution pertaining to the procedure of the competition:

"1. Students of all classes may offer themselves as candidates by submitting their names to the Editor-in-Chief early in the first semester of each year. A request for candidates will be printed at that time in the 'News.'

"2. Candidates will then be assigned to do specified work; those who wish to compete for business manager-ship under the direction of the Business Manager, and the others under the direction of the Managing Editor.

"3. In February, each year, those Freshmen, Sophomores, or Juniors (according to class constitutions), who have shown faithfulness and ability, will be placed upon the list of board members without vote of the student body; in May of each year at least five of the Sophomores will be chosen, on a strict basis of merit, to permanent positions as Associate Editors provided, however, that at no time shall the board contain more than five Seniors, five Juniors, four Sophomores, and two Freshmen.

"4. From the Associate Editors, who are members of the Junior Class, the Editor-in-Chief, the Managing Editor, and the Business Manager.

HAGER, '17, WRITES OF TRIP ALONG RHINE

Visits Places of Legendary Interest

Kolin D. Hager, who has been overseas for several months with the A. E. F., writes of his work as an interpreter at Coblenz and of trips through the Rhine country. Holland fishermen, he writes, come to the Rhine from Rotterdam to catch eels, which are both scarce and dear. Their picturesque sloops add to the unusual scene in this country of terraced slopes on one side of the Rhine, where peasants cultivate thousands of grape farms. Only one side is cultivated, the side where the sun shines longest.

While passing through this section a German turned to Hager and said: "Do you know why we lost the war?" and then very seriously, "Because Columbus discovered America."

PRESS CLUB REORGANIZED

Membership Open to All Students

The Press Club will hold its first regular meeting on Monday, October 20th, at 4:50 in Room 101. All students are cordially invited to attend. The aims of the Club and the competition for places on the "News" and "Quarterly" Boards will be discussed. Inasmuch as the constitutions of the two College publications require its candidates to belong to Press Club, all those students who are interested, especially Freshmen and Sophomores, are urged to join immediately. There will be no customary table in the hall for prospective members to sign up; there will be no dues to pay, but there will be plenty of interesting newspaper men to address the Club during the year. Miss Murray, Director of Press Club, is planning to have Ex-Governor Martin H. Glynn give a talk to the Club members in the near future. Further notice will be posted on the bulletin boards.

MISS MANNER ADDRESSES GIRL SCOUTS

Stresses Reading Aloud

Those who had the opportunity of hearing Miss Jane Manner at Chancellors' Hall last Friday afternoon listened to a very entertaining program. Miss Manner is a woman of charming personality, which makes itself apparent in all her work. Miss Manner, who confesses that she is no lecturer, emphasized the value of reading aloud every day choice material. She advised her audience, especially, to read three poems: "The Day is Done," "The Singer," "Sonnet to Mrs. Kemble," by Longfellow and to read one of these poems aloud once every day for five years in order to get the accomplishment of reading aloud. Following her talk on "Everyday Speech" Miss Manner read two Americanization stories.

DR. CROASDALE ATTENDS CONFERENCE

Many Women Physicians Present

Dr. Croasdale attended the Conference of Women Physicians which was called by the Young Women's Christian Association, and held last week in New York City. This conference was international, representatives from Sweden, Norway, France, Holland, and

SOPHS HAZE A FROSH

Penalty Day To-morrow

A meeting of the Penalty Committee has taken place, and plans have been made for a penalty day this week. They expect all the College students to turn out to see the Frosh penalized.

In accordance with this, the men of '22 led a hazing expedition which took place Friday night. Julius Fiscus was the victim. Begging for mercy he was taken in a car five miles outside the city limits, bound to a tree, relieved of his money, his face was painted and he was given a stylish hair cut. The only real misfortune was that the "Frosh" was freed by a farmer and found his way back to the city. Other Frosh beware! Worse things than this await you if you do not obey the rules or if you are impertinent to your superiors.

GYM FROLIC

Freshmen Initiated to G. A. A. Mysteries

The first Gym Frolic of the year was held Friday evening, October 10th. The Freshmen arrived feeling as lively and childish as they looked. A little slide down the banisters and a few humpy somersaults humbled them somewhat, and by the time they had walked on tacks and ruined the Queen of Sheba's anatomy they felt properly initiated. To give the Freshies time to regain their breath a basketball game was played between the A. B. and B. S. teams. Contrary to precedent, the A. B. team won, 15-10.

The welcoming address by the President, Harriet Woolsey, restored the Freshmen's former self-esteem.

Miss Bennett gave a short talk and urged the Freshmen to attend all the Frolics.

The eats, consisting of cider and doughnuts, were decidedly in keeping with the party. They evidently had a livening effect on the Freshmen, for the latter were soon in the midst of a jolly Virginia Reel. Dancing continued until 10:30, at which time Charles, with fatherly care, sent the children home.

DRAMATIC AND ART ASSOCIATION

Florence Stubbs Elected President

The new Board of the Dramatic and Art Association, as voted upon in class meetings last Spring, is made up of two Seniors, Elizabeth Archibald and Florence Stubbs, two Juniors, Esther Cramer and Eunice Myers, and two Sophomores, Margaret Kirtland and Frances Reeks. Miss Perine and Miss Futterer are also members of this Board. A meeting was held on Tuesday, October 7th, and the officers elected were: President, Florence Stubbs, '20; Secretary, Esther Cramer, '21; and Treasurer, Margaret Kirtland, '22.

THE "NEWS"

"The State College News" is the weekly newspaper of the College, devoted to the publication of announcements, the record of College events, and the discussion of College interests.

This is the function of our paper as outlined in the constitution drawn up by Myskania. We are "devoted" to the publication of all College activities and discussions. What makes any paper welcome is the amount of new stuff printed. The personal element so much criticized in news stories of corporation-owned papers is our big "drag." Probably College students read the advertisements when they're really intending to do any extensive shopping; probably they read the front page "features" if they have anything to do with the special department in which they happen to be interested. We know the Seniors read everything because they always insist on having copies to take to Education class.

The "News" Board is announcing in this issue the opening of a competition for the selection of future members. We want some good, live samples of what new people can do. The best way of judging the capacity of news reporters is on the basis of the accuracy of their write-ups and the originality of style, with, of course, sufficient conformity to correct spelling and rules of grammar.

We should like, especially, to have a number of men hand in their names as signifying their intentions to try out for places. Join Press Club and "go to!"

UPPER-CLASS NEUTRALITY

Rivalry between the two under-classes has started in earnest. Long pompadours have suddenly gone out of fashion among the Freshmen, and the style hitherto found only in penitentiaries is being adopted. We understand that a certain barber, having been confronted by two State College students with their hair conspicuous for its absence in spots, has written a lengthy treatise on a new parasite called the "hair moth."

And '22 seems to be determined to go still farther in the matter of reforming Freshmen styles. She has kindly provided the men with new caps for winter, and has requested that these men show their appreciation by wearing the caps on their heads when they are outside and in their pockets when they are inside. So far, so good, Sophs! We are now waiting for the Frosh to show their mettle.

But, while we are waiting for the next act, we beg permission to speak a word of advice to upperclassmen. It certainly is hard after two years of participation in Soph-Frosh clashes to suddenly become an innocent on-looker. But it is our lot now to be the audience and not the actors. Of course we can applaud and encourage, and a hint now and then from the Seniors and Juniors to their respective sister classes may do wonders in stimulating activity.

There is another way in which upperclassmen may influence their younger fellow-students without interfering on one side or the other. In fact it is necessary to observe a strict neutrality in order to make this possible. Owing to certain unfortunate happenings, such as the recent drowning at Colgate, hazing has fallen into great disrepute, and a campaign is being organized for stopping it. Now, there is no red-blooded College student who would like to see the end of this long-established custom. Yet, when carried to extremes, it becomes a public nuisance and a menace. If we make it an unwritten law that we will hold sacred all plans entrusted to our confidence and all plans that we just happen to discover, the underclassmen will feel safe in coming to us for approval. Thus we will be enabled to advise against rashness and make those unhappy occurrences which cause the unpopularity of hazing improbable at State College.

GIVE US A CHANCE

Of late much has been said concerning the "newslessness" of the "News." For the sake of argument we will grant that the criticism is deserved, and, having made this concession, attempt to see wherein the trouble lies.

Reporters have their regular assignments to cover each week, such as going to the various departments, social organizations, etc., for news. If these departments and organizations have news, and not realizing it as such withhold it, the reporter can turn in nothing. Take exception to this as you will, for it is but one reporter's point of view.

The latest "dope" has it that there are to be two new college publications—one being gotten out by the Fine Arts Department, the other by the Chemistry Department. Just as a matter of information I should like to ask: "Why are these publications being started?" Will they, too, prove "newsless?"

The "News" is your paper, and as such, demands your support. If you have news, don't withhold it. Give the reporter his chance.

WISCONSIN vs. NEW YORK

Last week's "News" published an account of a State college—Stout Institute, Menominee, Wisconsin—as reported by Professor Douglass. This institution is supported solely by the State of Wisconsin. Though having a comparatively small registration, it is equipped with a swimming pool, a modern stage, a large auditorium with an up-to-date moving picture machine.

We look toward the State of Wisconsin with profound respect. A State which thinks as much as that of its college is entitled to our admiration. Of course, we think New York State is pretty fine and all that, but it does seem to be negligent once in a while. It seems to forget our existence and our importance, now and then.

New York State College for Teachers should express, as a New York State institution, the best the State is capable of along educational lines. The State prides itself on its network of canals, its facilities for railway communication, its prisons and asylums, and its State administrative buildings. Should it not take an equal interest in its college? Why then, are the appropriations of the State for that college so meager? Why are bills in interest of that college vetoed again and again? Is it lack of interest, or is it merely a case of a general "lax-a-dazziness" on the part of the administration? We need dorms. We want a swimming pool. We want modern and adequate equipment. Cannot New York State do for its college what Wisconsin and other western States do for theirs? We wish some one would answer us.

'23 SPEAKS

"In again, out again, gone again, Freshmen!"

Them's our sentiments, Sophs. We proved it last week. Now it's up to you to make us take it back. We glory in the title "Peace Class," but don't get the idea that we are peaceful little cherubs with sprouting Frosh made their first and successful wimes; quite the contrary. Last week we Frosh made our first and successful rush, but you stopped it. Just like a spoiled little boy, who is going to "tell ma,"—you immediately threatened to "tell Myskania." Does it take the combined forces of the Sophs and Myskania to manage us? If so, we certainly must be some Peace Class! When we first came to college, we were led to believe that the Sophomores were first cousins of the Bolsheviks—we have since changed our minds. Why, pacifists are blood-thirsty ruffians beside you! You don't even possess a soap box orator with pep enough to tell us "who's who." We are looking for excitement. When does the show begin?

—A Freshman.

CREDIT AND PRACTICE TEACHING

To the Editor of the "News":

To my way of thinking the demands made upon the time of the practice teachers in this institution are absolutely unreasonable. Granted that the purpose of this college is to train teachers, granted that such training to be effective must be rigorous and exacting—let us consider the facts.

The general practice here is to give one credit hour for every hour of actual class work in college time in any given course. In particular cases credit is also given for courses on the basis of comparatively more extensive outside preparation. For example, upper classmen correcting papers are given college credit—even when no time is spent in actual class work. In a course such as English 14 (theme reading), three hours credit is given for two hours class work. But this is justifiable. The time spent in work outside of class in such a course is proportionally greater than that spent on other courses.

A student teacher teaching five hours a week is expected to give one hour a week to the general teachers' meeting. Attendance at such a meeting is not optional. He is also expected to spend one hour in the teachers' meeting of the particular department in which he teaches. In addition to this conferences with his critic, not counting the hours spent waiting to see that critic, will take two hours at a conservative estimate. Conferences with the high school students themselves are both necessary and valuable. They are expected. Add an all to short two hours a week for individual conferences with an average class of 15 students. Ignore conferences to arrange for physical education. Forget the hours spent in preparation for teaching. Overlook the hours, when one, if he is so foolish, polices the study hall and you have eleven hours of actual college time spent for that delightful course, Ed. 13. (I wonder if Professor Sayles was surprised at the response when he called for volunteers to take the study hall?)

The average Senior has, let us say, fourteen hours exclusive of his teaching. Add your minimum of eleven hours of actual college time spent as indicated. Twenty-five hours of college work for the average Senior outside of preparation is, well—what do you think it is? We all are familiar with one type of the teaching profession—skeleton-faced, nervous, hollow-eyed, plain crabbly. Are the "powers that be" giving us a start in that direction?

If the standard of teaching in Milne High School is kept as high as it is (we are the last to want it lower), could not some system of credit be devised by which the practice teachers could work at teaching—that is all they do anyway—without so much other college work?

Do the faculty consider this a fair proposition? I wonder.

—Senior Victim.

To the Editor of the "News":

Will you please publish in your columns accurate information as to the destiny of the twenty-ninth of February?

Hilda Blair, '20.

THE ALUMNI QUARTERLY

The Fall Number of the first volume of the State College "Alumni Quarterly" is out. It is an excellent number and proves the efficacy of a live Alumni Association.

An extensive article on the work of Dr. Thomas E. Finegan, '00, by Dr. Brubacher is the main feature.

Senator Sage writes concerning the purchase of the property adjoining the college, and Dean Pierce discusses the question of State College dormitories. Mildred Hotchkiss, '19, has a write-up of Syddum Hall, our first dormitory.

Miss Springstead writes of the enthusiastic work in Americanization; the classes at college being the nucleus of the work done in this vicinity.

Under the heading "College of Today," our recent banner summer session is summarized, and a description of the cafeteria, its purposes and management.

In addition there are an extensive editorial department, an article by Professor Decker, and an alumni directory.

We must advise those graduates of State College who are not enrolled under one of the three branches of our Alumni Association to send in their names and $1.00 for a year's subscription to the "Quarterly."

To the Editor of the "News":

More or less has been said lately about the Friday night affairs in the college gym, and I would like to add a word to what has already been said in this connection. We may assume, to begin with, that all who attended the affair or two that we have had this fall, enjoyed themselves; if they didn't the fault was all their own. Those of the class of '20, and possibly '21, can, no doubt, recall the good times they had at the "receptions" given by the different classes to the Freshmen, to which all members of the student body were welcome. During the course of the war, that procedure was modified in accordance with the principle of "save and serve," but now it seems that we have been rather slow in getting back to precedents and in realizing the value of the social side of college life, especially to the Freshmen. Without overtaxing your memory, you can recall how lonesome you felt as a Freshman, how you wished you knew some of the faces that passed you by in the halls, and how you envied the Sophs because they "knew the ropes." The Junior Sister movement, though it has done much to make the Freshmen feel at home, cannot furnish that part of the social life that the Freshmen might get at the Friday night affairs. And how about the Freshmen men, who have no Junior "brothers" to make them feel at home?

How are we to impress upon them that there is a bright side to the life of a Freshman, in spite of trig. or history quizzes?

A simple Friday night affair with a program and dancing might be a good solution. It would be something for all to look forward to at the week end, and you surely know how pleasurable anticipation makes one's work light. The affair could commence at 8 o'clock, and if I might suggest it, the presence of Charles at the lighting switchboard in the "sym" might be dispensed with until 11 o'clock at least. I dare say you will all agree with me on this point, if you do not agree on anything else I have said.

If you are interested in having a good time once a week, add your voice and suggestions to what has already been said. To use a slang phrase, "start something." One cannot do it all alone, nor can a mere handful. So, "do your bit" and the Friday night affairs at State College will be sure of success.

L. T. M., '20.

DR. CROASDALE MAKES ANNOUNCEMENT

Dr. Croasdale wishes to announce that she is prepared to care for emergency illness in her office at any time between the hours of nine in the morning and three in the afternoon.

1923

At a meeting of the Freshmen class last Tuesday, October 7th, Mr. Johnson was appointed Purchasing Agent for Athletic Goods. Dorothy Baker and Marion Vine were nominated for cheer-leader, and Julius Fiscus and Robert MacFarlane were nominated for Athletic Manager. The class dues, which are $1.50, are to be paid before Friday, October 17th.

OMICRON NU

A meeting of Omicron Nu Society was held Thursday evening, October 9th, at the home of Mrs. Frear, 598 Madison Avenue. Initiation of new members took place at this time, the new members being Jean Hungerford, Helen Cope and Katherine Deitz. Miss Van Liew gave a short talk welcoming the new members and explaining the history, organization and ideals of the Society. Miss Steele gave a very interesting account of her recent visit to England. Miss Steele was sent to England as a representative of the International Home Economics Association to investigate the possibilities of affiliation between America and England in Home Economics work. This project is one of particular interest to Miss Steele, and it is hoped that Omicron Nu may be able to assist in the desired establishment of a closer relationship along this line. Miss Steele visited many rural and city schools and observed cooking, laundering and household work in the elementary schools. She also visited public canteens, national kitchens and schools for training the munition factory girls of England.

HOME ECONOMICS

The Practice House opened Monday, October 13th, with Miss Wilson as house mother and supervisor. The management of the House for the following two weeks will be carried on by Jean Hungerford, '20, Olive Wright, '20, Lazell Russell, '20, and Mildred Wheeler, '20.

Miss Cora Bunzel, engaged in teachers' training work in the State College of Agriculture at Cornell University, visited the department on Tuesday and Wednesday.

Miss Weir, head of the Home Economics work at Russell Sage College, Troy, with Miss Keinway of their faculty, visited the Home Economics department of State College on Friday, October 10th. Edith Woodruff, '18, who has been doing canteen work for the Y. W. C. A., is now teaching Home Economics in the high school and grades in Herkimer, N. Y.

Lillian Bussy, '18, is teaching Home Economics at Canastota, N. Y.

Marion Fleming, '15, is studying for an M. A. degree at Teachers' College, Columbia.

Frances Barnum, '16, is teaching Home Economics at Temple University, Philadelphia, Pa.

Maud Griffin, '17, is engaged in teaching at Carney's Point, N. J. Jessie Lane, '17, will teach in Tarrytown, N. Y.

Edith Spenser, '17, is teaching at the Y. W. C. A. in Watertown, N. Y.

Elizabeth McMartin, '16, has the position of County Home Demonstration Agent in Otsego County. Her assistant is Ellen Van Cleef, '17.

INDUSTRIAL EDUCATION

Isadore Chessen, '19, is teaching manual training and physical education at Lambertsville, N. Y.

Paul Manville, '19, is instructor in manual training in two adjoining towns, Mount Pleasant and Briar Cliff Manor, N. Y.

George Gordon, '18, who left college to enter the army, has returned from France and is teaching manual training in the Middletown High School, Middletown, Conn.

Isadore Skofft, '18, has a position in the Vocational School at Waverly, N. Y.

Henry Lacey, '18, is teaching in the Schwab Vocational School, Homestead, Pa.

Albert Marvin, '19, is teaching machine shop at Kansas City, Kan.

Mr. Coughlin, instructor in building trades, served as Major in the Homeopathic Hospital Drive.

Professor Douglass read a paper on "Vocational Aims in Education" before the Faculty Monday afternoon, October 13th.

Look ahead! What you will be tomorrow depends on what you save today. Buy War Savings Stamps.

NEWMAN CLUB

October 8th, George Schiavone opened the business meeting of Newman with a few well-chosen words of welcome. The constitution was read, and three amendments were adopted by the Society.

Margaret Vangura and Olive Perrault were chosen Junior councilors.

Ellen Donahue is to be song leader for the coming year.

Social and Program committees were appointed.

The members of the Social Committee are: Mary Patterson, Chairman, Ethel Hogan, Mary McCarthy, Katherine Wansboro, Edna Maneth, Elizabeth Carey, Ellen Donahue.

Of the Program Committee the members are: Gertrude Green, Chairman, Margaret Markham, Richard O'Brien, Marie Moriarity, Helen Hayes, Katherine McGarrahan.

The effectiveness of a good committee cannot be overestimated. Hence, with the above members a successful year is assured.

The men of the Society are to enjoy a snooker at Father Dunne's, Thursday, October 16th.

The entire Newman Club will receive Communion in a body at St. Patrick's Church, October 19th, at the 9 o'clock mass. Afterwards, breakfast will be served at the Cafeteria. Of course, nothing could prevent the present members of the Society from being present; and we are eager to welcome the Freshmen members at this time.

October 25th is the date set for a Newman hike. It is needless to say anything in regard to the fun we have on these hikes. Come, Freshmen, and judge for yourselves!

PHYSICAL EDUCATION

The annual race around the Park Lake will be held on Friday, October 31st. So far twelve men have signed up.

Class basketball games start the week of October 20th. Notice the bulletin boards for the schedule and come out!

All men interested in hiking should join the Men's Hike Club. Each week a hike of six to eight miles will be taken. About twenty men are "regulars." Get in with the bunch and swell the crowd.

MATHEMATICS CLUB

The first regular meeting was held last Friday at 4:15 P. M. in Room 201.

The following committees were appointed:

Social—Margaret Crane, '21, Ruth Morris, '21, Maurice Hawthorne, '21.

Program—Hazel Rowley, '20, Elizabeth Shirley, '21, Theodore Hill, '21.

Membership—Elsie Kennedy, '20, Harold Holmes, '22, Pauline Moore, '21.

Plans are being made for a social meeting to be held soon.

INDUSTRIAL CLUB

The first meeting of the Industrial Club was held on Tuesday, October 7th, for the purpose of getting properly organized and electing the officers for the ensuing year. The following officers were elected:

President—Edward T. Springmann.

Vice-President—Joseph Kaag.

Secretary—James McCafferty.

Treasurer—Julius Fiscus.

Reporter—Louis G. Hoffmann.

and then proceeded to speak of the Rhine wines, a subject with which he was very familiar. The grapes will be ripe about the middle of October and then the people will be very busy.

"Then came the far-famed Lorelei rock," writes Hager, "a gigantic mass of rock rising abruptly from the river, and quite imposing. In fact, it is too imposing to give you satisfaction over the old legend which has everything of delicacy in it. The Germans were singing the song as we passed the rock, helping to add to the atmosphere.

"It is a common sight over here to see women of all ages smoking cigarettes. Many of the fine castles along the Rhine are inhabited, and the stories of those in several cases would make good opera plots. We finally came to the Mouse Tower, a small tower just outside of Bingen, and not so very imposing. The story is that an old bishop in trying to starve the people of Bingen kept putting all available eating material in the Mouse Tower. He finally gathered all the people together in one building and set it afire. Then he fled to his tower, but found the rats had eaten his supplies, and they then went after him. A rather dubious story, but familiar to lovers of poetry.

Canada and the United States were present. It was called to consider the ways and means of improving the health of women and girls. All women physicians interested were invited to attend.

Health was considered under two divisions—physical and mental. The findings of the section on physical health stated emphatically that women do not get sufficient exercise and that, too often, clothing which interfered with comfort and health was worn. Unhygienic footwear was pointed out, and also irregular habits of eating. Each subject was discussed by specialists, Dr. McCollum of the Johns Hopkins University, and Dr. Celia Mosher of the Leland Stanford University being among the speakers. The findings of the section on mental health are not published as yet, but Dr. Croasdale is assured that they will be of tremendous importance to educators. In time, Dr. Croasdale plans to have a course in mental hygiene to be open to Seniors having psychology as a prerequisite.
