

CRIMSON and WHITE

Volume II, Number 20

Milne High School, Albany, N. Y.,

Friday, April 22, 1932

JUNIOR NEWS

STATE TROOPER ADDRESSES MEMBERS OF TRAFFIC SQUAD

Lieutenant Searle Says to Take
As Well As Give Orders Is Vital

Lieutenant Searle of the New York State Police talked to the members of the Traffic Squad about "Traffic around the School". A few visitors from the Student Council were also present. Lieutenant Searle thought that being able to take orders is very important because if you are not able to take orders you are not able to give them correctly. He also expressed the importance of being polite at all times when on duty. Lieutenant Searle answered questions which were asked by members of the Club. These questions were about inside and outside of school and about the traffic laws.

MILNE CLUBS AND DEPARTMENTS EXHIBIT WORK AT CONFERENCE

The English department had a display of books and pictures illustrating life in many countries at the exhibit last Friday night in Milne High School. This exhibit was part of the Teachers' Round Table Conference. There were many notebooks, and a colonial fort made of wood by Robert Emmerick in a seventh grade English class.

The History department had a very interesting collection of newspaper clippings, notebooks, soap carvings, and a fort made of clay.

The Latin department had a display of Latin paintings and sketches illustrating the dress and customs of the Romans.

The French department had many posters showing places in France and five or six dolls dressed like French peasants.

(cont. on page 3)

STUDENTS CHOSEN BY HOMEROOMS FOR CITIZENSHIP HONOR ROLL

Five Selected to Represent
Each Homeroom

Each homeroom recently selected five students in their room to represent them as being the best citizens in the room. The results in rooms 129, 124, and 224 were not available for publication this week, but they will be in the next issue.

Homeroom 123

Thomas Parren
Virginia Soper
Betty Potter
Arthur Smith
Foster Sipperly

Homeroom 121

Leland Beik
Joan Ambler
Frances Bremer
Lillian Allon
Robert Gilson

Homeroom 127

Marion Fayles
Ethel Fasoldt
Janet Bremer
Carolyn Houseman
Mary Ellen Gillett

Homeroom 135

William Ford
Robert Dawes
Robert Ely
Barbara Birchenough
John Chase

Homeroom 130

Ruth Mann
Stanley Manton
Betty Nichols
Anna Oliver
Douglas Mc Haig

Homeroom 320

Edwin Blocksidge
Ruth Campbell
Calvin Dutcher
Alice Harris
Dorothy Hoornbeck

CRIMSON AND WHITE
Junior News

THE BOARD

Dorothy Hoornbeek	Editor
Barbara Birchough
	Associate Editor
Ruth Campbell	Associate Editor
Carolyn Mattice	Feature Editor
Bill Norton	Sport Editor
Dunton Tynan	Circulation Manager
Ruth Mann	Exchange Editor

THE STAFF

Christine Ades, Helen Gibson, Edward Dey, Ganson Taggart, Frances Hoornbeek, Carolyn Hallenbeck, Jack Chase, David Ronan, Robert Haner, Mimeographer

COLLEGE COOPERATION

The Traffic Squad was organized because there was too much confusion in the college halls and the cafeteria. This problem is now much improved because of the organization and the Milne High students are doing much to eliminate the congestion. However the State College students do not seem to be cooperating. It was first suggested by them and we feel that they should work with us in helping to solve the problem.

One of the rules of the Traffic Squad is that we go single file down the stairs which lead to the annex and cafeteria. Members of State College go down in twos and threes in the very center of the stairs.

If State College students want us to have better conduct in the corridors they should set a better example.

JUST IMAGINE

Just imagine--

John Graham hating science.
Alice W. a platinum blonde.
Gordon Wendell being serious.
Catherine Hall without her laugh.
Della Call with a boyish bob.
Betty Nichols being cross.
Lolla 'n Doris not going together.
Escalators in Milne.
Being allowed to choose your teachers.

Baseball season will begin soon. Let's go out and support the team.

QUESTION BOX

QUESTION: Should the CRIMSON AND WHITE be a newspaper or a magazine?

ROY SWATLING: "It should be a newspaper because in a magazine you only get the news quarterly."

PAULINE SOPER: "It should be a magazine because it looks neater."

ALVIN NEELF: "It should be a magazine because it looks better and can be kept to look at again."

MARY YORK: "It should be a magazine because you will value it more."

ADDISON KEHM: "It should be a newspaper because it is printed weekly and gives more news."

ROGER WILLIAMS TELLS ABOUT
HIS RECENT WEST INDIES TRIP

(Ed. note: This is a continuation of the story started last week of the trip Roger Williams has just taken to the West Indies.)

I enjoyed my visit to Dominica, an English settlement. At one time the island belonged to the French and one may still find some of the natives who speak French. A visitor to the West Indies will find it difficult to completely understand the natives of the various islands. Most of them are of the negro race. In Monserrat, for instance, the natives speak with a broad Irish accent. In most islands they speak a mixture of French, American, African, Spanish and English. Most of them understand English, but they seldom speak it among themselves.

Dominica is noted for its limes and cocoa. A delicacy is "mountain chicken", a large frog, the legs of which are in demand by both natives and visitors. On the northeastern end of the island is found a tribe of full-blooded Caribs, the only surviving band of these once famous warriors. A great coral reef surrounds the island. Hidden beneath a shelf of this reef is a Spanish galleon supposed to be laden with wealth. Now and then old Spanish coins are washed upon the beach, but treasure seekers have never been able to salvage the ship because it is wedged tight among the reefs,

(cont. on page 3)

MILNE CLUBS AND DEPARTMENTS
EXHIBIT WORK AT CONFERENCE

(cont. from p. 1)

The Math department had a display of tools that are used in geometry, notebooks, and bar graphs showing what the pupils were doing.

The Social Science department had a very interesting collection of notebooks on the life of George Washington, and soap carvings of Mount Vernon. Each member of the class had a remedy for the depression in the exhibit. There was a large map illustrating the industries of the United States.

State College seniors did interesting experiments for the Chemistry and Physics departments. Moviograph pictures and slides were shown.

The library had a display of books and many Latin projects which were done by Miss Johnson's class. Mr. Raymond had a display of work done by the boys in the shop. The Home Economics department served punch and cookies, and had a display of work done by the girls.

EIGHTEEN NINTH GRADE STUDENTS
ILLUSTRATE BIOLOGY PROJECTS

On Saturday, April 16, Mr. Carleton Moose, supervisor of science requested that eighteen biology students come in to school and illustrate the projects to teachers coming from neighboring districts.

It was a regular classroom procedure. The teachers were permitted to wander about the room and inspect the work and ask questions of the students. After an hour's time the members of the class were dismissed and an open discussion was conducted concerning the advantages and disadvantages of this method of class work.

EXCURSION CLUB VISITS MILLS

Last Thursday the Excursion Club visited Kenwood Mills. They had full attendance and had to be divided into two groups. They were shown the large bins where wool is stored that comes from all over the world. Then they were shown how it is weaved and the blankets made.

SOCIAL SCIENCE CLASSES STUDY
TAXATION AND VOCATIONS

The eighth grade social science classes are studying taxation. They have made cartoons and booklets covering this subject. They also discussed what a good tax is and that the sales tax is a fair means of equalizing the burden of taxation among the people. A visit to the Chamber of Commerce in Albany to find out about Albany's expenditures is one of the projects that they can do.

The ninth grade classes are studying vocations. Mr. Brummer's class have selected many vocations. Two want to be engineers. The office of librarian seems to be tempting to many girls. One wants to be a buyer for a department store. In Miss Hughes' class two want to be kindergarten teachers, two want to be aviators, and one a missionary. One boy wants to be an electrical engineer. Art and interior decorating interest two girls. One boy hopes to climb the road to fame through banking.

ROGER WILLIAMS TELLS ABOUT
HIS RECENT WEST INDIES TRIP

(cont. from p. 2)

Leaving the interesting island of Dominica, I travelled to Martinique, another French possession. Martinique is a busy, prosperous, and interesting island. French is spoken in the shops, banks, and on the streets. Some twenty miles away from Fort de France, the principle port, is the ruined city of St. Pierre, located at the base of Mt. Pelee, an active volcano. In 1902 the mountain erupted, destroying the city and killing 30,000 inhabitants. A great path of lava can still be seen on the side of the mountain just as the tragedy left it. The volcano is still active, throwing out volumes of smoke. The crater is of yellowish color from the deposits of sulphur.

It was on this island of Martinique that Josephine de la Pagerie lived until she was eighteen. Later she was married to Napoleon, Emperor of France, and we know her as the Empress Josephine. A beautiful statue has been erected to her memory on the island.

(This story will be continued in future issues of the CRIMSON AND WHITE.)