It seems apparent that the varsity wrestling team has come of age. This past Tuesday, they handily defeated the State College at New Paltz, 21-17, exhibiting a fine team effort. After three previous losses, it appears that the team is on its way.

This win ended Albany's losing streak at ten which stretched from the 1968-69 season. Fine performances were given by all the wrestlers with special credit being given to Fran Weal and George Hawrylchak who pinned their respective opponents. Coach Mull, however, insisted that this was a team victory, a result of hard work and good conditioning. He feels that the rest of the season will be highly

Grant F. Longley, Jr., 27, has been named to the Physical Education staff at State for the spring semester. He will replace Joe Garcia, who is on sabbatical leave until fall, 1969. The former has been coach of the varsity wrestling team since its inception at Albany in the winter of 1955-56 and has compiled a ord over the thirteen and one College, and Springfield College. He is presently working on his master's degree at Springfield. At Springfield, he played varsity football and club lacrosse. In addition, he was selected to the Junior half years of 58-72-4. He organized Albany's first Quadrangular Wrestling College All-America soccer team in 1959 and 1960. ent in 1965 which ha since become an annual institution at the University.

Mr. Garcia is also respon for instituting soccer as a varsity sport at Albany. His eighteen year record was 81-84-9.

Cortland effected their strong comeback with a full-court press which rattled the Albany men into numerous turnovers. The Danes also suffered when both Scott Price and Jim Caverly fouled out of the ballgame. In addition, Margison was forced to sit out about three minutes of the second half with a sprained ankle, and Jack Adams was forced out of the game with an apparent muscle

Throughout the game, Albany, in addition to the steady scoring of Margison and Jack Jordan, received much needed boosts from players coming in off the bench.

Because of a lack of satisfaction with the present meal plan, a committee made up of representatives from LAAC, Residences, Food Service, and Housing have drawn up a proposal which would make many changes in the 1969-70 Board Plans. "These options should be considered a process in the evolution of enduring board choices for the student."

The first responses to demands from San Francisco State black students for admission of all black applicants next fall were typified by Clark Kerr, chairman of the prestigious Carnegie Commission on Higher Education, and by Fred Hechinger, the New York Times' Education Oracle. The moderator for the evening, Professor Frank Kolmin, began by outlining the six basic types of enders under consideration. They are as follows:

1) The Quarter System: This plan divides the present academic year into three equal parts of about 10 weeks. The student carries the normal five course load in each term, each course counting two-thirds the credit of the course under the semester plan.

2) The 3-3 Plan: Under this plan the audemic year is divided into three equal parts. Students register for

4) Modified Semester System

1: The conventional semester system is retained but starts early in September. All course work is finished before Christmas received the lack of consideration given to a student vote. Duncan Nixon, President of Central Council, stated that President Collins had assured him that no final decision in September. All course work is finished before Christmas vacation. Some dissatisfaction was still apparent and Nixon was asked if it would and Nixon was asked if it would and Nixon was asked if it would be possible to hold a student referendum. Nixon stated that it would be awkward, since the proposals would have to be presented in extreme detail, but it would be possible. Another student asked if the Task Force could delay its report so that a student referendum could be held Professor Kolmin said it would be possible but that he thought it would be of little significance at this early stage.

Concerning her second question it was stated that under such an arrangement the number of courses and the credit for each course would have to be reconsidered since some classes met less and others stressed independent study. It was felt that this would be too complex for a large university like Albany. Professor Prakken of the Classics Department, who has taught and/or studied under all the proposed systems spoke in favor of the quarter system. He cited as its advantages that all exams were completed before the major holidays, that courses were at the same time everyday giving the student an equal load on each day instead of one class on Tuesday and five on Wednesday for example. The number of exams is reduced during the terms and so the student does not enter a vicious exam schedule. In addition, it is flexible enought to allow both acceleration experimentation in the university

If only Student Association members may run, assuming the total Student Body can vote, then approximately 25 percent of the students here (those who do not pay student tax) are ineligible for nomination and election.

Since the issue of Mandatory Student Tax will come up again probably next semester, we suggest that it can not be the conce Central Council to decide the matter since they will have excluded 25 percent of the students from the opportunity to decide an issue which

The second section of the bill states "The President of Central Council and of the Student Association shall be elected by the student body." Same with the Vice President. "The President and Vice President must be members of the Student Association."

We can almost support this aspect of the bill since we believe tha the students have the express right to choose whom they want.

As it stands now, newly elected members of Central Council choose their president from among themselves. They apparently feel they know who is best suited to do the job. That feeling is justified by their being " duly elected representatives". In other words, we, who are allowed to vote, give up our right to choose a president of our own liking.

Along with this, we want to make it clear that we support this section of the bill only if the stipulation that the President and Vice President be members of Student Association is omitted (if the tax issue is forseen).

The bill should have been introduced earlier so as to allow the fullest preparation (it is to be decided upon by students in the coming MYSKANIA elections if passed by Central Council) by Central Council, students and this newspaper.

Student Power?

"...students with good judgement begin to believe they have a moral obligation to speak out as they see fit.

Nothing could be further from the truth. The protests of the Fifties were as far as student dissent was ever intended to go....

If a student objected to the way the University was being run, he took up his disagreement with the administration on a personal besis and when it was suggested that he find another school more to his liking, he didn't attempt to drag alot of other students along with him by trying to grassize a mass howcost or strike."

The above quote appeared in the December issue of a fairly obscure magazine known as Moderator. The statement was taken from an Editorial by Editor-in-Chief Howard Coffin. Normally, this would draw little attention. The reason why this quote has relevance to the students at this University and those across the nation is because it points out a basic question in the move towards student power in America today.

That question is whether we have the right (or even the obligation) to attempt to change the University to what we feel is the better way for all concerned; or is it the administration who cries "If you don't like it here--leave" that is in the right?

like it here--leave" that is in the right?

Those who cite the "pack up and leave" policy say that we have the right to chose what University we wish to attend--that a collegiate education is not mandatory--so if the University that we have chosen does not fill our desires, why don't we simply go somewhere else?

The answer to that is relatively simple. Since time immemorial, we have been taught to confront our problems--not to run away from them, for they eventually catch up with us, anyway. The belief in changing the system by working within the system is uniquely American--and when the system is totally unreceptive, Americans have gone outside it (violently or nonviolently) to correct its ills.

gone outside it (violently or nonviolently) to correct its ills.

When we are admitted to a University, the general expectation is that we will add our own talents to the university community to make it more active, more productive, more original. Each university is, in a sense, a testing ground, and if the fear of innovation holds back the adminstration, then as long as the students stay within the bounds or responsible change (whatever that is) they have the responsibility to themselves to go ahead and experiment, request, boycott and strike.

As long as the student recongizes his dual obligation—the obligation he has to his conscience and the obligation he has to respect the property and well being of others—he is justified in attempting to change the University's controlling role.

The "pack up and leave" philosophy is one of cowardice and lack of idealism on the part of the student. If undertaken on the part of the administration, it is one of suppression of individual rights.

Just maybe he should start thinking a little more in the direction of public safety for the 99% of the Americans that are not criminals. If, perhaps, the author would stop looking for a cause for the sake of having one and stop seeking faults in every law that is passed by an administration which he doesn't support, then maybe he could strain his eyes to see that the law could just possibly be for the betterment of the American society and not for the destruction of it.

I wrote for the ASP before, but things like this made me quit. I know that you probably won't print this, but it seems to me that it's about time you put something pro-Nixon or at least pro-Repu your paper. I've read enough against him, and your paper is supposed to be of, by, and for the students, so you should print it so that the other side can be heard. If you can call Nixon a fool, I can call Rothchild a fool.

The "View" is just that atrocious and in very bad taste. It says nothing that can be construed as valid. Sure, there are bad teachers but even they don't warrent this. It belongs more in a mock underground, pseudo-intellectual ditto sheet.

The Fatah is "betrayed" by the "occupied" Arabs with little compunction. Certainly the Palestinians of the West Bank and Gaza would like to see the "occupation" ended. But the great majority strives to work with the Israeli government. They go to Israeli schools, are treated in Hadassah hospitals, and will vote in the Jersualem elections this fall (they never voted under Hussein's Jordan). So the Palestinians do

BLEACHER

Every Great Dane rooter remem NCAA regional tournament selection committee gave for not choosing a strong (18-4) Albany team for last year's playoffs: "Your schedule is just too weak!" What they meant was that we play the likes of New Paltz State, Oneonta State, Oswego, Plattaburgh, Potsdam, etc. These are, perennially, the weaker squads that State faces. And yet, few could hold back a chuckle or two when little Buffalo State easily won that very regional tournament. Buffalo had won the State Athletic Conference that year—an endeavor which took up more than half its schedule—by defeating such tough competition as New Paltz State, Oneonta State, Oswego, etc. . .

Adding insult to injury, the regional committee, heavily weighted with New England member schools last year, chose a mediocre (12-8) Northeastern University team. Happily, New Yorkers, and Albany in Northeastern University team. Rapphy, New Yorkers, and Adomy in particular, will no longer be subject to the same regional committee. The NCAA-small college division realigned the regions over the summer and New York and New Jersey now comprise one region known as the Eastern region. Any new intra-regional bias may work in Albany's favor now for most New Jersey teams participate in the NAIA post season tournament. This leaves the four team NCAA tourney field almost exclusively to the Empire State.

Both LeMoyne College of Syracuse and Buffalo State will be very strong contenders for tourney bids. Both have fine records and show impressive victories against tough opposition. Albany is not without its big victories, the most important being over Merrimack, Siena, and Hartwick, all by one point. An impressive sixteen point win over West Chester State, a university division team, will also look good to this year's regional committee. Luckily, the New Paltz, Oswego, and his vear

All this brings Albany, with a 12-3 record and a ten game win streak, to tomorrow night's game with Ithaca. This and the Siena game, Friday, will decide whether or not Albany State's cagers are deserving of a bid. Victories in these two games should insure the Sauersmen a tourney invitation, just one year late!

But foday, things are happening so fast that people who try to keep ahead find that they're actually falling behind. There's simply too much to read - too much homework — too many magazines — too many books too many reports, memos and

SDS to formulate power relationship

Registration for the "great movement" weekend, sponsored by the Niagara Region of Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) (upstate N.Y.) will take place in the Campus Center noon Friday and continue through Sunday as the events of the weekend unfold.

The two-dollar registration fee will be used by SDS to help support their Spring and Summer programs. Conference literature and housing will be assigned at registration.

Newsreels will be shown today from 4-6 p.m. and Saturday from 6-7:15, at a location to be announced. The films to be shown will feature the Columbia revolt, the Black Panthers, and Chicago, created by radical filmmaker Norm Fruchter.

Two proposals to be discussed at a general meeting tonight at 7 p.m. in LR 3 will be plans for a summer project and an idea for coordinated regional action against the military on college and high school campuses.

From 8-9 Friday night in LR 3, SDS will sponsor the Pagaent Players, a New York street theatre group. Following this will be a panel discussion from 9-11 p.m. Chip Marshal, discussing ROTC and military on campus and the Draft; Bernadine Dohrn, inter-organization secretary of SDS, on woman's liberation: Jeff Gordon, of the Progressive Labor Party, on labor organizing; and Walt Shepar, on community colleges, will be among the panelists.

On Saturday, February 15, at 9:30 a.m., announcements workshop rearrangements will be made in LR 3. This is to be followed by the workshops in classrooms of the Humanities Building.

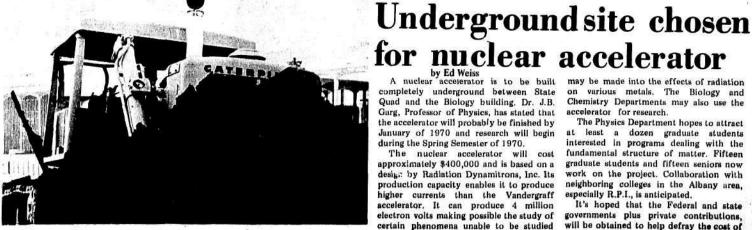

The Conference workshops will cover a wide variety of topics, including guerilla theatre, high schools, underground press, radical teaching, problems of capitalism, Cuba, racism, socialism, and imperialism. Some resource people present at the workshops will be Steve Halliwell, former national officer of SDS; Harry Magdoff, of a new school for social research; Ted Gold, of Teachers for a Democratic Society; Nick Freudenberg, a high school organizer; Paul Sweezy, editor of the Monthly Review; Jim Jacobs, community organizer in Detroit NOC; and Mike Klare, of the North American Congress on Latin America (NACLA).

This conference will be concluded Sunday morning from 10 until noon, after which will be a break until 1 p.m. Workshops will be resumed from 1-3 p.m. in the same locations. Newsreel films will also be shown Sunday at a time and location to be announced

Among the plans of the four-point program adopted by the Niagara regional SDS will be for "each chapter to research the power relationship between its school and the immediate community." This reasearch will be presented at the next quarterly regional convention.

"Each district is to develop an integrated-district program with respect to its member chapters and non-student constituencies. The districts are to develop district consciousness through a district newspaper, a district program, and district assemblie
