Miss Smith, Mr. Kroman, and Miss Browning are the supervisors in charge.

Estelle Dilg is general chairman.

8A ENGLISH CLASS TO PRESENT PLAY

On April 22 the 8A English class will present a play for the Junior High. The play is under the direction of Jerome Levitz and the assistant director is Shirley Smith.

The play is in progress but the cast has not been yet announced.

BRANDWIN STARS IN THE WHITE PHANTOM

Yesterday Homeroom 121 put on a comedy mystery play in assembly. The characters were as follows, Mrs. Blake, played by Estelle Dilg; Jerry Nolan, the officer, played by Clifford Lantz; Mrs Frazier, Bryna Ball; Mariam Blake, Margaret Chase; Evelyn Moore, the colored girl, Ardelle Chadardon; Egan Sharp, the real estate man, David Brandwin.

Comedy was supplied by Eleven and the Phantom and the story ended with a happy ending.

Council has been having quite a bit of trouble with this party business. In spite of all the trouble, the party will probably be good. We advise you to come. An estimate bill was made out as follows for expenses.

Decorations	$ 3.26
Games	.74
Janitors	7.00
Orchestra	16.00
	$27.00

This estimate was made out on Tuesday. By this time there will probably have been extra expenses.

Don't forget. Tonight in the State Commons from eight to eleven.

JANE HOPE
 BY ELIZABETH GRAY

EASTER LEFTOVERS
 BY PROFESSOR VANDER VEER VARNER

Jane Hope is a book which every girl will want to read, especially those who "just love" costume books. Though there is not much plot to it, the story is charmingly written and seems almost to call you away from your work to read it. Even when you have finished it, you will find yourself wishing that you could go on forever reading about the lovely old Southern homes and plantations, the pranks of the students at "The University," the balls and parties, and most of all about Jane Hope herself.

My Dear Girls--

Although it is highly irregular for me to speak upon such a tender subject as that of clothing of my opposite sex (female) I shall put my wits together and create an encyclopedia of the feminine wardrobe.

Four years before the start of the Civil War, Jane Hope was twelve years old, and, compared with her lovely sixteen year old sister, Mary Louise, quite a tomboy. Often she imagined herself a boy and ring-leader of a group of students from the University. Sometimes she could see herself, a beautiful girl, dressed in a pink, silk, gown and attending the commencement ball with a Senior Marshal.

From the top of your head to the tip of your toes I shall describe your outer garments only. To begin, I think a hat would suit you most. This covering should be selected from the modern style, suiting your taste. Your hair would be nice in the natural curl style or if you have no curl, you will wear no curl at all. Next comes your dress. I'm rather positive that this is the piece that you have to make a perfect choice of. If you purchase a white one you will not go wrong. Black stockings are most appropriate, and I've always thought crimson slippers were chosen mostly to go with this outfit.

At twelve she was "Between" in the family, and it seemed to her that none of her dreams would ever come true. Of course, she could never hope to be a boy, and it seemed quite impossible that she would ever be as lovely as Mother and Mary Louise, but as time went on many of her dreams were realized.

One of those camel hair coats with black seal lining around the top and cuffs are in my dictionary for fashionable clothing. Top this combination off with a pea green scarf about the neck. If you are a person who really must have people sit up and take notice of him, put an orange plume in your hat. This gives a tone of originality in your daily dress.

Many of our fictional friends are horribly artificial, but I think in looking back at Jane Hope you will find a "real" girl who had her fun and trouble mixed, and I'm sure that once you've read about her you will love her and enjoy her friendship always.

If any of you girls would like to know more of my forthcoming book, (I haven't quite discovered a publisher yet; they really don't know real art), just drop a note to the Crimson and White and I will answer your questions to your satisfaction. I know you will be asking me of things to wear to the forthcoming Milne dance and I am just itching to answer them. This striking summer creation is just one of my millions.

NEW RULE MADE

Professor Sayles announces that there will be a little change in the morning schedule. If you are running around outside you are requested to be in the homerooms at 8:55. If coming directly to school and yet in homeroom at 9:00 o'clock you are not late.

I thank you-----

LOST AND FOUND

Found: Red hair ribbon, 2 necklaces, 5 pens, 5 pencils, key set with yellow lock, 2 key sets, 8 separate keys, 2 key containers, wrist band, lock, initial pin, tie clasp, belt, black comb and two protracters.

Wanted: A girl with good looks, good figure, good personality, good humor, and understands a boy's lonely heart, to go to Junior Dance. Bring to Bob Clarke, homeroom 130.

Lost: A good head, by yours truly, while writing this article.

IRISH HUMOR

"Porter," asked an old lady of an Irish porter, "when does the 9 o'clock train leave?"

"Sixty minutes past eight, mum," was Mike's reply.

Dealer: "Buy a trunk, Pat?"

Pat: "And what for should I buy a trunk?"

Dealer: "To keep your clothes in."

Pat: "And go naked? Not a bit of it."

A yankee and an Irishman happening to be riding together, passed a gallows. "Where would you be if the gallows had its due?" said Jonathan.

"Riding alone, I guess," said the Irishman.

Mike: "An' what are ye diggin' out that hole for, Pat?"

Pat: "It's not the hole I'm diggin' out! I'm diggin' the dirt an' leavin' the hole!"

FLASH

For the first time in the history of Milne, airplanes have been flown in the auditorium with the permission of Dr. Frederick. They were flown by Robert Meghreblian who also gave an interesting talk on the construction and flying of model airplanes. Robert's model, which he flew, was of his own design and everybody in the auditorium was holding his breath, when the model chashed against the ceiling. Professor Sayles was present and seemed to enjoy it very much.

NOTICE

For anyone who wants to join the Junior Birdmen; please see either Robert Meghreblian or Gilbert Dancy.

9A CLASS SEES BROADCAST

Members of the 9A Social Science Class visited Col. Jim Healy's radio broadcast in the De Witt Clinton Hotel on Monday night. The trip was arranged by Bryna Ball who is a friend of Col. Healy. Afterwards they visited the studios of WOKO in the Ten Eyck Hotel where they learned interesting facts about sound effects, etc. Those attending were Bryna Ball, Charles Barnes, Alma Brown, Ardelle Chadderdon, Guy Childs, Sally Devereaux, Doris Holmes, Susan Roberts, Edward Sternfeld, Robert Wheeler, Evelyn Wilber, and their teacher, Miss Mabel Mathes.

CLUB NEWS

The Designing Club has been inspecting designs that might be made on cloth. Knitting, embroidery, etc. were displayed. Later they went out and sketched.

The Beginners' Dancing Club has progressed nicely and are now learning to fox trot, dip, side step, and some other new steps.

The Boys' Athletic Club played hand tennis and baseball today in front of the campus. They were joined by the Girls' Athletic Club whose members also played tennis and hand tennis.

The Sub Deb Club had a lively discussion during Club meeting today.

The Dramatics Club are practicing their new play.

The Choral Speaking Club spoke pieces for voice carrying and studied posture.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS

Icebergs are not always white! They have been found in green, pink and even black! And are frequently seen in a combination of these colors.

An eruption of Mount Vesuvius in A.D. 427 covered all Europe with a fine dust and spread terror as far as Constantinople.

Pike, a species of fish, have been known to live for over 200 years.

CHARACTER SKETCH

Our victim this week is in homeroom 121. He has dark hair and brown. His hair is always slicked down like patent leather. He is about five feet six inches tall and is quite slim. One of the things he is very interested in is photography. Some of his friends call him "Chuck" for short.

Guess who it is and put your answer in the Crimson and White drawer in Miss Moore's office.
