STATE MAY RECEIVE COMMERCE ADDITION

Transfer Of Plattsburgh Unit To Be Submitted To Regents Board

MAKE CHANGE IN FALL

By ROBERT J. SHILLINGSLAW

Unconfirmed rumors have been prevalent around the College halls for the past ten days to the effect that the commercial department of the Plattsburgh Normal college will be transferred to this institution within the next few months.

Dr. A. R. Brubacher, president of the college, refused to deny or confirm the rumors, other than to say that the matter had been considered and that if any action is forthcoming that the announcement will have to come from Dr. Frank P. Graves, state commissioner of education.

Dr. Graves, when interviewed by a STATE COLLEGE NEWS representative, stated that the matter had not yet been considered by the Board of Regents, but that such action was "entirely possible."

Should the transfer be made, it is estimated that in the neighborhood of seventy-five to one hundred additional students, including forty men, would be brought to State College.

Coach R. R. Baker commented that he hopes that the transfer will be made and made by next fall in order that his basketball squad will be strengthened to the point which would make it advisable for the management to book more big games such as the Dartmouth game of the present season.

The men students at the college are also earnestly awaiting definite news of the removal, hoping to swell their minority here.

It is understood on good authority that the transfer will be made early in the fall when the new buildings are completed, making room for the additional students for the department, now supervised by Prof. George M. York.

According to rumors, the transfer will be made to relieve the congestion at the Plattsburgh Normal. There has been no denial of the rumors by any education department official and it is understood that the matter will be placed before the Board of Regents at an early date.

By ETHEL LAWRENCE

The largest crowd which has attended any of the music association concerts this winter heard Percy Aldridge Grainger in his pianoforte recital Friday at Chancellor's hall.

Grainger's program was divided into three parts, the first of which consisted of organ pieces by Bach transcribed for the piano by Busoni. As an encore for this he played an early English Christmas carol, "The Holly and the Ivy." The second number was Chopin's Sonata in B-flat major with Chopin's posthumous study in A-flat major as an encore. The last group consisted of selections from modern composers, concluding with a medley of Danish folk-songs collected by Grainger. As an encore he played his well known "Country Gardens" and when called back again and again by an enthusiastic audience, he played first Brahms' "Cradle Song" and then an arrangement of "Turkey in the Straw." These encores were request numbers.

The "March Funicular" from Chopin's Sonata, and "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring" were perhaps the best liked by the audience. His listeners even gave Grainger the tribute of a moment of quietness after some of his more beautiful pieces before the storm of applause broke.

The program was so well balanced—slow solemn pieces alternating with quick, almost technical pieces, and sweet dreamy ones with gay, rollicking melodies—that one is unable to say which the pianist prefers or which he is better able to interpret.

SORORITY TO HAVE PARTY FOR PLEDGES

Program Tomorrow To Include Dancing, Refreshments And Bridge

Eight of State's sororities will entertain their freshman pledge members in the College gymnasium tomorrow afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock. There will be dancing, bridge and refreshments, according to Eleanor Welch, '29, general chairman of the entertainment.

Each sorority will have its individual table decorated in the sorority colors. The banners of the eight Greek letter groups will be hung in the walls of the gymnasium for the afternoon.

The following committees have been named by Miss Welch to work on the arrangements: Marie Havko, '30, general chairman, assisted by Roslyn Chapman, '28, Alma Dolan, '30, Mary Nelson, '30, Florence Cook, '29, Catherine Duffy, '29, Sarah Vaffee, '30, and Florence Moeller, '28.

Mary Martin, '28, is the chairman in charge of refreshments for the tea. She will be assisted by Doris Mallory, '29, Margaret Stoutenburgh, '28, Josephine Walker, '29, Marion Fox, '29; Anne Moore, Dorothy Rubin and Margaret Wadsworth, all sophomores.

Each sorority will have mints in the sorority colors. Jane Formanek, '30, is the chairman in charge of decorations and flowers. She is assisted by Katherine Watkins, Alice Bennett, Ethel Grundhofer and Beatrice McCarthy, all sophomores; and Mollie Kaufman, '29, and Clara Hagey, '28.

Mellie Fieldman, '28, is the chairman of the music committee. Her committee consists of: Ruth Moore, Violet Pierce and Pauline Crowley, seniors; Eleanor Vail, '29; and Eleanor Stevenson, Virginia Shultes and Alice Barber, sophomores.

WOMEN ARE WILLING TO SERVE ON JURIES, MISS JOHNSON SAYS

The time-old question of the political equality of the sexes was challenged Tuesday when Emma Lou Johnson, '28, spoke before the judiciary committees of both houses of the New York state legislature.

"The young women of New York state are willing to serve on the jury if they are given the right," said Miss Johnson. "Jury service is one of the responsibilities of citizenship and as its citizens, we, the young women of New York state are ready to serve on juries." Miss Johnson represented all the young women voters of New York state in her speech, and also was chosen as speaker for the League of Women Voters' unit at State College.

She was the most youthful speaker and at one time during the evening. Her colleagues expressed themselves as being "old and gray" in the service. Other speakers representing a number of prominent women voters, chief among whom was Miss Chandler of East Aurora, main representative of the League of Women Voters, attended the legislature.

In the afternoon, Anne Sterling, '29, Elizabeth Phetteplace, '28, and Miss Johnson attended a luncheon at the City Club, given by the League of Women Voters, Central New York chapter. The students were seated at the speaker's table and were regarded as particular guests.

Olga Petrova, noted New York actress, represented the young women voters of New York state last year and also spoke before the legislature.

RECEIVED IN OMICRON NU
Euretta Lloyd, '29, was elected to membership of Beta chapter, Omicron Nu, at its meeting Friday.

READS MAETERLINCK'S "SISTER BEATRICE"

Creator Of Everyman, Shakespearian Roles To Make First Albany Appearance Tonight

Edith Wynne Mathison, actress and teacher of drama, will give a reading of Maeterlinck's "Sister Beatrice" tonight under the auspices of the Dramatic and Art association at Chancellor's hall at 8:30 o'clock.

Miss Mathison is a native of England. She came to America in 1903. Her dramatic career began with comedy parts but she found her true expression in Greek plays. She created the role of Everyman in that play under the management of Ben Greet in whose company her husband, Charles Rand Kennedy, was also playing.

Since then she has taken part in mystery plays, Shakespearian and other Elizabethan dramas and even in modern plays and motion pictures. She was associated with the beginning of the Little Theatre movement in 1910.

At the height of her fame, she was

She is starred each year in the annual Greek play presented by the Bennett school of liberal and applied arts at Millbrook, N. Y., of which she is a trustee and head of the drama department.

She has played the part of "Sister Beatrice" on the stage and also that of Light in the "Betrothal," another of Maeterlinck's plays. Hermione and Mrs. Ford, Shakespearian characters and Andromache in Euripides' "Trojan Women" have all been portrayed by her. She has also appeared in her husband's plays. Perhaps the best known of his is "The Servant in the House," an imitation of the medieval mystery plays.

Students are admitted with tax tickets. Other tickets are $1.75 and one dollar. They are on sale at Ulmet and Sons on Broadway.

TROUBADOURS START REHEARSALS TUESDAY

The State College Troubadours begin rehearsals Tuesday night in the auditorium for their second annual minstrel show and entertainment to be staged Friday, April 13.

The tentative plans for the program were outlined at a meeting of the group held Wednesday noon. It consists of a novelty opening part, four short olio numbers and two student written plays. It will be directed by Professor William G. Kennedy, faculty advisor, and the new officers of the group, to be elected March 5.

Nominees for the various offices to be filled are: Randolph Sprague, '29, president; Frederick Crumb, '30, Kenneth Carpenter, '29, and Horace Myers, '31, vice president; Louis Klein, '29, secretary; Hermann Koerner, '29, and Rudolph Wurth, '30, treasurer, and Professor William G. Kennedy, faculty advisor.

SAYLES REPORTS ON DORMITORY TO ALUMNI

Professor John M. Sayles, principal of Milne High school, gave a report on the dormitory fund at the Eastern Branch of the Alumni association Saturday night in the College cafeteria. Stanley Heason, president of the association, presided, and Mr. Christian led the singing. After the dinner a short business meeting was held. Dean Harlan H. Horner, former dean of the College, and President A. R. Brubacher, gave short after-dinner speeches.

SHALL CHAPEL BE COMPULSORY?

Whether or not the practice of compulsory assembly will be continued at State College will be somewhat affected by the attitude which the students themselves take in the matter. Dr. Brubacher will speak in Chapel today in regard to compulsory chapel attendance. This will be followed by student discussion. Those students who have strong sentiments either in favor of or against compulsory attendance will have an opportunity to express themselves and be heard.

Hail ye orators and gather near! Do you think it vital that every member of the student association be present at the Friday assembly? Say so! Do you think the students can better employ their time elsewhere? Why!

Do not let there be mumblings and murmurings throughout the association, which create only unhealthy discontent and dissatisfaction; but come right out in the open, organize your thoughts into clear, concise statements and let us know what you think.

SILENT PERIOD IS OVER

Silent period over! What self-restraint has been required of the women during these last few days following sorority bidding? What with all the stress of rushing and careful procedure for bidding, nothing has created such a strain on our female group as this period of quietude. A woman can do almost any amount of work, but when it comes to being silent she is really taxed!

There seems to have been quite an atmosphere of good feeling between the rival groups and whereas some have had disappointments which necessarily brought others happiness, there has been very little criticism of one group by another. All have played the game hard, but fair!

MAY TRANSFER DEPARTMENT

Rumors are, after all, uncertain but they certainly do create interest. Something has been said in regard to the transference of the commercial department of Plattsburgh Normal to State College. With our new building, it would seem perfectly possible to accommodate these additional students and since Plattsburgh Normal is so crowded, it might prove a wise measure. Indications are that current opinion is somewhat favorable to the change. At any rate, since this transference would mean an increase in our male population of about fifty men, our athletic teams would not suffer. State College men would individually become less noticeable and important, but at least they would feel as if they weren't absolutely alone in this College World of Women. How do the girls at State feel about the matter? They probably wouldn't mind.

MISS LAUT UNFOLDS WESTERN EPIC; SARASIN WRITES ITALIAN ROMANCE

By W. M. F.

The Conquest of Our Western Empire. By Agnes C. Laut. 363 pages. New York: Robert M. McBride and Company.

Miss Laut, who has won considerable attention with her popular epics of the winning of the West, has written another stirring account of the carving of an empire. Miss Laut has the faculty of writing history so that even readers of Western Stories would read it avidly. By this we do not mean to say that our more literary readers would not be interested; in fact, they too will be thrilled with the historic incidents she narrates.

Beginning with the cruise of the Lodestar of the Western Sea, Miss Laut unfolds in a graphic manner the development of the Pacific Northwest. What her Blazed Trail of the Old Frontier did for the plains, her new volume does for the empire of salmon and tall timbers.

Historic character that one meets in the book include John Jacob Astor, who founded the first American trading post in the region; Captain Grey, of Columbia River fame; John Vancouver, who plowed through the seven seas to win his fortune. One also is glad to see the first pioneers of the region, Lewis and Clark, included.

The text is well illustrated with photographs. It is here that one misses the pen sketches that added to the attractiveness of the Blazed Trail of the Old Frontier; though interesting, the photographs are only a substitute. The book is written in an informal manner that is almost certain to please.

It would not surprise the writer if the Pacific Coast Chamber of Commerce bought out the edition.

With its setting in romantic Italy of the Napoleonic era, this novel has its plot spun around the thesis that the Corsican adventurer was just. The principals of the story are Caterina Leuthold and Captain de Saulx, a former royalist. With a pleasant seasoning of brigandage, the author has woven a creditable tale. It will especially appeal to those who like sure-fire, pistols-and-crossed-swords stories. We have here very little intrigue of the courts, most of the action being in the mountainous regions.

Captain de Saulx, with a price upon his head, is allowed by Napoleon to go bandit-hunting. Caterina, loving her captain, disguises herself as a youth and accompanies his troop of ruffians. Captured by the bandits, they escape in a series of swashbuckling adventures, only to meet Napoleon again. What happened then can best be left to the author to tell. It is enough to say that this is the book that Douglas Fairbanks might choose for one of his pictures; personally, we should like to see him act the Captain de Saulx.

SAGA OF SALT WATER IS FORCEFUL; MAC MILLAN WRITES OF FAR NORTH

By W. M. F.

The Book of the Gloucester Fishermen. By James B. Connolly. $5.00. 301 pages. New York: The John Day Company.

A true saga of the salt water is this forceful, adventurous chronicle of the men who risked their lives in search of fish. Before the present day of the steam trawler, men braved the deep in Gloucester's all-sail fishing fleet. This book is a collection of true stories of the fishermen's adventures, gathered from intimate contact with them, by James B. Connolly, who has based several short stories on Gloucester life.

"My chief aim in this book," we are told by the author, "is to make a record of what these Gloucestermen actually were while my own memory of them is still fresh and while men are yet living who could testify at first hand for them. Here they are, the men and vessels, in person." He has well succeeded in his purpose; the result is a thrilling series of action chapters with the true tinge of the salt breeze in them.

Here we meet "Centennial" Johnson, who alone sailed a dory across the Atlantic; the "Gloucester Lumbergh," as it were. And there is the epic of Howard Blackburn, than whom "no trawler ever lived through a tougher experience." It was he who allowed his hands to freeze solid about the oars so that he could do a doryman's duty. With out fingers, he sailed a thirty-foot sloop from Gloucester in New England to Gloucester in Old England, then later sailed a smaller vessel to Lisbon.

Of such heroic stuff were the fisherfolk of Gloucester made. It is of these folk that the author writes with the true flavor of the sea. He depicts a passing era, with two results: a rattling good book, and an appreciation of every-day heroes.

Utah and Beyond. By Donald B. MacMillan. $5. 287 pages. New York and Boston: Houghton Mifflin Company.

Numerous new viewpoints concerning the Arctic regions are the principal contribution of Commander MacMillan's account of the explorations of the Bowdoin. But it is not primarily a book of interpretation; it teems with interesting facts and is well illustrated with more than a hundred photographs.

Describing the social conditions of the Eskimos, the author declares that he is heartily in favor of sending competent missionaries to the natives "although fully realizing that they are one of the happiest people in the world. But such a state of happiness cannot be guaranteed in view of the annual visits of traders, explorers and whalers. The welfare of any savage race today depends upon its knowledge of the practices, the purposes, the evils and the diseases of the outside world. Ignorant of these, the result is extinction before the march of civilization."

Readers hunting for scientific information about the region will like the book. It contains a section devoted to arctic birds, and another to the temperature and wind pressure. But the rest of the book is chockful of interest for the person hunting for a downright good adventure story.

One more week we have been forced to watch a listless basketball game with the varsity making more points in the first five minutes than the opponents could score through all the game if the varsity had the desire to keep them from scoring. Once more we have watched the big parade and the cavorting and antics of the seconds. There is no criticism of the spirit of the seconds but when we watch practice after practice on the opposing teams we conclude the time to train future players is afternoon and not when fans must sit back and be bored.

What we want is a game or two to test the varsity, a hair-raiser, giving us value for our money. A great outlay is made each year for basketball and this money is spent for amusement and not for the sake of "ice cream so many straight games by such and such a great score."

After all, what glory is there in playing unheard of teams. We have not beaten a team this year for which we don't feel obliged to apologize. We must caution Coach Baker that no prestige is added to his position as a coach when his team plays opponents of such inferior caliber.

State has a team which can play basketball when called upon. They have demonstrated that on several occasions this year and no doubt will prove it once more tonight. What we want is less tampering with the managers and more representative basketball games.

In closing we would certainly appreciate enlightenment as to why the invitation of R. P. I. to play a game on their court and one on the State court is not accepted. These games would entail little expense compared to the outlay necessary to bring a team from New York and would create many times more interest. Also may we ask why Dartmouth is not signed to appear again in Albany next season?

We were glad to see Tony back in the line up. He played one of the best games of the year. Bigger and better for next week against Providence!

Providence, by the way, is going to give the Purple and Gold a mighty stiff game. State ought to win by a narrow very narrow margin.

G.A.A. HAS SWIMMING CLASSES WEDNESDAY

Each Wednesday evening since early fall, the Girls' Athletic Association has held swimming classes at the Y. M. C. A. pool and at Bath I. Two captains, Louise Trask, '30, and Irene Hicks, '31, are in charge. There are three classes: beginner swimmers, those who can swim a little, and life savers.

Early in the spring the third class will give a life saving test by Louise Trask, American Red Cross examiner. Those passing this test obtain the Senior Life Saver emblem of the American Red Cross.

TEACHERS' COLLEGE CO-EDS CAN DRESS ON $200 EACH YEAR

By BESSIE LAPEDES

Co-eds at teachers' colleges seem to be able to present an attractive and fashionable appearance on $200 a year, if statements taken from Teachers' College, Columbia University, and from State College, can be taken as criteria of universality. In a recent newspaper article, Miss Lillian H. Locke, professor of Household Arts at Teachers' College, Columbia University, stated that the minimum figure for clothing expenditures at that institution is $200 a year. Her budget with which most of the co-eds at State College agree, is as follows:

2 Dresses, $14 and $17.74	$13.48
2 Hats, $3.96	7.92
1 Evening dress	13.94
1 Handbag	2.74
3 prs. Shoes, $6.94, $7.94, $8.94	22.82
6 prs. Stockings, $1.19	7.14
Winter Coat	40.74
Fall or Spring Coat	22.74
Underwear and Negligee	23.49
2 prs. Gloves, 94c and $2.19	4.97
Bathing Suit	1.79
Jewelry	3.24
Raincoat	5.94
Umbrella	2.64
Rubbers	.94
Arctics	2.74
Incidentals	4.63

Totals $200.00

Co-eds at Syracuse University place the minimum cost quite a bit higher, according to a statement of Dean Iva Lowther Peters, recently published. Dean Peters places the minimum at $350. Several State College co-eds admitted this was nearer their own, but not as a minimum estimate. The majority of students, especially those of the home economics department, believe that any girl who shops with discretion can present a fashionable and attractive appearance on $200 a year.

SCHOOL PRESS REVIEW HAS FRENCH'S ARTICLE

William M. French, '29, managing editor of the STATE COLLEGE NEWS, is the author of an article on copy reading which appears in the current issue of the School Press Review.

The article is entitled "Far More Than Comma Catching," and is written for editors of normal school and college papers. French is an associate editor of the magazine, which is published monthly by the Columbia Scholastic Press Association. It has a nation-wide circulation. "Almost every amateur newspaper has a copy desk where all copy gets a pertinent reading," he declares in the article, "but on few papers does the copy desk extend above looking for un-pulled words and misplaced commas."

The duties of a copy reader on a school paper he defines as being: (1) to catch elementary errors; (2) to make the story conform to the paper's style sheet by eliminating redundancies and by re-writing weak sentences; (3) to eliminate all personal opinion and editorialism; (4) to protect the paper from printing any libelous or objectionable matter; (5) to prepare the copy by typing it apart in pieces and re-joining it to make the relations between all parts clear and the copy readable.

"Detectives and personal opinions are forbidden in school papers," he declares. "The proper place for editorial comment is in the editorial columns and in signed articles."

Ready in post on the State College News, French held the position of reporter for the Knickerbocker (1925) and the Albany Evening News.

Dean Pierce To Attend Association Meeting Of National Deans Of Women This Week-End

Dean Anna E. Pierce leaves today to attend the annual meeting of the National Deans of Women association at Boston. She will stop to visit Dr. Aspinwall, former assistant to the president of State College, and Mrs. Aspinwall. Dr. Aspinwall is now principal of the State Normal school at Worcester, Massachusetts.

The Department of Deans of Women of the National Education association will meet Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of next week at the Copley Plaza hotel at Boston. On Monday morning the executive committee has a joint session with the National Committee of Bureaus of Occupation. The afternoon will be devoted to business and the evening to a discussion of the professional training needed by deans of women. This will be summarized by Margaret T. Corwin, executive secretary, Graduate school, Yale university. On Tuesday morning, sectional meetings of university, college, teachers college and high school will be held. In the afternoon, there will be a general session and tea at Radcliffe college with the following speakers: Mrs. Chase Goring Woodhouse, United States bureau of home economics, Washington, D. C.; Dean Mary Yost, of Lakeland Stanford Junior university, California; Dr. Beatrice Hinkle, of New York city.

At the formal dinner in the evening, Dean Dorothy Stinson, of Coe college and president of the department, will preside. Ada Comstock, president of Radcliffe college; Dr. Alice Hamilton, of Harvard medical school, and Mrs. Anne Allinson, of Providence, Rhode Island, will speak.

DEAN ANNA E. PIERCE

On Wednesday morning there will be a discussion of the problems in the professional training of deans of women, for members only. At the luncheon President Mary E. Woolley of Mt. Holyoke college, will speak on "The Institute of Pacific Relations." On Thursday morning there will be a business session, at noon a luncheon, and joint sessions.

Dean Pierce, who is chairman of the health committee of the association, will have a place on the program. She will have luncheon on Monday as the guest of Miss Jane Jones, dean of the Gibbs school for sectarian training. Miss Jones was formerly instructor in the English department of State College.

PLATTSBURGH GROUP HEARS DR. NELSON

"Education Must Not Fall In Meshes Of Tradition," He Declares

"American education today must beware lest, like ancient tribal education, it so entangle itself in the meshes of tradition that it hinders rather than aids the progress of civilization," Dr. Milton G. Nelson, professor of education, said before the Plattsburgh Teachers' association recently.

"The painted cannibal of the Congo jungles taught his children—his male children—the element of what has become the literature, mathematics, science, and other subjects in the present-day course of study," Dr. Nelson showed. "But, he taught his own simple material in his own way. He was steeped too strongly in tradition. Customs which he handed down by education became iron-bound traditions that could not be broken without the loss of the offenders' life. Fear of neglect and starvation caused the old men of the tribe to build up a tradition that made them the authorities, and made customary their support by the young."

Dr. Nelson concluded his remarks with a plea to teachers not to let tradition hold them to antiquated teaching methods and a subject matter, but to appreciate that education continually changes as does the civilization about it continually changes. Dr. Nelson asked the audience to consider to what extent the influences of tradition was a bar to real educational progress today.

RECEPTION TO MARK 30TH ANNIVERSARY OF PSI GAMMA ALUMNAE

The Psi Gamma Alumnae association will celebrate its thirtieth anniversary this week end at the sorority house. Included in the events scheduled for the celebration are an informal reception tonight at the sorority house, an alumnae meeting tomorrow afternoon, a bridge party tomorrow afternoon followed by a dinner at the Hotel De Witt Clinton. Miss Norine B. Keeting is chairman. After the dinner party, the members of the alumnae association will go to the Capitol theatre to see a performance of "My Maryland". On Sunday afternoon, there will be an informal tea at the house, Miss Katherine Buehler, '21, now teaching in the Hackett Junior High school, and Mrs. Mollie Callan Crawford, '05, are in charge of the tea. Invitations have been sent to three hundred alumnae members of the sorority to attend the meetings.

Mrs. Elsie Lenard Hedberg, vice president of the Alumnae association, is in charge of the reception tonight. Mrs. Alberta Sildworth Perkins, '21 and Mrs. Olive Horning McDermott, '17, are hostesses for the bridge party.

Miss Florence E. Chase, '12, and Miss Myra Hartman, '27, are in charge of the theatre party following the dinner.

Miss Marjorie Bellows, '26, and Miss Beulah Eckerson, '23, are in charge of the registration of the alumnae for the celebration.

"FROSH DO NOT KNOW HOW TO STUDY"—YORK

"Poor adjustment is the cause found by the investigating committee for most freshman failures," according to Professor George M. York, head of the commerce department and a member of the investigating committee. "The freshmen have not learned how to study." "Another cause," says Professor York, "is too much outside work. The student is unable to devote enough time to his studies." "Sickness in families is a reason for a few failures. Personal health seems to be a minor reason, according to Professor York.

STATES OLDEST CLUB WAS FOUNDED IN 1912

By GENEVIVE COLE, '29

Is Chemistry club really the oldest club at State? This question is one frequently asked and very frequently left unanswered. I wish to inform each and every asker of this question that Chemistry club is the oldest club at State—being founded in 1912. It began its history under the imposing name of Chemical club, and under the able direction of Mr. Wm. G. Kennedy, assistant professor of chemistry. Professor Bronson, head of the chemistry department, is a charter member of the club. It was founded to further the interest of chemistry and the modern methods employed in chemical industry. In other words, it was founded to keep in touch with new discoveries and new processes now in vogue.

Looking back over the years, it is always pleasant to remember the annual spring outing of Chemistry club. Those of us who have enjoyed the privilege of one of these outings, would never miss another. The outings are usually in the form of a yacht trip down the river.

In 1924, the tenth anniversary of Chemistry club was celebrated by a formal dinner in the cafeteria. Many of the alumnae attended. The guests were entertained by songs put on by the members of the club, by whom the songs were composed.

Papers presented by the students at the regular meetings are not only interesting, but are also useful in that the members of the club are made to keep in touch with modern developments without leaving to look them up for themselves. Although not an active club, as far as social affairs go, Chemistry club is an important member of the many clubs at State.

VISIT NIGHT SCHOOLS

The union and vocational in the home economics department are visiting the night schools in Albany, Schenectady and Troy, this week and next.

The purpose of the visit is to observe the method and work being done in the school, according to Professor Florence C. Wadsworth, head of the home economics department.

WATTS '28, REQUESTS PROSE FOR QUARTERLY

"More real interest in the State College Quarterly is needed to keep up the magazine," Dorothy, '28, editor-in-chief of the publication, said today.

She urged that those students who could or would write prose for the magazine, do so for the next issue, since little prose has been contributed so far.

Dr. A. R. Brubacher, president of the College, seconded Miss Watt's appeal and commented upon the "low blood pressure of College prose at the present time. It should be one of the worth-while institutions of the College and deserves the support of the entire student body," he said.

Miss Anne E. Pierce, dean of women, when asked for her opinion, said "It is a deserving project and students who support it are to be commended."

Two prizes, $25 each, are awarded annually at commencement, one for the best prose published in the Quarterly during the year, and the other for the best poetry. Miss Watts said that while the verse was of unusual quality, the prose was inferior to most collegiate prose.

CLUB WILL INITIATE

Classical club will initiate new members Thursday afternoon. All freshmen with one year of Latin may join.

STATE VARSITY FIVE FACES PROVIDENCE

Following 3 Victories, State Will Play Rhode Island Team Here Tonight

By Roy V. SULLIVAN

Having disposed of three weak teams in the last three weeks, the Purple and Gold five faces its third and last test of the season. Providence college, of Providence, R. I., is scheduled to take the floor tonight against the State College five in what will probably prove to be one of the best played and most interesting games of the Albany court this season.

Providence comes to Albany with a fairly good record, having disposed of some of the stronger eastern college teams. The Rhode Island outfit dropped an early season game to Dartmouth college five by a somewhat greater margin than the 43-23 defeat suffered by State at the hands of the Green team. This game was played on the Hanover court, however, giving Dartmouth an advantage.

The Purple and Gold will be strengthened by the return of Captain Kuczynski to the line-up. In the game last week Tony was cutting fast and playing better ball than he has played for a long time. Herney will be one of the guards and Griffin may start at the other guard post. It is doubtful, however, that Griffin will play the whole game since his knee gives him quite some trouble. Carr will play with Captain Kuczynski up ahead and Goff will probably get the call at the pivot position.

Two Albany area basketball players are listed in the lineup of the Providence college quintet for tonight. Hector Allen of Troy and Charles Murphy of Albany will be two of the forwards who will come to Albany tonight to oppose the Purple and Gold outfit. This is the first time in several seasons that two local players have been on one of State's opposing teams.

Both Murphy and Allen have basketball records in the Albany area which are expected to hold up tonight against Captain Kuczynski and Carr.

YEARLING FIVE MEETS ERSKINS 5 TOMMORROW

By Roy V. SULLIVAN

The freshman basketball quintet will get back into action tomorrow night, opposing the Erskins on the College court. The frosh were beaten last week but are confident of displaying better team work and fight tomorrow night. The Erskins in their last game dropped a five point defeat to the Pharmacy college Reserves. Coaches Klein and Herney will doubtless start Captain Lyons and Ludlum at forward, Lou at the pivot and Nichols and Ott at guards. Hinney is the reserve center. The game is scheduled to begin at 7:30.

After the completion of the regular varsity basketball schedule on Saturday, March 3, a men's inter-class basketball tournament will be run off, according to plans announced today by Roy V. Sullivan, '29, and Horace Myers, '31, who are making arrangements for the tournament. The freshman and sophomore men will meet Tuesday afternoon, March 13, and the seniors and juniors will meet Thursday afternoon, March 15. The two winners and the two losers will oppose each other the night of Friday, March 16.

"Men who have won their basketball letter will not be eligible to play in this series but other members of the varsity squad may take part," Sullivan said today.

FROSH ARE DEFEATED

The freshman court five suffered the third defeat of the season Friday night falling before the Paramounts of Albany, 16-9. The frosh were off form and didn't play as well as they are capable of playing. The frosh trailed most of the time except at the first few minutes when they had a one point margin. Ludlum played best for the frosh and Norris and La Grange featured for the Paramounts.

STATE WINS VICTORY FROM PLATTSBURGH 44-45 ON SATURDAY

Registering its third successive triumph on the home court Saturday, the Purple and Gold quintet was victorious over Plattsburgh State Normal school, with a 44-25 score.

State played its best ball in the first half and held a 28-10 advantage as the half ended. In the second half the Purple and Gold suffered a slump and outscored the visitors by but a single point. State scored sixteen points while Plattsburgh registered fifteen.

Captain Kuczynski returned to the starting line-up for the first time in four weeks while Carr and Goff led the State attack. Captain Kuczynski, who has been out of the line-up because of an injured ankle, was not quite the Tony of old, but seemed to be getting back into form.

Goff was high scorer for the home team, scoring eleven points on five fields and a foul. Carr, State forward, was right on his heels with ten points scored on four fields and two fouls.

Carr opened the game like a house afire and was the whole show for the first few minutes, sinking three fields and a foul.

Williams, Goff Star

O'Neil and Captain Williams starred for the Northerners, Williams tying Goff for high scoring honors, with eleven points scored on four fields and three fouls.

Griffin, who is nursing a knee injured last week, played a few minutes and thus kept intact his record of having appeared in every varsity basketball game since he has been in college. He is now a senior. The Plattsburgh game was Griffin's forty-seventh contest in the State College uniform.

Herney played, handicapped by a black eye, which was injured in practice last week. Despite the black eye, Herney gave a good account of himself and was fighting hard all the time he was in the game. He has played in every varsity game for two years.

INDICATE CITY HOTELS CENTERS FOR ALUMNI

A nationwide effort to bring alumni of colleges and universities into closer contact has brought the appointment or designation of hotels in all the principal cities of the country as centers of alumni activities, say officers of the Intercollegiate Alumni Extension Service, which is the operating head of this organization comprised of alumni secretaries and editors of college publications of more than one hundred educational institutions who are participants.

The most recent selection of another hotel as an intercollegiate alumni meeting place by the Intercollegiate Alumni Extension Service was that of the Allerton House, Chicago, which is now designated as an intercollegiate alumni hotel.

Full records and directories of all local alumni groups will be kept on file at the Allerton House and will be available to alumni residents of Chicago and those visiting here, it is announced. Thus far there have been 40 hotels in the United States designated as intercollegiate alumni headquarters.

POST CONTEST RULES FOR SCIENCE STUDENTS

"By adequately instructing the school boys and girls of today in science and, particularly, chemistry there will be assured to them the full enjoyment of the scientific discoveries of their generation, for it is they who must make possible the scientific advances of tomorrow," says the committee in charge of the contest. Therefore for the purpose of encouraging those now training to be teachers to acquire a greater familiarity with the science of chemistry, the American Chemical Society is presenting the second prize essay contest for Normal School and Teachers College Students.

SENATE SURRENDERS CHARTER FOLLOWING VOTE AT UNIVERSITY

MADISON, Wis., Feb. 2.—Voluntarily surrendering its charter to the faculty, the student senate at the University of Wisconsin, has ceased existence. The senate declared that there is no reason for "maintaining an unimportant and unnecessary institution."

Since 1916 the men's student senate has been the highest council in student affairs. Recently, the members voted to disband, after deciding that their actual powers were few and of little import. Self-government will be administered by five administrative boards.
