Repairs In Richardson Hall Create Three New Offices

No longer will the professors of education be disturbed in their pursuits of wisdom by the noise excited by the students studying in room 1 of Richardson hall. For the last few weeks, the curtains have been discreetly drawn over the doors leading into the room, hiding the operations of the chief engineer and his staff. Now the curtain has been lifted, revealing an entirely different room.

Three offices have been constructed at the right side of the room. These offices will be occupied by Dr. Arthur K. Beik, professor of education, and Dr. Earl D. South, assistant professor of education. The rest of the room is devoted to a room for study for graduate students, and students of education.

The alumni office has also been moved from room one. Mrs. Bertha E. Brimmer, executive secretary of the association, now holds sway in room 5 of Richardson hall.

STATE WILL MEET HARTWICK AT 8:15

Team to Play Return Contest
Tonight on Page Court,
Harris Announces

State will attempt to win its second victory over the Hartwick college quintet tomorrow night on the Page ball court, when the two teams meet in a return engagement. The game will begin at 8:15 o'clock, Ralph Harris, '33, manager of the team, announced.

Behind the sterling offensive work of Roger Bancroft, Clifford Rall and Bill Allard, the varsity chalked up its first victory of the season over Hartwick at Oneonta on Saturday night, by a score of 30-25. Rall accounted for eleven points to lead the scorers, and played a brilliant defensive game, holding his opponent to one field basket. Allard and Bancroft accounted for seven and six points respectively.

The victory was more evident than the score indicated. Inability of the State team to hit the basket kept the score down twenty points, Coach Baker stated. He estimated that seventy shots were muffed during the game by the varsity.

State played a hard, fast game. Three Hartwick men were sent out on personal fouls incurred in checking the State attack. Fifteen personal fouls were checked up against Hartwick, while State was guilty of ten personal fouls. Hartwick converted seven free shots, while State could sink only five free throws.

Hatt and Shaw, playing forward and center respectively, led the Hartwick quintet, each accounting for seven points.

Eight men saw service for State. The starting line-up consisted of Gil De Laura (c.), Ray Harris, Roger Bancroft, Grover Hotelling, and Cliff Rall. Ossy Brooks, Bud Kissam, and Bill Allard substituted later in the game.

"Poem Is Shortest Emotional Distance Between Two Points," Untermeyer Says

"A poem is the shortest emotional distance between two points," declared Louis Untermeyer, poet-critic, in his lecture Tuesday night under the auspices of the College alumni association. "Poetry has come close to the common man; we are losing the comic-weekly at titude toward poetry, that it should be funny like one's mother-in-law," he continued.

"We are now on the threshold of a new golden age of literature. Great poems have been written and no one can understand a word of them. The poetry of today all may understand. It is the object of the poet to make the familiar strange and the strange familiar."

Untermeyer discussed the origin and development of attitudes toward poetry, tracing the descent of the belief that poetry was effeminate and for the female sex. "If culture were feminine, then all the great artists of the world should have been women," he said. "However, women are my second favorite sex."

Untermeyer visited the College cooperative book store Tuesday afternoon and autographed copies of his books for members of the student body. He will also autograph any copies of his books which are ordered from the Co-op before Monday, December 13. Miss Helen Fay, manager, announced. The price of "Food and Drink," his most recent publication, will be $2.15 for students until this date, she added.

"An Inhabiting Thought," is the title of the message which Untermeyer left in the guest book of the Co-op. He wrote "Writing one's name in (so the ink well assures me) Higgin's Eternal Ink is enough to intimidate the most hardened autographer. It is as if one were about to write the Ten Commandments or the Beautitudes or Paradise Lost or the poems of Eddie Guest—or something equally eternal. . . it just can't be done, at least by Louis Untermeyer."

Proposed Curricular Change In College Is Subject Of Article By Dr. Nelson

"The problem of developing the kind of teacher necessary to meet the needs and interests of individual children in an increasingly complex society is the major interest of the teachers' colleges and normal schools of this state," declares Dr. Milton G. Nelson, professor of education, and president of the associated faculties of normal schools and teachers' colleges, in an article entitled "The Teacher in the Making" appearing in the December issue of the journal "New York State Education."

Dr. Nelson continues: "A curriculum committee has been appointed in each of the state institutions to prepare a state monograph to be used as a basis for reconstructing the curriculum for training elementary teachers. At present there is the beginning of a dynamic philosophy to guide teacher training. Basically, there must be a philosophy underlying education which needs to permeate all of the institutions which train teachers."

The tentative monograph is summarized as stressing the necessity of preparation of teachers for effective service in a society which faces the dilemma of attempting to realize a democratic theory of living in an increasingly socialized and interdependent social order. The prospective teacher is entitled to the highest possible development of those aptitudes and personal traits which belong to him as an individual, and educated in terms of those appreciations, attitudes, knowledges and skills which enable him to help in the individual and social development of pupils on the levels for which he is preparing to teach. Education in intelligent participation in group thinking and group activities should also be emphasized.

Dr. Nelson's article is a comprehensive summary of the problem of curriculum change which is now receiving the attention of the associated faculties of normal school and teachers' colleges.

WHY CONTINUE DELAY?

The apparent inaction in the progress of the completion of the new library is a matter of some importance and concern to the student body in that every minute in which the library is not open is a minute of waste to the students, and eventually days of study and research opportunities which in the future will mean actual failure and waste of an education of a collegiate experience. It is not the individual apparent inefficiency upon the part of any one individual or group of individuals that is such a vast matter of work of the students.

An inquiry into the causes of the present delay shows that an evident indifference on the part of the contractor to complete the work in good time, and the action of the administration in regard to the matter, is the demonstration of a failure in the past, and the cause of the delay. The contractor has presented a list of possible causes for its present delay, and it is not the intention of the work, since the terms of the contract and the execution of all building operations is in the hands of the contractor, and the delay is a matter of the contractor's own making.

Since it is the duty and privilege of the student body to demand a certain amount of work and that it should be done in a certain amount of time, it is the duty of the student body to demand that the contractor should complete the work in good time, and that it should be done in a certain amount of time.

TUMULTY REVEALS PLAN OF WILSON TO ASSIST NATION

New York (AP) President Wilson, during his last campaign, planned a defeated to resign and put his Republican opponent into office immediately after election to facilitate the nation's efforts in the World War crisis, according to a revelation made here last week by Joseph Tumulty, secretary to the war-time president.

The plan, Tumulty revealed to the United Press, was to prevent the customary delay between the date of election and the date of inauguration of the President on March 4 which, in time of crisis, might delay and handicap the government.

Tumulty said Mr. Wilson planned to appoint his opponent, Charles Evans Hughes, new chief justice of the United States Supreme Court, to the post of secretary of state in the event the Republicans won. Then the president and vice-president would have resigned, automatically placing the Perry-Howe, sophomore representative of state in the White House.

Scotchman Saves $290 Fine

For Book Due 38 Years Ago
Cambridge, Mass.—(IP)—An elderly Scotchman who borrowed a book from the Cambridge Public Library in 1894—38 years ago—took advantage of fineless week at the library to return the book.

John McIntosh of Wilmington saved himself a total fine of $290 by returning the book on that week. The book, "The Story of Scotland," cast the library 65 cents in 1890.

McIntosh returned the book by mail, and signed his name only as "an old gentleman in Wilmington." The library records revealed his real name.

"Extra-curricular Program More Important For Junior High School Class Than Regular Program," Dr. Frederick States

"For the modern class in the junior high school, the extra-curricular program is more important than the regular curriculum," declared Dr. Robert S. Frederick, assistant professor of education, and vice-principal of the Milne Junior High school, in an interview with a News reporter this week.

Dr. Frederick listed three new points of view in regard to this idea: 1, education today exists for the sole purpose of bettering the world; 2, the world needs to be made better, as is evidenced in the present depression; and, 3, the school has heretofore made its contribution in the form of mind training, but now, the emphasis is placed upon the development of proper "mental attitudes," he stated.

Prominent among these "mental attitudes," is the idea of cooperation. The backfield of a football team and the actors in a play must learn to work together. Capital and labor would do well to cooperate and thus preclude cutthroat competition," he added.

"On the other hand," he asserted, in the ordinary class room, we find the teacher asking his pupils "Did you do your own work?" "Did anyone help you?" If a pupil is disobedient, he may be expelled. These methods actively work against the development of the attitude of cooperation in the student.

Every student in Milne Junior High school is interested in some form of extra-curricular activity, without compulsion. State college students sponsor various activities, such as stamps and art clubs; a weekly newspaper is issued by the students; and a student council functions as a part of student government of the school, he concluded.

"EVERYWHERE I go, I have to listen to the same thing. 'Try Chesterfields. Honestly, they are milder, and you simply must try them!'"

"Me . . . try Chesterfields! Why, I haven't smoked anything else. That's how important mildness and better taste are to me!"

"No wonder Chesterfield smokers are so enthusiastic."

Dr. Fritz Rager Discusses Unemployment Insurance In Europe In Friday Assembly

"The American system of charity is more essentially a dole system than the one of employment insurance used by the European countries," said Dr. Fritz Rager, of the Institute of International Education in his talk in assembly last Friday.

The difference between employment insurance and charity, according to Dr. Rager, is that charity may or may not be extended, while insurance is provided by law. The United States may profit by Europe's mistakes if it does, and Dr. Rager seems to think it will adopt a system of employment insurance. The European idea is that both the employer and the employee must contribute to the insurance fund. Those who have not contributed do not receive compensation.

"The amount given to the unemployed is not large enough to induce anyone to become unemployed or remain so," Dr. Rager further said. "Only the bare necessities can thus be obtained." In conclusion Dr. Rager stated that he was convinced that America's period of unemployment will not be as long for each man as that of the European countries.
