As Pay Action Nears

CSEA Set To Push Other Legislation

ALBANY, Feb. 10—Joseph F. Felly, president of the 117,000-member Civil Service Employees Assn., was scheduled to appear on Capitol Hill this week to argue the case for increasing the salaries and retirement benefits of State workers under a program worked out between CSEA representatives and the Rockefeller Administration.

Felly's main theme will be that even approval of this program will not place public employees at the stated goal of parity with their counterparts in private industry.

In the meantime, further details of the salary portion of the Governor's proposal were released. This part provides for pay increases of three to eight per cent of basic salary. (See chart at left.) Added to this is the absorption of three more points of an employee's contribution to the Retirement System, making a total of eight points taken up by the State. The combined program results in net take-home pay increases ranging from 7 to 12 per cent.

The CSEA hopes for early and

The discussion will be led by Solomon Bendet, a member of the Executive Committee of the Examiner's Assn. and chairman of the Civil Service Employees Association. The legislation was introduced at the request of Governor Nelson Rockefeller and is supported by both associations.

Desalination Makes Impact On Diplomacy And '64 Campaign

PRESIDENT Lyndon B Johnson last week brought fresh water—and more specifically desalination of sea water—into an active role in international diplomacy and Federal and State politics in this 1964 Presidential campaign year.

"Water," he said, "should never be a cause of war—it should be a force for peace."

The setting for his talk was an address before the Weizmann Institute here, which has been long engaged in research aimed at converting salt water into fresh water.

Perhaps just as important background for the President's interest in saline water conversion is the little remembered fact that as a Senator during 1960, at the time of a previous Cuban crisis, he sponsored legislation to give the Office of Saline Water,

PROPOSED PAY SCALE —

The above chart shows basic salary increases in the State's classified service as proposed by Governor Rockefeller. It is important to note, however, that the chart does NOT reflect the additional take-home-pay that will be added to net salaries as a result of the Governor's proposed retirement benefit, which adds three percent more to the above gross salaries, plus about one percent more as the result of tax savings. The total program, involving salary, retirement and tax savings, averages from 7 to 12 percent.

Rochester Court Won't Act On CSEA Dues Plea

(From Leader Correspondent)

ROCHESTER, Feb. 10—A State Supreme Court Justice found it within the discretionary authority of Rochester's city comptroller to refuse to deduct dues for city workers who belong to the Civil Service Employees Association.

Justice Clarence J. Henry held that unless it could be established that the comptroller acted unfairly, the court could not step in.

Action Called Arbitrary

CSEA attorneys had contended Comptroller Joseph Silverstein acted arbitrarily in not granting dues deductions, citing city deductions for members of the Firefighters Union and American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, both AFL-CIO affiliates.

Regarding deductions for these unions, Justice Henry observed they were made "pursuant to contractual obligations assumed by the city manager . . . which he as a subordinate officer, was required to accept and follow."

CSEA To Go On

Last November, a similar suit pressed by Joseph F. Felly, CSEA president, and city employees was dismissed on a technicality.

A CSEA spokesman said the organization would continue to represent employees and would go on in its efforts for official recognition.

Griffeth Reappointed

ALBANY, Feb. 10—Welles Griffeth of Penn Yan has been reappointed to the Finger Lakes State Park Commission for a term ending in 1971.

U.S. Department of the Interior, a multi-million dollar appropriation to build five demonstration plants in the United States. This program, guided by the Office of Saline Water, for the past 15 years, is virtually completed and indicates the practicability of converting sea and brackish water into fresh water.

Meanwhile, at Guantanamo Bay, ships with small desalination equipment are making precious thousands of gallons of water available to Navy and Marine personnel at the base where water supplies were ordered cut off by the Castro government last week.

International Cooperation

In last week's speech, the President emphasized that the United States will make available its scientific know-how developed under the Office of Saline Water program to any nation in the world.

"We are equally ready," he said "to co-operate with other countries anxious to cure water shortage." This would be part of a general program for pooling experience and knowledge in this important field . . . and we can better pursue our common quest for water."

Realizing the importance of the project, Johnson said further "I promise no early and easy results. But the opportunities are so vast, the stakes are so high, it is worth all our efforts and all our energy."

The President has even suggested a source of funds for starting desalination projects in foreign countries. Nearly four years ago, while in the Senate, he wrote a newspaper article which declared "We have in many countries useable reserves of local currencies from sales of our surplus agricultural products. Wherever practicable, we could use these funds to build pilot plants. We will gather rich returns in good will from these people who thirst for good water. We must expand, too, our efforts in the United Nations in the field of saline water conversion."

Local Action Seen

Thus, the President repeated his keen awareness that the politics involved in the search for new fresh water supplies go side by side with the humanitarian aspects of the issue. The humanitarian side has been further enunciated with his planned "War on Poverty," led by Peace Corps Director Sargent Shriver.

Aside from Presidential concern, new sources of fresh water are becoming more and more vital to industry in America. For this reason, desalination also has captured the interest and support of Commerce Secretary Luther H. Hodges and, more particularly, his Undersecretary, Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr. More water supply would mean more new industries, more jobs and less unemployment.

While action in this field has been largely on the national and international level to date, look for State legislatures and private industry to push the issue in the months ahead. Water is a local problem as well as a world-wide one.

It should be remembered that Johnson is carrying on a policy that has been of concern to Presidents from the days of Teddy Roosevelt to the late John F. Kennedy. While at first water was thought of in terms of conservation, today it is revolving into a basic industry. The production of fresh water is as vital to our defense as are missiles. The recent Cuban action proves this.

Drives 290 Miles To School

Grandfather Uses Vacation To Continue His Education Under City Employee Plan

By JOE DEASY, JR.

A Margaretville grandfather of five spent his 1963 vacation and overtime leave traveling 290 miles each week to New York City to go back to school under the Municipal Personnel Training Program.

An employee of the New York City Department of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity, Vladimir Popoff enrolled in post-graduate course in engineering at New York University in order to keep up with constantly changing procedures that help improve and assure a constant supply of pure water to New York City.

A civil engineer since his graduation from Pratt Institute in 1930, Popoff feels that "one cannot ever know enough". He has spent his entire working life serving the public—first as an engineer for the Brooklyn Edison Company and for the past 22 years in public employment, both Federal and City.

An American by Choice

A Russian by birth and an American by choice, he entered public service in 1942 as a civil engineer for the Signal Corps at the Pentagon. Following the war, he was assigned by the federal authorities, as supervising engineer at the Government Aluminum Plant at Massina, N.Y. He entered City service in 1950.

"I realized the necessity of continuing one's education and studied at home," Popoff said. "When the City offered the Municipal Personnel Training Program, I used my vacation and overtime credits to take three necessary courses for promotion and my professional engineer's license. So, I took my vacation in three-day units and travelled to New York City for the courses sponsored by N.Y.U. and the Department of Personnel. I am continuing my studies at home until the examination in June."

"I'll be back in New York City next semester to continue my studies . . . You never become too old to learn."

Popoff continually uses his post-graduate training in his duties as section engineer in charge of mechanical and electrical operation and maintenance at the Pepacton, Neversink and Rondout Reservoirs in the Delaware region of New York State.

With domestic and industrial users of New York City reducing reservoir supplies by 1,220,000,000 gallons a day, both the City and other communities which purchase water from the City's watershed system, are in danger of running short of water. Restrictions on water use have already been placed in effect by Armand D'Angelo, Commissioner of the department.

Popoff and his crew must continually be on guard for potential leaks in the water supply system. These must be prevented and his training is being continually put to use to attain this end.

Commissioner D'Angelo, in commenting on Popoff's educational accomplishments pointed out that "This is another one of the remarkable contributions made by employees of our department. Many of our loyal employees continue their education, on their own time in order that the equality of service to the taxpayers may continually improve and the employees gain financial advantage through the promotional opportunities offered in the civil service system."

The department, in addition to participating in the Municipal Personnel Training Program, also sponsors promotion and in-service training courses for employees. These courses are given free of charge, partially on City time and partially on the employees time.

Statewide Minimums Sought For Police

ALBANY, Feb. 10—Governor Rockefeller has called on the Legislature to establish new statewide minimum standards for all policemen.

Each locality would, however, be free to adopt higher standards.

The administration bill, now in the hopper, has the support of the Police Chiefs Association and of the Municipal Police Training Council.

The bill covers counties, cities, towns, villages and police districts, and would require all newly appointed policemen:

- to be between 21 and 29 years of age, but as much as six years of active military duty could be deducted in computing the maximum age;
 - to be high school graduates or holders of New York State high school equivalency diplomas; (Persons holding GED equivalency diplomas issued by the Armed Forces can obtain New York diplomas if their scores are high enough to meet New York standards.)
 - to meet height, weight and physical fitness requirements prescribed by the Municipal Police Training Council; and
 - to be of good moral character.
- Introduced the first week in February, the measure is expected to be acted on within the next three weeks.

Members of the New York City Police Department are excluded, under terms of the bill, since their minimum qualifications now are higher.

Many Upstate New York communities will have to tighten their hiring standards, if the measure is passed.

Ogdensburg, for example, has a 20-man police force. It requires age 21-38 and a high school diploma or equivalent. The city has a minimum height requirement of 5 feet 7 inches, but no minimum weight requirement.

Watertown now meets the age and education requirements posed under the bill, so does Oswego. Plattsburgh's age requirement, however, is 21-35.

Of 204 police departments in the state, which have sent their hiring standards to the Association of Chiefs of Police, 28 have no educational requirement at present and nine require grammar school only.

Regarding age, 18 departments have a maximum age of 29; 74 departments permit hiring up to 35; 14 departments up to 40; 13 departments up to 45 and 33 departments have no maximum.

Sixty-four departments in the state have no weight requirement at the present time.

Legislation similar to the Governor's bill was introduced earlier in the session by Senator George E. Paine, Willaboro Republican, and Assemblyman Stanley Van Rensselaer, Saratoga Springs Republican.

Institution Teacher Work Year Study Is Continuing

ALBANY Feb. 10—The Civil Service Employees Association has been assured that continued study will be given to the long-standing work-year problem of institution teachers in the State service.

This assurance came from Alexander Aldrich, executive assistant to Governor Rockefeller. It was in reply to a request from Joseph F. Felly, president of CSEA, urging that teachers in correction and social welfare institutions be granted a school year that is more in line with the work year for teachers in the public school system.

At present, teachers in these institutions work on a year round basis rather than according to an academic calendar.

Aldrich said the Division of the Budget, in cooperation with department heads, has given "extensive study" to the problem of a uniform work year.

He said, "discussion is continuing and it is the Governor's hope that in the near future suggestions will be ready leading toward an eventual solution."

Hartigan Feted For 50 Years In State

ALBANY, Feb. 10—Attorney General Louis J. Lefkowitz has presented a scroll to John A. Hartigan, senior finance officer for the State Law Department in recognition of his 50 years of State service.

Ceremonies were held at the Capitol and were attended by many department officials and employees.

Hartigan began his State service in 1913 as a page in the State Library at a salary of $360 a year. He joined the Department of Law in 1929 and has served under five attorney generals.

Freeport Unit Reports Sharp Increase In Member Enrollment

At a membership meeting of the Freeport unit, Nassau chapter, Civil Service Employees Association, which was held Monday, February 3, the unit president reported a sharp increase in membership.

President Richard Grempele pointed out that since the reorganization of the unit last July, enrollment had increased from 87 members to 237 members. The membership committee agreed that a goal of 100 percent enrollment could be achieved by next December.

The sharp increase was attributed to the strong program of the organization as well as the desire on the part of the members to have a representative group. The cooperation received by the unit directors from Village officials on the 1964 program was cited as a great help.

Nassau Chapter To Meet Feb. 19

The monthly meeting of the Nassau County chapter Civil Service Employees Assn. will be held on Wednesday, February 19, at 8 p.m. at Carl Hoppl's Westbury Manor on the Jericho Tpke. in Westbury. After the business meeting a special film "Broken Glass" will be shown. Members and their friends are invited to attend the meeting.

Bill Would Aid Institutional Teachers, Clerks

ALBANY, Feb. 10—State Senator D. Clinton Dominick, 3rd, a Newburgh Republican, has introduced two measures to liberalize working conditions for institutional employees.

One measure would require that teachers in social welfare institutions shall work the same calendar year as public school teachers, without a loss in take-home pay.

CSEA Sponsorship

A second bill provides that the basic work week for institutional office employees shall not be greater than 37½ hours a week.

Both measures sponsored by the Civil Service Employees Assn., now are before the Senate Civil Service Committee for consideration.

Salary Program

step in grade and have served the city 25 years. The increments represent the 26th through 29th years of service.

How It Works

Such service, under the new law, must have been full time, but need not have been continuous—without a break.

Also, no employee shall receive more than $200 in additional salary in any one year, except one who in his retirement year may have earned the additional steps but not received them. He can in such case be paid the maximum full $500 increment in that year. The new law this year will affect 14 city employees.

No one opposed the measure at a public hearing held before the Mayor Ralph Shapiro signed it into law.

A&M Moves Labs To Campus Site

ALBANY, Feb. 10—The State Department of Agriculture and Markets has moved three laboratories from downtown Albany to the State Campus.

More Housing Advised For Green Haven Prison

ALBANY, Feb. 10—The State Correction Commission says more housing should be constructed at Green Haven Prison.

In an inspection report on the prison, the commission reports that "a small number of officers are occupying rooms in the administration building," adding:

"No definite action has been taken in regard to the construction of housing on the reservation and it would be quite some time before sufficient officer reinforcements could be made available in case of an emergency."

Turnover Levels Off

The report also noted that the large turnover of custodial personnel apparently had leveled off due to "diligent efforts" to recruit locally.

"As more local men are appointed from the list" (Civil Service), the commission stated, "the force will stabilize."

At the time the inspection was made in the fall, the commission found 311 correction officers were employed on a permanent basis, with eight temporary and ten were on a provisional basis.

There were no vacancies on the staff of supervisory personnel, the report added.

Federal Women's Award

Six Who Made It Through The Ranks

Six outstanding examples of achievement are those women who came up through the civil service ranks and into the spotlight, last week, when they were named as recipients of the Federal Women's Award. The annual award is made to those women in GS-9 and above who have made outstanding contributions to the quality and efficiency of the career service of the Federal Government.

The chairman of the Board of Trustees of the Federal Women's Award, Katie Louchheim, in announcing which six Government career women would receive these awards, pointed out that the winners were selected by an independent panel of judges.

This year's winners, who will receive the awards at a banquet in their honor on March 3 at the Statler Hilton Hotel in Washington, D.C., are:

- Dr. Evelyn Anderson, research scientist, Life Sciences, Ames Research Center, Moffett Field, Calif.; National Aeronautics and Space Administration; for her distinguished achievements in endocrine research and her outstanding contributions to many areas of endocrinology.

- Dr. Gertrude Blanch, senior scientist (numerical analysis), Applied Mathematics Research Laboratory, Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, Ohio; Department of the Air Force; for her pioneering work and leadership in the field of numerical analysis, which has had great impact on the applied mathematics research of the Air Force.

- Selene Gifford, assistant commissioner, Bureau of Indian Affairs, Department of the Interior; for her exceptional executive ability and leadership, vision, and understanding, in administering programs for the improvement of the total welfare of the American Indians.

- Elizabeth F. Messer, assistant to the Deputy Director, Bureau of Retirement and Insurance, U.S. Civil Service Commission; for her outstanding skill, imagination, and achievements in the field of Federal employee development and training.

- Dr. Margaret Wolman Schwartz, Director, Office of Foreign Assets Control, Department of the Treasury; for her successful administration of a highly complex agency operating in the specialized field of economic welfare.

- Patricia G. van Delden, Deputy Public Affairs Officer, Attache of Embassy, Bonn, Germany, United States Information Agency; for her consistent record of distinguished achievement in spreading understanding of the United States in other countries; the highest ranking woman in the USIA.

The overall effect of this award's program was pointed out by Mrs. Louchheim when she said, "... career prospects in Government for able and ambitious young women are certainly the brightest they have ever been."

Begin Study Now For Bus Driver Test

92. The New York City Transit Authority permits the posting of advertisements in buses primarily because:

(A) passengers like to read the "ads." (B) advertisers pay for this privilege. (C) it promotes safety. (D) it improves the interior appearance of the buses. (Is there anything wrong with the "profit motive?")

93. Safety rules are most useful because they:

(A) are a guide to avoid common dangers. (B) prevent carelessness. (C) fix responsibility for accidents. (D) make it unnecessary to think. (Experience is the best educator.)

94. During rush hours, passengers are requested to have the correct fare ready when boarding a bus mainly because this:

(A) assures collection of all fares. (B) permits a fuller bus load. (C) results in less change being carried by the operator. (D) helps to maintain the schedule. (Faster and smoother operation for all.)

95. Traffic regulations forbid "dangerous" or "reckless" driving. In the absence of special signs, an example of such "dangerous" or "reckless" driving is:

(A) parking a car within 15 feet of a fire hydrant. (B) driving on a hospital street at 25 miles per hour. (C) passing a public school at noon-time on a weekday at 10 miles per hour. (D) frequently changing lanes in heavy traffic moving at 45 miles per hour on a parkway. (Frequently changing lanes is dangerous any time.)

96. If a passenger called a bus operator improper names but took no other action, the bus operator would show good judgment by:

(A) telling the passenger to keep his mouth shut. (B) acting as if the passenger were not there. (C) calling the passenger names in return. (D) driving to the nearest policeman and preferring charges. (The less fuss is made the sooner the matter will be forgotten.)

97. It is a rule that, when street obstructions leave scant clearance for buses to pass, operators must stop before passing the obstruction and never proceed until certain clearance is sufficient and that it is safe to do so. This means that:

(A) it is never safe to pass street obstructions. (B) every bus must stop before passing an open manhole with a fence around it. (C) the operator must stop if he must use the single narrow traffic lane between a parked truck and an open manhole. (D) the operator may always pass an obstruction as long as he stops first. (Obviously it is necessary to use caution.)

98. After a passenger has rendered the bus operator a dollar bill, has paid his fare and received change, he goes some distance toward the back of the bus and then returns to the front, stating that he was short changed a quarter. The best action for a bus operator to take is to:

(A) give him the quarter if he is sufficiently argumentative. (B) tell him to send a letter of complaint to the Mayor's complaint box. (C) inform him that change must be counted when received. (D) tell him that he must have dropped it in the bus. (If there had been an error the time to check it was at the time it was made.)

97. It is a rule that bus operators must not approach within 100 feet of a line of children during a school fire drill, nor interfere with, hinder, obstruct, or impede in any way whatsoever any such fire drill. A bus operator, observing a school fire drill in progress in the next street ahead, could best comply with this rule by:

(A) making a right turn at the corner and going around the school. (B) pulling up slowly to the person in charge of the drill. (C) stopping at the corner until the fire drill is over. (D) proceed-

"That finishes my trading-stamp book. Now let's see what I need."

Practical? Not in this case. But buying in bulk usually does save. For example, when you buy electricity, the more you use, the less it costs per kilowatt-hour.

Just compare your recent electric bills with those of 15 years ago. If you're like most families, you're now using twice as much electricity. But notice, too, that for twice the amount, today's bills are not twice as high. A pleasant surprise!

By using the most modern, most efficient methods, Con Edison continues to keep electricity one of the biggest bargains in your household budget.

100. A rule of the transit authority is that buses must never be moved except by operators certified as qualified and by authorized student operators while supervised by qualified operator. This rule permits a bus to be moved at any time by any person:

(A) who is an approved operator (B) certified as a student operator. (C) with a chauffeur's license. (D) who knows how to operate a bus. (As it says anyone who is approved.)

Taxpayers Who Think

A group of interested taxpayers gave New York City enough ideas on economizing or improving services last year to the degree that a quarter of a million dollars was saved. Another group of taxpayers saved the same amount for the State in 1963. And the Federal Government piled up savings to the tune of a whopping $100,000,000 because of similar thinking.

In every case, the taxpayers who came up with these money-saving ideas were all civil servants. Because of their ingenious thinking, millions of dollars have been and will continue to be saved.

This is a real contribution to economy in government.

Why Attendants Need A Promotion Series

MENTAL Hygiene Department attendants are as vital to the care of the mentally ill as doctors, nurses, drugs, therapy and physical plants provided by the State in its attempt to cure and its need to care for the unfortunates.

The better the service, the more promising the chance for cure. But we are becoming more and more concerned that the fine service rendered by attendants may eventually deteriorate because of the inability of the State to recruit sufficient personnel for this particular job in the future.

While providing hospital attendants with a salary program, pension plan, health insurance coverage and other fringe benefits, there is an element of employment missing that, unless supplied in the near future, may seriously damage not only recruitment but the retention of current personnel.

We speak of promotions. A dead end is quickly reached in this title and a job with so little future eventually draws men of little ambition.

A promotion series for Mental Hygiene attendants must pass beyond the eternal conversation stage it has lived in for so long.

Any job must hold promise in the future. Or there will be no future jobholders in the title.

For over two years, a special Mental Hygiene Committee of the Civil Service Employees Assn. has worked hard to document the justice and logic of the attendants' case. Let the State now take some positive action in this matter.

Questions Answered On Social Security

Below are questions on Social Security problems sent in by our readers and answered by a legal expert in the field. Anyone with a question on Social Security should write it out and send it to the Social Security Editor, Civil Service Leader, 97 Duane St., New York 7, N.Y.

"I was injured in an automobile accident last month and the doctor told me I would not be able to return to work for at least six months. Can I qualify for disability payments?"

Probably not. The disability insurance provisions of social security state that the disability must be one of a long, continued duration. That is, that you would not be expected to recover and return to work in the foreseeable future.

"A cleaning lady works in my home once a week. She gets at least $5 a week, sometimes more when she does extra work. She told me I could report her for social security or I could just forget it, she really didn't care. What should I do?"

You must report her cash wages for social security purposes. Under the law, if you employ someone to do household work in your home, the work is covered if within a calendar quarter you pay that person $50 or more in cash. Carefare (if paid in cash) counts in determining if $50 was paid.

Provisionals

Editor:

Since when has the Civil Service System of the largest City in the world become so deteriorated that Queens College can ignore the merit system, veteran's preference, as well as the seniority rules for permanent employees and dictate policy and play politics.

As a permanent employee of the college, I seriously resent the right of a provisional employee to have the preference of vacation pick and the first choice of working shift.

Is Queens College excluded from "Rules and Regulations" that were set up by the City of New York in fairness to those who pass an open competitive Civil Service Examination.

Your Public Relations IQ

By LEO J. MARGOLIN

Mr. Margolin is Adjunct Professor of Public Relations in the New York University of Public Administration.

The views expressed in this column are those of the writer and do not necessarily constitute the views of this newspaper.

PR Showcase

CONVENTIONS ARE prime public relations showcases, as well as timely, accurate measures of an organization's progress.

AS A PUBLIC relations sounding board communicating to various publics, conventions, such as the recent annual meeting of the New York State Bar Association, render an important public service.

THE NEW YORK State Bar group enjoys good public relations because its leaders, as well as its rank-and-file members, are dedicated people. They give liberally and unselfishly of their professional time and talent to improve the law and its procedures in the public interest.

COMPLETING THE public relations process for the association, is one of the finest information programs we've ever seen in action. It's good enough to suggest adoption by government agencies.

TWO INTERESTING facets of the program, which impressed us:

1. EVERY FACILITY and service for obtaining information was given to the press during the convention, resulting in excellent newspaper coverage;

2. THE PRINTED materials produced by the association's committee on Public Information—"Buying on Time?"; "Do You Have a Tax Problem?"; "Your Lawyer"; "Do You Need a Will?"; "What To Do In Case of An Automobile Accident"; "Buying and Selling Real Estate"; and "Your Rights If Arrested," are prepared in cooperation with the office of Attorney General Louis J. Lefkowitz.

SOME OF THE important public relations highlights of the bar convention, in which many government officials took a significant part:

• A SUPERB, statesman-like presentation by Commissioner Daniel T. Scannell, one of the three members of the New York City Transit Authority, on government's labor relations—municipal obligations in union agreements and collective bargaining.

• STATE COMPTROLLER Arthur Levitt's presentation to the Municipal Law Section, urging that all local officials be required to disclose any interest in an actual or prospective contract or transaction with their local government.

• THE PROFILE OF an Anti-trust Enforcement Program" by William H. Orrick, Jr., Assistant Attorney General and boss of the Anti-trust Division of the U.S. Dept. of Justice.

• CHAIRMAN PAUL Rand Dixon's report on the Federal Trade Commission.

• THE EXCELLENT report on civil rights by Orin G. Judd, of New York.

• THE INFORMATIVE panel discussion on the validity of Mexican divorces, which found four leading members of the bar—Jason R. Berke, Prof. Morris Ploscow, David F. Cohen and Thomas T. Adams, all of New York—agreeing that one type of Mexican divorce, "properly obtained," was valid and recognized in New York. Prof. Ploscow strongly urged the Legislature to get cracking and reform New York's archaic divorce law—a source of bad public relations for the State of N.Y.

WE'D LIKE TO PUT the icing on the bar association's cake: We are pleased to award our public relations blue ribbon to the New York State Bar Association for their total information program, but particularly for their "Public Relations for Local Bar Associations." The publication is easily one of the best of its kind!

THIS? — OR THIS?

In health insurance the true cost to you is the premium payment PLUS what you have to pay out of pocket for additional doctors' charges.

This means you should look for hidden extra charges before you select any medical insurance program. Unfortunately for you, in some medical programs these extra charges will not long remain hidden after you have selected one of them.

H.I.P. is the only health plan in the New York area that fully protects you against extra charges of this kind — even for specialist services. With one exception—a possible $2.00 charge for a home call between 10 P.M. and 7 A.M.—there is no cost to you beyond the premium for any service rendered by H.I.P. physicians.

In H. I. P. you need have no worry that a plan's cash allowance will fall short of the doctor's actual fee. You need not worry over "deductibles" or "co-insurance." In other words, in H. I. P. you do not have to "share" additional costs after having already paid a substantial premium.

He's Against Weekend Exams

BUFFALO, Feb. 3—Schedule Civil Service exams on weekdays instead of Saturdays and you'll discourage "professional" exam takers, Donald Hunt, secretary of the Suffolk County Civil Service Commission said here this week. Hunt spoke at a Civil Service panel during the annual meeting of the New York State County Officers Association in the Statler Hilton.

Tapper Attends

Vernon A. Tapper, second vice president of the Civil Service Employees Assn. and chairman of its County Executive Committee, represented the CSEA at the affair.

Weekdays exams, Hunt said, also would attract housewives into the civil service labor market. Most of them are kept home on Saturday, he said.

Hunt also said urged more "eye catching" exam notices, including use of color, cartoons and bigger type in texts.

Ticen New President

Averill Ticen was recently elected president of the Attica State Prison chapter of the Civil Service Employees Association at a chapter meeting. Installing Ticen and the other new officers was James Powers, field supervisor for the CSEA. Other officers were: Robert LaLonde, vice president; William Ganey, secretary; Kenyon Ticen, financial secretary, and William Ganey acting secretary.

Syracuse Mayor's Concern Speeds Safety Success

SYRACUSE, Feb. 10—Mayor William F. Walsh, of Syracuse, concerned with a loss of almost $1 million in employee and equipment accidents, established a committee early in 1963 to study employee safety programs and recommend remedial steps.

The Municipal Employees Safety Committee worked under the direction of William G. Wright, recently appointed deputy commissioner of Purchases, and was composed of 15 supervisors and three employees from each of 15 different city departments.

The committee points to a decrease in the rate of frequency of injuries from 36.7 in 1961, to 26.7 in 1962 and 18.8 in the first eight months in 1963. Additional information concerning success of the committee was the decrease by 30 percent of city vehicle accidents.

Steps accounting for this decrease included: the release of a 15-page brochure outlining the safety program; the attendance by the committee of various safety conferences given by the Central New York Safety Conference, the American Society of Safety Engineers and the Federal Government's Bureau of Labor. The committee then related its findings to city employees.

CSEA To Push Other Legislation

favorable action on the salary and retirement measures so that efforts can be increased in behalf of other important legislation being sought by the Employees Association.

Two major pieces of legislation, involve providing permanent status for non-competitive employees after five years' continuous service and the withholding of State aid for salaries of county welfare department employees when these local salaries are not equal to those paid by the State.

The CSEA also is putting extra effort in an attempt to make vesting rights available at age 55 instead of the present age 60.

Veto Reasons

Removal of the Condon-Wadlin anti-strike law is another measure on the CSEA program and the organization still wants a law requiring the Budget Director to give reason in writing when title or reclassification appeals are vetoed.

Barge Canal employees still do not have a basic 40-hour work week, as do most other State workers, and the CSEA intends to correct this through legislation.

Reports on the progress of these and several other important CSEA-sponsored bills will appear in future issues of The Leader.

Two Named By State

ALBANY, Feb. 10—The State Banking Department has named two senior bank examiners at an opening salary of $9,480 a year. Appointed from civil service lists were: Anthony C. DiPasquale of Rochester and Robert L. Burkard of Kenmore.

The lump sum payment of $25,000 to the dependents of every fireman and policeman killed in the line of duty in New York City would be mandated by a bill introduced in the State Legislature by three Brooklyn legislators.

Senator William Conklin, Assemblyman Luigi Marano and Assemblyman Robert Kelly are the joint sponsors of the bill.

"Under present provisions of the pension system," Conklin said, "the Police and Fire Departments' death benefits payable for the support of widows and infant children of firemen and policemen are totally and pitifully inadequate.

The tragedy of the death of firemen and policemen killed in the line of duty is always aggravated by the fact that they were in the prime of life and their dependents are left in tragic financial circumstances, the three legislators pointed out.

"The least we can do," they concluded, "for our firemen and policemen who constantly face many hazards and dangers for the protection of our lives and property is to assure that for the perils to which they expose themselves, their dependents will have some measure of security. The loss of a single fireman or policeman is a terrible tragedy which affects us all, but the effects upon their dependents is lasting and continuing. We must provide for them accordingly."

29 Members Of Oswego Chapter Honored At Fete

OSWEGO, Feb. 10—More than 150 members of the State University College at Oswego chapter of the Civil Service Employees Association were on hand to pay tribute to 29 chapter members with more than 10 years of service recently at the Hotel Pontiac.

Recipients of gold watches were Mrs. Mary Hennessey, college registrar, and Richard Smith, general mechanic, who headed the list of employees with long time service. The gold watches, presented by Charles Turner, acting president, were the gifts of the College at Oswego.

Edward Boardway, chapter president, presented a check to John Cullivan on behalf of CSEA upon the occasion of Cullivan's recent retirement.

Each of the 29 employees was given a certificate signifying their total years of service. The presentation was made by Turner, who also talked about the great growth of the College at Oswego and paid tribute to the Civil Service employees, without whose help, he said, the institution could not function. In introducing Dr. Turner, Dr. W. Stewart Tosh, assistant to the president for business affairs, reported that the 29 employees honored represented 430
