Three thousand young Americans gathered at Columbia University in New York City last week with one common purpose in mind: that of strengthening the bonds of school journalism in America. At meetings, at lectures, at discussions, and addresses, they learned, they talked of, they praised, and they criticized the work of our country's young journalists—the newspaper men and women of tomorrow.

At every meeting, at every discussion, at every gathering the preservation of the freedom of the American press was the keynote thought.

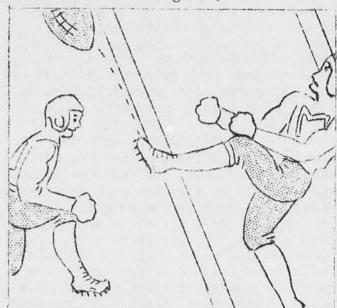

We left New York City feeling assumed that the journalism students would be the ideal American journalists of tomorrow, and as we left Columbia's campus, we said to ourselves:

"We'll let America voice its opinions. We'll let America read the truth expressed fearlessly and unbiased, and we'll let the American Press be a symbol of the freedom and democracy of the American people."

TO THE EDITOR

To The Editor:

The athletic program at Milne should be greatly improved and enlarged. A high school today should not only educate a person mentally but should improve him physically and thus offer an outlet for school spirit and pent emotions. Milne has failed miserably in developing the athletic ability and spirit of keen competition in its student body. I am not informed on Milne's financial status, but what we certainly do need is a gymnasium of our own and an athletic field. Needless to say, such a program would be useless without a competent ath etic director. Hatfield is engaged in taking care of State's athletic program, not ours. need a coach that would give all time to his job. With a gym of our own, intermural sports could flourish, and we would be able to turn out a good basketball club. Understand, I do not say that the coaching now is poor and all the material is good, but with more practice and a devoted coach our teams would win more ball games.

With an increase in the facilities for athletics, the fellows will have more opportunities to spend their time in a way that they desire, and to get greater benefits from their leisure time.

In time I hope to see a few more students enrolled and then it would be a swell thing to see Milne form a football squad and play some second rate schools with as many students, and thus really develop some spirit while making Milne one of the best schools in the vicinity.

FEATURES

LET'S DANCE

As long as there will be a dance coming up before long, it might be a good idea if we jot down a few vital conventions.

First of all, give the dance a gay setting. If you have to use the gymasium, don't despair over it's bigness and grayness, though that may seem to be the main trouble. Exaggerate everything and the results will be superb. Make the setting so gay and striking that the guests will want to romp and play.

If you want to be a success, act as though you're having a good time. The wilted expression looks well only on a wallflower. Half the dance is in stepping out determined to have fun. If you mood around the floor looking bored you kill your chances.

Mevor forget the chaperones for they reacting as hosts and hostesses and it would be rude to ignore them. If you all, they want to enjoy themselves too!

If you must journey to the powder room to repair, by all means do it, but drop in, don't stay. Your escort brought you to dance with him, not to tie yourself up gossiping.

Don't leave the scene, but if you do leave, go in a crowd. What kind of a dance are you going to have if everyone leaves it from time to time? This is the occasion to be with lots of people and have a good time.

The more things you can do to make the dance unusual the better. If you have spotlights, get 'em out and set 'em up. Turning out the main lights and playing the spotlights all ever the floor is a lovely, dreamy idea for that last dance!

FASHIONS IN THE NEWS

It seems as if Spring is just around the corner, because overyone is sporting something different. Although John Jansing doesn't exactly belong in this column we couldn't pass that lovely tie of his unnoticed. Yes, we mean the lavender one! I guess Easter will be here soon.

Of course, you've seen the new shoes most of the girls have. They're called "Loafers". Lois Ambler has a new pair and she says "they're so comfortable."

Jerkins-well, they're the latest thing. Did you see the black one on Marilym Potter Saturday nite? We think it's very becoming, too.

The last piece of news we had was that the Sigma girls will soon be wearin new "crew caps" if the vote is passed. At last, we'll be able to tell the girls of one society from the other.

Speaking of "crew caps", quite a few of the boys also have them. Art Phinney and Robert Clarke can be seen modeling them once in a while. As a rule, their motto is "No Hats". That goes for the girls, too.

DO YOU KNOW ----

----That the girls are catching right up to the boys with their bowling scores

----That Jane Davis! car has actually stayed together? -- but she still has these March winds to think about.

That Wagar's has seen some of its old friend's once more? After gym-nite he's Ambler, John Poole, Marilyn Potter, John Jansing, Marion Horton and Bob Clark spent the evening there "sipping cokes".

----That Glenna Smith was seen dancing at the Edgewood Friday nite. It looks as if there won't be any dancing there for awhile,

----That a few Milnites were seen at the St. Patrick's dance at State College Friday nite. Marcia and Duncan were seen among them.
