

ASPECT on Sports

by Don Oppedisano

At Monday's press conference, President Collins announced that a committee was being formed to investigate the University's intercollegiate athletics. It is hoped that from this committee, a policy will be formulated that will initiate football on this campus in the near future. We realize that it is virtually impossible to have the sport on a club level this fall, but we do feel that this committee will act wisely and favorably toward a football program of some kind for the fall of 1968.

Meanwhile, the University has taken one step in the direction of expanding intercollegiate athletics at Albany by providing for a track team on the club level to be started this spring. The sport will consist of running events only since we do not have the coaching staff to handle the field events. Coach R. Keith Munsey will be at the helm of the "cindermen" and we're sure he'll do the same outstanding job that he has done in the past with the harriers.

All of the meets will be away because our new track which is equipped for a track and field program will not be completed for competition until June of this year. However, the club can practice on the existing track surface.

The proposed program calls for all the necessary equipment, including shoes with detachable spikes, ripped soled shoes, and all-weather spikes to outfit a 20 man squad. Potential competition will include such schools as RPI, Union, Williams, Oneonta, Cobleskill, New Paltz, and Marist. If this program proves satisfactory, the club would be advanced to varsity status in 1968.

But we feel that the success of the team will not lie in the coaching. It will lie in the willingness of those students talented in the field to take advantage of such an opportunity offered by the University. Without adequate student participation and cooperation, we can hardly expect the administration to advance the program further.

The student initiative is there. This was evidenced by the success of the past intramural track meets organized by Coach Munsey. However, at that time the participants had to train for only one meet. This time they will be involved in practice and meets for almost two months which will undoubtedly make many things twice before going out for the squad. But in the final analysis, knowing Munsey and the way he operates, the club will fair well no matter the strength of the personnel.

The annual Winter Sports Banquet will be held this Tuesday night at 7:30 p.m. in the Dutch Quad Dining Room. At this time the award for the outstanding athletes in wrestling and basketball will be given.

Mike O'Brien: Outstanding As Coach, Amateur Athlete

by Hank Robinowitz

In the summer of 1963, a young baseball player's future was dealt a setback by the lack of foresight on the part of a scout. The player's name was Michael O'Brien.

This is Mr. O'Brien's first year at Albany. A member of our physical education department, he is also the coach of our freshman basketball and baseball teams.

He comes to our university with excellent qualifications. Upon his graduation from Ithaca College in 1961, Mr. O'Brien became a P.E. teacher and coach on the public school level. In 1965, he returned to college to get his M.S. at Siena College.

During his athletic career Mr. O'Brien has garnered a number of citations. While in high school he was a U. S. Hearst All-Star Baseball team selection in 1956. In 1957 he was a member of the All-Albany Basketball team. At Ithaca College he was captain of the basketball and baseball teams in his senior year. As a member of the Albany Twilight Baseball League he was selected as the MVP of 1963.

Coach O'Brien has brought with him an optimistic outlook toward life and his school. He has bright hopes for the university.

He believes that with the addition of the new gym next year the student body can look forward to better teams in the future. He bases his prediction on a number of considerations.

Foremost, is the progress being made in the area of recruitment. He feels that the hard work of the coaching staff and interested alumni will be realized sooner than most people think. In addition, as an expanding university athletically and academically, Coach O'Brien believes that Albany now offers the scholar-athlete a wide variety of advantages.

As a lifetime resident of the capitol district, Coach O'Brien felt he was qualified to say that the increased spirit shown by the students is not to be disregarded as a positive factor.

He, therefore, feels these factors along with the growing sense of tradition that has been fostered over the years, will undoubtedly spell success for Albany's athletic program. Perhaps Mr. O'Brien's greatest contribution to Albany has been his modern approach to athletics. He is an advocate of athletics as a means of teaching valuable life experiences. In addition he supports the use of athletic activities as a rehabilitative device in mental therapy.

THE PROSPECTS LOOK cheerful for the Great Dane tennis squad. Tom Slocum was the only man to graduate from last year's 500 team and this year's varsity will be strengthened with several key stars from last year's 10-0 frosh.

Champions Undecided In AMIA Hoop Action

In League IIA, the Irondequoit Indians (7-2) hold a game lead over TXO and the Nads who are both 6-3. Yesterday's contests found TXO squaring off against The Indians and the Nads facing STB. A TXO and Nad victories would produce a three way tie for the lead.

With one game remaining in League IIB, EEP has clinched the title. The black and white support and 8-1 slate and its nearest rival is C&C two games back at 6-3.

The Bruins have made a runaway of the 3A League. They have an unblemished 8-0 record and with two games remaining, its closest rival, the Kegs is 2 1/2 games back. The champs will shoot for an undefeated season this Sunday when they face Seagrams 7 at 3:00.

League 3B finds another undefeated team, EEP with a 9-0 record. The EEP's have one game left against the Hobbits tomorrow and will also be gunning for a regular season unblemished mark. Hamilton Hall, with a 6-2 slate is the nearest Potter foe.

The champ for League IIIC has not yet been determined. With one game left for each team, the Dem-PBS Strengthens League II Lead; Upsets Mark Play

This was a week which saw the bottom three teams win 13 out of 15 points. PBS was the only top team to take any points and this helped solidify its first place lead. With just three weeks left, its 5 point lead looks very imposing. It is hoped that its star bowler, Steve Purdyn, will recover from a car accident in time for its stretch run at the championship. LaVallee Places 1, III In Capitol City Tournaments

The annual Tri-City Foll Tournament sponsored by the Tri-City Fencing Club was held on Sunday, Mar. 5. Robert LaVallee of SUNYA took third place. Other Albany participants included Rich Garcia, John Rogone, and Jim Connors. Other schools participating included RPI and Union.

At the Schenectady YMCA, the Tri-City Sabre Tournament took place on Sun., March 12. Albany's Bob LaVallee took first place while Rich Garcia came in 4th and John Rogone placed seventh. It was very close competition with the final scores being decided upon points as well as total matches.

The women's team traveled to Middlebury, Vermont on Sat., March 11 to compete with the women's team of Middlesex College. The team included Susan Allen (0-4), Nancy Clauson (2-2), Bev Lee (1-3), and Barbara Pound (1-3). It was the first time that the team had ever faced Middlesex and is now looking forward to a return match.

Albany State played host to the Tri-City Fencing Club on Feb. 26. The men's competitive matches were sabre and foil. Albany's two teams included LaVallee, Rogone, Dick Dolly, Jim Connors, Mike Cohen, and John Wolsieleg. The final overall score was 24-6 in favor of Tri-City. LaVallee was State's high scorer.

THE JUDGES OF THE Personal Library Contest decided Thursday that no one collection submitted exhibited a degree of excellence that would merit an award of first prize. Instead three first prizes of $40 each were awarded to Bunny Beale, for a collection of Relevancy to A Poet, Jim Maas, Military Aircraft Since W. W. I; and John Shea, Love: Variations on a Theme.

War Committees To Debate Vietnam Policy Tomorrow

The University Debate club will sponsor a British-style debate tomorrow in the Grand Ballroom of the Campus Center at 8:15 p.m. between three members of the Committee to End the War in Vietnam and three members of the Committee to Win the War in Vietnam. The proposition to be debated is, "Resolved: That this House should condemn present American policy in Vietnam."

After the introductory speeches by the members of the team the debate will be opened to the audience.

At the end of the rebuttals there will be a secret ballot so the members of the audience will be able to express their opinion of the issue in debate.

The three students who will represent the Committee to Win the War in Vietnam are Lewis Fischer, Stratton Rawson, and Richard Taylor. They will take the position opposing the proposition that American policy in Vietnam should be condemned. The debaters supporting this proposition are John Carmichael and Marc Miringoff from the Committee to End the War in Vietnam.

Chem. Talk Today On Hydroboration

Two more lectures in a series of three are planned by the chemistry department. The talks will be held in room 151 of the chemistry building at 4:30 p.m. today and tomorrow.

Herbert Brown, the R. B. Wetherill Professor of Chemistry at Purdue University will speak on "Recent Developments in Hydroboration," today.

Professor Raymond Disch of the Columbia University department of chemistry will discuss "Direct Measurement of Molecular Quadrupole Moments: Liquid Phase Studies" tomorrow.

Vietnam. At press time the third pro debater had not been chosen. The President of the Union or moderator will be Mr. David Frachtenberg, Director of the debate team and assistant professor of speech. Dr. Richard Wilkie, associate professor of speech, will serve as Parliamentarian.

The University Debate Club hopes that the debate will help the student body to vote in the upcoming Vietnam referendum in a more scholarly manner. The referendum is sponsored by Central Council and will be held April 13th and 14th in the dinner lines and in the Campus Center.

Committee Preparing For Anti-War March

The Committee to End the War in Vietnam has posted sign-up sheets at various locations on campus for the mobilization of students and faculty to take part in the anti-war demonstration to be held Saturday, April 15 in New York City.

The sheets are located at the SDS Literature Table in the Campus Center and on the doors in Social Sciences 235, Education 231, and Humanities 337.

The demonstration and mobilization will be discussed at the Committee's meeting this Friday at 1:25 p.m. in Social Sciences 131. All students interested in participating in the march should attend this meeting.

The Committee is continuing its workshops about Vietnam. Four workshops will be held this week on the history of Vietnam at 3:45 p.m.

today and Thursday, and 7 p.m., Thursday and Sunday in the Campus Center 367.

Assessment Results Evident In Programs Approved By Council

Several major decisions were passed by Central Council last Thursday night. The reassessment of the supreme student organization made of itself two weeks ago was the indirect cause of the passage of these measures. The decisions passed by Central Council reflect its desire to become more involved in national, state, local and University issues.

Central Council passed a proposal, introduced by Michael Ginsburg, that called for a lowering of the voting age from 21 to 18. The proposal was addressed to the Constitutional Convention of the State of New York, and asked the body to liberalize and equalize the New York State voting age requirement. The council pointed to the increased involvement in government and the higher educational level of this age group to justify the lowering of the voting age.

Five Dollar Vote Also passed by an overwhelming majority by Central Council was a statement asking for a more effective investigation into the alleged "Five Dollar" vote in Albany County. The council called upon Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller to "order the Office of the Attorney General to immediately undertake a complete and thorough investigation of this matter."

An expenditure of $100,000.00 was approved by Central Council for the development of Camp Dippikill during 1967-68. The plans include the improvement of the access road, providing electric power, erecting new buildings, developing a water supply and improving the lake. It was estimated that fifty cents from each individual's student tax during the next ten years would pay back $40,000.00 loan and provide monies for continued development.

Committee Established A Political and Social Positions Committee was established as a standing committee of Central Council. The PSP Committee is to investigate student opinion on social and political issues and to recommend position statements to the council. The committee will concern itself with such things as the upcoming Vietnam referendum. This referendum will be held on April 13 and 14 in the dinner lines and the Campus Center. Henry Madej stated after the meeting that anyone wishing to work on this referendum should report to the Student Association Office.

New and Different The editors also want to do something new and different with the presentation of the many various university organizations. The University, they agree, is getting too large to include every organization. They therefore propose to include some organizations in the photo-essay program where a committee would be represented by a picture.

The editors of the yearbook are also thinking of a new and different idea for the total format of the book. During the interview it was revealed that the yearbook for 1967-68 may be distributed in a slip-case enclosing two volumes. One book will have activity shots in it while the other will be composed of senior YEARBOOK EDITORS James Folts and Judith Mills have already started work on the 1968 yearbook. Sign-up for senior pictures takes place this week.

Next Year's Torch In Motion Editors May Use New Format

Next year's yearbook editors have already started thinking of how to better the yearbook with new ideas.

Jim Folts and Judy Mills, co-editors for next year's book, want the yearbook to be more of a photo-essay type set up rather than having numerous copy-blocks.

This would mean, for instance, that there would be a page or two concerned with concerts and these numerous concerts would be represented in the form of pictures only. Pictures of these concerts may also be scattered throughout the yearbook.

Smaller Book The reason for this is that next year's book may be a little smaller (9 inches or 10 inches square) than last year's book which is 11" x 11".

With a smaller book it sometimes gets too fat. This year's book will have 288 pages and a natural increase in the number of pages is expected for next year.

Both editors agree that although there is a lot of work involved, the work is easy to learn, interesting and enjoyable.

Folk-Rock Group To Give Concerts For Sophomores

The Blues Project, a versatile folk-rock group, has been booked for two concerts to be given Sunday, April 16, in conjunction with the Sophomore Weekend.

The concerts will be given at 2:00 and 4:00 p.m. on Sunday afternoon, and tickets are presently on sale for $3.00 in Humanities 140.

This will mark the first appearance of this group in the Albany area, and the group has been billed by Robert Shelton, the New York Times music critic as "the most incandescent group in folk-rock today."

According to billing, however, the Blues Project is more than just folk rock; they advertise that there is no type of music they cannot play, always managing to give each their own special sound.

Their sound is "a bit of rock-and-roll, a touch of rhythm-and-blues, some soul, a dash of jazz" and you still have only a portion of their style.

The band got its start when Danny Kalb, who was then generally described as the best guitarist in the folk music field, wandered onto the electronic music scene.

Kalb said he "knew that was what was happening and I had to get into that electronic thing in order to express myself, and my music," and then formed the Danny Kalb Quartette.

Kalb expanded the band and The Blues Project was formed.

THE LOVIN' SPOONFUL will make the scene April 14 as part of Sophomore Weekend which will also feature The Blues Project and a day at Rearing Brooks Ranch.

Growing Pains

Granted the University must grow, onward and upward, and (it appears from the supplementary budget presently being requested by Governor Rockefeller outward, but it seems to us that in some cases this is done at undue expense to the student welfare.

The most blatant example of this is presently staring into the faces of those students who are filling out their housing packets, knowing that all doubles will be tripled, all quadruples will be quintupled, ad infinitum. The rule appears to be: take the number of people planned for the accommodation and add one.

In all seriousness, however, we recognize the motivating philosophy behind the growth which causes this overcrowding. It has become one of the main motivating philosophies of the State University System in its recent growth; that the State University System should endeavor to provide the best education for as many students as possible.

But we, as students being tripled, do not think the question is all that moral or all that fair. Theoretically you are jeopardizing four students living in a four-man suite when you add a fifth person. True, those sharing tripled (etc.) rooms do receive a lower housing bill, but I doubt if anyone of them think it was worth their peace of mind.

It seems to us the opinions of the students might be valuable here; perhaps we could get another faculty-student committee going—this one to measure the feelings of all the students who have been tripled. We doubt they would think it was worth it. The moral question is still there, and we approve of its aim, but is it necessary to step on so many people in order to realize this goal before it is feasible?

Signs Of Spring

Bicycles all over the city of Albany and Gunderland must be a sign of something. It could mean that the bicycle shop is open or that it's spring or both. Add to the bicycles the number of students playing ball and spring emerges.

People flying kites on campus seem to attract jokers who like to say, "Go fly a kite." Ha? Ha? Anyway it looks like spring.

It's days that are warm, and sunny that make one miss the Alumni Quad (unless one lives on the Alumni Quad) with its wide expanse of grass for informal sunbathing and hootenannies. The Dutch and Colonial Quads don't seem to be as conducive to such gatherings because of the cement, stones and potted trees or just plain mud and sand.

Leaning against the walls of the dorm, sitting on the cement doesn't seem the same as sitting under a tree. We realize there will be trees on the lawn eventually but it will be a long time before they're big and shady.

Bicycles, ball, kites, sunbathing, grass and trees all lead us to one conclusion. It must be spring. At a later date we may come out pro or con this annual event.

A HANDICAP TO D.A.'S?

Too much attention has been paid in recent months to the fun and games antics of John T. Garry II, Albany District Attorney, to the total exclusion of M. Andrew Dwyer, Rensselaer's comedian.

Despite his recent setback in his continuing attempt to deny the existence of the United States Constitution and the free speech provisions Dwyer has not given up.

His last defeat came when he tried to bring charges against Peter Jennings, ABC, and Channel 13 in Albany for producing and showing the documentary on today's changing mores (norms).

Now the charging white warrior and protector of America's morals has once again tried to ignore the right of freedom of speech. The object this time is Dr. Timothy Leary, self-styled leader of the tune-in, turn-on movement.

Leary is scheduled to speak on the R.P.I. campus on April 8th in a debate on LSD with a recognized New York State Narcotics expert. The world must be kept safe, according to Dwyer, from being exposed to such a "wild-eyed fanatic."

He implied that the public at large who elected him to his office was not smart enough to listen to both sides of an argument, as would be the case in this debate. Facts are not important to this District Attorney, such as the one that this debate has been repeated on several other campuses with no resultant trouble.

Another problem with Dwyer's lack of faith with the public is that the same public who cannot listen to both sides of an argument and intelligently make up their minds is the same public who elected Dwyer to office as the result of a political campaign.

The worst part of this controversy is that this erstwhile public servant had enough sense to limit the program to R.P.I. students only.

It would not be so bad if this man was another clown like Jim Garrison, but Dwyer is dead serious. It is enough to scare a person.

It is amazing how much childishness is being demonstrated by Greeks and would-be Greeks on this campus. Inter-Fraternity Council denied full status to any of the colonies for the wildest reasons ever conjured.

I agree that an example must be made that dirty rushing cannot be tolerated, but was this the real reason or was it personality clashes and the wearing of black jackets. If IFC wants frats as badly as they claim, perhaps they should spend more time helping the colonies by explaining the rules to them and offering advice.

The colonies too, should actively seek this advice. This bit with little boys paying with their toys has got to stop if the Greeks are to start holding their own.

THE JAZZ REVIEW

by Lou Strong

When last I spoke to you I said that I would spend this column speaking of many of the new men in jazz, the musicians that were making all the good things happen. Now I find that there is something happening in this area that deserves all the plugs it can get. Albany is about to have its own JAZZ FESTIVAL!

After begging, borrowing, stealing, and a few other "ings" that I won't mention here, Dennis Donohue, Linda Lizik, and I have finally been given the go-ahead to start publicity and booking for what will be the most fantastic musical event on this campus. As a matter of fact, the SUNYA Jazz Festival will be among the five top festivals in the country, both qualitatively and quantitatively.

Among those to be here for the May 6-7 weekend will be the Mel Lewis-Thad Jones band, thought by many to be the hottest band in the jazz world today. At the present time, they are working out of New York City and will make the trip to Albany for a concert on Saturday night. This band alone is worth the price that you will pay for the two concerts on Saturday.

Also on Saturday's program will be the Jeremy Steig Quintet. This group will definitely appeal to any type of listener. We have planned a happening with Jeremy's group for Saturday afternoon that is guaranteed to put the "fear of the Lord" into the entire Saturday afternoon audience.

I give you fair warning, however, if you have a weak heart, DON'T come to the happening. It will be quite a shattering experience. Now, have I got your curiosity up? Good!

The festival will encompass two full days, May 6th and 7th with concerts in the afternoons and evenings of both days. Tickets will be available to students and non-students, with you wonderful student tax payers getting first grabs. But if you don't buy them, we have more than enough people who will. So don't wait for the last minute. Get your tickets as soon as they go on sale. People at State now have the opportunity to hear some of the best jazz that will ever hit the college scene, or the Albany scene. Don't let it slip through your fingers.

I'll be spending the next few weeks telling you about the various people that will be here for the festival. People such as Herbie Hancock (composer of "Watermelon Man"), Tony Williams (Miles Davis' drummer), Don Friedman, Nick Brignola, Booker Erwin, and many others will be at the Campus Center for your enjoyment. Will you be there?

The way it looks now I doubt if there will be an empty seat in the house. So, don't delay for a minute. The second you see tickets on sale, BUY!! See you at the Jazz Festival.

Professor Authors Convention Pamphlet For School Study

"Vistas on the New York State Constitutional Convention of 1967," written by Dr. Robert Rienow of the Graduate School of Public Affairs, has been published by the State Education Department which also has begun distribution of the 30-page pamphlet.

The publication is designed to provide background for teachers directing the study of the convention in the public schools; however, a much wider demand is already developing for it.

Dr. Rienow recently was the featured speaker at the annual dinner of the New York State Council for the Social Studies gathered in convention at Rochester. There he addressed some 600 teachers and administrators on "New Outlooks on the Constitutional Convention."

Series On China Holds Weekly Talks

A lecture series, "A Citizen Looks at China," co-sponsored by the Albany County League of Women Voters and the University, began Wednesday, March 29 and will be held on successive Wednesday's from 8-10 p.m. in Draper 349. Mrs. Michael Dworkin, chairman of the seminar and of the league's foreign relations committee, described the seminar's purpose as that of "casting away the aura of mystery by presenting the subject for thoughtful study and discussion."

The new University faculty member is the author of over 35 publications, several of which are regarded as classical studies in the field of flagellar motion in spermatozoa. His work has been supported by a grant from the National Institute of Child Health and Human Development and by the Population Council.

The use of decorations on Medieval panel paintings to identify the genuine works of the old master's was the main topic of Dr. Mojmir S. Frinta's lecture last week. Frinta, professor of art at the University, has received several research grants to study medieval panel paintings around the world. These paintings were done in Italy and the surrounding area of Europe during the 13th and 14th centuries.

The decorations were formed by using punches made from ivory and cast metal. According to Frinta, these punches were handmade and each master had his own. Since the master and his associates used only their own punches the decorations on the paintings are important clues in identifying who is responsible for what paintings now in art museums.

Frinta noted that since each punch was unique it is impossible for a perfect forgery to be made. Frinta also stated that in his research he has found some paintings claimed to be works of the masters by museums that he suspects to be either imitations or forgeries.

Grant To Support Equal Education For Disadvantaged

The University has received a $49,707 grant under the federal Equal Educational Opportunities Program in support of the project for education of the disadvantaged as part of the curriculum and instruction division of the University's School of Education.

The Institute, under the direction of Dr. John A. Ether and Daniel Ganeles, as associate director, provides a program for 25 teachers in service and 30 college seniors who are in teacher-preparation courses. Receipt of the grant marks the third year of support of the University program under Title IV of the Civil Rights Act of 1964.

While there are approximately 30 other similar institutes throughout the United States, the Albany University's program is unique because pre-service preparation is provided. The in-service training participants are being drawn from the same school district as a pre-condition of their employment.

A two-week summer live-in seminar, in a controlled environment setting, will be held for all participants, and a student-teaching program will be offered to pre-service participants during the senior year which requires teaching experience in a mixed racial school in the process of integrating students and curriculum.

Student teaching is followed up one month for the remainder of the academic year for continuing experience and support. The seminar is designed to improve the ability of teachers to deal effectively with special educational problems occasioned by school desegregation.

Instructional costs are paid by the Equal Opportunities Program, which is designed to provide various kinds of specialized assistance to help public school systems and school personnel to help provide quality education for all young people.

LAST YEAR AT Marienbad will be tonight's American Film Academy feature tonight. The two showings of the film, directed by French director Alain Resnais, will be at 7:30 and 9:00 p.m. The controversial film is famous for its enigmatic quality of photography.

Film Academy To Present Controversial French Movie

The American Film Academy will screen two performances of the controversial French film "Last Year at Marienbad" tonight. The two showings will begin at 7:30 and 9:00 p.m. in Draper 349. Admission will be 75¢.

"Last Year at Marienbad" both perplexed and disturbed audiences when it was released in 1961. Director Alain Resnais broke with convention in constructing the unusual story line of the film.

The events in the picture are portrayed not only as they happened, but also as the characters would have liked them to happen. Past, present and future are fused with the real and imaginary scenes. The basic story is fairly simple: it involves a young woman, her husband, and the woman's lover or supposed lover. The lover insists that they had an affair last year, "perhaps at Marienbad," but the woman has no recollection of the man. His persistence finally convinces her that an affair must have taken place, and she leaves with him.

Director Resnais employed unusual techniques in filming this story. Photographed in black and white, each scene was a magnificently composed picture in itself. Actors were employed in constructing the scenes as much as the conventional elements of scenery.

The enigmatic quality of the photography serves to emphasize to underlying mystery of the play. Asked if the young woman actually had an affair with the young man, author Alain Robbe-Grillet said no. Director Resnais said yes.

Warren Crow Upset At Kent State, Fails In Bid For NCAA Crown

After winning two impressive victories on the first day of competition, Albany State's Warren Crow lost an upset, overtime decision to Ron Iwaski of Oregon State. The match was tied 1-1 after regulation time, and when neither man could get the upperhand in the overtime period, the two judges and the referee awarded the match to Iwaski. Iwaski then lost his next match to Rick Saunders of Portland State, so Warren was prevented from continuing in the losers bracket.

Warren, wrestling at 115 for the first time this year, pinned Katz of Purdue in 6:57 in his first match, and then went on to decision Michigan State's Bissell by an 8-5 count.

It is unfortunate that Warren was unable to add the University division crown to his impressive list of Honors, Crow, easily the most successful wrestler in Albany history, finished his career with an amazing 31-3-1 record.

Many Honors for Crow

Some of Warren's numerous accomplishments are a second in the West Point plebe tournament while a freshman at Cornell, a fourth at the Olympic trials held at the World's Fair in the summer of 1965, a first in Albany Quadrangular this year, a fourth in the NCAA University division last year, and two consecutive NCAA College division championships.

Crow spent his first two years at Cornell University, but after transferring to Albany, became eligible second semester last year. Thus in a mere three semesters at Albany, Warren registered a dual match record of 17-0-1. As a matter of fact, his draw with Bill Desario last year is the only blemish on Warren's record that was not inflicted at the University division level.

Crow Also an Instructor

Besides being an excellent wrestler, at the recent sports banquet Coach Garcia also cited Warren as a valuable teaching assistant, who has contributed a great deal in the development of many of the squad's less experienced wrestlers.

At that banquet Warren was awarded the most valuable wrestler trophy for accumulating the most points during the season, and he also received a tie clasp for recording the most pins.

GOLF, THE SUMMER SPORT OF MILLIONS, will be opening its season this month.

THE WINTER SPORTS BANQUET afforded an opportunity for sports' mentors of Albany State to relax.

Sports Banquet 'A Success' Albany Stars Receive Awards

Scott Price was named Most Valuable Player and Larry Marcus elected next year's captain of the Albany State University varsity basketball team at the school's Winter Sports Banquet Tuesday night, Mar. 21.

Other players honored on Dick Sauer's cage club were Marty O'Donnell, most improved; Jim Constantino, the 100% award; and Mike Bloom, free throw champion.

Three varsity wrestlers were honored at the banquet. All-American and NCAA College Champ Warren Crow received two awards, as did Randy Palmer, while Roger Gorham copped the fifth.

Crow was named Most Valuable Wrestler and also credited with the most pins this season, seven. He scored a record 47 points dual matches this season.

Palmer, another Schenectady senior, was cited as the Most Improved Wrestler on the State squad, registering a 10-1 dual mark this year after a 5-5 slate as a junior.

Sophomore Roger Gorham of Fairport recorded the quickest pin of the season, putting away his 177 pound opponent in 1:28 in a match against Hobart College. He and Crow (most pins) received tie clasps for their achievements while trophies were awarded for the other categories.

Palmer also received the "Tiger Tail Award" given to the wrestler who displays the most initiative, courage and spirit when the going gets tough.

Price led the basketball team in rebounds with 261 and was third in scoring with an average of 15.9. A native of Clifton Springs, Price transferred to Albany in the fall of 1965 from Butler University and became eligible for sports this year.

O'Donnell, a senior from Elmira, scored nearly three times as many points as last year, netting 157 for an average of 7.5.

Marcus, who will succeed Constantino as captain, figures as one of the key men in next winter's hoop plans.

The 100% award is given by Coach Sauer to the player who consistently displays all-out hustle.

NOTICE

There will be a meeting of all AMIA softball captains Friday at 1:45 p.m. in the lower lounge of Hamilton Hall on the Colonial Quad.

All captains are requested to bring a list of three names of people who will be available to officiate league games.

Coach Garcia announces that all frosh tennis candidates with previous tennis experience should report to the tennis courts on the new campus today.

The first home baseball game will be played on April 21 at 3:00. RPI will furnish the competition.

Gorham, Springer Wrestling Captains

A pair of promising sophomores, Roger Gorham of Fairport and Craig Springer of Levittown, have been chosen co-captains of next year's Albany State University varsity wrestling team.

Gorham, a 177 pounder, compiled a 6-4 dual match record this season and registered the fastest pin of the State squad, putting his opponent away in 1:28 in the Hobart match. He also won his weight class in the Albany Quadrangular at the start of the season.

The 19-year old graduate of Arcade Central High School won the Section 5 championship in the 165-pound class his senior year and captured his league's title at 154 his junior year and 165 his senior year. His major is political science.

Springer won 6, lost 3 and tied 2 wrestling at 152 pounds for State this year, then lost an opening bout at 145 in the NCAA College Division Championships. The likeable, dedicated Springer also is a first-stringer on the Albany soccer team.

Craig won three letters at Levittown Memorial High School, from which he graduated in 1965. He was chosen one of the Long Island Press Scholar Athletes his senior year and was honored as the Outstanding Freshman Athlete at Albany last year. He is a dean's list student majoring in mathematics.

VIETNAM DEBATE resulted in an audience vote in favor of the resolution to condemn American policy in Vietnam Wednesday night. Here the negative team composed of Richard Taylor, Lewis Fischer, and Stratton Rawson consider an argument being given by a member of the positive side.

Thorne Discusses Hours Policy Holdup May Detain Enactment

Institution of the new Women's Hours Proposal, pending approval by the University Council in last night's meeting, was one of the main topics of discussion at Monday's President's Conference.

Dr. Clifton Inouye, vice President for Student Affairs, announced that the Student Affairs Personnel have presently ironed out all the mechanical difficulties involved in putting the proposal into effect, and that the system can go into effect as soon as a question posed recently by the Student Affairs Council has been worked out.

The consideration of the question posed by the Student Affairs Council may present an unexpected holdup in the institution of the proposal.

The question raised concerns the moral obligation of the University to parents of girls attending the University in making a ruling concerning their welfare effective in the middle of a semester when the parents are in effect powerless.

Thorne said he did not know exactly how big the problem is, or how long it would hold up the enactment of the policy; however he felt it would be at least a week. He is presently talking with those people who raised the questions.

DRAFT DISCUSSION

Men interested in discussing their draft status are invited to an informal meeting with other students Monday night at 7:30 at the Chapel House.

If you wonder if you are a "conscientious objector" or even just what the term means, or if you question the whole business of student deferments yet are unhappy at the prospect of Vietnam, or if you think students should organize to oppose the Draft, be on hand at Chapel House, located on the hill near the new New Campus Gym. For further information contact Peter Pollak 439-9517.

President Collins remarked on the supplemental budget requested by Governor Rockefeller in his recent budget proposal with its provisions for $2 1/2 million funds to be given to the State University of New York at Albany for land acquisition.

Collins said expansion will probably take place across Fuller Road and in the future will probably contain a building for the continuation of education, and funds for married student housing.

Funds may also be used to help develop the Social Science Department.

Tolkien 'Eye' Topic 'Frodo Lives,' Tonight

Golden Eye will present a panel discussion entitled "Frodo Lives; The World of J. R. Tolkien," on Friday, April 7, at 9:00 p.m. in the Presbyterian Church on Western Avenue.

Tolkien is the author of science fiction and fantasy. His best seller, "Fellowship of the Rings," is about the world of the "hobbits." Basically, it is a trilogy. The "Fellowship of the Rings" sold the "Catcher of the Rye."

Panel Members

The panel includes Mr. Robert Brown of the English Department who has studied under Tolkien's Tolkien himself, Charles Sullivan, an English graduate student; Mrs. Beth O'Dell, who will read excerpts from the Tolkien's works; and John Calhoun, a student at the University who has put Tolkien's poems to music. The Coordinator of the program will be Gail Roberts.

Audience Vote Condemns Policy Of U.S. In Vietnam After Debate

by Diane Deltoro

After a debate Wednesday night by members of The Committee to End The War and The Committee to Win The War in Viet Nam, the audience voted sixty-six to thirty-seven in favor of the resolution: That this House should condemn present American policy in Viet Nam. The debate was of the British-style format and included a period in which members of the audience spoke on the resolution. Approximately a hundred students gathered at the function sponsored by the Forensic Union.

John Carmichael, Jerry Gaes, and Marc Miringoff, members of The Committee To End The War accused the U. S. of failing to admit that its reasons for the war were never valid.

There was little direct clash on this point by the negative team, composed of Richard Taylor, Lewis Fischer, and Stratton Rawson, members of the Committee to Win The War. The negative constructive speeches centered on the argument that America's "present policy" is one of negotiation.

The affirmative argument focused on three points. Carmichael gave support for the theory that Americans are mistaken in believing that the National Liberation Front is controlled by Communists. Gaes attempted to prove the Domino theory invalid and Miringoff asked for proof that the North Vietnamese are actually the aggressors.

Taylor, of the negative team, accused the affirmative of failing to speak of "present American policy" as the resolution is worded. He then proceeded to prove that ne-

Professors Discover New Locations Of Fossil Beds

Study and discovery of about fifty new fossil localities on the rocks of the Columbia County region was done by Dr. John H. Bird, associate professor of geology at the University, in association with Dr. Franco Rasetti, professor of nuclear physics at Johns Hopkins University.

The work, currently being published in several scientific journals, was supported by the Geological Society of America and the American Philosophical Society.

The fossils, belonging to the Cambrian Period of geologic time, range from approximately 600 to 500 million years in age.

Most of the fossils found are remains of trilobites, marine animals that became extinct about 225 million years ago. Some of the trilobites are the first of their kind to be found anywhere in the world.

Although a few of the newly discovered fossil localities contain trilobites long known to be present on the rocks east of the Hudson Valley, from the Vermont border to around Rensselaer and Columbia counties, most of the fossils found had not been known previously to occur anywhere in New York State or New England.

The newly discovered fossils have proved to be extremely valuable to geologists in that they reveal the age of various kinds of rocks of the region.

Also, the fossils enable geologists to correlate geologic events of the region with geologic events in other parts of New England, and of the world, which took place more than one-half billion years ago.

gotiation is off "present policy" by giving examples of our attempts at negotiation that have been thwarted.

After the alternate constructive speeches by the members of both sides the floor was given to members of the audience for pro and con speeches. The question of the morality of the war and of the bombing was brought up by a number of speakers.

Taylor answered by asking for the difference between a bomb delivered by a plane to North Viet Nam and one delivered by a delivery boy in South Viet Nam.

Speakers from the floor also asked if we were supplying the Vietnamese with an "acceptable alternative" to communism. One came to the floor

Two Critics Of American Society To Present Lectures Next Week

Two well-known and highly-regarded critics of American society will speak here next week at the invitation of Forum of Politics, Carey McWilliams, the editor of "The Nation," will lecture Tuesday at 7:30 p.m., and Norman Thomas, six-time Socialist candidate for the Presidency, will speak next Thursday at 8 p.m.

Both lectures, which will be held in the Campus Center Ballroom, are open to the public with admission free.

McWilliams will discuss the topic "The Need for Dissent," which is expected to be a severe condemnation of American actions in Vietnam and a call for widespread criticism of these actions. "The Nation," which he has edited since 1955, is this country's oldest weekly journal of opinion.

This journal has consistently criticized American intervention in what it views as an indigenous civil war in Vietnam.

Distinguished Author McWilliams has devoted many years to the study of controversial social issues. He is the author of a dozen books, including "Brothers Under the Skin," a critical analysis of the treatment of American racial and ethnic minorities. It has been acclaimed as "a classic in American race relations."

"A Mask for Privilege" deals with anti-Semitism in the United States. Twice awarded Guggenheim Fellowships to finance his research into crucial social questions, McWilliams has been on the staff of "The Nation" since 1945, becoming associate editor in 1951, editorial director a year later, and assuming the editorship in 1955.

Six-Time Candidate He was graduated from the University of Southern California with a law degree in 1927. He practiced law in Los Angeles in 1938, at which time he was appointed commissioner of Immigration and Housing for the state of California. Thomas, long-time leader of the American Socialist Party, was Socialist candidate for President in 1928, 1932, 1936, 1940, 1944, and 1948. He was also, at different times, candidate for governor of New York City, and candidate for Congress.

Bird Participates In Geology Study

John M. Bird, associate professor of geology in the earth and atmospheric sciences department at State University of New York at Albany, is one of two American scientists invited by the National Academy of Sciences to participate in an exchange program with the Polish Academy of Sciences.

Dr. Bird will spend the month of May at the Polish Academy and the Jagiellonian University in Krakow, where he will lecture on his research concerning the geology of the Taconic Mountains and western Newfoundland.

In addition he will study aspects of the geology of the Carpathian Mountains.

He will visit Czechoslovakia, Austria, Switzerland, and Germany in conjunction with his work under the program.
