SCHAEFER TO GIVE LECTURE AT SUNYA

The third in a series of free public lectures sponsored by the Atmospheric Sciences Research Center, State University of New York at Albany, and the New York State Department of Environmental Conservation, is scheduled for Tuesday evening, Apr. 10, when Vincent J. Schaefer, director of ASRC, will be the guest speaker. The lecture will take place in Lecture Center 18, beginning at 8 p.m.

Dr. Schaefer's subject will be "What Is Its?", illustrated with the use of more than 100 slides of common natural objects but uncommon views of them. A few, very unusual objects will be included. As each slide of strange, bizarre, and beautiful things is shown, the audience will be given two or three seconds to decide what is depicted. After that the speaker will describe the subject photographed. The presentation is described as a challenge to the perception of the viewer.

Dr. Schaefer is known internationally for his work in the field of cloud physics and weather modification since his important discovery while with the General Electric Research Laboratory that dry ice could be used to modify clouds to produce precipitation. In recent years he has been concerned with atmospheric aerosols and air pollution and has been a leader in helping to make the public aware of the air pollution problem.

Just prior to the beginning of the lecture Raymond Falconer, of ASRC, will give an illustrated weather briefing.

JAZZ PROGRAM TO BENEFIT SUNYA SINGERS

A "Coffee House with the Nick Brignola Jazz Ensemble" will take place on Sunday, Apr. 8, in the Campus Center Cafeteria, State University of New York at Albany, beginning at 8 p. m. As a part of the program, a "Happy Half-Hour" is scheduled from 8 to 8:30, and refreshments will be served. Donations of $1.50 per person will benefit the University Singers.

Brignola, well known area jazz artist, has performed extensively on both coasts with leading jazz men such as Don Ellis, Woody Herman, and Wes Montgomery. Notable among his accomplishments are the many international jazz festivals he has participated in, and his winning of the first Benny Goodman Scholarship at Berkeley. This summer he will be teaching a jazz course at SUNYA.

As part of his ensemble, Brignola will name Don York, piano, a native of the Tri-Cities area. York was a composition major at the Juilliard School, and has performed with Brignola in the New York metropolitan area, as well as in the Tri-Cities area. He is presently a member of the First Moog Synthesizer Quartet.

The coffee house is sponsored by the University Singers as part of a fund-raising effort to enable them to participate in a music festival in Cyprus this summer.

TWO NEW EXHIBITS AT SUNYA LIBRARY

The University Library at State University of New York at Albany has two new exhibits.

An exhibit on Australia, housed in five cases on the first floor, supplements and coincides with the Art Gallery exhibit on Australian bark painting. It has been compiled and staged by Marion P. Munzer, curator of special collections, and will run through April.

Two cases contain material illustrating the ties between Australia and the United States; one case features geographical and climatic material; another is devoted to discovery and exploration; and the fifth has material about the aborigines, penal colonists, and immigrants. Miss Munzer served for a year as an exchange librarian at the University of Queensland, Brisbane, Australia.

In the Red Carpet Lounge on the second floor are books from the Warren Haynes Memorial Book Collection. Some biographical material also is part of the exhibit which continues until the end of May.

The exhibit consists of books from the late Dean Haynes' personal library which were donated to the library. Subsequent exhibits will feature books purchased through the Warren Haynes Memorial Fund. Dean Haynes was head of the School of Business at the time of his death.

WIND ENSEMBLE CONCERT AT SUNYA

"New Music", an evening of contemporary music for wind ensemble, will be presented in the Recital Hall of the Performing Arts Center, State University of New York at Albany, on Monday, Apr. 9 at 8:30 p.m. Performing will be the University Wind Ensemble, under the direction of Charles Boito.

On the program are Leo Kraft's "Toccata", the "Partita" of Hugh Aitken, Henry Brant's "Verticals Ascending", "For 24 Winds" by Lucas Foss, and Stravinsky's "Circus Polka". Of these five pieces, four were written in the late 1960's, while the Stravinsky work was written in the 1940's. Presently at the State University of New York at Buffalo, Foss is well known for his compositions, as well as for his conducting and teaching activities. Also known for composition and teaching is Mr. Kraft, presently at Queens College of the City University of New York.

The University Wind Ensemble is made up of 45 wind, brass, and percussion players, who will be divided into smaller groups for the concert. Conductor Charles Boito holds degrees from the University of Southern California and Yale University, and has been the assistant conductor of the Yale University Concert Band.

The concert is sponsored by the music department of SUNYA. There is no admission charge.

LIFE SAFETY SEMINAR AT SUNYA MAY 7

The College of General Studies, State University of New York at Albany, in cooperation with the Institute of Gerontology of the university's School of Social Welfare, will conduct a one-day fire life safety seminar on Monday, May 7, in the Campus Center ballroom. Coordinating the program, for which attendants will receive eight hours of work credit toward a continuing education certificate, will be Donald F. Favreau, director of SUNYA's Center for Executive Development.

Keynote speaker at the seminar will be Samuel Cahan, chief, Accident and Fire Prevention, General Service Administration. Other speakers will be Sylvester Delaney, senior safety field representative, Bureau of Fire Inspections, New York State Office for Local Government; and Captain Rodger Apple, Albany Fire Department.

The seminar is expected to be of particular value to administrators and directors of nursing homes and to supervisors and managers involved with life safety programs in nursing homes and hospitals. The program, approved for certification by the Board of Examiners of Nursing Homes Administration of the New York Department of Health, will cost $25 a person but there is a lesser rate if an organization sends more than one individual.

Professor Favreau, author of "Fire Service Management", one of the most used textbooks in fire service, points out that during the past 10 years there have been an increasing number of multiple-death

SUNYA PROFESSOR ASSESSES NEW LOOK IN TEACHER PREPARATION

The latest scheme in teacher preparation may appear great, but a host of practical problems have to be overcome if the plan is to succeed.

That's the gist of an article by John A. Ether of State University of New York at Albany which appears in the current issue of PBTE Newsletter, a teacher education publication.

In his article Dr. Ether, director of Teacher Corps activities at SUNYA's School of Education, discusses the problems involved in the latest proposal to upgrade the preparation of teachers. Known as Performance Based Teacher Education (PBTE), the approach would have teachers licensed not on the basis of college courses they have taken but on performance and accomplishment in the classroom. An internship is a vital part of the program.

The State University educator tells how the SUNYA School of Education is compiling a body of guide information by cataloging the various problems that must be faced by teacher preparation institutions which plan to use the new PBTE method.

Based on interviews with teacher interns, university personnel, team leaders, school district personnel, and community people, author Ether has pin-pointed 21 problems. Each involves what Dr. Ether terms "Start-up Problems" -- those related to instituting a PBTE training program.

In one of them Dr. Ether indicates that the colleges in question will need to change a number of their procedures -- grades, timing and scheduling of classes, faculty assignments, and so on. Related to this is the need to bring together four concerned groups: the teacher preparatory institution, the cooperating local school system where the interns work, the local teachers bargaining unit, and the State Department of Education.

Author Ether reports that many operational points must be settled, too, such as the extra work involved when a regular teacher monitors the work of the trainee and the extent to which they should be paid for the monitoring service.

Another problem reviewed by Professor Ether has to do with the inadequacies of PBTE developers and writers. States the Albany professor: "An extensive training or retraining effort, designed for colleges and for local educational agency personnel, is needed. Securing people to do this training, providing funding, and getting people to agree to be trained, are massive problems."

LARGE MURAL PLACED AT SUNYA CAMPUS CENTER

New to the Campus Center at State University of New York at Albany is a 160-foot mural which has been installed on the second floor lounge walkway area outside the ballroom. The supergraphic in colorful abstract design is the work of Jon Henry of the university's Educational Communications Center. Permanently placed, it is in the area which previously accommodated temporary shows.

April 11

Mr. Henry will be honored Wednesday evening at a public reception from 8 to 10 in the Campus Center Gallery. The affair is sponsored by Kenneth Blaisdell, student activities adviser, assisted by SUNYA's coordination committee and representatives from the Campus Center.

The artist joined the staff at SUNYA in 1969 as project director and designer for ECC. His work has been shown in many exhibits, including one-man shows on both the East and West coasts.

Mr. Henry studied at the Philadelphia School of Industrial Arts and with the painter, Abe Hankins. Later he studied in New York with Rudolph Arnheim and Louis Schanker and at the studio of Robert Motherwell.

The art coordination committee, chaired by Lois H. Gregg, associate dean for student affairs, has placed selected works of art in buildings on the campus for the past seven years. Funding for the undertaking has come from the Faculty-Student Association, alumni, individuals from the community, foundations, faculty, and students. All projects are voted on by the committee.

Other art work placed by the committee in the Campus Center include the William Clark assemblage wall in the Assembly Hall, the large Walter Plate painting in the Fireside Lounge, and large original prints and paintings in the card lounge and other areas of the Campus Center.

SUNYA'S JARKA BURIAN RECEIVES NATIONAL HONOR

Jarka M. Burian, chairman of the department of theatre at State University of New York at Albany, has received a 1973 Special Award from the United States Institute of Theatre Technology for his book, "The Scenography of Josef Svoboda". The honor was conferred by the board of directors of USITT at a meeting in St. Louis, Mo.

The citation states that Professor Burian's book "allows the American theatre public to understand and appreciate the artistry of a true genius of scenic design and technology of our times. Dr. Burian's understanding of the man and his ability to explain Svoboda's creative process makes this an outstanding contribution to our discipline". Continues the tribute, "Dr. Burian's unique ability has been further demonstrated by his assistance during the 1972 USITT-sponsored tour of lecture and master classes by Josef Svoboda. Truly, Dr. Burian has translated Josef Svoboda for America".

The SUNYA faculty member is a noted authority on eastern European theatre in general as well as on Svoboda. He is the author of a number of publications, among which is the recent book for which he has been honored. Dr. Burian holds degrees from Rutgers University, Columbia University, and Cornell University where he received his doctorate.

CONFERENCE PLANNED AT SUNYA FOR MATHEMATICS TEACHERS

A conference for teachers of elementary and junior high school mathematics will be held Monday, Apr. 30, from 3:30 p.m. to 5 p.m. in Lecture Center 1 at State University of New York at Albany. It is being sponsored by the university's department of instruction, mathematical education.

Representatives of the Arithmetic Project at the University of Illinois, in association with the Education Development Center of Newton, Mass., will present materials developed by the group which has spent ten years of research in working out materials suited to the needs of elementary school children. The writings stress creativity but not at the expense of knowledge of arithmetic fundamentals.

Ernest R. Ranucci, professor of instruction/mathematics, points out that the group has tried to avoid criticisms leveled at the so-called "new" mathematics. All interested teachers are invited to attend.

SUNYA GRADUATE STUDENTS REPORT EXPERIMENTS AT NATIONAL MEETING

At recent national meetings of the Biophysical Society in Columbus, O., three graduate students in biology under the supervision of Robert D. Allen, professor of biology at State University of New York at Albany, reported successful experiments on the isolation of naked cytoplasm from amoebae.

Douglass L. Taylor, John Condeelis, and Patrick Moore had succeeded in controlling the physical state and motility of amoeba cytoplasm in chemically defined media and they were able to demonstrate contraction, relaxation, and a state analogous to rigor in muscle. They also had designed a chemical medium in which the naked cytoplasm would not only stream actively and form pseudopodia, but even undergo limited locomotion.

A decade ago Dr. Allen proposed the frontal contraction theory of amoeboid movement. The SUNYA graduate students succeeded in demonstrating the presence of the contractile protein myosin in the same form that it appears in vertebrate striated muscle, and the result has demonstrated the long-suspected similarity in the mechanisms of muscle contraction and amoeboid movement and provided confirmation of Dr. Allen's theory.

SUNYA LIBRARY SCHOOL SPONSORING COLLOQUIUM ON DEWEY SYSTEM

The Dewey Decimal Classification will be the subject of the Fifth Annual Colloquium of the School of Library and Information Science at State University of New York at Albany on Tuesday and Wednesday, Apr. 24-25. To be examined will be the classification in both its practical and its theoretical aspects, with particular attention to the 18th edition.

A panel of distinguished speakers will present papers on various aspects of the system. There will be two panel discussions, one devoted to users' reactions to the 18th edition, and the other devoted to the identification of areas of research and types of research needed to evaluate the use and effectiveness of the system and to chart its future development.

The colloquium is open to the public and there is no charge other than the registration fee of $5 which includes lunch on Wednesday. Sessions will be held at the Rowntowner Motor Inn, Albany. Morning sessions will start at 9:45 a.m. and the concluding session will end at 3 p.m. Additional information about plans for attendance are available from Gordon Stevenson, director of the colloquium.

Included in the program will be papers on the historical background of the system, the structure of the 18th edition, the use of the system in national bibliography, and the general problems of evaluating a system of shelf classification.

Guest speakers will be John P. Comaromi, Western Michigan University; Benjamin A. Custer, editor, "Dewey Decimal Classification"; Joel C. Downing, assistant editor, "The British National Bibliography"; John Phillip Immroth, University of Pittsburgh; Richard J. Hyman, Queens College of the City University of New York; and C. David Beatty, McGill University.

Two uses of the Dewey Classification will be examined: its use as a system of direct subject access by the provision of a helpful shelf arrangement and its use as a system for organizing entries in classified catalogs. There will be papers on historical background of the system, the structure of the 18th edition, the use of the system in national bibliography, and the general problems of evaluating a system of shelf classification.

SUNYA SCHOOL OF EDUCATION WILL HONOR RETIREES

Six School of Education faculty members at State University of New York at Albany will be honored Thursday evening, Apr. 26, during a retirement dinner at Albany Country Club.

The six, whose service to SUNYA and its predecessor, the New York State College for Teachers, total 162 years, include Randolph S. Gardner, Lydia Murray, Milton Olsen, Ralph Kenney, Wallace W. Taylor, and Brita Walker.

Dr. Gardner, dean of the School of Education, will retire from that post at the end of the current school year but will remain on the faculty. A known authority in the field of mathematics education, he has been a leader in the New York State Council of Deans of Education.

Ms. Murray, an associate professor at The Milne School, is guidance counselor there and a former physical educator teacher; while Dr. Olsen, professor of business education at the main SUNYA campus, is recognized as the author of numerous textbooks used in teaching business subjects. He is a former vice-president for management and planning.

Dr. Kenney, a long-time leader in the area of school counseling and personnel services, is well known to guidance counselors in high schools throughout New York. He was the first full-time executive secretary of the National Vocational Guidance Association.

Dr. Taylor, professor of education and a familiar figure for thousands of social studies teachers in the state, is recognized for his international studies. His books have dealt with such topics as rehabilitation in Western Europe and education of physically handicapped children in Switzerland.

Associate Professor Walker teaches art at The Milne School. She has been active in various professional groups ranging from New York State Art Teachers Association to Delta Kappa Gamma, national education group.

The April 26 affair, entitled "School of Education Recognition Night" is being arranged by Clay Bishop, assistant professor of educational administration.

Pre-registration for summer evening courses for credit offered by the College of General Studies at State University of New York at Albany will begin Thursday, Apr. 26. The college is located at Brubacher Hall on the downtown campus of the university at 135 Western Avenue, Albany.

Thirty-two courses will be offered in the summer evening session which begins Monday, June 25. The credit courses cover a wide spectrum of academic interest: art and architecture, English and French, literature, computer science, history (including Asian history), mathematics, psychology, sociology, accounting, financial management, law, marketing, political science, and social welfare. Registration will begin May 7.

During the spring semester more than 900 students have been enrolled in the continuing adult education unit of SUNYA, reflecting the dramatic increase of interest in adult education in the Capital District. The students, who attend classes part-time, range in age from 21 to 70 years. Many are employed, some have retired, and some are homemakers.

Students may take either day or evening courses. More than 70% are taking late afternoon and evening courses to fit in with employment schedules.

20TH ANNIVERSARY FOR SUNYA'S SUMMER THEATRE

State University Summer Theatre, State University of New York at Albany, will celebrate its 20th anniversary season this summer with three productions, it has been announced by Jarka Burian who will be producer-director of the undertaking for the eighth time.

Albany's only summer theatre, formerly known as Arena Summer Theatre, will open on July 11 with Anton Chekov's "The Cherry Orchard", under the direction of Mr. Burian.

Luigi Pirandello's "Six Characters in Search of an Author" will open on July 18. The production will be guest-directed by Clint Atkinson, who will be returning to the State University Theatre for his third season. Mr. Atkinson has had extensive professional directing experience off-Broadway and in regional theatre.

The final production will consist of two works, one a short play by August Strindberg called "Motherlove," directed by Atkinson, and the other a collage of scenes from world drama depicting the confrontation of fathers and children to be directed by Burian. The production will open on July 25.

Cast and crew positions are open to the entire community. Additions and crew sign-ups will be held on the evenings of June 4 and 5 in the Main Theatre of the Performing Arts Center at SUNYA.

Burian, who is also chairman of the department of theatre at SUNYA, has directed 10 productions in the summer theatre in previous years, including the other major Chekhov works, "Sea Gull," "Uncle Vanya," and "Three Sisters." This year's "Cherry Orchard" completes a Chekhov cycle. Atkinson, who is a member of the drama faculty at Vassar College, staged Franz Kafka's "The Trial" in the summer theatre last year.

Patricia Snyder, head of Children's Theatre at SUNYA, will supplement the summer theatre program with the direction of Youth Theatre Production, a project involving area children culminating in productions for young people.

Edward Mendus, veteran member of the SUNYA department of theatre, will serve as designer and production head, and Douglas Krantz of the SUNYA theatre staff will be technical director.

Those interested in additional information about auditions and other aspects of the summer theatre programs at SUNYA may call Jarka Burian at the department of theatre office, 457-8360, or write to "Summer Theatre," Department of Theatre, SUNYA, 1400 Washington Avenue, Albany 12222.

EDUCATION DEANS MEET AT SUNYA; PREVIEW NEW TEACHER TRAINING

The New York State Council of Deans of Education previewed 1973-1980 plans for licensing teachers during its semi-annual meeting held at State University of New York at Albany. Taking part were deans of schools of education at the universities of Syracuse, Rochester and Buffalo, New York University, Fordham and Hofstra universities, City University of New York, and SUNYA.

Randolph S. Gardner, dean of SUNYA's School of Education, said the group focused attention on the Regents' Master Plan for Teacher Education, particularly as it will involve competency-based teacher education.

"The approach, through CBTE, is a proposal to license teachers, not on the college courses they have taken, but on their performance in the classroom," Dean Gardner reported. He said the plan calls for internships in local school districts where the future teachers will be "totally immersed in an extensive program of working on the job with full-time licensed teachers and classes."

Observed Dr. Gardner: "Although we at SUNYA and at other schools of education throughout the state have worked closely with neighboring school districts for a number of years, the CBTE approach will open up new avenues of further cooperation. For example, we hope to enlist the thinking and the cooperation of area school districts and their professional staffs in reviewing and re-registering the 22 certificate teacher training programs here at the School of Education."

He said the 22 programs range from reading, mathematics and foreign languages to science, business subjects, and other areas including library, speech, guidance, and administration.

Following the meeting at SUNYA, the visiting deans conferred with three State Education Department officials: T. Edward Hollander, Deputy Commissioner for Higher Education; Alvin P. Lierheimer, Associate Commissioner for Academic Programs; and Vincent Gazzetta, Chief of Teacher Certification.

In addition to Dr. Gardner, the deans' group included Daniel E. Griffiths, New York University; James Doi, University of Rochester; Nancy Broderick, University of Buffalo; and the education deans of Fordham, Harry Rivlin and Thomas Mattola. Others were David Krathwohl of Syracuse; Benjamin Rosner, of CUNY; and Jonathan Messerli, of Hofstra.

ADOPTED INDIAN TO SPEAK AT SUNYA

Kenneth Mynter, an adopted Indian and proprietor of the Old Indian Post in Claverack, will lecture at State University of New York at Albany Tuesday, May 8, beginning at 8 p. m. in Lecture Center 18 as part of the current public lecture series being presented by the university's Atmospheric Sciences Research Center and the State Department of Environmental Conservation. He will talk about Indian life and history in eastern New York.

Mr. Mynter, whose talk also will be concerned with the crafts of the Eastern Woodland Indian in the life of the Hudson River Valley, will include many little known facts of tribal lore during the lecture. He is considered to be the leading ethnologist of Indian life in the Hudson Valley region.

The activities of the Claverack resident have ranged from the archeology of the area's prehistory to the development of close personal relationships with living members of New York's remaining tribes. He is an historian as well as a raconteur and is past president of the Van-Epps Hartley Chapter of the New York State Archeological Society. Mr. Mynter also is a member of the National Historical Society and of the Columbia County Historical Society.

NATIONAL PSYCHOLOGY AWARD GOES TO SUNYA STUDENT

First place honors in a national competition for undergraduate research in psychology have been awarded to Mitchel Kriss, a senior at State University of New York at Albany. He is the recipient of a Certificate of Recognition from Psi Chi, national psychology honorary, and will read his paper, "An Observer's Attributions of Telephone Helping Behavior", at the American Psychological Association's convention in Montreal, Que.

Kriss, with majors in psychology and mathematics, also will be given $100 and provided with transportation to the convention. Three awards are given annually to undergraduates who compete successfully.

The senior's study is a follow-up to a previous work, "Message Type and Status of Interactants as Determinants of Telephone Helping Behavior", of which he was senior author. His advisor is Frederick E. Tesch, assistant professor of psychology, who also sponsored his research.

Said Richard C. Teevan, chairman of SUNYA's department of psychology, "The department is extremely proud of Mitch. I first became aware of Mitch's academic talents when he served as a research assistant to me in his sophomore year. Other members of the faculty who have instructed him in classes or guided him in research are equally impressed. We are heartened that Mitch, who is a distinguished student here in the psychology department at SUNYA, has achieved national recognition. I share with him his pleasure and wish him every success in what promises to be a rewarding career".

The award-winning senior has been admitted to Princeton University for a social psychology doctoral program. He will begin research under John M. Darley, professor of psychology, this summer at Princeton where he has a research assistantship. The student is a member of Psi Chi and of Signum Laudis, leading academic honorary at SUNYA, and also is president of the undergraduate Psychology Association at the university.

ANNUAL STATE FAIR MAY 5 AT SUNYA

(Note to photographers: There'll be lots of picture possibilities from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. with the various events going on all the time)

State Fair, the annual fund-raising carnival of events, will be held Saturday, May 5, at State University of New York at Albany. Activities will take place from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. behind the Campus Center. All proceeds will go to the Student Ambassador Fund which provides a scholarship for at least one foreign student.

Fraternities, sororities, Student Association groups, and quadrangle boards have gotten together to provide booths. Among other events, which are open to the public, there will be a bus-stuffing contest, a water balloon toss, body painting, and a "slave" auction. Those attending will be able to buy a kiss, cotton candy, ice cream, and a computer picture printout. Providing the all-important background music will be Mike & Ike & Charlie Taps DiMura, a local banjo band.

The student who will benefit from State Fair is selected by a faculty-student committee and will receive a scholarship to cover room, board, tuition, books and expenses. Last year the annual event raised more than $1,300 for the fund. This year co-chairwomen Linda Weinstock and Donna Martellotto hope to top that figure.

CEYLON AMBASSADOR AMONG LECTURERS AT SUNYA

Three public lectures of particular interest to the community are scheduled to be held next week at State University of New York at Albany.

* Neville Kanakarathne, Ambassador for Sri Lanka (Ceylon) to the United States, will speak in Lecture Center 22 on Friday, May 4, beginning at 11:10 a.m. His topic will be "Ceylon's Future" and he will be introduced by DeWitt Ellinwood of the department of history which is sponsoring his visit to the campus.

Kanakarathne was named ambassador extraordinary and plenipotentiary of Ceylon to the United States and concurrently to the Republic of Mexico in 1970. Active in international affairs, he has been in recent years a member of the Ceylon Delegation to annual meetings of the World Bank and the International Monetary Fund, of the Ceylon Delegation to the Third Session of the United States Conference on Trade and Development, and of the Ceylon Delegation to the Conference of Foreign Ministers of Non-Aligned Countries.

On the evening of May 4, starting at 8 p.m. in Humanities 354, David Wilson, of the University of London, will speak on "The Vikings in England" in a talk sponsored by the Archaeological Institute of America and the SUNYA's department of comparative literature.

On the preceding day, Thursday, May 3, at 3 p.m., also in Humanities 354, H. William Batt, graduate student in the Graduate School of Public Affairs, will present a paper on "Self, Society, and Existence in Thailand: A Phenomenological Approach". Mr. Batt, a former Peace Corps volunteer in Thailand, has conducted extensive research in Thailand on the structure and dynamics of the Thai personality and its import for bureaucratic performance within Thai government.

The paper will constitute the third of the Asian Studies Research Seminars sponsored during the semester by the Asian Studies Committee of SUNYA.

SUNYA'S PROFESSOR SHAW HONORED BY FRENCH GOVERNMENT

Edward P. Shaw, professor of French at State University of New York at Albany, has been honored a second time by the French Government for his contribution to French culture in the United States through his teaching and publications. He has been notified by the French Embassy in Washington of his raise in rank from "chevalier" to "officier" in the scholarly Order of Academic Palms.

Dr. Shaw, who has served as chairman of the university's department of Romance languages and formerly headed its Division of Humanities, first was recognized in 1962 for his distinguished career by the French Government. He has been a member of the faculty since 1947 and was instrumental in initiating the university's Fulbright program, foreign student programs, and faculty lecture-ships.

State University of New York Press recently published Dr. Shaw's new work, "Selected Literary References in the Manuscript Journal (1750-1769) of Joseph d'Hemery". Collaborator in the project was Adrienne Rogers, chairman of the department of French at Russell Sage College and one of the first recipients of SUNYA's doctoral degree in French.

Professor Shaw has spent several periods of research in France, including one under a traveling scholarship of the French Government and one as a Harvard Traveling Fellow, After receiving his academic degrees at Harvard, he taught at the University of Illinois and at the University of Miami. He is the author of "Problems and Policies of Malesherbes As Directeur de la Librairie in France (1750-1763)", "Jacques Cazotte (1719-1792)", "The Case of the Abbe de Moncrif (1687-1770)", and "Francois-Augustin Paradie de Moncrif (1687-1770)", as well as of three books of readings in French and numerous articles in professional journals.

ALUMNI DAY SET FOR MAY 19 AT SUNYA

Alumni Day '73 plans at State University of New York at Albany point to an activity-filled reunion weekend arranged by the Alumni Association. Co-chairpersons Pamela Carrington '66 and Dennis Elkin '68 have scheduled a mix of fun, meetings, reports, entertainment, concerts, and festive meals expected to attract many hundreds to the campus on Saturday, May 19.

William Floyd, president of the Alumni Association, will preside at the organization's annual meeting to be held in the Campus Center following a conversation and Continental breakfast hour beginning at 9 a.m. At the 10 a.m. meeting SUNYA President Louis T. Benezet will give a stewardship report. There also will be a Student Association report by Michael Lampert, president, and alumni awards.

Beginning at 11 a.m., the program will continue with class reunions, professional schools' alumni meetings, a retired faculty meeting, and tours of the campus. The all-alumni luncheon is set for noon in the ballroom. Other early afternoon activities include an ice cream social in the Campus Center gardens with entertainment by the Ol' Wazoo Good Time Band, and a Half Century Club and Class of '23 luncheon and induction in the Patroon Room.

Later, at 2:15 and 3:15, an "Albany Today" slide presentation will take place with Vice President for University Affairs Lewis P. Welch; Gary Jones '62, director of student activities and of Campus Center; and SA officers Mr. Lamper and Eric Joss, participating.

The highlight of the afternoon will be the dedication of the Humanities Building in memory of Professor Edith O. Wallace, of the Class of '17, ^{the first alumna} to be thus honored on the SUNYA campus. Professor Wallace was the first chairman of SUNYA's Division of Humanities and served on the faculty many years. The event, to which the public is invited, is scheduled for 2:30. Evan R. Collins, former president of SUNYA, will give the dedicatory address. Originally, the event had been scheduled for 3:30 p.m.

The Theatre Alumni Association will meet at 4 p.m., then, at 6 p.m., a cocktail party and carillon concert is scheduled for the Campus Center terrace. The all-alumni banquet will begin at 7:30. On the program will be the presentation of Distinguished Alumni Awards and a program of "Classic Flicks".

On Friday, May 18, the Alumni Association's board of directors will meet at 4:30 p.m. and in the evening there will be class reunion dinners. Sunday, May 20, a breakfast program will take place at 9:30 a.m. when Executive Vice President and Vice President for Academic Affairs Phillip L. Sirotkin will speak on "Who Runs the University". At noon an all-alumni picnic, sponsored by the Class of '68, will get underway at the Mohawk Campus.
