STATE TO MEET DREW IN OPENER

Baker Declines To Give Line-Up;
Hints at Use of New System
Tomorrow Night

By William Nelson
The 1933-34 court season will open tomorrow night in the Page hall gymnasium at 8:15 o'clock when the State team encounters Drew university of Madison, New Jersey. This is the first time in the history of State college basketball that Drew has been listed on the schedule, according to George Ketcham, '34, Varsity manager.

Roger Bancroft, '34, varsity player for three years, will captain the team. Bancroft seems confident that the State team "will take the opposition into camp."

Coach Baker has been running the squad through practice games with city teams of excellent calibre, but did not issue any statement that the team would "win or lose." Baker said today, "Cooperation has been the keynote of practices thus far, and for the first time in my coaching career, I am unable to name a starting line-up at such a late date. However, this does not indicate that our boys have not been improving. It does show that there are no individual stars."

Baker has issued suits to the following players: Bancroft, '34; Burnell, George Bancroft, Tom Carter, Harold Stone, Charles Kissam, Thomas Garrett, Charles Lyons, Osmer Brooks, Edward De Temple, Don Huddleston, Clifford Rall, and Jerry Amyot. Under Coach Baker's new system all of the squad will probably see service in the game tomorrow night.

Fred Mohrman, '35, assistant basketball manager, has begun negotiations for next year's games. The reason for this seemingly previous correspondence is that the coach is eager to look more games with larger colleges. Letters requesting dates for games have been sent to the following colleges: University of Vermont, Toronto, Williams, Amherst, Clarkson, Middlebury, Alfred, Pratt, and Hobart.

Admission to the game will be by presentation of student tax ticket or payment of forty cents. Assistant managers will check all entrances to Page hall gymnasium, Ketcham stated today.

Dancing will follow the game until 12:00 o'clock. Music will be furnished by Bill Jones and his Playboys.

Pierce, '34, member of the executive committee, according to Mrs. Bertha E. Brimmer, '30, secretary of the association.

Directory Shows State Students Come From Quasi-European Cities

When one asks a fellow student, "What is the name of your home town?" it is rather surprising when he answers, "Rome," "Athens," "Oxford," or "Mexico." Yet there are many students at State college from each of these towns, and a survey of the 1934 State college directory reveals many other "home towns" that would cause one to be as much surprised when he first heard the name, were he not familiar with all the towns and cities of New York state.

State colleges might well be a university with a registration of students from all parts of the world from the list of towns and cities in the directory. Many of the names which are to be found in those of places located both in New York state and other parts of the world are Akron, Amsterdam, Athens, Africa, Ayer, Babylon, Berlin, Cambridge, Cardiff, Carthage, Chalk, Corinth, Cuba, Delhi, Frankfurt, Hamburg, Hon, Jordan, Lebanon, Lima, Lisbon, Luzerne, Lyons, Maine, Mexico, Oregon, Oxford, Ravenna, Rome, Salem, Savannah, Syracuse, Troy, Warsaw, and Worcester.

Troy has the greatest number of representatives at State. The numbers

Bicycling As Collegiate Activity Proves Interesting To Instructor

Bicycling as a collegiate activity presents many interesting aspects to Mr. Luther Andrews, instructor in physics, who has become an enthusiastic devotee of the recently revived pastime of the '90's. "There is always the lure to explore the old, little used country roads in the Capitol District, and there are many points of intense historical interest in this vicinity which I have found when 'cycling,' is the opinion voiced by Mr. Andrews in an interview with a reporter from the STATE COLLEGE NEWS.

During November, Mr. Andrews' stunts included a visit to Stockbridge, Massachusetts, one of the first settlements established by the white man in the western sector of the state. Originally settled as an Indian mission station, Stockbridge, today, has little colonial atmosphere extant. "Rather, the modern village is a flourishing summer colony, noted as the 'wealthiest town in the state of Massachusetts,' much to my disappointment." On this trip, Mr. Andrews traveled a total of ninety miles, returning from Stockbridge the following day via a different route. "Moreover, besides the historical values of places within easy cycling distance, there are beautiful landscapes

MORE SOCIAL LIFE

Last week Newman club conducted its first informal dance of the season in the old gymnasium. The dance was open to all students, and as a result, about fifty or sixty couples attended, many of whom were not members of the club.

This, besides Senior Hop, has been practically the only social event open to the entire College since the traditional Campus Day events. Many students did not wish to attend Hop, either because it was formal, or because the cost was too much. The recent dance was, therefore, received very well by the students and with more advertising, would have been still better attended.

It seems a shame that State college does not have such pleasant social functions often. Not only would it provide a small source of income for some club or society, but also it would settle the problem of recreation over the week end. Especially would those dancing members of the student body appreciate a place where they could dance, at a small fee, and in the company of other congenial college students.

N. S. F. A. DELEGATE

Once again nominations have been made for delegates to the N. S. F. A. convention. Voting for a representative of State college will take place today.

All of those people whose names have been submitted have proven able leaders through previous work in extra-curricular activities.

The person chosen will represent State college in more ways than one. He, or she, should take with him something of State college spirit and tradition. His personality should be pleasing and yet definite enough to command respect.

The NEWS prints today the records of each candidate. These should be carefully read and a personal opinion should be formed before voting takes place.

SEASON OPENS TONIGHT

Basketball is again in the limelight. In fact, the varsity will play its first game with Drew tonight. The team is expecting the co-operation of the student body with reference to correct conduct at the game. Students are also asked to come in time for the event as well as for the dancing.

The athletics department is attempting to attain and establish desirable inter-collegiate standing which is practically impossible without the whole-hearted backing of the students. The council is arranging games with larger colleges and universities. In order to show that we are worthy of such recognition, the team as well as the student body, should be at its best.

Books

By M. C. H.

Anthony Adverse, by Hervey Allen. Farrar and Rinehart. 1,224 pages. $3.00.

France, Italy, Africa, and America, all contribute to the setting of this momentous novel. In fact, it is a panorama of latter eighteenth and early nineteenth century manners, customs, and morals. Its authenticity shows the great amount of research Hervey Allen must have done in order to complete such a book.

The book is written in the form of a biography of Anthony Adverse, an illegitimate child who is cast off by his foster-father and brought up by the great merchant Bonnyfeather. He serves his apprenticeship and finally comes to his own through inheritance of Mr. Bonnyfeather's estate.

The author creates an excellent background, both mental and geographical, for every move Anthony makes. Through an excellent character portrayal, we suffer with Anthony: his successes are ours, and his emotional reactions are ours. More than that, Hervey Allen weaves into the tale adventures and experiences which give us an adequate picture of the times. It is a tale of birth, of love, of adventure, of physical passion, of travel in the American clipper ships, and above all, of romance.

Mr. Allen's style is free and the story is easy to follow. His descriptions are excellent. His use of coincidences is actually convincing. It is certainly the type of book which, when once started, can hardly be put down until completed. Its popularity will possibly make it the best loved book of our time. It has already become the best-seller.

Always Belittin', by Percy Crosby. Percy Crosby, publisher. 62 pages. $2.00.

The famous artist of the much loved Skippy now creates a vigorous protest against limitation of armaments. The book has the subtitle, "Humor, Cartoons." One fails to see the humor, for Crosby's objectives are far from that. They comprise serious propaganda, most ironical.

Mr. Crosby begins the book by giving the newspaper objections to Skippy's memorable Memorial Day Prayer. He answers the accusations by an analysis of "A Cartoonist's Philosophy." He declares that if having patriotic motives is propaganda, then he will continue a propagandist until the nation is out of danger.

The cartoons, twenty-five in number, are reprints from The Washington Herald. His attacks are varied, including those against pacifism, against army and navy reductions, against Europe and her debt-saving problem, and against Congress. Possibly the most striking of these is his picture of Uncle Sam lying dead on a beach, sunset held with a knife in his back, symbolizing army and navy cut.

In another cartoon we see John Bull about to serve the U. S. debt-saving turkey to Italy, France, and Belgium while Uncle Sam looks on in shocked silence. Very ironically, Crosby again pictures the Tortoise Pacifist on the right road to world peace, but unfortunately his feet are not on the ground.

Crosby's work is surely applicable to American conditions. It would certainly give any reader a great deal to think about, if it did not convince him.

Red Rhapsody, by Cortland Fitzsimons. Frederick A. Stokes Co. 289 pages. $2.00.

Mr. Fitzsimons starts his fifth mystery story with the newspaper headlines: "Will Ghosts Leave Swift's Body?" and "Can Blandell Money, New Decorations, and Modern Plumbing Stop Long Feature of Famous Ghost Which for More than Thirty Years Has Been Sole Occupant of Grim Old House on Lake?"

The author goes on to portray a group of moderns, poets, artists, and musicians, against the setting of the old, haunted house. Suddenly, one of the group is murdered, but it was certainly no ghost of the old woman who had previously set a curse upon the house who accomplished the gruesome act. The plot deepens as, one by one, the people, suspected of the crime, either destroy themselves, or become victims of the same evil power. The conclusion is a bit surprising, to say the least.

Red Rhapsody is possibly the most thrilling as well as most balling of Fitzsimons' books. The author succeeds in keeping the excitement of the murder until the conclusion.

Both No Witness and 70,000 Witnesses are numbered among the author's previous works.

British Team Favors Informality In Debate But Opposes Inclusion of "Wise-Crack" Superficialities in Forensic Discussion

Interview with Visiting Speakers Reveals English College Students Face Economic Difficulties

The divergence of two systems of debate, rather than the conflicting logic of opposing teams, secured the centre of interest at the fifth annual international contest conducted last Friday night in Page hall auditorium between the men's varsity debaters of State college and a team representing English universities. The formality of American argumentation, supported by statistics and 'cold' facts, was met by informal, yet consistently relevant exposition of the British debaters, which condoned 'lies, more lies,— and statistics.' "No string of wise-cracks should be presented but if quiet humor can be relevant to the discussion it should be included," the English debaters averred following the debate in considering the two systems of forensic argumentation.

L. T. Kitchin and F. L. Ralphs, of London university, in presenting the affirmative aspects of the topic: "Resolved: that the theatre is of more cultural value than the cinema," held that "movies, in order to be popular must appeal to an audience having the mental age of a boy fourteen years old," and furthermore, "the motion picture must be as easily understood by the backwoods population as by the most sophisticated of urban dwellers."

James Dolan and Grenfell Rand, seniors, in defending the negative, averred that the cinema held great cultural potentialities, was able to portray more 'naturalness' and could avoid the space limitations of the theatre. The egress of leading actors from the legitimate stage to the cinema was listed as a trend favoring the assertion that the cinema was more cultural. The availability of the 'movies' to a greater percentage of the population was also noted.

The debate was arranged by the National Student Federation of America, which also presented the four visiting teams that have appeared previously. No formal decision was rendered. Dr. Harold W. Thompson, professor of English and coach of debate, presided over the discussion.

Following the debate the Edward Eldred Potter club conducted a reception for the speakers and guests of the club in the Lounge of Richardson hall. In an interview with a representative of the STATE COLLEGE NEWS, the visiting debaters went on record as believing that there are fewer signs of depression in America than in Europe. The great number of automobiles seen on the highways and in the cities was considered by them as indicative of general prosperity.

"Students in English colleges and universities find difficulties in financing their education very similar to those existing at present in America. The quest for higher education and graduate degrees continues to include more students who find no work available upon their completion of college," Kitchin stated. He pointed out that from a Teacher's College near Leeds, where the graduating class numbered over one hundred students, only eight secured employment as teachers. "The principal means by which English students work their way," as you say, is by tutoring underclassmen, although we find that the field of student employment has become so overcrowded as to force one group to organize and manage a canteen," he concluded.

Three Senior Teachers To Direct Milne Plays

Three Christmas plays will be presented Friday night in the Page hall auditorium by the Milne junior and senior high school. The plays will be directed by Maybelle Matthews, Alice Fitzpatrick, and Mary Moore, seniors.

The junior high school will present "Told in a Chinese Garden," directed by Miss Moore. The senior class will present Anton Chekov's play, "The Proposal," directed by Miss Matthews, and "Grandma Pulls the Strings," by David Carb and Edith Barnard Delano, directed by Miss Fitzpatrick. Admission will be twenty-five cents.

Van Kleeck, '27, Heads Teachers' Association

Edwin Van Kleeck, '27, was elected president of the Southeastern zone of the New York State Teachers' association at the annual convention recently conducted in New York city. The Southeastern zone includes the southern Hudson counties, the Metropolitan area and Long Island.

Van Kleeck was editor of the STATE COLLEGE NEWS and a member of the Sigma Kappa, senior honorary society, while at State college. He is now superintendent of schools at Walden, N. Y.

THE PLAYGOER

It has always been our aim to be constructive in our criticism, and it is with pride we humbly submit this, our latest effort, in which not one ugly word of censor can be found.

On Friday night, the set was brilliantly alive and in keeping with the play as it was written. The honors for the evening we wish to divide between Garrett and Benedict six lambs and two snickers for catching at times the spirit of the burlesque. The other five characters may have a snicker apiece.

From Mr. Jones' bouquet, which he certainly deserved but did not receive, we wish to pluck several roses and honor with one of them "Thema Don't" Garrett for striking successfully the highest notes a villain ever attempted; Mr. Richards for the most flagrant endeavor to steal a play, ever witnessed on State's stage; Betty Gregory for the fine exhibition of skimo nose rubbing; Mr. Cheney for his poise, and for his ability to digest the enormous amount of words he swallowed; Betty Meury for her ability to over act over acting; and finally, Mr. Gollberger for his well-fitting derby.

The rest of the bouquet we leave with Mr. Jones for the most successful attempt at astimity this season. We have every confidence that if there had been other, his would have still been far superior.

BOOK OF THE WEEK

One Eye Westward . . .

Tomorrow Never Comes. By Walter Gilkyson. Sears Publishing Company, Inc. $2.00.

There has been a tendency among certain authors to produce plays and novels with a particular view toward their ultimate adoption as material for motion picture production. Mr. Gilkyson's novel unquestionably has the situation and characters most suitable for use in scenario form. The Freemonts are the people concerned. Martin Freemont is a successful young lawyer about to begin a political career which is to see him chosen as the Republican candidate for Congress. His wife is the daughter, oddly enough, of a woman whose selection by the Democratic party as candidate to oppose Martin Freemont complicates the novelist's plot to such an extent that it needs the entrance into the story of a complete gangland set-up to clear the way for the eventual triumph of young Freemont.

The story has speed, tenseness and a fair love interest centered around the gradual acceptance by Catharine, Martin's wife, of his ambitions as a politician. The account of her growing faith in the ability and justification of her husband is excellently conveyed to us by the author. It is this phase of the novel which is most interesting. The evolution of the love of Catharine for Martin and the lessening of her regard for her ruthless, sacrosanct mother are both given to us convincingly. The portrait of the mother, Florence Willet Carmichael, succeeds remarkably. She is a grasping, hypocritical woman, capable of any actions which might further her own interests. The helplessness of her husband in the face of her "holy crusade" is pathetic.

Were it not for the occasional entrance into the novel of the stereotyped melodrama we have seen so often on the American screen, Mr. Gilkyson's novel would approach high quality. His prose is unflowered, simple and direct. It has the matter of fact tempo of its characters. Perhaps it is the most suitable fashion in which to achieve successful presentation of middle class people, but it is not even remotely capable of the engrossing effect of the style of Sinclair Lewis. Mr. Gilkyson has made a great potential story for Hollywood but he has sacrificed quality in the attempt. He is an able writer, but he has obviously created a story for a definite market and his work is stamped with all the limits and defects of that market. He gives a shallow result where he had an opportunity to create several characters of more than passing interest.

HOCKEY IS THE SPORT OF EASTERN CO-EDS in the fall—while the men are fighting for the glory of their alma mater on the gridiron the women are battling on the hockey field. # IT TAKES HEALTHY NERVES

TO BREAK RECORDS IN THE AIR!

HE FLEW AROUND THE WORLD ALONE! Wiley Post climbs out of the Winnie Mae at Floyd Bennett Field as the whole world applauds his skill and marvelous physical endurance. "Smoking Camels as I have for so long," says Post, "I never worry about healthy nerves—and I'm a constant smoker, too."

FLYING EIGHT DAYS AND NIGHTS without a stop, Frances Marsalis and Louise Thaden set the world's endurance flight record for women. Miss Thaden says, "For some years I've smoked Camels. They taste better." Also a Camel fan, Miss Marsalis says, "I've never changed because I can't afford to take chances with my nervous system."

RACING ACROSS AMERICA in 10 hours and 5½ minutes, Col. Roscoe Turner recently added a new West-East transcontinental speed record to the East-West record he won earlier this year. "Like most pilots I smoke a lot," says Col. Turner. "I smoke Camels for the sake of healthy nerves, and I enjoy them more."

SHE: Why is it that all you pilots smoke Camels, too? Is it because they're milder?

HE: That's one way of putting it. You see, pilots smoke a lot and they have found that Camels don't give them jumpy nerves.

IT IS MORE FUN TO KNOW

Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE tobaccos than any other popular brand. Leaf tobaccos for cigarettes can be bought from 5¢ a pound to $1.00... but Camel pays the millions more that insure your enjoyment.

*Steady Smokers
turn to Camels*

Men and women who are famous for their brilliant flying agree about smoking and healthy nerves. "I never worry about healthy nerves," they say, "because I smoke Camels."

They cannot afford to make a mistake in choosing their cigarette. They have to know. And it is more fun to know, because of the greater smoking pleasure they find in Camels. Camels are milder... better in taste. They leave no "cigaretty" aftertaste.

Change to Camels... and see for yourself that they do not get on your nerves or tire your taste!

BOOKS OF THE WEEK

Hollywood Bound . . .
Crosstown. By John Held, Jr.
 The Vanguard Press. $2.00.

We have every reason to believe that John Held, Jr. has written this rambling book of "travel" not for the purpose of proving to us his literary ability, but for its subsequent adoption for movie production. The action centers itself about the journey across Forty-seventh Street, New York, of a young girl who gains employment in a department store, dance hall, and theatre, and meets in her wanderings for a livelihood the varied types of humanity which a large city has to offer.

As we turn the pages of Mr. Held's amazing story which is obviously intended to startle us we are inclined to pass off each mildly interesting chapter as we might a succession of exaggerated cartoons. His characters are more like pen and ink sketches and fail to convince us in their movement of the gravity of the situations he is creating. He brings into his story, where ever possible, some thrilling issue which could with very little difficulty be converted into screen material: the none too scrupulous press, the mayor on a party, a back stage suicide, and the eventual marriage of the heroine to a young multimillionaire are all things which we as movie goers have witnessed not too infrequently.

Love in a Bank . . .
Cash Item. By Catharine Brody.
 Longmans, Green and Co. $2.00.

This poignant novel with its cold but meaningful title is, generally speaking, an attack upon the economic conditions of our country. But Miss Brody, instead of launching a cut and dried treatise on the subject, brings into her book a love interest which concerns itself with two people who are caught in the struggle of money and who eventually, after numerous setbacks, find a life that holds for them true promise of happiness.

The author gives us with meticulous accuracy an account of the goings on in the bank where young Larry Yomans is employed, showing us the numerous possibilities of the unethical handling of its funds and it is therein that the book has its value.

Although Miss Brody's style is as unadorned and matter-of-fact as the people it portrays, the story has its dramatic moments, and were it not for the fact that the author employs the time-shift with only half the ability of let us say Ford Madox Ford, which sweeps us from scene to scene and backward and forward, her novel would be comfortable to read.

In this story of banks and securities it is again driven home to us how great a part money plays in the scheme of things and what the lack of it can do to ambition and to love.

IT TAKES HEALTHY NERVES

TO BE A FOOTBALL
REFEREE

M. J. ("MIKE") THOMPSON, FAMOUS FOOTBALL REFEREE

IF YOU WANT TO SEE nerve strain, look at "Mike" Thompson's job—refereeing two tons of football brawn, seeing every detail, but never getting in the players' way. "Mike" Thompson has been a steady smoker for years. "I'm open-minded on cigarettes," he says, "but I've got to keep my nerves in shape, so I stick to Camels."

Steady Smokers turn to Camels

M. J. ("Mike") Thompson, football's most famous referee, has to keep his nerves healthy. Listen to what he says:

"Refereeing football never was an armchair job, and it is more of a strain than ever in this day of 'open' play. It takes healthy nerves—and plenty of wind, too, to cover the field... to stay on top of every fast-moving, deceptive play during sixty minutes of fighting football. Because nothing can be allowed to interfere with healthy nerves I smoke Camels. I have tried them all—given every popular brand a chance to show what it can offer. Camels don't upset my nerves even when I smoke constantly. And the longer I smoke them the more I come to appreciate their mildness and rich flavor."

* * *

Many smokers who have changed to Camels report that their nerves are no longer irritable... "jumpy." Switch to Camels yourself. Smoke them steadily. You will find that Camels do not jangle your nerves or tire your taste.

Graduate School Enrollment Totals 116 With Thirty-eight Colleges Represented

Thirty-eight colleges throughout the United States are represented by the 116 graduate students at State college, according to information obtained at the office of Miss Elizabeth Van Denburgh, College registrar. Of these 116 graduate students, 42 are from State with exactly half that number as graduates from the class of 1933. Although this percentage is larger than that of any other college, it is nevertheless a decrease from the previous year, when the percentage was 41% as compared with the 36% this year.

Union college ranks second in the number of graduate students with 13 representatives, and St. Rose third with nine. Rensselaer Polytechnic institute and Syracuse each have four, and Vassar, Wellesley, Russell Sage, Middlebury, St. Lawrence, Clark, Hartwick, Buffalo, and New Rochelle each have two representatives.

The only college west of the Mississippi river having a representative is the University of Colorado with one student. Dartmouth, Colgate, Simmons, Hamilton, Princeton, Cornell and seventeen other colleges also have but one representative.

The majority of these students graduated within the last few years, but there is one student from the class of 1905 from Bates college, one from the class of 1916 from Simmons, and one from 1919 from Boston college.

More than two-thirds of the graduate group have the degree of bachelor of arts, while the remainder are nearly all bachelors of science. Four of the students are civil engineers, two are bachelors of philosophy, and one is an electrical engineer.

Y. W. C. A. TO HAVE "SILLY SYMPHONY" PARTY ON FRIDAY

The Young Women's Christian association will conduct a "silly symphony" card party Friday night at 7:30 o'clock, in the Lounge of Richardson hall. Decorations and prizes for the party will carry out the "silly symphony" theme.

Laura Clarke, '35, is general chairman for the party. Her committees include publicity, Harriet Ten Eyck, '35; refreshments, Sarah Logan, '35; and tickets and decorations, Daisy Bryson, '35.

THE SIDE LINE

I hate to mention it again but after seeing the frosh perform last Wednesday, I think that Angna Enters should be booked for a return engagement. Congratulations, frosh!

Well, tomorrow marks the start of the 1933-34 hoop schedule. I predict that our boys will come out on top by at least eight points. Optimistic?

I have not been able to fathom Coach Baker's new system; however, I am sure it's a good one.

The preliminary game will be between the Delmar Dishwashers and the State College Junior varsity. Captain Drake of the Dishwashers says that his team is one of the snappiest in the Capitol District and they expect to throw a wet blanket (dish-cloth) over the enthusiastic Junior varsity team.

SCOUTS WILL MEET

The College Girl Scout troop will conduct its first December meeting in the old gymnasium of Hawley hall Thursday night at 7:30 o'clock.

Instruction in signalling for those trying for their second class test and star lore for those working on first class requirements will be the features of the meeting.

GARRETT LISTS JANUARY 6 FOR CLUB PRODUCTION

Forty College men will participate in the annual presentation of the Troubadours, men's social organization, which will be conducted Saturday night, January 6, in the auditorium of Page hall. Orchestral selections, comedy skits, and chorus singing will be included in the program.

Thomas Garrett, '34, will direct the production. The following committees have been named: stage manager, Thurston Paul, '35; music, George Pratt and William Jones, juniors; business, George Ketcham, '34, chairman, Carlton Coulter, '35, Glenn Ungerer, '36, and Zigmund Sefick, '34; advertising, Wilfred Allard, '35, chairman, Edward DeTemple and Karl Ebers, sophomores; house, Donald Benedict and Grenfell Rand, seniors.

WELCOMES MEMBER

3 — about Cigarettes

Not so long ago practically all cigarettes were made by hand

Now, Chesterfields are made by high-speed machines that turn out 750 cigarettes a minute, and the cigarettes are practically not touched by hand.

BY the use of long steel ovens drying machines of the most modern type — and by ageing the leaf tobacco for 30 months — like wine is aged — Chesterfield tobacco is milder and tastes better.

Only pure cigarette paper — the best made — is used for Chesterfield.

And to make sure that everything that goes into Chesterfield is just right, expert chemists test all materials that are used in any way in the manufacture.

Chesterfields are made and packed in clean, up-to-date factories, where the air is changed every 4½ minutes. The moisture-proof package, wrapped in Du Pont's No. 300 Cellophane — the best made — reaches you just as if you went by the factory door.

In a letter to us, an eminent scientist says:

"Chesterfield Cigarettes are just as pure as the water you drink."
