STATE UNIVERSITY OF NEW YORK AT ALBANY

Sept. 5, 1972

THE JAMES E. ALLEN, JR., COLLEGIATE CENTER held its official opening ceremony last week as some students, faculty, and guests took seats along the side of Brubacher lower lounge to hear more about the new time-shortened degree program.

Off-Campus Interfaith Chapel Houses Religious Ministers

Interfaith Chapel, located just west of the campus at 16 Waverly Place, will house offices of Capital Area Ministries in Higher Education, an ecumenical group representing five Christian denominations statewide. Also situated in Chapel House will be the offices of an Episcopal priest, the Catholic chaplain, and the Jewish Student Coalition-Hillel sponsored by the Jewish Community Council.

Rev. J. Andy Smith 3rd and Rev. Harvey H. Bates, Jr., are newly appointed Protestant campus ministers assigned to colleges and universities in the Capital Area. They will have responsibility for campus ministries on 16 area campuses.

The Rev. Mr. Smith was formerly the resident Protestant chaplain at Rensselaer

Polytechnic Institute. He holds degrees from Duke University and from Harvard Divinity School. He was ordained an American Baptist minister in 1968. His ministry has had a strong emphasis on Christian social action. The clergyman has been an active member of a variety of local groups including the Capital Area Peace Center, Clergy and Lay Concerned, the United Urban Ministry in Troy, Christians United in Mission, and the Religious Broadcasting Commission. He is on the volunteer staff of Refer Switchboard.

The Rev. Mr. Bates has come to the Capital Area from Syracuse where he was a chaplain on the staff of the United Campus Christian Fellowship at Syracuse University. He is a graduate of DePauw University and Union Theological Seminary and was ordained as a Presbyterian minister in 1954. He has been active in the Syracuse area in campus and community groups with concerns for racial justice, housing, environment, and peace.

Rev. Harold C. Baum, Episcopal minister in higher education, has degrees from Michigan State University and from Kenyon College. He was ordained a priest in the Protestant Episcopal Church in 1964. In 1970 he received a Master of Arts in history from SUNYA where he currently is a doctoral candidate.

The Rev. Mr. Baum serves on boards of the Church Counselling Center of the Episcopal Diocese of Albany, Downtown Day Care Center of Albany, and Samaritan Shelters, Inc. His concerns include ecology, peace, and urban problems.

Rev. Paul Smith has been serving as Roman Catholic chaplain for students here since 1964. His specific functions have been to provide liturgy, teach Biblical studies, and counsel. He has been a board member of the Capital Area Peace Center since its inception and he is on the faculty of Maria College.

For the current academic year Steve Shaw is serving as director of student activities for the Jewish Student Coalition. Herman Ungerman is liaison representative from the Jewish Community Council.

Senate To Meet Today, To Act on Calendar Bill

A bill providing guidelines for future academic calendars is the first order of new business scheduled for the University Senate at its inaugural session of the year at 3 this afternoon in the Campus Center Assembly Hall.

Proposed by the Senate's Executive Committee, the bill would establish two equal semesters of 15 weeks of instruction and one week of examinations. The fall term would end no later than Dec. 24 and the spring term no later than June 1, including commencement.

Also provided for are class recesses for the following holidays: Rosh Hashana and the day following, Yom Kippur (except when either or both occur on a Saturday), Labor Day, Thanksgiving and the following Friday and Saturday, the first two days of Passover, and Good Friday. Spring recess would occur no later than the ninth week of the term and would include Easter and Passover when the two holy days occur within a week of each other.

If the bill is approved, it will require that calendars be published at least two years in advance.

The Executive Committee's report will include actions of the committee on behalf of the Senate since that body's last meeting in the spring. Several items of general interest are included in the report.

Council attendance by student members was discussed by the committee, which reviewed data from several councils. Except for the Council on Promotions, student attendance has been poor. The granting of academic credit for participation in university governance was discussed and it was determined that the 1972-73 Executive Committee should consider an evaluation of the entire Community Service program and whether service to the university should be recognized therein.

Considerable time was devoted at several meetings to promotions and continuing appointments. No action was taken, but a bill is expected to appear on the floor this year.

Kosher Food On Dutch Quad

Arrangements have been completed for a kosher kitchen program at SUNYA, following more than three and a half years of negotiations. The agreement was reached through Vice President for Management and Planning John Hartley; Richard Finke, assistant director of food services; Norbert Zahm, associate director of Faculty Student Association; and Samuel Bogen, chairman of Albany Students for Kosher Food.

The kitchen, located in the Dutch Quad, will be capable of serving from 100 to 150 students per day in the area operated by food services. It will function as a Young Israel kosher kitchen program under the auspices of the Kosher Dining Division of the National Council of Young Israel and of FSA. Eileen Klinghoffer is president of the student organization working with the program.

Young Israel reportedly operates similar programs at two other SU centers. Another is expected to open this month at SUNY at Buffalo.

President's Message to Faculty Expresses Cautious Optimism

President Benezet tempered a generally optimistic forecast with a dash of realism Tuesday in his address to the first faculty meeting of the year. While reaffirming Albany's future as a "real university," he also noted such problems as accountability, continuing fiscal restraints, collective bargaining, and "telling the story of the university's service in the public interest."

In conjunction with the last item, Dr. Benezet urged the faculty to "take up the challenge to display your part of the university's educational program" at Community-University Day.

The president expressed his preference for working within university governance, particularly the Senate, rather than have conditions imposed from without through collective bargaining. However, he admitted that both methods will continue to exist and expressed the hope that "we can keep (them) in balance." He stressed that "if the university does not look to its own priorities, and if the faculty does not discover its own teaching economies, outside bodies will order these things in less discriminating fashion."

In conclusion, Dr. Benezet noted that "we have an operating budget which, though slim, does allow us to breathe and move," and reminded his listeners that innovation cannot be accomplished through bargaining, but only through an alert faculty and student body. "There is ample evidence that we have (these) on our campus," he asserted.

In the only new business, the faculty approved two amendments to its By-Laws: one defines excess absenteeism by Senators and provides for filling vacancies caused by violators of the new rules; the other makes the immediate past chairman of the Senate an ex officio member of that body and of the Executive Committee.

Roy A. Klages, professor of marketing, again will head the SUNYA United Fund drive, which he announced will be held Sept. 22-Nov. 2.

Due to yesterday's holiday, today's class schedule will be Monday's and there will be no Tuesday schedule this week.

Music Series Begins Friday

The Free Music Store, a bimonthly series of contemporary and innovative concerts arranged by Joel Chadabe, assistant professor of music, will offer its first program Friday at 8:30 p.m. in the PAC Laboratory Theatre. All are invited to the concert for which there is no charge.

Three guest performers will be featured. They are Jean-Charles Francois, percussionist; Jim Fulkerson, trombonist; and Stewart Fox, guitarist. The program includes selections by Francois, Fulkerson, Netty Simon, and "Echoes" by Joel Chadabe, for instruments and electronics.

Next Monday and Tuesday, Sept. 11 and 12, at 4 p.m. the popular monthly concerts with Findlay Cockrell, pianist, will begin. The public is invited to the free programs.

Mr. Cockrell has selected for his opening concert "Paganini Variations by Liszt and Brahms" and an introduction to a forthcoming concert he will play with the Albany Symphony Orchestra which will feature Rachmaninoff's "Rhapsody on a Theme of Paganini" for piano and orchestra.

New Educational Policies Affect Graduate Students

Undergraduate courses may no longer be counted toward graduate degrees as a result of a change in SUNYA's educational policies. Other changes in policy affect doctoral students and SUNYA employees enrolled in graduate programs here.

SUNYA policy had allowed a limited number of 300 and 400 level undergraduate courses to be applied to individual graduate programs. That policy was found to be in conflict with Section 52.2 (e) of the State Education Commissioner's Regulations which states: "Credit toward a graduate degree shall be earned only through work designed expressly for graduate students. . . The filling of deficiencies through undergraduate work may not be given graduate credit."

An interpretation of the definition of "Undergraduate Course Credit", however, does provide for a petition process to allow some undergraduate courses to be applied to graduate programs under exceptional conditions. The Office of Graduate Studies and the Graduate Academic Council will collaborate to have an appropriate petition process available for the 1973 spring semester and thereafter. Further information is available from Robert McFarland, AD 221, 7-4635.

The policy involving doctoral students requires that a doctoral student register for an appropriate number of dissertation load credits during any session in which he had completed doctoral full-time study requirements, is actively engaged in research or writing for his dissertation, and is making use of SUNYA academic resources such as the Library, Computing Center, or faculty advisement.

The intent of the new ruling is to give the student formal recognition of his academic activities and access to SUNYA facilities. At the same time it will provide a more accurate reflection of faculty workloads and demands for use of academic facilities.

Conflict of interest is the concern of the new policy affecting SUNYA employees enrolled in campus graduate programs. Its aim is to prevent an employee from enrolling in a program where, by the nature of his job, he would be in a position to influence academic or financial decisions on that program or to handle student records. The immediate family of a faculty member would be prevented from registering in a course taught by him or in a department or school in which he holds voting faculty status.

Details on the policies are available from Frederick Volkwein, AD 213, 7-4635.

Outstanding Teacher Awards Won by Associate Professors

SUNYA honored two of its finest teachers this year by designating them as the first recipients of its Outstanding Teacher Awards. Richard D. Kelly, associate professor of biological sciences, and John T. Therrien, associate professor of mathematics, survived competition among 69 candidates to win the honor, which carried with it a certificate and check for $2,000.

The awards were established by the University Senate, and the money was provided by the SUNYA Foundation, Inc. The candidates were nominated from 800 teaching faculty and chosen by a special faculty-student committee. Criteria for selection included the letters of nomination, opinions solicited from the candidates' departmental colleagues, and the results of questionnaires completed by nearly 4,500 students.

Both Dr. Kelly and Mr. Therrien are alumni of SUNYA, having earned their bachelor's and master's degrees here. Both have been the recipients of grants and fellowships, and both have been members of the Kettering Foundation Project to Improve College Teaching.

Dr. Kelly joined SUNYA's faculty in 1963. In 1965 he completed doctoral studies at Syracuse University. His special interest is in developing multi-media and audio-tutorial approaches to biology instruction.

Mr. Therrien did postgraduate work at Lehigh University, RPI, and Bowdoin College before joining the faculty at SUNYA in 1959. He has been active on several university committees including the Curriculum Committee of the Undergraduate Academic Council.

Another faculty member was honored when David Peak, instructor of physics, was selected the 1972 outstanding teacher in the Department of Physics by the student opinion committee of the Society of Physics students. Selection was based on the results of a questionnaire distributed in the physics classes.

Dr. Peak has been on the faculty for the past three years. He received a Bachelor of Science in physics from State University College at New Paltz and a Doctor of Philosophy in physics from SUNYA.

Art on Display

Six paintings, the work on loan of Margaret C. Foster, are on exhibit in the reception area of the Administration Building. Mrs. Foster, the wife of Arnold Foster, associate professor of sociology, has bachelor of science and master of science degrees from the University of Wisconsin. She has studied at the Fine Arts Center, Colorado Springs, and in London on a Carnegie Foundation grant for painting.

Music Auditions

Members of the university community who are interested in joining university choral or instrumental groups are invited to audition this week. Sopranos, altos, tenors, and basses may audition for the University Chorale or the University Singers today 4-6 p.m. and 7-10:40 p.m., tomorrow 4-7:30 p.m., or by appointment. Sign up on the PAC B-78 bulletin board or call 7-6868. Works by Bruckner, Stravinsky, Bloch, Brahms, Gabrielli, Vittoria, Schutz, Bartok, Dvorak and others will be performed.

Auditions for the University Wind Ensemble, open to experienced players of wind and percussion instruments, may be arranged by contacting Charles Boito, PAC B-03, 7-6977. A fall concert schedule both on campus and at local high schools is planned.

Selected articles from summer issues of the Tower Tribune will be reprinted in fall issues as space is available.

Subcommittees Plan C-U Day

Four subcommittees have been formed to assist the steering committee with plans for Community-University Day on Saturday, Oct. 21, according to an announcement by Sorrell Chesin, chairman of the steering committee.

They include a communications subcommittee, headed by David Van Dyck, Office of Community Relations; program subcommittee, chaired by Dean Paul Wheeler, College of General Studies; services subcommittee, cochaired by Aralyn Abare and Ronald Daniel, students; and facilities subcommittee, of which John Buckhoff is chairman.

Dr. Chesin said that students will play a large part in C-U Day's activities. "To a large degree they will be in face-to-face contact with the public. They will be serving as tour guides and information guides, and will be involved in various presentations throughout the campus," he added.

"In fact," continued the steering committee chairman, "we're looking forward to a gymnastic exhibition and a modern dance program which will have student participants. We are excited, too, about some of the unique and interesting faculty presentations that are being planned."

Dr. Chesin also spoke of plans for a preview program to be held on Sunday, Oct. 1. At that time there will be sample demonstrations of the C-U Day program. Being invited are leaders of various area organizations who will be asked to invite their memberships to the campus on Oct. 21.

In the Department of Afro-American Studies, Edoho B. Edoho has been designated as acting chairman until the beginning of the fall semester next year.

In the Educational Communications Center Robert Rowe has been asked to take over full-time liaison with private and public funding agencies to develop projects and grants to supplement the budget of the center. William Mulvey will assume the leadership of the center as acting director.
