MILNE JUNIORS WIN GAME JUNIOR NEWS CLASSES WILL PRESENT "ANNUAL ANTICS" TONIGHT

Last Friday, March 2, the Milne Juniors defeated School 27 by a score of 29-8. Even though School 27 was represented by a stronger team than the Juniors played in their previous engagement, they were defeated by the Milne Juniors by an even greater score than that of the first game. Sipperley was high scorer with eight points.

The Fifth Annual Antics of the girls gym classes will be held tonight at seven thirty in the Page Hall gymnasium.

There will be several stunts and acts, such as tumbling, dancing, and basketball.

The tickets are twenty-five cents and can be obtained from Grace Gallion, Frances Bremer, and Janet Bremer. Tickets may be returned if they are not sold.

CLUB NEWS

The members of the Debate Club were entertained this week by a humorous political debate between Charles Fobson and Kenneth Christian, State college students.

Two members of the Debate Club, Franklin Steinhardt and Herbert Marx, visited the State college--Middlebury debate of March 1.

On March 14 the Traffic Club will present a mock trial at their meeting.

The Current Events Club will give a debate in Senior High assembly Wednesday on the subject: "Resolved, that Private Air Mail Contracts should be Reissued."

The Typewriting Club plans to make pictures on the typewriter for the exhibition on March 16.

The members of the Girl's Shop Club are making different articles, such as wooden animals for the lawn, leather articles of all kinds, book ends of wood, wooden figures, and clock cases.

The Cooking Club, which meets in the Home Economics room, learned how to cook Welsh Rarebit at their last meeting. The members of the club have decided to pay dues of 15¢ a week.

The Etiquette Club held its regular meeting last Friday at 2:15. The following officers were elected: president, Lowell Gypson; vice-president, Arthur Smith; and secretary, Virginia Kelsey. During the meeting the club studies proper etiquette by giving examples, illustrations, and short skits.

The Science Club, under the supervision of Mr. Eckert, is planning to give a Science Magic Show in assembly soon. At its last meeting the club decided to have a section on the Junior High bulletin board where they will post notices and interesting scientific information. The club will study static electricity next week.

JUNIORS HAVE ASSEMBLY

Junior High School had an assembly yesterday at 11:30 o'clock, in charge of Foster Sipperly, president of the Student Council. Tom Watkins, president of the senior council, presented pins to the members of the Student Council.

The following committees were appointed: lost and found committee, Betty Reudeman; chairman; assembly, Frances Bremer; chairman; and constitution, Frances Bremer, Carolyn Houseman, and Betty Reudeman. The members of these committees asked for suggestions from the student body.

HOMEROOM NEWS

Homeroom 121 has decided to have its meeting on Mondays at 11:30. In their last meeting they decided to let Grever Fayles purchase flowers for their homeroom with money from their treasury. They also discussed songs they would like to sing in assembly.

Homeroom 130, under the supervision of Mrs. Barsom, plans to have an assembly program this month. Nearly all the members of the class will participate in a play they will give as a part of the program.

PARENTS' NIGHT

Annually Milne High School sets aside a certain night which is called Parents' night. This affords the parents of the high school pupils an opportunity to visit the school, to meet the faculty, and to see exhibits of work which their children have done.

Parents night is not only a benefit to the parents but to the children also. The pupils are given a chance to show their parents their ability to accomplish many things which their parents might otherwise not hear about.

We believe that the children take a greater interest in their work if they know that their parents are interested enough to pay their school a visit on this occasion. We can make this a successful parents' night if we urge our parents to come to meet the faculty. In this way they will make the faculty feel that they are co-operating with them. Let's urge our parents to come with their friends.

HOMEROOM PLANS TOURNAMENT

Homeroom 127 plans to have a Checker Tournament today, March 9. Those who will compete are:
 William Perkins vs. Martha Gordon
 Edmund Hasking vs. Carolyn Hausman
 John Jenkins vs. Mary E. Gillett
 Lowell Gypson vs. Virginia Kelsey.
 Those who will bring the checker boards are: Marian Koosbob, William Perkins, Grace Gallien, and Betty Leitch.

CRIMSON AND WHITE SONG

The following song was found in a June, 1905 issue of the Crimson and White. It was awarded first prize in competition for the best school song in that year.

The Crimson and the White

1.
 On a hill within a city we call
 Albany by name,
 Stands an old and famous high-school
 that is surely known to fame.
 For it's our own dear Normal and its colors proud and bright,
 We hail in ringing measures the
 Crimson and the White.

Chorus

O, the Crimson and the White,
 you are ever in our sight;
 While we cheer for dear old
 Normal, and the Crimson and the White.

On the foot and the base ball
 field our boys excel the rest;
 And when the girls play basket ball, they rank among the best;
 So is work and play divided,
 while the fleeting moments bright,
 Ever shorten our glad school days
 'neath the Crimson and the White.

Chorus

O, the Crimson and the White, you are ever in our sight.
 And we give thee cheers for Normal,
 and the Crimson and the White.

ETIQUETTE CLUB QUESTION BOX

Question: Which is correct--to introduce a boy to a girl or a girl to a boy?

Answer: The boy is always introduced to the girl.

Question: If two girls and one boy are walking down the street should the boy walk between the two girls?

Answer: No, he should walk on the outside, just as he does when walking with one girl.

Have you questions like these that are puzzling you? If so, leave them in the Etiquette question box on the information desk. The Etiquette Club will answer your questions through the Crimson and White.

SUGGESTION

Homeroom 128 suggests that the girls of Milne High School give a bridge party for their mothers and other members of the family.

LIBRARY

THE MYSTERIES OF ENGLAND

WORD PUZZLE

"He's been working on another big experiment lately, hasn't he?" Saunders asked the butler.

"Oh, yes sir," was the reply. Sometimes when I'm waslking past the door I hear him swearing and throwing test tubes on the floor. When I go in to calm him down he kicks and beats me. He has not been looking so good the last few days, although he's calmed down a bit. I'm quite worried about him. You know I've taken care of him ever since his mother and father died and I love him as if he were my son!" he added.

When Malone and Saunders reported to Scotland Yard, Malone said he was stumped, but Saunders said nothing.

About a week later, a young man was strangled to death in his bed. As before, all clues led to Lord Greystokes' mansion, but every time he was asleep or reading peacefully in his library.

It so happened, all these "Greystoke murders" as they were called, occurred every Monday night at twelve o'clock sharp. Saunders had laid out plans for the capture of the murderer. These were his plans:

The time came! A revolver report pierced the still night air. All Scotland Yard officers were alert. All clues as before led to the mansion, but five minutes later Greystoke was found fast asleep in his bed. How did he get in the house when it was so closely guarded? It was uncanny!

The next day a man and his dog were out walking. When they passed the house where the murder occurred the man said to his dog, "Sport, that's where Sam Brown was murdered last night. Too bad, eh old boy?" The dog looked at the man intelligently, then at the house and then began to sniff.

Fill in the blanks spaces with four letter words, using the same letter in each case but changing their order.

- A - - - - old lady
- Of - - - - interest
- Put on-her - - - -
- And away she went
- " - - - - " (her son's name), she said:
- "Give me, I pray!
- The wherewith to
- - - - today."

If you solve this puzzle please show it to Elizabeth Simmons. The answer will be given next week together with the names of those who complete this puzzle correctly.

REVIEW OF BOOK

100,000,000 Guinea Pigs

By Arthur Kallet
F. J. Schlink

The great adulterations and misrepresentation of foods, drugs and cosmetics must be brought to the public's attention at once. This book 100,000,000 Guinea Pigs, says that we are all laboratory guinea pigs and any manufacturer tries out his goods on us. The apparent worthlessness of the Federal Food and Drug Administration and the Federal Food and Drug Act is brought before you clearly now. Do you know that the great big apple you eat for lunch is covered with arsenic and lead, that all or most of your fruits are sprayed with a great amount of arsenic or lead and that it is never taken off! The authors tell us that today the amount of poison in your food lessens your life from three to ten years. Do you know that many of your valuable drugs such as ether are often adulterated and that if you die from this, no action is taken by the law against the company?

Some of the "Little White Lies" of our manufacturers are given below. Pepsodent Toothpaste is dangerous because it takes enamel off teeth. Kolynos Toothpaste contains a dangerous amount of soap. Ex-Lax is habit forming. Mercurchrome is absolutely no good. It does not kill germs.

ANSWER TO LAST WEEK'S LUBREY WORM PUZZLE

He was too young to count.
