Gen. Bradley Answers Questions on Army Allotments

I HAVE received so many letters asking for an explanation of the new dependency allotments that I wish to take this column for an explanation of it. The new allotments are, of course, especially important now that fathers are entering the services in greater numbers.

Perhaps the best way to explain the changes which have been made in the allotments is by answering some of the questions which I have received.

Q. I understand that Class B-1 dependents under the new law are those who depend upon the enlisted man for their "chief" support. What is meant by "chief" support?

ANS. "Chief" support has been construed to mean over 50 percent of the dependent's income.

Q. Is the soldier's contribution to the dependency payments increased under the new law?

ANS. No. His contributions remain unchanged. He pays $22 a month if he has class A or B or B-1 dependents; $27 a month if he has class A, AND class B or B-1 dependents.

Class A dependents include wife, child, or former wife divorced. Class B-1 includes parents, brothers, and sisters who are dependent upon the soldier for their chief support. Class B includes parents, brothers, and sisters who are dependent upon the soldier for only partial share of their support (construed to mean less than 50 percent.)

Q. I am a girl, 22, crippled, and dependent upon my brother in the Army for support. Will I continue to get allotments?

ANS. Yes. Brothers, sisters and children must be unmarried and under 18 years of age to come under the provisions of the law. But they may be of any age if physically incapable of self-support.

Former Congressmen File For OPA Director Post

By CHARLES SULLIVAN

Looks like people want to work for the OPA in the New York area.

For the three titles involving rent jobs alone, over 1300 had filed before the Federal Civil Service Commission decided to close down on applications. The figures:

- Rent aide.... 369 applications
- Rent examiner..... 239 applications
- Rent inspector..... 734 applications

The post of Regional Director, one of the biggest jobs to be filled through civil service procedures, has pulled close to 100 applicants.

Mr. James E. Rossell, Director of the Civil Service Commission's New York offices, called in examiners from Philadelphia, Boston, and Washington, to facilitate the task of examining and grading the applications for these and other posts being filled competitively.

The Commission expresses high gratification at the number and quality of the men who have applied. Among those who have permitted themselves to be placed against a background of civil service for the job held by Sylvan Joseph are several former members of Congress, industrialists of nation-wide fame, and administrators with long backgrounds of successful operation in municipal affairs. It has been stated that Daniel P. Woolley, New York City Commissioner of Markets, has filed for the post of OPA chief here. However, there has been neither confirmation nor denial from Mr. Woolley or the Commission.

Asked whether the problem of filtering out the best-qualified men presented any unusual difficulties for a policy-making post, Mr. Rossell answered that the methods of selection were proceeding smoothly and rapidly. "There are a certain number of technically trained men," he explained. "And above these, there are a few others whose technical training is buttressed by unusual depth of background and actual achievement." Applicants are rated against a set of standards on a rating schedule. The Commission did not wait for applicants to come in. It made a campaign to seek out qualified personnel, urging them to try for the post.

They're Interviewed

All of the men who applied filled out the usual application form and received an interview. When the weeding process is finished, there will probably be another interview of those who come within "shooting distance" of the post. And finally, three names will be selected for submission to the Office of Price Administration officials in Washington. Before actual appointment, however, the names and ratings will be reviewed by Commission officials in Washington. Of the three names, OPA will select one.

No formal list of eligibles will be set up. It's a "one-shot" opportunity. However, the Commission may utilize the names of those who have applied for other posts in the Government service.

It is expected that a formal announcement of appointments may be forthcoming within two weeks.

POST-WAR Dismissal Pay

WASHINGTON—At least one employee organization, the American Federation of Government Employees, is coming out with a specific demand for something substantial to Government employees who have to be dismissed when it's all over. The union wants a dismissal wage, so that employees won't be left stranded when their jobs fold up. After World War I, no such plan was put into operation, although the individual departments occasionally helped their employees. The results weren't good.

Says James B. Burns, President of the organization:

"In some respects, unless prompt remedial measures are taken, Government employees will be in a less favorable position than those in private industry. For example, they will not receive severance pay, which is customary in many industrial employments, and they will not have the benefits of social security insurance to tide them over a jobless period. Most of them will have a considerable amount of annual leave due them, but not all..."

Brigadier General George L. Van Deusen, Commander of the Signal Corps Eastern Training Center

WAR DEPT. Reductions Are Coming

FORT MONMOUTH, N. J.—Brig. General George L. Van Deusen, Commanding General of the Eastern Signal Corps Training Center, last week gave civil service employees at Fort Monmouth a definite indication of what the future holds in store.

"As the course of war progresses towards victory," the General told the employees, "the need for civilian staff will decrease. With the lessening of training for the soldiers, there will be undoubtedly be contractions in the size of this organization and many of you will return to your normal pursuits. You who leave will be given as much advance notice and information as is possible. I do not expect any material changes within the next few months."

U. S. Employees Cleansed Of 'Draft-Dodger' Charge

By JEROME YALE

WASHINGTON—Right on the heels of President Roosevelt's vigorous defense of Government employees (see editorial, last week's LEADER) from unwarranted charge of "draft dodging", another vindication came to the Federal employees. And from the strangest place, too.

The Costello Committee of the House, which had set out with much shouting about the perfidy of Federal employees, came back with a report that completely cleared the government workers, and in fact, showed that deferments of these men were even fewer in number than had been claimed by their defenders.

The number of draft-age men working for Uncle Sam in Washington, was found to be under 7,000. This figure includes fathers (pre-Pearl Harbor) and men in 4-F. The greater part of the deferments granted have been to men working in the field services of the Army and Navy—arsenals, shipyards and similar establishments.

In 50 of the 72 agencies investigated, the Committee found no problem of occupational deferment. One cause of confusion was the fact that in some instances private contractors working on government contracts had requested draft deferments for employees, and these were credited to the Government.

After completing its investigations, the Committee made these recommendations:

1. Review of the deferments to classify employees so that their civil service titles would indicate more clearly the work they do.
2. Questioned the concept that possession of academic degrees made their holders scientists.

Re-employment Rights

WASHINGTON— Re-employment rights of men and women in the armed services are explained by the United State Civil Service Commission, in a special letter to the departments (Departmental Circular 438). These rights include:

—A job of equal seniority, status, and pay for permanent employees (this doesn't go for temporaries).

—Probationary status for employees who were on probation when called into the service.

—No particular status for an employee who had a war service appointment when he went into the Army or Navy—except that he can have another war service appointment if he is discharged before the end of the war.

—Employees entitled to re-employment rights will be promoted if they would have gained promotions in the normal course of events.

—Within-grade salary increases which would have come if the employees hadn't entered military service.

Take A Leave

—Government employees going into the armed forces may resign their civilian jobs or obtain a leave of absence without pay from their departments. The Civil Service Commission recommends a leave of absence, in order to safeguard the employee's retirement rights.

—Entitled to benefits are members of the Army, Navy, Coast Guard, Merchant Marine, WACS, WAVES, SPARS. Enlistment or a commission in a reserve unit of the Army or Navy forces does not entitle a government employee to re-employment rights, unless he has seen active service.

Learn This Trade, Girls; Get Paid, Help the War

Something interesting for women: A chance to learn a trade, help the war effort, and be paid for it. Moreover, it's the kind of trade every woman will be able to use in her own home after the war's over.

The United States is calling upon women to take jobs as Operators-in-Training, to serve with the U.S. Naval Clothing Depot in Brooklyn. During training, the Government pays $3.68 a day; and when the training is completed—in about three weeks—the pay is raised to $5.12 a day, and the official title of the job becomes Power Sewing Machine Operator (Female). What's more, for all work in excess of 40 hours a week, overtime pay (approximately time-and-a-quarter under present government scales) will be paid. And for night work, an additional 6c an hour is added.

They Get Paid For Ideas

NEWARK—Federal employees in many agencies—notably the War and Navy departments—are being urged to use their heads—and get paid for using them.

A small simple portable shelf which hitches onto a filing cabinet and leaves the filing clerk with two free hands for her work instead of having to juggle a lapful of papers: That idea was worth some good cold cash to an employee of the Office of Dependency benefits.

Another employee couldn't see any reason for keeping papers clipped together after they are filed away; that suggestion saves thousands of hard-to-get clips each year. A simple idea, but it paid off.

These were two of the suggestions dropped into the "idea box" (Continued on page 7) and are accepted, is the use and care of power sewing machines, threading, winding bobbin; replacement of needles, you'll learn straight seam sewing, back tacking, and seam operations for making pockets.

You must have completed eighth grade in elementary school in order to be eligible. here is no age limit for applicants—and in the lower bracket, girls as young as 16 can be accepted.

Appointments are known as war service appointments. This means they're not guaranteed to last beyond the duration of the war plus six months.

You can apply at two places whichever is closer to your home: The Recorder, Labor Board, U. S. Naval Clothing Depot, 29th Street and 3rd Avenue, Brooklyn; or the U.S. Civil Service Commission, 641 Washington Street, Manhattan. You may obtain an application by mail, by writing to Recorder, Labor Board U. S. Naval Clothing Depot, Brooklyn 32, N. Y.

Burdened by Debt or Rooked by Gyps, There's Help Now for City Employees

By FRANCIS KELLY

Mr. E, a New York City employee, had been borrowing money from time to time in order to help tide him over during his wife's illness. The woman didn't get well, and one day, Mr. E found himself desperately in need of $5 to pay a doctor's bill. He spoke to a co-worker about his plight, and from the co-worker obtained the name of a certain gentleman, a lender, who would help him out. From that gentleman, Mr. E got the $5 he needed, and agreed to pay back $6, within a week. But when the week's end came 'round, he found at there had been several obligations incurred incident to the illness, and he couldn't pay the bill. The lender agreed to take interest alone, $1—and $6 was made payable the following week. The process continued, and when again Mr. E was unable to pay, he found that he owed $7, and if another week would pass, it would be $8. Then the debt finally reached $10, that sum (not the original $5) became the principal, with $2 payable within a week. Mr. E continued to pay interest whenever he could.

The Debt Grows

The debt finally reached $50 principal, with $10 interest payable within the week, $20 interest payable in two weeks. At this point, Mr. E's family was disturbed by phone calls during the night while he was at work. In an effort to clear himself of this involvement, Mr. E spoke with some of his fellow employees about getting a larger loan somewhere. He was referred to a jeweler, who he was assured could get him some money fast without any trouble. He visited the jeweler, and was shown a ring "worth $300." The jeweler explained that since Mr. E had no collateral, he would permit Mr. E to take the ring by simply signing a receipt for it. He suggested that Mr. E take it to a pawnbroker in the vicinity; he could realize more than 50 percent of its value, and he could pay the jeweler back in 15 installments at a later date. Mr. E signed the receipt, took the ring, and went to a pawnbroker. The most he could get for the ring was $25.

Mr. E finally became angered, and never paid the jeweler. Three months later he found the jeweler had entered judgment against him for $501. The receipt he had signed was a confession of judgment!

This little story is a true case the buyer defaults at any time, no matter how small the balance may be. Employees who become involved in such a maze rarely understand, or don't bother to read, the terms of the contract. At the same time, there is a class of installment house which makes little effort to clarify the consumers' obligations or to explain the company's recourse in the event of delinquency. Under the guise of simplifying records and payments, the companies find it very easy to add bill on bill. It is only when the employee has failed to make an adjustment on payments and the company has gone through with a repossession order, that Mr. Civil Servant realizes the total loss.

It often happens that an employee, disgusted with the company or unable to continue his payments, says: "O.K. Go ahead and repossess!" This is what happens. Mr. S had bought furniture and made payments regularly for nine months. He was ill for six weeks, during which time he received no salary. Since he couldn't pay the furniture was repossessed. Mr. S had one consolation—he thought that he was now relieved of the $135 balance due. He received a notice of marshal's sale but paid no attention to it. Later, he learned that the proceeds of the sale came to $30. Service charges of $12 were deducted, and $18 was credited to Mr. S. He was then served with a summons for $117, the balance due.

That's the law.

There Is Aid

What can be done about cases like these?

The City has set up a Credit Counseling Service for the specific purpose of helping employees in the clutches of money-lenders or floundering in a morass of debt. The Service, headed by Civil Service Commission President Harry W. Marsh, has offices at 299 Broadway. Any employee of the City may come in and present his problem. There is no charge.

President Marsh, in a comprehensive report to the Mayor, estimates that 50,000 City employees are in debt. There is a big job to be done here. How the City is meeting the problem forms the basis of an article in next week's LEADER.

Why Indebtedness

A breakdown of the reasons for indebtedness:

1. Health problems and medical expenses.
2. Home management problems.
3. Co-signing on notes for others, who then default.
4. Gambling and drinking.
5. Installment buying.
6. Emergency needs—fuel, uniforms, moving, taxes, vacations, weddings, etc.

Installment Buying

Among low-paid employees installment buying is a common practice. This group appears to have no other recourse. When clothing is needed. Often, installment debts go back to the date of marriage and just keep mounting. The New York City Credit Counseling Service, interviewing employees who had gotten themselves deeply in trouble found that, as new purchases kept being made, the sums were added to the balance of previous bills, so that no bill was ever really satisfied, and there was no receipt for single items purchased over a period of years. By this practice, the installment company is able to repossess all the items purchased in the event

SHE'S A WAVE NOW! Remember her? Miss Eileen Riordan, better known as Miss Civil Service in that big LEADER contest held in the summer of 1941 to discover the loveliest girl in the service. A Welfare Department employee, Miss Riordan had been secretary to First Deputy Commissioner Edward Rhatigan. To the recruiting station, arm in arm, went Miss Civil Service and a close friend, Muriel McKenna, secretary in the Division of Emergency Relief. They joined up together. Shown in the photo is Mr. I. J. Fox, one of the judges, presenting the first prize to Eileen.

THE MAYOR His Chauffeur

A change in the status of the Mayor's chauffeur is being considered by the City Civil Service Commission.

The Commission has indicated it would like—to.

1. Take the position "Office of the Mayor—Chauffeur-Attendant" out of the exempt class and put it in appropriate spot in the competitive service.

2. Transfer the incumbent to a competitive civil service spot as an auto enginemen.

Tuesday, November 9, 2:30 p.m. is the time at which a public hearing on this matter will be held at the 299 Broadway offices of the Commission.

Housing Agency Called Unfair—Why? Because It Pays Better Salaries

Unofficially, it has been learned that there is a feud going on between the New York City Housing Authority and the City officials.

The trouble seems to be that the City Fathers consider the housing body too good to its employees. While other City agencies are holding on to their pennies, the Housing Authority is fairly generous.

The biggest source of trouble is this: City departments generally make their appointments at the minimum salary allowed by law and only give promotions when it means the employee concerned will get a $1 raise. The Authority thinks nothing of promoting employees when it means a substantial increase. And employees of the Authority receive more money for the same work than City civil service appointees in other departments.

They'd Rather Work There

The Authority makes its appointments from the same lists as the other City agencies, and candidates who are "in the know" sometimes hesitate to take offered jobs when there is a chance that they may get into the Authority.

They Get Better Break

The Housing Authority has a peculiar setup which makes it possible for the employees to get a better break. The Authority doesn't have to depend on the City Budget for its money. It does, however, follow regular civil service procedures in hiring and promotions, and is required to make an annual report to the Board of Estimate.

Evidence of the fact that something is up: The Authority submits its wage schedule to the Board of Estimate each year for of their salary range than the bottom.

Clerk-Typist	$1,201-$1,800
Bookkeeper	$1,801-$2,400
Stenographer	$1,801-$2,100
Porter	$1,200-$1,500
Law Clerk	$1,801-$2,400
Maintenance Man..		$1,620-1,920

City workers, performing the same type of work, at substantially lower wages may not agree with the logic that the Authority is being unfair to anyone.

The whole problem can be stated like this: Shall the Housing Authority be dragged down to conform with other departments—or shall other city departments be brought up to meet the same standards as those of the Housing Authority?

approval, same as other agencies.

On July 23, 1943, the Board of Estimate received the schedule and referred it to Budget Director Thomas J. Patterson "for study." To date, there has been no report from the Budget Office on the schedule.

Following are some of the salary scales being followed in the Housing Authority. And most of the employees are nearer the top

SUBWAYS

Seniority Straightened

Sixteen street car operators in the Board of Transportation had their seniority records straightened up by the City Civil Service Commission last week.

They were originally on the eligible list for auto-engineman. Then they took a training course for street car operator.

They finished the course on July 1, 1941, but for some reason the list didn't get to the Certification Bureau of the Commission until October of that year.

Meanwhile, some of the men had come in to the Commission and complained that they were being overlooked while others, below them on the list, were getting jobs.

The last of this group were appointed on January 16, 1942.

The Commission decided that if things had been done properly, they would have been appointed on July 14, 1941, and gave them all seniority back to that date.

The following men were involved: Jacob Ostrowsky, Louis Copozzi, Alex Bounous, Clemens Kropp, Morris Winick, William Reichert, James McKechnie, Harry Kushner, Theodore Zander, Daniel J. Perez, Robert J. Dixon, John R. Carson, Edward M. Hartman, Charles E. King, Richard W. Astbury, and George A. Baist.

This complaint is nothing new. Ever since the private subways were taken over by the City, the men who formerly worked for the other lines have felt they were considered step-children compared to those who started in as City employees when the municipally owned subways opened.

WELFARE

Clerks' Course

Department of Welfare hoped to start an in-training course for its employees who were preparing for the Clerk, grade 3-4 promotion examinations. But by the time the department announced its plan, almost everybody had signed up for some other training program.

Newest announcement is that the course will be given after those who have taken the first part are notified if they have passed. Then the lectures will prepare them for the second half of the examination, based on the work of the department.

All Saints' Day, last Monday, Catholic employees of Welfare were allowed to check in 2 hours late after attending services. From other departments they got reports of employees having to get up at 5 a. m. to meet their obligations to the Church and their department.

To the Wars

This week, it's two for the Army, one for the Navy from the Department of Welfare.

The following are off to serve Uncle Sam:

Abraham Raisen, Social Investigator WC NO. 24, Army.

Charles J. Sheehan, Asst. Supervisor, Veterans Division, Army.

Oldrich Wild, Mechanical Engineering, Draftsman, Div. of Building Management, Procurement and Service, Navy.

Ineligibles Eligible

Here's news from the Civil Service Commission for persons in Welfare who are on the list for promotion to assistant supervisor, grade 2, Social Service.

Social investigators who had served 6 months were eligible to take this promotion examination. But that didn't meet the State requirements for Child Welfare positions and they couldn't be appointed.

Only 12 persons on the list met the State requirements. Three more will be qualified in December.

However, there are vacancies in the Division of Public Assistance, and the Commission decided that persons who meet the State requirement for that job will be certified from the list to fill the vacancies.

BUDGET

Roll Up Sleeves

This is the time of year when the budget bureau employees and the clerks in the executive offices of all the City departments can take a long breath and roll up their sleeves.

The annual fest called the BUDGET is beginning to roll around. The departments have been notified that by February 1, according to the Charter, they have to send in a little communication to the Budget Office telling how much money they'll need for fiscal year 1944. Then comes the series of cuts by the Budget Office, loud yells by the departments, public hearings, City Council meetings, Board of Estimate meetings, but most of all, WORK and more work for a lot of City employees.

ARMY ALLOTMENTS

Q. I am divorced from a soldier. I have been receiving $25 a month from him by Court order. Will I get more now that he is in the Army?

ANS. No. The dependency allowance in the case of a divorced wife may not exceed the amount of alimony awarded. The most a divorced wife may receive is $42 a month; with one child she may receive $72, plus $20 for each additional child.

Q. I am married to a soldier, have a child of six. Will I get more money now?

ANS. Yes. You were receiving $62 each month. You will receive $80 in the future.

Q. I am a widow, dependent on my single son. He is in the Army. I believe that I am entitled to more than the $37 a month which I was receiving each month. But the last check was still for the same amount. What must I do to get the extra money? How much more should I get?

ANS. You don't have to do anything. It may take a few months until the government completes the bookkeeping to straighten out the payments to each dependent. You will get back payments to make up for any you may have missed. The Office of Dependency Benefits, which issues the checks, asks dependents to be patient. You will receive $50 each month.

Q. I am the wife of a service man. I cannot understand why my $50 a month was left unchanged while other types of dependents obtain more?

ANS. The government felt it would be unwise to increase the allotment to wives of service men without children. The reason: Too large an allotment might deter many, who are able, from direct participation in the war effort. Furthermore, many service wives make desired readjustments in regard to living arrangements while their husbands are in the armed forces. Many wives of service men, although childless, will receive more under the new legislation. They receive the $50 monthly irrespective of other dependents, formerly in many cases the wife received less than $50 because the allotment had to be apportioned among the dependents.

Q. Who receives the largest increase in benefits under the new changes in the dependency law?

ANS. Wives of servicemen with one or more children received the largest increase. The government felt that they deserved special consideration to help them meet the increased costs of living. The drafting of fathers with major responsibility shifts the burden of family care to the government. Thus, the allotment of the wife with one child is increased from $62 to $80; with two children from $75 to $100; $20 a month for each additional child.

Q. My husband, a veteran of the last war when he served in the Marines, has joined up again, and is in the Marine Corps Reserve, with a limited service rating. Will I now be entitled to dependency payments?

ANS. Yes. The new law includes men in your husband's status. It also extends the dependency benefits to three top grades of enlisted men.

Q. Do officers' dependents get dependency allotments?

ANS. No. Officers are not included. Special allowances are granted to officers under special conditions. The dependency benefits described here, however, go only to enlisted men.

UNIONS

Hatch Act Faces Test

WASHINGTON—The Hatch Act, which curtails political activities of Government employees, will shortly be facing a test in the courts. The act, which has blocked Federal employees since its passage, was one of the subjects upon which the United Federal Workers of America, CIO, plans to take decisive action.

The union's national executive board, meeting in Washington, has decided also to "concentrate its forces"—and those of the CIO—behind legislation to get Government employees the basic pay increases which workers in private industry have won.

Social Security Benefits
And a third action upon the union's agenda consists of a campaign to obtain social security benefits for war service employees, who face dismissal when the war ends. It is of interest that another employee organization, the American Federation of Government Employees, AFL, is also planning to take action in order to buffer the temporary employee who must leave his job when it's over. The AFL group is asking a severance wage.

UPWA Secretary - Treasurer
Eleanor Nelson refused to disavow the name of the individual whose case will be used to test the constitutionality of the Hatch Act. But the suit will rest on the ground that the Hatch Act deprives government workers of their full right of the franchise and makes them second-class citizens.

THE COURTS

Of Interest to Civil Servants

Here are recent court decisions of interest to civil service employees:

CIVIL SERVICE TECHNICAL GUILD vs. LAGUARDIA: The Supreme Court ruled that the employment of private engineering and architectural firms to prepare plans for public works did not violate the law which requires civil service appointments where practical. The relationship is not an employer-employee affair, the Court ruled, but a temporary service matter. Court ruled, but a temporary MATTER OF SHEEHAN. In this case an employee of the Board of Transportation was dismissed on charges. However, there was also a criminal case on the same grounds pending at the time he was dismissed. He was acquitted of the charge, but the Supreme Court ruled that this did not prevent the Board from firing him. The B. of T. was also upheld in its refusal to withhold the departmental trial until after the criminal proceedings were decided.

KONIECZNY vs. STREETER: Upstate, in Erie County, the Supreme Court wouldn't invalidate a written test for police lieutenant although the court believed that some of the questions were inept, and some of the official answers possibly incorrect. Only when the conduct of the Commission is arbitrary or unreasonable did the Court feel it had the right to interfere.

SANITATION

Overtime Pay Wanted

Pay for overtime work has long been a plea of Sanitation employees. Representatives of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, AFL are holding meetings with executives of the department to try and work out a method of getting the men some money for the extra days and hours they put in.

At present, the City policy is to grant time-off for overtime work, but the Sanitation men say the department is so understaffed that they get the overtime work, but the time-off just can't be arranged.

And as an argument for their side, the Sanitation employees take a look at other cities. Here's what they find:

Niagara Falls, N. Y., double time for holiday work.

Springfield, Ohio, double time. Philadelphia, Department of Public Works employees, double time.

The following cities pay time-and-a-half for holiday overtime; Marquette, Mich.; Redford Mich.; Pueblo, Colo.; Springfield, Ohio; Fort Atkinson, Wis.; and Stevens Point, Wis.

What these cities can afford to do, the Sanitation men feel, the nation's largest City should be able to afford.

Armistice

Armistice Day means another short working day at Sanitation. The work-day for the holiday has been cut to 5 hours. Veterans employed in the department will be excused for the day with pay. Decoration Day is the other day when war veterans get a day's vacation "with."

Also, members of the New York Guard or the Naval Militia who are parading that day, get off with pay. They must prove that they actually paraded.

Heroes

Annual awards to employees of the Department of Sanitation for the performance of heroic deeds and meritorious service will be made on Saturday, November 20, by the Mayor.

The department of Sanitation Band with the Drum and Bugle Corps will provide musical background for the awards.

The men who receive awards:

PUBLIC WORKS

Cleaning Women Still Waiting

They expected more money on their last paycheck, but the cleaning women in Department of Public Works didn't get it. They are the ones who took an $80-a-year cut in salary when they were transferred to permanent jobs. The argument that they should be willing to take a little less for the sake of permanency didn't make much of an impression on the $840 a year employees.

Latest report from the Budget Office is that the "red tape" should be cleared up by the time the middle of the month payrolls appear, but the thing won't be retroactive.

In other words, while they've been waiting for the City to unravel the "red tape," it's been costing them money.

McMAHON TELLS SECRETS OF WINNING PAY RAISE

Mr. McMahon's subject: "How a Civil Service Union Can Obtain Wage Increases".

MEN and WOMEN

The abnormally heavy traffic now being handled by American railroads has created an urgent need for men and women in nearly every department.

There are over 200 occupations used in the operation of a railroad, in its shops, roundhouses, terminals, and its lighters, tugs, barges and marine repair yards. Many of the occupations now open require no experience. Facilities are available for proper instruction and in most cases those hired are paid while learning.

Helpers are in great demand in nearly every ordinary technical occupation, for example, machinist helper, boilermaker helper, electrician helper, and many others. Freight handlers, men and women for many kinds of maintenance work, brakemen, swifchtenders, car department employees, are other types of jobs for which no experience is necessary. There are many, many more.

Men between the ages of 16 and 55 and women between 21 and 45 who are in good health are now being employed.

Railroad jobs are protected by seniority thereby affording excellent prospects for continued employment after the war. Promotion is generally based on ability and seniority standing.

Employees are eligible for retirement benefits under a federal law enacted exclusively for such employees.

Essential workers need release statements.

at ODB by employees who were interested in trying for the cash prizes of from $5 to $250 for worthwhile suggestions.

One employee who thought the phrase "appropriate action will be taken" could just as well be left out of a form letter. It saves thousands of lines of typing each year. And it brought a number of greenbacks to the smart person who thought it up.

One card had the words "soldier separated" on it. New employees constantly made the mistake of thinking it referred to divorced men, instead of men who had left the service, and the cards kept getting into the wrong folders. Changing the wording cleared up that problem. Other suggestions for new filing routines, shorter form letters, a faster way to find vouchers, all paid off to the ODB workers who came across with the ideas.

In the first group to get public recognition, as well as cash for their brainchildren were 11 employees of the Newark Army office.

The Winnahs! Colonel T. D. Joiner, USA, deputy director, made the awards in the absence of Brigadier General H. N. Gilbert, head of the ODB. The following received the awards.

Randall R. Henderson, Ruth-erford; Mrs. Theresa E. Sheehan, Bellville, and Mrs. Anna C. Stocker, Nutley; Sylvia Katz, Mrs. Ruth M. Alt, both of Newark.

Mrs. Corinne F. Gillett, Washington, D.C.; Palmer J. Herts-gaard, Minneapolis; Mrs. Hazel A. Jones, Montgomery, Alabama; Miss Katherine N. Nuccio, Buffalo; Mrs. Myrtle Skillings, San Francisco; and Miss Isabel Livingstone, Washington, D. C.

The director of ODB has announced that the ideas dropped in the lobby suggestion boxes will be reviewed regularly by the office's "Ideas for Victory" committee and awards made for ideas which eliminate waste, speed production, and conserve manpower.

Decision by Intuition

THE time of year is approaching when budgets must be made up. This is the way it works.

The department heads submit their itemized statements explaining how much they need, and for what.

Then the Budget Director prunes these statements down.

Then the Mayor goes to town.

Rather, the Mayor goes off into an ivory tower, with his thoughts and his little pencil.

Now begins the period of decision by intuition. Two clerks lopped off here, a group of per annum men turned into per diem men somewhere else, maybe a sprinkling of salary raises to keep up appearances.

Decision by intuition is unscientific, and hardly fitting this City. There are people in this town who know something about those budgets, because they have to live with them. These people are the employees. The smart thing to do, it seems to us, would be to call in the representatives of the major employee organizations—and get their ideas, too. We'll guarantee, Mr. Mayor, you'll find plenty. You'll learn things about the jobs that you've never—with all your omniscience—known. You might even find that employees have some ideas on more efficient operation, and can suggest ways to save money. The men and women who are in the City's civil service will be here—most of them—a long time. They can think things through on a long-term basis. The very least you can do is listen to them—before the budget is prepared. It will help you to see the picture in a new way. What if it takes budget-making out of the realm of intuition? Decision by intuition isn't in vogue these days.

Federal Employee Tries the Post Office

Sirs: I, like thousands of other Federal workers, work regular office hours. Every evening I have a few hours that I'd like to invest in helping the war effort—and my personal finances.

When I heard that the Post Office was looking for part-time workers. I jumped at the opportunity. It was just what I wanted. Something that would help the government, help me, didn't require much travel from home. The type of work I could handle with no trouble.

But, when I got to the Post Office it was the old story of Red Tape.

"You work for the U.S. government", said one, "You should have known better than to come here for a job. It's against the law to hire you."

Back in 1783 or so, it seemed a good idea to keep anyone from holding too many jobs at one time, so a law was passed that if two jobs in the Federal service pay over $2,000 a year you can't hold them both.

Wonderful! So today in the midst of a war labor shortage, the Post Office is crying that it can't get enough men who can read and write for the extra rush-season help, but they can't take Federal workers who are ready, willing, and able. It's a shame.

A.K. RIKERT

Yes, it's a shame, and a folly, and a terrible waste of manpower. It's time these hoary old rules which hamper the war and don't help anybody, were crossed off the books.—Editor.

Why She Won't Work for the City

Sirs: I wanted a job with the City—even a temporary job. When I saw in last week's LEADER the listings of these jobs that were open with the City I said to myself, "Good".

So I went to one of the City Colleges to apply for an office job. When I got there I was told that I wouldn't do because I didn't have a college diploma.

The job paid all of $1,320 a year too.

That evening I met a girl I used to know in high school.

She has a job with the Federal Government. She never even finished high school, but she is earning $1,752 a year as a glorified filing clerk.

I don't think I want to work for New York City anymore, and I think I understand why a lot of other people don't want to work for the City either.

ANN R.

Fire Eligible Is Worried

Sirs: I was on the N.Y.C. list for fireman. My name came up for appointment in September 1942, but I was refused the job. The reason given was that although I was in 3-A at the time, I was unmarried, and liable to be put in 1-A. I understand that according to a recent ruling of the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court, this action on the part of Fire Commissioner Walsh was ruled illegal.

Where do I stand now?

J. B. McV.

The decision which you mention was appealed by the City. A ruling by the State Court of Appeals is expected about November 15. Then you'll know where you stand.—Editor.

Don't Repeat This!

Of War and Children

Former Governor Lehman's son Peter is the recipient of an Air Medal for valor with the aviation forces . . . Peter's pretty wife works, for nothing a year, as executive secretary of the labor-management committee, War Manpower Commission, New York area. . . State Commerce head Catherwood in line for some heavy trouble from civil service employees unless he learns to respect their right. . . What with the father-draft hitting lawyers hard, there's a growing shortage in the various City and State law agencies. If you're a draft-deferred lawyer, it's a good idea to apply now for one of these posts, with or without politics. . . Arthur Sherwood Flemming, United States Civil Service Commissioner, has fathered twin boys, and the Washington wags are saying that Flemming always did try to do what he could to help relieve the manpower shortage. . . A young fellow working as a civilian employee with the Air Forces is trying to buy out the Broadway hit "Winged Victory" for Moss Hart hit "Winged Victory" for the night of December 7, and throw a big affair for Air Forces military men and civilians. . . It's rumored in Bd of Ed headquarters that District 50 of the United Mine Workers, who took over the organization of NYC custodial workers, has already threatened to strike . . .

In Town

Things the City can do without: The business men who hang around the foot of the stairway leading down from the 2nd floor Marriage License Bureau in the Municipal Building. When the about-to-be newlyweds come down, they are buttonholed and receive a fast sales talk about the benefits of a certain resort or furniture store. It's really scummy. . . Talking about buttonholes reminds us: Ellis Ranen, who heads the AFL employee organization in town, started his career as a buttonhole-maker. . . The real reason why Pat Harnedy didn't appear on the Michael Quill radio program after having accepted the invitation, was AFL pressure. . . Ormonde J. Burke, LEADER Merit Man, is now head of the Bureau of Water Registers in the Department of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity, replacing Eugene Drum. . . Nathaniel Kaplan, former Assistant Manhattan D.A., under Dewey and Hogan, has resigned that post to set up private practice. Kaplan was in on some of the most spectacular cases tried in the old days—Scalise, Lanza, the subway "nickel-snatchers" . . . Joe Hanley ran 6,000 better than other G O P candidates in Albany, and it's being attributed to the fact that he's popular with civil servants in the Capital.

HE WON'T BE 30 until next month, but Bernard Sless has the important job of seeing that men and machines work together to produce the tools of victory.

As acting chief of the War Manpower Commission's Bureau of Manpower Utilization, he heads the staff of production and personnel experts who help war plants meet the problems of keeping wartime production schedules up to date.

His region covers all of New York State, and the major part of his work consist of helping the smaller plants. A little factory which worked all right with a peacetime staff of 50 now finds itself with a thousand workers. Mr. Sless and his staff of 44 analysts and consultants are on tap to help the management work at peak efficiency.

He estimates that the service rendered the plant is about the same as the factory would get for $5,000 from private consulting firms.

Absenteeism

One problem which they help the plants meet is that of absenteeism. In one case, the plant they were called in to help showed an average absent rate of 10 percent—and a resulting drop in production. When the situation was analyzed, it seemed that the "employees were unable to see what share they had in the prosecution of the war."

The job there was to educate the workers. They were given talks to show just how the product they manufactured was being used on the war fronts. Soldiers and sailors who had seen action were brought in; they told how they had used the product, and how badly it was needed. . . in 6 weeks, the absentee roll dropped to 3 percent.

Different plants meet different problems. Some plants, at WMC suggestion, began to pay bonuses for perfect attendance. Others started "bank nights" when workers who had been prompt and regular in their work had a chance to draw for prizes.

Help Wanted Problem

Getting more help is another problem that has led war plants to cry "Help" to the War Manpower Commission.

Merit Men

One manager said, "I have tried everything, but I can't get people."

The solution was this: Employees at the place who brought in new workers received a cash award. If the new worker stayed a certain length of time, the employee who brought him in received more money. This incentive plan worked.

In brief, it was found that where the employees were happy they stayed at the job, and put in full weeks.

The final test of employee-employer relationship," they say, "is what Tony the shear operator and Fritz the welder tell their friends at the corner saloon about the shop where they work."

"If they say they are working for a swell company, even though the shipyard pays more money, then the program is a success."

Sometime little bits of advice were all that was needed to get up a plant.

The fact, learned by these government labor experts, that young people can't stand monotonous repetitive jobs while older persons don't mind the routine work, has enabled many plants to increase their output and help their employees by redistributing the work.

Balanced Lunches

One survey showed that the workers weren't bringing balanced lunches to work. It was possible to open a cafeteria at the plant, but each morning when the employees reported to work, they each got a piece of fruit from the company.

Other plants have installed recording systems and the music helped spur up production. Lunch hour shows with professional entertainers were held in other places.

One company opened a vacation bureau to help its employees get the most from their short furloughs.

These were the types of suggestions, made to employers who in most cases wouldn't have been able to get the required survey and recommendations from other sources, which have helped to fill the convoys setting out from our harbors.

He's From Phila.

Mr. Sless acquired the background for this work at Temple University in Philadelphia. He was graduated from the school with honors, then went into the graduate study of industrial psychology. Next he came to Columbia University, here in New York City, for more study. He was going to prepare for a Ph.D., but decided to get into government work instead. In August 1940, he started with the United States Employment Service, travelling all over the country, teaching USES employees the scientific methods of hiring people for jobs. In Texas, he worked with the Army Air Corps, helping to classify 12,000 occupations. He worked in Pennsylvania, Maryland, Georgia and Florida. On December 7, 1941, he came to New York to begin work at the office here. Since then, he's been helping to win the war on the production lines.

V For Vetgossip

By ARTHUR LIEBERS

Orchids . . .

Top honors this week at Vets go without any doubt to Jackson Ralston. He's the fellow who took two and a half days from his annual leave and spent the time with cardboard and paint brushes turning out the swell posters which have blossomed all over the building asking Vets to chip in towards the ambulance fund.

He works up in Section N-3, Premium Accounts, on the 8th Floor.

J. C. Fullerton, one of the most active employees in trying to raise enough money at 346 Broadway to give the Army an ambulance is also taking odd minutes from his leave to devote to the drive. Preliminary reports, and the sight of all the tags resting on manly chests and err . . . ladies' coats, seem to indicate that this drive will hit the objective of $1,700 for the vehicle.

Wedding Bells

The tinkle of wedding bells resounded for a Vet employee last week. But she took off a few days to get married, and when she reported back to work she had a certificate from her doctor to show that she had been ill.

However, The Fourth floor felt that getting married doesn't come under the heading of ailments for which sick-leave is granted. The young lady also came in a bit late the first day she returned to work and was invited up to see Mr. Hoesch. She asked him whether his wife would have been back to work on time three days after their wedding. Mr. H. replied that he had taken a month off for a honeymoon.

Air Fight

There's a feud going on between the employees in the big room, and those in the 2nd floor balcony. The lower gang claims that the upstairs boys fix the windows without any regards for their feelings. When the upstairs boys are warm and "brown" the windows open, the downstairs crowd freezes. When the upstairs wants warm and closes the windows, then the lower layer of Vets roasts. Mr. R. is trying to straighten out these differences.

Autograph Collector

Did you know that Vets has a very industrious collector of autographs? Yep. We won't mention his name, but his second name begins with "H."

He doesn't go after movie stars or band leaders. Nope. It's just the name of employees at Vets. Only male employees, and only certain male employees.

The male employees whose autographs he's after are those he catches smoking behind the frosted doors of the rooms labeled "Men." When he traps a few, he extends a piece of paper and says, "Sign."

POLICE CALLS

PBA Fireworks

Pat Harnedy will always remember this Tuesday. Until now the delegates had been bearing the brunt of the cops' dissatisfaction with the referendum. Tuesday, they get back at Pat, PBA President, and make him swallow some of the gall and wormwood that they have been dieting on for the past two weeks.

Delegates are going to ask, "How Come?" and they will expect some pretty good answers. The going promises to be pretty tough on the officers.

As a matter of fact, Pat may have to hold on to his head as well as his hat—some delegates may seek to lop it off. A couple of delegates have been openly saying that Harnedy should be impeached. They point to Article 7, Section 7 of the PBA by-laws, which states that officers may be removed for incompetency by a two-thirds vote of the delegates.

Most delegates, however, think that's pretty tough talk and suggest consideration of all the angles before going through with such a proposal. If Harnedy is ousted, they want to know, who will replace him? Vice-President Carton? That would mean, they say, that Harnedy would be the scapegoat and Carton would profit from the situation. Is Carton to bear no part of the blame, they argue, while Harnedy bears it all?

Popular Vote

But all this impeachment talk is just talk. What is not merely talk is the possible emergence of the popular vote idea into the area of respectability among the delegates. At the October meeting vocal but voteless Ray Donovan, perennial PBA rebel, introduced his proposed amendment for popular elections of PBA officials. This is the empty-umphant time that the persistent Donovan has brought this matter up. Until this year he never had a snowball's chance. This past June, however, when the delegates voted down his proposal, they were afraid that the campaign by Donovan's Committee for a Vote for Every Patrolman might put it over. Accordingly, the delegates stalled for time by voting in favor of a proposal that policemen be polled to determine their sentiments on the subject of popular election of officers. When they saw that things looked quiet, they simply reversed their vote — at the August meeting—and the matter died there.

Now however there may be a different view about the idea. Delegates may feel it wiser now, in view of the temper of the men, to vote in favor of the Donovan proposal as a sign of protest. Delegates may feel that if cops don't get a chance to explode against PBA officers their resentment may result in the removal of some of the delegates.

New Affiliation?

Not to be dismissed lightly from the thoughts of patrolmen is the possibility many are speaking about of joining up with the AFL. Since PBA officials have resisted every effort to bring to the organization's front experts who could do more effective work, the idea has spread around that affiliation with the American Federation of Labor would provide the PBA with men experienced in organizational politics, public relations, and legal problems of civil servants. This, though, is still in the talking stage, and the men who are interested still don't want their names mentioned.

It certainly looks as though it's time for a new champion of the cops to come up.

To put it mildly the PBA is in a state of flux. Many things are happening. One of them is the—

Pension Forum

The Pension Forum consists of a group of young patrolmen who have been laying plans for their own organization for some time. We have spoken of this group before, but this is the first time we have been able to present definite and concrete information concerning this group.

The reason we can now speak of them is that last Thursday a public hearing was held before the Board of Standards and Appeals to consider the application of the Pension Forum for a certificate of incorporation. At the hearing it was disclosed that the purpose of the proposed organization is to make actuarial, statistical and comparative surveys of pension systems and to disseminate information about pension systems among the members of the group.

Those named as the incorporators were: Richard F. Sullivan, Robert J. Gallati, Peter Schneider, Terence B. McGuirk, and Daniel F. O'Sullivan. Named as directors until the first annual meeting were these same five and ten others. The attorney for the group is Saul Radin—he has been prominent in the litigation involving the question of the legality of the $1,200-salary-law for rookies.

Objecting to the granting of the certificate were representatives of the AFL, CIO, and the Civil Service Forum. Not knowing anything about the incorporators, all of these organizations objected because they felt that there were already enough organizations in the field. However, after Mr. Radin and one of the incorporators explained the purposes of the new organization, there was evidence that at least one and possibly two of the objectors would withdraw their objections.

What's Holding Up Lieutenant List?

There is still no word from the City Civil Service Commission as to when the Police Lieutenant list will finally appear. It is possible that the list may not be published before Christmas.

Here's what has probably delayed the appearance of this long-awaited list:

The questions on the examination were of the essay type. They called for somewhat lengthy answers in which the candidate had to explain, for instance, how he would meet a certain emergency.

Marking papers of this type obviously presents a much more difficult task than when the answers are of the true-false variety, or when there can only be one possible answer.

Unless the papers are marked with extreme care, there is always the possibility that some candidates will oppose their ratings on the grounds that there was error in the markings, and bring court action to have their grade raised. This can delay appointments and tie up the list in a tangle of legalistic red tape.

Wonder if it's true that the real reason why the list is being held up, as one high police official told an intimate, is that the Mayor and P. C. don't want any more promotions now? It's said they feel the department might become top-heavy.

ice, guided by these interviews, certifies to the Local Board that these employees are engaged in a Critical Occupation, there is a great likelihood of occupational deferment.

Safety

Employees will recall the Yard's announcement on September 24, 21 days after the launching of its campaign to reduce mutilation of checks, that only one out of four checks were then being mutilated as compared with the previous figure of three out of four; and, on October 22, the announcement that only 3% of Yard checks were received in poor condition as compared with 10½% in August. Whereas, on October 15, the Safety Engineer reported a record safety performance for the month of September, 303 days worked for every day lost due to injuries as compared with 220 days worked a year ago September. A comparison of these figures reveals that Yard employees became 71.43% more efficient in handling their checks over an approximate 60-day period while, calculated on the basis of the daily rates of man hour losses suffered last September and this September, Yard employees lost 26.67% less days due to accidents incurred over an approximately comparable two-month period—a difference in increased efficiency of 44.76%. Is this to be attributed to the fact that, possibly, it is easier to care for a check than a human body? One would think that the employee would be inclined to be more careful when his own welfare and convenience are involved, than those of others.

Navy Yard Gazette

We Get Quoted

The following is quoted from the October 26th issue of the regular weekly summary of the Personnel Supervisor's meeting: "RESPONSIBILITIES OF PERSONNEL SUPERVISORS. The responsibilities and functions of Shop Personnel Supervisors attracted attention after an article in a recent publication circulated about the Yard. It is quoted below for the purpose of future reference, because it appears to partly outline reasons for a successful program of Shop Personnel supervision. It is well worth consideration and adherence to the expressed ideas of the article."

The article referred to, of course, is the one entitled, "Justice At The Yard" which appeared in the October 5th issue of this column. Navy Yard Gazette is happy to have had this opportunity to contribute constructively toward the solution of the personnel problems and is the strong desire of the Editor to continue in this direction.

You Want Release

There is always a tendency among dissatisfied or over-anxious individuals to write to the highest authority in the land. On some occasions, this might do some good; but, usually, the best results are obtained, with less confusion, when the respective authorities are approached in a logical sequence. It is with this thought in mind that we quote the following message from Yard officials:

"Special attention is called to the fact that some employees are applying directly to the War Manpower Commission for certificates of availability, thus circumventing the step of Navy Yard procedure for obtaining these releases. This practice will definitely confuse and retard the issuance of these certificates and will not accomplish the purpose intended by the employee. This practice will be frowned upon, and is to be discouraged. Information for Personnel Supervisors concerning the steps to be followed in securing a certificate of availability may be obtained from Lieutenant M. E. Larkin, Exit Interview Office."

Also of interest to many Yard employees are those notices which they have been getting, requesting that they report for an interview with a representative of the War Manpower Commission at Building 152, Basement, between the hours of 8 A.M. and 6:30 P.M. As a rule, most employees have reported promptly and without fail. But some of them do not report. This is a decided disadvantage not only to the Yard, but to the employee as well. These interviews are conducted as the result of letters sent by the Yard to the various Local Boards, requesting that before steps are taken to induct the employee, the case be referred to the United States Employment Service for certification; and if United States Employment Serv-

How many boys from Civil Service won't come back?

NOBODY knows the exact number. Nobody. But—
The number who do come back—on their own two feet instead of in a flag-draped box—will be in exact proportion to the job we do here at home.

For every minute that we can help shorten the war will mean more lives saved. (213 Americans were killed in the final day of the last war, and 1,114 were wounded before the 11:00 o'clock Armistice took effect.)

Now one way all of us can help shorten the war is to tighten our belts and buy more War Bonds. Yes, still more. And . . .

If you think you're buying all the War Bonds you are able to, imagine—for a minute—that it's after the war . . .

. . . you're standing at the station . . . a bunch of home-town boys, still in uniform, climb off the train . . . one of them kisses his wife and grabs his kid in his arms . . .

. . . and then he turns to a young woman beside them, a girl who looks like his wife's sister, and you overhear him say . . .

"Catherine, I don't know how to tell you how sorry I am . . . it's such a shame about Joe . . . it makes me sick all over when I think how he'd be here today if the war had only ended a week sooner."

Think it over. Can't you buy a few more War Bonds to help end the war that week or month sooner? Sure, it may mean giving up something, but what's that compared to what they're giving up? And remember, always—The money you "can't spare" may spare a soldier's life!

KEEP ON BACKING THE ATTACK!

Police, Fire 2-Bs Question the Logic
 The Police and Fire, 2-B, Eligibles Association will meet on Friday, November 12, 8:30 p.m., at Room 510, 63 Park Row.
 These men have been passed over for appointment by the departments with this logic: "Now they're 2-B," say the departments. "If we appoint them they'll become 1-A's because they'll have to give up the jobs which get them the 2-B rating. The law says we don't have to appoint 1-A's, so we won't take them."
 "This," say the 2-B'ers, "is absolutely phoney." They want their jobs as cops and firemen.

POSTAL No Logic in Overtime

Postal employees in New York City feel that the system whereby the overtime work is divided among the men works without any logic. They describe the present setup as "chaos and confusion."

Local 10, Federation of Post Office Clerks, has made several proposals to the Department to straighten out the overtime mix-up. The local suggests——A review of the personnel strength of the Post Office and a redistribution of employees to equalize the overtime.

—The practice of assigning postal employees to work overtime in terminals or stations other than where they work regularly should be discontinued.

—Recognition of a 10-hour day as the maximum work period for efficient handling of the mails.

Day Off for Sunday

According to the law governing the working of postal men on Sunday, they are entitled to a day off within the following week when they work on the Sabbath.

New York Post Office officials asked the employees to waive this right and accept the day-off at some later time and they also asked the New York Federation of Post Office Clerks for an opinion in the matter.

A letter to Postmaster Albert Goldman, signed by officers of Local 10, NFPOC, held out for the day-off, citing the following arguments:

1. The present average six-day week of a postal clerk in the mailing division is 58 hours. Unless the men get off one day in 7, their health, morale and efficiency will suffer.
2. There is no such thing as a present emergency which would justify any special arrangements. Following the deadline for Army mail overseas, comes a deadline for mailing parcels to the Navy; then a deadline for sending parcels to men in the armed forces in this country; then the regular Christmas rush. In short, there will be a sustained emergency period until January 1, 1944.

3. In view of these conditions, the employees felt that waiving the right to the day of rest would not solve the situation, but would only serve as a precedent for further waiving of the time-off right.

Won't Talk About It

A request for a conference to go into the question of overtime work in detail, was requested by William Browne, president of Local 10, but the letter reports that the request was denied.

Assistant Postmaster Charles Lubin is quoted as saying that no conference was necessary as the responsibility lay with the New York Post Office officials; and that they would meet the situation as they see fit.

Pay or Time Off?

WASHINGTON—The question of overtime pay for Federal employees or compensatory time off is the subject of a recent ruling from the Comptroller General.

When an employee subject to the War Overtime Act of 1943 works more than 48 hours a week, the order is that the administrative officer, not the employee, will decide whether overtime should be paid, or time-off granted.

Where it is decided that the employee gets compensatory time it is the obligation of the administrator to see that he gets it within 90 days.

If the administrator decides to give the employee compensatory time, but through the employee's own action, the time cannot be given within 90 days (for example, in case of resignation), the employee is not entitled to receive cash payment for the time.

If, however, the employee is unable to receive the time through no fault of his own (induction into the armed forces, involuntary transfer, etc.), he is entitled to payment for the excess time worked.

These rejected candidates will receive a refund of the $2 fee which they paid when they filed their applications.

POSTAL MAN EARNS PURPLE HEART

A former postal clerk now fighting with the Army in Africa, has received the Purple Heart award. In letters to his former co-workers, Private Seymour Goldman, formerly a clerk at the Grand Central Post Office tells how a shrapnel wound in his leg led to his receiving the badge of the Order. He's recovering and expects to be back in action soon.

How Can Civil Service Be Improved?

The article which follows below is considered by the editors one of the most important which has appeared in The Civil Service LEADER. Written by an outstanding civil service expert, it goes deeply into the various aspects of civil service and government personnel problems, and attempts constructive suggestions for improvement. While discussing the New York State civil service system, the principles and conclusions cited may well be applied to municipal civil service in any community, and has bearing on the Federal scene as well. This is recommended reading for every administrator and every employee in a supervisory position. The author: H. Eliot Kaplan, Executive Secretary, Civil Service Reform Association.

Twenty years ago Winston Churchill, commenting on the civil service in Great Britain paid it this high compliment:

"Powerful, incorruptible, anonymous, the civil service of this country discharges a function which is invaluable and without which immediate disaster would overtake any administration that attempted to carry on the business of the state. In all this quick moving life what a vital thing it is to have some instrument which is thinking not in days or in months or in parliaments, but is thinking of the affairs of the British Empire in terms of a whole lifetime."

The same thing might well be said not only of the American federal civil service, but of the public service of so great a State as New York.

New York State was the pioneer in adoption of a merit system law. Progress since 1833 has been considerable, yet slow, irregular, plodding and only partly effective. As compared with other States, and particularly with the federal service, the achievements of the merit system in New York have been considerable. But this is so only relatively speaking. At best, New York's merit system is only half as effective as it could be made. No planned, sustained program for the achievement of a well-rounded, sound personnel system has ever been developed under State leadership, much less ever carried out to completion.

The basic trouble has been lack of will to make the merit system work objectively, impersonally and entirely non-partisanly. Neither foresight nor imagination has been sufficiently invoked to make the plodding civil service machine hit on all cylinders. Neither political courage nor dynamic leadership has existed in the Civil Service Commission itself to gear the machinery of the civil service to mesh with administration of the operating departments so as to provide coordinated, internal management of State departments and agencies along modern personnel lines.

It is time for a general overhauling. This requires enlightened and courageous political leadership. It calls for intensive education not only of the lay public, but also of those in the civil service as to what is needed to make our merit system work effectively within the framework of democratic government.

Governor Dewey has lately reorganized the State Civil Service Commission. The Commission in turn has reorganized its technical staff. Is this the solution to the problem of making the merit system in New York State what it should be—a personnel system to provide the State with trained, competent employees, managed with the same scrupulous regard for economy and efficiency expected of employees of private enterprise, insuring to the taxpayers a dollar's worth of service for every dollar expended on public payrolls, and underwriting for public employees a real attractive career in government service?

Governor Responsible

Hardly so. At best it is only scratching the surface. It does not go to the heart of the problem. And the only one who can make the State's public service what it really should be is Governor Dewey. No law, no machinery or gadgets, nor even lavish appropriations, will alone help to solve the problems of state personnel management, unless the Governor takes the full responsibility for making the merit system work effectively. The Governor as the chief executive is responsible for determining the State's policies of administration and must assume leadership and furnish the guidance. On him depends primarily the calibre of the State's public service. Regardless of the theory of the independence of the Civil Service Commission, in practice the State Commission is the agency through whom the Governor exercises leadership of the State service and determining kind of service the people get from its public servants.

In our New York State service law we already have of the essentials of a comprehensive merit system. Nevertheless, the law needs some overhauling—some elasticity—tightening of loop-holes. This alone is merely the beginning.

The real crux of the matter is the strengthening of administration of the law which demands a strong, well equipped and adequately financed personnel agency. We have the framework of this now, but not the real substance.

Half Political, Half Merit
To begin with, we must decide whether the civil service is to be half political and merit, or all political, or merit.

Our present set-up of a partisan, politically selected commission is hardly calculated to objective, non-partisan administration of the civil service. The system has one political strike against it before it even under the best of political auspices.

The first thing then is to reorganize the Civil Service Commission itself. One of the alternatives must be adopted:

- (1) A multiple commission composed of representatives of the various departments, conducting investigations of the system, similar activities, but completely relieved of administrative functions. Responsibility for execution of policies and administrative operation of the system would be vested in a single qualified personnel director selected by a professional and technical staff.
- (2) A single executive—comparable to other heads of departments—superseding the civil service commission, and solely responsible for direction and administration of the state civil service department.

We have not yet rid ourselves of the notion that continuing patronage is the province of political party in power, that somehow this control must be exercised through a politically controlled personnel agency. There will always be some political patronage available to political organizations, both the executive and high administrative places where policies of administration part of their responsibility in the menial jobs for which competition is limited. To otherwise is impractical. We are here concerned with the problem of patronage but the vital issue of state personnel management.

Next week, Mr. Kaplan describe his concept of that must be done by a personnel agency.
