500 SENIOR CITIZENS TO SPEND DAY AT UNIVERSITY CENTER

Approximately 500 members of 25 Albany County Senior Citizens Centers will meet on the State University of New York at Albany campus on Wednesday, June 11, for the Second Annual Senior Citizens Day.

The program, according to coordinators Carol Anstett, educational administration, and Gary Jones, university affairs, is the continuation of a project begun last year. The purpose of the project is to develop stronger links between the university, the senior citizens in the Albany area, and the County Office of the Aging, which provides services for the county's older citizens.

President Louis T. Benezet will welcome the visitors at 10 a.m. in the Main Theatre of the Performing Arts Center, along with William Vogt, county director of the Office of the Aging, and Albert Kirsch, whose realty company has provided funds for the luncheon, as have several area Kiawanis Clubs.

The program will include a slide lecture by Ray Falconer, research associate, Atmospheric Sciences Research Center, on "Yellowstone Park in Winter" in the PAC Main Theatre at 10:45 a.m., and a talk by Martha Egelston, professor emerita of history and professor in the General Studies program, on "Growing Old With Mao--The Place of the Elder in Chinese Society" in the PAC Main Theatre at 1:30 p.m. Mrs. Egelston recently returned from a visit to China.

The groups will have a luncheon in the Campus Center Ballroom, where Theresa Cooke, treasurer of Albany County, will speak. Mrs. Cooke is a SUNYA alumna.

LIBRARY MATERIALS CONSERVATION WORKSHOP AT SUNYA

A workshop on the "Conservation of Library Materials" will be held on Friday, July 18, at State University of New York at Albany, under the sponsorship of the university's School of Library and Information Science.

Harriet Dyer Adams, rare book librarian at the University Library, has conceived, and will direct, the conference which will bring together a faculty of conservators, hand bookbinders, librarians, and other specialists. The purpose of the workshop is to assist public, college, and special librarians confronted with the care of books, films, and documents.

Daily problems met by any librarian or collector, such as dampness, dryness, mold, dirt, or carelessness in handling, will be discussed and remedies proposed. Basic techniques will be demonstrated through films, discussion, and the showing of actual examples. Two exhibits in the University Library will supplement the demonstration.

Norman Tucker, research and programs officer at the Library of the Boston Athenaeum, will lead the day's discussions. Lois Jahr, supervisor of the University Film Service, will join Dr. Tucker in discussing the physical nature of library materials and the protective care of film.

Other discussion leaders will be Deborah Evetts, bookbinder at the Pierpont Morgan Library, New York, who will talk about the simpler methods of repairing books, as well as about some of the advanced restoration techniques; Christine Bain, librarian at the Dudley Observatory, Albany, who will describe how she set up a small laboratory in her own domain for the treatment and binding of her rare books; and William DeAlleaume, head of the earing House for Paper Preservation and Restoration at the New York State Library, who will describe where professional help may be obtained.

Underlying themes of the conference will be the need for adequate training of conservators and the responsibility of the head librarian in understanding the complicated problems of conservation. The responsibilities include not only a knowledge of cultural, historical, scientific, and craft skills, but also an active feeling for the allocation of funds. Dr. Tucker and others will address the topics.

The conference is open to the public on payment of a small registration fee. Those interested in further information are advised to contact Lucille Whalen, School of Library and Information Science, at (518) 457-8575.

SUNYA SUMMER THEATRE COMPANY SELECTED

James M. Symons, artistic director of the 1975 SUNYA Repertory Company, has released the names of 21 persons being invited to join the company as full company members at the University Center at Albany. They are Steven Albrezzi, Scotia, Steven Anderson, Carol Clas, Shelly Sternbach, and Devorah Zusman, Albany; Nelson Avidon and Joseph Zubrovich, Brooklyn; Jerrold Brown, Dolgeville; Thomas Clark, Middletown; Michael Gottschalk, Guilderland; Sheila Harrington and Ann Beth Petitjean, students at State University College at Potsdam; Paul Higgins, a student at SUC-Plattsburgh; Louise Itzler, New City; Richard Jones, Gloversville; Vicki Kichman, Elmira; Jerusha Kaminsky, Schenectady; Tim Luskey, Brockport; Michael McConkey, Stony Brook; and Len Scibilia, Babylon; and Mary Jo Sodd, Minneapolis, Minn.

The theme of the SUNYA Summer Theatre season will be "An American Summer" in anticipation of the Bicentennial. Four productions by American playwrights are planned: "The Drunkard," which will be directed by Edward Golden and performed cabaret-style with refreshments available at a nominal charge; "The Fourposter," to be directed by James Symons; "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" to be directed by Eric Poppick; and "Our Town" under the direction of Edward Golden.

The 1975 SUNYA Summer Repertory Theatre is a new venture for the university's department of theatre since it is the first full-time student repertory company to be established by the department. All full company members will be enrolled in a special course, concentrating on summer theatre production and management. Further information can be obtained by calling (518) 457-8606 or 457-8360.

SUNYA STUDENT VOLUNTEERS HONORED AT VA HOSPITAL

Four students at State University at Albany have been presented with service pins and certificates for their volunteer work at the Albany Veterans Hospital, in conjunction with the university's Community Service Program.

The students receiving the recognition are Jeff Smith; Batavia, Peter Zucker, Oceanside; Susan Birnbaum, Woodmere; and Deborah Baldwin, Albany. They worked in the Psychology Service of the hospital for a 16-week semester in the chronic geriatric program in such fields as reality orientation.

Dr. Simon Hoffman, chief of Psychology Service, said most of the students, though not all, are psychology majors and the program afforded them an opportunity to work in their chosen field. The students were assigned to keep a daily log of their observations and, at the end of the semester, to write up a case study of the patients with whom they were working. Each student worked under the supervision of a member of the Psychology Service.

SUNYA PHOTOGRAPHER WINS FOUR AWARDS

Edward J. Wozniak, chief photographer with the Educational Communication Center, State University of New York at Albany, has won four awards at the 1975 Professional Photographers Society of New York annual convention. One of his entries, a reverse negative color print of a cafe, was awarded both a blue ribbon and a seal of approval. The seal indicates the work will be hung at the national convention of the Professional Photographers of America. Two other entries, reverse negative color prints of the SUNYA campus, received blue ribbons.

Mr. Wozniak, who has been with the University Center at Albany for the past eight years, is enrolled in Empire State College where he is majoring in photography. He has won awards for his photographic work at three previous PPSNY conventions.

SUNYA LECTURER TO GO TO ENGLAND ON FULBRIGHT

C. Michael Darcy, visiting lecturer in educational administration at State University of New York at Albany for the past two years, has received a Fulbright-Hays Award from the Board of Foreign Scholarships and the Department of State. During the 1975-76 academic year he will be associated with the Liverpool Priority Education Project in Liverpool, England.

Dr. Darcy has been salaried at the University Center at Albany through the National Teacher Corps Project. While in England he will study policy formation in that country with particular emphasis on the role of the professional organizations. In Liverpool his particular function will be coordinating the in-service education activities of teacher training institutions and the school districts, particularly with regard to the education of the disadvantaged.

The SUNYA lecturer is a graduate of Harvard College and completed graduate work at Russell Sage College and at the University Center at Albany where he received his Doctor of Education. Mrs. Darcy and their three children will accompany him to England in September.

UNIVERSITY CENTER'S REGIONAL SERVICE SPONSORING BUSINESS SEMINARS

The Regional Advancement Service of State University of New York, which is co-sponsored by The Foundation for the University Center, will offer a summer pilot series of three-day seminars for middle and upper management of area businesses and industries. All will be conducted on the campus of the Institute on Man and Science at Rensselaerville.

"Management by Objectives" has been scheduled for June 22-25; "Communicating within the Organization," July 20-23; and "Executive Role and Methods," Aug. 24-27. Registration forms are available from RAS, Business Administration 311A, SUNYA, Albany 12222.

The seminars are designed for managers searching for methods and techniques to improve organizational effectiveness and productivity. Faculty, chosen for their specific expertise, have been drawn from business, industry, government, and education. They will serve as catalysts by lecturing, leading discussions, moderating, and providing general resources.

Enrollment in the seminar series is limited and reservations by those interested should be made as early as possible.

William M. Diamond, a marketing research specialist on the faculty of the university's School of Business, is director of RAS. The service was instituted to mobilize the university's capabilities and resources to assist the region in economic development, scientific research, and cultural enrichment.

ENVIRONMENTAL CONSERVATION INSTITUTE PLANNED

An environmental conservation institute, sponsored by the Atmospheric Sciences Research Center of State University of New York at Albany, the New York State Department of Environmental Conservation, chapters of the American Lung Association, and SUNYA, will be held July 20-25 at the ASRC Whiteface Mountain Field Station. The institute is open to all teachers wishing to incorporate aspects of environmental education into their curricula and may be taken on a non-credit or in-service credit basis.

The program is designed to treat environmental studies as an interdisciplinary concept, having roots in economic, social and political practices, as well as in scientific and technological development. Daily study themes include the atmosphere, weather, and air quality; interrelations in nature; energy sources and conservation; land use; and education and environmental law.

Among the consultants will be Robert Nurnberger, College of General Studies, SUNYA; Raymond E. Falconer, research associate, ASRC; Volker A. Mohnen, acting director of ASRC; Vincent J. Schaefer, research professor, ASRC; Ronald Steward, assistant director, ASRC; Marilyn Dubois, professional lobbyist, Environmental Planning Lobby, Glenville Environmental Conservation Commission; Edwin Ketchledge, professor of forest botany, SUNY College of Environmental Science and Forestry; Jerry Passer, chief, Bureau of Education, and Mal Coutant, regional attorney, State Department of Environmental Conservation; John Oster,

SUNYA INSTITUTE TO AID IN LIBRARY SERVICE TO BUSINESS COMMUNITY

Librarians from throughout the United States, including Alaska, will be in attendance at a three-week Institute on Library Service to the Business Community to be conducted by the School of Library and Information Science, State University of New York at Albany, beginning Monday, June 9. Robert S. Burgess, professor of library and information science, is director of the institute.

The purposes of the institute are to equip a group of public librarians to initiate or upgrade library service to business in their libraries and to equip several library school instructors to offer a course in business bibliography and library service to business. Participants will include public librarians, library school faculty, and library school graduates.

Offered by the program will be a review of business literature, with special emphasis on reference tools and services, the census and other government publications, and tools for the selection of new publications; study of various data banks useful for business reference, with "hands on" experience using such sources; analyses of service to business via lectures and visits to exemplary libraries and information centers; and assistance in planning creative and innovative programs for specific library situations, and courses for inclusion in library school curricula.

ENERGY AND URBAN QUESTIONS TO BE EXPLORED AT SUNYA SEMINAR

Energy issues in the urban environment will be discussed at a seminar to be held Wednesday, June 11, at State University of New York at Albany under the sponsorship of the Capital District Regional Planning Commission and the university's department of geography. The keynote speaker will be Irving G. Rubin of the Ford Motor Co., Detroit.

Planners, students, and environmentalists will participate in the program, focusing on the inherent conflicts between the forces of growth and increased demands on energy resources, on the one hand, and the protection and conservation of the environment, on the other. In the light of the state of the United States' and the world's energy supplies, the opportunities for and costs of, alternative methods of environmental control will be stressed.

Speakers will attempt to deal with the issues in the context of the urban environment with particular attention to the range of realistic options available and consequent changes in emphasis that may be required at the local, state, and national levels.

Panelists will be Howard B. Clarkson, State Department of Transportation; Warner P. Kuhn, associate counsel for energy proceedings, State Department of Environmental Conservation; Betty Hawkins, Albany League of Women Voters; and Paul D. Marr, associate professor of geography at the host institution. Serving as moderator will be S. Thyagarajan, executive director of the Capital District Regional Planning Commission.

Anyone interested in attending may contact Dr. Marr or Wayne Heiser at SUNYA or the Capital District Regional Planning Commission office, 457-1274.

SUNYA ART HISTORIAN RECEIVES FORD FELLOWSHIP

Ann Sutherland Harris, associate professor of art history at State University of New York at Albany, has been awarded a Faculty Fellowship on Women in Society by The Ford Foundation. The grant project, entitled "Women Painters and Graphic Artists of the 16th, 17th, and 18th Centuries", will enable her to take leave during the 1975-76 academic year to prepare her share of an exhibition devoted to women artists of the past to be held at the Los Angeles County Museum during the winter of 1976-77.

Mrs. Harris, who has published articles on women for college art departments and museums and in art journals, is a primary planner with Linda Nochlin Pommer, Vassar College professor, of the major exhibition of the works of women artists planned for the Los Angeles museum.

The art historian recently was elected to a four-year term on the board of directors of the College Art Association. She also has served as chairperson of the Committee of the Status of Women of the College Art Association.

During 1974-75 the SUNYA faculty member was appointed a State University of New York Faculty Exchange Scholar by Chancellor Ernest L. Boyer. In that capacity she visited other SUNY campuses to share research, expertise, and scholarship with faculty and students. She was chosen from among 15,000 faculty members throughout SUNY following recommendations from colleagues at the individual campuses.

EUNICE WHITTLESEY HEADS 30,000 SUNYA ALUMNI

Eunice Baird Whittlesey of Scotia has been elected president of the Alumni Association of State University of New York at Albany to serve a two-year term from 1975-77. She will be responsible for programs affecting 30,000 alumni of the 131-year-old institution.

Mrs. Whittlesey has been vice chairman-party organization of the New York Republican State Committee since 1970. She is active in Republican Party affairs at both the state and local levels.

Long concerned about pollution, Mrs. Whittlesey organized a training program for speakers on the subject and moderated the health workshop for the regional Governor's Conference on Youth. She is a member of the American Association of University Women and has served on its board for 10 years. Her other activities include seven years service to the Family and Child Service of Schenectady, and the Clean Air Committee of the Tuberculosis and Respiratory Diseases Association.

The newly-elected alumni head is a member of the Council of the State University College at Cobleskill, and is active in the New York State Legislative Forum. She is a member of The Foundation for the University Center and served for two years as national vice chairman of the Annual Fund drive for the university.

Mrs. Whittlesey received a Bachelor of Arts, cum laude, from SUNYA. She is married to Joseph Whittlesey, an electrical engineer at the General Electric Company, Schenectady. The Whittleseys have a daughter, Anne, a junior at the University of Vermont. The family lives at 118 Acorn Drive, Scotia.

"An American Summer" Theatre Program at SUNYA

"An American Summer", four plays by American playwrights, will be presented by the 1975 SUNYA Summer Theatre beginning July 17.

"The Drunkard", adapted by W. B. Smith and directed by Edward Golden, is a classic 19th Century melodrama with music and dance. The cabaret-style production will accommodate refreshments being made available during the show. It will be presented in the Laboratory Theater of the Performing Arts Center, State University of New York at Albany, July 17-20, with special late shows added on July 19, 26, and Aug. 2 at 10:30 p.m.

"The Fourposter", by Jan de Hartog and directed by James M. Symons, is a comedy which follows a married couple from their wedding night in 1890 through 1925. It will be staged in the Arena Theatre July 24-27 and again July 31-Aug. 3.

"Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?", by Edward Albee and directed by Eric Poppick, is a powerful, prize-winning drama showing the almost inhuman bitterness which exists in the marriage of a small-town college professor. The production is scheduled to run concurrently with "The Fourposter", showing two different views of married life. It will be seen in the Studio Theatre July 24-27 as well as on July 31-Aug. 3.

"Our Town", by Thornton Wilder and directed by Edward Golden, is the Pulitzer Prize-winning play showing life in a New Hampshire village, including its humor and pathos. The play will be performed in the Main Theatre Aug. 7-10.

UNIVERSITY CENTER AT ALBANY RECEIVES $9,000 GRANT FROM METROPOLITAN LIFE FOR REGIONAL BUSINESS SERVICE

A $9,000 grant to help support the Regional Advancement Service at State University of New York at Albany has been received from Metropolitan Life. RAS is a joint venture of the university and The Foundation for the University Center at Albany.

The gift was presented to Louis T. Benezet, university president, in a brief ceremony by Hugh H. Ross, regional sales manager, Metropolitan Life. It is one of seven awarded this year by the insurance company to colleges and universities to fund programs designed to promote better understanding between the business and academic communities.

William M. Diamond, associate professor of business and director of RAS, said the grant, added to the support provided through The Foundation for the University, would enable the Regional Advancement Service to provide a number of graduate assistantships for outstanding students. In turn, the effort of the assistants will provide important staff help to the program.

"The ultimate goals of the Regional Advancement Service in the economic, scientific, and cultural areas of community involvement can only be met through a continuing program of external support of the type represented by the Metropolitan Life grant," said Dr. Diamond. He further commented, "The current realities of SUNY operations do not permit a local campus to fully fund a service of this kind. We must continue to seek similar avenues of support for the future if the development, these proposals will contain the type of engineering and economic analysis that pinpoints the actual value of a Capital District location," he added.

Judges of the proposals in competition for the Metropolitan Life grant were Martha Peterson, president of Barnard College and committee chairman; Daniel Bell, sociologist on the faculty of Harvard University; Stephen R. Graubard, department of history, Brown University, and editor of "Daedalus," the journal of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences; Donald A. Odell, senior vice president and secretary of Metropolitan Life; Olin C. Robison, provost, Bowdoin College; and Mr. Fitzhugh.

2,700 NEW STUDENTS, AND PARENTS, TO ATTEND SUNYA SUMMER ORIENTATION '75

An estimated 2,700 new students are expected to participate in Summer Orientation '75 programs at State University of New York at Albany. The sessions, just getting under way at the university, will continue through the first of August.

Varying from one to two days in length, the programs will give new students the opportunity to learn about campus life, receive academic counseling, and complete their registration for the fall semester. In addition, social activities to acquaint students with one another have been planned and hour-long tours of the campus will take place. Of the new students, 1,800 are freshmen. The remaining 900 are transferring to SUNYA from other institutions.

Ralph W. Beisler, assistant dean for student life, is serving as acting orientation coordinator. He is being assisted by two student associate coordinators, eight student orientation assistants, and four student assistants.

"Our staff of 14 student employees has been carefully selected and thoroughly trained and I am very favorably impressed with the competencies they have exhibited. I feel confident that they will do a fine job of helping our new students as they become familiar with their new surroundings at the university."

At each welcoming reception a university official will speak to the new comers. Other planned activities include a language placement examination, campus safety and residence life presentations, a square dance, and a pizza party.

SUNYA AWARDS ITS FIRST DOCTOR OF ARTS

The first Doctor of Arts awarded at State University of New York at Albany was conferred at the institution's 131st commencement this month. Recipient of the degree, authorized at the University Center at Albany in 1971, was Stephen A. Hirsch, 25, of Albany. SUNYA was the first institution of higher education in New York State and in the New England states to offer the Doctor of Arts.

Under the program, which parallels the English department's established requirements leading to a Doctor of Philosophy and is designed for those desiring to prepare for careers in the college classroom rather than in research, Dr. Hirsch completed his internship teaching at the SUNY Agricultural and Technical College at Delhi.

During the past year the Albanian was a teaching assistant at SUNYA and completed work on his dissertation, "Uncle Tom's Companion: The Literary and Popular Reaction to 'Uncle Tom's Cabin'." A study of a variety of popular materials inspired by the book, it is intended to be a guide for people desiring to investigate the phenomenon of the book while studying it and also can serve as a useful pedagogical tool for popular fiction.

In June, 1970, the University Center at Albany was one of 10 institutions granted funds by the Carnegie Corporation of New York for the development of D.A. programs. The project planning group

UNIVERSITY ART GALLERY SUMMER SEASON OPENS JUNE 30

Monday, June 30, will mark the opening of the summer exhibition season at the University Art Gallery, State University of New York at Albany, where an exhibition of work in various media by 20 members of the New York City cooperative gallery, and the Art Council Collection, (an exhibition of works on paper collected in the 60's by a SUNYA student group,) will be shown. In the gallery lobby a group of color photographs called "Faces" will be exhibited. They are the work of Jerry Gold.

55 Mercer is the name and address for a loose association of New York City artists who rent a space in the SoHo district of the city. Their work is exciting and highly individualistic with no common aesthetic philosophy or style. The gallery has mounted shows, staged events, and shown films, and has tried to avoid the traditional "group" gallery structure. The exhibition was mounted by the members of 55 Mercer and is being circulated by the Gallery Association of New York State. 55 Mercer will remain at the University Art Gallery until Aug. 8.

The Art Council Collection has been used as an adjunct to the University's Studio Art program and has hung in academic spaces throughout the university. The exhibit will contain works on paper by many well-known American artists, among them Robert Rauschenberg, Edward Giobbi, Richard Lindner, Robert Motherwell, Ellsworth Kelly, and Garo Antresian.

SUNYA ALLEN CENTER SENIOR AWARDED URBAN FELLOWSHIP

Holly E. Leese, 19, of Delmar, a senior at the Allen Collegiate Center, State University of New York at Albany, has been selected by the City of New York to serve a full-time internship for the 1975-76 academic year at the highest levels of the city's government. She is among 20 college students from throughout the United States receiving the urban fellowships.

In addition to their job assignments with city agencies, New York City Urban Fellows will take part in weekly colloquia and seminars with city officials, prepare mid-year and final reports, and receive academic credit from their respective institutions. Each will receive a $4,400 stipend plus round-trip expenses.

Miss Leese was graduated from St. Agnes School, Loudonville, and is a member of the first Allen Center class. In 1976 she will receive a Bachelor of Arts in man and his institutions, an interdisciplinary degree. Internships are required for completion of the degree.

The newly-selected urban fellow, who tutors at the Allen Center, hopes to be assigned to the New York Office of Urban Planning. In September the group of fellows is given a list of 400 agencies from which to make a selection for a one-month trial period before permanent assignment.

"I'm excited about the opportunity," commented Miss Leese, adding, "I think that it's a necessary thing to have a practical
