The Class of 1933

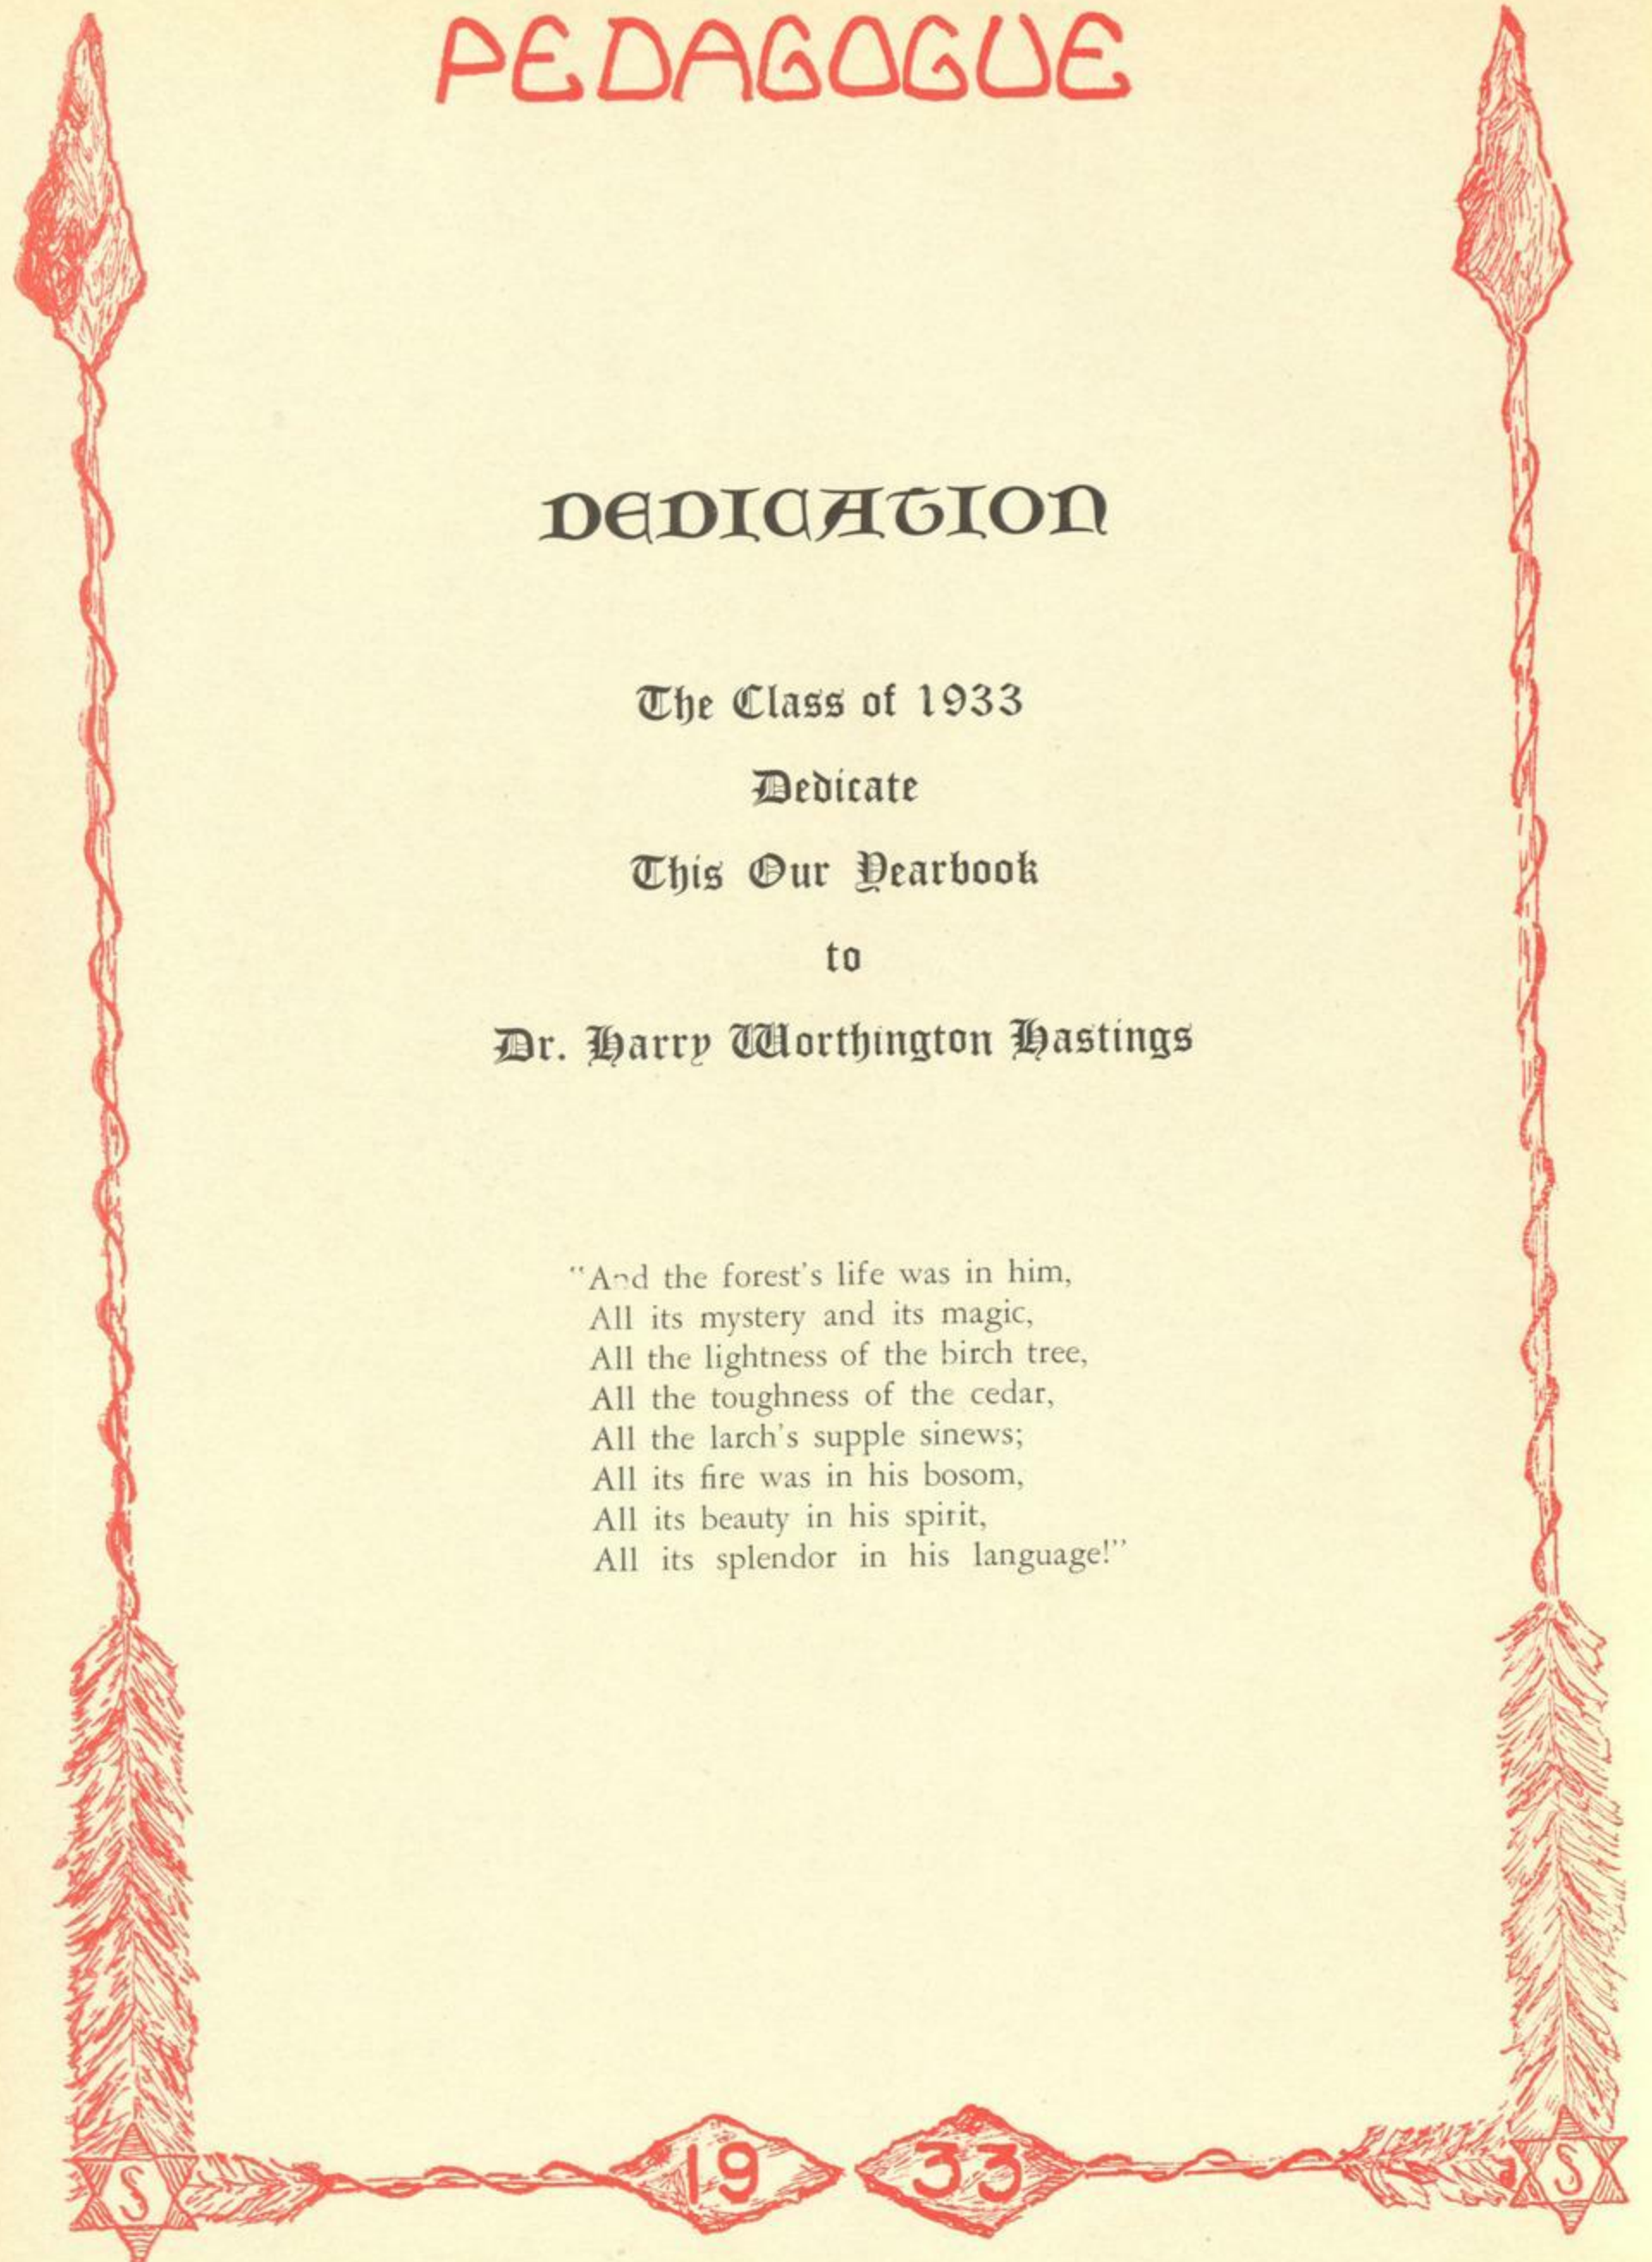

Dedicate

This Our Yearbook

to

Dr. Harry Worthington Hastings

"And the forest's life was in him,
All its mystery and its magic,
All the lightness of the birch tree,
All the toughness of the cedar,
All the larch's supple sinews;
All its fire was in his bosom,
All its beauty in his spirit,
All its splendor in his language!"

FOREWORD

"Beautiful is the sun, O Strangers,
When you come so far to see us!
All our town in peace awaits you,
All our doors stand open for you;
You shall enter all our wigwams,
For the heart's right hand we give you."

PEDAGOGUE

"Great men die and are forgotten,
Wise men speak; their words of wisdom
Perish in the ears that hear them,
Do not reach the generations
That, as yet unborn, are waiting
In the great mysterious darkness
Of the speechless days that shall be!"

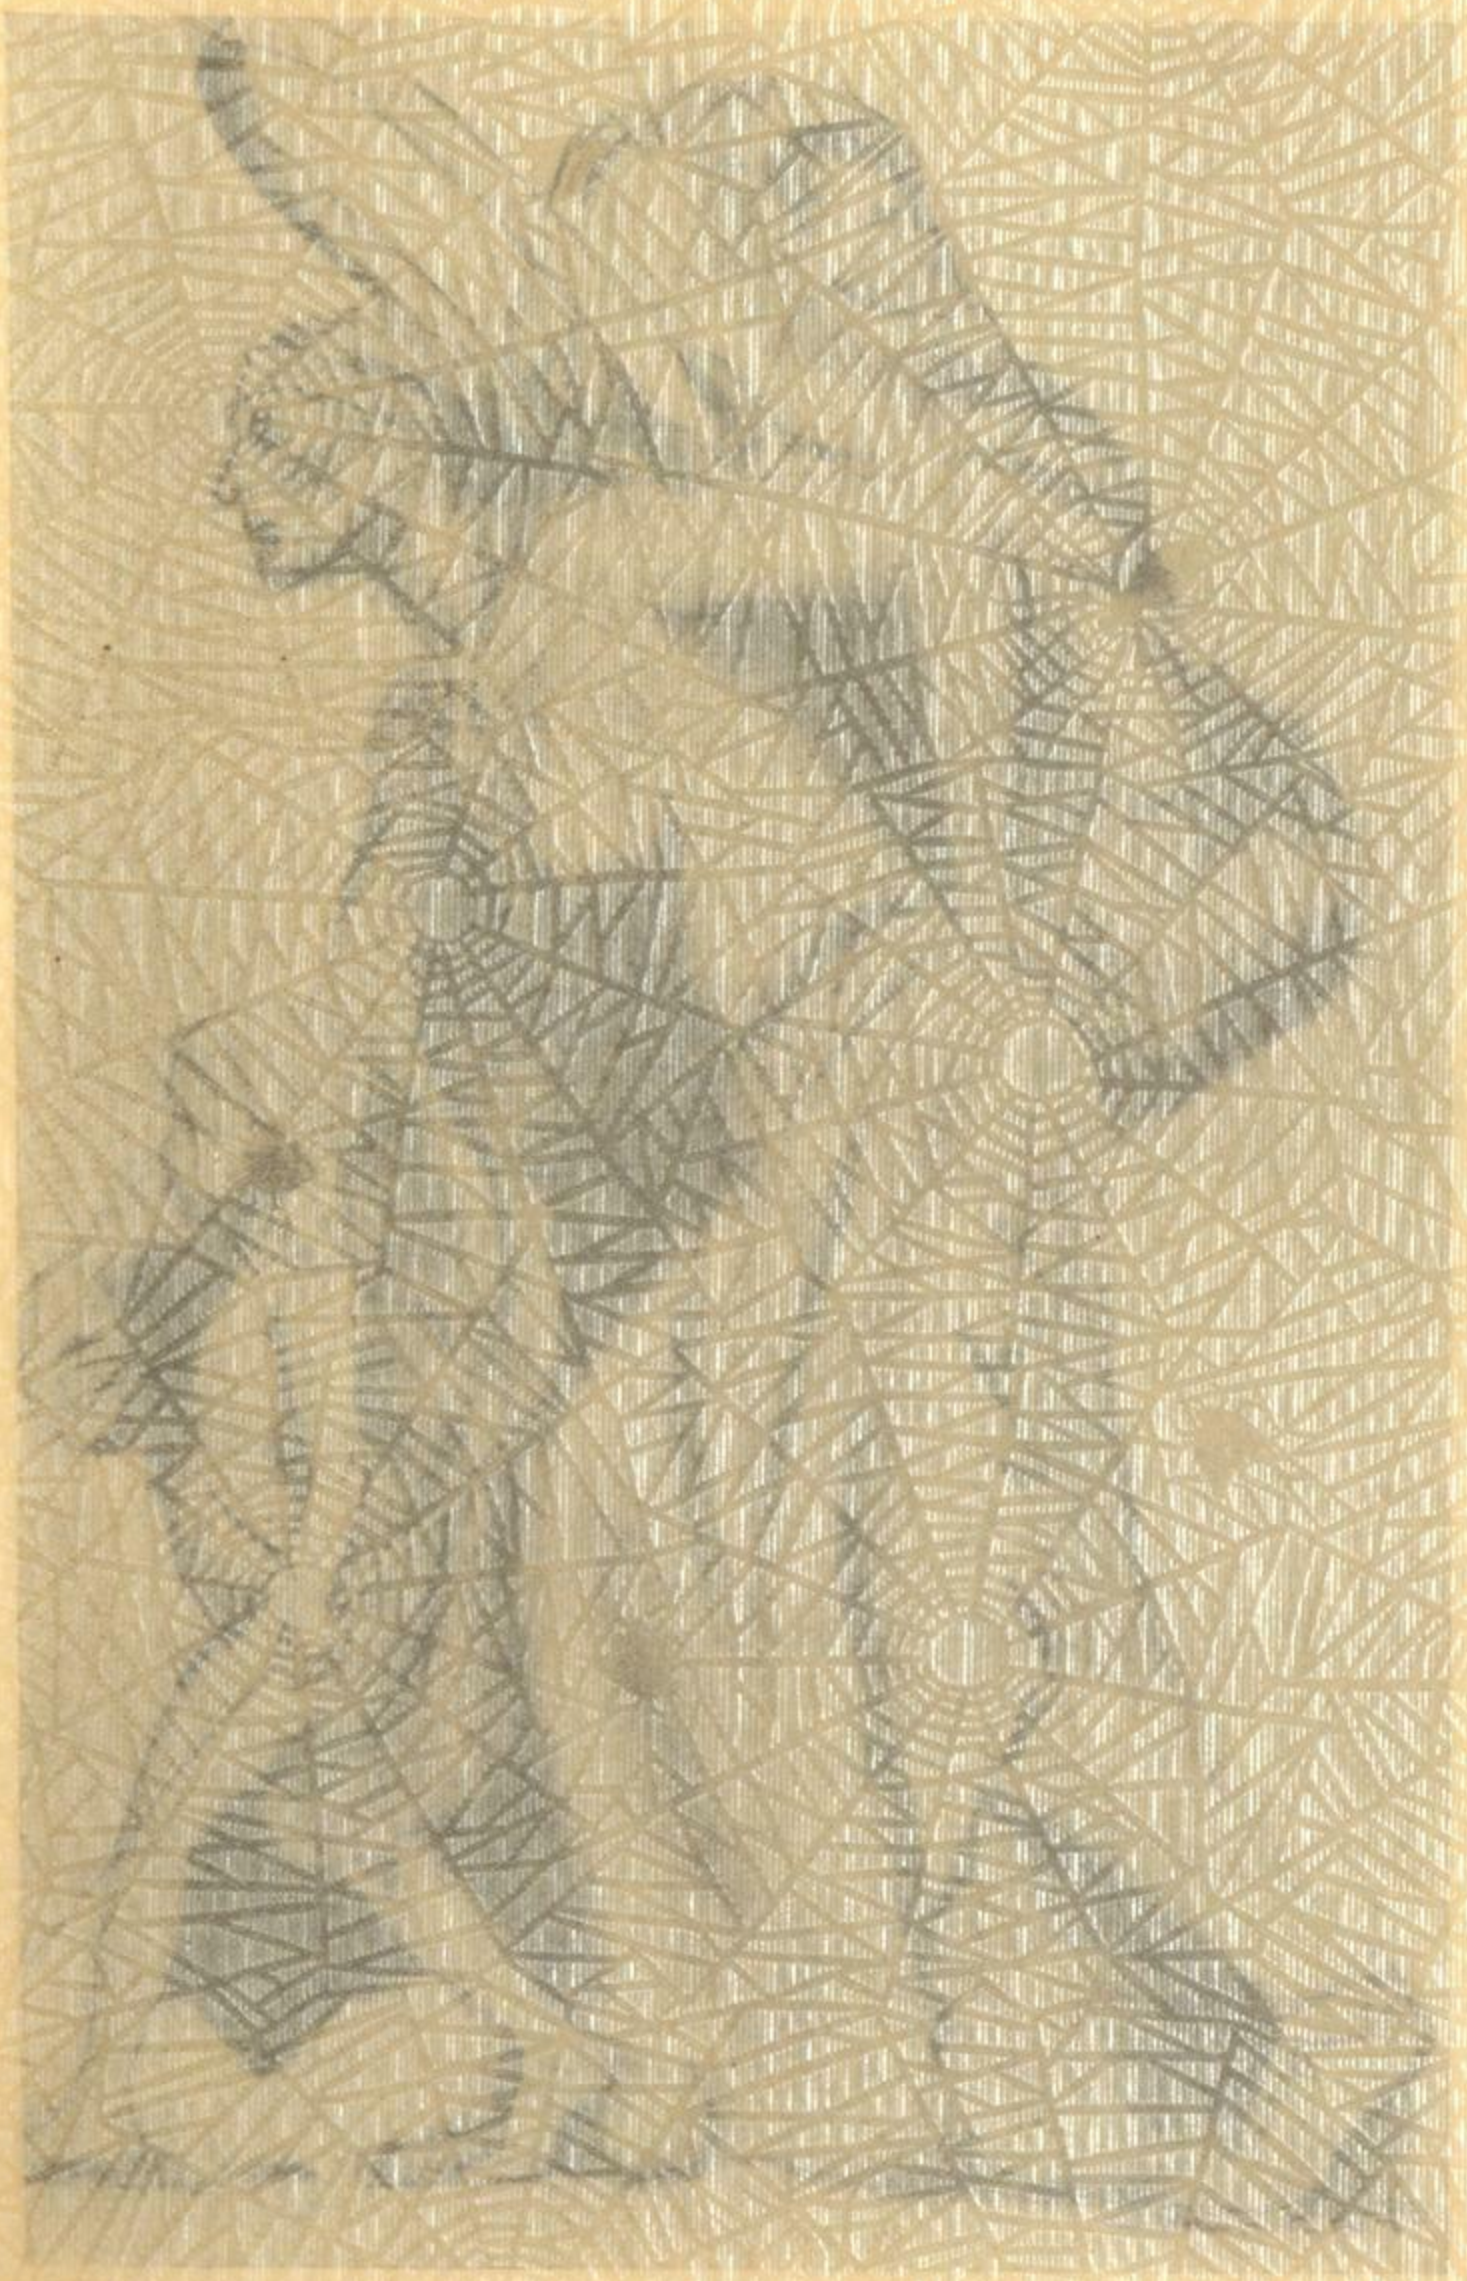

Longfellow

SENIOR CLASS SONG

We '33 salute you,
Colors of purple and gold,
Thou, Alma Mater, who givest
Precious gifts to hold,
Heart of our hearts uplifting,
Pride, Alma Mater, in thee,
Loyal to thee and thy colors,
Always, we shall be.

Years, Alma Mater, are flying,
Hurrying feet will pass.
We in the midst of your others,
Sand in your hour glass,
Striving without cessation
Onward and upward shall press,
With never a fear to hold us
From our goal, success.

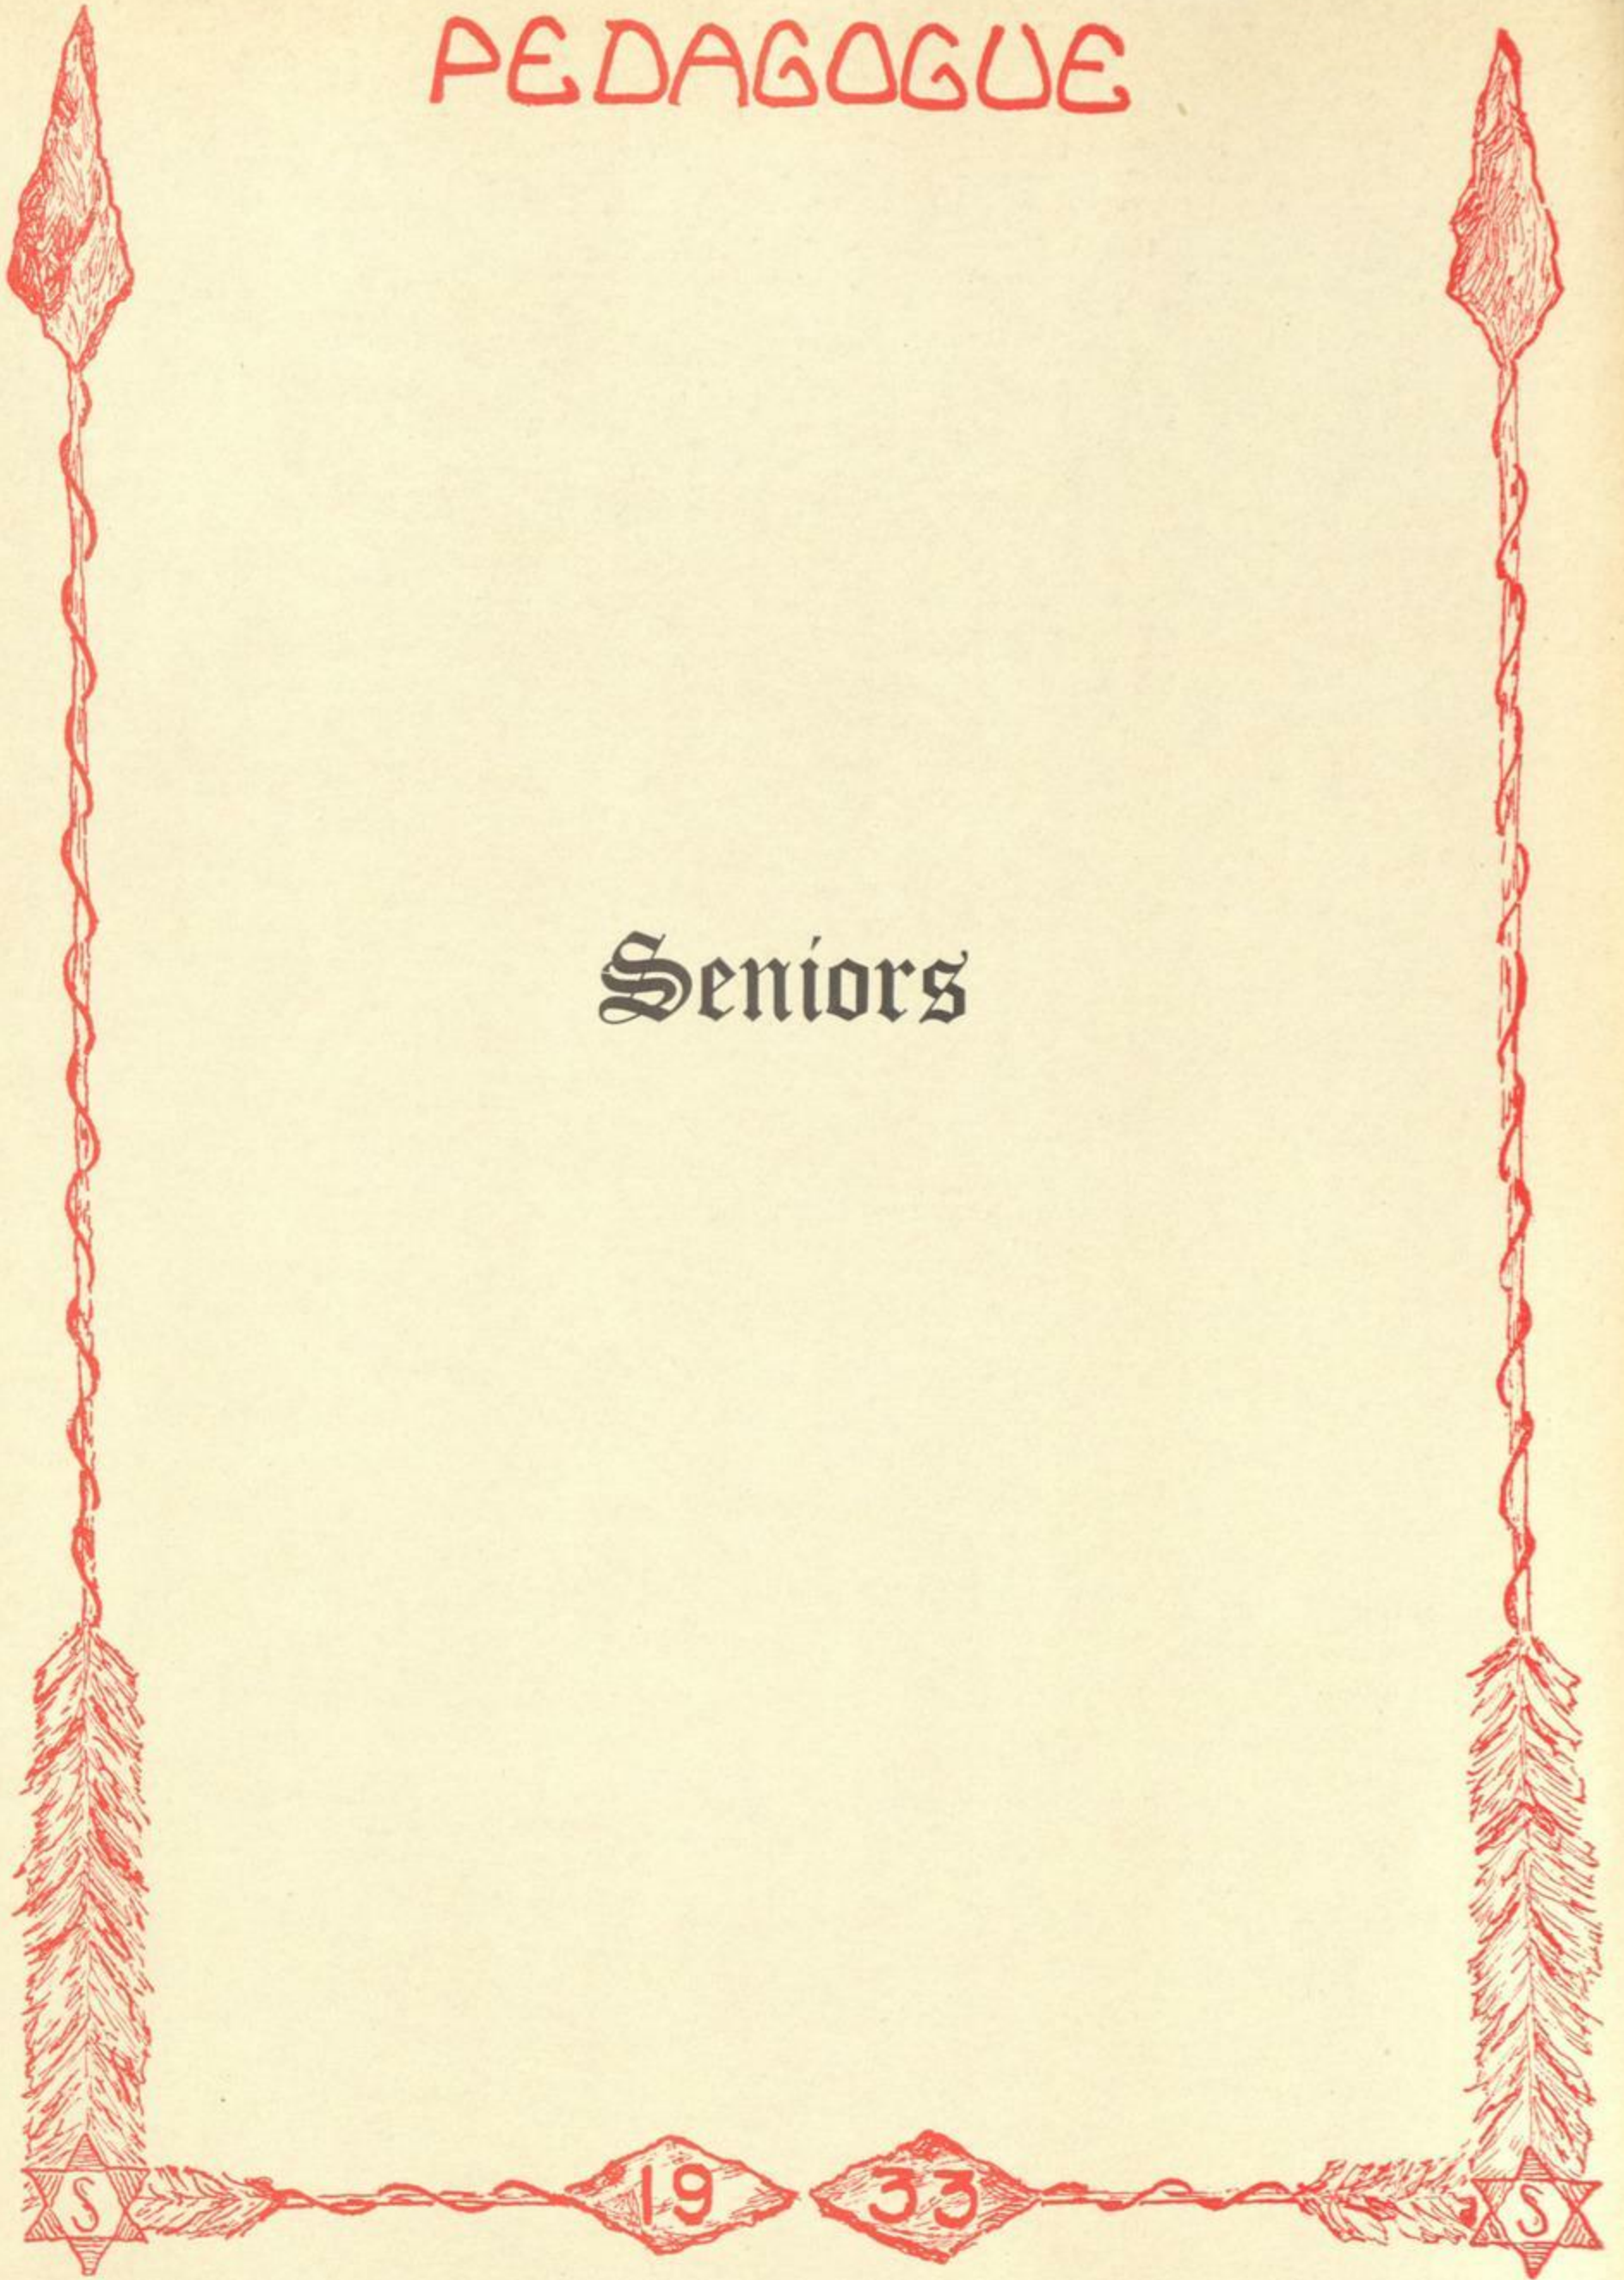

So, with the gold of our triumphs,
Build we a broad highway,
Smooth for the feet that follow,
Broad that they may not stray.
Gold that you give, Alma Mater,
Faith like a gleaming gem,
All that you give to your children
We ask you give to us.

LEGEND OF 1933

Even as the Indian youth sang as he went forth to a great adventure, so we of the class of '33 came singing to a new experience when we left our sheltered ways and arrived at the portals of college. Even as he met and surmounted new dangers and difficulties and gave thanks in joyful songs, so have we always sung in the joy of the quest. Even as he sang triumphal chants at the end of a strife well won, we sing ours which fades slowly into the sad strains of farewell.

We sang—our voices at first a little discordant, perhaps—having not yet learned to mingle in one chord of strength. We listened to lore of legend and tradition, but like the Indian child, intent still on games and feats of physical strength, we comprehended not their truths. We worshipped our glowing fire of crimson with hearts as glowing. With our fellow tribe of '32, we participated in rivalry and, endowed by the Great Spirit with strength and eagerness, we surpassed them. Our eyes, keen for the hunt found the mascot; our voices, tuned already to love of tribe, sang out a victorious Alma Mater. We initiated a feast celebrating our victory—which has now become for us a sacred custom observed on Moving-Up Day Eve. The impulsive tom-toms of our first "scalp-dance" still echo on our ears, but now softened by more patient and lyrical strains.

Now as young braves, having met the first adventure with high hearts, we proceeded—hearing ever the voices of our fathers. We guarded our most sacred possessions; our fiery banner we concealed in suitcases; our fiery owl we kept secure from the grasping hands of '34. A new tribe equalled us in valor, and rivalry was tied. We consoled ourselves by knowing that we had established a precedent in being the first class to both find and keep the mascot. Our song endured—its composition became more complex. Our story, like that of the Indians, can not be fully told without the cadence of song. We left behind our days of rivalry and turned the eager courage and confidence gained from them to more vital things. We, who survived the tests of college living, saw promises of a great majestic strain. Our Junior Prom Week-end was as brilliant as the red of our emblem, which was almost imperceptibly gliding into a background of purple and gold. Slowly we began to be aware of the background and to value it as much as the fire of our youthful spirit.

Now we have put the last strokes to our painting in the sands of S. C. T. The legends taught to us as youths we have seen with a clearer appreciation and have woven into our lives, so that we in turn hand them down to future warrior tribes. Skilled in all the crafts of hunters, in all youthful sports and pastimes, we have become warriors, worshipping our flame, now blended into the Great Fires—its color still richly glowing in the infinite reflection. Our song still lives—we are now aware of the various tones of its composition—a sweetly piercing obligato, a firm and vibrant melody, and a steady beat of the bass. Too soon, we fear, its music fades and as we go down the steps into blackness, deep with unseen visions, we leave a lovely echo of harmony blended in a single voice of farewell.

Not long ago, to a spot where once the Indians fought and played, there came a great number of warriors, each from a different home, to fight and hunt and play together for four long years. Young were these warriors and full of health and hope and happiness. And they were forever and ever searching, but they knew not for what they searched. And meanwhile they chose their finest braves to be their leaders and guides. Then, too, they strove in friendly rivalry with another great tribe, slightly above them in rank and equaled them in the contest. And they feasted and sang and danced together in happy comradeship. And thus a year passed.

So for yet another year, the warriors lived together. And still they searched and knew not the object of their search, except that now it appeared as a great light, far in the distance, yet so bright that it blinded those who strove to see. So even as in the previous year, they strove against the rival band of warriors, and this time they rejoiced in victory. A great dance they held, and great feasts. And slowly they became bound together by ties so strong that nothing mattered but the good of the group. And the blue and white, their colors, were ever in their hearts as a symbol of loyalty.

So another year went by.

Now in their third year together, it befell that they no longer saw their goal as a blinding light in the distance, but as a star, clear and shining, which Tah-mah-na-wis, the Great Spirit, had placed in the heavens to guide them. And now, with the star before them, everything took on a meaning and a purpose. They still sang and danced and feasted, but they no longer struggled in useless rivalry, for other, greater tasks engaged them. To gain strength through unity they came together, that they might strive as one being toward the common goal.

And now we can no longer trace the warriors' journey toward the stars, for it is of ourselves we are speaking and the great legend is our own. Our living is the story and there can be no ending, for that belongs to the future.

LEGEND OF 1935

Should you ask us, whence this story,
Whence this legend and inceptions,
With the rushing off to places,
With the frequent repetitions,
And with wild reverberations,
As they thunder through the hallways?
We should answer, we should tell you—
In the classes of State College,
There is one called Sophomore.
Round about the famous people
Spread the freshman and the juniors;
And beyond them stand the seniors,
Ever sighing, rarely singing.

Trace the sophomores through their history—
Moving-up Day in the spring time
When they had the finest stunt—
By the green fog in the autumn
When they first came, watching, wondering,
By the black line in the winter
When they worked to keep their marks up.
Listen how they played with Sophomores
When they were the freshman rivals—
How they lived and toiled and suffered
That their class and man might prosper—
That they might advance their people.

Ye who love the haunts at college,
Love the vigor and the challenge,
Love the rain-showers and the snow-storms
Which may follow verdant freshmen
Who believe in too much work!
Ye, whose hearts are fresh and simple,
There are longings, yearnings, strivings
For the rivalry you know not.

Groping blindly in the darkness,
Touched the mascot in that darkness.
You are lifted up and strengthened,
Even though you know it not.
Full of hope and yet of heartbreak,
Full of all the tender pathos
Of the here and the hereafter—
We lived through it, are Sophomores.

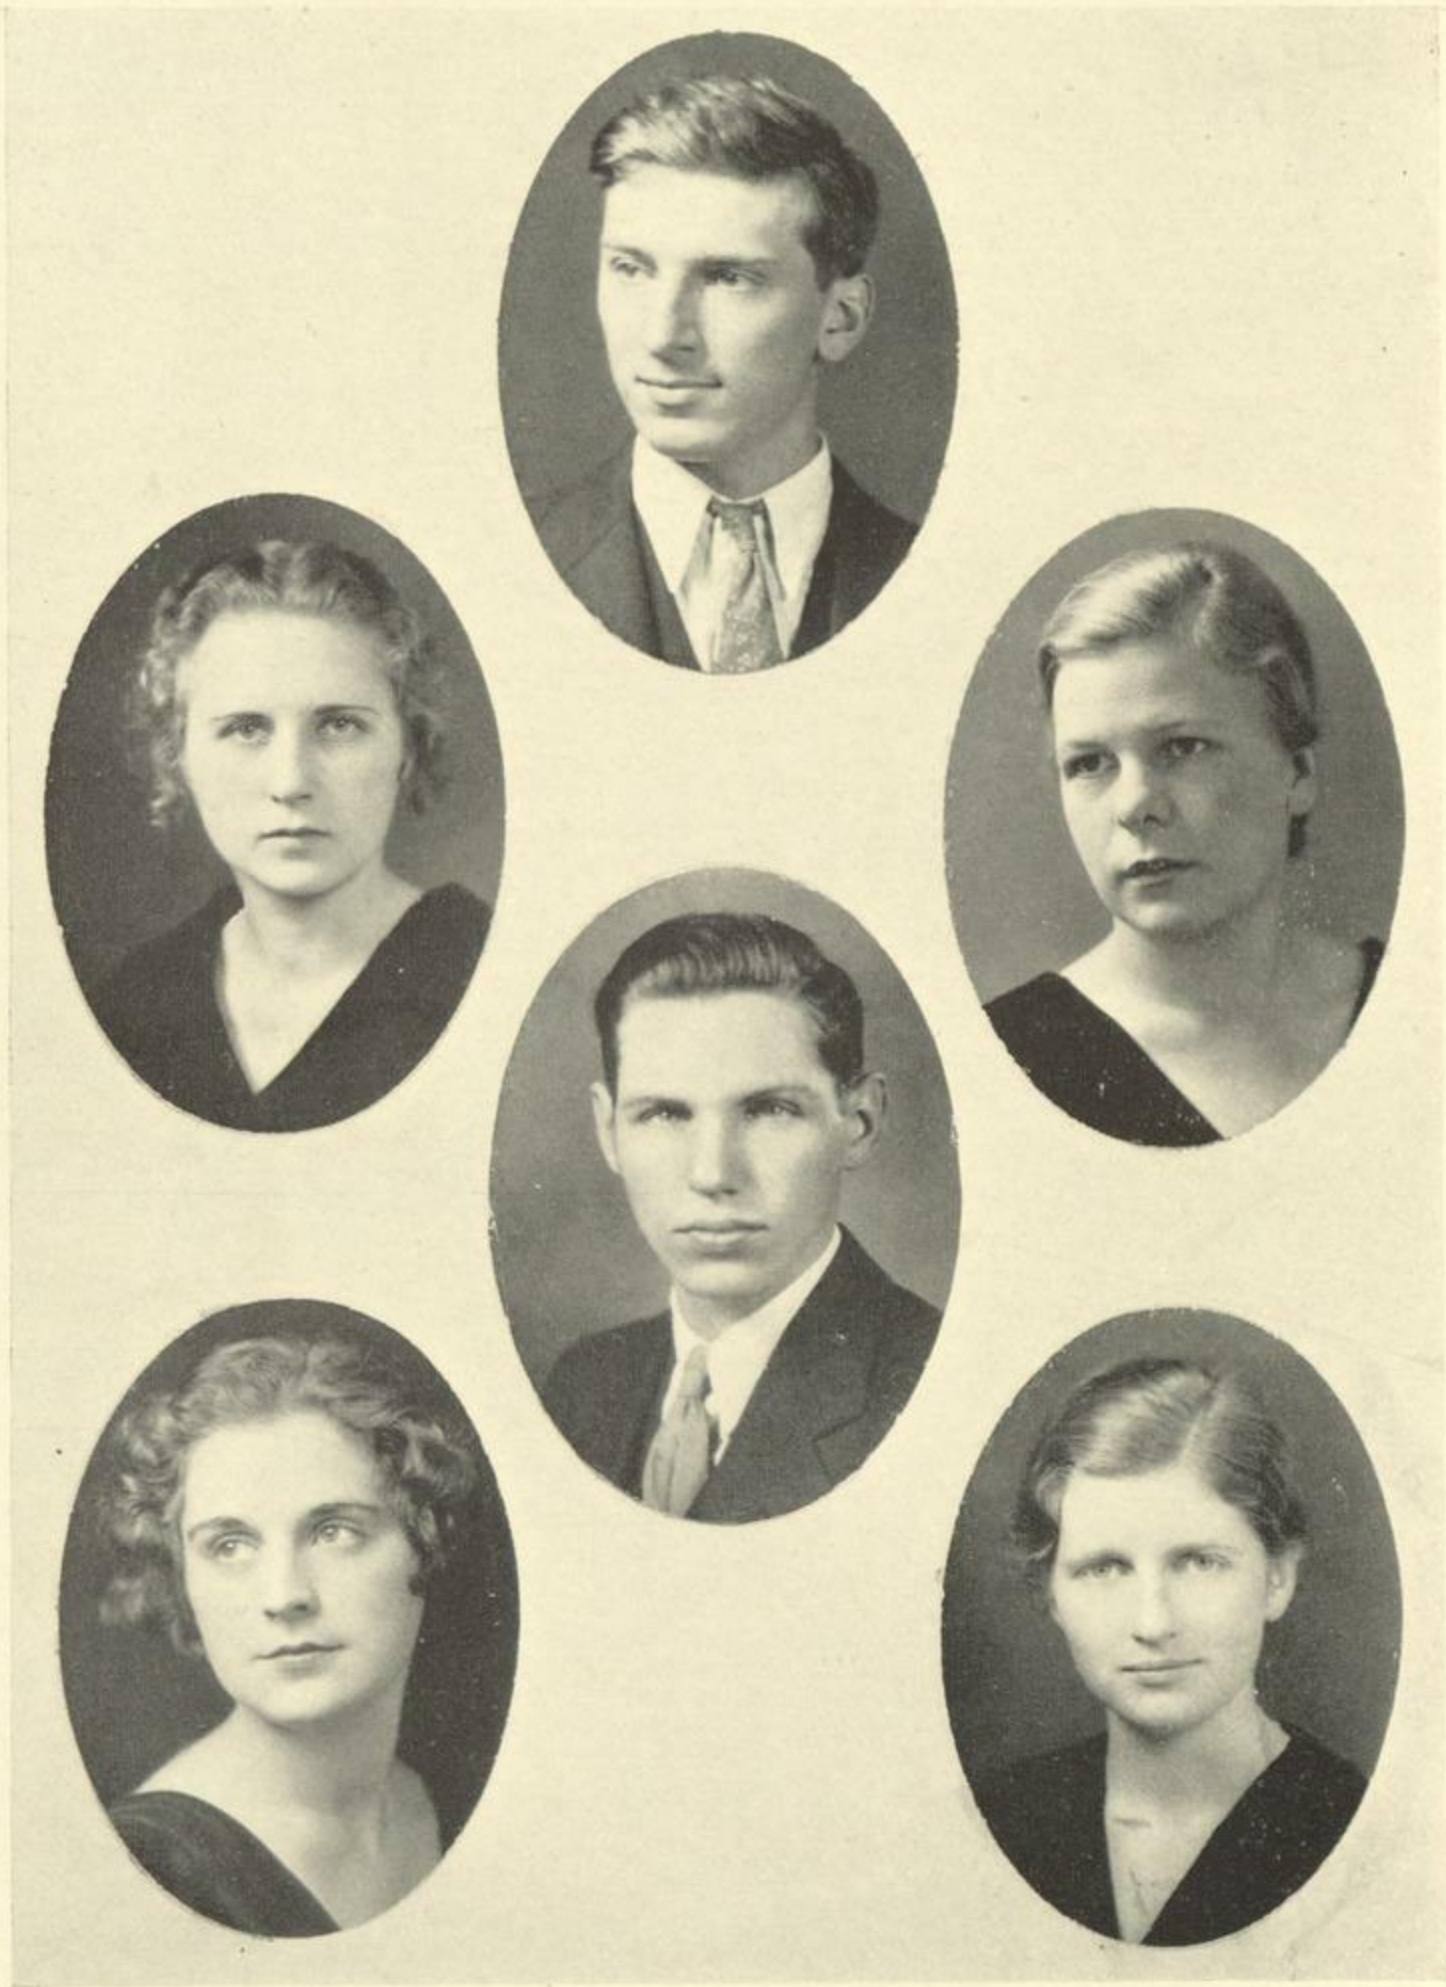

College calling in September,
Called the tribes of us together,
"I have giv'n you halls to hunt in.
I have giv'n you classes to learn in.
I have giv'n you time to play in.
All your strength is in your wisdom.
All your danger is in discord."
So thirty-fives pulled hard together
And they won the tug-of-war—
That and stunt they did excel in.
Lost the banner, mascot, sing—
Those were but as quarrels of children,
But as feuds and fights of children.
Then when moving-up day sought us,
"Revel in the day before you,"
Upper classmen said in May.
And we felt that we were living—
That we were a part of college
That at last we knew the meaning
Of "Great Fires" and "Friendly Ways."
Out of childhood into manhood
Now had grown the thirty-fives.

Should you ask us whence this story,
We should answer your inquiries.
Hear this song of Thirty-five.

LEGEND OF 1936

Many moons ago, numerous bundles were left before the portals of these halls of learning. Noble warriors and accomplished maidens found, to their delight, a bevy of plump, healthy papooses. They swung the young upon their backs and packed them off to fruitful hunting grounds for three suns of joyful initiation into the tribal life.

Great was their consternation upon returning to the tepee of Minnehaha to find thrice as many papooses awaiting them. They thought of exposing them to the elements. But a surprise was in store for them. These were not ordinary babes! They had already established a reputation greater than any yet brought for the approbation of Minnehaha. So after the braves had presented the papooses to the council fathers and the warriors and maidens had graciously received their infant brothers and sisters, they decided to look to their laurels.

Self-consciously, yet laughingly we struggled through days with ridiculous war trappings of placards, strange dark leggings and light garments. It was unfortunate that they did not have us sing the legend concerning the strangeness of our new existence. We had prepared a most excellent substitute.

On the eve of the great pow-wow we delighted our tribal queen with our winning ritual. However, those chubby twins of the vegetable potion were a delightful contribution on the part of the elder warriors.

Soon the papooses were organized into an energetic band, difficult to conquer. The braves and warriors were hard put to it to retain their noble reputations in altercations over totems and running the gauntlet.

It has been a period of bewilderment, hard work trying to establish ourselves in the pedagogic tribe, great enjoyment in intra-tribal contests and joy in finding friendships which will last until we meet the Great Spirit.

Our understanding council fathers have borne with us in the struggle to adapt ourselves to the rigorous existence of tribal life. We have made youthful mistakes, but those typical of the braves will undoubtedly be worse and less excusable. However, the mistakes of a papoose were innocent, and, therefore, blissful.

Warriors, braves, maidens, we salute you. You took us to you when we were lonely and you made us feel ourselves to be a part of this great tribe. We sincerely hope that our reception of future clans may be as warm and comforting as was your welcome to us.

These first moons have been glorious and we look forward eagerly to the ceremony which will make us braves and maidens, that ritual in which we shall proudly wear the yellow which is symbolic of our clan, as we climb to the second rung of that all-too-short ladder leading to departure from this tribe into other hunting grounds.

LIFE IS VERY DIFFERENT

Life is very diff'rent,
So very diff'rent here,
College life is very queer
Rum-tum-tum,
In my home town there
I used to be a bear,
Rum-tud-te-di-um-tum,
Tum, tum, tum, tum, tum,
Here I'm in a muddle,
My brain is in a fog,
It's a great big puddle
And I'm just a little frog
Rum-tud-te-di-um-tum,
Tum, tum.

MYSKANIA

Myskania, organized in 1917, is an honorary body composed of seniors who have led in scholarship, literary effort, debate, dramatics, and in undergraduate affairs generally.

This organization leads in formulating student sentiment in matters relating to student activities. These activities include: induction of freshmen into college customs, organization of the freshman class, guardianship of college traditions, preservation of student morale, direction of Campus Day program, and Moving-Up Day.

The members are elected in the spring of their Junior year, and they are made known Moving-Up Day, when the outgoing Myskania taps the new Myskania. The members are chosen as follows: the Student Association elects three qualified juniors by a popularity vote, besides the Student Association president, who becomes an ex-officio member. The other eight, nine, or ten members are chosen by the outgoing Myskania at its discretion.

Y. W. C. A.

"To realize full and creative life through a growing knowledge of God, and to have a part in making this life possible for others" is the purpose which unites the members of State College's Young Women's Christian Association, which welcomes into its fellowship all students in sympathy with this purpose. Activities through which the Association strives to carry out this purpose include: a candle-lighting service; Sunday afternoon Vespers; Morning Watch Meetings at Christmas and Easter; discussion forums for student problems, and social service enterprises ranging from the providing of Thanksgiving baskets for needy families to the management of second-hand book sales for busy college students. Through delegates to the various state and national conferences and, in co-operation with the Y. M. C. A., it brings outside speakers to the College. By means of a Christmas bazaar or masquerade, breakfast hikes, teas, etc., Y. W. also helps to supply some of the social needs of college life.

BASKETBALL

The main victory in the Purple and Gold quintet's eight victories for the 1932-1933 season was that over a strong Hamilton aggregation, by the score of 34-23. The team wound up its season with only three defeats. Coach Baker declared that the third quarter rally staged against Hamilton was the finest ten minutes of basketball that he had ever seen played on a college court. State won from Hartwick twice, Montclair twice, Hamilton, St. Stephens, the Alumni, and Cooper Union, and lost to Seth Low twice and to Brooklyn Polytechnic Institute.

Grover Hotaling, who participated in nine games, led the individual scorers with eighty-nine point. Hotaling was a spark plug in the offense, and his sharp-shooting provided the crowd with many a thrill.

Captain Gill De Laura gave his usual exhibition of clever defensive play. On offense De Laura played back guard, and was a main cog in the fast passwork which characterized State's early season form.

Roger "Sparkie" Bancroft, peppy forward veteran, playing in the forward berth for the third consecutive season, took honors in scoring with eighty-six points.

Ray Harris, who fought off Ben Boldt for the regular assignment at center, proved to be the player necessary in smoothing out the State passwork.

Cliff Rall, who with De Laura, teamed at guard to form the finest guard combination seen on the State court in years, was third in scoring with fifty-three points.

Bud Kissam, Bill Allard and Ossy Brooks were leading figures in the final victory of the season over Montclair. Allard and Brooks outdid the first string men and won the game with brilliant baskets in the final minute of play. Other players who saw action were Ben Boldt, Tom Garrett, George Bancroft, Ed. De Temple, Jerry Butler, and Paul Bulger.

BASEBALL

This year's varsity will be built around Captain Johnnie Detlefson, a regular left fielder for three years, Gil De Laura, veteran short stop, Frank "Hack" Young, slugging center, Ossy Brooks, the State College "Iron Man", and Don Benedict, veteran first sacker. Brooks will bear the brunt of the pitching assignment for the third consecutive year. Brooks and Young were the "Big Berthas" with the stick last year.

Other veterans who will return are Ken Drake, third baseman, Hal Smith and Al Lucas, utility outfielders.

The schedule includes: Hamilton (away), Hartwick (2 games), St. Stephens (2 games), and Drew University (home).

TENNIS

An experienced tennis team will assume the offensive against three colleges on its schedule for the first time this spring besides playing three of its traditional rivals. The schedule made up by Sanford Livingston, manager, will bring together State and Springfield, Seth Low, and Manhattan colleges for premier contests. The University of Vermont, Hamilton College and St. Stephen's College games complete the schedule.

The only losses to the squad through graduation last year are those of Carl Tarbox, four-year veteran who captained last, the 1932 netmen, and Jack Saroff, manager.

Vincent Meleski, backed with considerable experience playing for State, is the captain of the 1933 team. Grover Hotaling, fresh from tennis laurels at Union, will probably play. Livingston, who shared honors with Tarbox for the past two seasons in games won, is expected to be No. 2 man. Gordon Hughes, another two-year veteran, and Anthony Sroka, who played on the 1931 team, will also see action.

This year's freshman class has shown much more tennis ability than any one in several years. Decker and Hardmeyer plus several others show considerable promise. Since the entire team graduates this year, it is probable that considerable reliance will be placed upon these men and other underclass players.

Last year, State started the ball rolling by taking over St. Stephen's in the initial contest with the loss of only one singles match. Rain resulted in the second game with the Ithaca College of Physical Education being called off. Journeying to Vermont, the Purple and Gold suffered two defeats at the hands of the University of Vermont and St. Michael's College. The last trip was made to Ithaca where the Physical Ed. College was taken over to the tune of 4 to 2.

The three home games will be played on the Ridgefield Park courts. All students are welcomed.

The 1933 squad is:

G. A. A.'S PROGRAM

In the sports and fun of G. A. A.

We have met in comradeship today.

A log cabin, nestling near a clump of pines, on a hillside overlooking the broad expanse of the valley—Camp Johnston, G. A. A.'s new camp, opening a vista of new things to come. A campfire, songs, talks, hikes and fun—all of these have come to us through Camp Johnston, G. A. A.'s dream of many years come true at last!

September brought us back to school where our good times with '36 started. Freshmen camp, to give the Freshmen a real welcome to State and its traditions was sponsored this year by G. A. A. at Camp Cogswell. It was, in every way, a success—fun, fellowship and the inspiration gained to help us conquer things together throughout the year. Play Day, our welcome to the entire class of '36, helped to firmly bind them to our college—State—and the fun and friendship of G. A. A.

The year continued as it started with all helping to make it a success in hockey, soccer, swimming and basketball. "Patience," an operetta, was given on March 24 and 25 in conjunction with the Troubadours. March 25 brought the Alumnae back and seemed to prove what we already knew that the spirit of G. A. A. is always strong.

SIGNAL FIRES

Oh, yeee, oh, yaah—Oh, hear, my people,
Hear why life must ever woo us;
Hear the mystery of our being—
Hear why eyes may see at nightfall;
Why the song is never ended;
Why the mountains have no steepness
Great enough to daunt my people;
Why the fenlands flaunt no evil
Strong enough to bear us under.
Oh, yeee, oh, yaah—Oh, hear my people,
Hear the story—Hear and wonder.
Long before we saw the white clouds
Driven over land and water
By the restless, ruthless spirit,
By the west wind Mudjikewis,
Long before we heard the bird songs
Blown like blossoms to the darkness
Of our sorrows and our longing,
Long ago when we were promise
As tomorrow's fecund wheat field,
Came a stranger to the mountains;
Came—and spake he to our people.
Taller than the tallest pine tree
Wiser than the wisest chieftans
Came—and spake he to our fathers.
"All my youth, I spent in wandering
Through the countries of the Spirits,
Seeking, seeking, ever seeking
Where the wigwam of the sun stands,
Traced his path across the water,
Caught his beams through lofty tree tops,
Till at last I found his wigwam—
Golden wigwam of the Sun God.
Saw the Sun God of the Heavens,
Dazzling splendor of his features,
Saw the Beauty of his blankets,
Feasted on the tender doe's meat
Tasted of the friendly peace pipe,
Felt the warmth of Happy Silence,

Then thy mighty sun unfolded
All his brilliant splendid Raiment,
All the Raiment of the Centuries,
From whose gems the Dawn Hours Flashes,
From whose Light the Noon Hour hovers,
Put his hand into his bosom,
So he split the Happy Silence—
'Brave thou art, oh Warrior Mortal,
To have found my Golden Wigwam,
Brave—and so I give thee Token.
Take this Great Fire, Everlasting,
From the Sun God's Sacred Bosom,
Go thou back into the Earth Tops
Where no totem casts a shadow.
There upon the lofty snow caps
Place my gift—Great Fire of Wisdom;
Fire, no waterfall can alter
Fire, no wind can wave nor steal from.
Then return unto the people,
To the tribes that are the bravest,
Tell them of the Sacred Flame Light,
Arrow sparks of untold wisdom.
Bid them seek the Signal Fires.'"
Thus the stranger spake and pointed
To a height so vaguely distant
That the purple of its outline
Made Horizon with the Heavens.
"Then," he said unto our fathers,
Can ye warm your hearts with Wisdom,
Heed the smoke of Signal Fires—
Great Fires from the Sun's own Bosom?
Blessed are thy children's children,
Great Fires from the Sun's own Bosom."
And our Fathers, thankful, answered,
"Blessed are those coming after,
For our eyes shall follow upward
To the smoky heights of Promise.
All our wigwams there shall gather
High above the lowly valleys
And our throats shall fill with singing,
'Great Fires kindle for our children.'
Great Fires from the Sun God's Bosom
Warm us with thy Sacred Flame."

GREAT FIRES

Oh yeee, oh yaah—Oh hear my people—
Hear the singing of the Great Fires,
Hear the Song that fills the Forests,
"Pilgrims we have sought thee ever,"
Singing, crackling fires of promise.
All about us, eyes are glowing,
Caught with golden sparks of Wisdom,
Oh, the fragrance of the pine trees;
Oh, the Earth is good beneath us;
Stain the night with dyes of fire,
Night and Fire and Youth and Dreaming.

Shape the red clay well, my brothers,
Soft and pleasant is the red clay.
So the flames shall bake and keep it,
Shape the red clay well, my brothers.

Weave the blankets well, my sisters,
Make the patterns clear and brilliant.
Catch the patterns from the Flame light.
Weave the blankets well, my sisters.

Speak thy counsel long, my fathers.
Youth will listen to thy speaking,
Words that mate the Song of Great Fires,
Mate the thoughts of Youth, My Fathers.

Upward, upward, fire and brighter,
Steady light the trails about us,
We are eager for their wonder;
More than for the beads of Wampum;
More than for the eagle's plumage;
More than for the furs of Black Bear.

PEDAGOGUE

Oh yeee, oh yaah—Oh hear, my people,
Hear the singing of the branches,
We forget the night behind us.
Thru the hunting grounds we wander,
Happy in the glow of Great Fires.
Dance the Dance of Braves, my brothers,
Laugh the gay of Truth, my sisters—
Hear the Tom-Toms beating—beating—
Moccasins must leap in rhythm,
We are youth—are youth—are eager.
We, the children of the Great Fires,
Feel the wonder of the Mountains,
Feel the Beauty of the Forests.
(But we know not of the marshes,
Of the fenlands, of the cornlands,
Of the Darkness in the Valleys.
Soon, too soon, we must go hither—)
Let's forget the night behind us,
Let us stain the night with flame light,
Laugh the Joy of Truth, my sisters,
Dance the Dance of Braves, my brothers.

Oh yeee, oh yaah—Oh hear, my people,
Hear the Tom-Toms beating—beating—
Hear the singing of the Great Fires.

EMBERS

Take our hunting knives, my comrades,
Take our flint-tipped pointed arrows,
Take our willow bow and bow string—
Take our wigwams from the mountain.
Keep our eyes a little while on the Sacred, Singing Fire—
Dip our Torch within its Flame—light—
Hold it high, the Torch of Wisdom,
Hold it high and count our friendships.
Hold it high above the Darkness,
Thru the corn lands in the valleys.
While the embers here before us
(Embers only to our sad eyes—
Glowing Fires for others coming)
While the embers here before us
Fade in tiny gleams of mem'ry,
Hold our Torch, the Torch of Wisdom,
Splitting, crackling Torch of Wisdom,
Hold it bravely to the Darkness—
To the Darkness turn our faces,
To the Darkness in the Valleys.
Now our eyes may see at nightfall,
Now our song is never ended;
Now the mountains have no steepness—
Great enough to daunt my people;
Now the fenlands flaunt no evil
Strong enough to bear us under.
Keep on singing, thou, our Great Fires,
Keep on kindling for our children.
To the Darkness, turn our faces,
We go, cherishing a dream.

"I am going, O my people,
On a long and distant journey;
Many moons and many winters
Will have come, and will have vanished,
Ere I come again to see you.
But my guests I leave behind me;
Listen to their words of wisdom
Listen to the truth they tell you,
For the Master of Life has sent them
From the land of light and morning!"

The click of knitting needles, the creak of a rocker and the tick-tock of a grandfather's clock were all that disturbed the soothing silence of the room. With childish curiosity little Ellen sat watching the purls and stitches.

The old man gazed at the three for a moment, then replied: "Young men, you are mistaken. I am Saul, son of Kish, in search of my father's asses, and behold I have found three of them!"—Balance Sheet.

PEDAGOGUE

I am the Pedagogue.
I am like Andy Protheroe—the perennial product of the Senior Class.
Or shall I say annual product?
I am not a product, I am a work of art.
A lot of people work on me.
But I'm no fool—I make people work too.
I'm not supposed to be funny—ha! ha!—nor am I supposed to be funny—peculiar.
I'm not supposed to be funny at all.
I am a Yearbook.
There is something sentimental about a Yearbook,
But not about me—for long.
Because in after years, my owner will look at pictures of his college friends and say
"ha! ha—doesn't M. look funny—ha! ha."
And will never notice how funny he himself looks.
What I like best are the things my owners' friends write on my back—very few
"Sincerely's" and many sentimental bromides.
I get a laugh out of that.
So do the people who write them.
.....
I am not the Pedagogue.
I am only the spirit of the Pedagogue.
I have been masquerading and consequently I am in low spirits.
I apologize.
Oh! shades of activities' offices!
Here is THE PEDAGOGUE
I bow.
