Civil Service Guys and Gals Slam and Praise the System

By JEROME YALE

A LEADER reporter was handed the assignment to get out and find just what NYC employees complain about and what they like about their jobs. As might have been expected, the leading complaint was about City salaries which aren't high enough to meet wartime living expenses. Another prevalent kick was the uncertainty over the holding of outside jobs. "We have to add to our income," complained one Welfare investigator, "but now it seems that the Mayor doesn't like it. Other officials and the highest courts say we can hold another job—and we do."

Here is the detailed report on NYC employee gripes:

Salary

The LEADER reported heard many complaints and compliments of the system. The most frequent gripe—you guess it—not enough money.

"Compare our jobs with outside jobs on the same level. We get less pay. We have to pass higher grade requirements than employees in private industry, but we're not paid as well. The increments and the cost of living bonuses didn't come near any point in the rise of the cost of living."

It's a composite answer heard in all city departments.

Yes and No

The usual comeback is the security offered by the civil service—steady employment and retirement pensions, and the assurance of increments.

An employee in the office of the President of Manhattan who has been in Civil Service over 30 years spoke enthusiastically of Civil Service: "Since the depression, security has come to mean much more than it did before. We are getting a higher type of person in the civil service, therefore; and the work is on a much superior level."

A different opinion was expressed by a Municipal Civil Service Clerk: "Civil Service doesn't have the better type of workers because they take the jobs for the security. They aren't mentally active enough to have sufficient confidence in themselves to run the risk of working in private business.

"Me?" she continued. "I like my job because it doesn't wear me out and I get out 5 o'clock sharp and I can forget about my work and do other things."

Change of Scene

An annual "change of scene" for employees was suggested by a warehouseman of the Department of Purchase. He explained, "The work is routine. Same thing day in day out. I do my work well, but there's no change to it. I'm getting fed up."

Just as loud came the hearty praises for the Department of Welfare. "You meet so many kinds of people, and all of them are interesting. Our staff and clientele represent as good a cross section of the city as you can get anywhere," were frequent comments.

"Our work, handling the apparatus to run New York City, is among the most essential war work," a Non-Settlement Division Worker declared.

Women employees of Municipal Building's 12th floor are annoyed by the absence of a door on a latrine. The lavatories were highly satisfactory to most gals in Municipal Building, but not in 125 Worth Street.

"There aren't enough first aid kits in Municipal Building. There ought to be one on every floor," a superintendent opined.

"They keep our windows clean," a stenographer in that building stated. "I like that."

"No incentive in civil service" was charged by several in the service. "Promotions aren't sufficiently frequent, and if you do a routine type of work you get it down pat, do it well, and that's all there is to it."

Many charges were made that higher paid employees are not kept busy at their supposed duties, and so they resort to work of lowered salaried workers, creating the complaint from the lower bracketed employees: "I work as hard as he does and I get less money."

Employee Ratings

The personnel rating system came in for a beating. A librarian charged that she found work for herself "because I felt guilty about taking the taxpayers' money and not taking my job for granted" but received no credit.

"As long as what yours supposed to do in a certain time is done within that period, that's all your superior cares about," one woman said.

Another girl added that "if you're stuck in a corner they (the ones who do the rating) forget about you."

A man argued that all employees have the right to appeal their ratings or prepare statements, but he was countered with Who's Done Most for the War Effort?

There's a woman employed in State Civil Service who's going to get recognition to the tune of a CIVIL SERVICE LEADER trophy and a $350 fur coat—because she's doing more for the war effort than any other State employee. She's the winner of the LEADER contest open exclusively for women in New York State service. And who she's going to be depends on information supplied by State employees.

Judges whose names are to be announced in a forthcoming issue will make the decision.

Age doesn't count, and term of service is no consideration. Maybe it's the amount of her blood she donated to Red Cross. Maybe she rolled bandages and knitted, or obtained an outstanding number of pledges in the War Loan Drive. She may have been hostess to many servicemen, or suggested hospitality plans. Does she write letters to all department men now in the fighting forces? Did she collect books and phonograph records for service camps? How about the cake and cookie donors at canteens? Who arranged for a service plaque or flag? And don't forget the amount of her paycheck that goes into War Bonds.

Who Is Miss Civil Service?

When he looks you up and down, Miss Civil Service, don't freeze! You're being sized up for a possible entry in the LEADER'S second Beauty Contest!

Individual winners will be chosen from Federal, State, and Municipal Civil Service women. A grand prize—a $350 fur coat from I. J. Fox, America's largest furrier, or Fox merchandise of equal value—will go to the most beautiful of the three. The two runners-up each will receive Fox merchandise valued at $100. And there will be other trophies too.

Any woman—married or single, is eligible. This goes for the contestants of the last Miss Civil Service contest held in 1941—about 200 strong. All except the two winners, that is—Miss Eileen Riordan and Miss Jamie Sue Helm.

Incidentally, Miss Riordan is a WAC now. She was a New York City Department of Welfare employee when she was Miss Civil Service. Miss Helm, second placer, former U. S. War Department employee, is now secretary to John Robert Powers, of beauty model agency fame. She had also been secretary to Senator Seymour Halpern, chairman of the New York State Senate Civil Service Committee.

New Navy Sec'y Wants Improved Civil Service

By CHARLES SULLIVAN

WASHINGTON—Navy Department civilian employees and all Government workers have a good friend in James V. Forrestal, new Secretary of Navy.

He is on record as favoring raises for Federal employees. In a recent speech he pointed out that British civil servants got 33 to 66 per cent more money than they do here, adding that he is in favor of raising salaries here.

He fears that industrial leaders recruited for Government work will return to private industry before the Government can afford to let them go, because Congress failed to make the jobs attractive enough for them. He called this a waste. The secretary recommends that high schools and universities devote more time to teaching the study of Government.

Secretary Forrestal is anxious to raise the level and prestige of upper-bracket career men. To prevent "corroding effect of continuous Government service and to save the most dynamic individual from that atrophy of original thinking which we have come to associate with bureaucracy," he suggests three remedies:

Fill the ranks in the same manner as the Military and Naval academies by selection on the basis of character and ability. Provide periodic review of members of administrative staffs with provision for compulsory retirement of those unqualified for further advancement. To be eligible for the highest positions in the civil service system, a man would have had to spend a period of perhaps two years in some activity other than Government service.

Here's FPMA's Model Plan For Federal Promotions

WASHINGTON—The promotion plan adopted by the Federal Public Housing Authority is being hailed here as an idea which could well be followed by other Federal agencies.

Most Government officials would admit that promotion-from-within is the best method of filling vacancies, but the FPMA is the first to make such procedure mandatory and to place responsibility for its operation on personnel heads.

Some highlights of the official statement of the Housing Agency which set the new policy into effect are as follows:

- 1—In filling any position, consideration shall first be given to qualified employees of the Authority.
- 2—Promotional Registers of eligible employees, based on practical tests, length of service and efficiency ratings will be established and maintained.
- 3—Employee's last efficiency rating must be "good" or better to qualify for explanation to get on a register.

- 4—Credit to be given seniority will be indicated in each examination announcement.
- 5—An employee must have served in his present position for at least 90 days to be eligible for a promotion from such register.
- 6—Promotional panels will be developed and maintained through the $3,800 salary level.
- 7—Promoted persons shall take the new job within 2 weeks after appointment.
- 8—Full publicity shall be given and notices posted of vacancies that exist.

Restoration of Holidays Tried For U. S. Workers

WASHINGTON—Do you want your holidays back? Well, you might get them soon.

The annual leave committee of the Council of Personnel Administration will ask the President to restore Labor Day, July 4, and Thanksgiving holidays.

It fears, however, that the President will reject the whole idea because of the bad effect on private business, and because it is a time too close to the invasion.

The Council itself sidestepped the issue and voted to forward the committee's recommendation to William H. McReynolds, the President's secretary on personnel matters, for presentation to the President.

It was thought that the chances were bright after war industries, through WPB's production executive committee, considered the observance of holidays. This committee, however, decided to recommend no changes for private industry, but it said it wouldn't oppose the restoration of several holidays to Government employees.

White-collar Government employees are one of the few groups in the nation who aren't paid extra for holiday work.

Hours Adjusted For Mothers In U. S. Service

WASHINGTON—Working mothers can get their hours adjusted to suit their home needs.

War Manpower Commission has launched a plan to ease the strain of 48 hours a week for working mothers. Already three have been permitted to work only five days a week, given early and late starting hours to others, and permitted some to take home work.

WMC's experiment in this field is expected to lead other agencies to adopt the same policy. This is expected to attract mothers to the Federal service who otherwise might not have been interested.

"Bureaucrat" Slam Debated Again

WASHINGTON—Federal employees were both patted and paddled when Sen. Homer Ferguson (R., Mich.) and Jonathan Daniels, special assistant to the President, debated "bureaucracy" on America's Town Meeting of the Air.

Sen. Ferguson charged that Federal employees comprised the biggest "bureaucracy" the world has ever known.

"Bureaucracy," he said, "means endless yards of stupid red tape. It means that nothing can be done unless you follow form No. 60-XYZ-1103, and have it supported by a score of other forms coming from as many different agencies. 'Bureaucracy feeds on itself, and loads the people with a multiplicity of agencies, miles of useless red tape, and an army of men supported out of the sweat of other men's labor.'"

Mr. Daniels scored heavily with his answer. He said a bureaucrat was a man as well as a word. "It is time somebody broke the political pot overflowing with libel of the American public service and public servants. The first essential—and generally the neglected essential—in discussion of this subject is the facts. There are 2,839,366 paid civilian Government employees in the executive branch of the Government in the U. S. and 72 per cent of them work for agencies whose sole purpose is war," he said.

Vets Seek Job Security

Harry J. Foster, County Commander of the Bronx Disabled American Veterans, has announced that action will be instituted to guarantee veterans returning from the conflict "job security" within Civil Service. To date according to complaints which the organization says have come to their attention, "many veterans are not realizing the rights and benefits granted them by law under the Selective Service Act of 1940 and are not realizing the promise made by President Roosevelt and prominent members of Congress relative to job security."

THE VETS Union, United Federal Workers of America, CIO, Local 21, protested the outside hiring of CAF 3's when qualified CAF 2's are working at Vets without due acknowledgment of their faithful service, with a leaflet handed out the other day. The Union is now also giving out soldiers vote ballot applications through the following employees: Madeline Sachs, 6 West, Martha Alexander, 8 West, Shirley Albert, 11 East, Gertrude Tepper, 12 East, and Gertrude Fuhrer at 2 Lafayette . . . The G.I. Veterans group are now in existence at Vets, headed by Bob Queen and Jack Newberg, is having competition from another W.W. II group, which recently posted their notes in all the "little boys" rooms throughout the building . . . One of the gals on a lower floor has taken to crochet-work in her leisure time "to keep her out of trouble," according to members of the staff . . . Ninth Floor employees are wondering what is being gained by the asinine tactics of supervision now in force. They say that it doesn't make for a healthy working condition and hinders efficiency. Perhaps this is one phase that hasn't been covered by that course given supervisors! . . . The course was called "SUPERVISION IMPROVEMENT PROGRAM," and included sample job-breakdown and time-tables showing how long it took to do a specified job. The classes were designed "to acquaint supervisors with the efforts and accomplishments of a first line supervisor." It was also supposed to take care of "problems" that supervisors sometimes have, to wit: EMPLOYEES NOT SURE WHAT IS EXPECTED—SLOW IN GETTING STARTED . . . LACK DESIRE TO EXCEL ON JOB . . . HAVE DIFFICULTY IN GETTING OUT THE WORK LOAD . . . FEEL THAT THERE IS LITTLE CHANCE TO GET AHEAD . . . WORK IS DELAYED BECAUSE OF CONFUSION . . . This course, it was said, helped solve 80% of the various personnel problems, or at least helped, if they had a better trained staff. How about it Vets, do you agree?

Don't Pay Fees to Get Your Civil Service Job

WASHINGTON—The Civil Service Commission took action May 17, designed to abolish the practice, wherever it may exist, of Federal appointing officers using the facilities of private employment concerns in filling vacancies in Federal positions.

In a letter to the heads of Federal agencies, the Commission requested that instructions be issued to appointing officers asking them to discontinue this practice immediately if they are resorting to it. Federal appointees whose names are secured from a private employment concern usually pay a placement fee to the concern.

The Commission stated that, while it is doubtful that the cases which have come to its attention involve any violation of the statute making it a criminal offense for anyone to solicit or receive any sum of money or thing of value for promising to support or to use influence in behalf of an applicant for a Government position, the Commission believes that a violation of democratic principles is inherent in any procedure under which an applicant is required to pay a fee, either directly or indirectly, for securing Government employment.

The Commission, with approval of Bureau of the Budget, has submitted to Congress for consideration a draft of legislation amending the Act of December 11, 1926, to provide expressly that it shall be a criminal offense for any person, firm, or corporation to solicit or receive a fee for referring the name of a person to an appointing officer of the United States.

Washington Wants Clerks Immediately

In a nation-wide drive to fill critical vacancies in the nation's capital, the United States Civil Service Commission is calling for stenographers, typists, and clerks for positions in Washington, D. C. Most starting salaries are $1,752 a year, including overtime pay; some applicants with experience may be appointed at $1,970.

No experience is required for the $1,752 positions, but written tests are given. Clerks are required to take a clerical test; typists, a clerical test and typing test; and stenographers, clerical, typing and stenography tests. Examinations are given in thousands of cities. Those unable to provide typewriters for the typing test may be appointed as clerks. They will have opportunities to qualify as typists or stenographers after they arrive in Washington.

Applicants must be at least 17½ years old, and must be citizens of the United States. Appointments will be war service appointments, and will be made in accordance with War Manpower Commission policies and employment stabilization programs.

Housing facilities are available in Washington, and opportunities for advancement in most government agencies are good. Available persons not presently employed in war work may obtain application forms from the Director, Second U. S. Civil Service Region, 641 Washington Street, New York 14, N. Y. They should be sent to the U. S. Civil Service Commission, Washington 25, D. C.

More Efficiency Ratings Appealed

WASHINGTON—More than 40 per cent more persons appealed their efficiency ratings this year than last. The figure is expected to soar higher as persons fear the "reduction in forces" that threatens after the war. Efficiency ratings will be one of the deciding factors in who will go first.

It is believed that the new form on which ratings are given to the employee is responsible for the increased number of appeals. Printed on it are the rights of a person in appealing a rating, with instructions on procedure.

There is evidence that rating officials are learning how to do their job better. Of all appeals made the past year, 55 per cent were changed in favor of the employee. This year less than 51 per cent favored the employee.

Leave Rulings Simplified A Possibility

WASHINGTON—All leave regulations have had a spring airing.

Representatives of all Federal agencies whose duties are concerned with administration of leave regulations met in a series of conferences in an attempt to establish uniform applications of leave rules. Results of the parleys will be announced soon.

Biggest question discussed was the advisability of cutting the base leave unit from one hour to a half hour. Proponents for the change claimed that agencies either were closing their eyes to the rule, or that employees knowing they would lose an hour no matter what fraction thereof they needed took the full hour, thereby losing time.

Purpose of the meetings, held by the Civil Service Commission, aimed at assisting agencies with current leave problems, encouraged uniform application of revised annual and sick leave regulations which became effective January 1, 1944, and which were issued for the purpose of simplifying leave accounting and record keeping.

1,000,000 Women In Federal Service

WASHINGTON—Over a million women are in Federal service.

In the latest report released by the Civil Service Commission, the number of women employees was listed at 1,000,998, an increase of 14,502 over the previous month.

Total employment in continental United States on April 1 was 2,839,366. This is an increase of 11,523 over the previous month, making the sixth consecutive month that Government has reported an increase in employment.

'Cobweb-Thinking' Decried By 'Leader' Editor

Discusses Employee-Management Relations

"Relations between management and employees in civil service are muddled, and offer a vast field for study and clarification." Maxwell Lehman, Executive Editor of the Civil Service LEADER, lecturing last week before a class on personnel classification at the College of the City of New York, advised the students to give close attention to the problems of employee-employer relationship. Citing cases of disciplinary action in City, State, and Federal service, Mr. Lehman pointed out that only rarely has a proper system of hearings and appeals been utilized. He gave the background of several cases to show that disciplinary action is often at the whim of superiors.

Among the stories told by the LEADER editor were those of Vincent Califapietra, dismissed last week by the NYC Fire Department for holding an outside job; and of Samuel D. March, disciplined by the Board of Transportation after having been adjudged 4-F at the induction center. With these and other cases as examples, Mr. Lehman developed his thesis that under present laws and rules, the employee does not always have adequate protection against unjust action by his department. He described the differing approaches toward disciplinary action in City, State, and Federal service.

Incentives

Mr. Lehman also advised prospective personnel men and women to "play with the possibilities of incentives in Government service." Where incentives have been provided, he said, the results have been fruitful. He pointed to the effectiveness of the suggestion program in the War and Navy departments told how employee suggestions have saved huge sums and speeded the war effort. "An incentive," he stated, "must be something substantial, like cash payments, additional vacation time, or promotion in the service." He suggested there was much to be done in the development of new incentives. In reply to a query from a student as to why incentive programs, although often tried in the New York City service, have seldom proved successful, the LEADER editor gave it as his opinion that: (1) these NYC "incentive programs" have usually been without incentives—that is, employees have been asked for suggestions, but were assured little in return; (2) too great timidity on the part of department heads, who are sometimes skittish about the Mayor. "The LEADER has occasionally been asked," he revealed, "not to state publicly that a certain employee had made an excellent suggestion, and that the employee would be rewarded with half-a-day off as a result. With such an approach, you can be certain no suggestion program and no incentive plan is going to be put over in this town."

Room for Imagination

Lehman advocated a more vigorous administration of personnel in all branches of Government, and asked for the "elimination of cobweb-thinking." He continued: "There is much room for imagination and breadth of vision in this field. But you'll need guts, too. Timidity has been like a death-clutch upon personnel administration, and the ruins of many a civil service commission can be traced to its heart-palpitations whenever anything came up which looked like an idea. Think big in this field, and be tough. The day of panty-waist, hush-hush, effete personnel administration is almost over."

Notes From A G. I. Jane

(Muriel Sampson, in a letter to The Weekly Wash of the NYC Purchase Department, describes the process by which a City employee—female—becomes a WAC.)
Eenie, Meenie, Minie, Mo
Into which service shall I go?
No, girls, it's not as easy as that! Four to choose from, each with its own specific qualifications, each with its own inducements. (Oh, yes, I read all the booklets thoroughly.)
But how did I pick THE ONE? Very simple. The WAC recruiting station is open until 9 P.M. and one Friday evening when I was walking on Lexington Avenue I decided to go up for some more information. After giving me some data, most of which I already knew, the sergeant told me that I could take the mental exam right away, and if I passed, have my physical any morning I chose.

Ah me—to take or not to take? — that was the question! Oh, well, here goes—file an application, time 10 minutes; interview by a lieutenant, 10 more minutes; mental exam, 1 hour; total time, approximately 1½ hours. Set the time for the physical for Tuesday at 8:30. (Curtain, exam now on). At 12:30 make an appointment to be sworn in on Wednesday afternoon at 5:30, then back to the office grind.
Go to work on Wednesday morning. Will 5 o'clock never come! Finally leave the office; get to the recruiting station at 5:25 and get sworn in at 5:30 P.M. Now do I feel proud! A soldier in the Army of the United States of America.
And then I go home to wait—and wait—and wait, for orders to report for duty. Will they never come?????
(They have come)

Public Invited to New Plant Opening

An invitation to attend the official opening of the Municipal Asphalt Plant, 91st Street at East River Drive, was extended to the public by Mayor LaGuardia and Edgar J. Nathan, Jr., president of the Borough of Manhattan. Ceremonies will be held May 24, at 9:30 A.M.

80 LABORERS TO WORK IN NEW NYC ASPHALT PLANT

The new half-million dollar asphalt plant which will open soon at 91st Street and East River Drive in New York City will provide work for 80 mechanics and laborers. It also will save trips they now must take to the Bronx or Queens to load up with asphalt.

NYC Purchase Employees Donate to Blood Bank

Many employees in the NYC Department of Purchase have given blood to the Red Cross several times to help the department attain its goal of a quart of blood for each of the 109 department men in the service. Donations to date total 142 pints from the 600 employees.

The blood donations are spurred by the department's Victory Committee, which has sponsored varied activities to further the progress of the war. Information on the blood donors came from Jack Resnick, of the Bureau of Purchase.

Others on the committee which represents all department employees, are Chairman Murray Weingarten, Sally Lalor, Dorothy Melnick, Robert Schaufelberger, Frances Levine, William Stanley, Thomas Higgins, and Kathryn Montgomery.

Many Riders on the Gravy Train; These NYC Jobs Are All Political

There are still plenty of jobs with New York City which call for political "pull" rather than for passing a civil service examination. Generally these are among the highest paid positions in the City service—and they often call for a very slight amount of actual labor on the part of the appointee.

This list, culled from the recently issued "Rules and Regulations of the New York City Agencies," makes interesting reading. It is much smaller than any previous listing of its kind. The number of exempt positions has been reduced each year, but in the opinion of some civil service authorities, it is still too long.

NYC Promotions On The Way

The following promotion examinations were approved last week by the New York City Civil Service Commission, and applications will probably be open within a month. The exact dates, when announced, will appear in The LEADER.

Promotion to: Fire Telegraph Dispatcher, Fire Telegraph Dispatcher, Fire Department; Section Stockman Board of Education; Assistant Court Clerk, Grade 3, Domestic Relations Court.

On the tentative list of promotion tests are:

Tractor Operator, Department of Sanitation; Inspector of Licenses, Grade 3, Department of Licenses; Inspector of Carpentry and Masonry, Grade 4, Department of Housing and Buildings.

Subway Man Gets His Test

One employee of the NYC Board of Transportation is grateful to the Municipal Civil Service Commission. Last week he received a letter from Samuel H. Galston, acting director of examinations of the Commission telling him that he would be admitted to a special military examination for promotion to clerk, grade 3, which will be given in about 6 months to eligibles who missed the regular test because they were in military service.

The applications for the promotion test were originally opened from June 7 to 22, 1943, at which time James D. Lynch was in military service. However, when the exam applications were reopened from September 14 to 28, he was back in civilian life. Then, however, he was a conductor and not eligible for the promotion. But on March 2, 1944, his title was changed to clerk.

The Commissioners decided to cut the red-tape and allow him to try for the promotion.

Chemist Exam Due Soon

The next open competitive examination held by the NYC Civil Service Commission will be for the position of Assistant Chemist. The job pays a starting salary of $2,161, increasing to $2,699. When the examination date has been set, it will appear in The LEADER.

The Fireman Was Fired But Fire Officials.. "Sh.."

Dear Boss,
I had another bout with the Fire Department today. When I asked a pertinent question, I was told that "it's not policy" to delve further.

I wanted to know about the Vincent G. Calfapietra case, the fireman of six and one-half years who was fired May 16 because during two periods totaling over a year he did vital work in a war plant.

Didn't it make any difference that Calfapietra had quit his other job—that he was a fireman exclusively at the time of his hearing? That's what I wanted to know.

Previously, a man guilty of the violation which caused Calfapietra's dismissal was suspended without pay for 10 days. Couldn't the facts in Calfapietra's favor—his excellent record as a fireman and in his war work, which he left in March—lessen the penalty? I didn't want a lengthy, involved answer. A one sentence explanation would have suited me fine. I knew that the Commissioner had warned that firemen guilty of the violation would be dismissed.

First Deputy Commissioner Ferdinand Butenshoen, who conducted the hearing, said that since the decision was made by Fire Commissioner Patrick Walsh, he was the only plausible person to provide the answer. Butenshoen pointed out, however, that the defendant faced the specific charge "Did engage in another business or employment" and that he pleaded guilty.

Invisible Commissioner
My questions were relayed to the Commissioner, and after a wait long enough to rouse the ire of any busy person, his secretary came out to tell me peremptorily that it wouldn't be possible for the Commissioner to see me.

"He just doesn't see people—even if it's just for a few minutes. Do you get in to see Commissioner Moses, or Valentine, just by asking to see them?" she demanded. I told her that I was working on a story that needed Commissioner Walsh.

"The Commissioner doesn't talk just because anyone asks him something," she went on.

"But I represent the press!" I was riled. "Can't the Commissioner talk?" I inquired condescendingly to match the woman's arrogant air.

"I don't like your attitude!" she snapped. I didn't tell her what I thought of hers.

"It doesn't sound reasonable," I explained. At least I knew how to behave like a lady.

"No, it doesn't sound reasonable, but that's the way things are done here," she replied.

Warner—He Talks
So the next contestant was secretary Warner, official spokesman for the department. After question-answer bandying he said resignedly that the Commissioner would not discuss the decision any further than was in the order announcing the decision. The order did not answer my question.

I had been announced to Warner. I waited. I could see him writing at his desk, so I went into his office—but not further than two steps.

"See here, see here, do you always barge into offices this way!" the great man asked in a great huff. (He's appointed, you know.)

Later he told me that after I had had more experience I would know that things aren't done just by asking for them. He's so much older than I am, you see. What I needed in this particular case was not experience—merely an answer to a question, I asserted. I'm an experienced reporter, not an editorial writer! Warner admitted without hesitation, however, that the executive staff of the department is not comprised of little tin gods.

He left me with heartening words when he refused to supply the answer I wanted: "It's nothing personal, you understand. It's our policy."

I'm a lady, I said "Nuts."

The Guys and Gals Have Their Say

the argument that "You get a reputation as a troublemaker and you get treated like one. You get all the scummy jobs."

"I was assigned duties in addition to my regular work. When I mentioned this to my superior in reference to getting a higher rating, he said that the work wasn't of outstanding nature. Is that right, considering that I had to do it on top of my other work?" came from other quarters.

The difficulty in seeing one of the "higher ups" irked a Law Department employee. "He always can see you just for a minute, and then the telephone rings, or someone else comes in, and you get just about a sentence out each time you see him," ran the complaint.

"When I was hired I was told that I would work every fourth Saturday, and so I thought it means that I had the other Saturdays off," a provisional in the Housing Authority related. "Later I learned we had to work half days on Saturdays, and I thought I must have misunderstood when I was interviewed; but I found that all the girls hired at the same time thought they wouldn't work Saturdays. In fact, one girl took off the first Saturday she was here and they docked her for it."

A provisional is dissatisfied with Civil Service because she isn't given any assurance of getting on a special recognition list after the duration of the war.

A promotion examination supposedly open to all employees in the Law Department who met requirements was limited to one division of the department, according to a complaint.

"Classifications are wrong. They should have been revamped long ago," a Bureau of Excise Taxes lass declared.

An issue of similar vein was presented in another city department: "I was given work not in line with my title, but I was refused permission to take the promotion exam in the other line since I didn't hold the title for the job."

The promise of more money and then the refusal to grant the money didn't make sense to a provisional in the Housing Authority working with the Law Department.

A notice, signed by Edward Butler, chairman of the Housing Authority, was posted in January, stating, in part: "Employees whose basic salary is $2400 per annum or less: The regular increment of $120 in basic salary will be granted to these employees (including provisionals) on their increment date. Provisional employees who have been with the Authority for a year or more January 1, 1944, will receive an increment of $120 effective January 1."

"Joseph Vickers, head of the real estate bureau, explained it to us," the young woman stated. "We were supposed to get that increment on whatever date our first year was up. After January too. When I didn't get any raise I asked about it, and H. Broadman Epstein, executive counsel of the Law Department, said we couldn't get it because the Law Department employees didn't. But the Authority pays us! Where's that money we're supposed to get?"

"I know of one department where they're trying to force a resignation from an employee

The Female Touch

According to an item in "Lighting Time," sprightly journal of the New York City Department of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity, the boys are pretty glad to welcome the fair sex to their offices.

From the drafting room comes this cheerful note: "The mechanical monotony of our room has at last been broken. We have acquired two new members to our staff. One a charming typist, Miss Mildred Diamond, has added that feminine air which has long been absent. The other member, Anton Pescha, assistant electrical engineer will assist us with satisfying the tremendous demand for post-war plans."

Building Boom After War Is Predicted

Best authorities predict that more than a million homes will be built right after the war, if history repeats itself. Based on what happened after World War I, when the housing shortage was so intense that just about everyone who could afford it "built their own," foresighted civil service employees are preparing for that day. Many of them have already bought land which they are paying for out of income, so that when the big day comes it will be easy to raise the money to build.

Lending institutions are always willing to lend money on land that is paid for, providing the money is used to build a home, one real estate operator finds. Pointing to the development of Long Island Acres as just the thing for the average home-builder, he has developed a conservative home investment plan.

"A five-lot homesite sells for $99. The down payment is $20 and the balance is paid as low as $1 a week. These "little estates" are located near enough to stores, schools, churches, railroad stations, etc. to be really convenient. There is bathing, boating, fishing accessible. The ideal vacation spot, as well as an all-year-round homesite."

"Civil service employees who are planning retirement within the next five or ten years find the proposition highly interesting. Dreams of a home, a garden, plenty of sunshine, an outboard motor, fishing in a quiet lake are beginning to take form." All these dreams can come true for the average man under the plan described by the large Long Island developer.

A new beautiful section shaded by giant pine trees has been opened. Free transportation is offered to those who wish to inspect the property. The offices of Long Island Acres, Inc., are on the eighth floor of 500 5th Avenue, New York. There is an interesting acreage exhibit in Suite 806. It is open from 9 A.M. to 9 P.M.

eligible for retirement. They give her unpleasant, humiliating, and undignified work to do. Two employees in another department left a few years ago because working conditions were made so miserable for them," the informer said. "The idea is so that no replacement is made, and so a saving shows up on the budget."

Civil Service employees are sure to share in the Mayor's new health plan. That satisfied a clerk in the Office of the Comptroller.

"And I like Civil Service because it's coed," a young man smiled.

Injured Patrolman Back on Job

The Appellate Division, First Department, unanimously affirmed an order by Justice Benedict D. Dineen, directing that Patrolman Frank Cohen be restored to duty in the Police Force at full pay.

Patrolman Cohen was appointed to the Police Force on September 29, 1932. While making an arrest on July 16, 1940, he sustained an injury to his left arm which developed into paralysis. Thereafter, Patrolman Cohen was retired, pursuant to the recommendation of the Special Medical Board, which found him unfit for duty.

Attorneys Irvin J. Goldsmith and Abraham J. Springer of 512 West 42nd Street, New York City, attacked the decision of the Retirement Board on two grounds. They contended that Patrolman Cohen should be restored to full duty because: 1. There were certain jobs in the Police Department which could be performed by Patrolman Cohen, and; 2. That there had been a substitution of physicians on the Special Medical Board.

Judge Dineen decided the case on the second charge. By its decision, upholding Judge Dineen's ruling, the Court said in part "It is admitted that the Special Medical Board which examined petitioner in October 1942 consisted of Drs. de Brun and Kennedy. They disagreed and a third physician was appointed to act with them. But the report finally made was not made by these three doctors. Another physician had been substituted for Dr. de Brun. This substitution was not authorized by the Administrative Code and obviously rendered the report valueless."

The above decision restored Patrolman Cohen to the Police Force, with back pay from January 1943.

RAISES GRANTED IN MANHATTAN OFFICES
Four employees of the Borough President of Manhattan recently came in for nice presents. Thomas J. McGraw and Herbert Arons, Stationary Engineers (Electric) had their salaries raised to $11 a day, from $9, effective back to July 1, 1943. John Lantry and Timothy F. O'Shaughnessy, Oilers, went to $8.72 a day, from $7.70, effective October 14, 1943.

Huge Housing-Medical Project for NYC Municipal Workers Proposed

A resolution urging the legal studies necessary to establish a $100,000,000 housing and medical project for municipal employees was presented by Henry Feinstein, president of Local 717, American Federation of State, County, and Municipal Employees, to the Municipal Credit Union. Feinstein is on the Credit Union board of directors.

As envisioned by members of employee unions who evolved the post-war plan, the project would be a housing haven, including a complete medical unit, for more than 200,000 eligible employees. It is hoped that the major section of this grandiose scheme will be along the East River Drive front area recently condemned from Grand to 23rd Street. Area along the Marginal Line is included in the plan, although the office of the President of the Borough of Manhattan is opposed to ruining the commercial waterfront possibilities of the area.

Feinstein will ask Manhattan President, Edgar J. Nathan, Jr., to submit the idea to the Advisory Planning Board of Manhattan, which is studying post-war housing projects.

Legal Hurdles

In the study of legal complications, it may be necessary to have the State Banking Law revised to allow the Credit Union and other institutions to invest in the housing project. Since the housing and medical project would be in the interest of the City, legislation may be necessary to permit the City to invest in the plan. The State constitution may have to be revised to clear all legal channels. Under the private housing law, the City can grant—and has granted—concessions, such as tax exemption on the increase in value of real estate due to improvement. The public housing law requires that City and State funds or any subsidies may be granted only to low rent and low income groups. This proposed plan does not fall into that category.

The project would be in several sites throughout the City. The right of eminent domain can be secured through an act of legislature enabling the Municipal Credit Union to compel owners to part with land at a fair price; or the City could condemn the property on the land for the benefit of the housing project, charging the Credit Union.

More Time For Employee Ratings

Faced with clerical shortages, many New York City departments have found it impossible to complete the service ratings of their employees for the year ending March 31, 1943. First, the period to file these reports was extended by the Municipal Civil Service Commission from April 30 to May 15.

Some departments still weren't able to meet the new deadline, and the NYC Housing Authority and the Department of Marine and Aviation were granted further extensions.

visory Planning Board, it will face the scrutiny of Henry Bruere, president of Bowery Savings Bank; Lee Thompson Smith, president of Lawyers Title Corporation of New York (who until January 1 was with the City's Real Estate Bureau six years); and Cameron Clark, eminent consulting architect.

Complete Medical Setup

The medical unit of the proposed plan would be complete down to the point of including a maternity ward. A tennis court, swimming pool, and roof garden are among the attractive features.

The housing project would be on a cooperative basis, since all money accrued would be reinvested in the community.

Many municipal workers are dissatisfied because they have not been able to find living quarters near their places of employment, Feinstein pointed out. Another important advantage of the project would be that the more employees presently residing in other areas would be eligible to vote within districts more favorable to them.

Palisades Park Opens Free Nights For Civil Servants

Well, here's a case where civil service employees get something for nothing—actually!

Palisades Amusement Park on the Jersey side of the Hudson, opposite the 125th Street Ferry, has arranged to admit civil service employees without charge every Tuesday night. There are no strings, no ifs or buts—if you're a civil service worker, you can go to the famous amusement center on Tuesday night, if your agency happens to be scheduled for that night.

The plan goes into effect beginning Tuesday, June 6, and that's the night for the NYC Sanitation Department. If you work for that department—it doesn't make any difference in what capacity, you get free entrance to Palisades Park.

On the following Tuesday (June 13), employees of the NYC Board of Transportation and the State Division of Placement and Unemployment Insurance will be admitted free.

The popular Jersey fun center reports that free acts will be presented daily as heretofore, consisting of a "name" band and a thrill act. In addition the orchestras, which will change weekly, will also play for free dancing in the park casino.

MEMBER AUDIT BUREAU OF CIRCULATIONS

Two Answers On Outside Jobs

As a prize example of asinine public relations, we give you—
The dismissal of Fireman Vincent Calfapietra, by the NYC Fire Department. Calfapietra, by the way, has offers of an $8,000-a-year job. We're surprised at you, Mayor LaGuardia; and even more at you, Fire Commissioner Pat Walsh, because you're an old-time fireman yourself, and presumably have some sympathy for your men and the way they think. Don't you see what you're doing by dismissing Fireman Cal? You're providing the incentive for other men to want to leave the Fire Department in droves, so that they, too, can have better jobs in private industry. You certainly don't for a moment believe that they're going to give up their outside jobs just because you threaten them by dismissing one of their number! They've already shown they don't scare easy.

Now, as to the law. Assuming you're wrong on the law, then the firing is a disgusting piece of business any way you look at it. If you're right on the law, then harsh justice should have been tempered by a little mercy (as well as self-interest) in this case. Here's why: Fireman Calfapietra had an excellent record in the department; his outside job never interfered with his work for the department; he was always on call; that outside job helped the war effort; Cal had already given it up before he was brought up on charges; at the time of his trial, he was slated to enter the Navy, and stood to lose all his accumulated rights by being dismissed. Also, you stood to lose a good man at a time when you can't get any others.

Even a criminal gets a suspended sentence on a first offense.

Talk about asinine!
Boys, this is it!

ON THE OTHER HAND—

A pat on the back to Chief Magistrate Henry H. Curran, who shows himself a realist in the matter of outside jobs for City employees. He permits the practice among employees of the Magistrates' Courts so long as it does not interfere with court work. In fact, he personally passes on each application of an employee who wishes to take outside work. Employees are earning little enough, he says, and he won't hinder their opportunity to earn a little more.

Loyalty Rating Without Prejudice

We described for you, in last week's issue, how the new Loyalty Rating Board, set up by the U. S. Civil Service Commission, works. We approved the plan. Our only suggestion was that the personnel of the Board be selected from individuals outside the Commission's own staff. We've talked to a lot of people about the Board since we received our report on it. They all agree with our suggestion. Here are the reasons:

1. Outsiders would be far less apt to be influenced by the Commission's own attitudes. Employees of the Commission, on the other hand, couldn't help being so influenced.
2. With outsiders sitting as judges, this wouldn't be "just another board."
3. From the Commission's own viewpoint, the decisions of the Board would relieve it from some of the responsibility, and the criticism it has suffered on the ground that its investigations have sometimes been narrowly construed.

STATE CIVIL SERVICE BRIEFS

Applying for State Examinations

If you intend applying for State Civil Service examinations, you can perform a definite service by observing a few simple rules, which will conserve paper and manpower and free the mails for other matters. Remember that an incomplete application or one submitted without a fee calls for additional correspondence. Make sure that you possess the residence qualifications and, if the examination is for promotion, that you are employed in the department where the vacancy exists. For your information and guidance, an announcement of a pending examination is published. Use it.

Examination Announcements
Examination announcements are designed to acquaint prospective candidates with the nature of the job involved, the minimum requirements for entrance, and the scope of the examination.

Applications for examinations should not be filed until the announcements of such examinations have been issued. The announcements of promotion and open-competitive examinations contain general directions covering the manner in which applications for such examinations are to be filled out and filed. Such directions should be carefully read and followed. All the information requested on the application form supplied by the State Civil Service Commission should be given by the applicant. Special care should be taken by the applicant to describe all the training and experience data requested, inasmuch as the rating for training and experience is based largely on the statements made in the application.

Under the provisions of the Civil Service Law, applicants for civil Don't Repeat This!

Around Town

On the political front: Manhattan D.A., Frank S. Hogan, has been offered a State Supreme Court nomination by hungry Democrats... but turned it down... Daniel Huttenbrauck, Deputy Assistant D.A. in Manhattan, is leaving for a commercial job... This leaves the depleted Hogan staff still further understaffed... Retiring: Eddie Cusick, the Smiling Irishman who has served as assistant to the chairman of the State Athletic Commission for the past two years.

Predictions

If LaGuardia continues his campaign against part-time jobs for City employees, he will be slapped down in the courts. Expert opinion expects the Natilson decision to be upheld. But his real campaign will be for legislative action in Albany next January—the only legal way he can restrict the outside employment of City workers. That isn't expected to work either, as the City employees are doing a good job for the war effort, and there is a critical manpower shortage in New York City.

In the Arena

Corporation Counsel Ignatius Wilkinson has powerful Tammany support and is being urged to run for the State Supreme Court bench this fall... At press-time there was talk of another candidate in the Marcantonio-Martin Kennedy battle—from the Republican side. As they see it, Marcantonio will get the ALP nod; Kennedy the Democratic. Friends are working on State Senator Richard DiConzanzo to get in the fray. They point out that he can't lose; telling him that he has no chance to go back to Albany... and he may win.

The Way To Fail

Sir: Reading the latest issue of the monthly paper of the Engineering Club of the NYC Department of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity, I came across some suggestions to assure the failure of any civil employee group. I think they would be of interest to LEADER readers who are members of organizations.

- Here's their recipe for failure:
1. Don't come to meetings. But, if you do, come late!!!
 2. If the weather doesn't suit you, don't think of coming.
 3. Still—if you do not attend meetings, find fault with the work of the members and officers who do attend!!!
 4. But—never accept an office. It is easier to criticize than to do things!!!
 5. Yet—when asked to help, "Pass the buck" to the officers!!!
 6. Nevertheless, get peeved if you are not appointed on a committee. But, if you are, do not attend meetings or try to cooperate!!!
 7. If you are asked by the chairman to give your opinion on a matter of importance tell him you have nothing to say. After the meeting tell everybody how things should be run!!!
 8. Do nothing more than is absolutely necessary, but when other members roll up their sleeves and willingly and unselfishly use their ability to help matters along, howl that the organization is run by a "clique"!!!
 9. Don't bother about getting new members—"Let the other guy do it"!!!
 10. Never pay dues. You can always get something for nothing!!!

service examinations are required to pay certain application fees, varying with the salary of the positions for which they apply. Such fees are paid into the State treasury and form part of the general fund of the State. The announcement sets forth the fee required. If an application is disapproved because the applicant lacks the minimum qualifications, the fee is refunded after the date of the examination.

Scope of Examination
The announcement serves another important purpose. The Civil Service Law requires that examinations "shall be practical in their character and shall relate to those matters which fairly test the relative capacity and fitness of persons examined to discharge the duties of that service into which they seek to be appointed." In addition, in cases of promotion examinations, the seniority and efficiency of the applicants must each be given a rating. The examinations may consist of a written test, a practical demonstration test, a tech-

Merit Men

A TREE grows in Brooklyn, and an outdoors man holding an important position in State Civil Service has his office in congested New York City. He is William H. Winters, District Game Protector for the New York City area, with the State Conservation Department.

Winters assumed his duties here May 1 replacing William G. Jacquemin who died March 28. A native of Port Henry, Winters guided and operated his own hunting camp before entering Civil Service in 1926 as game protector of Saranac Lake Division. In 1927 he was promoted to district game protector of Albany division; and from 1939 until May he was district game protector of Glens Falls. He has done conspicuous work in plugging illegal traffic in fish and game, Conservation Commissioner John White, in Albany, reported.

The new man is a noted pistol shot on the range and afield. In 1935 he won an individual open championship of four states, shooting 10 bullseyes in the "rising bear shoot" in 10 seconds. He has been with the winning Conservation Department Pistol League. When queried about medals and trophies, he admitted having the awards but he insisted that he didn't remember how many.

Winters, a strapping six foot one inch, good-looking blond, quiet mannered man, found it difficult to talk about himself during an interview. He did, however, proudly show a wallet snapshot of his older daughter (a stenographer) with a deer she shot. "She's gotten her deer every year she's gone hunting," he commented.

A five-year-old son is a shooting man too—"bow and arrow and everything!" His oldest child, 21, is an Army pilot. Another daughter is in high school.

A game protector does more than measure fish and read reports. Winters admitted he was saving incidents he remembered for a book to be written "some day". There was the time he so maneuvered to trap a hunter following illegal practices that the man surrendered because he thought State troopers were on his trail. Another time the game protector had to stay in hiding in the forest three days and nights before he caught his quarry—three commercial hunters, and he had to shoot before one of the trapped men pulled a gun on him.

While flying over his territory a few years ago, Winters—yes, he can pilot a plane—and another pilot made a forced landing, escaping all injury. Another time he found a man who had been lost in the woods three days.

"We have to be fire fighters, first aiders, and information bureaus too," he explained.

A camera frequently is part of Winters' equipment. He likes to take pictures of outdoor life.

Several years ago a Navy engineer estimated that it would cost $30,000 to raise an airplane that had crashed to the bottom of Lake Champlain. It cost the State approximately $30, using a plan suggested by the district game protector.

He never has used a rifle or shotgun since he's been in Civil Service. Winters shoots his game with a revolver—a feat requiring more skill than use of the heavier firearms.

His skill was put to use as a teacher of game protector schools for three years. He also conducted pistol classes for guards in upstate war plants for three years.

Winter holds executive positions in several sportsmen's organizations. Speaking of how he spends his spare time, he smiled, "I'm like the postman who takes a walk on his day off."

POLICE CALLS

More About the Issues in PBA Election

John Carton's platform in the Patrolmen's Benevolent Association race is a "no platform" stand. "My record in the past," says Carton, has always been to fight for those things which would improve the working conditions of men on the force. I don't want to set up a group of unattainable planks in a platform, and then be unable to achieve them. In general, however, Carton is in favor of the specific items mentioned by Ray Donovan as a platform (see last week's LEADER). Harnedy's chief opponent feels that both the delegates and the men have lost confidence in their present leader, and that they will welcome a new one. "As real issues come up in the course of the campaign," Carton says, "our side will be ready with the straight answers." "We hope to correct Harnedy's faults. One of the worst of those faults is a dictatorial approach to the job. Often the members of the Executive Board had no idea what was going on. The same with public relations. Harnedy's idea of public relations was so poor that it hurt the organization badly. That's why I decided to run for the presidency. If everything were going according to Hoyle, I could continue the way I am, as vice president. I wouldn't need to take a gamble on running for the presidency."

Bonus Issue

Harnedy's campaign will swing into high gear with emphasis on the $420 bonus, which his side will claim wouldn't have been won without the fight he put up. He will also argue that he has been a hard-working president, with the interests of his men always at heart. How he will answer the charges of dictatorial approach to his job, and bad public relations, we don't yet know.

A number of the younger men in the department are down on Carton, and may try to shift their delegates in Harnedy's direction. They cite instances which, they claim, illustrate that Carton is unsympathetic to their problems. Carton denies this.

Joe Burkard's bloc of votes is no longer a bloc. It will be distributed among the various candidates. Which adds still another unpredictable element to an already unpredictable election contest.

[Note—The ballots in The LEADER'S straw poll will reach delegates this week.]

nical test, or other tests, or it may consist of a combination of such tests. The subject matter to be covered by these examinations is indicated in the announcement by an enumeration of the duties of the position, and by a listing of the special skills and knowledges with which the candidate must be familiar. The relative weight of the various subjects comprising the examination are also set forth in the announcement. The passing mark on the various subjects comprising an examination, such as the written test, training and experience, etc., is 75%, unless a different passing mark is fixed by the State Civil Service Commission and is set forth in the announcement.

By referring to your examination announcement from time to time you may be able to find the answers to many questions which may arise in your mind about the examination involved or about examinations generally. In addition, the examples of the job duties and the description of the special skills and knowledges contained in the announcement are a good indication of what the written examination may be expected to cover. They provide a basis for study in preparation for the examination. The Commission does not issue special study material for the use of candidates. The announcement, therefore, does not lose its value after the application is filed. It should be retained at least until after the examination is held.

The State Employee

By CLIFFORD C. SHORO

President, The Association of State Civil Service Employees

In writing "The State Employee" as a regular weekly feature of The LEADER, Clifford C. Shoro discusses all and any matters of interest to employees of the State of New York. He is writing this column with complete leeway to express his own views.

Discipline — Morale

ANY ORGANIZATION—large or small—if it is to function smoothly, efficiently, productively and without friction, dissension and discrimination must have a high level of morale. Morale can be raised by discipline properly maintained or it may be reduced or even destroyed by over-discipline.

In the Home

DISCIPLINE in the home, if properly exercised, can produce the very optimism of family accord. Lack of discipline among children creates a sense of laxity, an atmosphere of disrespect, and a habit of disobedience. Over-discipline causes fear, distrust and finally dishonesty.

In the School

WELL MANAGED schools, schools in which discipline is maintained in accordance with the highest accepted practices and standards, produce graduates trained not only in the arts and sciences but in the ways of living that lead to happiness and contentment.

In the State Service

THE MERIT SYSTEM is intended to attract well trained ambitious workers to the service of the State. This type of employee usually comes into State service with an open mind anxious to learn his new job, to do a good job, and be happy and contented in his chosen career. He intends to adjust himself to the conditions surrounding his employment and to make friends of his fellow workers. If the morale of the group is high he finds it a simple matter to become a part of the organization, to learn his duties, and to contribute to the group effort. If, however, he finds that his new associates look at him "over the top of their glasses," that they are slow to "warm up," they call him "Mr." when necessary to address him at all, he realizes that a high degree of morale is lacking in the group, that unfriendliness and even suspicion is common and, that production is low. Too often this deplorable condition is the result of "over-discipline." The "Big Boss" does not realize that he is exercising supervision over a group of adults and not children. He knows that he is responsible for "getting out the work" but he does not know why the work lags, why deadlines cannot be met. He may have an inferiority complex for which he attempts to compensate by rigid rules of conduct of his underlings. He sees his employees at their assigned places of work at the stipulated hour and he knows that they will be there until quitting time. He does not allow any "visiting," laughing, whistling, and any such disturbance. Employees address each other as Mrs. Miss, or Mr.; they enter into conversation only as required by their duties and "stay on the job."

In such an organization the Boss prides himself on the discipline of his group and cannot understand why production is low. The reason is low morale resulting from over-discipline. You can catch more flies with molasses than with vinegar. This is also true of human beings. "Good morning, John, how is the baby with the measles?" will put more material in the "work completed" basket than a gruff "Morning." Circulating among his assistants with a word of praise or encouragement will help the Boss to meet a deadline more often than repeated criticisms. Every supervisor at each level carries the responsibility of the work assigned to his unit or group. A high level of morale is required for a high level of production. Supervisors can go a long way toward increasing the production of State employees and thus compensating a large degree for the vacant positions if they will only realize the importance of individual and group morale, and study ways and means to raise the level of this most important tool of all types of work.

State Commission Adds Two New Exempt Jobs

ALBANY.—Two jobs paying $4,000 a year to start were filled this week in the State Department of Agriculture after the positions had been removed from competitive to non-competitive classification.

Following the appointments it was revealed that C. Chester Du Mond, State Commissioner of Agriculture, had requested the Civil Service Commission to take the positions out of competition by examination and put them into the category of non-competitive. The request was approved by the Commission in the form of a resolution which later had the approval of Governor Dewey.

As a result of this move, Commissioner Du Mond named Dr. Asa Winters and Dr. Winfield S. Stone as assistant directors of the Bureau of Animal Industry to fill vacancies caused by the retirement of Doctors W. S. Newman and Charles Linch.

State Association Reports on Recent Standardization Hearings

The activities of the State Salary Standardization Board are of interest to every New York State employee. Following are reports of recent Board hearings at which the employees were represented by the Association of State Civil Service Employees of the State of New York:

Occupational Instructors

| Title | Present Salary | Salary Requested |
|---|----------------|------------------|
| Occupational Instructors | $1400-1900 | $1800-2300 |
| Senior Occupational Instructor 1450-2150 | | 2100-2800 |
| Supervising Occupational Instructor 2000-2500 | | 2400-3000 |

The appeal was presented by ASCSE Chairman H. E. Shumake of Middletown State Hospital. Other members of the committee who spoke were Thomas Hanlon, Letchworth Village, Frank Rogers, Pilgrim State Hospital and Sarah Bristol of Syracuse State School.

It was pointed out that some of the Occupational Instructors, although they do not have the same training and educational qualifications as Occupational Therapists, have been doing substan-

Herbert Lehman's Tribute to Harold Fisher

The LEADER's Executive Editor this week received the following communications from Herbert H. Lehman, Director of the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration, and former Governor of the State of New York:

May 13, 1944.

Mr. Maxwell Lehman, Executive Editor
Civil Service Leader
97 Duane Street
New York 7, New York

My dear Mr. Lehman: Your letter of May 2 advising me of the death of Mr. Harold Fisher has only just reached me. I have learned of his passing with very real regret.

I wish that your letter had come to me earlier so that I could have sent you my tribute on the date which you suggested. In spite of the lateness of the date, I am enclosing herewith a letter of tribute which you may wish to include in one of your later issues.

Very sincerely yours,

HERBERT H. LEHMAN

(Enclosure)

I am deeply grieved to hear of the passing of Mr. Harold Fisher, President of the Association of State Civil Service Employees.

During my service as Governor of the State of New York, I was in frequent and close association with Mr. Fisher. I formed an unusually high regard for his sincerity, his forthrightness and his unflinching devotion to the men and women in the State employ who had chosen him as their leader. I found him at all times actuated solely by a desire to help his fellow workers in their maintenance of decent working conditions and fair compensation. He was a wise leader who will be much missed in the councils of Civil Service.

State Assn. Asks Longer Vacations for Institutions

The Association of State Civil Service Employees insists that vacations for institutional employees be no shorter in length than vacations for State employees in other departments.

Taking note of the fact that the State Civil Service Commission intends to allot shorter vacation periods to institutional employees, officers of the State Association this week pointed out that (1) institutional employees are working harder than ever before; (2) a shorter vacation period will not make for better work; (3) efficiency in the institutions requires a vacation period in the institutions at least as long as that enjoyed by other State employees.

The Association has appealed to Judge J. Edward Conway, President of the State Civil Service Commission, to grant uniform vacation periods for all employees. Conway had issued a memorandum to all State agencies in which the vacation allowance for 1944 had been set at the rate of one and one-half days per month of service up to a maximum of 18 days, exclusive of Sundays and holidays but including Saturday as a full day.

M. Frederick Green has been graduated from recruit training as honor man of his company at the U. S. Naval Training Station here and is now on "boot" leave. Green was elected candidate by fellow blue-jackets and selected honor man by his company commander on the basis of military aptitude. Prior to joining the Navy he was employed as prison guard for the New York State Department of Correction, Woodburne Prison. He is spending his leave with his wife and family in Carlstadt and will also visit his mother Mrs. Sarah A. Green in Pine Bush, New York.

State Employees

The Deadline... May 31! For Insurance Plan

There are only seven more days in which State employees can avail themselves of one of the best insurance buys in the market—and without medical examination. After May 30, 1944, the Group Life Insurance Plan which is an exclusive offering of the Association of Civil Service Employees will require a medical test. Until then, membership is open to all Association members who have not yet availed themselves of the opportunity on application—except for those who have previously been rejected, or those who have not yet completed 3 months in the State service.

This very low cost Life Insurance is made available to every State Employee on the State Payrolls, and has been of benefit to many thousands of wives, husbands, and relatives of deceased State Employees. If you are under age forty, the cost per $1000 is only 60 cents a month. You can't go anywhere else and buy Life Insurance at such a low cost, and with a policy that will pay your beneficiary almost before you are buried. Many checks have been mailed out to the Association before the funeral of the deceased.

Thousands of letters have come in to the Travelers Insurance Company and the Association, indicating the wonderful benefits that have been obtained by the beneficiary due to receipt of this life insurance. If you are not insured, now is the time for you to protect your loved ones with this form of coverage.

The rates are graduated at five year periods above age forty, but even if you are 55 or 59 years of age, the cost is only $2.00 per month per $1000, or $24.00 a year, and it is written on a salary deduction basis. A small sum is taken out of your pay, each payday, so that you hardly know that you are paying for this very wonderful protection. You must, however, watch the following schedule in the purchase of this Life Insurance. You must purchase the amount of insurance shown opposite your salary grade:

| Insurance Class | Annual Salary | Amount of Insurance |
|-----------------|--------------------|---------------------|
| I | Less than $900 | $ 500 |
| II | $ 900 to $1,400 | $1,000 |
| III | $1,400 to $1,700 | $1,500 |
| IV | $1,700 to $2,100 | $2,000 |
| V | $2,100 to $2,700 | $2,500 |
| VI | $2,700 to $3,500 | $3,000 |
| VII | $3,500 to $4,500 | $4,000 |
| VIII | $4,500 and over | $5,000 |

The foregoing salary grades apply to males only. For females earning less than $900 a year, the insurance is $500 coverage,

Post-War Expansion For State Employees Federal Credit Union

By EDWARD J. RAMER

Treasurer of the State Employees Federal Credit Union

We have what we believe to be the largest credit union of public employees in the country. It is a cooperative saving and loan association, owned and operated by State workers for their own benefit, in accordance with the requirement of the Federal Credit Union Law.

It has two aims: to promote thrift and to create a source of credit of $25 to $2,000 for members requiring loans.

In the days ahead we expect our credit union to be of even greater benefit to its members. A great vista of new opportunities of service after the war is discernible now. We intend them, after the war, to be able to invoke the "cooperative" spirit and practice in aiding our members in acquiring many of the essentials of living, through cooperative buying.

Started In '34

We have come far since the Federal Credit Union law was enacted in 1934. Then a few State employees in Albany got together and decided to form a credit union under this new federal statute. We were granted a charter in December, 1934, and on January 2, 1935, we began business.

We believe we are the first group of State employees to receive a federal charter. While there has been a N. Y. State Credit Union Law on the statutes for many years, we decided to organize under the federal law because then our credit union would be open to all State employees employed in Albany. Under the State law, employees of the Banking Department would be barred from membership as they have to audit books and accounts of State credit unions.

Today there are approximately 30 federal credit unions of N. Y. State employees operating in various cities throughout the State.

$14,000 To $205,000

Our growth was exceptional. Ending our first year (1935) with assets of $14,000 we expanded steadily until a high of $205,000 assets was reached during the early part of 1942. Then, the effect of the war was felt and copy of our latest report enclosed here-with shows our assets today of $181,905. Also enclosed is summary of how the credit union operates.

For our first two years, the details of running the credit union was performed, without charge, by a few of the officers during their off-time, such as lunch time, evenings, etc. As business developed, paid assistants were employed until we had a force of four very good young men. These four are all in the Army, all sergeants (two overseas), and for the record their names follow:

Bert Neyroz, cashier; James Ellis, assistant cashier; William S. Miller, bookkeeper; Edwin Jarvis, assistant bookkeeper.

With the reduction in business due to the war, the details are efficiently handled today by two young ladies: Miss Helen Polizzi, cashier, and Mrs. Thelma Kapner, bookkeeper.

Of course, the general supervision and managing is carried on by the treasurer under the Board of Directors, Credit Committee and Supervisory Committee. No director or committee member receives any remuneration except the treasurer, and his salary is voted by all the members at the annual meeting.

Members Give Time

The usual thrift and credit agency is managed for the profit of its few owners but a credit union is managed for the benefit of all its members. However, to assure the success of a credit union, it is necessary to locate men who are willing to devote their spare time and abilities to the management of the affairs of the credit union with no personal gain other than the sense of personal satisfaction derived from aiding the less fortunate members.

The present directors and committees are:

Board of Directors—Charles Messina, president; John W. Hewes, vice-president; Edward J. Ramer, treasurer; Maurice L. Reiner, assistant treasurer; Leonard F. Requa, Jr., secretary; John J. Kelly, Arthur Wright, Joseph Chelos and a vacancy caused by death of Harold J. Fisher).

Credit Committee—John J. Kelly, chairman; Maurice L. Reiner, secretary; James A. Mulvey, Charles Messina, and Edward J. Ramer.

Supervisory Committee—Henry A. Cohen, chairman; Howard Morin, secretary; and Clifford C. Shoro.

Three men who have aided materially in developing our credit union in the past and who have since passed on were: The late William Maher of Civil Service, Joseph E. Sheary of Public Works, and Harold J. Fisher of State.

When first started, our credit union charged the legal 1% per month on loans which meant that the cost for borrowing \$100 for one year was \$6.50. In February, 1940, the directors reduced this rate to $\frac{1}{2}$ % per month so today the cost for borrowing \$100 for one year is \$5.30. This charge includes the insuring of the loan so that should a borrowing member die, his loan is repaid by the insurance company, and any shares to the credit of the deceased are paid over to his estate. This method, of course, also protects co-makers.

From January, 1935 to April, 1944, our credit union issued $1,445,517.50 in loans to members. Of this total, but $338.84 was charged off as bad loans. This amounts to two hundredths of 1%, and speaks very well for the character of State employees.

Our credit union qualified as an agency of the U. S. Treasury Department in 1937, and sold the original "baby bonds." We thought so well of these "baby bonds" that we purchased $5,000 worth at $3,750 in 1937. Our foresight proved good, as these particular type of bonds are not permitted to be purchased by corporations since 1939.

Of course, we sold war bonds as soon as they were issued and continued to sell them until the payroll deduction plan was started, at which time we retired from that field.

When this war is over and credit restrictions are lifted, and rationing reduced, our credit union really expects to "go to town" and aid materially in helping its members purchase the major items that make for good living in a peace-time world. These purchases, in turn, will aid in solving the unemployment problem.

What Spring Means At A State Hospital

From Dannemora, N. Y., an employee of the State Hospital sends in his story of what spring means at a New York State mental institution. We've heard from these employees before. Here is another story:

One beautiful spring afternoon, detailed to supervise the washing of walls and ceilings preparatory to their being painted, I had about sixteen convicts busily engaged in the Mess Hall and Officers Dining Room—two adjoining rooms.

At the extreme end of the Officers Dining Room, in a smaller, separate room, stands the dish-washing machine. Frank, who had been painting, asked me for a wrench, saying he had to tighten the hot water valve on the machine. Being a usual request, and part of his job, I gave him the tool, and a few minutes later he was pounding lustily on the pipes.

Fearful lest this obviously too heavy pounding should result in damage to the machine, I quickly checked my crew in the Mess Hall and stepped over to the small

State-wide daily newspaper publicity surrounded the last winners when they were judged on City Hall steps. And newsreels too. With three winners this time, there's promise of mighty big doings for the girls!

The Beauty Editor already has pictures of early entries lined up for the judges, who will be named in a forthcoming issue. From the samples he has, it looks like keen competition ahead.

NOW'S the time to submit the pictures, because the contest won't be run too long. Don't say you weren't warned! All photographs if accompanied by self addressed folders will be returned. There's no rule against submitting your own photographs, girls. Senders of the pix remain confidential information. But let's see the picture of the belle of your office, or the office upstairs, or the girl you'd like to date. It's all part of the inter-, intra-department competition—and she'll be complimented when you ask for her picture!

Any type picture will do. Information on the back should include name of entry and department of employment and home address.

The Lana Turner type stands just as much chance as the Hedy Lamar and Shirley Temple types. The contest is on NOW! Hurry entries to BEAUTY EDITOR, CIVIL SERVICE LEADER, 97 Duane Street, New York 7, N. Y.

Who's Done Most for the War Effort?

Where's the woman who is active in her local defense council? Do you know a girl who enlisted you know a girl who enlisted others for sending packages to servicemen? A combination of many activities may designate the winner.

Good work will out. You've heard of the unselfishness and sacrifice of many employees. The judges want to know what you know—but they've got to know SOON, because this is no long-drawn out contest! The fur coat prize is being contributed by I. J. Fox, renowned furrier.

Letters (and photographs if they are available but not necessary) should be sent promptly to WAR

CONTEST EDITOR, CIVIL SERVICE LEADER, 97 Duane Street, New York 7, N. Y. The letters are not to be the long, flowery type that eulogizes. This contest is concerned with facts—and the deeds will speak for themselves. Nothing fancy connected with this.

Who's especially active in a war effort organization? Ladies, you know about yourselves. In this contest, you forget about anonymity. It's not bragging to state what you've done, or what your friends have done—although of course, the letter writers will remain anonymous to the public.

Where is the State civil service woman worthy of acclaim for her war efforts? Let's hear about her NOW!

left me there, closing the door on me for safe keeping.

Formerly the main kitchen of the institution, the Officers Dining Room had a double-locked, heavy steel door set into one wall. Previously it had been used to admit stores, ice, coal for the ranges, etc. With me now secure in the lavatory, these three feverishly took up their appointed task of wrecking this door, to cover the noise of which work Frank had been so energetically pounding, "tightening the hot-water valve." Now, continuing, the three attacked the door with a jimmy and other improvised tools (previously smuggled into the dining room), working to get it opened to the freedom sought.

The mess hall in this institution is a main thoroughfare to the Key-Office—gateway and arsenal of the hospital. Officers on their tour of duty necessarily shuttle through there. One officer, passing through on his way to the Key-Office, hearing the unusual noise investigated. Sensing what was going on, he quickly notified the Key-Office Charge who turned in the alarm and fortunately prevented the escape of these three desperate, insane convicts.

This is but one of many such incidents, part of the everyday life in this institution. Spring is a beautiful season, too much so to be threatened with a wrench, tied up, gagged, and stuck into a lavatory. Spring does things to you, up here in the Northland. But it's nothing to what an insane convict, filled with the urge for freedom, can do. Especially when that convict has nothing to lose, since one of these three was already serving 'life' for the murder of a watchman during a silk warehouse robbery.

room, intending to instruct him in the proper use of the wrench. He was down on one knee, pounding away at random on the pipes. Far from doing any constructive tightening job, he was intent on producing as much noise as possible.

I tapped him on the shoulder, shouting to make myself heard. I told him to be careful, to pound lightly, if at all. Immediately he stopped pounding, turned his head to look up at me, then quickly straightened to his full height.

Warned by a glint of something in his eye, I took a step back, watching him closely. Raising the wrench above his head he shook it at me threateningly. I took four or five more steps backward, toward the door through which I had entered, and into the arms of the other two convicts.

Faced with one insane convict armed with a wrench, held tight by the other two, there was nothing much I could do. The long cords from the electric toaster and food trucks quickly bound my arms, and into my mouth they stuffed a wadded-up dish towel. I was marched ahead of them into the lavatory nearby. They threw me to the floor and Positively Seen At State Capitol!

ALBANY—One of the strangest sights seen in years at the State Capitol, where many strange things have occurred, was the sight that greeted visitors this week.

On one of the third-floor narrow window ledges of the inner court four men and one whisk-broom were engaged in cleaning the building.

Two men held the ladder at the foot while the man with the whisk broom went to the top. The foreman stood a few feet away supervising the job.

The man with the whisk broom brushed from the ledge, as far as his arm would reach, the accumulations of guano deposited there by the hundreds of pigeons that frequent the structure. Showers of guano fell over the two gents holding the ladder as the broom man broomed.

When one spot was brushed off, the ladder would be moved a few feet to another spot and the performance would be repeated.

Meanwhile the pigeons returned to the spot already cleaned off. It was obvious they were disgusted. This because it meant they'd have to resume all over again their task of exterior decoration.

But the cleaning crew didn't care. The building is vast and the crevices and ledges and cranies where the birds roost are innumerable. It looks like a lifetime job for the cleaners.

Get rid of the pigeons? Don't be silly!

BATTLE CRY!

CHINESE SOLDIERS have a battle cry: "Gung-Ho!" Literally translated, means "Working together!" In Americanese, it means Teamwork.

And Teamwork is a word every American understands—in peacetime as in war. In this war, it means perfect understanding among our Government, our service men, our home front.

It means our confidence in our fighters' ability. It means their faith in us to provide the material to do the job

It means buying War Bonds. And a very good buy they are, too.

For every three dollars we invest in War Bonds, Uncle Sam promises four back in ten years. There's no more honorable promise in the world!

Buy War Bonds. They're a wonderful investment—for you as well as America!
