SUPA—Albany Requests Public Salary Records

Resolutions requesting full disclosure of salary information for non-teaching professional employees have been sent to the President and the Dean for Personnel Administration by the State University Professional Association at Albany. The resolutions request information based on the departmental salary rosters submitted to the Office of the Dean for Personnel Administration, the SUNYA salary roster submitted to SUNY Central Administration, and the final, actual approved salary.

Most non-teaching professionals have been provided with statements of their expected salaries for 1970-71, pending approval by SUNY Central Administration and the New York State Division of the Budget. But they have not been informed of the original salary requests made by their departments, and they are seeking this information.

The resolutions also request that any individual who has had his service increase (increment) withheld be provided with the reasons for such action. The association has requested the information by July 16.

The resolutions were passed at the second quarterly membership meeting of the association, held on June 3. Also discussed was the Administrative Salary Plan scheduled to go into effect for the 1971-72 year. The plan makes a number of salary adjustments and changes in salary patterns.

After some discussion, the membership voted to call a special meeting to examine fully the new plan.

In other business, the members elected John Watson of the Computing Center to fill a vacancy on the Executive Board caused by the resignation of Harold Kristjansen. Neil Brown, president of statewide SUPA, reported on recent activities of that group, including the fact that representatives of the community colleges are requesting branch status within SUPA.

Perlmutter to Study Overseas Programs

New dimensions in international education will be the theme of a year long study by O. William Perlmutter, dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, during 1970-71. Dr. Perlmutter now is on special assignment, including some travel abroad, to develop further the university's international programs in which he long has been interested. He will continue to implement the already-approved concept of international professorships, as well as reviewing and assessing the current and projected overseas programs of the university.

Center for Humanistic Education Moves Into Quarters at Glenmont

The Center for Humanistic Education, a joint project of SUNYA and the New York State Education Department, recently occupied new quarters at Selinus House on Retreat House Road in Glenmont. During its formative stage, the center was housed in Richardson Hall on the downtown campus.

The new facility can accommodate up to 50 conference or laboratory participants for one to two week stays. It features common rooms, a kitchen, five laboratories, and 25 bedrooms.

The center's purpose is to "explore and develop more effective edu-

New Faculty Appointed In Music and Housing

Two new faculty appointments were announced recently, with Nathan Gottschalk being named chairman of the music department, effective August 27, and Charles E. Fisher becoming director of residences July 30. Dr. Gottschalk currently is professor of music and executive director at Hartt College of Music, University of Hartford, while Mr. Fisher spent the past year completing requirements for his doctorate of education at the Pennsylvania State University.

The new music chairman joined the Hartt faculty in 1956 and served as dean of faculty and assistant to the president of the Julius Hartt Musical Foundation, 1957-1966. He has been in his present post four years.

Dr. Gottschalk pronounced himself "pleased to accept my new assignment . . ." and said he looked forward to "providing 'quality' programs, instruction and opportunities for those who seek to prepare themselves as performers, teachers, scholars, and creative artists . . ."

"I am also looking forward to close cooperation with the existing educational and cultural resources of the greater Albany area, in order to help promote the university, and Albany, as an important cultural center," he added.

The Dartmouth College graduate holds a master of music degree from Yale University and a doctor of musical arts degree from Boston University. He also has studied at Juilliard Graduate School. His concert career has encompassed a wide range of performance activity. He twice has been elected chairman of region 6 (Northeastern states) of the National Association of Schools of Music.

Mr. Fisher is a graduate of College at Fredonia. He formerly served as assistant dean of students and assistant dean of men at Penn State, with responsibility for men's on-campus residences. He has held related posts at the University of California at Davis, at Fredonia, and at Syracuse University, where he earned his M.S. in higher education.

Rauschenberg Prints At Art Gallery Here

A comprehensive exhibition of the graphic art of Robert Rauschenberg is in the Art Gallery through August 13. Summer hours are 9-4 Monday-Friday, 7-9 Wednesday evening, and 2-5 Sunday afternoon.

The exhibit contains 97 works by Mr. Rauschenberg, concentrating on his work of the 1960's. At that time he developed a rubbing and drawing technique that transfers images from printed sources directly on to the paper.

He soon began to use the same techniques to work the lithographic stone. The process, combined with silk screen and the direct use of printing plates plus the traditional print making techniques of drawing and wash, produced the Rauschenberg graphics of the 69's. In 1969 he was invited by NASA to attend the Apollo 11 launching and the resulting lithographs, included in the exhibit, are entitled "Stoned Moon Series."

NEW QUARTERS for the Center for Humanistic Education feature a rural setting, spacious meeting rooms and laboratories, and overnight living accommodations for up to 50 people.

Albany Students Study At Foreign Universities

More than 100 students are participating this year in the summer language program conducted by the College of General Studies. They include entering freshmen, upperclassmen, transfer students, and graduates.

They left on June 24 for locations in seven foreign countries, where they will spend six to eight weeks in intensive language study. The countries involved are Canada (Quebec City), France, Germany, Italy, Portugal, Puerto Rico, and Spain.

ASRC to Hold Summer Lectures

The annual summer lectures conducted by the Atmospheric Sciences Research Center (ASRC) are being held at 8:30 Tuesday evenings at Marble Mountain Lodge on Memorial Highway, Wilmington. The lectures, which are free, are presented by leading scientists who will interpret some of the many facets of modern science and of Whiteface Mountain. Additionally, a report on the latest weather, accompanied by colored projections, will be presented before each lecture.

Heinz Meng, professor of botany, College at New Paltz, will discuss "Birds of Prey and Falconry," illustrated with movies and live birds, tomorrow evening. Other lecturers include Raymond Buyce, curator of mineralogy, NYS Museum, Albany, "Gems and Minerals in the Adirondacks," July 14; Volker Mohnen, senior research associate, ASRC, "Air Pollution in the Year 2000 - A Scientist Looks to the Future," July 21; Charles E. Knudsen, deputy director, ESSA Weather Bureau, Eastern Region, New York, "The Modern Approach to Weather Forecasting," July 28.

Also, Joseph J. Harley, retired engineer, Bell Telephone Laboratories, "My North Country - Study in Black and White - Hell Drivers of Mt. Van Hoevenberg," award winning amateur motion pictures on the Adirondacks, August 4; David Ludlum, editor, Weatherwise Magazine, "The Extremes of Adirondack Weather," August 11; and Vincent J. Schaefer, director, ASRC, "Air Pollution in the Adirondacks," August 18.

Classics Conference Is Held on Campus

Some 60 high school students are on campus through Friday for College Classics Week, sponsored by the Classical Association of the Empire State (CAES) and conducted jointly with the department of classics.

The aims of the program are to present to the students important and relevant aspects of classical civilization; to introduce them to new techniques which may be used in learning and teaching Latin and Greek; to give students a preview of campus life; and to encourage them to pursue a career in the field of the classics.

The program is under the direction of William M. Derrick, assistant dean for international studies, who is also serving as adviser to the group in Germany. In each country the students have a special adviser who helps them adjust to a different culture.

There are no academic requirements for admission to the program, and consequently the students are at different levels of language ability. At the universities they will be tested and placed in classes commensurate with their ability. They may earn six to eleven credits in language through their summer's work.

In most cases, students live with families in the area or with other international students. Mr. Derrick noted that this exposure to students from other lands spurs American students to view their own country and citizenship in a new light. He also noted that the personal growth demonstrated by many students is tremendous.

Cost of the European programs is $725, including tuition, room, board, and local transportation. The Canadian and Puerto Rican sessions cost $525. Transportation to Europe was on a chartered flight arranged through SUNY's Office of International Studies and World Affairs.

Great Dane Sports

In this last column until fall, a brief mention of several men who made post-season sports news is in order. Six track and field performers engaged in regional or national meets and as many baseball players were named to a local all-star team.

The year ended in disappointment for Albany's record-breaking jumper, Saul Moshenberg. The junior star placed third in the long jump in the prestigious 94th annual IC4A Championships in Philadelphia a week after winning the event in the NCAA Atlantic Coast Regionals in Carlisle, Pa. The disappointment came when a pulled leg muscle prevented him from competing in the NCAA College Division Championships in St. Paul, Minn.

Saul had a great year, though, and holds school records in the long jump (23-10 $\frac{1}{4}$ in the IC4A's) and the triple jump (44- $\frac{1}{4}$ during the regular season). He also ran with the 440-yard relay team that set a school mark of 42.1 in the NCAA Regional meet. Other relay runners that day were Jay Handelman, Bill Brehm, and Cliff McCarg.

Swimming Lessons

Swimming lessons for persons older than six years are being offered this summer at the Mohawk Campus pool. The remaining two-week sessions are July 13-24, July 27-August 7, and August 10-21. Registration may be made the week previous to each session by calling Frederick Cook (7-6733).

Two instructors will provide lessons for beginners (10 a.m. and 10:30), advanced beginners (10 a.m.), intermediate (9 a.m. and 9:30), and swimmers (9 a.m. and 9:30). Students will be tested the first day and placed in the appropriate group. The progress of each student will be checked daily.

The cost of half-hour lessons is $5 for two weeks and for one-hour lessons, $10.

30 ALBANY-AREA STUDENTS left by bus from the SUNYA campus on June 24 to begin a summer adventure in language study, living, and traveling aboard. Students in the group were bound for five different European countries.
