SOCIAL STUDIES CLASS VISITS COURT, HAS PARTY

One of the eighth grade social studies classes visited the court Saturday morning and gave a party for some orphans at the Children's Home in the afternoon.

A committee consisting of Gifford Lantz, Alora Beik, Martha Frytag, and Stanley Eddison visited the court where Judge Bergin presided. They listened to proceedings in the criminal cases, and in traffic trials. The students then made a general tour of the building.

The entire class attended the party for the sixteen orphans. It was held in the reception room at the Home where they played games and had refreshments. Then the children took the class on a tour through the main building and the cottages.
