CSEA Gets Assurances After Talks With Hurd, Marshall

ALBANY, June 3 — The State Division of Budget has assured the Civil Service Employees Association that "nothing in the policy of this Administration or in (its) vacancy control programs will interfere with orderly promotions."

In addition, the Budget Division, in a message to CSEA President Joseph F. Feily, stated flatly "there is no intention to require any agency to be staffed on a level which will impose unfair workloads or work requirements on employees."

The assurances to the Association came as a result of a meeting between Dr. T. Norman Hurd, Director of the Budget and his deputy, Alton G. Marshall, and Feily and members of the CSEA staff, at which the chief subjects of discussion were the State's job freeze order to all departments and agencies and the effects of a long-range vacancy control program instituted by the administration.

Hiring Stays Strict

The CSEA representatives had asked for direct assurances that the vacancy program would not interfere with orderly promotion opportunities and would not create other hardships on State employees.

The job freeze order, instituted May 2, has been lifted from all but a few departments. In order to have the freeze lifted, however, each department was required to submit mandated vacancy programs to Budget for its approval. It was reported that although those departments which have gained approval of their programs may now resume hiring, they must do so on a strict economical basis.

In pledging that the vacancy programs will not interfere with orderly promotions, the Budget message to CSEA, signed by Marshall, noted that "increased emphasis should be placed on the whole process of identifying capable State employees who can assume the responsibility of higher level positions."

In its request, CSEA has pointed out "that in agencies such as the Departments of Correction and

Personnel Practices Topic Of 2-Day DE Albany Meeting

ALBANY, June 3—The special Division of Employment committee of the Civil Service Employees Association held a two-day meeting here recently to discuss a wide scope of personnel practices affecting D of E employees. Included on the agenda was a half-day session with representatives of the administrative and personnel staff of the Division of Employment to discuss committee recommendations.

Committee chairman Edward Croft of Rochester and alternate chairman Fred Cave of Brooklyn led the CSEA group in its meeting with Abe Lavine, administrative officer of the Division of Employment and Irving Weinstock, director of employment personnel.

Main Points

Principal items brought up by the CSEA group were:

1. Reallocation appeal for examiners and interviewers. The ad-

Employee Problems Dominate Metropolitan Conference Meet

Three major employee problems dominated the discussion at the recent meeting of the Metropolitan Conference, Civil Service Employees Association, at the Brooklyn State Hospital.

The reallocation and reclassification of painters in Mental Hygiene Department; the request for the State to adjust the salary loss and to restore the resulting difference from recalculation of number of days in the fiscal year, and an expression of distress over the new overtime rules.

The conference was addressed

Meal Choice Given Mental Hygiene Aides

ALBANY, June 3—Employees of the Department of Mental Hygiene who reside at the department's institutions will have a choice of what meals they want to take at the institutions and will pay for only those meals they take, under a new departmental ruling.

Previously, employees who lived on the institution grounds were required to pay for three meals a day whether they chose to eat at their institutions' cafeteria or not.

This practice had been criticized by the Civil Service Employees Association as unfair. The Association had requested change in the regulation so employees could eat meals outside the institution if they care to without being assessed for the same meal at the institution.

Civil Service Seen Benefiting From GOP Grass Roots Worries

WHILE Republicans across the country are playing the fascinating game of trying to figure out which of their number will lead the party ticket in the presidential race of 1964, local GOP leaders in New York State are giving all their attention to a more immediate problem—grass roots.

While the Democrats have been

faced with some degree of disunity and lack of harmony on the statewide level, the Republicans have managed to stay cohesive as an overall state unit. It is on the county level, in some important areas, that GOP leaders find cause for concern and the resolution of local difficulties is one of the major problems facing the new GOP State Committee Chairman, Fred Young.

Who and What

In only one county—Erie—is the problem one of intra-party friction. In other areas it is, in the main, the shifting of party loyalty by local voters. There has been widespread news coverage of the rift between Sen. Walter J. Mahoney, the powerful Senate Majority Leader, on the one hand and Buffalo Mayor Chester Kowal and Erie County Leader Robert Grimm on the other. The cause of the rift is the same problem worrying other county leaders—the drop of Republican vote strength in counties with a long history of GOP dominance. In Erie County, the argument between Mahoney and his opponents is "who" is responsible for the GOP vote loss and the debate is along lines of personalities. In other counties, the question is "what" is responsible.

As examples, Nassau and Suffolk Counties, long Republican strongholds, have lost the County Executive office to Democrats, although continuing to maintain their majority on the boards of supervisors. In upstate Monroe County, the GOP has lost control of the City of Rochester while maintaining county control. But Monroe County GOP leaders are reported "running scared" in terms of the next county election.

The victories of Sam Stratton last year in a Congressional district that was gerrymandered to the point of almost being unidentifiable is another worry to GOP leaders. Another example is the victory of U.S. Rep. Otis Pike in Suffolk County.

Public Employees Wowed

What is interesting in all this is that the statewide concern of Democrats and the local worrying of GOP leaders appears to bear beneficial consequences to the civil service. Not in years has this newspaper witnessed such wooing of public employees by both parties on the local level.

Senator Mahoney, for instance, has backed many important civil service measures in recent years and his importance in the Legislature has generally assured passage of the public employees bills in which he expressed concern and interest. In the past two years, he has paid even more direct attention to public employees and the 110,000-member Civil Service Employees Assn. in particular. In his own district, there is little doubt that he gets a solid civil service vote—and he knows it.

In Suffolk County, GOP Leader Arthur Cromarty this fall will seek to unseat Democrat H. Lee Dennison from the County Executive office. Up until now, the large civil service population there (both county employees and the thousands of workers in two large Mental Hygiene Dept. institutions) feel that Cromarty has lent only small backing to major county employees goals. Reports have it that Cromarty is being told he must take a more active stand to produce a civil service vote in view of Dennison's strong, pro-civil service programs while in office.

Republicans in Nassau County paid scant attention to public employees for years until Assembly Speaker Joseph Carlino, in reorganizing the county GOP organization, made improvement of the civil service one of four major goals. Before the impact of the reorganization was made, however, Democrat Eugene Nickerson captured the County Executive seat and county employees have enjoyed benefits from both sides during his term in office.

Most Important Job

The pros say the Fred Young's most important job as State GOP chairman is seeing that local Republican leaders do their "homework" and let the State leaders work out the strategy for the re-election of Sen. Kenneth Keating and the possible election of Governor Rockefeller on a national ticket.

Whatever direction GOP county leaders go in during the coming months, it looks as though the civil service will be one of the beneficiaries. This, more than anything else, is an indication that the huge civil service vote, about which this column has written a good deal, is finally getting serious attention.

State Assures CSEA On Vacancy Controls

Mental Hygiene and the Division of State Police, understaffing resulting from vacancy control could jeopardize the safety of employees and those under their charge."

Marshall answered that there will not be "any requirements imposed which would jeopardize the safety of State employees."

Adequate Work Levels

The deputy director also said "we are as interested as you must be in making certain that we are establishing adequate work levels for all employees. We are and have been constantly reviewing existing standards to make certain that they are reasonable both in terms of the employees and what might be considered fair 'production'. This practice will continue and I am sure you will appreciate that we have no desire to create onerous working conditions."

Marshall emphasized that positions which become vacant at all levels of State employment "will be carefully reviewed under the vacancy control plans to determine whether the position can be justified at its existing level."

He said "some higher level positions may be found to be inappropriately classified and changes will be made."

"Certainly," he added, "this cannot be construed to be interference with orderly promotion and I am sure you do accept this practice as simply good management."

Watch Your Mail, Pension Checks Due

Late last week, The Leader learned that Federal retirees can expect to receive their special back benefits checks any time after today. The appropriation which will provide the monies to enable the pension increases for over 600,000 retired Federal worker was approved by Congress less than three weeks ago.

At that time, the Civil Service Commission announced that the checks would be mailed sometime after the middle of June. In the interim, Civil Service Commission employees have worked long and hard hours in order to process these supplemental checks. As a result, the checks were expected to be mailed yesterday, two weeks earlier than the predicted date.

Since the increase was effective last January, the checks mailed yesterday will include the increases due from January 1 through May. The first checks to reflect the larger benefits will be sent July 1.

The Bureau of Retirement and Insurance of the U.S. Civil Service Commission has answered the most frequently asked question on the annuity system for Federal retirees and on the new pension increase. Last week's column contained a portion of these questions and answers as a service to its many readers from the Federal service. Due to the importance of this information, these questions and answers are being continued this week.

Federal Annuity Changes Explained

Smaller reduction for naming wife or husband as survivor annuitant
What change is made in the amount by which a retiring employee's annuity is reduced if he names his wife or (husband) as survivor annuitant?

The retiring employee may usually specify all or a portion of his annuity as the base on which to compute his wife's (or husband's) survivor annuity. Formerly, his annuity was reduced by 2½ percent of the first $2,400 plus 10 percent of any additional amount used as the base; now the annuity of an employee separated on or after October 11, 1962, is reduced by 2½ percent of the first $3,600 plus 10 percent of any additional amount used as the base. Where the annuity used as the base is at least $3,600, this results in an increase in the retiring employee's annuity of $90 a year.

Can you give an example of how this change affects the annuity?

Here are two examples:

1) Assume that a retiring employee specifies all of his $4,000 annuity as a base for his wife's survivor annuity. Under the old method, his $4,000 annuity is reduced by—
2½% of first $2,400 equals $60; plus 10% of $1,600 equals $160;
Total $220 is the reduction in his $4,000 annuity.

Under the new method, his $4,000 annuity is reduced by—2½% of first $3,600 equals $90 plus 10% of $400 equals $40;
Total $130 is the reduction in his $4,000 annuity.

2) Assume that a retiring employee specifies all of his $3,000 annuity as a base for his wife's survivor annuity. Under the old method, his $3,000 annuity is reduced by—
2½% of first $2,400 equals $60; plus 10% of $600 equals $60;
Total $120 is the reduction in his $3,000 annuity.

Under the new method, since the 2½% reduction applies to the first $3,600, his $3,000 annuity is reduced only by 2½% or $75—thus increasing his annuity by $45 over the old method.

Increase in certain survivor annuities

Which survivor annuities are increased?

The two main classes of annuities, which affect almost all employees, are:

1. The survivor annuity of a widow (or, in certain cases widower) of an employee who dies on or after October 11, 1962.

2. The survivor annuity of a widow (or widower) who is named as survivor annuitant by an employee who retires on or after October 11, 1962.

How are these survivor annuities increased?

Formerly, the widow's (or widower's) annuity amounted to 50% of the annuity the employee had earned at the time of death or, in the case of an employee who died after retirement, 50% of the amount he had specified as the base for the survivor's annuity. These percentages are now changed to 55%.

Can you give an example?

Suppose that the earned annuity of an employee who died on or after October 11, 1962 is $3,600. Formerly his widow's annuity would have been 50% of $3,600 or $1,800. Now his widow's annuity is 55% or $1,980. This amounts to an increase in the widow's survivor annuity of $180. The same would apply in the case of an employee who retired on or after October 11, 1962, and specified $3,600 as the base for his widow's (or widower's) annuity; her (or his) annuity would be $1,980 instead of $1,800. As in these examples, the change from 50% to 55% results in a 10% increase in the annuities to widows or widowers.

Annuity to student-children

What change is made for children who are students?

Formerly a child's survivor annuity terminated when he reached age 18. Now, if a child over 18 is otherwise eligible for a survivor annuity and is also a student, his (or her) annuity may be paid after age 18 up to age 21.

Which children can qualify for the new student-child benefit?

There are two large classes of children. These classes include:

1. A child of an employee or annuitant who dies on or after October 11, 1962.

2. A child who is under 18 and is already receiving a survivor annuity.

Can you give an example of how the new student-child benefit works?

Suppose an employee dies and leaves two children. At the time of his death one child is 17 and the other is 19 and both are students. The 17-year-old child is entitled to annuity which formerly would have stopped when he became 18 but which will now continue after he is 19 because he is a student. The 19-year-old child would formerly not have been entitled to any annuity but now since he is a student, he can begin to receive an annuity even though he is over 18.

My child is a student but his survivor annuity stopped when he reached age 18 in 1961. Can he now get his annuity?

No. A child whose survivor annuity stopped because he reached 18 (or for any other reason) before October 11, 1962, cannot qualify for the new student-child benefit.

Can a married student qualify?

No.

Who qualifies as a student?

A child who is in regular full-time attendance at a recognized educational institution, including a high school, trade or vocational school, technical school, junior college, college, or university.

For how long does the annuity to a student-child continue?

It continues until one of the following happens: The child dies, marries, stops being a student, or reaches age 21.

If a child reaches 21 during the school year, will his annuity stop in the middle of the year?

No. It will continue to the end of the school year which is considered to run from September 1 to June 30. Therefore, the annuity of a student-child actually stops at age 21 only if his birthday falls between July 1 and August 31. If his 21st birthday falls during the school year (September 1 to June 30) he is considered as reaching age 21 on the following July 1.

Does a student-child annuity continue during school vacation periods?

Yes. Once a child qualifies as a student his annuity may continue for up to four months between school years or terms if he shows a clear intention to remain a full-time student in the same or another school.

If a student-child's annuity stops because he quit school, can he qualify again as a student-child if he later returns to school?

No.

Must special application be made to get annuity for a student-child?

No, but a certification that he is a student is required from the parent or person who looks after the child and from the school which the child attends. The form for this certification can be obtained by writing to the Civil Service Commission, Bureau of Retirement and Insurance, Washington 25, D. C.

Who decides whether the Consumer Price Index has increased sufficiently?

The Civil Service Commission, which will review the percentage changes in the Consumer Price Index in January of each year.

When will the Civil Service Commission make its first review of the Consumer Price Index?

In January 1964.

How much must the Consumer Price Index rise to warrant a cost-of-living increase to annuities?

For the first increase, the year-average of the Consumer Price Index must rise at least 3 per cent above what it was in 1962.

For the second and later increases, it must rise at least 3 per cent above what it was in the year before the latest increase was granted.

When will cost-of-living increases take effect?

They will become effective on April 1, following the month January in which the Civil Service Commission finds that the increases are warranted by the percentage rise in the Consumer Price Index.

Can you give an example of how the cost-of-living increase works?

Assume that in January 1964 the Commission finds that the Consumer Price Index has risen only 2 per cent since 1962; there will then be no cost-of-living increase granted in April 1964. However, assume that in January 1965, the Commission finds that the Consumer Price Index has risen 4 per cent since 1962; annuities will then be increased 4 per cent effective April 1, 1965. To carry the example further, assume that in January 1966 the Commission finds that the Consumer Price Index has risen 3 per cent since, which is the year before the previous increase was granted; then, on April 1, 1966, annuities will be increased again by 3 per cent—which is the same percentage rise as occurred in the Consumer Price Index.

Will past cost-of-living increases be granted to survivors of employees and annuitants who die in the future?

Generally, the percentages of cost-of-living increases granted to an annuitant will be passed along to his survivor annuitant. Survivor annuitants of employees who die in the future will not benefit from past increases but will initially receive higher annuities because of the employees' higher 5-year average salary resulting from the recent pay increases. However, in certain cases of children's annuities where average salary is not a factor, the children will get the benefit of past cost-of-living increases.

Will all persons receiving an annuity get the cost-of-living increase when one is granted?

A person whose annuity commenced earlier than January 2 of the year before the one in which the increase is granted will receive the cost-of-living increase. In other words, an increase which becomes effective on April 1 will go to any person who has been entitled to annuity for the previous 15 months.

Nobody likes to think about being sick or injured, but the sad fact is that most of us, sometime during our lives, will be forced by sickness or accident to stay out of work. Fortunately, this period is usually short. . . But, you can't always count on this.

You can count on C.S.E.A. Accident and Sickness insurance to pay you a steady income if you are disabled. Over 40,000 C.S.E.A. members enjoy this protection—which supplements their benefits under the State Hospital Plan. Hundreds of members already have received benefits totaling millions of dollars.

You owe it to yourself and your family to investigate the C.S.E.A. Accident and Sickness insurance plan.

Danger & Protection

TWO weeks ago we had the unpleasant duty of commenting on the death of Fire Captain Peter Brennan, a veteran New York City firefighter, who suffered a fatal heart attack as a result of smoke inhalation while fighting a five-alarm fire in Manhattan.

This week's edition carries the story of the killing of Patrolman George Crane, who was attempting to arrest two burglars on Manhattan's upper east side.

The violent death of a civil servant under line-of-duty circumstances is reported on an average of once every two weeks. Most of these deaths are violent ones—ones which must be faced by each of New York City's 25,000 policemen and 10,000 firefighters daily.

Currently the City is studying a new pension system for all civil servants. This system would take into consideration the dangers of both firefighters and policemen. One point worth adding to this study would be the increase of a line-of-duty pension to full pay for the remaining years the member had to serve before the minimum pension requirements had been met.

Should a man be killed or disabled in the line of duty before the minimum 20 years are served, his pension should be the current full pay salary of a member in the same rank. This would provide for the same protection for his family that he would have been able to provide had he continued on full duty until the minimum 20 years service was completed. Of course, there would be no way to provide for potential promotions but the additional funds would be an asset for the family.

After the minimum retirement requirements have been met, the retirement allowance could be reduced to the three quarter pension which should satisfy the requirements of the man's family.

Even this increased pension would be a small price for the lives of men like Peter Brennan and George Crane.

CSEA Does Its Job

STATE WORKERS have been assured by the State Division of the Budget that long range plans concerning job vacancy control will not impair normal promotion opportunities nor place dangerous workloads on employees. These assurances came after the Civil Service Employees Assn. asked for a meeting with State Administration officials to determine the impact of, first, the temporary job freeze in the State and, second, the filling of vacant positions on a very strict basis.

The CSEA has done its job well. The duty of an employee organization is first of all to protect its members on their jobs and the assurances sought by the Employees Association were thorough and intense.

It should be noted that the CSEA does not intend to relax its vigilance in this area. One can predict that there will be differences of opinion on the need to hire new personnel as the vacancy control program goes into effect.

The Civil Service Employees Association has never fought justified economies in the public service. It also has never accepted the claim of "justified economy" without thorough investigation. It will continue to work along those lines in order to protect not only the employee, but also the public that must be served through adequate staffing of State departments and agencies.

Your Public Relations IQ

By LEO J. MARGOLIN

(Mr. Margolin is Adjunct Professor of Public Relations in the New York University School of Public Administration and is Vice President, Public Relations, of A. J. Armstrong Co., Inc.)

The views expressed in this column are those of the writer and do not necessarily constitute the views of this newspaper.

Error Corrected

WE SUSPECT that most of the top Internal Revenue Service officials in Washington involved in the plan to move the New York regional office to Boston, were relieved when the idea was abandoned.

IT IS ALMOST inconceivable they weren't aware of the serious public relations mistakes being generated — mistakes pointed out in our May 14th column.

UNDOUBTEDLY "higher authority" had a hand in setting up the original idea. The IRS executives were probably handed a "fait accompli" and told to make it work. Unfortunately, that's cart-before-the-horse public relations, and almost always disastrous.

WE'RE GLAD to see that in the end good public relations, sense prevailed, and that some of the public relations damage is being repaired.

AT LEAST THERE are some advantages to a mistake or pulling back before too many mistakes are made. The mistake, or prospective mistakes, are good object lessons as well as good examples of what NOT to do the next time.

A KEY ELEMENT in developing a successful public relations program is research. What are the facts? With the facts as they are, can a public relations problem be solved? Or are actions needed to correct the bad things uncovered by research?

RESEARCH ON the proposed New York-to-Boston project would have revealed all the overwhelming facts against the move, which we reported May 14th.

THE SAME RESEARCH would have also disclosed that the "publics" of the Regional Office were overwhelmingly opposed to the move because the greatest number of people would have been inconvenienced.

NOT THE LEAST of these "publics" is the Region's employee public, the men and women who have made the New York IRS Regional office one of the most efficient in the United States.

THE DAMAGE which would have been done to these loyal, dedicated civil servants might have been irreparable. Lifelong careers hampered, family life dislocated, efficiency drastically reduced, were only some of the possible results.

GOVERNMENT executives must learn that good public relations is possible only because the people in an agency or corporation make it so. Good public relations aren't made with a magic wand waved by someone in Washington. It is achieved only by the people who do well or badly what they're paid to do.

GOOD PUBLIC relations are certainly impossible for a government agency when some legislator begins pressing for a regional office to move just to feather his own political nest. There's nothing wrong in the legislator trying, but there's something drastically wrong when the agency, knowing of the resultant damage to their agency, knuckles under to the pressure.

WE HAVE always urged civil service executives and staffers to treat legislators with the greatest courtesy and do everything possible to help them. But when the help does serious harm to the agency, then there is a very nice method in public relations known as "saying 'no' with extreme courtesy and intelligent explanation."

OURS IS A political government and politics are inseparable from government operations. But political expediency must never be allowed to interfere with good public relations between government and its civil servants.

4:30 p.m.—Human Rights Forum—City Commission on Human Rights program.

7:00 p.m.—The Big Picture—U.S. Army film series.

8:30 p.m.—City Closeup—Corporation Counsel: Leo Larkin interviewed by Seymour N. Siegel.

10:00 p.m.—Purposeful Americans—State Education Department series.

Monday, June 10

3:45 p.m.—Airman's World—U.S. Air Force film series.

4:00 p.m.—Around the Clock—Police Department training program.

5:30 p.m.—Career Development—"Gambling; Problems and Modus Operandi" Lt. Masini gives the final lecture in this current Police Department promotion course.

6:30 p.m.—Airman's World—U.S. Air Force film series.

7:30 p.m.—On the Job—Fire Department training course.

8:30 p.m.—Career Development (Repeat of 5:30 p.m. program.)

You don't have to be a lawyer or an accountant — to use H.I.P.

H.I.P. provides prepaid medical services — not cash payments toward doctor bills.

In the H.I.P. program for civil service employees there is no need to study the policy line by line to see what is and what is not covered . . . There are no fee schedules and no claim forms . . . There is no need to worry over insufficient cash allowances . . . There is no need to "share" additional charges through deductibles and co-insurance . . . There is no need to accumulate and total up medical bills in order to prove you have exceeded a deductible . . . There is no need to discuss your family income with the doctor . . . You don't have to watch for limitations on number of services and on kinds of services (such as specialist care).

And in H.I.P. you also have the satisfaction of knowing that each medical group physician provides only the services for which he has been specially trained.

Sometimes we think a "compulsive rearranger" must be at work in New York and Westchester, too. Old housing areas give way to civic centers, small buildings to big apartment houses and office buildings. There seems to be no end to it, so Con Edison must keep building, too.

Because many modern buildings use 25 to 35 times as much electricity as the older ones, Con Edison must dig to get more electricity to booming areas. Even where we've recently done a major job, we may have to return to connect a new building to our underground system.

Of course, that's not just a Con Edison problem. Sewer, water, telephone connections must also be made. So no wonder there's plenty of digging going on! All we can do is keep our work areas as neat and safe as possible. But "Dig we must," to keep New York going—growing.

Fine jewelry that writes (it has diamond dust in the tip)

When you give this pen, you give a jewel...literally! It has diamond dust in the tip. The ball is textured to hold the paper better, and rides in a stainless socket, so the pen won't "stutter" even after long usage. Very long-winded: should write 80,000 words between refills. The Parker International is a magnificent gift for the important people on your list... yourself for instance. $5 to $75.

ministration representatives said they were "100% behind the appeal," and that they would contact the Division of Compensation and Classification in an effort to get a report on the progress of the appeal.

2. Oral exams. Lavine said that the techniques of oral exams were being reexamined and that meetings had been held with the department of Civil Service.

3. Job freeze and Departmental budget reduction: The CSEA group was assured that budget cut proposals would not affect promotions within the department.

4. Promotion examinations: Lavine informed the Association that the basic policy of the division is to open more positions to more employees, allowing considerable latitude in cross-overs. He was in favor of all Grade 23 personnel being allowed to take the employment security superintendent's examination and that perhaps "A and B" lists might be certified to allow grade 21 to compete.

Title Survey

5. Title survey: Surveys of the title structure of some sections and bureaus have been completed. Administration officials said several others were under survey now, and that others had not yet been started. They said such surveys are going to be a continuous process.

Other items discussed by the group were the staffing formula, senior placement clerk title, grievance procedure, rating appeals, principal claims clerk appointments, methods used in making MDTA appointment and automation.
