ACADEMIC HERALDRY

The caps, gowns, and hoods worn at college and university functions date back to the Middle Ages. Monks and students of those days wore them to keep warm in the damp and drafty 12th-century castles and halls of learning. The gowns for the bachelor's degree, earned after undergraduate study, have long, pointed sleeves and are designed to be worn closed.

The holder of the master's degree wears a gown with an oblong sleeve open at the wrist. The sleeve base hangs down, and rear part of its oblong shape is worn square cut. The gown may be worn open or closed. An alternate and older master's gown is also permissible. This gown is always worn open, has a long sleeve, which is square and closed at the end, and has a slit near forearm.

Gowns for the doctoral degree may also be worn open or closed, but they carry broad velvet panels down the front and three velvet bars on the full, round, open sleeves. The velvet trimming may be either in black or the color distinctive to the field of learning to which the degree pertains.

Academic gowns for each level are black, although a few institutions permit doctoral recipients to wear gowns of the characteristic institutional color.

Academic protocol allows trustees, presidents, and marshals of higher education institutions to wear gowns which are especially designed and colored. The President of the University at Albany wears a royal purple gown bearing four gold velvet chevrons on the sleeves. The marshals gowns at Albany are royal purple and gold.

Caps may be of serge, broadcloth, or, for the doctoral outfit only, of velvet. The tassel is black or the color appropriate to the subject, except the doctoral cap may have a tassel of gold or bullion.

It is the hood that gives color and real meaning to the academic costume. The bachelor's hood is sometimes worn upon completion of the course, even though the degree has not yet been actually conferred. A black shell of varying size for the three degrees, and of material to match the gowns, is silk-lined with the colors of the institution conferring the degree. Albany's institutional colors are royal purple and gold.

The hoods of the master's degree recipients are a black shell made of material to match the gown and use the institutional colors. The doctoral hood, which uses the same institutional colors, is larger and of a different style, having a flat panel at the back. The hood is bordered with velvet of the proper width to indicate the degree and of the color signifying the field of learning to which the degree pertains.

It is important to note that the color of the velvet trimming on the hood indicates the subject to which the degree pertains. The "Bachelor of Science in engineering" degree should have the orange trimming of engineering, rather than the golden yellow of science. The Doctor of Philosophy degree requires dark blue because the degree designation does not necessarily identify the major field of study. If more than one degree is held, the gown and hood of the highest degree are worn. Holders of several doctoral degrees may make a choice of hood for any particular occasion. The colors indicative of the various fields of learning are as follows:

Arts, Letters, Humanities: White
Accountancy, Business, Commerce: drab

Economics: copper

Education: light blue

Fine Arts, including Architecture: brown

Journalism: crimson

Library Science: lemon yellow

Music: pink

Oratory (Speech): silver gray

Philosophy: dark blue

Physical Education: sage green

Public Administration, including

Foreign Service: peacock blue

Science: golden yellow

Social Science: cream

Social Work: citron

Graduating students at Albany wear tassels on their caps in a color representing their academic major. Honors graduates of the baccalaureate program also wear honor medallions.

Degrees being awarded today are followed by degrees awarded in December and August of 1993 in each category. Candidates for degrees are listed as of April 2, 1994. No changes in status could be made after that date. Honors for May degree candidates were computed using the cumulative grade point average as of December 24, 1993, and projected A-E credits at Albany of 56 or more. Official honor status will be recalculated when Spring 1994 grades are recorded and will appear on the diploma.

 Summa Cum Laude — signifies a cumulative grade-point average of 3.75 or above

 Magna Cum Laude — signifies a cumulative grade-point average of 3.50 - 3.74

* Cum Laude — signifies a cumulative grade-point average of 3.25 - 3.49

A TRADITION OF EXCELLENCE THE HISTORY OF THE UNIVERSITY AT ALBANY, STATE UNIVERSITY OF NEW YORK

By Kendall A. Birr
Professor Emeritus of History

New York's First Public Institution of Higher Education

The New York State Normal School opened its doors in Albany on December 18, 1844. A product of the educational ferment of the 1840s, Albany's 19th century history was firmly tied to the development of public school education in New York State. The Normal School was the first fully State-supported institution of higher education in New York. David R. Page, the first principal, had been recommended by Horace Mann, and Page's textbook on pedagogy was widely used for 40 years. The curriculum from the beginning emphasized instruction in subject matter and in disciplining the students' "mental faculties."

Nineteenth century students came from all over the State, most chosen by county superintendents of instruction; many, perhaps half, had prior teaching experience. Men and women graduated in approximately equal numbers in the early years, but an increasing percentage of females graduated in the 1850s. Most graduates taught for at least some period of time; many had distinguished careers in education; a few distinguished themselves in other vocations.

A College for Teachers

The emergence of public secondary school education late in the 19th century transformed the Albany Normal School. The institution achieved collegiate status in 1890, and in 1905 it became a four-year college offering B.A., B.S. and Bachelor of Pedagogy degrees. When its Willett Street buildings were destroyed by fire in 1906, the core of the campus, now the downtown campus (Draper, Husted, and Hawley), was built and occupied in 1909. Finally, in 1914 the institution was renamed the New York State College for Teachers, a title befitting its new status and functions.

These years saw remarkable continuity of leadership as four presidents guided the fortunes of the institution between 1890 and 1969. William Milne oversaw the transition from Normal School to College for Teachers as President from 1889 to 1914. Abraham Brubacher, a distinguished scholar of education, served as President from 1915 to 1939. Long-time faculty member John Sayles served until 1947. Evan R. Collins began his two-decade tenure in 1949, leading the institution during its most prestigious years as a College for Teachers and during the transition to university status.

Teacher training remained the sole function of the institution during this period, but the College specialized exclusively in training secondary school teachers and administrators in the academic subjects (plus business and librarianship). The curriculum came more and more to resemble that of a traditional liberal arts college supplemented by a core of professional courses. Graduate programs aimed at secondary school teachers and administrators were introduced in 1914, and by the 1930s and 1940s as many as one-fifth of the degrees granted annually were master's degrees.

During these years the campus slowly took shape. Between 1935 and 1959 the downtown dormitory quadrangle was constructed. The first buildings were funded by private donations from alumni/ae for whom the Quadrangle is named and following a fund drive led by Anna Pierce, Dean of Women in the 1910s and 1920s, and Sayles. By 1962 author David Boroff, writing in the Saturday Review, observed that "Albany State has a distinguished history. As liberal arts colleges go, it is a good one. As teachers' colleges go, it is superb."

The University: Years of Growth

By the late 1950s educational planners, examining demographic data, concluded that there was no way in which New York's colleges and universities could expand to handle the "baby boomers." As a result the State dramatically increased State funding of the State University of New York. In 1962 Albany was identified as one of four university centers within SUNY and was commissioned to educate large numbers of undergraduates and develop a full array of graduate programs.

The 1960s was a decade of unparalleled growth. Student enrollment rose from about 4,000 in 1962 to nearly 14,000 in 1971. Conventional liberal arts majors were quickly developed, and graduate programs at both the master's and doctoral levels proliferated. Professional schools in areas like criminal justice, business, public administration and social welfare joined the long-established School of Education.

Ground was broken for a new campus in 1962, the modern complex designed by Edward Durell Stone that is now the Main Campus.

In the early 1970s state funding began to decrease. Yet the most severe difficulties passed, and in the 1980s the University slowly matured. Vincent O'Leary, President from 1977-1990, provided strong leadership, consistent consultation with student and faculty constituencies, and an emphasis on planning.

The undergraduate student body became very selective. It had also become much more diverse than ever before. At the graduate level strong programs in Arts and Sciences were surrounded by a series of professional schools. By most standard criteria, the University at Albany could be listed among the top 100 graduate institutions in America. External funding for research grew by leaps and bounds as individual faculty and graduate and research programs achieved national and international reputations.

The establishment of Rockefeller College in 1981 symbolized the special orientation toward the social and behavioral sciences, public policy, and State service. The School of Public Health, opened in 1985, was a joint venture between the University and the New York State Department of Health. The creation of the New York State Writers' Institute in 1983, headed by Pulitzer Prize winning novelist and professor William Kennedy, marked both a new maturity and new visibility for the humanities.

Led since 1990 by President H. Patrick Swygert, the University has reaffirmed its mission through the adoption in 1992, of a new Mission Statement, maintained momentum despite the economic constraints of the 1990s, and launched an ambitious Capital Campaign, the largest ever by an institution in the SUNY system.

The Normal School and the College for Teachers established an enviable tradition of excellence in educating teachers for New York public schools. Today the University at Albany in the 1990s has developed a strong reputation for high quality graduate and undergraduate education, first-rate research, and important service to the surrounding society.

ALMA MATER

College of the Empire State,
Mother of an army great,
Thou the moulder of our fate,
Thee we sing today.
Thine the hand with clasp so strong,
Holding tho' the years be long,
Thou the burden of our song,
Thee we sing today.

Ways of pleasantness are thine,
Leading where in wisdom's shrine,
Joy and cheer and hope divine,
Ever dwell for aye.
Thine the voice whose call we hear,
Thine the heart, so true, so dear,
Cherished, loved always.

Wisdom's duty heeds thy call,
Ever in Minerva's Thrall.
Pass the torch from one to all,
Guide each destiny.
'Neath the Purple and the Gold,
Let thy history unfold,
Sons and daughters, young and old,
Hail to Albany.
