PRESS CLUB FURTHERS JOURNALISTIC ORGANIZATIONS

To Award Pins to "News" Board

Press Club, in order to award journalistic ability, has announced its intention of presenting the present members of the "News" board with pins. The fundamental purpose of Press Club is to further the development of journalism in State College. In giving to the "News" board these insignia it aims to recognize the successful efforts of the people who give their time and interest to advancement of the college paper.

The awards will be made in student assembly by Miss Murray, teacher of Journalism and the reviver of Press Club.

The Press Club intends to continue the presentation of pins to future successful candidates for the "News" board.

QUINTET TO MAKE WEEK-END TRIP

State Will Play Clarkson and St. Lawrence

After withstanding the severe test of the three-game New York trip in fine style, the Purple and Gold quintet is holding practice sessions every night in preparation for the two-game trip to the northern part of the State this week-end. Friday the team will meet Clarkson at Potsdam, and Saturday it will take on the strong St. Lawrence five at Canton. Clarkson has a clever combination this year and St. Lawrence defeated State in the first tilt by a score of 28 to 22. Fresh from their victory over Pratt, however, the men are confident of adding Clarkson's scalp to their collection and getting revenge on St. Lawrence.

The men who will make the trip are Hathorn, T. Cassavant, Johnson, H. Polt, Dobris, Baker and Linck.

QUARTERLY NOTICE

All material for the March issue of the "Quarterly" must be in this week-end. The board asks you to co-operate in getting this number out before the spring recess.

STATE BEATS PRATT

Wins in Overtime Game

State College gave Pratt its second defeat on Pratt's court Friday night in an overtime game by a score of 31-28. In the first half State trailed all the way, due to the strange court with the baskets on the brick walls. The half ended 14 to 9, with State on the short end of the score.

In the second half State came back strong and tied the score, which it held to the end of the game, necessitating an extra five-minute period. In this half Cassavant and Hathorn were the outstanding men for State.

In the extra five-minute period Cassavant was the principal figure on the court. He dropped in a field goal and a foul goal, while Hathorn also counted from the field. Leary scored for Pratt. State dropped in two more from the field and once from the foul line, while the best Pratt could do was to score once from the field.

Cassavant was in the points for State, while Schafron and MacIntosh excelled for Pratt.

DR. J. B. HOWE LECTURES ON JOURNALISM

Dr. John B. Howe, of the editorial staff of the Syracuse "Herald," of Syracuse, delivered a most instructive and interesting lecture before the Student Assembly Friday morning. Dr. Howe spoke on "Newspaper Duty and Service," and delivered a most illuminating message to his hearers. Dr. Howe came here under the auspices of the Press Club and Miss Murray's class in journalism.

In introducing the speaker, Dean Horner said that, contrary to custom, he was going to present the audience to the speaker instead of the speaker to the audience, for in the audience were the editors, proof-readers and assistant editors of three college publications, the "News," the "Quarterly" and the "Pedagogue." On this account the audience would be an appreciating one in that it contained fellow-workers of the speaker.

Mr. Howe said: "I deeply appreciate the honor of addressing the students of the State College for Teachers, under the auspices of its Department of Journalism. As a veteran newspaper man I am always delighted to learn of the advent of a college class in journalism or of the popularity and prosperity of an older class, because the course of study and training here supplied is intended to satisfy a long-standing and urgent need of our profession."

He further said: "Newspapers belong to one of the most democratic of professions in that this profession is the easiest to enter. To anyone with talent, pencil, paper and ability to write a good story the door is open. The work is distinguished from other kinds by the fact that there is no preparation or test for the newspaper employee. He proves his right to remain later. The opportunities for advancement are free Continued on page 4.

STATE LOSES TWO GAMES

State played Thursday night at Storrs, Conn., against the Connecticut Agricultural College, and although defeated played a remarkable game.

State cut loose with the whistle and scored four points before the Aggies came to life. Alexander scored a foul shot for the Aggies which was followed by two neat field goals by Dean and Alexander, placing the Aggies in the lead. During the remainder of the half the lead swung from one team to the other. The half ended by a score of 14 to 12, with the Aggies in front.

In the second half, what was termed by the Hartford "Courant" as "the most remarkable floor work ever seen in the Hawley Gymnasium" was exhibited by both teams, and for eight minutes neither five was able to score. Cassavant broke the ice by a neat basket from the field, tying the score. State then forged to the front, which it held, 16-14, when Hathorn was forced from the game with four personal fouls.

Although State played a fine, strong game, they were unable to keep up with the pace set by the Blue and White, and the game ended with the score 28-20. Johnson excelled for State, while Baxter and Alexander were best for the Aggies.

ATHLETIC COUNCIL PROPOSES A CHANGE OF COLORS FOR STATE COLLEGE

Student Body to Decide Whether Purple and Gold Will Remain — Question to be Discussed March 11th

In a meeting with Dr. Brubacher in the President's office Wednesday, February 23, the Athletic Council petitioned the President for consideration of a change in the colors of State College. The main objections to the present combination were presented by Coach Snavelly. First, he said that in the Capital District there are at least five secondary schools which have Purple and Gold, namely, Christian Brothers' Academy, Cathedral Academy, La Salle, St. Bernard and the Johnstown High School. This fact makes it hard for the local newspapers to simply use the colors when writing up State College athletics, for it would be very confusing. In this way State loses the distinction that Syracuse has when it is referred to as the Orange, or Harvard as the Crimson, and Colgate as the Maroon.

Another reason for the proposed change was that Coach Snavelly found it hard to fill orders for basketball, hockey and baseball equipment. Purple and Gold are not stock colors, and when they are obtained the purple especially is not a good dye. Consequently it cannot be washed without running and changing to nearly all the colors of the rainbow.

PHYSICS DEPARTMENT PERFECTS WIRELESS STATION

Student Body Invited to Hear Concerts and Time Signals

Under the special direction of Mr. Long, the Physics Department of State College has perfected a wireless station in the Department offices, so equipped that messages from great distances are transmitted and amplified, so that they can be heard in the Biology Department at the further end of the second floor corridor in the Science Building.

In order that the faculty and students of the college may share in the benefits of the wireless station, a shelf has been fixed outside the door of Room 154 on which the horn of the receiving apparatus will be placed nearly every day, so that anyone who wishes may hear the accurate time signals from Arlington, Virginia, and set his watch accordingly. These time signals are sent out by means of a system of dots and dashes. Beginning five minutes before noon, for four minutes a dot is transmitted every second except for the twenty-ninth second and the fifty-fifth to the fifty-ninth seconds of each minute. The last minute before noon a dot is transmitted for each second except the twenty-ninth and the last Continued on page 4.

THE PURPLE AND GOLD

In considering the proposed change in colors for State College many practical reasons were set forth as to why such a move would be beneficial. First, it was argued that more distinction would be given the college by such a change. Then it was shown that athletic supplies could be purchased more readily and more reasonably, and that the dyes on these goods would be more permanent. And the only objection offered against relinquishing the Purple and Gold was simply that these colors have been a part of State College for a long time and a great deal of tradition and sentiment is attached to them.

Now, we ask in all seriousness, is it shallow sentimentality to advance such an objection in the face of the common sense reasoning of those who want different colors? If it is mere sentimentality, does it not, even so, play a large part in the life of a college, yes, and the life of a nation, and the world in general? If a proposal were on foot to change the colors of the Stars and Stripes because other countries use the same combination, do you suppose true Americans would leave Betsy Ross and their feelings out of the argument? Of course the Stars and Stripes are much dearer to State College students than the Purple and Gold, but nevertheless there is some degree of comparison. Or just suppose that the world were turned over to cool-headed business deals without any of the familiar sentiments of home and mother, what a queer thing life would be?

So in deciding this matter shall we not give some attention to the person who says, "I have no real reason for not changing the colors, except that deep down within me is a great love and respect for the Purple and Gold."

STUDENT DISCUSSION

Students, now is the time for you to prove the wisdom of the student vote in Friday morning Assembly! On March 11 there will be brought before you for consideration a proposal to change the college colors. This is a question vital to everyone in State College. How are you going to decide it? Up to the present time student meetings have made a decidedly poor impression on the faculty and some students themselves. It seems that chapel has been a place of entertainment and not for serious, thoughtful discussion of questions involving the college welfare. Here, then, is your great opportunity to correct this impression. And, in the meantime, if you have any ideas on the subject, write to the "News."

GRADUATE ATHLETICS MANAGER SUGGESTED

With the development of a permanent athletic policy at State College a graduate manager becomes a necessity. Heretofore each manager, when he assumed control, entered on his work with no experience. From year to year it was a succession of annual meets, not a well-developed continuous aim. A graduate manager will provide the needed connecting link between the seasons. The man chosen should be a member of the Athletic Council and a graduate of the college. A man in this position can be a very great help to the development of the athletics of the college, assisting the student managers in avoiding mistakes so easily made. In distributing athletic funds he would be able to direct the student manager so no losses would occur and the greatest benefit could be derived from the expenditures.

What Is Air Pressure?

THE air is composed of molecules. They constantly bombard you from all sides. A thousand taps by a thousand knuckles will close a barn door. The taps as a whole constitute a push. So the constant bombardment of the air molecules constitutes a push. At sea-level the air molecules push against every square inch of you with a total pressure of nearly fifteen pounds.

Pressure, then, is merely a matter of bombarding molecules.

When you boil water you make its molecules fly off. The water molecules collide with the air molecules. It takes a higher temperature to boil water at sea-level than on Pike's Peak. Why? Because there are more bombarding molecules at sea-level—more pressure.

Take away all the air pressure and you have a perfect vacuum. A perfect vacuum has never been created. In the best vacuum obtainable there are still over two billion molecules of air per cubic centimeter, or about as many as there are people on the whole earth.

Heat a substance in a vacuum and you may discover properties not revealed under ordinary pressure. A new field for scientific exploration is opened.

Into this field the Research Laboratories of the General Electric Company have penetrated. Thus one of the chemists in the Research Laboratories studied the disintegration of heated metals in highly exhausted bulbs. What happened to the glowing filament of a lamp, for example? The glass blackened. But why? He discovered that the metal distilled in the vacuum depositing on the glass.

This was research in pure science—research in what may be called the chemistry and physics of high vacua. It was undertaken to answer a question. It ended in the discovery of a method of filling lamp bulbs with an inert gas under pressure so that the filament would not evaporate so readily. Thus the efficient gas-filled lamp of today grew out of a purely scientific inquiry.

So, unforeseen, practical benefits often result when research is broadly applied.

DR. HOWE LECTURES

"A profession easy to enter is likewise easy to leave. Newspaper men leave their posts often because of the strong demand outside for men of application, energy and intense alertness. Men yield reluctantly because they are fond of the work, but sometimes pass into one of the following fields of finance, medicine, commerce, law or even the ministry. The entanglements of the newspaper work are manifested in the variety of interest. To the editorial writer new experience is enfolding daily. No one fitted for the task is bored.

"It is the duty of all newspapers, besides the publishing of news and editorials, to help the community. Too many are satisfied with miscellaneous writing and advertisements. In order that a city wrong be righted public opinion must be aroused to respond to a sense of justice. This occasion is supplied through the newspaper. Whenever a great evil, either of the political, social or industrial life, is committed, it is to the right kind of newspaper that the people look for the righting of the wrong. Frequently this service is performed with the risk of antagonizing the public.

"The moral issue presents an unlimited field for service, which is, firstly, to protect property, and, secondly, to grant security, utility and contentment to the public. For example, if a private tradesman charged exorbitant prices, it is not the business of the newspapers, but when the distributor of milk does this, it is their duty to correct the injustice. Injury, then, to the public is the newspaper's concern, and likewise, to keep watch on the political administration, the city government, is their duty.

"In writing up accounts of crimes a reporter must use wide discrimination in dealing with the facts. He must exclude all but the pleasant ones. Repulsive details must be left out. Contrary to the procedure in writing fiction, crime must not be allowed to go under false cover.

"The editorial page has been called the 'mold of public opinion.' This is a wrong view, for in the present times people mould their own opinions. We should think of editorials as interpretations. Whether right or wrong, both should be spoken. In case of disputes in the social, economic or industrial life, there is often no one side totally right or wrong.

"When a man joins the newspaper ranks with a purpose to persevere, he chooses a profession by which he gives service to American life compared with the best."

matter to general discussion, and some objections to relinquishing the old colors were recorded. The chief of these was that a mass of tradition has been built around the Purple and Gold in the past and a change would do away with this. In connection with this it was pointed out that tradition is an important part of college life.

After carefully summing up both sides of the question Dr. Brubacher decided to refer the question to Myskania, and a committee of men from the various athletic teams, for further consideration, and to finally put the matter to vote in Student Assembly Friday, March 11. The committee appointed includes Coach Snavely, chairman; Edward Linck and Harold Baldwin, '22; Charles Reilly and Adrian Johnson, '23, and Oliver Putnam, '24. Maurice Hathorn was named as general chairman of the two bodies.

Among other colors suggested, a dark blue and gold, blue and gray, seemed to meet with the most approval, as they involve less change than other combinations, and at the same time overcome all the objections to the Purple and Gold.
