A Sensible Solution

For several years, organizations such as Music Council and Dramatics and Arts Council who depend upon paid admissions to events they sponsor in order to keep out of the red have been looking for a way to enforce the fact that Student Tax cards are not transferable. These organizations have lost money in past years because members of SA have allowed outsiders to borrow their cards in order to attend events here at State without paying the outside ad-

In the beginning of the year, these organizations decided to refuse admission to those who did not have their tax cards to present along with their admission tickets. Then the procedure was extended to include a comparison of the signature of the individual using the card with the signature on the card. Above is a facsimile of the proposed student tax card designed by Ronald Koster '55. The card and photo will be laminated between two sheets of plastic, and will be used all four years the student is in college. The numbers represent various activities and will be punched as used. The card would provide each student with positive identification, and would eliminate the transfer of tax cards for functions sponsored by D&A and Music Councils and other organizations.

PUBLICITY THEFTS

Some people around here work pretty hard trying to publicize activities and it seems rather small that their efforts should be torn off the walls as souvenirs or merely as a good joke. As is the usual procedure, Myskania has presented Student Association with its recommendations and suggestions for next year's judicial body. We can't help feeling that some fine juniors were overlooked in this selection. However, Myskania does not claim infallibility, and Student Association has a chance to proclaim its choices in nominations in Assembly. Look the lists over thoughtfully, and if you feel that there are juniors who could better qualify for State's highest honor, nominate them. It is an honor to be democratic although some people involved in Myskania's business, so keep in mind

This week, Student Council approved the idea of having identification photographs on the student tax cards next year, and the motion will probably be presented to Student Association at a special assembly next week. Considering the number of uses to which the picture could be put, this seems like a good move. And just think of the thrill of seeing your own smiling physiognomy every time you open your wallet.
