PROGRAM OF AVANT-GARDE MUSIC AT SUNYA

The Free Music Store of State University of New York at Albany will present the S.E.M. Ensemble in two concerts on Thursday, Nov. 7, from 5 p.m. to 6 p.m., and at 8:30 p.m. The first concert will be held in front of the Performing Arts Center Building and the second will take place in the Laboratory Theatre of the Performing Arts Center.

Peter Kotik founded the ensemble in 1970, and in just four years has achieved international fame. The ensemble is devoted to avant-garde music. Mr. Kotik is the composer for the Thursday program.

Principal performers include Julius Eastman, singer and pianist; Jan Williams, percussionist; Garret List on the trombone; Nora Post on oboe; and Mr. Kotik, flutist.

The ensemble's appearance on campus follows a recently completed tour of Europe.

There is no admission charge.

CASDA COMPUTER SEMINAR SCHEDULED AT SUNYA

The Capital Area School Development Association will sponsor a seminar on "A Model for Computer-based Educational Planning and Evaluation", to be held in the Campus Center at State University of New York at Albany on Tuesday, November 12.

The program will begin with registration and coffee at 9 a.m. The computer system will then be presented from 9:30 until noon. From 1-3:30, special interest groups (large school, small school, BOCES, two-year college) will meet with members of the resource team to look at the model from their particular viewpoint.

The resource team will be headed by Joseph McGivney of Syracuse University. Well-known for research on educational problems, Dr. McGivney will be joined by Patrick Shaughnessy, associate superintendent of the Onondaga-Madison BOCES. Shaughnessy will present the model presently used at Onondaga-Madison. Two project staff members will be present, also, and all four will be working with the afternoon special interest groups.

TWO PLAYLETS SET BY EXPERIMENTAL THEATRE

The Experimental Theatre program of State University of New York at Albany will present two of the four playlets contained in Renee Taylor and Joseph Bologna's comedy, "Lovers and Other Strangers," on Friday, Nov. 8, and Saturday, Nov. 9, at 7:30 and at 9 p.m. in the Arena Theatre of the university's Performing Arts Center.

The play, directed by Sharon Swerdloff, examines the underpinnings of love relationships through a series of comic sketches. The first sketch, entitled "Brenda and Jerry", tells the familiar boy-wants-girl story. In the second playlet, "Johnny and Wilma", Wilma's request that her husband make love to her turns into a violent argument in which the male-female sex roles are questioned. Taylor and Bologna handle the stories delicately, combining universal issues with comic flair.

Experimental Theatre provides theatrical resources for student actors, directors, and technicians who might not otherwise have the opportunity to get practical experience working in their particular fields of interest. Free tickets for all shows in the Experimental Theatre program are available an hour before each performance at the PAC box office (457-8606).

CHILDREN'S THEATRE PROGRAM AT SUNYA

The Experimental Theatre program of State University of New York at Albany will present a children's theatre show, "An Afternoon for Children," on Wednesday, Nov. 6, Friday, Nov. 8, and Saturday, Nov. 9 at 4 p.m. in the Lab Theatre, which is located on the second floor of the university's Performing Arts Center.

The script for the show was adapted by Jody Hiatt from three stories: "The Dead Bird," which deals with the realities of death through the eyes of children; "Where the Wild Things Are," which examines a child's imagination in coping with the restrictions of parental authority; and "The Giving Tree," which points up the beauties of love and the sense of fulfillment one feels as a result of giving love. Ms. Hiatt will be directing six SUNYA students in ensemble for the production: Alan Silverman, Denise Fitzgerald, Louise Itzler, Marilyn Spanier, Jim Barone, and Joyce Farra.

Experimental Theatre, one of the programs sponsored by the SUNYA theatre department, offers an opportunity to student actors, directors, and technicians not only to plan innovative theatrical ventures, but also to produce these ideas on the stage. The entire production--the basic concept, the design, and the actual running of the show--is done by students.

All Experimental Theatre shows are open to the public.

THREE CONCERTS SCHEDULED AT SUNYA

Three concerts highlight the music calendar of the Performing Arts Center at State University of New York at Albany during the coming week.

The SUNYA Free Music Store and "Meet the Composer," a project of the American Music Center founded by the New York State Council of the Arts, will present James Faulkerson in concert on Wednesday, Nov. 13, at 2 p.m. in the PAC Studio Theatre and on Thursday, Nov. 14, at 8:30 p.m. in the PAC Laboratory Theatre.

Faulkerson, a composer and trombonist, is noted throughout the United States and Europe for his avant-garde style of trombone music, utilizing electronic effects. The program Thursday night will incorporate music which reflects his compositional aesthetic.

Wednesday's program is a lecture-demonstration entitled, "What is Composition? What is Performance?" Through commentary and performance, Mr. Faulkerson will present his views of modern music and the modern composer. A question and answer period will follow.

On Wednesday, Nov. 13, and Thursday, Nov. 14, at 4 p.m. Findlay Cockrell, assistant professor of music, at the Albany university, will perform Beethoven's "The Tempest Sonata" in the PAC Recital Hall. The concert is part of a series entitled, "Second-Wednesday-and-Thursday Concert of the Month." Cockrell will both perform and comment on the sonata.

The SUNYA music department will present the SUNYA Percussion Ensemble on Sunday, Nov. 17, at 8 p.m. in PAC Arena Theatre. The program includes "Canon for Percussion," and "Five Rites for Percussion and Audience." The latter is a work newly revised for the Albany particular performance by Professor Richard Albagli who will conduct.

Principal performers are Warren Stein, Lawrence Oppenheimer, Carl Maurer, Douglas Fox, Ed Steinberg, and Jim Baker.

Admission to the three concerts is free, and the public is invited to attend. Those seeking further information may contact the PAC box office (457-8606).

TWO DRAMATIC OFFERINGS AT SUNYA

Both a multi-media concert reading of a James Joyce novel and a Gilbert and Sullivan operetta will be presented this week in the Performing Arts Center of State University of New York at Albany.

The SUNYA English Department is sponsoring a reading of Joyce's "Finnegans Wake" on Tuesday, Nov. 12, and Wednesday, Nov. 13, at 8:30 p.m. in the PAC Laboratory Theatre. Thomas Smith, assistant professor of English, and Harry Staley, professor of English, have adapted the script and coordinated the visual effects. Andy Aldritch '75 has composed electronic music, and Tom Varley, music teacher at Albany Academy for Boys and a graduate student in music, is the general collaborator.

"Trial by Jury," a light opera, will be presented as part of the SUNYA Experimental Theatre program on Friday, Nov. 15, and Saturday, Nov. 16, at 7:30 and 9:30 p.m. each evening in the Studio Theatre.

The musical comedy, directed by Joel Gross, was the first Gilbert and Sullivan success, and its style set the pattern for their later and better-known works. The plot of the one-act play is simple: Edwin, tired of the affections of his fiance Angelina, searches for greener fields; Angelina, refusing to accept passively such rude treatment, charges Edwin with a breach of promise suit. The ensuing trial is the subject of the play, and the authors, through the use of satire, mock the workings of "justice."

Admission to "Finnegans Wake" and "Trial by Jury" is free, and the public is invited to attend. Tickets are available one hour before each show at the PAC box office (457-8606).

"SURVIVAL" ENGLISH TOPIC OF LECTURE AT SUNYA

James Sledd, professor of English, University of Texas, will speak on "English for Survival" Monday, Nov. 25, at 8:15 p.m. at State University of New York at Albany in Lecture Center 2. Morris Finder, professor of English education, SUNYA, will introduce Dr. Sledd.

Professor Sledd, a specialist in Renaissance dictionaries and the study of the English language, is widely known as a critic of linguistic theory and practice and of the teaching of English in schools, colleges, and universities. He recently has taken an interest in the education of disadvantaged students and has developed methods of teaching standard English to speakers of non-standard English.

Sledd is the author of an English grammar text, a casebook on dictionaries, and many articles on philology and on the teaching of English. He has served on the faculties of Duke University, University of Chicago, Northwestern, and University of California at Berkeley.

"English for Survival" should be of special interest to all teachers of English and to the general public as well. It is sponsored by the department of instruction in the School of Education.

PORTUGUESE FILM SCHEDULED AT SUNYA

"Sambizanga," a Portuguese film directed by Sarah Maldoror, will be presented in the Recital Hall of the Performing Arts Center at State University of New York at Albany on Nov. 15-16 at 8 p.m. as the second in a series of distinguished and acclaimed foreign films entitled "Prize International Cinema." The series is sponsored by SUNYA's Office of University Affairs.

First-prize winner at the Carthage Film Festival, "Sambizanga" is, to date, the most powerful feature film to come out of Africa. The film mirrors the oppression and the search for a people's self-rule in the form of a simple tale: a laborer, suspected by the authorities of being a member of the Angolan national liberation movement, is seized by the police and imprisoned. But most of the film focuses on his wife's attempts to discover which jail he is in. The film reveals, in touching detail, the poverty of the Angolans, whose lives are tightly regulated by a colonial government.

Judith Crist of New York Magazine said of "Sambizanga": "With remarkable tension to support her simple story, Ms. Maldoror goes beyond the plot to tell us of a people's agony. And she does so in such striking terms of simple humanity, with such cinematic sophistication that we become deeply involved in what starts out as a near-travelogue documentary about an exotic people."

"New York Daily News" critic Jerry Oster commented:
"Sambizanga" is that rare film whose first image, a torrential ocean, forewarns that it will be out of the ordinary; whose performances are so real that it is wrong to call them acting...; whose themes are so plainly stated in its images that its language does not need to be translated."

Director Maldoror, wife of Mario de Andrade, one of the leaders in the Angolais resistance, was the assistant of Gillo Pontecorvo on the filming of "The Battle of Algiers," "Sambizanga" is her first feature film.

Single tickets are available for $2 ($1.25 for students or senior citizens with identification cards), and series tickets are available for $10 ($7 for students and senior citizens) at the PAC box office. The box office is open 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday and one hour before each performance.

Dr. Pogue described the purpose of the program as twofold: to train graduate students in specialized legislative analysis skills in order to assist in developing professionals for entry level positions in state and local executive and legislative branches; and to conduct research aimed at evaluating effectiveness and at developing legislation for legislative committees and members in such technical areas as banking, insurance, consumer and economic affairs, etc., as they affect the citizens of the State of New York, with particular emphasis upon low and fixed income consumers.

Dr. Pogue added that the program is designed to attract those graduate students who have particular interest in conducting poverty research. Students may desire to be full or part-time interns. Full-time interns (graduate assistants) will receive $1,400 per semester, plus full-tuition waivers from participating SUNY campuses.

Part-time interns will receive $4.30 per hour up to a maximum of 200 hours per semester. In addition, said Dr. Pogue, students, in consultation with the program and departmental chairpersons, may receive academic credit for their efforts.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE (11/8/74)

Jody Hiatt, a native of Schenectady, and a well-known figure to theatre goers at SUNY/Albany, is appearing as Lucienne in the French bedroom farce by Georges Feydeau, "A Flea in Her Ear". An experienced actress, she has appeared in many university theatre productions including "The Wizard of Oz" and "Comedy of Errors" and more recently, has directed her own Experimental Theatre production of "An Afternoon For Children".

The State University Theatre production of "A Flea in Her Ear", directed by Albert Weiner, will be presented November 20-24 in the Main Theatre at SUNYA's Performing Arts Center. For ticket information call the Box Office at 457-8606.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE (110874)

E.B. POPPICK of "The Secret Storm"

IN SUT'S "A FLEA IN HER EAR"

Remember Dr. Howe from TV's daytime serial, "The Secret Storm?" He is now in rehearsal at SUNY/Albany as M. Chandebise and Poche in the upcoming State University Theatre production of Georges Feydeau's famous French bedroom farce, A FLEA IN HER EAR, being being directed by Albert Weiner.

He is E. B. Poppick and has returned to SUNYA to complete his Master's Degree in Theatre. He recently directed the popular production of Clifford Odets' "The Country Girl" in partial fulfillment of the degree requirements. He spent three years in New York City appearing in nine shows off-off Broadway, such as Joe Egg, The Master Builder, and The Red Hat which led to his being selected for the television roles. He has worked with various well-known theatre groups in NYC such as WPA, Manhattan Theatre Club, Lolly's, and the Black Friars.

A FLEA IN HER EAR is scheduled for Nov. 20-24 in the Performing Arts Center at 1400 Washington Avenue. Tickets are $3, $2, $1 and reservations can be made by calling 457-8606.

"Am I Chandebise or Poche?" Eric Poppick deals with his identity crisis as he pops up from the wine cellar in Georges Feydeau's bedroom farce, "A Flea in Her Ear" to be presented by State Universtiy Theatre at SUNYA's Performing Arts Center on November 20-24. O'NEILL PLAY AT SUNYA ARENA THEATRE

"Ile," Eugene O'Neill's powerful sea drama, is the last of the November offerings of the Experimental Theatre program of State University of New York at Albany. This production, directed by Nelson Avidon, will be presented on Friday, Nov. 22 at 4:30, 7:30 and 9 p.m. and on Saturday, Nov. 23 at 7:30 and 9 p.m. in the Arena Theatre of the SUNYA Performing Arts Center.

"Ile" explores the frustrations of a proud sea captain who, in finding his whaling ship caught in the Arctic ice, is forced to weigh his need for personal fulfillment against the needs of his wife on whom the vast isolation of the Arctic has taken a particularly heavy toll.

The Experimental Theatre program provides a unique opportunity for student actors, directors, and technicians to gain practical experience in their particular fields of interest. The performances sponsored by this program are open to the public, and free tickets are available one hour before each performance at the PAC box office (457-8606).

COCKRELL RESUMES BEETHOVEN SERIES AT SUNYA

Pianist Findlay Cockrell, assistant professor of music at State University of New York at Albany, will perform three Beethoven piano sonatas in the Recital Hall of the Performing Arts Center on Thursday, Nov. 21, and Saturday, Nov. 23, at 8:45 p.m. He also will perform on Sunday, Nov. 24, at 3 p.m. at Page Hall of the downtown campus for the convenience of persons who live in the community and who find the location easier to reach. Admission to all performances is free.

The three sonatas are from Opus 31, and the second of the sonatas is known as the "Tempest" sonata. In addition, Cockrell will play "Seven Bagatelles, Opus 33."

The project of performing the 31 Beethoven piano sonatas in nine programs began in 1970, the Beethoven Bicentennial year. The pianist resumes the series after a two-year interim with program five, which includes the 16th, 17th, and 18th sonatas. Cockrell hopes to complete the series before 1980.

KEYBOARD '74 CONCERT MONDAY

Pianist Yvar Mikhashoff, of the music department at State University of New York at Buffalo, will perform in concert Monday evening, Nov. 18, at 8:30 in the Recital Hall of the Performing Arts Center, State University of New York at Albany. The recital is part of the Keyboard '74 series, sponsored by SUNYA Pianists.

Mikhashoff will play Charles Ives' Piano Sonata No. 2, "Concord, Mass., 1840-1860." The four movements of the sonata are entitled "Emerson," "Hawthorne," "The Alcotts," and "Thoreau."

A pianist of international reputation, Mikhashoff is emerging as one of the most distinctive and creative pianists of his generation. His repertoire, although comprehensive, specializes in the major works of the Twentieth Century. He is one of the few exponents of the works of Olivier Messiaen and has recorded his "Oiseaux Exotiques" for HMS Records. His performance of Ives' monumental "Concord" Sonata has placed him in a most elite group of pianists who dare to perform this formidable work.

Assisting Mikhashoff will be Isabelle Ganz, mezzo soprano; Joseph Rothstein, narrator; and Candice Channing, flute.

Ms. Ganz has studied with Lotte Leonard at the Juilliard School of Music, Andrew Foldi, Constantine Cassolas, and Jan DeGaetani. She holds a Master of Music degree in voice and theory from the University

TELEVISION ARTS SUBJECT OF STATEWIDE CONFERENCE AT SUNYA

The Office of Educational Development at State University of New York and the University-Wide Committee on the Arts of SUNY are sponsoring a "Conference on Educational Communications Centers and the Television Arts" to be held at the Educational Communication Center at State University of New York at Albany from Thursday noon, Nov. 21, through 5 p.m. and on Friday, Nov. 22, beginning at 9 a.m. Gerald O'Grady, director of the Instructional Communications Center, SUNY-Buffalo, and William Mulvey, director of the Educational Communication Center at SUNYA, are serving as coordinator and host, respectively. Some 200 persons are expected to attend.

The conference will bring together some of the nation's most distinguished independent video artists, producers and administrators of public experimental television centers, leading developers of cable and network concepts about the arts, and foundation officers who are sponsoring the affair being hosted by SUNYA's ECC.

The purposes of the conference are to present the latest developments in video arts to the group; to discuss ways in which the facilities at the centers might better serve the developing video arts on campuses and in their communities; to indicate some of the problems experienced in interfacing artists with academic institutions and staffs; to explore the issue of ownership of works created at such centers; and to discuss ways in which the centers might stimulate activities in all of the arts and humanities.

Presenters will include Ed Emshwiller, video artist and filmmaker from New York City; Ralph Hocking, video artist and director of Experimental Television Center, Binghamton; Woody and Steina Vasulka, founders of the Kitchen, an experimental center for video art in New York City; Lance Wisniewski, director of Synapse, Syracuse University; Gerd Stern, video artist and president of Intermedia Systems Corporation, Boston.

Also, David Loxton, director of The Television Laboratory, WNET, New York City; Tom Dewitt, video artist and filmmaker, Poughkeepsie; Paul Kaufman, director of the National Center for Experiments in Television, KOED, San Francisco; Fred Barzyk, director of New Television Workshop, WGBH, Boston; Russell Connor, executive director of Cable Arts Foundation, New York City; John Culkin, director of Center for Understanding Media, New York City.

Also, Peter Bradley, program director for film, television, and literature, New York State Council on the Arts; Lydia Silman, acting director of the council's television and media program; Michael Chase, director of New York Network, New York State; and Mr. O' Grady. He is a member of the National Committee on Film and Television Resources and Services.

In addition to Mr. Mulvey, other SUNYA personnel who will participate in conference programs include Jon Henry, graphic designer; Joel Chadabe, music faculty; and Phil Edelstein, technical specialist, department of music.

The conference will get underway Thursday at 1:15 p.m. with a welcome from SUNYA Vice President for University Affairs Lewis Welch. Opening remarks will be made by Robert Pasciullo, assistant dean, Office of Educational Development SUNY; and Patricia Ross, associate for the arts, University-wide Committee on the Arts.

The invited guests are the directors of communication centers and their chief television engineers, the vice presidents of academic affairs, deans and provosts of the arts and humanities, chairpersons of departments relating to the arts, and interested faculty members.

NURSING WORKSHOP PLANNED

The Continuing Education Department of the School of Nursing at State University of New York at Albany is sponsoring a workshop on "Professional Standards Review Organizations--Implications for Peer Review in Nursing," to be held in the SUNYA Campus Center Ballroom on Thursday, Dec. 5, from 8:30 to 4:30 p.m.

Geraldine L. Ellis, nurse advisor, Division of Peer Review; Bureau of Quality Assurance, HSA; and Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, will be the guest speaker.

The workshop will focus on PSRO's, which are now required for federal funding of health care under Medicare, Medical and Child Health Programs. Their purposes are to assure that care provided to these patients is necessary, meets professionally recognized standards, and is provided in the most appropriate setting.

The workshop is designed to provide information on the provisions of the law. Participants will explore the role and responsibilities of nurses as an integral part of the quality assurance programs in hospitals and extended care facilities. Discussion will include utilization of American Nursing Association Standards of Practice, development of criteria for assessment of patient care, and the underlying philosophy of peer review.

The deadline for registration is December 2. Those interested are advised to contact Mrs. Judith Whitaker of the SUNYA School of Nursing at 457-8654.

An Information Bulletin

...Students for the Improvement of the Handicapped, in conjunction with the Rehabilitation Service, sponsored the second annual Campus Awareness Day. Administrators, faculty, staff, and students participated in two day-long projects. They spent part of a full day of normal activities operating from a wheelchair or walking about the campus wearing visual occluders and using mobility canes. SIPH also set up information booths in the Campus Center where those interested could obtain literature, view demonstrations, and speak to SIPH members about its program.

...The Atmospheric Sciences Research Center has been given approval by the Schenectady County Board of Representatives for the construction of a building for solar energy experimentation at the ASRC laboratory at the Schenectady County Airport. Erection of the planned monolithic structure is being made possible by a $200,000 grant from the New York State Legislature. The experiment is expected to attract both nationwide and worldwide attention because of its attempt to use only that heat which can be extracted from the sun.

...Ten Russian students began classes on campus as part of the first formal undergraduate student exchange program ever between the United States and the Soviet Union. Among the ten SUNY students who will study this semester at the Moscow State Institute of Foreign Languages are five from SUNYA. They will major in language, literature, and cultural studies of the Soviet Union.

..."Challenge" is the title of a series of discussions exploring major social issues and policies facing the nation planned by the Office of University Affairs. Topics being considered for the discussions, which are open to the public, include energy, economy, and ethics. The series' first speaker was Dr. Thomas Bonner, newly-invested president of Union College, whose topic was "What Does Society Want From Our Colleges?"

...More than 15,000 people attended the 1974 Community-University Day open house. The campus-wide program was held in conjunction with the annual Parents' Weekend and Alumni Homecoming programs. Faculty, students, and staff joined parents, alumni, and residents of the Capital District strolling about the campus and viewing a spectrum of displays, exhibits, demonstrations, and lectures.

...The SUNYA "Wizard of Oz" company has received a national award from the Children's Theatre Association. The honor, described as a "special recognition citation," makes note that the 42-member company was the first from an American university to perform on the professional stage in Russia and the first American children's theatre group to appear in that country.

...Twenty-three panels of murals showing historic scenes of Albany and located in Hawley Library have been restored by a team of graduate students enrolled in the Conservation of Historic and Artistic Works Program co-sponsored by State University College at Oneonta and the New York State Historical Association with headquarters in Cooperstown. The pictures are the work of William Brantley Van Ingen who completed the two-year project at his New York studio in 1937.

TWO STUDY PRODUCTIONS AT SUNYA THEATRE

Experimental Theatre of State University of New York at Albany will present two independent study productions during the month of December. They are "An Evening of Theatre," directed by Howard J. Kolins, and "The Picture of Dorian Gray," directed by Stevel L. Zimmer. "An Evening of Theatre" will be performed Friday, Dec. 6, through Sunday, Dec. 8, at 7:30 p.m. in the Arena Theatre of the Performing Arts Center, and "The Picture of Dorian Gray" will be performed on Friday, Dec. 13, and Saturday, Dec. 14, at 7:30 p.m. in the Lab Theatre. Free tickets will be available one hour before each performance at the PAC box office (457-8606).

"An Evening of Theatre" is a repertory of four one-act plays by American authors: "It's a Sin To Tell a Lie" and "Lou Gehrig Did Not Die of Cancer" by Jason Miller; "The Loveliest Afternoon of the Year" by John Guare; and "Dr. Fish" by Murray Schisgal. The project is designed to give actors the opportunity to create two different and distinct roles with little aid from costuming or make-up. The acting ensemble for the presentation includes Carol Clas, Vicki Kichman, Pamela Nyberg, Greg Leaming, Gary Pollack, and Michael Reid.

"The Picture of Dorian Gray," adapted for the stage by Director Zimmer, is the classic Oscar Wilde horror story about a young man who sells his soul in order to maintain his physical beauty. The cast

NEW EXHIBITS AT SUNYA ART GALLERY OPEN NOV. 24

"Women in France," a photography exhibit; recent works by John Tarlton and Laura Mandelson, candidates for the Master of Arts in studio art; and a one-man-piece sculpture exhibition by Norman Phillips will open at the University Art Gallery of State University of New York at Albany on Sunday, Nov. 24, from 3 to 5 p.m., with a public reception.

"Women in France" has been organized by the French Government's Cultural Services Department in collaboration with Elle, a French counterpart of our Mademoiselle. The exhibit contains 58 color panels and texts, complemented by films by and about women, depicting women in contemporary France and their efforts "to reconcile feminism and femininity."

Mr. Tarlton's graduate exhibition will feature recent drawings and prints. Tarlton, a native Californian who was educated in New Zealand, concentrates on still life. Pointing to the fact that everyday objects comprise his subject matter, Tarlton commented, "These objects have a personal mythology all their own."

Laura Mandelson, who also will be exhibiting paintings and prints, is a SUNYA graduate. Both students' work was included in the New York State Celebration of the Arts Traveling Exhibition in 1974.

Sculptor Phillips, a member of the University of Massachusetts art faculty, will exhibit an intriguing sculpture called "Transformation Box I" at the gallery during the Nov. 4-Dec. 15 period. The rationale of the piece is concerned with the creative aspects of trying to incorporate opposites so that they become a part of the same unity.

Speaking of his work, Mr. Phillips said, "The rationale of my work seems consistently to reflect aspects of my life. As a retired colonel in the U.S. Air Force and an ex-fighter pilot with an undergraduate degree in art, I always seem to be dealing in opposites, the whole question of the military versus the arts. I try to make the opposites in my work be seen in the same way."

All three exhibitions may be viewed during the University Gallery's regular hours, 9 to 5 Monday through Friday, and 1 to 5 p.m. Saturday and Sunday. Those interested in further information are advised to contact either Francoise Yohalem or Nancy Liddle at 457-3375.

SUNYA ART PROFESSOR AWARDED $5,000 PRIZE

Richard Stankiewicz, professor of art at State University of New York at Albany, has won third prize in the Society of the Four Arts sculpture competition, for which he received $5,000. The $40,000 in prize money was provided from $250,000 from the Ziuta and Joseph James Akston Foundation to secure a major work to be displayed on the grounds of the Four Arts complex in Palm Beach, Fla.

The competition has been considered the first major one of its kind in several decades. One hundred sixteen major sculptors from the United States were invited to participate and 68 submitted scale models of proposed works. A sculpture, although not necessarily the winner of the competition, eventually will be commissioned for the rectangular avenue of palms leading to the museum building itself.

Mr. Stankiewicz's entry was described by the Palm Beach "Post" as "A ponderous, tilted drum shape held aloft above a great solid square by a slender, diagonal tube." If accomplished, the actual finished sculpture would be 16 feet high and 12 feet in diameter.

Judges for the prestigious competition were John I.H. Baur, former director of the Whitney Museum of American Art in New York;

William Lieberman, chief curator of drawings, Museum of Modern Art, New York; and A. James Speyer, curator of 20th Century painting and sculpture, the Art Institute of Chicago.

Mr. Stankiewicz, a member of the SUNYA faculty since 1967, recently was flown to Sweden by that country's government to attend ceremonies for the introduction of the Moderna Museet's collection of American art of the 1960's.

The sculptor's works are among the collections of numerous museums and galleries, including the Whitney Museum of American Art, the Museum of Modern Art, the Art Institute of Chicago, and the Stockholm National Museum. He is a Life Fellow of the International Institute of Arts and Letters, has lectured at several institutions throughout the United States, and has had his works exhibited in many sections of this, and other, countries.

INDIAN FILM SCHEDULED AT SUNYA

"The Adversary," an Indian film directed by Satyajit Ray, will be presented in the Recital Hall of the Performing Arts Center at State University of New York at Albany on December 6-7 at 8 p.m. as the third in a series of distinguished and acclaimed foreign films entitled "Prize International Cinema." The series is sponsored by SUNYA's Office of University Affairs.

In the film, Director Ray treats with understatement and compassion the problems of a young man in India, problems that are not unique to that country but are of a universal nature. The young man, Sidhartha, must abandon his medical studies when his father suddenly dies. Confused and idealistic, he is torn between the world of success and the world of revolution. After much searching in all directions, he begins at last to accept his individuality and to stand on his own.

Vincent Canby "New York Times" critic, said of the film, it "... moves so quietly, with such seeming politness to jaded film senses, that it takes a while to realize that, for all its somberness, it's a particularly moving comedy...a clear and beautiful movie."

Tickets are $2 for the general public and $1.25 for students or senior citizens with identification cards. The box office is open 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday and one hour before each performance.

SUNYA SPACE SCIENTIST HONORED BY NASA

Jerry Weinberg, director of the Space Astronomy Laboratory at State University of New York at Albany, has been honored by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. He received a NASA medal for "exceptional scientific achievement" in NASA's special Skylab awards ceremony on Nov. 21 at NASA's Marshall Space Flight Center in Huntsville, Ala.

The scientist is a research associate in the Office of Research and adjunct professor in the department of astronomy and space science at SUNYA. Currently he and Martha Hanner, also of the Space Laboratory here, are co-investigators for the "Imaging Photopolarimetry Experiment" as part of the mission Monday, Dec. 2, when Pioneer II spacecraft encounters Jupiter and then goes on to Saturn, the first such trip.

Pioneer II began its journey to Jupiter and Saturn on Apr. 5, 1973, and on its 607-day trip to Jupiter, it has followed a curving path about 620 million miles long. It will make the first explorations of Jupiter's immense polar regions (north and south), and the first close-in approach to the planet. It then will embark on the next major step in space, a trip to Saturn.

SUNYA STUDENT NAMED WHEELLOCK SCHOLAR

Constance Curley, a senior at State University of New York at Albany, has been named Wheelock Scholar for 1974, according to an announcement by Dean Gilbert Moore of the School of Education. The annual scholarship is for the purpose of encouraging leadership in the teaching profession, and it is funded by the New York state Association of Secondary School Administrators.

The formal award was presented at the administrators' convention. In the announcement, Dean Moore observed that while the monetary value of the award is nominal, the prestige associated with it should not go unnoticed.

Ms. Curley is working toward a Bachelor of Arts in mathematics. She is a graduate of Masspequa High School where she was secretary of the National Honor Society and a violinist in the school orchestra. At SUNYA, she was a resident assistant at Alden Hall and completed her student teaching at Shenendehowa Middle School. Ms. Curley hopes to teach secondary mathematics upon graduation.
