Campus Babies Bring Parental Pride, Gurgles, Toys, Cowboys To Married Vets, Upperclassmen, 'News' Survey Reports

By ADAMS and DE CICCO Campus babies—a vanishing American species, or so the latest magazine report. But State still has a few proud parents among its sixty-eight married veterans.

Susie, right, our typical Campus baby, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sid Ayers, is expected to be a sports-minded individual, as her mother is a Physical Education instructor in Johnstown. Her father, who is taking graduate work in Guidance and Administration, is eager to acquire his Master's, so that he may spend more time with the rest of his family, as they are living in Johnstown.

A quick survey this week accounted for seventeen children, ranging in age from two months to four years old, and several anticipated in the near future. The majority of parents are among the graduates, though the three upper classes claim their share.

Yes, even at State we find students concerned with dolls, tricycles, cowboys and trains—for the younger ones, of course. Instead of reminiscing about the date of the night before, these Statesmen remember with pride the clever remarks of Junior. One little Miss reprimanded her mother (who had forgotten to put her pillow on the bed) with: "Where am I going to lay my sweet little head?" And one young man wonders where the cowboys disappear after the movie is over.

Working wives are in order in most cases as these marriages have to be worked on a co-operative basis. The parents are really concerned about the housing problem. Practically every active veteran contacted by phone had changed his residence since the Student Directory had been printed. They would like to see more low-rent housing.

One student, who transferred from a Western College, finds that State hasn't as much Campus life for the veterans in comparison. There, a more co-operative feeling is present among veterans' families, as each is willing to do kiddy-ing for others, whereas at State the parents have difficulty in securing sitters. This particular state college provided a community dance-hall, free movies and parties. He reports that college housing was wonderful with plenty of quonset huts and pre-fabricated houses.

Do these parents want their children to attend State? Some, whose real alma maters are elsewhere, naturally put those first. But the enthusiastic affirmative was typified by the reply, "What's good enough for father, is good enough for son."

Chesterfield To Initiate 'Happy Birthday' Contest

Monday, the Chesterfield "Happy Birthday" Contest will get underway, according to Jane Cook '51, Chesterfield Campus Representative. The contest will be run for twelve weeks, with each week representing a month of the year. The following week will include all February birthdays and so on through the twelve months. At the end of each week, a name will be drawn from the box, and the winner will receive a "Happy Birthday" cartoon of Chesterfields. Any State College student may enter the contest.

The Chesterfield program at State is run in conjunction with the national college program.

Bender Laboratory Offers Get-Rich-Quick Program

You got blood you ain't even used yet? Blood banks are in need of that vital substance. It may be given or sold—positive Rh factor or blood going at $5 a pint and negative Rh factor blood getting $10.

Which would you rather have — running uselessly through your veins or a new Ed. book?

If under 21, you'd better write home to Mother and get permission, but if you're under 18 you'll have to forget about it for awhile.

Don't worry about your blood not being used. If a month lapses (then it no longer can be used for transfusions), the blood will be used for other medical purposes, such as culture media.

So trot on down to the Albany Hospital blood bank at Bender Laboratory, 136 South Lake Avenue. You've got ten pints of blood—there's $50 or $100, easy! (But you can collect only once every eight weeks.)

Nijmegen, State Establish Plans For Friendships

To Post Names, Data For Letter Exchange With Dutch Students Students of State College will have an opportunity to write to students in the colleges of Nijmegen, Holland. Lists of names of Nijmegen students will be posted today on the bulletin board between Richardson and Husted.

The letters are to be written in English. The State College News is sponsoring the project at State, according to Shirley Wiltse '50, Editor. Aims To Cement Relations The purpose of writing is to help establish a close relationship between the schools and colleges of Albany and those of Nijmegen, according to Dr. Townsend Rich, Professor of English, representing the Albany-Nijmegen committee from State.

The lists will be posted today, with the name, address, sex, and year in college of the Nijmegen students. The lists will be placed on the bulletin board between Husted and Richardson. Students may choose a name, and indicate that they will write to that person by signing their own name beside it. Taking a name signifies that the person will definitely write to that person, according to Miss Wiltse.

Students are expected to write only the first letter. If the replies are interesting, and the student wishes to continue the correspondence, that is up to him.

The students in Albany High Schools are already writing letters to the Nijmegen High Schools. State College faculty members have also written to the faculty of the Nijmegen colleges.

Write A Letter . .

The Albany-Nijmegen Friendship Committee was right, we feel, in deciding that one of the best ways to maintain the friendly feeling between Albany and the Dutch city of Nijmegen was to have the students and teachers of the high schools write to those of Nijmegen. We should feel privileged that we have been asked to cooperate. As a teacher-training college, we have much in common with the students and teachers of Nijmegen's schools for teachers.

In 1947, the city of Albany sent a ship-load of food, new clothing, and medical supplies, about $2,000,000 worth in all, to the city of Nijmegen. State College participated in this drive. Since then, relations between Albany and Nijmegen have been close and personal. The Dutch answered the Albany gift, after their city had recovered somewhat, with gifts and appreciation. The mayor of Nijmegen visited Albany in the Fall of 1947 to offer his thanks.

By now, Nijmegen has for the most part recovered from the ravages of the War. But the close relationships between the two cities which have so much in common should not be lost.

Albany is by no means a college minded town, but we have received recognition here, and are mentioned consistently in the local papers. We are definitely a part of the community of Albany, and as such participated in the first drive to aid Nijmegen, and are now accorded the privilege of representing Albany to the college students in that city.

There are many reasons why the News feels that we will want to write letters to the students of Nijmegen teachers' colleges.

First, we represent Albany, and will help maintain the friendly tie between Albany and Nijmegen. We can tell the Dutch people how Albany is different from other cities, what the relation of the college is to the city, and how the students fit into the city as temporary residents. We can see what similarities besides the seven hills on which both are built exist between the cities.

Second, it is important that the people of Holland get an honest picture of what life in America is like. Residents of many European countries may have a distorted idea of how we live, just as our picture of their life is also distorted. Here is a practical opportunity both to satisfy our own curiosity about them and help cement American international relations at the same time. It is true that correspondence with one member of a college in Holland does not immediately make over the tangled international picture! But it is not too idealistic to hope that many letters, from Albany and other cities, will help people widely separated to understand each other better.

Third, here is a chance to get acquainted with some interesting person, who is going to be a teacher, but who has a vastly different background and education.

If the results of a letter to Nijmegen are not satisfactory, there is no obligation to write more than the one. So, the writing procedure depends upon the interest, and we are sure that many people will strike up worthwhile friendships from this project.

All you have to do is sign opposite the name you choose from the list (and the person's age, sex, and year in school are right there) and write the first letter.

Even if you are an indifferent letter writer, and write home as seldom as possible, this is different. Why don't you write to Nijmegen?

Symposium Review

By CHRISTIAAN LIEVESTRO

Editors Note: Christiana Lievestro represented the eleven State Teachers Colleges on one of the panel discussions which was held at the Symposium at Buffalo on January 27 and 28.

The Convocation of the State University of New York, January 27 and 28, at Buffalo, brought together many nationally prominent educators, labor, farm and medical experts and others well known in public life. The opening session of the conference, entitled "A Symposium on the Functions of a Modern University," was held in the main ballroom of the Hotel Statler. Principal speakers were President James Bryant Conant of Harvard, Chancellor Robert Hutchins of the University of Chicago, and Governor Thomas E. Dewey.

President Conant stressed the importance of a "single community of scholars" which he described as an essential ingredient of any modern university. He expressed enthusiasm for the educational planning of the trustees of the State University of New York, pointing out that foundation of two-year colleges "is both the economical and efficient method of developing in the twentieth century the complicated strands of American education."

Chancellor Hutchins, the most controversial figure in American education since he became head of the University of Chicago twenty years ago, declared in his most showman-like manner, that university free education had promoted the enlightenment rather than the liberation of mankind. In the speculative realm, today's university is chaotic; in the practical realm, it is silent. He described the present as the "age of digest" and advocated a return to the spirit of the University of Paris in the Middle Ages for a "genuine communion of minds."

Governor Dewey reviewed the history of the State University and said the institution would work in cooperation with private colleges and universities. He warned, too, "that there must be no competition between them."

Some of the participants on eight special panels Saturday morning were: Dr. Howard Hanson, Director of the Eastman School of Music; Lyman Bryson of C.B.S.; Harold Stassen, President of the University of Pennsylvania; Robert Moses, New York City Park Commissioner; Mark Ellingson, President of Rochester Institute of Technology; Frank C. Moore, State Comptroller; Chief Justice Arthur T. Vanderbilt of New Jersey, and a number of others. A paper was delivered in absentia for ex-President Herbert C. Hoover.

The summary Panel, presided over by retiring Chancellor Edmund E. Day of Cornell, was generally agreed that today's universities and colleges should place more emphasis on general education—of the type which will function "closer to the people"—rather than on specialized education.

The final session of the conference was held on Saturday evening in the modern and very beautiful Kleinhans Music Hall. Dr. Oliver C. Carmichael, Chairman of the Board of Trustees, delivered the opening address and introduced the principal speakers.

President James L. Morrill of the University of Minnesota declared that this was "the first real opportunity in the nation to test values of regional planning for educational purposes, geared to local community needs." President Alvin C. Eurich of the State University maintained that the opportunity to go to college should not be based in a democratic society upon the ability to pay for it, but on the ability to profit from it.

Common-Stater

By EADE and SCHULTZE

The Common-Stater is given the widest latitude as author of this column, although his viewpoints do not necessarily reflect those of the STATE COLLEGE NEWS.

It's back to the old grind again. Just think, only seven weeks till we start home for Spring Recess, commonly known as "Thank goodness it's over for another two weeks."

This has been a period of questioning for both students and faculty—ask Mr. and Mrs. Carrino.

THIS SEMESTER PROMISES . . .
 A bigger and better State Fair under George Magness' planning . . . have to go quite a bit to beat Donnelly's and Jones' extravaganzas.

Bigger and better rushing. Minerva's had a lot of company these noontimes and malloboxes have become more crowded. Only two weeks and everything will be back to normal—lonely males will have their partners back for dancing at noontimes.

Bigger and better budgets. By the way, it's time for organizations to start planning their budgets for Student Board of Finance hearings.

Bigger and better basketball scores—we hope.

GREETINGS . . .
 . . . to all the transfer students. Make yourself at home and get used to that good old SCT spirit.

BY THE SKIN OF THEIR TEETH . . .
 KDR almost had a house, but you know how things are; it just didn't pan out. We hope you find another soon. A frat without a house is like a beer without a head.

FACE LIFTING . . .
 Student Council has approved the purchase of additional furniture for our Commons and Cafeteria with the Big-4 moneys. This includes some square card tables to keep the long ones clear for studying.

GRIPES . . .
 Where is the Book Exchange for second semester . . . Why were those men from CASDA allowed the use of two big rooms in Pierce Hall on the Wednesday before exams, a day reserved for peaceful studying. Could be this is more important than preparing for finals.

A WORD TO THE WISE . . .
 As a punishment for having men in their houses after hours on the night before Christmas vacation, BZ, KID and Psi Gamma girls had regular weekday hours on January 13 and 14. It's a shame that the girls had to take the punishment for it, but it might serve as a warning to all involved directly or indirectly on future occasions.

LOOKING AROUND STATE . . .
 We see that Bill Lyons was the first student to sign out books from the Library this semester, but according to the reliable source of this bit of news, it was to finish last semester's work.

How did you like the new way second semester registration was carried out? Rather efficient and for once, there was none of the usual "rat race."

Did you see that Dr. Ralph Beaver's son is one of 40 finalists in GE's Science Talent Hunt? That means a trip to Washington and a crack at a four year scholarship.

We dislike the usual type of assembly as much as the next person, but how about looking into the possibility of having Dr. Herbert J. Phillips speak to us sometime. A Communist professor, recently dismissed from the University of Washington faculty, he is now on a speaking tour of this country.

Say, why hasn't Myskanta gotten on the ball and cut down on the number of rehearsals scheduled for the Big-4 by '53 and '52? These people can't keep up both ends studies and class activities. A balancing of both is in order.

Waa-Hoo

By DEE WEBBER

The Sophomores pulled ahead of the freshmen in rivalry this year, for the first time, when they garnered three points to '53's one in the latest sports events.

Rivalry ping pong saw the Sophs make a clean sweep. Elaine Blessing beat Martha Nevler in the first singles match. Anna Apostolides and Elizabeth Conklin defeated Janella Sabine and Betty Coykendall in a doubles game which swept the girls' matches.

In the Rivalry bowling matches '52's girls repeated their action of last year and won their opponents. Ieta White '52, had the high scores for the day with 160 and 161, while Evelyn Rudesheim chipped in with a second game 167, for high single, following a 141. For the fresh, Mendoza rolled 149-132 to top her team.

The Sophomore men also added to the win column with their two out of three ping pong win; but the fresh men took their bowling match.

Suspenders Beat Potter; Break Four-Year Streak

The week before finals saw the end of a record that started way back when Fraternities returned to State after the war. With their return the Intramural league took on new life and Potter Club dominated all the sports. They lost their first softball game two years ago and this year their basketball streak came to an end. The Suspenders edged out a 40-38 victory as Dave Lennick and Ed Matthews matched baskets. Lennick ended up with 16, Matthews with 14. Although he wasn't near the high scorer with total points, Pierce McGrath's ball-handling was the deciding issue. He also scored seven points. The big difference between the teams can be shown in the divided scoring of the winners. Three men scored all but five of the fessers' points while the Suspenders counts were evenly divided.

WAA IM Leagues Start Action Tomorrow

WAA's basketball league was scheduled to get under way again on Wednesday, but Mtine High had a game in Page, postponing matches between Gamma, Kap and Sayles, Pierce and Psi Gamma, KID and the Bouncers and the Lett-overs and Neuman. These games will be rescheduled in February.

Tomorrow, starting at 10, action will be resumed. Sayles will meet Psi Gamma, BZ will play the Double Five, Phi Delta and Pierce play at 11:30. Kappa Delta against Psi Gamma and Lambda Myskanta (tentative "Roll out Ladies") will defend their unbeaten record against Fnuag Moor (we think that's Gamma Room spelled backward).

WAA Bowling League also resumes action after exams, on February 14th. The league is scheduled through March 23rd, with the exception of several postponed matches still to be played off.

Statesmen Upset Druggists Twice; Retain Second

The Varsity bowling squad practically had three games in the bucket Wednesday night at the Playdium when the Pharmacy representatives suddenly caught fire in the closing frames of the third game to overpower them by a margin of thirty-eight pins. But, nevertheless, the Statesmen had already tucked away two games in the win column by annexing the opening pair by wide margins.

Although the Teachers racked up two wins, the individual totals were far from impressive. No member of the squad registered a 500 total or better; 200 singles were also conspicuous by their absence. Lyle Walsh came the nearest to approaching the charmed circle of five hundred with a triple of 482. He 482 was almost matched by Don Burt's 477. Both men had two commendable games, but slipped badly in their third attempt. Walsh's 185 was good for high single on both teams. Jim Justo came through with a 468.

At the completion of Wednesday night's activity, the Siena Indians continue to lead the flock by three games. Although the lads from Loudonville dropped two games to ABC—one by a mere one pin—they held their first place advantage. RPI took three games from Law by forfeit to keep well in the race. The Indians and the Engineers each have postponed matches to roll off with the Law School five. In fact, the RPI legends have two matches to reschedule. It will be necessary for them to win four out of six games to by-pass the Teachers.

During the exam period, the Teachers rolled three matches capturing five out of nine games. After sweeping three from RPI, the locals dropped three to ABC and followed up by taking two from Law.

Don McDonald has been sidelined with illness, but the team hopes to have him back in the lineup by next week. The opposition will be Siena.

List Scholarships, Dutch To Send Grad Fellowships For Foreign Study Nijmegen Books

The Institute of International Education has recently announced the list of fellowships and scholarships for study abroad under its auspices during 1950-51, according to Dr. Edward P. Shaw, Professor of French.

The awards will include fellowships for graduate study in Switzerland, Italian Government Fellowships, French Government Fellowships and Assistantships, Netherlands Government Fellowships, selected scholarships for study in Great Britain, particularly during the summer of 1950, and awards covering round-trip transportation to Latin America, offered by Pan American World Airways System.

Dr. Shaw states that these grants are in no way connected with those offered under the Fulbright Act. Most of the awards are for graduate students or those who expect to receive a degree in June.

Anyone desirous of further details should contact Dr. Shaw, in Room 12, Richardson, at once, since the closing date for the filing of completed applications is, in most cases, March 1.

Capital Campus

By FAT BRADY

The first world premier and an event of great theatrical importance in Albany, is the presentation of a new play, "Congressional Baby," by Eileen Tighe, at the Playhouse, opening Tuesday, February 28 for two weeks prior to its Broadway opening. The play will be produced by Malcolm Aiterbury and directed by Eddie Dowling.

One of the leading roles will be played by the distinguished young actress, Nina Poch, star of stage and screen. The male lead will be played by Neil Fitzgerald, whose stage appearances have included "Without Love" and "Ten Little Indians."

There will be no change in prices for this attraction, so why not take advantage of the special student rates?

Now for some listening news. Capital Campus, a Radio Council sponsored program heard every Wednesday at 10:15 p.m. on station WROW, will feature the Language Department on their next program. Sound boring? Far from it. The script-writers, Joseph Persico, Norman Sandberg, and Harold Smith promise us something different in the realm of languages.

Rivalry Again . . .

Regardless of what is done, however, I still think that the less complaining that the Sophomores and the freshmen do (this year or any year) and the more action that they take on any constructive criticisms will net some profitable results. If you're too busy to work on the problem then forget about it. But it would be a good idea for everyone to quit doing a lot of aimless complaining about it.

Unofficial 'Open Houses' Result In Two Robberies

Open houses are a tradition with the group houses on campus but last week two mysterious persons took the initiative to visit Psi Gamma and Sayles Annex, strictly unofficially. However, the visitor to Sayles Annex fared better than the one at Psi Gam since he did not meet any opposition. The boys were acquiring their education at the time and since they have blind faith in humanity the front door is never locked. When inventory was taken after the robbery, a cameo ring, valued at $70, an electric clock, and $17 in cash were among the missing. The intruder also tried his hand at safe-cracking (on a very small scale of course) and removed $10 from a locked cedar box after totally demolishing the lock.

At Psi Gamma the intruder met Mary Calandra '50, and made off with $8 before her screams drove him away.
