DARTMOUTH DOWNS STATE BY RESERVES

Coach Wachter Praises Fastest, Best Played Game Of Basketball Season

GRIFFIN SCORES FIRST

Green Team Forced To Use New Lineup At Beginning Of Second Half

By Roy V. Sullivan

Meeting one of the fastest and strongest college basketball teams in the country, the Purple and Gold five was forced to bow in defeat after one of the fastest and best played games ever seen in the Capital District. The State outfit played the best game of their career and the highly reputed Dartmouth five was forced to their utmost to take the battle. But for the fact that the visitors were well supplied with substitutes to rush into the game as soon as the men on the floor tired, State might have carried off the verdict.

In the first half the fighting Baker men forced such a fast pace that three of the starting Dartmouth players, including Captain Bill Heep, were forced to retire before the period ended. In the final period the Green team started with a fresh lineup and outscored the home outfit although the game was desperately fought throughout. Near the end of the game, Carr, State left forward, was completely exhausted, and was playing on his nerve. Goff, starting center, was completely gone after ten minutes of playing Longdell, six-foot-five pivot of the Dartmouth quintet. Klein then went in to jump for State and gave one of the best exhibitions of lay playing against heavy odds that has ever been seen. His first opponent was five or six inches taller than the State player and a lot heavier, the next Dartmouth pivot was six feet four and outweighed Klein by at least sixty pounds. Still Lou clamped on to his man and held him practically scoreless. Hein scored the only points against Lou on a field near the end of the game. Knezyzski, State captain, wasn't up on his game and wasn't cutting as he should have.

The Dartmouth team displayed wonderful pass work and under the basket they were simply deadly. In Speech and Swanton they presented two of the best forwards in intercollegiate competition. All the State players deserve words of praise for the marvelous fight they put up against the visitors.

Griffin opened the scoring with a pretty shot after a few seconds had elapsed and brought the crowd, which jammed the High School gym, to its feet roaring. The pace was burning in the first half and it held just as much on the Green outfit as on State; but Dartmouth had substitutes to rush into the fray. There lies the explanation of the Dartmouth victory.

After the game, Lew Wachter, Dartmouth coach, expressed the opinion that if he had had but seven men with him the verdict might have been reversed. He also said that this was the hardest battle Dartmouth has had this season. This, after the Green has beaten such teams as C. C. N. Y. Providence, University of Vermont, M. I. T. and North Western.

Score at half: Dartmouth, 23; State, 19. Final: Dartmouth, 25; State, 9. Referee, Hill, umpire, Humphrey. Time of period, twenty minutes halves, five-minute quarters.

PLAN SCOUT TROOP FOR COLLEGE GIRLS

A Citizen Scout troop may be formed here at college if enough girls are interested. Miss Elizabeth Johnson, instructor in physical education, said today, "If there are not enough to form a troop, those interested in scouting should get in touch with local Girl Scout headquarters, as there is a demand for lieutenants."

"All older girls are eligible for membership in the Citizen Scout troop. It is not restricted to first class scouts," Miss Johnson said.

The troop was formed originally to train the older scouts to be lieutenants, but now it is to keep scout activities alive in College.

KAPLAN'S EVIDENCE MAY PROVE FALLON INGENIOUS POISONER

Evidence presented by Babe Kaplan, '30, drug-store clerk of Martin's Drug store, is claimed by the prosecuting attorney to show clearly the guilt of Thomas Fallon, defendant in the sensational murder trial, charged with the killing of his young and beautiful wife, Caroline Buckingham Fallon, on the morning of June 7, 1927.

Kaplan testified that the name Nollaf was the last name signed on the list of purchasers of prussic acid. "Mr. Nollaf turned pale when I told him that the last man who bought that acid had poisoned his mother-in-law with it," said Kaplan. "Spell the name Nollaf backwards," commanded the prosecuting attorney, Warren Cochrane, '30.

"F-a-l-l-o-n," the witness answered. "The defendant was requested to stand up in court and was recognized by Kaplan as the very man who bought the poison while he worked at the store."

The defendant's attorney, Louis Klein, '29, took up the cross-examination and asked Kaplan if he were competent to get up prescriptions of hydrocyanic. "I just dispense it," Kaplan answered.

Q. "What right have you to dispense prescription orders?" A. "When I went to High school, I jerked sodas after school and no one objected."

Q. "How many persons generally enter Martin's drug store in the course of an eight-hour day?" A. "I don't know. Why don't you ask me how many enter by the hour?"

Q. "I want a definite answer." Upon the suggestion of the prosecuting attorney to dismiss the court while the witness added up the number, the court was adjourned.

Frederick Crumb, '30, physician of the deceased, testified with regard to the results of an autopsy performed on the body of the unfortunate Caroline. There were unmistakable traces of poison found in her digestive tract, he said.

MARION FOX '29, IS ELECTED POLITICAL SCIENCE PRESIDENT

Marion Fox, '29 was elected president of Political Science club and Helen Bebee, '28 was elected vice president on Dec. 7. Miss Bess Moore, home, field secretary of the New York State League of Women Voters, addressed the club and urged the formation of a chapter at State College. President Brubacher is a member. Men and women may belong to the chapter.

The League is trying to get equal rights for women in the legislative part of government where they are now restricted," Miss Marchione said. There are chapters in several large colleges of the state that train interested college students in legislation.

Two committees have been appointed to work on the installation of an active chapter at State College. A committee from Political Science club, also a committee from college at large. Elizabeth Platt, place, Ruth Moore, and Ethel Van Emburgh, '28, and Anne Buckley, '29.

"We feel State College ought to have an interest in things like the League of Women Voters," said Miss Fox. "Especially since there isn't much interest shown in legislation and people are backward in coming forth."

"Our plans for Political Science club are not complete yet as we are just organizing," Miss Fox said. "We are planning on having several speakers, open forum, parties and a pageant in the spring."

PRINT BOOK BY DR. THOMPSON DEC. 8

Author Owns No Copy Of 700 Published By English Company

Dr. Harold Thompson, professor of English, has received word that his book, "Anecdotes and Egotisms of Henry Mackenzie," was published December 8, 1927. Dr. Thompson says that although a limited edition of 700 copies was published he does not own one himself. The book was published in England and there are no copies in this country.

"The Four Horsemen," a sacred cantata, has been written by Dr. Harold Thompson, professor of English, and Dr. J. Caudlyn, head of the music department. It is a cantata for chorus singing and for a chorus composed of baritone and tenor soloists. In the last chorus the audience joins in with the singers.

Dr. Thompson wrote the verses, which Dr. Caudlyn set to music. The cantata was published by H. W. Gray and Co. of New York and by Novello and Co. in England.

QUARTERLY TO APPEAR AFTER THE VACATION

"The Quarterly will not appear until after the Christmas vacation. All material must be in before vacation," Dorothy Watts, '28, editor in chief, said today.

Sport Clothes To Feature Co-ed's Wardrobe With Modernist Note In Sweaters This Season

Sport clothes will be most popular this winter, according to Miss Edna Tarleton, instructor in home economics. Two and three piece suits of twill, covert and oxford cloth are very much in vogue. Tweed coats in shades of grey and without fur have the desired tailored effect. The modernistic note prominent in new sweaters is contrasting colors, skyscraper effects and geometric designs. Hooped on buttons are also advocated. The raincoats are leather and the newest ones are lined with wool.

In dress, simplicity of line is observed. Prints are desirable for day time and chignons with long lips and higher neck lines for evening. Brocaded period frocks are also being worn. Gowns of silk and velvet in draped effect are very popular. Silk with transparent velvet trimmings is the latest. Jumpers are coming back into vogue with blouses of linen, pique, or crepe de chine with geometric tucks and frilled jabots.

DEANS METZLER AND PIERCE FAVOR NEW INTERSORORITY RULE

The general consensus of opinion of the College is in favor of the new Intersorority ruling that scholarship requirement for membership in a sorority is not necessary, according to reports gathered from the faculty and student body at large. The new ruling, which was energetically backed by the approbation of President Abram R. Brubacher, is also approved of by Deans Anna E. Pierce and William H. Metzler.

Dean Pierce says, "Since sororities are a social group, I think it best that they seek girls who will fit well into a social group, rather than to seek so-called 'grinds' who do not care for that sort of thing. However, I think the sorority as a whole should keep before it as a goal, the desire to obtain a good sorority average and urge each member to strive for good scholarship."

Though Dean Metzler is not as sure that the new ruling will work out as well from the standpoint of scholarship, he does think it of help in solving the housing problem. He said, "Whether this is good or not depends upon whether the sorority is part of a national organization or merely local. A national group requires a certain standard of scholarship and so for the few sororities here which are national it cannot make much difference as long as they abide by the scholarship standard set by the organization. Since the housing conditions in Albany are very limited the new ruling can help many in this way, since more students will be offered an opportunity for better housing conditions."

Professor Adna W. Risley, head of the history department, brings in a plea for athletics. "As long as a person is in college he should be entitled to all the privileges of the college regardless of scholarship. I think this should apply to athletes as well."

MIXED CHORUS SINGS CHRISTMAS CAROLS ON MONDAY EVENING

The women's chorus and mixed chorus ushered in the Yuletide spirit with their annual Christmas carol sing, Monday night.

The mixed chorus, under the direction of Dr. T. Frederick H. Caudlyn, instructor in music, sang two eighteenth century compositions, "Christmas Song" and the "Song of the Angels."

Katherine Hammersly, '28, sang "An Old Sacred Lullaby," by Corner. "Oh My Dear Heart," a composition written by Marion Conklin, '29, was sung by Mildred Cook, '30. Dr. Caudlyn's composition, "Sleep, Holy Babe," was sung by the women's chorus, with solo parts by J. Charlotte Jones, '28.

The chorus and the audience sang "The First Noel," "What Child Is This?" and "Good King Wenceslas," old English carols, as well as Hopkins' "We Three Kings." The sing closed with "Silent Night," by Gerber. Marion Conklin, '29, was accompanist of the evening.

"MERRY CHRISTMAS," SAYS NEWS

Merry Christmas and the happiest of all happy New Years! Just a word of greeting, but we mean it to the last inch of type!

Now, just before the advent of what might be called the happiest season of the year, we are all filled with a glow of cheer and good will that makes us want to reach out and include the whole world in our circle of joy.

What is it that makes children thrill at the very mention of Christmas? What is it that calls forth the shout of joy from their young hearts at the fall of the first snowflake and jingle of the first sleigh bell? Is it the tradition of old Kris Kringle—woven so fantastically about the Christmas season?

Is it the rare beauty of the old, old story of the Christ child, the manger, the Star of the East and the Wise Men with their precious gifts, that makes both young and old love Christmas? Is it the spirit of giving and the desire to make others happy that appeals to the altruistic side of our natures that makes us revel in the thoughts of giving?

Yes, it is all of these and what a blessing it is to know that in a Christian country like ours, we have the privilege of uniting once a year, universally, in such a spirit of love and awe.

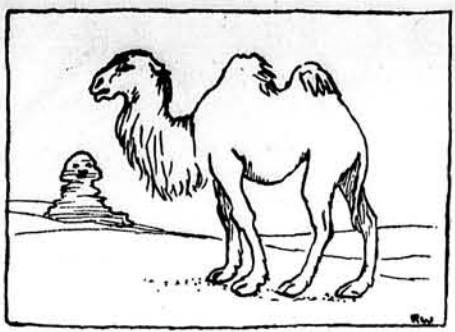

FIVE BIG STORIES "BREAK" IN LAST WEEK'S NEWS

It must be interesting to the average News reader to learn a little about the value and extent of information which may be included in one week's news.

These were five "big stories" in last week's News, any one of which might be called right-hand stories. This means that they are of such an important nature to deserve position on the covered right-hand column of page one.

The stories were: Inter-sorority rivalry, which, because of its new, value and interest to such a large number of people, earned for itself the coveted position; Next came the big Dartmouth game, the biggest game of the year. There was some question as to the comparative importance of these two stories, inasmuch as the game would appeal to hundreds of readers in—hood and one, whereas the inter-sorority story would affect only the staff in college at the present time. It was decided, however, that inasmuch as the inter-sorority story was really "news" which practically the entire student body would hear about for the first time, and inasmuch as there is somewhat of a sentiment against playing up sports too much, that the big game was given the place of second importance, or the left hand column.

The establish line of a chapter of Phi Gamma Mu, national honorary fraternity for students of social science, is a big thing for State and, the story deserves a good place on page one. The fact that State College

THE DESERT TRAVESTY OF A CAMEL

Peg Leg Jake, Hook Arm Bill, and Captain Skid, buccaners extraordinary, recently unearthed rare treasure. With jovial generosity these cutlass wielders share their Old Gold with the world. The quantity of treasure is stupendous. There are car loads and car loads of ivory vials filled with shredded gold.

These adventurers have sailed under the skull and cross-bones through seven saline seas. They should be men of mellow judgment, yet they assert with singular stupidity that there is not a cough in a car load. I have seen car loads of lumber, cabbages, coal, Chevrolets, cattle, Old Dutch Cleanser, pig iron and grain. There were no coughs in any of these shipments with the exception of the cattle, which were consumptive.

PAUL'S TRANSLATION OF LUDWIG'S BISMARCK REVEALS AUTHOR'S BEST

By W. M. F.

Bismarck, The Story of a Fighter. By Emil Ludwig. Translated from the German by Eden and Cedar Paul. $5. 601 pages. Boston: Little, Brown and Company.

Ludwig, the master of biography, presents what is probably his best work in Bismarck. The man is a master of expression, and has a subject worthy of his best efforts. The Iron Chancellor has often been pictured in obscure and partial colors; now he is set down in a truly clairvoyant manner by the author of several best selling biographies.

Bismarck, and not the imperial house of Hohenzollern, was the leading genius in the carving of Germany as a modern state, Ludwig declares. And it is to the Chancellor that the German people pay homage for their nationality. To quote from the book is to extract a single color from the rainbow; one must read it to get the flavor. A thrill of admiration awaits the reader of this monumental work.

As Ludwig points out, "One who is not trying to carve a monument but to trace the career of a fighter, stands amazed before this life, which was a perpetual struggle, occasional victory, unceasing passion, never satisfaction, for the most part sagacity, at times error, but invariably characterized by genius even when mistaken."

The student of history will find the book a veritable treasure chest of interpretations from the German point of view. But Ludwig frequently transcends nationalism, and becomes an internationalist. His characterizations have the ring of sincerity and conviction. His style is intriguing.

Interesting points of view portray Bismarck editing the Emu telegram; his tiff with Prince Frederick at Versailles; his diplomacy in forging the Germanies into a unit; his meeting with Napoleon III at Biarritz.

VERSAILLES, LEAGUE OF NATIONS FEATURE "THE WORLD TALKS IT OVER"

By W. M. F.

The World Talks It Over. By Burr Price. $1.75. 308 pages. New York: Rae D. Henkle Company.

Burr Price, who was editor in charge of the European edition of the New York Herald in Paris during the crucial days of the World War, and who has "covered" several important peace conferences since then, has done a distinct service to the world peace movement in America by writing this book. For the first time, he has written a summary of what leading Americans since the time of Franklin have contributed to the movement.

A large portion of the book deals with the Versailles conferences and the League of Nations. The accomplishments of the League are chronicled year by year, a chapter being devoted to each year's work.

"The League has passed its experimental stage. It is an historic fact. It is the furthest point on the road yet reached by the world in its progress towards peace," Mr. Price holds.

The author has upheld the standard of his journalistic profession in succeeding in picking out the "hot points"; the interesting matter of the world problems. He discards academic arguments, and presents facts as he sees them. The Covenant of the League is also included.

STATE TO DEBATE KENYA PITTSBURGH

is debating Pittsburgh and Kenya is also of paramount importance. The sending of Emmanuel Green, '30, to the congress of the National Student Federation of America at the University of Nebraska, deserves such commendation and credit, that it easily wins for itself its first page position.

The breaking of live such stories in one week is quite unusual and is the source of much joy and satisfaction to the staff and those who have an active interest in the workings of the paper.

SPRAYS from the SPORT SHOWER

by Sully

We want to congratulate the players for the wonderful games they put up against Dartmouth Saturday. They all played the games of their lives and deserve worlds of credit. Lou Klein was our best player in our opinion.

Dartmouth had a wonderful team and still if we had had fresh men to put in when the first team tired the result might have been different.

Sixteen straight games but the boys played a better game than in any of those sixteen. Let's win all the rest of our games this year.

Saturday we had absolutely the greatest cheering that State College has ever exhibited. What a crowd there was over in the High school gym! Coach Baker estimated that one thousand college people saw the game. We feel sorry for those who didn't.

In all probability we will meet Dartmouth in Albany again next year. Their management expressed the desire to arrange a one-game trip especially to play us next year.

Lew Wachter, Dartmouth coach, said that we had seven men who were as good as any seven he had. More substitutes turned the tide for the Green. He also said Saturday's game was the toughest Dartmouth has had this year.

After the game Verne Carr said he had the inclination to cut in the last few minutes of the game but the old legs wouldn't carry him. All of the boys were completely burned out when the game was over.

The boys were helped a lot by the wonderful support our rooters gave them. Let's keep it up.

Is there any penalty if a member of the Freshman class neglects to pay his dues?
Freshmen who do not pay dues are not social members of the class and therefore are not allowed to participate in class activities or to hold class office. (Mrs. W. B. Van Rensselaer, executive of Canterbury club at her home, 5 State street Thursday evening.)

Should freshmen speak to upperclassmen first?
Certainly, whether they know the person or not. (Louis Widner, president of sophomore class.)

Why is mathematics required of freshmen?
Because it thought best by older upper heads. (Dean Metzler.)

STUDENTS SET A HIGH MARK BUYING SEALS

Students at State College are paying their philanthropic service by the high mark at which the sale of Christmas seals has reached, according to Nelly Fiedman, '28, who has been in charge of the project.

Individual students have been given a number of seals each by the Finance Committee of the American Red Cross and they are selling them in College at the rate of one seal for ten cents. Alpha Epsilon Phi society has been a noted twenty-dollar gift collector and has sold approximately 200 of them.

Keep your mind on the great, splendid things you would like to do reads the motto hanging to the left of Dean Anna E. Pierce. It continues, "I will then find yourself unconsciously seizing upon the opportunities that

HENRIETTE FRANCOIS ELECTED PRESIDENT OF ARCHERY CLASS

State College has adopted a new sport, archery. At the last meeting of the Archery club it was decided to make the club a class with a president and treasurer similar to the tennis class. Henriette Francois, '29, was elected president and Louise Dubois, '30, secretary.

"Orders have been taken for bows and the class will hold a meeting as soon as the bows come," said Miss Francois.

"Membership in the class is open to all college students," said Miss Francois.

CHILD DEVELOPMENT INSTITUTE REGISTERS 79 STUDENTS HERE

There were seventy-nine students registered for the child development institute which took place in the Unitarian church, Miss Florence E. Winchell, a member of the group that sponsored the meetings, said today.

A routine of the institute was the testing of four children and the subsequent interviews with the mothers on the results of the examinations, Miss Winchell also announced.

There will be a series of similar meetings January 31, February 1, 2.

In the preliminary game the state junior varsity dropped a hair raising decision to Albany Academy when Halperbeck dropped a field into the basket to give his club a one point lead with thirty seconds to go. Bluff, Twyman, Scott and Allen played well for the taxpayer and Lester started for the Academy.

Student Opinion Is 7-5 in Favor Of Ruling Of Council On Scholarship Requirements

What do the sorority members themselves think of the new ruling? Though the majority approve, there are many who think it harmful.

Rose Dransky, '29, of Pi Alpha Tau sorority, says, "I do not think it is a good idea because it lowers the standard of scholarship among freshmen and heightens the social aim to an extreme which is beyond an advisable point. Most other colleges have a scholarship standard, because, after all, we do not go to college purely for social reasons and so should not lose sight of educational standards."

Florence Cook, '29, of Kappa Delta sorority, voices her approval by saying, "I like it because I think the standard of State College is high enough without making it higher in order to get into a sorority. I think if a girl has the ability to get into and remain in State College, her scholastic ability is proved. However, sororities should continue to strive for scholarship amongst their members."

"I think the new ruling is all right," says Louise Frisk, '30, of Delta Omega. "I think sororities will now have their own standards. I don't believe the scholarship will change any, only that now it is up to the sororities to see that the members live up to it. The girls who join the sororities will have to keep up their scholarship for their own sakes and for the sake of the sororities."

Disapproval is voiced by Ethel Effron, '28, of Alpha Epsilon Phi, who says, "I don't approve of it at all. I think there should be a sort of impetus on entering a sorority, and scholarship requirement gives that impetus. The new ruling places the sorority on a social basis and offers nothing to school standards."

The opinion of Genevieve Cole, '29, of Alpha Rho, is, "I don't think the new rule will help a sorority any because some girls work for scholarship merely as a means to an end and if the purpose for the end is removed, there will be no need for the means. When sororities know there is no limited scholarship, they will disregard scholarship standards."

JUNIORS SCORE "A" IN COLLEGE ARMY TEST

From the army tests which have been given to psychology classes, there have been interesting results.

There were 136 scores distributed. On the whole test there was a possibility of 212 points. In the junior class there were 2 who had between 190 and 200, 10 between 180-190, 13 between 170-180, 23 between 160-170, 34 between 150-160, and 20 between 140-150. The remainder scored less than 140. Median score was 154.26.

A rating was given to persons between 135-212, B rating was given 105-134, C+ rating was given 75-104, and C rating was given 45-74. By this rating the people having a median score were given a grade of A+.

Practically the entire junior class made scores of A and B.

In the army, when the tests were given to non-selected individuals, the officers rated B and the remainder C or less, showing that the average army score was C while the average junior score here in College is A.

MAY GO TO CONFERENCE

Dean William H. Metzler may go to Syracuse to attend the conference that are held there every Christmas vacation for academic principals. He remains in Albany he will spend his time working on College problems and mathematics.

Chrissie Curtis, '28, of Eta Phi, says, "I think that since the sorority is a social unit that scholarship should not enter in and that if a sorority is proud enough of its own standing it will take care of its own scholarship. If a sorority still wishes to uphold the sorority standard it should use discretion in choosing the girls it wishes to take in."

Ruth Lane '28, of Psi Gamma sorority and president of the student body, says briefly, "If a girl's scholarship is high enough to prevent her from being flunked out of college, it is high enough for her to enter a sorority."

Margaret Cosgrove, '29, of Gamma Kappa Phi, says, "Personally I do not approve of it. I think if a girl knows she has to have good scholarship to get into a sorority, she will work for it."

Patricia O'Connell, '28, Chi Sigma Theta, says, "As it is now, I like it, and think it worthy of a try-out," and Anne Holroyd '28, Beta Zeta, agrees with her in saying, "I think it wise and believe it will work out with the best results."

Sally Law, '28, of Phi Delta, says, "I think it is very good as far as the social part is concerned, but the sorority will have to make its own standard since there is now none made for it."

Now to hear a few of the opinions from the masculine point of view. Robert Shillinglaw, '29, and Francis Griffin, '28, both members of Kappa Delta Rho fraternity, contrast their opinions. Shillinglaw says, "I think that Intersorority Council would have made a wiser forward step had it limited the five-year probation period. The new ruling is in my estimation, not a step forward, because anybody can get in a sorority now, and so I don't think it will mean as much for them as it would if they had to work for it."

Griffin is in favor of the new rule because, he says, "It does not limit the choice of freshmen and will tend to make the social standard in the sororities higher even though the scholarship standard will be lower."

MRS. LANE, '93, MISS KNIGHT VISIT COLLEGE

Alumni returning to State recently have found great changes. Lillian Paynter, '93, who became a faculty member doing critic work in the model school in 1897 and later married Thaddeus S. Lane of Spokane, Washington, returned to visit Dean Anna E. Pierce and found among the present faculty only the familiar faces of Dean Pierce and Dr. Leonard W. Richardson, head of the Latin department. Miss Mary Knight and Miss Mabel Gordon, both of the class of '01, also returned. Miss Knight is teaching in Troy and Miss Gordon in Waterford.

28 Of 74 Faculty Members Here Graduated From State; 5 Received Higher Degrees Here

From being students of pedagogy to reaching the peak of teachers of teachers seems to be a long stride, yet it is one which has been made by almost forty-five percent of the faculty of State College.

Of the seventy-four members of the faculty listed in the 1927 college year book, the Pedagogue, twenty-eight are graduates of the college, or of the State Normal School as it was known until 1914 and another group of five have received higher degrees from the college as a result of post graduate work.

Miss Anna E. Pierce, dean of women, is the only administration officer who has received any degrees from the college. She was graduated from the college and later earned her degree of master of pedagogy at the college. She was made dean of women in 1909.

Miss Eunice A. Perine, who received her P.D. degree at the college in 1900 was added to the faculty as instructor in fine arts the same year. Five years later, John M. Sayles, at present the principal of the Milne High school was added to the teaching ranks, having earned his degree of P.D. in 1901 at the college. Two years after that came Professor C. A. Woodard, head of the biology department who also received the degree of P.D. at the college.

Miss Anne L. Cushing and Miss Elizabeth F. Shaver were made supervisors of practice teaching soon after. Both received degrees from the college.

The year 1912 saw John A. Mahar named assistant professor of French and also the appointment of Miss Lydia A. Johnson as supervisor of practice teaching.

In 1915, Clarence A. Hildley and Charlotte Loeb, both graduates of the college, that year, were added to the history and French departments.

The next year Miss Blanche M. Avery was added to the faculty and in 1917 Miss Agnes E. Futterer became an instructor in English. She was graduated from the college the year previous to her appointment.

Minnie B. Scotland and Edith Owen Wallace were added to the biology and latin staffs the next year, both having been graduated from the college.

No more graduates of State College were named for the next three years but in 1921, A. May Fillingham, who was graduated in 1918, was named instructor in home economics. The same year Hazel Rowley was appointed to the physics department.

Margaret D. Betz, who was graduated from the college in 1922 was added to the chemistry department faculty the same year. Miss J. Isabelle Johnston and Maud G. Malcolm were also added to the faculty in 1922. Miss Johnston became instructor in physical education and Miss Malcolm in French.

The next year Queene Homan Faust was added to the biology department faculty immediately upon her graduation, and Miss Catherine Peltz, who had been graduated a year previous, became an instructor in English.

In 1924 Miss Ethel L. Huyck became assistant librarian at the college. She was a member of the class of 1922.

The year 1925 saw five former students named to the faculty. Elizabeth D. Anderson became a supervisor of practice teaching and Miss Helen T. Fay became manager of the college Co-op. Millicent E. Barham was appointed assistant instructor of French, Mary C. Grahn was added to the English faculty and Ralph A. Beaver joined the department of mathematics.

In 1926, six more graduates were named to the faculty. Marjorie T. Bellows became instructor of English immediately upon her graduation. Miss Alice E. Clear received a similar appointment the same year. She was graduated in 1922. Miss Alice A. Gooding was added to the department of biology in 1926. She was a member of the class which graduated that June.

Milton G. Nelson who was graduated in 1924 was made an assistant professor of education in 1926 and Janet B. Sheffield was appointed assistant supervisor of English in 1926, two years after her graduation. Jeanetta M. Wright, instructor in chemistry was also added in 1926, being appointed shortly after her graduation.
