OLD NEWS BOARD EDITS ISSUE TODAY

Works On Myskania's Request With Understanding That Names Be Left Out

Former members of the STATE COLLEGE NEWS board are editing this week's edition of the News at the request of Myskania. In its resignation which was sent to Myskania, the former board offered its services to the student association in the management of the news paper until a new board could be organized.

The work was undertaken with the understanding that the names of students who had not paid the student association request of $14 would not be published.

Approximately 450 students petitioned Myskania early this week to reconsider its decision in instructing the News to print the names of students who have not paid the tax and its acceptance of the resignation of the NEWS board. The senior honorary society announced in assembly last week that it had accepted the resignation of the board.

One petition, which was signed by approximately 90 students, requested Myskania to reconsider its acceptance of the resignation of the board. The other petition, bearing the names of about 350 students, requested the judicial body to review both its decision and the acceptance of the resignation. Myskania has not made any public announcement since the time when petitions were presented.

If Myskania does not reverse its decision, the student council will organize a new board, according to Marion F. Botto, '30, president of the student association, and chairman of the council.

GOVERNOR VETOES BILL FOR LIBRARY

Executive Promises To Pass Original Appropriation if Presented

Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt vetoed the item in the State budget Monday which gave State college $40,000 for remodeling Hawley hall auditorium into a library, according to Guernsey T. Cross, secretary to the governor. This item had originally been placed in the budget by the governor for the purpose of repairing the roofs and ceilings of Hawley Draper, and Husted halls.

The wording of the budget item was changed by agreement of Eberly Hutchinson, chairman of the ways and means committee of the State assembly, and Charles D. Hewitt, chairman of the finance committee of the senate. This had been done at the request of a student committee made up of Warren Cochrane, '30, Emanuel Green, '30, and Russell Ludlum, '31, who presented a petition from the student association to Mr. Hutchinson and Mr. Hewitt.

The governor, in his veto, said that he would pass the item if it were returned to him in its original form, but it would be extravagant and wasteful to allow the bill to pass in its present wording.

He explained his refusal to accept the item in the following statement to the committee: "This item is disapproved because the architect's estimate for the repairs to the roof in the old auditorium, $4,400, and science buildings and to repair the ceilings is $10,000, and this I recommended to the legislature."

The substituted item in the appropriation bill will not complete its work and will necessitate an additional appropriation next year for uncompleted work and extra work. He explained his refusal to accept the item in the following statement to the committee: "This item is disapproved because the architect's estimate for the repairs to the roof in the old auditorium, $4,400, and science buildings and to repair the ceilings is $10,000, and this I recommended to the legislature."

NEWS IS SECOND IN PRESS CONTEST

Wins From Publications Entered By Colleges In All Parts Of United States

The STATE COLLEGE NEWS was awarded second place in the contest conducted by the Columbia Intercollegiate Press association for weekly publications of teachers' colleges. Joseph M. Murphy, secretary of the association, announced today.

Newspapers were entered by colleges in all parts of the United States.

"The Bulletin" of the Kansas State Teachers' college, and "The Adette" of Illinois State Normal school, took first place. The News will be sent a gold medal and red ribbon.

The awards were announced at the sixth national convention of the association, conducted at Columbia university in New York city, last Thursday, Friday, and Saturday. Four members of the former NEWS board attended the convention for two of the days it was in session.

Alfred D. Basch, '31, former managing editor of the News and associate managing editor of the Lion, conducted a round table discussion on humor in a teachers' college publication at the request of Mr. Murphy, director of the convention. The discussion was attended by about sixty delegates of the convention.

Basch On Committee. Basch was appointed a member of a committee to increase the attendance of delegates from teachers' colleges at the convention next year.

Discussion with delegates and examination of publications from other teachers' colleges disclosed the fact that the News is one of the few publications which are not inspected by the faculty. Most of the papers have faculty advisers who censor stories before printing, or they do not actually direct the entire publication. The law works strictly, without supervision of the faculty.

The paper of one college in New York state had its editorial policy determined by advisers, and was not permitted to print anything that might advertise one school over another. Some of the stories that had to be left out on account of such policy were a description of a student who had occurred, a recommendation to include a course in the philosophy of education in the curriculum, and an editorial questioning more cultural courses instead of the many professional courses the students are required to carry.

Each of the college publications, whether it had an adviser from the faculty or not, was judged by members of the faculty before the show was printed.

The cast includes: Margaret Hilton, '32, Mary Goodell, '31, Robert Rankins, '32, and Howard Myers, '31.

The committees are: settings and lighting, Dorothy Brunner, '30, Helen Henderson and Mary Goodell, juniors; mechanical effects, Katherine Webster, Louise Duhee and James Cassidy, seniors; advertising, Eleanor Stephenson, '30; make-up and costumes, Katherine Graham, and Betty Diamond, seniors; house, Eleanor Brown, '30.

VOICES OF 13 MEN TESTED TO FORM CHORUS THIS YEAR

The voices of thirteen men have already been tested in the attempt to form a men's chorus this year, according to Dr. T. Frederick H. Candlyn, instructor in music. "The voices," he said, "were found to be much better than formerly."

Considerable trouble has been experienced, according to Dr. Candlyn, due to the conflict between practice sessions and the education 2 class which is attended by seniors. "Monday and Wednesday are the only days of the week that I have time to give rehearsals to the musical unit," he said. "Much will be accomplished, however, by this survey of the male voices for a chorus for next year." Dr. Candlyn hopes to have two periods a week definitely assigned on the calendar to the men's chorus, with a possibility of credit given for the work by the college.

Several more candidates will take the voice test before the work is concluded for the year, according to Dr. Candlyn.

Those who have already had their voices tested follow: Simon Maslan, Donald Whiston, and Raymond Collins, seniors; William Sawyer and Lawrence Newcomb, juniors; Howard Mann, Duane Baker, Anthony Stroka, Frederick Appleton, and Robert Rankins, sophomores; Harold Hendee, Ormond Guyer, and William Reagan, freshmen.

Freshmen Women Get Bruises At Soiree; Sophomores Remove Class Banner Safely

Efforts of nearly fifty freshmen women to capture the sophomore class banner at the soiree Friday night resulted in disappointment and bruises for the freshmen as their rivals made a successful getaway with the coveted banner.

The large yellow banner was used as a decoration and was hung in the Page hall gymnasium where it was the object of vigilant observation by both freshmen and sophomores. As the time for the last dance drew near, the sophomore women, headed by Virginia Hawkins and Asenath Van Buren, prepared to make their exit. These preparations aroused the interest of the watchful freshmen who descended into the back of the gymnasium to better observe the preparations. The aid of two suit cases, the Delta Omega banner, and a large cardboard box was enlisted in order to deceive the yearlings.

At the appointed time three bands of sophomores burst from the College each bearing a suspicious looking burden. The freshmen gave chase but were bewildered as to which one they ought to concentrate their attention upon. As Miss Van Buren and her party left the building they were attacked by a number of freshmen women and a regular melee ensued. Meanwhile the suitcase containing the bona fide banner was safely removed through the midst of the group who felt it beneath their investigation and dismissed search of it with the remark that it wasn't there anyway.

Those bearing the banner entered a car and started away but were noticed by the freshmen who immediately gave chase. The race continued for about fifteen minutes and ended when the car bearing the banner doubled on the freshmen who lost its track.

After the banner was safely housed, the members of the class who had been instrumental in getting it away celebrated in a restaurant on Central avenue.

She was the individual star of the open meet. She not only won the 100 yard event but was also a finalist in the diving events conducted last night. Her time in the 100 yard swim was 1:24.8, a new record for women in Albany. Miss Greenburg won a gold medal and the championship of the city for her showing.

She is the sister of Rosalind Greene, '26, who was adjudged the possessor of the best radio voice in America. She is a resident of Long Island.
