Our Policy . . .

It is at this point in the school year that it comes time to present the reader with statements concerning the operation of the News and a few aspects of the editorial policy. The action is promulgated more directly by the receipt of a communication addressed to your editor. First let the fact be introduced that the News is entirely student owned and managed, with no faculty or administrational supervision. The editorial policy of the paper is determined by the editor in conjunction with the opinions and sentiments of the News Board. The latter group is compiled of the heads of the various departments of this publication. It falls upon these students to decide important issues, in addition to other managerial duties, brought before them by the Board chairman, the Editor-in-Chief. The Board is more than a mere advisory agency, it represents the newspaper in its totality.

Recently the News Board, in a unanimous vote, decided to replace the writers of one of the weekly columns. The incident was handled in a manner which was felt to be just and expedient, and the resulting action meritous of the intentions of those involved, irregardless of what finally did ap"Monday, December 7, Betty Mar- Has the enrollment sneaked up on pear in print. BLUE, RED, GREEN, YELLOW, OR PURPLE? The idea brought up in this week's Student Council meeting about changing the color of the frosh beanies seems to be a controversial one, judging by the vote taken at the meeting. The whole core of the problem centers around the question of whether the traditional head-gears are class beanies or college beanies. We feel strongly that they are class beanies. They play an important role in Rivalry, which is a vital part of State College tradition, and foster class spirit. Some argue that the beanies should be purple and gold to create college spirit. But we ask, how can you have good college spirit when there is nothing unit ing each class?

Since the opponents of this suggestion say that the beanies represent the college and should be purple and gold, the logical conclusion would be that the class banners and Moving-Up Day regalia should be purple and gold also.

Let's think about this when the question comes up in Assembly today. The Seniors can remember when tradition really meant something at State, and we would like to see class-colored beanies return! ENCORE ...

Looks like our Soccer Team is getting ready for a repeat performance again this year. The pep rally in last Friday's assembly started the ball rolling and the team took over from there. Keep up the good work, and good luck this weekend A GRIPE . . .

We felt sorry for the "poor soul" behind the Snack ar Saturday nght, after the place was invaded by the thirsty crowd that had participated in the Snake

Knowing that the Activities Day Dance was to be held in the Game Room, why wasn't more help available at this time?

It was ridiculous to see five workers behind the Snack Bar just talking Sunday night when we all had to wait twenty minutes to get a coke Saturday night. Is the Snack Bar really this bad off?

We have a feeling that something must be drastically wrong on campus. Isn't there anything exciting happening-no news? What happened to the good old "high point of personal privilege," and the heated debates that went on in assembly? Let's hope that today's assembly changes this situation.

INTRA-MURALS . . .

This year, MAA is offering a bigger and better Intra-Mural sports program. Right now its program is wider and more sports are being considered. Here all men and organizations must is an excellent opportunity for those interested in this type of activity, so why not take advantage of it.
