

Junior Class Plans Annual Week-End

Date Is Set For February 22-23; Balloting For Prom Queen To Be In February

Junior week-end will begin with the annual prom to be conducted on Washington's birthday, Friday night, February 22, at the Aurania club, South Allen street, according to a statement issued today by Edward Kramer, vice-president of the junior class and general chairman of junior week-end.

Junior breakfast will be Saturday morning, February 23, under the direction of Genevieve Curley and Marjorie Kalaidjian, juniors, co-chairmen.

Tea dance will also be at the Aurania club on Saturday afternoon from 3:00 to 5:00 o'clock. Zella Winter, '36, is general chairman.

The choosing of a prom queen, a feature established two years ago, will be continued this year, Kramer added. The election will be conducted the early part of February.

State Vanquishes Middlebury Five With 58-53 Score

A savage display of offensive strength carried a ragged but very powerful State quintet to an inspired victory over a strong Middlebury Five. The score (58-53), indicates clearly the pattern of the game. Both squads concentrated on getting baskets and let the defensive angle of the game take care of itself.

It was not good basketball, perhaps (the mad total of 111 points reveals glaring defensive errors on both sides)—but it was a magnificent spectacle. No one who witnessed this wild orgy of hysterical, vicious combat will ever forget how a furiously scrappy squad of State men demanded—and received—victory from a team which we still believe is their physical superior.

Bob Murray's cool sharpshooting precision (26 honest-to-goodness points of it), Jerry Amyot's deftly executed, unwearying accurate passes, the hard fighting floorwork of George Bancroft, and the inspired drive of the entire team, all furnished a spine-tingling thrill for all the State spectators. There may have been better teams on that Page hall gym in the past but we've never seen them.

If the Purple and Gold squad can hold the pace they set in this hectic fray they won't be defeated this season. This from an enthusiastic scribbler who lacks the adjectives to adequately pay tribute to the hardest fighting team he has ever seen in action.

TO GIVE SEMINAR COURSE

Dr. Donnal V. Smith, assistant professor of history, will teach a new seminar course for graduate students during the second semester. The course will be limited to twelve. It will be centered around Jacksonian democracy.

Greeks Will Rush Freshman Women

Formal Rushing Parties To Begin With Dinners on January 31, Under Sorority Code

Sorority rushing of freshmen women will begin at 6:30 o'clock, Thursday, January 31, and continue until 11:30 o'clock Saturday morning, February 2, according to Elizabeth Hartman, '35, president of Intersorority council. Rush invitations will be mailed to freshmen next Friday night, January 25. They must be answered by return mail.

Freshmen who receive and accept these rush invitations will be entitled to attend the three events which will be conducted in each sorority house, namely, a formal dinner Thursday night, January 31, from 6:30 until 11:30 o'clock; a tea-dance the following afternoon, from 3:00 until 5:00 o'clock; and a breakfast Saturday morning, from 9:30 until 11:30 o'clock.

After the rushing officially ends at 11:30 o'clock on Saturday, a silent period will be maintained until the following Monday. Further rushing is forbidden during the silent period. At 9:00 o'clock on the following Monday morning, each freshman who received a rush invitation will receive a preference blank in the mail box. This must be returned to the office of Miss Helen H. Moreland, dean of women, before noon, whether it has been filled out or not, according to the new system of preferential bidding.

According to this system, if the freshman, when she receives her preference blank, has decided that she would like to join a sorority, she writes down the name of the one she prefers to bid. If she also has a second and third choice, she is requested to list these. At the same time the freshmen submit their choices, each sorority turns in the name of the freshmen they have decided to bid. If a freshman is bid by the sorority of her first choice, she automatically becomes eligible for membership. If, however, the freshman is not bid by the sorority of her first choice, but is bid by the sorority of her second choice, she immediately accepts that. If she has third preference, the same rule applies in that case.

This system which has been in use for several years at most of the large colleges and universities, has been used successfully at State college for the past two years.

TO ADDRESS ASSEMBLY

Dr. Stanley High, nationally known radio speaker and religious publicist, will address the student body in assembly this morning at 11:10 o'clock, according to Clifford Rall, '35, president of the student association and member of Myskonia, senior honorary society.

RECEIVES POSITION

Marion Pike, '34, has withdrawn from college to accept a position in the Central Rural school at Washingtonville. She will teach junior high school subjects and supervise the extra curricular activities. Miss Pike was studying here for her master of arts degree.

ANNOUNCES ENGAGEMENT

1860 Yearbook Contains Pictures But No Writeups

Seventy-five years ago, when State college was a Normal school in a square frame building on Lodge street, the class of 1860 published a yearbook, a copy of which was recently sent to Miss Mary Cobb, college librarian, by Mr. Louis R. Burton, of New Haven, Connecticut, whose father was a member of the class of '60. The volume is leather bound, is entitled "Autographs," and contains pictures but no stories. Those pictured include:

The faculty, from the principal-professor of Moral and Intellectual Philosophy to the teacher of history and drawing.

The class, numbering some 80 men and women.

His excellency Governor Morgan; the honorable D. C. Littlejohn, speaker of the assembly; and six of the local ministers.

Ping Pong Table Is Available For Use

Ping pong enthusiasts now have an opportunity to display their abilities and skill without going far for the privilege. Student council has equipped a ping pong table and has had it placed on the balcony of "The Commons" where it is available for student use, according to an announcement by John Deno, '37, secretary of student council, in last week's assembly.

A fee of one cent a person is being charged by the council to pay for the expense of building and equipping the table, and lost or broken balls must be replaced at five cents each, Deno further stated. Provisions are also made so that everyone can use the table at some time or other.

N. S. F. A. Aims At Student Cooperation And Participation In World Affairs

Closer cooperation among students of colleges, and the development of student opinions on affairs of national and international importance were the primary objectives of the tenth annual congress of the National Student Federation of America which convened at the Parker House, Boston, December 28 to January 1. Over 200 member colleges were represented at the Congress.

In direct conjunction with these objectives, Jayne Buckley, '36, representative of the State college student association at the convention, stated in her report in the student assembly last week, "I would like to suggest a council on the campus to act with the regional divisions and the central N. S. F. A. council. This council would function in distributing material, securing unbiased decisions in student administration disputes, securing speakers and scheduling debates, and, in large, to establish a personal contact between the N. S. F. A. and the students themselves."

In regard to the constitution of State college, Miss Buckley presented the following comments and resolution to the president of the student council: "From decisions of student government at the N. S. F. A. Congress, I have been wondering if the student body of New York

LOANS ARE AVAILABLE

Students who are planning to apply for loans during the second semester should get their application blanks from Miss Helen H. Moreland, dean of women, and present them to Miss Edith O. Wallace, assistant professor of Latin, in room 6 of Richardson hall. These should be presented on or before February 4, according to a bulletin issued today.

Varsity To Tackle Three Competitors

Coach Baker Takes Entire Squad On Annual Metropolitan Basketball Jaunt

The varsity basketball squad left yesterday for their annual metropolitan trip, in which they are to compete with three colleges in as many nights.

The State five tackled New Jersey State Teachers at Jersey City last night. Today the squad will leave for Brooklyn, where they will meet with active competition on the Brooklyn Polytechnic Institute court. Tomorrow Coach Baker will take his men to Madison, New Jersey, where they will play Drew university.

Brooklyn Poly and Drew are old-time rivals, but Jersey State is a newcomer to the State schedule. Both the Jerseyites and Brooklyn Poly will play return games next month on the home court.

The entire line-up of the present squad was taken on the road trip.

Six Local Colleges Will Compete For Manuscript Prizes

Students of six colleges in the Capital district will compete for three prizes offered by the American League Against War and Fascism in an essay contest on "How Can We Prevent War?" Manuscripts must be in the hands of the Albany committee by February 20.

The essays are not to exceed twenty-five hundred words and must be either typewritten or legibly hand-written, and are to be signed with an assumed name. Each manuscript must be accompanied by a sealed envelope containing the true and the assumed name of the contestant. Three prizes, consisting of $25.00, $10.00 and a copy of "Experiment in Autobiography" by H. G. Wells, will be given by the three winners.

Undergraduates of State, College of St. Rose, Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, Russell Sage, Skidmore, and Union are eligible.

Additional information may be secured from notices on the main bulletin board in Draper hall, Dr. Donnal V. Smith, assistant professor of history, or writing directly to the Albany Committee, American League Against War and Fascism, Box 52, Capitol Station, Albany.

MAKES CORRECTIONS

Examinations for German 2 and Spanish 2 will both be conducted in room 20 of Richardson hall, Saturday afternoon, January 20 at 2:00 o'clock, instead of rooms 101 and 201 as previously announced, according to Miss Elizabeth Van Denburgh, registrar.

ANNOUNCES CHANGE

Miss Mary E. Cobb, College librarian, announced that the College library would make a slight change in its schedule during the weeks of examinations. The library will be open Friday night, January 25, but closed Thursday night, January 31, and Saturday afternoon, February 2.

State To Present Dancers Saturday

Miriam Winslow and Ensemble
To Give Varied Program
In Page Auditorium

State college, in co-operation with the City club of Albany, will present Miriam Winslow and her dancers, Olive Cousins, Mary Hughes, Jacqueline Magrath and Nancy Minor, in a series of interpretive dances in the Page hall auditorium next Saturday night at 8:15 o'clock.

The program is as follows:

Group I

Allegretto (Mozart), Ensemble; Trois Mignardises (Plek-Mangialilli), Miriam Winslow; Sarabande (Satie), Ensemble; Fantastique (Strickland), Miriam Winslow; Polonaise (Bach), Olive Cousins; and the Chase (Dohnanyi), Miriam Winslow with Misses Cousins, Hughes, and Magrath.

Group II

Impressions of the Old World:
Spain: a. Andalousa (Massenet), Miriam Winslow; b. Sevillanos (Massenet), Misses Hughes and Magrath; c. Fiesta (Turina), Miriam Winslow; Brittany: Peasant Dancer (Schloegel), Misses Cousins and Minor; Cambodia: Court Dancer (Massenet), Miriam Winslow; India: a. By the Gates (Stanton), Ensemble; and b. ### Group III

Greek Rhythms (Gluck-Chaminade), Miriam Winslow and Ensemble; Prelude (Chopin), Miriam Winslow; Sport Intermezzo (Richard Strauss), Ensemble; Valse Impromptu (Dohnanyi), Miriam Winslow and Ensemble; and Largo (Handel), Miriam Winslow and Ensemble.

Miss Winslow, who conducts the Miriam Winslow School of Dancers in Boston, was trained in the Braggiotti school in Boston and studied under Ruth St. Denis and Ted Shawn, with whose troupe she traveled as soloist for two years. Later she studied in Germany and Austria.

Two years ago with her company of four girls, she toured Europe and this country and was enthusiastically received. In her numbers, some of which she created and costumed, Miss Winslow has launched some of the most interesting dance attractions in America.

Tickets are $1.00 and may be obtained at the City club office, the co-operative bookstore and Clapp's Book shops.

I.R.S.S. Club To Hear Prominent Author

M. Pierre de Lanux, French author and lecturer, will speak at a meeting of the International Relations and social sciences club on Saturday, February 9. M. de Lanux has been director of the Paris office of the League of Nations for ten years.

The club will be unable to present Mr. Malcolm Davis next Saturday due to another engagement of Mr. Davis, and his leaving for Geneva, Switzerland, shortly after that.

State Women Visit Syracuse to Debate

The State college women's debate team recently debated the Syracuse university women's debate team at Syracuse. The State team upheld the negative side of the topic: "Resolved: that the federal government aid public education." The debate was a non-decision debate, but was presented before a class in argumentation.

The State college team will debate with Middlebury college sometime in the near future.

Many things have to do with the aroma of a cigarette . . . the kind of tobaccos they are made of . . . the way the tobaccos are blended . . . the quality of the cigarette paper.

IT takes good things to make good things.

Someone said that to get the right aroma in a cigarette, you must have the right quantity of Turkish tobacco—and that's right.

But it is also true that you get a pleasing aroma from the home-grown tobaccos . . . tobaccos filled with Southern Sunshine, sweet and ripe.

When these tobaccos are all blended and cross-blended the Chesterfield way, balanced one against the other, you get a flavor and fragrance that's different from other cigarettes.

Dating Bureau

By Russell Cheadle
Phi Kappa Tau
Ohio University

"I'd like a girl about five foot five. She must be a good dancer, a good conversationalist, and make a nice appearance."

The attendant of the Dating Bureau took a card from his file, and handed it to Pete. He copied the girl's name, address, and telephone number.

"How much?" he asked.

"Ten cents."

Pete laid the dime on the counter, and went in search of a student directory.

The Dating Bureau was a new idea to Pete—in fact, it was a new idea to the college. The college had started the bureau with the idea of giving the bashful maidens in the dormitories a chance at collegiate night-life, but there were exceptions, and by the description on the card, Pete thought that he had picked an exception. Anyway, he needed a date for the Tri-Phi formal in a hurry.

Came the night of the formal, and Pete went to pick up his date at the Dorm. He waited in the lounge, and watched the girls passing the door, wondering which one was his date. He noticed a girl sitting on a davenport opposite him dressed in an almost absurd pink formal. Pete shuddered—the girl was coming toward him.

"Are you Peter Hamlin?" Her voice was a decided soprano.

Pete managed to gulp out the answer.

"I've been ready, oh, ever so long. Shall we go?"

After the first shock had died, Pete decided that she might not be so bad. Perhaps she was a good dancer. They started for the hotel.

"You know," she cooed. "I just adore dancing. My roommate and I are always dancing. We have invented the cutest little step. I'll show it to you when we get to the hotel."

"Yes."

"Did you notice my dress? It's an exact copy of the dress my grandmother wore when she was married. Isn't it funny how it is now back in style?"

"Uh, huh."

They reached the hotel and began to dance. Pete felt himself being pulled around the floor using steps that he never knew existed.

"Let's go over in a corner and I'll show you that new step."

Pete lived through what seemed years of agony while the girl demonstrated a step that wouldn't fit any music written. Throughout the evening, he wondered where the mistake could have occurred, for this could not be the girl who had been described to him at the Bureau. He wondered who could have given such an inviting description to such a girl.

"Isn't the dating bureau a wonderful idea. Just think, if it wasn't for it, I would never have met you."

Pete groaned.

"You're such a gentleman. Here I am doing all the talking. Tell me about yourself."

"Well, I ah,—"

"Oh, there's that piece 'Moonglow'. Don't you just love it!"

She tugged at Pete. He took a deep breath, and asked her:

"Who makes out the descriptions of the people at the Dating Bureau?"

"Why, I wrote my own," she answered.

Pete let his breath hiss between his teeth, and muttered under his breath.

"I wonder if I can get my dime back!"

THE nation's greatest group of football "experts" has spoken! We present to you on this page the All-American eleven of the thousands of students who cast their ballots in the first nation-wide poll to be conducted in the history of modern football to select a truly collegiate honor eleven. This team, composed of the greatest stars of the 1934 season, has been selected entirely by students now attending institutions of higher learning in the United States, who voted in the COLLEGIATE DIGEST All-American Poll.

From all sections of the country came repeated recognition of the greatness of the University of Minnesota Gophers—Big Ten champions—and the votes piled up for Francis "Pug" Lund and his teammates attest to the great popularity and acknowledged prowess of Bernie Bierman's proteges. Ballots from all sections of the country placed this great ball carrier as the man to captain the team from the fullback position. He was nominated as a part of the teams listed on the larger majority of the ballots, and he was mentioned as a candidate to play every position in the backfield of this great mythical eleven. Despite the fact that he has sustained two broken fingers, a broken thumb, sprained back and injured knee, Lund has never missed a game in three years. This 21-year-old, 183-pound Gopher played his last year with an average gain of 6.6 yards on running plays, kicked for an average of 38 yards from the line of scrimmage, and completed nearly half his passes. He scored 30 points in conference competition this past year.

If the college football fans' own eleven were to take to the field under the direction of Captain Lund, he would be assisted in the backfield by Duane Purvis, Purdue University's offensive and defensive star, Fred Borries, Jr., the Navy's ace ball carrier, and Robert H. "Bobby" Grayson, Stanford University's leading scorer (sixty points this season) and considered by many to be the "most dangerous ball carrier in America." The gridiron exploits of this famed trio would fill volume upon volume in any encyclopedia of football, and we can pay them no greater honor than to say that they are considered by their classmates throughout the nation to be the greatest to play their respective positions during the 1934 season.

As pivot-man for the COLLEGIATE DIGEST All-American aggregation, the thousands participating in the poll selected John J. "Jack" Robinson, Notre Dame University's fast-thinking center. A sure diagnostician of plays, Robinson was as effective at defensive play as he was accurate at passing the ball. On either side of Robinson we find George Barclay, of the University of North Carolina, and J. Regis Monahan, of Ohio State University, holding down the guard positions. Barclay, often referred to as the one-man football team, and Monahan, a great place kicker as well as defensive star, are two of the most versatile men in the country playing this position. Speed, great ability to discern opponents' plays, and ferocity in charging and blocking are the grid qualities possessed by Lawrence H. "Larry" Lutz, of the University of California, and William "Bill" Lee, of the University of Alabama, winners of the tackle positions. Both are exceptional performers, and have won high recognition for their ability to open holes for their backfield teammates. You will remember that Lutz played more football per season in the last two seasons than any other of the California gridders, and that Lee was one of the most inspiring captains to head a collegiate team this season.

The nation's collegians again turned to the championship Gopher eleven when they selected Frank "Butch" Larson to play an end position. As alternate captain of the Minnesota eleven, Larson was the inspiration behind the smothering Gopher defensive. Like Lund he says he is a pure Swede, is six feet three, and 22 years old. On the other flank of the COLLEGIATE DIGEST All-American team we find John S. Pennypacker, captain of the University of Pennsylvania gridmen: Pennypacker is a three-letter athlete, and one of the fastest ends on the 1934 gridiron.
