DRAMATICS CLASS TO PRESENT PLAY

On May 29th, the Dramatics Class will present "Prunella," a three-act play by Barker and Housman. The thought about which the threads of the story are woven is found in the sub-title—"Love in a Dutch Garden." It is a dainty, fanciful thing somewhat on the style of "The Yellow Jacket" of last year, and, like it, is interspersed with incidental music, dancing and singing.

Presenting this type of play calls for exceptional ability and for hard work. Already much has been done. All rights on the play have been secured from Winthrop Ames of the Little Theater, New York. It has been decided to procure the costumes from Tams in New York—where last year's costumes for "The Yellow Jacket" were ordered. The stage settings and electrical apparatus necessary for the careful interpretation of the play have been promised the class by the manager of Harmanus Bleeker Hall.

Everyone in the class has some part in the play. The leading roles will be taken by Myfawney Williams as Pierrot, Mary Grahn as Scaramel, Elizabeth Osborne as Prunella and Elizabeth Archbold as Love. Miss Archbold has a unique part in that she is a living statue and does not say one word throughout the entire play.

On May 29th, in the Albany High School auditorium, this play will be presented under Miss Fittner's direction. Students will be admitted on their blanket tax tickets. The admission charge for outsiders has not yet been decided upon.

JUNIOR REGISTRATION

All juniors should take note that the dates set aside for presenting their trial schedule sheets to Dean Horner are Monday and Tuesday, May 10 and May 11. Promptness is the only means of preventing unnecessary trouble for the students and the faculty. Please be on time.

The students of State College extend sympathy to Miss Janet Brass in the loss of her mother, Mrs. Richard W. Brass.

EXHIBITION BY PHYSICAL EDUCATION DEPARTMENT AT STATE ARMORY

On Saturday evening, May 1, at eight o'clock, the gymnasium exhibition was held in the State Armory. It was in charge of Miss Bennett, Miss Card and Coach Clarke and was a decided success. There was quite a large audience present. The first number consisted of marching tactics by the students of the sophomore and freshman classes. This was followed by advanced marching tactics and a wand drill by the students who are majoring or minor in physical education. The class in junior gymnasium work or the aesthetic dancing class, gave two very pretty dances, after which the men, under the direction of Coach Clarke, gave an exhibition of free arm exercises, marching tactics and apparatus work. The major and minor students also took part in the apparatus work. The next number on the program was a relay race between the sophomores and freshmen, won by the freshmen. The final number on the program was a dance called "Patriotism." All of the students took part in this, each wearing a flag on her right arm. The exhibition did credit to all of the instructors.

State College meets Worcester Tech Friday, May 7, at 4 p. m., in Ridgefield Park. This is the first home game of the season and promises to be close and exciting. There is room for everybody at Ridgefield, so everybody out!

STUDENT ASSEMBLY

At the beginning of assembly on April 31, cards were distributed to aid out the results of the recruiting for teachers during Easter vacation.

In reply to a request from Barnard College to take definite action against the Lusk bills now before the Senate of the State, Professors Walker and Hutchinson explained these bills. The un-Americanism of the bills was brought out. It was said that Lodge's idea of an American is to believe in America and therefore in Americans, and to provide conditions, where anti-Americanism will die out. The two ways universal in achieving this end are force and discussion or education. Although the latter method is slow and expensive, it settles forever. The expediency and legality of the bills were discussed. The laws as they have been formed establish a star chamber, which may at will imprison without trial. We no longer belong to the time of the Stuarts where such autocracy can rule.

A motion was made in the form of a resolution: Resolved, That the students of State College of Albany, New York, in Student Assembly, express their objection to the Lusk bills and petition the Governor not to pass the same.

Two Myvskania members for next year were elected by the student body.

Professor Douglas discussed the part-time classes which will be given as a course next year.

WHO WAS WHO IN NORMAL SCHOOL

Many State College students have chosen this their Alma Mater upon recommendation of members of their family who have at some time attended N. Y. S. C. T. It is desired to obtain some definite data on this subject, so will those with past connections assist? If any relative of yours, near or distant, has been a State College or Normal School student, file your name with Dean Pierce, telling your relationship, the time of his graduation and other interesting information. This material is wanted for the "Alumnae Quarterly" and therefore needed as soon as possible. Please help!

NEW YORK TRIP

It has been customary for the past few years for a group of students to spend a week-end in New York visiting the museums and the theater. Another such trip has been planned for May 14-17 by the Dramatic and Art Association. Miss Perine has been working hard upon an interesting program that will insure an enjoyable and worthwhile time. At present it is undecided whether the party will go down on the night boat, Friday May 14, or on the 2:25 train Friday afternoon. If the latter is the decision, the party will go to the theater to see one of the important plays of the season.

On Saturday morning from 10-12 o'clock, there will be a specially guided trip to the Metropolitan Museum. In the afternoon there will be a trip to the Brooklyn Museum. While there the students will be the guests of the curator of the museum, Dr. Cullin. Saturday evening plans are being made to attend the performance of either "Abraham Lincoln" or "Beyond the Horizon," two plays highly recommended by Mr. Clayton Hamilton.

A visit to the Cathedral of St. John the Divine is scheduled for Sunday morning. This is one of the most famous churches in the United States. Anyone who is a lover of art and music will appreciate the opportunity of visiting this place. After the service, a trip will be taken to Columbia College which is not very far away. Later in the afternoon another church, the Cathedral St. Thomas, will be attended for evensong.

Another museum trip will take place Monday at 10 o'clock to the Metropolitan Art Gallery, followed by luncheon at the Museum. In the afternoon, Dr. H. J. Spinden, curator of the Natural History Museum will conduct the party during their visit there.

The return trip to Albany will be made on the 8 o'clock train.

SENIOR CLASS NOTES

The seniors have definitely decided to give a memorial window for the class gift. It will be a companion window to the one on the western entrance to the auditorium. Lovisa Vedder, chairman of the gift committee, will present the gift to the college Moving-Up Day.

The senior ball will be held at the Vincenzian Institute on June 21.

Marion Beale has been appointed grand marshal for Moving-Up Day.

Marion Haskins has been elected historian for Class Day.

Plans for the senior breakfast are still pending.

In taking over the management of the "News" the new board of editors feels no little responsibility. We will have to work hard to keep up the fine standard which the former "News" board have set for us. In this work we ask your co-operation. The "News" is your publication—the organ of the student body—and we want student opinion of our ability. We will try to turn out a publication that will please you, our alumnae and our faculty and to be a credit to State College.

ADIEU ANTICIPATORY

With this issue of the "News" the new board takes charge under the supervision and help of the old board. First of all, we, of the 1919-20 board, wish the very best of success to the new members and hope they will really enjoy their work next year as much as we have. It will be work, hard sometimes, and the criticism won't always be constructive. Next year will be the fifth anniversary of the "News" and the spread of its use and popularity has been great for so short a space of time. We hope that the coming year will bring no diminution of this agreeable necessity and that the students and faculty will help these new members much and well in conducting our weekly publication. Many errors, some inevitable and some made through carelessness have been forgiven and we thank the leniency of the charitable. Please extend this good-will over next year and help win the success that the "News" requires and deserves.

The senior members of the board are beginning to realize the brevity of the remaining days allotted for pleasures of school life and bid everyone in college, especially the "jolly" juniors make the most of every day and week. Tempus fugit—fast!

HOOVER

If you should pass Herbert Hoover on the street you would not imagine that he is a distinguished man. He has none of the characteristics which commonly indicate that a man may be extraordinary. Yet Herbert Hoover is one of the most extraordinary men of the day.

Of all the able men who are being talked of as presidential candidates, Herbert Hoover is best fitted for such a candidacy. He has two outstanding characteristics that qualify him for the presidency. These are an innate capacity for organization and a non-partisan desire to serve all people.

All his life Hoover has been an organizer. His parents died when he was eight years old. At fourteen he was self-supporting. During his college career at Leland Stanford University, he was business manager of several clubs and treasurer of the student organization. Ever since his graduation he has been developing that managing ability. As mining engineer he worked up from a position of day laborer to one in which he operated mines in North America, Russia, Australia, South Africa, Korea, Burma and China. His success as United States Food Administrator followed by his control of the world food supply from Paris, has proved his executive genius.

We might fear Hoover's altruism if we did not know that he is a vigorous man of action. His ideal, and the ideal he has required of the men who worked under him during the war, is unselfish service.

He is not now seeking the presidency. If the people want him he is willing to do his best. Politicians fear him because he is a clear, independent thinker, who will do what he believes to be right. He is a man to whom persons appeal as personalities. For instance, he believes that "an organization is a body of men, and any organization that can be charted is badly runched."

His Americanism has been attacked. So far as mechanics go, he has had the proper residential qualifications. Concerning his attitude, he has seen foreign governments at work, and he believes that while our democracy is not perfect, it is more nearly perfect than any other form of government he knows.

It has been said that Hoover "has a capacity for keeping silent in several languages." Although he is not a talkative man, we know from past expressions not uttered for campaign purposes, his attitude on some of our reconstruction problems. He stands for anything that best safeguards the equality of opportunity of the most Americans.

He thinks that taxes are the heart of our economic problem. The present income tax is too heavy on small incomes and too light on big ones. By steeply scaling inheritance taxes in the higher levels we would reduce the public debt and help equalize the burden of taxation, and at the same time help to maintain equality of opportunity. He believes that although the excess profits tax was necessary in war time to bring about maximum production, now that there is no maximum selling price such a tax is indefensible.

He favors the stimulation of foreign trade, but calls attention to the serious farm problems and warns us that we must continue to be self-supporting in food production. Something must be done so as to make it possible for the farm to compete with the factory in the labor market. There must also come an economic change in the distribution of commodities so that both consumer and producer are treated fairly. Socially and politically, as well as economically, the farmers are the backbone of this country.

FACTS AND FIGURES

The two precedent issues of the "News" have told the students of the custom which is yearly practiced at State College with reference to the men who have earned their letters in basketball. They have further told you of the necessity of keeping up the custom—presenting each man who has earned the major pupil "5" with a white sweater. They have also emphasized the fact that the furtherance of athletics in this institution depends upon our attitude toward this timely question. Is the college to be indifferent to this pressing obligation?

We all know that the appropriation for basketball for 1919-20 has been expended. The obligation to the team cannot be met from that source. It has been suggested that an appropriation be made from any surplus money now available in the student fund. However, this suggestion does not seem necessary, at least, not at present. On careful examination of the reports of the Finance committees for the fiscal years 1917-18 and 1918-19 the following figures appear:

1917-1918
Appropriation for basketball	$1,200.00
Balance, fund 1916-17	1.23
	$1,201.23

RECEIPTS
Door	$430.21
Season tickets to faculty	33.50
Rebate, war tax Manhattan game	12.52
	476.23
Expenditures	$1,677.46
Balance	1,033.11
	$644.35

1918-1919
Appropriation for basketball	$1,200.00
Balance from 1917-18	644.35
Total	$1,844.35

RECEIPTS
Door	$436.98
Guarantees	90.70
Bond coupons	6.00
Training table	98.60
	632.28
	$2,476.63

EXPENDITURES
Basketball team	$1,195.08
Training table	236.00
War saving stamps	.97
*War relief fund	400.00
*Track and baseball	75.00
	1,907.05

Balance $569.58
*This amount was reappropriated from athletic fund.

If the above statistics are complete in their respective issues, there should have been a balance of $569.58 added to the basketball fund this year. Also, twelve hundred dollars has been appropriated annually in the two preceding years, while this year only ten hundred was set aside. Perhaps the reason for this difference was due to the knowledge of the existing balance which the above figures show. So far this money has been kept intact. This would be more than sufficient to purchase the necessary sweaters. This would also avoid the reappropriation of student funds. '21.

WANTED! A RECRUIT

Yes, by the way, what did you do with that little white slip of paper handed to you in assembly Friday? Were you able to honestly report results from recruiting during Easter vacation, or did you treat the matter as a sort of huge joke? Maybe you did neither of these two things. Perhaps you were just unsuccessful in getting recruits. Then what are you going to do with those slips?

We agree with you that it was rather hard to face a person a month ago and ask him to starve to death while he tried to impart knowledge to his neighbors' children. But now it is different. The people have actually shown that they intend to look out for the needs of the teachers. So, if you have not filled out that slip yet, go out now, whole-hearted, and get a recruit.

And while you are at it, don't forget to boost State College. Be sure and let everybody know about its high educational standards. Tell them about State's basketball records. Let them know that the Purple and Gold nine trimmed St. Stephens 20 to 2. Sometime between now and next fall be able to put at least the numeral 1 where it says, "Number of high school seniors entering State College." Then, if it is too late to file your record in the President's office, you can keep it for your own satisfaction.

HOME ECONOMICS

Alice Richmond, '20, has accepted a position in the Home Economics Department of the Mechanicville High School.

Miss Van Liew spoke to the High School girls in Glens Falls, Monday, May 3. Her subject was "Home Making and the Occupational Opportunities Open to Graduates of the New State-Aided Home Making School."

Marion Fleming, '15, who will receive her Master's Degree in June from Teachers' College, Columbia University, has accepted a position for summer session work in the University of Pittsburgh.

The Home Economics Department has an exhibit and display at the Troy High School, advertising the department. The exhibit includes requirements for entrance, courses of study, positions open to graduates of the department, and pictures of the laboratories.

VACUUM RESEARCH ROOM G-E LABORATORY

Using the X-Ray in the Home

Greater X-ray Service—through Research

FOR years after the discovery of X-rays it was evident that only intensive research could unfold their real possibilities.

Meanwhile, scientists of the General Electric Company developed the process of making wrought tungsten. This proved ideal as the target in X-ray tubes and its use for this purpose soon became universal.

Then further research resulted in the development of an X-ray tube of a radically new type—the Coolidge Tube—with both electrodes of wrought tungsten and containing the highest attainable vacuum.

But the complication of high-vacuum

Self-rectifying, Resistor-type Coolidge X-ray Tube

pumps made the new tube in large quantities impossible. The answer to this problem was the Langmuir Condensation Pump, utilizing mercury vapor in its operation and almost automatic.

To meet the need for simple X-ray apparatus during the war—the G-E Laboratory developed the Self-Rectifying Coolidge Tube, which made possible portable outfits at the front. The latest X-ray outfit of this type is so small it can be taken conveniently to the home or to the bedside in the hospital.

Thus the Research Laboratory of the General Electric Company continues to serve, that progress in things electrical may continue for the good of humanity.

HOOVER

He favors universal physical training through extending the work of such organizations as the Boy Scout movement. He does not favor military training under the supervision of army officers. Hoover, as well as General Wood and others of the candidates, stands for a budget system.

His attitude toward socialism is sociologically sound. He regards it as a European theory of despair caused by caste and economic wrong. Our social organization is entirely different from that of Europe, for we have a system of open classes which is the basis for equality of opportunity. We need not fear socialism. He has said: "My emphatic conclusion is that socialism as a philosophy of possible human application is bankrupt."

He favored the League of Nations, though his own conception of a league was far more simple than that of President Wilson.

Mr. Hoover has handled big jobs. We need a man of good common sense and fearlessness as the head of our nation for the next four years. We should be glad that Mr. Hoover will consider a nomination. He is not looking for personal honor; he does not care for party politics—he still wants to serve. His motto may well have been: "Live pure, speak true, right wrong, follow the king—Else, wherefore born?"

A friend of Hoover's has said: "Hoover has succeeded because he would never touch an enterprise that did not appeal to his imagination as a great constructive job. He has always wanted to do things in a new way, and he won't bother with anything else. And when he is set to solve such a problem, he invariably comes back with a plan that scores little men to death by its comprehensiveness and that delights big men by its imaginative appeal and its sound constructive vision." The United States has a great constructive job on its hands; it appeals to Mr. Hoover's imagination. Let us give him the chance to work!
