Dozens of cars towed away
Rising number of complaints prompt action

By Sandie Weitzman Assistant News Editor

There has been a marked increase in the number of automobiles being towed from special permit parking lots, according to Public Safety personnel. An average of 25 to 30 cars have been towed away each day for the past week.

According to Public Safety Officer Randy Fine, the increase was caused by a steadily rising number of complaints from faculty, staff, and students with special permits.

"Writing tickets for students has not been particularly effective," said John Henighan, assistant director for Public Safety.

Henighan said that in the past year, 50,000 tickets were written. "People were parked all over the place, on the grass, on the sidewalk," Henighan said.

Although Henighan admits that there is a parking problem, with 15,500 vehicles registered for 6,000 spaces, he said that there are always a few vehicles parked in spaces available. These spaces are located in the far ends of the student lots.

He also said that Public Safety had been receiving over 50 percent of special permit spaces filled by students without the permits.

Henighan said that "Parking is a particular problem during the academic week." However, cars will be towed at any time if they are blocking traffic, parked on the grass, in front of a hydrant, or in a handicapped parking space.

"There are certain people who have better or necessary reasons for a closer proximity (to campus)," Henighan said. "and those are the people who receive special permits." He said, however, that Public Safety does not decide who gets the permits.

Requests must either go through Student Health Services for a medical special permit or through Vice President John Hartigan for a regular special permit.

This past week, Public Safety initiated contracts with three area towing companies. Dott's Garage, on Central Avenue, Joe Osborne's Garage on Osborne Road, and Robert's Towing in Watervliet accepted the university's offer for business.

"Letters were sent to many area dealers before contracts were negotiated with these three firms," Henighan said.

When a car is towed, it will cost the owner $55 to get it back. If a dolly is necessary, $25 will be added to the charge.

If a car spends more than twenty-four hours at the towing site a $10 fine per day is imposed.

Students have been known to pay upwards of $100 because automobiles have been towed with students unawares, only to find days afterwards that their car had been towed.

Henighan said that Public Safety receives a $10 tow.

According to Fine, "This money goes into a State Income Fund Reimbursement (FIR) account. All monies from parking tickets also go into the FFR.

Henighan said towing is meant as a message or as a deterrent, not as a punishment. It is unrelated to the soon to be passed $5 increase in the price of parking tickets.

"If we have to save spaces somewhere," Henighan said, "why not start with the residents (on-campus) students who have little critical need to have a car on campus?"

He did, however, say that there were "certainly special circumstances," like employment, that would give some students reasons to be allowed to have a car.

"It would free up parking that is sorely needed," Henighan said. "You just can't keep putting down parking pavement."

Activity fee to be put to a vote this spring

By Ian Wargrech Editor

Students will be faced with an important vote this April as the student activity fee is placed on the ballot.

The activity fee of $10 is paid by every full-time student.

SUNY Central mandated that the activity fee be voted on every four years. The SUNYA Student Association places the referendum up to vote every two years.

Students cannot just look at SA and its effectiveness, said Shawn Thompson, Central Council Chair. He referred to the over 100 SA-funded groups which are included under the Student Association name.

SA will be gearing up in the next few weeks to mount a campaign to pass the referendum, according to SA officials.

If the activity fee is not passed by the student body, the fee would become voluntary.

"If it's voluntary, there would be some restructuring of SA," Thompson said. The current SA budget is over $1 million and is entirely funded by the student fee.

"I'm very confident it will pass," Thompson assured.

The vote will take place along with the elections for SA president, vice president and other positions, such as Central Council representatives, on Apr. 11 and 12.

Index

Aspects 12-13
Classified 10
Digest 6
Letters and Opinion 9-9
Sports 15-16
Podium Perspectives 4-4
The World

Palestinian killed

Jerusalem
(AP) An explosion killed a Palestinian in the occupied territories yesterday and Israeli troops critically wounded two Arab teenagers during a stone-throwing riot, the army said.

In Jerusalem, two left-wing members of Parliament said recent attacks by Israelis on Palestinians in the occupied West Bank are the work of a “very efficient and well armed” Jewish settler militia.

The army imposed a curfew on Kadita, a village in the West Bank after an unidentified man accidentally blew himself up in a blast that hurt two other villagers, a military spokesman said.

“A preliminary report indicates they found a suspicious object, played with it and it exploded,” said a military statement.

Mandela accused

Johannesburg
(AP) A lawyer for three black men said today his clients have told him Winnie Mandela was “involved in the events” when they and a friend were abducted from a church house and beaten by her unnatural bodyguards.

The statement by prominent anti-apartheid lawyer Geoff Budlender came one day after a newspaper reported that Mrs. Mandela, the wife of jailed African National Congress leader Nelson Mandela, took part in the beating.

One of the four, 14-year-old Stompie Sepoi, has been missing since Jan. 1 and is feared dead.

Mrs. Mandela, 54, has denied the accusations contained in the Sunday Star, a Johannesburg newspaper that opposes apartheid.

She has implied they were fabricated to hurt her husband.

Jewish center opened

Moscow
(AP) Soviet Jews celebrated a measure of religious freedom with the opening of the first Jewish community center in the Soviet Union in 50 years.

Soviet Jewish and Jewish leaders from 70 nations filled the building in downtown Moscow on Sunday for the opening.

Elie Wiesel, an author and winner of the 1986 Nobel Peace Prize, said the reforms of President Mikhail S. Gorbachev made the center possible.

“Today is a day to say ‘thank you,’” Wiesel said. “I think he deserves our trust.”

North trial on hold

Washington
(AP) The judge in Oliver North’s Iran-Contra trial today sent the jury home and scheduled a hearing for today on a proposed agreement for additional national security safeguards that could allow the case to go forward.

U.S. District Judge Gerhard A. Gesell indicated he is in no hurry to rush to trial, referring to the administrative stay issued at the Justice Department’s request Sunday by Chief Justice William Rehnquist.

The full Supreme Court on Friday is to consider the Justice Department’s request to delay the trial.

“You're still juries in this case, of course,” Gesell told the panel. “You will be advised as soon as the court knows whether the case is allowed to go forward or not. I regret the inconvenience this will cause you.”

Warnings ignored

Menlo Park, Calif.
(AP) Weeks before Colombia’s Nevado del Ruiz volcano erupted, melting glaciers buried the town of Armero and killed an estimated 25,000 people, geologists drafted a map showing exactly where the mud would flow.

The 17,000-foot volcano started spewing ash Sept. 11, 1985. Scientists gave the map to officials Oct. 7 and urged them to start emergency preparations. A newspaper published the map a couple days later. But survivors of the deadly Nov. 13 eruption complained they weren’t warned.

“There were no evacuations ordered as a result of the map,” which also may not have been understood by residents who saw it, said U.S. Geological Survey volcanologist Robert Tilling. “That shouldn’t have happened. The whole emergency response network failed and, as a result, thousands died.”

Time and again geologists have warned of impending disasters or urged that steps be taken to reduce the death toll in future catastrophes. Many of these efforts have been ignored because of politics, economic concerns, uncertainty in their predictions, communications failures and the very human tendency to avoid unpleasant realities.

Abortion debate

Manhattan
(AP) An abortion on a comatose woman has not ended the legal debate that began when her husband sought court permission to arrange the operation he hopes will help her wife’s recovery.

The abortion was performed Saturday on 32-year-old Nancy Klein after U.S. Supreme Court Justice Thurgood Marshall refused to issue a stay sought by anti-abortion activists.

Emotions ran high on both sides throughout the more than two-week debate.

“It’s been a major battle. I am tired and wounded. I want to go on with my life,” said Martin Klein of New York’s Long Island after the abortion at North Shore University Hospital that ended his wife’s 18-week pregnancy.

He began court proceedings Jan. 26 to become his wife’s guardian so he could order an abortion, which doctors said offered Mrs. Klein the best hope of recovery from severe brain damage suffered in a Dec. 13 car accident.

PREVIEW OF EVENTS

Free listings

TUESDAY FEB. 21
Class of 1991 meets weekly in the SA Lounge at 8:45pm New members are welcome.

Hebrew class, all levels, meets weekly in CC320 at 7:30pm.

GALA Support Group meets in CC375 at 8:30pm Philosophy Club (Zetelitka) meets weekly in HU354 at 7:30pm. Meetings will include feature speakers, films, discussion, trips to communities, etc.

Peace Project general meetings CC370 7:00pm Basketball Blowout at the Albany State vs. Ithaca game, sponsored by Tau Epsilon Phi and Alpha Phi will take place at 8:00 pm in the University Union at 8:00pm Happy Hour at the Flat from 7:00 to 8:00 pm. Free hats, banner contest.

The Young Democrats meet every week at 8:00 pm in CC 370.

WEDNESDAY FEB. 22
B.A.S.I.C. (Brothers And Sisters in Christ) Weekly meetings in CCB61 at 7:30pm

NEWSPR (New York Public Interest Research Group) Interest meeting at 7:30 p.m. in J1 111.

The Feminist Alliance meets every week at 8:45 pm in CC 845.

The Philosophy Forum wants you to find out why Albany Philosophy Professors chose to make a career out of Philosophy. Refreshments and cash bar are welcome.

The Academic Affairs Committee meets every week at 6:00 pm in the SA Lounge. Legislative Branch meets every week at 7:30 in CC 375.

RZA meets weekly at 7:15pm in CC 373.

 juxtaposition in 1948, represents a significant change in relations between the government and the country's 1.8 million Jews.

Thursday Feb. 23
Amnesty Intl. weekly meetings at 7:30pm. "A lot of freshmen don't really know where to turn to. These kids are totally powerless and innocent to the way things work around here."

— Sung Bok Kim, Dean of Undergraduate Affairs

See page four

Michael Ackermann UPS

...This early morning muncher is just a little too excited over his cheerios (mmmMmUaS).

RZA meets weekly at 7:15pm in CC 373.

Submit Previews to CC 329
Condom machines go unused
Sales reported low at 32 campus locations

By Stephanie Orenge

Although vending machines on the SUNYA campus make condoms available, students are not using the machines at a high rate, SUNYA officials said.

The first two condom machines were installed in the mens and womens bathrooms at the Health Center about a year and a half ago. Now there are three locations on each quad, with the exception of Freedom Quad, totalling 32 machines, said Paul Arnold, University Auxiliary Service director of vending services.

Bathrooms with machines on the upstairs quads are in the lower basements, near the flag or skin rooms, and in the basements of the halls to either side of the archways. On Alumni Quad, they are on the first floors of Alden, Brubacher and Waterbury halls.

The machines, pink for women, white for men, sell, for 50 cents, a choice of non-lubricated condoms, on request, to prevent the spread of AIDS and other sexually transmitted diseases (STD's).

According to Neil Brown, associate vice president for the Department of Health and Counseling at the University Health Center, the condom vending machine program was prompted by increased public awareness of condom's usefulness as birth control and prevention of disease transmission. Also, he said, the national trend in colleges and universities to implement condom selling programs and to provide more literature on AIDS and STD's. Such written information is obtainable at the Health Center.

Students can buy condoms at the Health Center pharmacy or in the bookstore. The decision to put the machines in bathrooms and not in more public areas was made "thoughtfully," with students' privacy in mind, Brown said.

Arnold blames a lack of education for low sales and said that sales were "been about even" between women and men.

The Department of Health and Counseling gives workshops, such as those which occurred during Sexuality Week, on AIDS and STD's, through Middle Earth counseling center. Brown called the workshops "a marketing strategy to build awareness." He said that a study on whether student awareness has increased is possible later in the semester.

SA to fund Latin newspaper

"I would caution the result of this decision could be detrimental to the emergency spending line. I caution you (on) what kind of impact this vote could have next week at the Central Council meeting."

—James Lamb, SA President

State Quad elected Shibly Mott to Council with 22 votes. Connor won 29 votes for SASU delegate. Mitchell Posner was narrowly defeated for the State Quad Council seat, receiving 20 votes. Andrew Grisafi won three votes, and Eric Randsen won two, for the SASU position.

The bill would give the Internal Affairs Committee power of "investigation and enforcement of SA policy."

Connor also allocated funds to four sports groups under the post season contingency fund, which allows groups money when they make playoffs or post-season play.
Podium Perspectives

Do you think seniors should not be allowed to preregister for 100 level courses?

Courses reserved for freshmen

By Paul Domenico

Senior students will not be allowed to pre-register for 100 level courses next semester so that other underclassmen will have an easier time in registration.

However, seniors will be allowed to add 100 level classes during the course adjustment and late registration periods.

Sung Bok Kim, dean of Undergraduate Affairs, said that this plan is designed to assist freshmen and sophomores who are often closed out of classes because they have the last opportunities to register.

Kim said that 100 level classes are specifically designed for freshmen so he feels that they should have the first shots at them.

He said that the problem lies in the fact that after they are locked out of the lower level courses, freshmen cannot get anything else because of the prerequisites required for most upper level classes.

"A lot of freshmen don't really know where to turn to," Kim said. "These kids are totally powerless and innocent to the way things work around here."

"The university is now protecting freshmen," said Jeff Flynn, the Student Association director for Educational Affairs. "They're trying to balance it out so that freshmen can get a better liberal arts education."

Kim said that freshmen can usually manage to get the number of classes they desire but do not have much to choose from and therefore are often unhappy with their schedules.

He said that a major incentive of the plan is to keep freshmen and sophomores happy so that their performance levels will rise. Kim said he feels that if the first-year students are happy then the University will continue to have a solid high school recruitment process.

According to Flynn, the plan was initiated not only to please the freshmen but also because of juniors and seniors complaints that they have difficulty obtaining upper level classes reserved for freshmen.

"It's not going to make much difference because professors give seniors the first closed section cards anyway."

— Howie Wolpoff, Sophomore

"No, I believe seniors should be able to preregister for any classes they choose to, because it's their last year in the university, they deserve a break."

— Susan Im, Junior

"I think they should not, because freshmen are pushed into beginning level classes they might have no interest in taking."

— Robert Strell, Senior

"Seniors should be allowed to only if it fills a general education requirement."

— Jennings Aske, Sophomore

"I think seniors can do whatever the hell they want."

— Michael Governanti, Senior

Hey You Hipsters!

FREE

Installation of any Car Stereo Player Purchased this month at HIPPO’S $30.00 Value

WE RENT MOVIES * VCR’S * CAMCORDER’S

HIPPO’S HOME ENTERTAINMENT CENTER
STUYVESANT PLAZA...WE’RE SO CLOSE

daily 10am-9pm Sun Noon-5pm
482-1864

VISA • MC • AMEX • DISCOVER • CHECKS

He’s a man of peace in a savage land...

Suburbia.

The

BURBS

A comedy about one nice guy who got pushed too far.

OPEN FRIDAY AT A THEATRE NEAR YOU.

IMAGINE ENTERTAINMENT • ROLLING-MORRIS-BRENNER-NATIONAL

THE ‘BURBS’ BRUCE BEINEN, CARREY, PEA, RICK DUCOMMUN, COREY FELDMAN, DANA OLSEN, JERRY GOLDSMITH, LARRY BRENNER, MICHAEL FINNELL

OPENS FRIDAY AT A THEATRE NEAR YOU.
Speaker says Roe vs. Wade may be reversed

By Colleen Deslaurier

 hoping to further educate students about the Pro-Choice movement, two representatives from the National Organization for Women in Albany recently addressed the SUNYA Young Democrats.

Laurie Nichols, one of the representatives, discussed the Webster vs. the Reproductive Health Services case in Missouri which is currently in the courts. According to Nichols, this case threatens to impose a number of restrictions on abortion and violates the Roe vs. Wade decision.

Nichols said, a petition supporting pro-choice has started to be distributed nationwide. The petition is expected to be signed by one million people by the time it is sent to the Supreme Court. "One million voices-Silent No More," the name of the petition, is designed to show the Courts how many people are in support of abortion and violates the Roe vs. Wade decision.

As a result of "George Bush's anti-abortion administration," Nichols said new restrictions on the Pro-Choice movement, such as the prohibition of public funds for abortions and the prohibition of public employees to assist in abortions have been implemented.

New York is not as threatened as most states as to make abortion illegal, according to Nichols, because New York was one of the first states that legalized abortion.

"The state is the last line of defense that we have," Nichols said, adding that in Arkansas, if Roe vs. Wade is overturned, the state will make abortion illegal permanently.

The Young Democrats were told that there are many things they can do to assist the Pro-Choice movement. Planned Parenthood needs escorts to assist their clients into the building, especially if there are anti-abortion demonstrators blocking the entrance, Nichols said.

A Pro-Choice Lobby Day will also be held on March 14 in the Legislative lobby at 11 a.m.

Media's view of women examined

By J. Jelte

Wednesday evening, with over 100 slides, Jean Kilbourne, sexuality week keynote speaker examined the "detrimental impact" of media images on society in her presentation of advertising image of women.

Kilbourne began by asking the audience to take advertising and its effects seriously. She pointed out that people see thousands of ads a year, and said that in a lifetime, a person will have spent one and one-half years watching television commercials. According to Kilbourne children spend one-third of their waking hours watching television.

Kilbourne said, a petition supporting pro-choice has started to be distributed nationwide. The petition is expected to be signed by one million people by the time it is sent to the Supreme Court. "One million voices-Silent No More," the name of the petition, is designed to show the Courts how many people are in support of pro-choice.

As a result of "George Bush's anti-abortion administration," Nichols said new restrictions on the Pro-Choice movement, such as the prohibition of public funds for abortions and the prohibition of public employees to assist in abortions have been implemented.

New York is not as threatened as most states are as to make abortion illegal, according to Nichols, because New York was one of the first states that legalized abortion.

"The state is the last line of defense that we have," Nichols said, adding that in Arkansas, if Roe vs. Wade is overturned, the state will make abortion illegal permanently.

The Young Democrats were told that there are many things they can do to assist the Pro-Choice movement. Planned Parenthood needs escorts to assist their clients into the building, especially if there are anti-abortion demonstrators blocking the entrance, Nichols said.

A Pro-Choice Lobby Day will also be held on March 14 in the legislative lobby at 11 a.m.

Jean Kilbourne spoke Wednesday as part of Sexuality Week.
Events are planned to rally support for Great Danes

By Morgan Lyle
ASSOCIATE NEWS EDITOR

Hoping to arouse support for athletics and "show what a home court advantage is all about," Greeks at SUNYA have planned festivities for the basketball team's final home game of the season.

Tau Epsilon Phi and Alpha Phi, with the cooperation of the SUNY Panhellenic and the Interfraternity Council (IFC), are sponsoring a happy hour at the Rathskeller on Tuesday, February 21, the day of the Dane's game against Ithaca, according to Adam Bell, vice president of the fraternity.

"The team has been showing us that they're great all year. Why not let the school prove to them that we're behind them?"
— Adam Bell, Tau Epsilon Phi Vice President

At half-time during the game, a half-court contest will be held, with the winner receiving a dinner for two at the Cranberry Bog restaurant on Wolf Road, and the Dane's logo, Bell said.

Sports, to get the enthusiasm back into the school," Bell said. "The team has been showing us that they're great all year. Why not let the school prove to them that we're behind them?"

He said he wants to bring an enthusiastic crowd to the gym to "show what a home team is all about."

WGUB-TV will be on hand to film the half-court shot, Bell said.

Athletic director William Moore said he has seen similar promotions enjoy success at Duanes road games, and has high hopes for Tuesday's events.

"I think it's certainly a tremendous boost to us to have this in our final," Moore said. "I'm sure it will be a lift for the seniors (on the team)."

Moore said the difficult in raising attendance at Danes games is not sports apathy among students, but competition for their attention. He cited last Monday's game with a Georgetown-Syracuse match on television.

"I think it's certainly a tremendous boost to us to have this in our final," Moore said.

The Cranberry Bog is donating the shot contest winner's dinner, and Keis Distributors, which is selling the beer for the happy hour at the Rathskeller, is donating the hats, Bell said.

The happy hour will be Tuesday from 7 p.m. to 8 p.m.

News tips? Call our 24-hour hotline 442-5660

SUMMER JOBS

- LIVE AND WORK ON CAMPUS
- HELP NEW STUDENTS to get a smooth start
- EARN VALUABLE SKILLS as you earn money
- be part of our TEAM
- MAKE FRIENDS

*Where? ORIENTATION OFFICE
*Who? Undergrads who will attend Albany in the fall
*When? Approximately June 1-August 10
*Salary? $1,000 plus room and board (1988 rates)
*Qualifications and descriptions? See Application.
*Available in CC 110
*Deadline: Tuesday, February 28, 1989
*Interest meeting: Wednesday, February 15 at 7:00 p.m. in LC 1
Advertising’s portrayal of women seen as detrimental women when they do not fit the mold of this ideal beauty (young, slim, perfect) coerce women into buying more products. According to Kilbourne, $1 million per hour are spent on cosmetics.

Women purchase so many cosmetics, Kilbourne said, because women in their natural state are seen as ugly. The message advertisements send to women is that the only way for them to be attractive is by purchasing and using unnatural cosmetics and beauty aids, she said.

The pressure to be ultra-thin is enhanced by thin models and countless diet advertisements. Kilbourne suggested a relationship between these ads and the number of women with eating disorders, which she said is one in five on college campuses. The desire to be thin is also important to fourth grade girls, of whom Kilbourne said 80 percent have been or are presently on a diet. Kilbourne’s presentation also included slides of young girls being used in provocative advertisements. She said these ads create the impression that children are “sexy and seductive.” Kilbourne added that 25 percent of all rape victims are under 18, and that child pornography is on the rise.

Violence is also a component to some advertising, according to Kilbourne. The Guess jeans campaign, MTV, and the motion picture industry were mentioned as especially violent. Kilbourne stressed that advertisements do not directly cause violence, but serve to “normalize” it and make it acceptable. In closing her presentation, Kilbourne said she likes to look to positive images and more non-traditional advertisements. A question and answer period followed the slide presentation.

Kilbourne suggested the audience read her “Resources for Change” handout, which was not available at the lecture but can be obtained at Middle Earth.

Involvement in local communities to change attitudes on media impact was strongly recommended by Kilbourne. She also urged that people look at ads more critically and voice their displeasure at those ads which offend them.

The lecture was co-sponsored by Speaker’s Forum, the President’s Task Force on Women’s Safety, the Department of Residential Life and Inter-Fraternity Council.

Applications now being accepted for the
CRIMINAL JUSTICE
UNDERGRADUATE PROGRAM
at DR208 or ULB85

Application deadline is
March 1, 1989

HAIRCUTS
$10
Includes shampoo, conditioner and style with Featured stylist

PRE-LAW ASSOCIATION PRESENTS:
JEREMY FEEDORE
OF THE NEW YORK BAR ASSOCIATION

TOPIC TO BE DISCUSSED:
CAREER OPTIONS IN LAW

DATE: FEBRUARY 21, 1989
7:30 PM

ASSEMBLY HALL
Campus Center

For Pre-Law Members and Anyone w/ wants to become a member

Refreshments will be served

SUBJECTS NEEDED TO PARTICIPATE IN CLINICAL RESEARCH

REQUIREMENTS:
• HEALTHY MALE
• BETWEEN AGES 18-55
• ABLE TO SPEND SOME TIME AT OUR NEW RESEARCH FACILITY LOCATED AT THE ALBANY MEDICAL CENTER

EARN EXTRA INCOME
FOR MORE INFORMATION PLEASE CALL

Monday - Friday
8am - 4pm
(518) 445-8676

HAIR Image
1210 Western Ave.
One door up from Sutters
Right across from SUNYA entrance

PLEASE CALL FOR APPOINTMENT
438 - 7294

Offer good thru April 30 with this ad

SUNDAY SPECIAL
BUY THREE GET ONE FREE!

No Coupon Necessary-Limit Two Offers
Not good with any other offer, expires 4/6/89

TOPIC TO BE DISCUSSED:
CAREER OPTIONS IN LAW

DATE: FEBRUARY 21, 1989
7:30 PM

ASSEMBLY HALL
Campus Center

For Pre-Law Members and Anyone w/ wants to become a member

Refreshments will be served

SUBJECTS NEEDED TO PARTICIPATE IN CLINICAL RESEARCH

REQUIREMENTS:
• HEALTHY MALE
• BETWEEN AGES 18-55
• ABLE TO SPEND SOME TIME AT OUR NEW RESEARCH FACILITY LOCATED AT THE ALBANY MEDICAL CENTER

EARN EXTRA INCOME
FOR MORE INFORMATION PLEASE CALL

Monday - Friday
8am - 4pm
(518) 445-8676

HAIR Image
1210 Western Ave.
One door up from Sutters
Right across from SUNYA entrance

PLEASE CALL FOR APPOINTMENT
438 - 7294

Offer good thru April 30 with this ad

SUNDAY SPECIAL
BUY THREE GET ONE FREE!

No Coupon Necessary-Limit Two Offers
Not good with any other offer, expires 4/6/89
Dane Support

"The lecture centers were empty, the textbooks were stashed away in a desk drawer, and the professors had all gone home, but class was just starting for 2,800 Albany State basketball spectators last Saturday night at University Gym."

Mike MacAdam
Associate Sports Editor, ASP
February, 1986

A similar scene will be played this weekend, as the LC's are emptied, the books are stashed, and the professors go home. The difference is that this weekend the school won't be cleared out by a game everyone's just gone home. The game will still go on, of course, but many students will miss the event of the year as SUNYA—the annual Albany State vs. Potsdam basketball game.

This is a game very rich in tradition. The rivalry between the often nationally-ranked Bears and the Danes is always intense. The game at University Gym is always packed to capacity with screaming fans. It is hard enough for an underdog team to convince the public that there is any chance for victory, but when the game is played at home, the underdog's crowd is actually fooled into believing that this is the way it always is. School spirit never reaches the feverish pitch it reaches when these two teams meet in Albany.

Unfortunately, this year someone scheduled the games on President's Weekend, for many, the first break of the year—a chance to go home and unwind. The school clears out as early as Thursday, and although a few students stay for the weekend, most of the campus is cleared out.

What a wonderful time to schedule The Game. With most of the prime audience gone, no one can really predict what kind of fan turnout there will be at the game Saturday. Hopefully, a huge crowd of Albany students will be around to nullify the cheers of the travelling Bears fans. It'd be a shame if the Albany turnout was low, and was overshadowed by a Potsdam turnout.

It is hard enough for an underdog team to win (Albany is 10-7, is a definite underdog to the 19-2 Bears), but it's even harder if they have little, or no, fan support. If the team can count on fan support for sheer strength, and the fans aren't there because of bad scheduling, then the team has another handicap to overcome.

Looking at the schedule for the next few years doesn't offer much promise. Albany and Potsdam will only meet each other once a season at alternating sites. That means the Bears won't return to University Gym until 1991. A lot of students might never get to experience the thrill of that big game—the game that really changes this school. Much more care should have been taken to ensure that as many people as possible could go to the game—this weekend, as well as in the coming years. This is a game that shouldn't be missed, and this ridiculous scheduling only makes it hard to be there. Whoever is responsible for scheduling should really come up with a better system.

Those students that are in Albany this weekend should take advantage and go to the game. With a win, the future would look brighter for the Danes, and fan support at this game, and every other game, would help. It would definitely be encouraging if there was a tremendous turnout, but regardless of the date of the game. Even so, those in charge have to be more intelligent when scheduling a game this important. Wherever the site and the crowd, we hope that the Danes can upset the Bears at Saturday's game. A victory would mean a definite and much needed boost to Albany's athletic program, as well as Albany's spirit.

Who's Not On Our Side?

This afternoon, I went downtown to the Capitol building to yell with the other students about a proposed $47 million in budget cuts to the SUNY system, which I'm sure everyone agrees would be horrible and nasty. I thought our goal was to make the legislators of our great state aware of the feelings students have about paying more money for less quality, which is the situation everyone seems to think we'll face should the cuts go through.

Bill Braine

Anyway, I went downtown with a friend of mine. We got caught up in the herd wandering through the Capitol shouting, "Mario!" and "You work for us!" We got real red in the face and all excited, and we really felt like we were Doing Something. Boy, we all thought, what a rush.

Then we heard something about finding the delegation from your school and going with them to the appointment they had set up with a particular legislator. Having no idea if SUNYA even had a delegation, much less where to find it, my friend suggested that we follow a bunch of people from New Paltz to the office of Senator —— (Dem.). We did. Boy, we thought, now we're Really Doing Something. The Senator came in with a peculiar odor on his breath (that my friend later assured me had to be mouthwash), and was taken by surprise to see a bunch of kids hanging out in his office. He shot a look at his secretary, who told him of our mission. Suddenly, he was On Our Side.

"Oh yeah," he told us, "I have a daughter at Albany. I know what it's like. We're going to fight this all the way."

Wow, we thought, we're Getting Something Done. Some crazy youth from New Paltz spoke up. "Who's Not On Our Side?" he asked.

"Well, I'll tell you. Them Republicans are gonna fight you tooth and nail on this one." Then he gave the heads of the New Paltz delegation the room number of the State Senate's Education Committee chairman. We followed them up, but on the way, we noticed the office of Senator —— (Rep.). Being from his constituency gave us an edge, no idea if SUNYA even had a delegation, much less where to find it, my friend suggested that we follow a bunch of people from New Paltz to the office of Senator —— (Dem.). We did. Boy, we thought, now we're Really Doing Something. The Senator came in with a peculiar odor on his breath (that my friend later assured me had to be mouthwash), and was taken by surprise to see a bunch of kids hanging out in his office. He shot a look at his secretary, who told him of our mission. Suddenly, he was On Our Side.

"Oh yeah," he told us, "I have a daughter at Albany. I know what it's like. We're going to fight this all the way."

Wow, we thought, we're Getting Something Done. Some crazy youth from New Paltz spoke up. "Who's Not On Our Side?" he asked.

"Well, I'll tell you. Them Republicans are gonna fight you tooth and nail on this one." Then he gave the heads of the New Paltz delegation the room number of the State Senate's Education Committee chairman. We followed them up, but on the way, we noticed the office of Senator —— (Dem.). We did. Boy, we thought, now we're Really Doing Something. The Senator came in with a peculiar odor on his breath (that my friend later assured me had to be mouthwash), and was taken by surprise to see a bunch of kids hanging out in his office. He shot a look at his secretary, who told him of our mission. Suddenly, he was On Our Side.

"Oh yeah," he told us, "I have a daughter at Albany. I know what it's like. We're going to fight this all the way."

Anyway, I went downtown with a friend of mine. We got caught up in the herd wandering through the Capitol shouting, "Mario!" and "You work for us!" We got real red in the face and all excited, and we really felt like we were Doing Something. Boy, we all thought, what a rush.

Then we heard something about finding the delegation from your school and going with them to the appointment they had set up with a particular legislator. Having no idea if SUNYA even had a delegation, much less where to find it, my friend suggested that we follow a bunch of people from New Paltz to the office of Senator —— (Dem.). We did. Boy, we thought, now we're Really Doing Something. The Senator came in with a peculiar odor on his breath (that my friend later assured me had to be mouthwash), and was taken by surprise to see a bunch of kids hanging out in his office. He shot a look at his secretary, who told him of our mission. Suddenly, he was On Our Side.

"Oh yeah," he told us, "I have a daughter at Albany. I know what it's like. We're going to fight this all the way."

Anyway, I went downtown with a friend of mine. We got caught up in the herd wandering through the Capitol shouting, "Mario!" and "You work for us!" We got real red in the face and all excited, and we really felt like we were Doing Something. Boy, we all thought, what a rush.

Then we heard something about finding the delegation from your school and going with them to the appointment they had set up with a particular legislator. Having no idea if SUNYA even had a delegation, much less where to find it, my friend suggested that we follow a bunch of people from New Paltz to the office of Senator —— (Dem.). We did. Boy, we thought, now we're Really Doing Something. The Senator came in with a peculiar odor on his breath (that my friend later assured me had to be mouthwash), and was taken by surprise to see a bunch of kids hanging out in his office. He shot a look at his secretary, who told him of our mission. Suddenly, he was On Our Side.

"Oh yeah," he told us, "I have a daughter at Albany. I know what it's like. We're going to fight this all the way."

Anyway, I went downtown with a friend of mine. We got caught up in the herd wandering through the Capitol shouting, "Mario!" and "You work for us!" We got real red in the face and all excited, and we really felt like we were Doing Something. Boy, we all thought, what a rush.

Then we heard something about finding the delegation from your school and going with them to the appointment they had set up with a particular legislator. Having no idea if SUNYA even had a delegation, much less where to find it, my friend suggested that we follow a bunch of people from New Paltz to the office of Senator —— (Dem.). We did. Boy, we thought, now we're Really Doing Something. The Senator came in with a peculiar odor on his breath (that my friend later assured me had to be mouthwash), and was taken by surprise to see a bunch of kids hanging out in his office. He shot a look at his secretary, who told him of our mission. Suddenly, he was On Our Side.
Peace Advocates

To the Editor:
I was very disappointed to see myself misquoted in T.E. Kane's article concerning Meir Kahane's visit to the SUNY campus ("JDl Founder's Visit Draws Protest Downtown," the ASP, February 14th).

JSCARE, Jewish Students Committed Against Racism (and Expansionism), does not consider itself to be "between the people who support Zionism and those who condemn it," as was falsely stated in the article. Rather, we are Zionists and supporters of the State of Israel who advocate a two-state solution in the land of Israel-Palestine. We condemn the radical fundamentalist views propagated by Meir Kahane as racist, as well as detrimental to the State of Israel and to those involved.

I was very disappointed to see myself misquoted in the article. I would like to make it clear that I am a Peace Advocate and supporter of the State of Israel who believe in a two-state solution. I do not support the views of Meir Kahane or any other radical fundamentalist group.

-Jill Areanowitz
JSCARE

An Ideal Solution

To the Editor:
One of the basic principles on which this blessed country was founded is an unfailing faith in our leaders. It is this enduring trust which serves as the lubrication which keeps the pistons of our God-given country pumping away under the most trying conditions.

As SUNYA is a microcosm of America as a whole, it makes my heart well up with pride to know that the students are responsible and well-paid, but rather analytically-entrenched administration are constantly looking out for our oh-so-easily-damaged sense of collective moral violation. I am talking, of course, of the recent, rather assinine decision to remove the toilet stall doors in several strategically located restrooms, lest our respective university degenerate into a veritable hotbed of obscenity and other sexual deviances.

I have been going to this institution for this three and a half years, and never have I been at a lack of a place to squat while I had to wait for two homosexuals to finish their copulating. This has never happened to anyone I know. Never have I had my excretry serenity shattered, by toilet stall doors, in proximity to the next stall over. All this "solution," does it make the situation noticeable, because now we all will have no choice but to watch what we previously would never have even noticed. Maybe this problem does actually exist to some minute extent, but let's face it, most of us really don't mind the bathroom graffiti left by homosexuals seeking encounters. In fact, it provides them with much more amusing reading than whatever issues of the ASP happen to abound on the rest-room floor.

I am writing this letter to call the administration's attention to this rather heinous crime against all we hold sacred, for it is in such hands that the solution to their problem lies. I am asking these perpetrators, on behalf of all of SUNYA's student body who are being deprived of their privacy, to kindly move their activities to the administration building and bathrooms. This will solve all our problems, because the administration building is probably the only building on campus where the stall doors will be, under no circumstances, disappear. We will be happy because our doors may be returned. You will be happy because you will have a private place for your encounters, and the administration who are offended by your lifestyle will be forced to show some intestinal fortitude and get the extra, annoying, and scientifically hard to do away with, toilet stall doors up next whenever nature calls. It will probably do them good. This will have the added advantage of providing more contact between the administration and the students. . .

Jeff Leon

Not Entertainment

To the Editor:
I will state clearly and emphatically that students on this campus who find sexism and racism a form of entertainment need to examine their intellect and humanity. No, I will not "please understand" why Dr. Dirty is "fun" - in fact, I am extremely angry. If Sigma Alpha Mu fraternity wants to line their pockets raping revenue from other human beings' suffering, then their behavior is entirely unjustifiable and inexcusable.

SUNY Albany is an institution advocating administration and enlightenment, not stupidity. How can we begin to try to make this campus (and society!) better for all when students here patronize events that illicit laughs from hate and contempt for others? I don't condone this. Nor should anyone else.

-Marie Marrone
SA Feminist Issues Co-Coordinator

Where to Park

To the Editor:
I am writing this letter in response to the article that appeared on the front page of the February 7th issue of the ASP regarding the parking problem at SUNY.

John Hartigan, who is in charge of the Department of Public Safety, Police and Traffic control, claims that there are enough parking spaces on campus. He seems to have come to this conclusion through a survey he conducted "on the hour, every hour for a full week." Well, Mr. Hartigan, you're dead wrong! Did your so-called survey happen to abound on the restroom floor. Where to Park never have I had my excretry serenity shattered by toilet stall doors that the solution to the problem lies. I am asking these perpetrators, on behalf of all of SUNYA's student body who are being deprived of their privacy, to kindly move their activities to the administration building and bathrooms. This will solve all our problems, because the administration building is probably the only building on campus where the stall doors will be, under no circumstances, disappear. We will be happy because our doors may be returned. You will be happy because you will have a private place for your encounters, and the administration who are offended by your lifestyle will be forced to show some intestinal fortitude and get the extra, annoying, and scientifically hard to do away with, toilet stall doors up next whenever nature calls. It will probably do them good. This will have the added advantage of providing more contact between the administration and the students. . .

Jeff Leon

Sex Illustrated?

To the Editor:
In response to February 10th's "Notes of Aspiration" article by Aspects Editor Stef McDonald, we just have a few things to say on behalf of most male athletes in America. Sex is a sport; not just by literal translations, but maybe it's time to redefine the word. It makes you sweat. It burns calories. It can be competitive, and there in some sections of the population, it can involve two opposing sides. Fine. That's enough for me. So Sports Illustrated becomes "Sex Illustrated" one week of the year. Does it really matter?

Maybe the thing that bothers you the most is that a pot-bellied, beer-drinking hard-on... and proud of it, I may add. A grim reality, but it is, in fact, a reality. If you've ever been in a bar, stop by, the walls of my bedroom will be a clear example of the typical male athlete. One side of the room has posters of AI Toon and Lawrence Taylor, and the other wall consists of posters of Paulina Porizkova and Elle MacPherson, to name a few. There are also a few mirrors with alcoholic beverage advertisements.

But that's not the issue. The real issue is that every year, some liberal, ignorant person with this glorious right to inform the population tears apart this beautiful annual edition, and in most cases, he or she isn't even an athlete or attracted to athletics him or herself. Let me ask you something: have you ever heard of Al Toon or Lawrence Taylor? What it all comes down to is, if you don't like it, don't buy it. Sports Illustrated is done fine without you, I can assure you of that.

—Joseph J. Romanchik
—Andrew P. See
—James J. Romanchik
—Michael J. Romanchik

Submit letters to the editor to ingrid Moller at CC 329 or call 442-5660
Freshmen to be given first crack at 100-level courses courses they need for graduation. Flynn said that the University will test this policy for one year to see if registration becomes a smoother process. He said that while the plan may disadvantage students entering their senior year, it will most likely make everyone happy in the long run.

Kim said that the plan will put more pressure on students to finish their general education requirements by their senior years. If they don't, Flynn said that seniors still have a wider range of options to choose from than freshmen because they can often take upper level courses to fill their general education requirements. Freshmen often cannot take upper level courses because they do not have the necessary prerequisites for them.

Kim said that the plan will not be placed into action for the summer session and will not effect gym or music performance classes. Flynn said that 100 level courses will also use this system of registration.

Kim said that 70 percent of the university's undergraduates are enrolled in 100 level courses. Considering the general education requirements, he said that ideally, about 45 to 55 percent of the students should be enrolled in the classes.

While Kim said that freshmen have had little or no trouble obtaining 100 level science classes, they have had trouble obtaining the lower level classes in departments such as English and Economics.

Flynn said that seniors will often add "blow off" elective lower level classes to their schedules while the freshmen who need the courses are often closed out from them.

Kim said that seniors will probably still have little difficulty registering for lower level courses they need because of the instructors tendencies to adjust their enrollments to fit in students who need the course for graduation. He said that another benefit for seniors is that the 100 level classes often take place in the large lecture centers and are therefore not very difficult to get into if needed.

"I just want students to realize that the undergraduate office means well," Kim said. "We don't want to prohibit seniors, we just want to help out the freshmen."
I don’t think we’re the Beatles Part II,” said John Flansburgh of They Might Be Giants, laughing at the absurdity of the thought. In fact, neither Flansburgh nor his co-giant, John Linnell, thought, until very recently that they might ever be big.

Stef McDonald

And while gigantic they’re not, the success they’ve claimed to date is no less difficult than could have been expected coming from a band of their sort. “I guess I’m supposed to say, ‘Oh, we know it all along,’ but of course not,” Flansburgh conceded. “I don’t think anybody thinks they’re going to be rock stars, it’s an unreasonable thing to expect.”

Unreasonable particularly in their own case: High school classmates from Lincoln, Massachusetts (hence, the title of their latest, Lincoln), Flansburgh and Linnell each relocated to Brooklyn on their own accord, where they met up and teamed up to form their duo.

“We wanted to make a band that was really original,” Flansburgh said. “There was no professional ambition. When we started we figured, what we’re doing is so off-the-ground that no record company will really be interested in it, but that’s all right because it will just be worth doing it on its own terms.”

Of course, a record company did, in fact, find interest (Bar None Records) and this past month they made a deal with major record company, Elektra.

The appeal is, for lack of a better term, unique. They Might Be Giants are off-the-ground, novel, and interesting. As Flansburgh summarised, “people really like the fact that it’s not just this calculated drivel that’s made for radio.”

Lincoln the follow-up to their self-titled debut, just entered Billboard’s Hot 100 album chart and contains among others, the songs, “Shoehorn with Teeth,” and “Purple Toupee.” Their sound is direct and catchy, with a few chuckles. And best of all — it’s just the two of them — Flansburgh plays guitar while Linnell plays accordion.

“I mean, we’re not your typical rock’n’roll band,” Flansburgh admitted. “We are a wierd band, but it’s also intelligent music, complicated music. I think we write good songs — and they’re strong.”

“There are some songs that are very very direct and they just have this simple quality to them,” Flansburgh said. “But a lot of my favorite songs actually have a twist on them, whether it’s word play or just an idea that makes your head spin. “There’s a song by Hank Williams called ‘Never Get Out of This World Alive.’ That’s just great.”

Word play and ‘head-spinning’ ideas do found a basis for Giants’ compositions, even though Flansburgh argues that the hype that has stereotyped They Might Be Giants is a bit much. A lyric from “Cage and Aquarium” declares, “this is the spawning of the cage of aquarium,” and as for head-spinning, well, there are quite a few examples of those.

“They’ll need a crane to take the house he built for her apart,” is a line extracted from “They’ll Need a Crane,” a song slated to be released as a single. “It’s not an obvious kind of image for talking about a broken heart,” Flansburgh admitted.

But, then, those people who need the obvious? Rather than harp on pop-slated redundancies, the Giants create a harem of quirky, odd-ball rock. Odd-ball in presentation more than anything else, a close listen to Giants’ songs will reveal that the topics covered are variations of the basics: love, jealousy, heartbreak, and the like. But in covering these, they also happen to illicit a few chuckles.

“We’re not worried about whether or not people people think it’s funny. I don’t think it’s even strictly to get a laugh. Some things are just funny because they’re an interesting collision of ideas,” Flansburgh explained. “In a way, a lot of things that make you laugh initially just sort of make things more open-ended. You have to re-think something when you laugh at it — that’s the value of having humor in what you do.

“A lot of our songs — they’re character songs in a way,” Flansburgh said. Consider “Anna Ng,” for instance, which was Lincoln’s first single. Wistful and infectious, it’s based on a character at the 1969 world’s fair — the smallest woman in the world, named Anna Ng. Just “a song about the person on the other side of the world,” according to Flansburgh. Then there’s “Santa’s Beard,” a ditty about jealousy, in which a man becomes insanely jealous of the fact that his wife is sitting on Santa’s knee, wearing his beard.

And as not to disqualify the record’s leader in head-spinning power, “Kim Me, Son of God” is a song about a tyrant, taken from that tyrant’s point of view. It begins, “I’ll be a little empire out of some crazy garbage called the blood of the exploited working class but they’ve overcome their shyness, now they’re calling me your highness and a world screams: ‘kim me, son of god’ and it ends, ‘I love me.’

Novel and very funny, the Giants are often shrugged off as a “novelty band without any serious intent. “I don’t think rock is that important or a certain level, so getting all worked up about whether it’s serious or not seems like a crazy equation. I think the one thing that we do have trouble with is when people think that we’re just a novelty band,” Flansburgh said. “We’re not just a novelty band.

Neither are they ‘The Beatles Part II’ so if they’re not taken seriously, so be it. “I don’t take people too seriously who don’t take us too seriously.”

Eric Berlin

Sales pitch where only the language is offensive

It’s going to be hard to write this review without using obscenities. To include a line from Glengarry Glen Ross, chances are an explosive will pop up. David Mamet’s powerful play about corrupt real-estate salesman in Chicago is so laden with offensive language, that a few people in the theatre left the show during the intermission, never to return.

The sets are, as always, wonderful. Special credit should be given to the stage crew, who have less than twenty minutes to turn the Chinese restaurant of the first act into the burlingtonian downtown office that these men share in the second act. Glengarry Glen Ross is not the easiest play to take. But the language, while undeniably R-rated, is also extremely poetic. This is the way these people speak. They are constantly yelling, from the moment the light’s go on, until they snap off again at the end. There is true power inherent in the words they say, and Cap Rep’s production captures most, if not all, of that power.

There, Not one obscenity on my part.
Three (3) cheers for the Violent Femmes

The Violent Femmes' fourth album, 3, seems to bring with it a realization by the Femmes of just what made their debut album in 1983 such a success — spontaneity and simplicity.

Tracy Zamot

The album's title reinforces this. It's the three band members — Gordon Gano, Brian Ritchie, and Victor Dehorenzo — not the overproduction of the two middle albums, that make for an album's success. It brings back the attitude, both musically and lyrically of Femme's classics like "Kiss Me, Kiss Me, Kiss Me" and "Blister in the Sun." Femmes own particular brand of harmony, lyrically of "Kiss Me, Kiss Me, Kiss Me," brings back the attitude, both musically and lyrically of "Kiss Me, Kiss Me, Kiss Me." "Fool in the Full Moon" is the albums' first single, "Nightmares," showcases Gano's staccato guitar and the lyrically of "Fool in the Full Moon." It's essentially a bit of fun, "It's essentially a bit of fun," says Gano. "It doesn't get much funnier than the song "Fat." "I hope you got fat," deadpans Gano flatly, "cause if you got really really fat you just might want to see me back." He brings back the attitude, both musically and lyrically of "Fool in the Full Moon." "Don't turn around too soon/ I've been following you all afternoon." The Violent Femmes cover a lot of ground on this album, from the introspective "Outside the Palace" ("God help me to see I've been loved all along and not to get too confused between the moonlight and dawn"); to the timely "Lies" ("I dig the evangelist/ he'll tell you all about that/ and then he'll tell you all about this/ he's mixing compliments the urgency of the lyrics — to the seemingly mundane coincidence of meeting someone that resembles someone else in "Mother of Girl", but of course there's a twist — remember who we're dealing with ("You look like you could be the mother of a girl I hated more than any other girl in the world."). And so it goes from there.

To say the band has matured with the album is to say that they've added a sense of calmness and mellowness. That would be wrong to say, in that case. They've matured in the sense that they don't feel the need to play around with excess. 3 — that's all they've ever needed.

SPECTRUM

films films films

Cine 10 (459-8300)
Cranegates (465-5078)
1. Who Is Harry Crane? (PG-13) 2:00, 4:20, 7:45, 9:50, 11:50
2. True Believers (R) 12:50, 3:45, 7:25, 10:05, 12:25
3. Rain Man (R) 12:45, 3:40, 6:45, 9:45
4. Three Fugitives (PG-13) 1:20, 3:50, 7:00, 9:55, 12:30
5. Dangerous Liaisons (R) 1:00, 4:00, 7:05, 10:00, 12:25
7. Beaches (PG) 1:35, 4:50, 7:05, 9:30, 12:30
8. Cruises (PG) 1:00, 4:00, 7:00, 9:30, 12:10
9. The Burbs (PG) 1:30, 4:15, 7:10, 9:35, 12:05
10. The Fly II (R) 12:45, 3:30, 6:50, 9:25, 11:50
11. Her Alibi (PG) 1:00, 3:00, 6:00, 8:05, Tap (PG) 9:20, 11:55
12. Working Girl (R) 12:50, 3:25, 6:15, 9:10, 11:40

Spectrum (410-6995)
1. Another Woman
2. Things Change
3. Sorceress

Hellman (459-5322)
1. Rain Man (R) 1:45, 4:15, 7:00, 9:45
2. Working Girl (R) 2:00, 4:30, 7:15, 9:30

University Cinemas (442-5075)

music music music

Cafe Lesa (983-0223)
Friday Feb 17 and Saturday Feb. 18 Oscar Brand
Half Moon Cafe (436-0323)
Friday, Feb. 17; Cygnet, Saturday Feb 18 East of the Moon, Sunday Feb 19 Herb Carter: Monday Pizza and Politics. Thursday Feb 23 Road Dog.
Paddy's (463-0436)
Friday Feb 17 A.C. Reed and the Sparkplugs; Saturday Feb 18 The Out of Control Blues Band; Sunday Feb 19 Donnybrook Fair. Thursday Feb 23 Dance Planet.
QE2 (434-2023)
Sunday, Feb 19 Benefit for the American Cancer Society; Wednesday Feb 22 "Andy Warhol Remembered": A Midnight Mass. Thursday Feb 23 Even the Odd.
September's (459-8440)
Friday, Feb 17 High Energy
Towne Tavern (605-9030)
Every Tuesday, The Belivers; Every Saturday, The B.C.

art art art

New York State Museum (474-5842)
Russia's Past and Future Feb 17 at 7:30
Kid Pie Saturdays thru Feb. 25:

THE FAR SIDE

By GARY LARSON

"There I was! Asleep in this little cave here, when suddenly I was attacked by this hideous thing with five heads!"
Measles outbreak across the nation alarms college officials

College officials across the nation have been alarmed by a measles outbreak that has affected multiple campuses in recent weeks. The highly contagious disease, which can lead to serious complications and even death in some cases, has caused many universities to shut down to try to stop the spread of the virus.

In North Carolina, Kansas, and Rhode Island, as well as in other states, measles cases have been reported. At the University of Kansas, the campus was shut down after a measles case was confirmed. At Tabor College in Kansas, students and faculty members were vaccinated after a student was confirmed as having measles.

At the University of Maryland, Rhode Island, North Dakota, and Mississippi, as well as other states, measles cases have been reported. At the University of Kansas and Tabor College, but we haven’t confirmed many.

About 100 students, staff, and faculty members at Tabor were immunized after one measles case was confirmed and others reported at the small Kansas school in January, said college spokeswoman Kathy Neufeld. “A lot of people have been jok- ing about it, but nobody wants to get it,” said Tabor junior Teresa Fenwick. “We have a 4-day break coming up, and nobody wants to be stuck here with the measles.”

Measles, a viral disease, can keep students down and out of class for weeks, said Dr. Mary Sprauer of the university. “We have a 4-day break coming up, and nobody wants to be stuck here with the measles.”

In November, 4,000 University of Southern California students were vaccinated after 47 students came down with measles, said USC student health center direc- tor Dr. Allan Ebbin. Students at dozens of schools, including the universities of Maryland, Rhode Island, North Dakota and Mississippi, as well as Kansas’ Colby Community Col- lege and the Colorado School of Mines, now must prove they’ve been immunized against measles before they can register for classes.

“We’d like to see every school re- quire a certificate of vaccination as presented before students can enroll,” said Sprauer. “We don’t have a pre-matriculation immunization re- quirement,” Ebbin said, but after this fall’s outbreak, “we may re- quire it in the fall.”

Students at dozens of schools, including the universities of Maryland, Rhode Island, North Dakota and Mississippi, as well as Kansas’ Colby Community Col- lege and the Colorado School of Mines, now must prove they’ve been immunized against measles before they can register for classes.

College officials across the nation have been alarmed by a measles outbreak that has affected multiple campuses in recent weeks. The highly contagious disease, which can lead to serious complications and even death in some cases, has caused many universities to shut down to try to stop the spread of the virus.

In North Carolina, Kansas, and Rhode Island, as well as in other states, measles cases have been reported. At the University of Kansas, the campus was shut down after a measles case was confirmed. At Tabor College in Kansas, students and faculty members were vaccinated after a student was confirmed as having measles.

At the University of Maryland, Rhode Island, North Dakota, and Mississippi, as well as other states, measles cases have been reported. At the University of Kansas and Tabor College, but we haven’t confirmed many.

About 100 students, staff, and faculty members at Tabor were immunized after one measles case was confirmed and others reported at the small Kansas school in January, said college spokeswoman Kathy Neufeld. “A lot of people have been jok- ing about it, but nobody wants to get it,” said Tabor junior Teresa Fenwick. “We have a 4-day break coming up, and nobody wants to be stuck here with the measles.”

Measles, a viral disease, can keep students down and out of class for weeks, said Dr. Mary Sprauer of the university. “We have a 4-day break coming up, and nobody wants to be stuck here with the measles.”

In November, 4,000 University of Southern California students were vaccinated after 47 students came down with measles, said USC student health center direc- tor Dr. Allan Ebbin. Students at dozens of schools, including the universities of Maryland, Rhode Island, North Dakota and Mississippi, as well as Kansas’ Colby Community Col- lege and the Colorado School of Mines, now must prove they’ve been immunized against measles before they can register for classes.

“We’d like to see every school re- quire a certificate of vaccination as presented before students can enroll,” said Sprauer. “We don’t have a pre-matriculation immunization re- quirement,” Ebbin said, but after this fall’s outbreak, “we may re- quire it in the fall.”
The race did not start well for the Danes. Buckley made several attempted to pass on the inside but to no avail. After his opening 57.0 quarter mile, Buckley moved into third. He handed off there after running a time of 1:59.7.

Luciano ran easily on the first lap, then picked up the pace considerably. His 56.2 first quarter moved Albany closer to Shore Athletic Club in second place. Luciano maintained that position and place after being clocked in a personal best 1:57.3. McClullen ran a controlled first quarter mile in 56.3 and was practically even with Shore Athletic. With a lap remaining, McCullen poured it on, passing Shore Athletic Club and breathing to a simulating personal best time of 1:55.6.

After the race, the gaunt freshman could not fully explain his phenomenal three second improvement. McCullen said, "After the race, I had hoped we could run about 7:50, but I am more than happy with this performance. They all ran smart races. I asked three freshman to contribute in a high pressure situation, and they came through. It was a very exciting race from a coach's standpoint."

Luciano said, "I had hoped we could run about 1:59.7. Luciano ran easily on the first lap, then picked up the pace considerably. His 56.2 first quarter moved Albany closer to Shore Athletic Club in second place. Luciano maintained that position and place after being clocked in a personal best 1:57.3. McClullen ran a controlled first quarter mile in 56.3 and was practically even with Shore Athletic. With a lap remaining, McCullen poured it on, passing Shore Athletic Club and breathing to a simulating personal best time of 1:55.6. After the race, the gaunt freshman could not fully explain his phenomenal three second improvement. McCullen said, "Being in third place at such a big meet got me going especially when Gregorio closed the gap to second.

The one downside for the Danes was that they committed 15 turnovers to Plattsburgh's 27 foils, sending Albany to the line 39 times. The Danes converted 28, both were season highs.

"They committed a lot of foils and gave us a lot of possessions," said Sauers.

Albany guard Stephen Mulderry had a good game, with 12 points and 14 assists. The 14 assists were two short of the Albany school record.

"They committed a lot of foils and gave us a lot of possessions," said Sauers.

Albany guard Stephen Mulderry had a good game, with 12 points and 14 assists. The 14 assists were two short of the Albany school record.

During the night scoring list, with 1408 points, just one point behind Rich Margison.

Tomorrow, will see the hated Potsdam Bears visit Albany. This will be their last game at University Gym until 1991. Game time is 8:00 p.m.
Danes look for first win over Potsdam since ’85

By Gil Kaminer

There are certain rivalries in sports that bring back great memories; Yankees-Red Sox, Rangers-Flyers, Lakers-Celtics and Albany-Potsdam. Yes, Albany-Potsdam.

It’s a rivalry that has been happening for years, but more so in the last two seasons. Albany is 0-6 against Potsdam since the 1985 win over the Bears.

The last time Albany defeated Potsdam was 1985. There are certain rivalry’s in sports that bring back great memories. In the first game at Potsdam the Bears crushed Albany 102-83. Five Dane players scored in double figures including current Albany players: Russ Teague (14), Matt McClure (14), and Stephen Sauers (10). Sauers added seven assists.

Current Potsdam All-American candidate Steve Babiarz had 13 points and five assists. “We have to shut him (Babiarz) down,” said Albany head coach Doc Sauers.

The Danes hosted the second game last year. Down by four points at the half (35-31), Albany made a game of it, coming up strong in the second half with 77-75, but coming up short, at 70-68.

Teague scored 20 points on 10 of 18 shooting. He also pulled down 10 rebounds. McClure added 14 points. The Bears defense forced the Bears into shooting just 18 of 58 from the field.

John Carmello and Brett Axelrod. In the first game at Potsdam the Bears crushed Albany 102-83. Five Dane players scored in double figures including current Albany players: Russ Teague (14), Matt McClure (14), and Stephen Sauers (10). Sauers added seven assists.

But since the seedings for the upcoming competition. “This game will make or break our season,” said Albany president and leading scorer and rebounder Russ Teague.

Stephen Sauers. “It will be a game of defense and intensity,” said Coach Sauers.

“Anything can happen,” said Stephen Sauers, “it’s a crazy game.”

“They go 10-11 deep, when they use their bench they don’t lose a thing,” said Stephen Sauers.

Starting this season, the Danes will only play Potsdam once a year instead of the traditional two times. The teams will alternate the home court advantage. With this year’s game being at home, the next time the Danes will host the Bears will be 1991.

Albany's second half was fast paced and high scoring. The Danes scored a season high 63. The second half was fast paced and high scoring. The Danes scored a season high 63 points and Potsdam scored 52, to complete the final score of 105-90.

The Danes shot a season best 65 percent from the field. “We’ll definitely be the underdog, but we’ll try our best and see what happens,” said Stephen Sauers.

Starting this season, the Danes will only play Potsdam once a year instead of the traditional two times. The teams will alternate the home court advantage. With this year’s game being at home, the next time the Danes will host the Bears will be 1991.

Frenzied guard Jeff Farnsworth said, “I’ve played in big games in my life (high school championships) but this is one of the biggest.”

The Danes were an astounding 42 of 58, an 85 percent shooting. The Danes scored the big game when they dominated the field with a 105-90 victory over the Cardinals. The Cardinals made 42 of 58, an 85 percent shooting.

The Danes once led by as many as 45 points, 30-8 in the second half.

The Danes won by a score of 65-57. Albany’s defense forced the Bears into shooting just 18 of 58 from the field.

The second half was fast paced and high scoring. The Danes scored a season high 63 points and Potsdam scored 52, to complete the final score of 105-90.

The Danes were an astounding 42 of 58, an 85 percent shooting. The Danes scored the big game when they dominated the field with a 105-90 victory over the Cardinals. The Cardinals made 42 of 58, an 85 percent shooting.

The Danes scored the big game when they dominated the field with a 105-90 victory over the Cardinals. The Cardinals made 42 of 58, an 85 percent shooting.

The last game against Hamilton on the road clearly runs through Stony Brook. If Albany is going to be in postseason play, the road clearly runs through Stony Brook.

“If we win this one we have a great shot for the NCAA’s.”

Sneeh adds, “Doc and Welsh (head coach at Potsdam) go way back with their rivalry.”

“Potsdam is a great team as always,” said Albany head coach Doc Sauers. “If we play up to potential we have a good chance.”

“The Game’ - Sat, 8:00, University Gym

Men’s relay finishes second- See page 15

Men’s hoops vs Ithaca, Mon, 8:00, Gym

The Danes got into a shoot out Wednesday night at Plattsburgh, coming out with a victory over the Cardinals. The Danes scored the big game when they dominated the field with a 105-90 victory over the Cardinals.

The Danes got into a shoot out Wednesday night at Plattsburgh, coming out with a victory over the Cardinals. The Danes scored the big game when they dominated the field with a 105-90 victory over the Cardinals.

The Danes scored a season high 63 points against Hamilton. The Danes scored the big game when they dominated the field with a 105-90 victory over the Cardinals.

The Danes scored a season high 63 points against Hamilton. The Danes scored the big game when they dominated the field with a 105-90 victory over the Cardinals.

The Danes scored the big game when they dominated the field with a 105-90 victory over the Cardinals. The Cardinals made 42 of 58, an 85 percent shooting.

The Danes scored the big game when they dominated the field with a 105-90 victory over the Cardinals. The Cardinals made 42 of 58, an 85 percent shooting.

The Danes scored the big game when they dominated the field with a 105-90 victory over the Cardinals. The Cardinals made 42 of 58, an 85 percent shooting.