

SEX A BIG PROBLEM, SPEAKER TELLS MEN

Man And Woman Relationship Is Important But Neglected, Dr. Eddy Avers

gained from experience and from others, and organize life on that basis. That is religion.
That much essential knowledge of sex life and problems is withheld from young people with harmful results is very evident, according to Dr. Eddy. He declared that the relationship between men and women is one of the most important of present day problems and that it is among the most neglected of all.

Advocates Staple Sex Education
"I believe in sound and stable sex education in proportion to the needs of the individual," he continued. He pointed out that deep impulses either make or break the individual, depending upon the way in which they are utilized. There exists a need to check impulses and to discipline the mind and body, according to Dr. Eddy. Lack of this is responsible for the divorce rate of 180,000 a year, he said.

Danger from monopolies is great, he declared, telling that 65 per cent of the water power resources of New York state is in the hands of private individuals, and corporations, control of which is in the hands of about six men. $38,000,000 a year is spent to distribute propaganda to aid the monopolists retain control. Propaganda is even being carried into schools and colleges, Dr. Eddy charged.

Dr. Brubacher Speaks
President Brubacher spoke on the value of a student Y. M. C. A. here. Coach Rutherford Baker commended the spirit of the men, declaring he has noted a great improvement in it since he came to the college five years ago. Warren Cochran was toastmaster.

Other speakers were Dr. Adna W. Risley, head of the history department; Joseph Herney, '29, and Wallace H. Strevell, '29.
The guests at the dinner were: President A. R. Brubacher, Coach Rutherford Baker, Marshal D. Williams, acting secretary of the Central Y. M. C. A.; Clarence Edman, membership secretary of the Central Y. M. C. A.; Louis C. Hyatt, of the New York State National Bank; H. Ray Sweetman, traveling secretary for the Y. M. C. A.; and Dr. Adna W. Risley, head of the history department. Students attending were: John J. De-

PEACE PACT WILL BE GOOD WILL INFLUENCE

--- DR. RISLEY

While the Kellogg-Briand peace pact does not outlaw war, it will be a huge moral influence for "peace on earth, good will to man," Dr. Adna W. Risley, head of the history department, told the first assembly Friday.

War for self defense is allowable under the new treaty, Dr. Risley said. Difficulty of determining the aggressor is the one great danger of allowing war for defense, he pointed out.

He believes that the United States will adhere to the pact, as many other nations have already done. Adherence will not mean recognition of Russia, he said, since a precedent exists by which the United States declared in signing another pact that its adherence should not be interpreted as recognition of the soviet regime. Dr. Risley declared he is in favor of adoption of the proposed treaty.

NEWMAN CLUBS ELECT MISS DYER TREASURER

Mary Dyer, '30, was elected treasurer of the central New York province of Newman club at its annual convention in Albany last weekend. Delegates from Russell Sage, Syracuse, Hamilton, Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, University of Pennsylvania, McGill University, City College of New York and State College attended breakfast Sunday. Miss Anna E. Pierce, dean of women, was a guest of honor. The main activity of the clubs should be religious, with social and intellectual affairs subordinated, speakers told the members at the conferences.

Sad Tale Of Scotch Salesman; Professor Bronson's Favorite

[This is one of a series of favorite jokes of faculty members. This series will be a regular feature of the News for several weeks.—Editor.]

By Professor Barnard Bronson of the Chemistry Department

The representative of a Scotch firm was calling on his trade at Saranac Lake, when he became snowbound. With no place to stay save at an expensive hotel, he telegraphed his firm for instructions. The reply came back: "Start vacation without pay, beginning yesterday."

DR. SOUTH EXTENDS WORK IN MEASURING

Tests And Measurement Classes Administer Examinations In Albany Schools

An extensive project in administering educational tests has been mapped out for his education courses by Dr. Earl B. South, assistant professor of education, and is being executed by students in his classes.

The tests are being administered in the Albany public schools, in the Albany Academy for Girls, the Albany Hospital, Albany Orphan Asylum and in the grade and high schools at Spencerport.

The inclusion of this program in the Albany public school system is regarded by members of the education department as a signal achievement, since the theory gained in class is applied in the actual administration of the tests. This is the first year that college classes have administered tests in the local schools.

Tests at Academy for Girls

Students from both Education 112 and 105A have been helping test 150 pupils from the Albany Academy for Girls. State College students may continue to work in co-operation with the academy in helping keep the test records up to date. These students have also participated in the testing program of the nurses training class in the Albany Hospital. Mrs. Genevieve Clark, who attended summer session here last summer and who is a member of the state nurses examination board, is interested in making a study of the nurses training classes in the hospital and the St. Joseph's Hospital. Certain intelligence tests, achievement tests and personality measures are being used in the study. These measures are similar in type to those which are being used in the study of the freshmen at State College.

Problem Cases at Asylum

Tests which were begun last year in the Albany Orphan Asylum have been continued this year. The number of students thus far tested in this institution, including the work of both years, is about seventy. The material obtained from the asylum has been very helpful as problem and case material in Education 105A, according to Dr. South.

Children at the orphan asylum may be used as subjects for special tests in the two courses, according to Dr. South. In other years, when the classes wished to administer such tests as the Stanford-Binet, it was found difficult to obtain subjects.

The class in education 112 is doing the greater part of the work. It is composed of thirteen upperclassmen and graduate students. This class has given test in co-operation with Dr. C. Edward Jones, city superintendent of schools, and John H. Kingsley, research director in the Albany public schools.

The class has given the tests, scored them and assisted in interpreting the results. Mr. Kingsley is expected to ask the assistance of the education department for future assistance in testing.

Now Who Has First Aid-Book?

'31-'32 In Alphonse-Gaston Act

"Merry Christmas," said the freshmen Friday, as they handed Russell Ludlum, president of the sophomore class, a book on first aid, immediately after the epic struggle between the two classes on the greensward of the college.

"And a happy New Year," responded Ludlum, as he returned the book in a second tussle between the classes Monday.

According to authentic information today received by the NEWS, the freshmen were ready to trade the first-aid book for several cushions in any condition, but could find nobody willing to do business. Sophomores needed their pillows, it was said.

CORR BREAKS HIS TOE IN GYMNASIUM CLASS

Daniel P. Corr, '31, suffered a broken toe and a sprained ankle in an indoor football game in the gymnasium Friday between freshmen and sophomores, during a gymnasium class conducted by Coach Rutherford Baker.

Corr was taken home in a taxi and was attended by Dr. John McCormick, chief surgeon at St. Peter's Hospital. Two X-rays were necessary to determine the extent of Corr's injuries.

The accident occurred when Corr, holding the ball, was making a substantial gain for his team and was forced to turn out of his path by an intercepting freshman and ran into a post.

In spite of his injuries, Corr is attending classes.

PARK LAKE AVAILABLE FOR STUDENT SKATING

Washington park lake will be available for skating this winter, according to an announcement by John Boyd Thacher, 2nd, mayor of Albany. A temporary wooden house will be erected for the skaters to replace the old lake house torn down recently. A previous report was to the effect that the lake would remain drained this winter and that no opportunity would be offered for skating there.

Varsity To Face Alumni In First Game Of New Year; Kuczynski And Herney Star In Win Over Coast Guard

By Roy V. Sullivan
Sports Editor, STATE COLLEGE NEWS

In the first game of the new year, the varsity basketball team will face the alumni five. The game will take place Saturday night, January 5, in the gymnasium. The former State College stars who are expected to give the present team a run for its money include several former captains. Among these are Johnson, Hornung, Gannon and Fitzgerald. Griffin and Goff of last year's team are also expected to play.

Varsity Improves Technique

Showing a much improved brand of basketball over that of the first game, the varsity quintet won its second game of the season Friday night by triumphing over the United States Coast Guard Academy five by a 20-8 score. The game was marked more by a steady air tight defense than by any brilliant shooting on the part of either team.

The visitors by using a five man zone defense made it a very hard job for the home players to score from the floor. In the second half the scorers on both teams were so effectively tied up that the two teams scored but-eight points in the entire period.

The visitors failed to account for a single point in the last ten minutes of the first half and the first ten of the second. Tony Kuczynski and Captain Joe Herney starred for the State outfit. Tony scored eight points and was the heart of the offense of this team. Herney played a hard game and was mixed up in nearly every play. Whiston put up some very good defensive work playing at back guard.

Seventh Straight Win

The passwork was much better than in the St. Michaels game. This game is the seventh straight victory in basketball for State since the defeat by St. Bonaventure last winter.

As the game opened both teams were putting up such fine defenses that it was some minutes before Kuczynski scored the first points of the game on a nice field from near the basket. The visitors fouled three times in the first five minutes of play but the home men seemed unable to make good on their free throws.

Roland sank a field to even the score but Carr counted on another two pointer immediately to give State a lead which was never wiped out. State led at half time by a 14-6 score.

Little Scoring in Last Half

In the second half, the play slowed down a bit and little scoring took place. Play continued to be hard and also rough at times. At the end of the game with the Purple and Gold second team in the game it resembled a football game more than a basketball game. When the final whistle blew there were about six or seven men piled up on the floor. Frank Ott and his man had a bit of an argument under the basket and were wrestling around as if they enjoyed each other's company. The referee called a double foul and Ott obliged by sinking his attempt while his man failed. That allowed the second team to outscore the academy by 1-0 count.

FRENCH WILL ADDRESS STAFF OF NEW PAPER

William M. French, '29, editor in chief of the STATE COLLEGE NEWS, will speak to the journalism club of the high school at Owego tomorrow afternoon on the worth of journalism in the secondary schools. The invitation for him to speak was extended by Sara H. Barkley, '27, former associate managing editor of the NEWS, who is now faculty adviser of the new newspaper at the high school. Miss Barkley is teaching mathematics in Owego.
