BRICKS AND IVY

MILNE SCHOOL
ALBANY, NEW YORK

FOREWORD

In the traditional format of the BRICKS AND IVY, we present to you the story of the year as we have seen it. Within this framework, our objective has been to follow the policy of keeping the best of the traditional and of providing our own variations.

A yearbook reflects diverse school interests. We have tried to present a unified picture of these group activities, placing emphasis upon the individual whenever possible.

A complete list of acknowledgements is quite impossible in this limited space; however, we would like to thank each contributor who has given his time to work with us on this book. Especially we wish to thank our advisor, Mrs. Brita Walker, for her patient and generous assistance and for the technical advice she has given us in the compiling of our yearbook materials. For the scheduling of pictures and financial advice we thank Dr. Theodore Fossieck, Principal, and for their time, we are grateful to Mr. William Kraus, supervisor of English, and Mrs. Marian Scully, secretary to the principal.

CLASS WILL (OR WILL IT?)

Will we have the will to will
This class to you
(Which we must do,
For there is not a sou
Within yon treasure.)
All's disappeared if not nailed down.
Do I detect a frown?
Ah, but 'tis true:
Ragout, shampoo, bamboo canoe,
Hindu and peanut brittle, too;
All's gone.
Alas
We've not the brass
To give the mass
This class of ours
And thus surpass their wildest fears.

MR. WILLIAM KRAUS
DIRECTOR

ACADEMIC

ADMINISTRATION

The staff of the BRICKS AND IVY is to be commended for the excellent volume which they have added to the collection of Milne yearbooks. They have tried to reflect accurately the record of the 1957-1958 school year, and they have succeeded admirably with the material your readers have provided for them. The yearbook symbolizes many of the things the Milne faculty have been trying to put across to the students—particularly that the record speaks for itself and only the student himself or herself can make or improve the record. Both the faculty and the BRICKS AND IVY staff hope that this yearbook many times will revive interesting memories of an interesting year.

SENIOR STUDENT COUNCIL

OUR SENIOR STUDENT COUNCIL is a representative organization consisting of student representatives from each of the senior high homerooms and the president of the Junior Student Council. Under the guidance of Miss Haines, Student Council Faculty Adviser, the Council convenes at regular sessions to exercise the functions and business designated to it.

The many activities with which the Senior Student Council is associated serve directly to fulfill those duties outlined in the Preamble of the constitution, that is to . . . "unify all student organizations of the school under one governing body, establish better relations between the faculty and the student body, and provide for student participation in the school government . . ."

The Assembly Committee, student Faculty Committee, and the Bulletin Board Committee are the three standing committees of the Council. The Assembly Committee is responsible for planning assemblies and supervising the Career Series. The Student Faculty Committee examines suggestions for the improvement of student-faculty relations.

As a member of the Association of Student Councils of the Capital District, we publish once a year the Association newspaper, The Councilor Exchange, and participate in workshop sessions held in the spring and fall of each year. The Council also prepares the annual student budget, the Charity Pool, supervises the busses to away games, manages carbonated beverages at basketball games, and directs the annual Card Party.
