Effective Date Delayed Until May 1 Payroll

ALBANY, March 20—A strong stand by Governor Rockefeller in behalf of the Administration bill to increase State salaries, saved the measure in the Legislature last week.

At Leader press time, it was learned that the salary bill was on the floor of the Legislature. Its passage was assured when legislative leaders publicly announced their support of the measure and final approval will be given this week.

The bill was in danger of being slashed as legislators, reflecting the concern in some areas in the State over unemployment, the desire for more State aid locally and for schools, were tempted to gain money for these items by cutting Governor Rockefeller's proposals.

The Governor, carrying out his promise to act toward placing the State's workers on a par with their counterparts in private industry, resisted any pressures, however, to reduce his original recommendations.

In effect, the Legislature did take a bite out of the recommended amount for salary increases—$37,500,000—by making the effective date of the new pay scales May 1 instead of April 1. The estimated $2,500,000 saved by the later effective date will, according to rumors here, be used to increase State aid to education.

"Mixed Emotions", Say Felly

The Civil Service Employees Association, which fought down to the wire to preserve the Governor's pay bill intact, viewed final passage of the bill with "mixed emotions."

In a press statement, Joseph F. Felly, Employees Association president, said:

The Civil Service Employees Association views with mixed emotions the decision of the legislative leaders to report out the State salary bill without drastic amendment. After many days of uncertainty during which press-reported rumors of drastic salary cuts were being tossed about, it is definitely a

Disputed Oral Examination Rescheduled

ALBANY, March 20. — The State Civil Service Department is rescheduling the oral examinations for its interdepartmental administrative promotions, which were nullified by a recent court order.

Supreme Court Justice Isadore Bookstein ruled that the orals should be held again and candidates given advance notice as to the subject matter to be covered.

The victory in the case went to Harry W. Albright Jr., who represented Alfred H. Weissbard, one of the candidates taking the promotion test.

The Civil Service Department reports it will re-examine the 140 candidates who failed the initial qualifying oral examination. The new orals are expected to be held within six to eight weeks.

Some May Lose Position

This means the present eligible lists will be revised, based on the new oral results. The examination is for jobs in administrative series, Grade 18.

Thus, some of the 51 persons who have been appointed from the lists so far may be "bumped" out of their jobs.

A department spokesman pointed out that the regular ruling of one out of three would prevail. If an appointee, because of the new oral results, is not reachable on the new list his job would have to go to someone else.

BUFFALO, March 20—The authorization last week for deduction of Civil Service Employees Association membership dues from the City of Buffalo's payrolls marked the beginning of an all-out organization and membership drive by the Erie Chapter of CSEA.

Al Burke, president of the chapter, said that in addition to the payroll deduction victory, the chapter and CSEA has won for city employees improvements in pay; work hours; sick leave arrangements, additional holidays, Social Security coverage and the full payment of Blue Cross-Blue Shield coverage by the city.

Goods Set Up

Burke said a recently formed Buffalo City Organizational Committee is currently conducting a thorough canvas of city employees.

The chapter's immediate goals for its members are a 10 per cent general pay increase and payment of accrued vacation and sick leave upon retirement or termination of employment. Working with CSEA, the chapter is also seeking a $5,000 minimum ordinary death benefits and continuance of part of the retirement benefits and other improvements contained in the CSEA statewide program.

The Erie Chapter also won the recently granted payroll deduction

CS Reform Assn. Backs Change in Condon-Wadlin Law

At a hearing before the Joint Legislative Committee on Industrial and Labor Conditions held in Albany last Thursday the Civil Service Reform Association endorsed amendment of New York's Condon-Wadlin law which carries mandatory rigid, severe penalties for strikes by civil service employees. The amendments, embodied in a bill sponsored by State Senator William J. Condon of Yonkers, co-author of the original 1947 law, make strikes or condoning strikes illegal, but reduces the punitive provisions of the Condon-Wadlin law. The bill also requires governmental jurisdictions within the State to establish grievance machinery for public employees. The Association gave general approval to this plan, but asked for clarification of ambiguous provisions and simplification of the proposed grievance machinery for small units of government. The Association disapproved another proposal embodied in a bill sponsored by Senator Frank J. Pino of Brooklyn and Assemblyman John L. Ostrander of Schuylerville, to create a public employees' arbitration board for final settlement of disputes between government units and their employees. The Association was asked by the Committee for its view because of its researches in the field of government employer-employee relations. Mrs. Robert Winternitz of New York, Chairman of the Association's Executive Committee represented the Association at the hearing.

Bill Would Permit Fire Officers to Live Outside City

Legislation to permit uniformed fire officers to live outside the political jurisdiction that employs them has been announced by Assmb. Robert F. Kelly, Kings Republican. Co-sponsor of the measure is Sen. Edward J. Speno, Nassau Republican. In announcing the bill, Assmb. Kelly cited the "acute lack of adequate middle income housing for civil service employees."

He said his bill will enable fire officers to reside outside the City and be within reasonable traveling distance to their work, thus protecting the interests both of the fire officers and their employers, and fill a long-felt void by enabling them to purchase moderately priced housing outside the high rent area. Assmb. Kelly's bill was urged by the New York City Uniformed Fire Officers Association. "Years ago in the era of slow transportation and communications and ample, affordable housing, the requirements that fire officers reside within the city limits purportedly had a sound basis. Today this situation no longer exists," Assmb. Kelly said "Rapid developments in communications now makes it possible for people in Nassau, Suffolk, Westchester and Rockland to reach their place of work, with the same speed as those living in Bronx, Staten Island and Brooklyn. "The erection of low cost public housing, for which they are not eligible, and high cost control-free residential units which they

Public relations is probably the most misunderstood of the professions. And we don't mean "misunderstood" in the sense of a husband complaining he is "misunderstood" by his wife or vice versa. From the queries we receive, people seem to find it difficult to grasp the meaning of public relations. For instance, the most common query is: "What's the difference between public relations and publicity? Or the question could be: What's the difference between public relations and advertising?"

From the queries we receive, people seem to find it difficult to grasp the meaning of public relations. For instance, the most common query is: "What's the difference between public relations and publicity? Or the question could be: What's the difference between public relations and advertising?"

We never mind explaining because explanations are good public relations for public relations so here goes.

Public relations is the whole apple. Publicity is only part of the apple. So is advertising.

Public relations is how you act, how you talk, how you dress, how well you do your job. Public relations is also how your superior tests along with you, with his superior, and with everyone else in the office. It is also how efficiently you handle the public with whom you deal, and how good a job your department does.

At the same time public relations is how well your department works with other departments, how good your relations are with the Legislature, the press, similar departments in other states, and federal agencies with which you work.

Publicity is simply the mechanical technique you use to tell the total story of how well you and your department do your jobs. By the same token, the industrial organization also has public relations — good or bad.

If a business has a good product, gives the public good service, and acts always in the best interests of the public, then advertising is but one means of telling that story. It can also use publicity.

But whether a public agency or a business organization, the performance must be genuinely good, always in the public interest before publicity or advertising can be used.

MENTAL HYGIENE MEMO

By WILLIAM ROSSITER
CSEA Mental Hygiene Representative

(The views expressed in this column are those of the writer and do not necessarily constitute the views of this newspaper or of any organization).

Special MH Committee Meeting

THE SPECIAL MENTAL Hygiene Committee, CSEA, met with Dr. Paul H. Hoch, Commissioner, Department of Mental Hygiene, and his staff, on February 15, 1961 in Albany. Others in attendance from the central office staff were: Dr. Arthur W. Pense, Deputy Commissioner; Granvil Hills, Personnel Director, Department of Mental Hygiene, and Mrs. Margaret M. Farrar, director of Public Relations, Department of Mental Hygiene.

REPRESENTING C.S.E.A. were: Joseph D. Lochner, Executive Director; Henry Galpan, Salary Research Analyst, John Graveline, St. Lawrence State Hospital; Emil Bollman, Rockland State Hospital; Arnold Moses, Brooklyn State Hospital and this writer. Committee members unable to attend were Mrs. Pauline Fitzpatrick, Newark State School, and John Murphy, Creedmore State Hospital.

ITEMS ON THE AGENDA that were discussed consisted of:

1. MORE ADEQUATE staffing of institutions.
2. SALARY UPGRADINGS and 37½ hour work week for institutional office employees.
3. RELIEF TO COVER time off duty by employees from same job level requiring more adequate staffing of supervisory positions.
4. ESTABLISHMENT of promotional arrangements for attendant positions to enable them to get more extensive training and to provide opportunity for promotion to attract qualified persons to careers in this work.
5. ESTABLISHMENT of practical nursing schools in the various state schools.
6. CHANGES IN THE service record rating system used for attendant attendant positions.
7. MORE IN-SERVICE training for lower grade positions and provision for promotion of qualified personnel.
8. ELIMINATE out-of-title work.
9. DEPARTMENTAL SUPPORT for system of automatic promotion to journeyman level positions when employee proves himself at and actually performs journeyman level work relative to trade and maintenance positions. Establish work schedules in various institutions.
10. ASSURANCE THAT employees are made aware of any criticism of their work performance which may be placed in the employee's personnel file.

DR. ARTHUR W. PENSE, Deputy Commissioner, Department of Mental Hygiene, has many responsibilities and considerable work. Much of his time and duties are concerned with the mentally retarded patients in our State schools. He should be proud, along with State officials, employees and the public concerning encouraging advances made at Wassaic State School. This consists of an experimental program of intensive education and vocational training for mentally retarded adolescents and young adults.

IT BEGAN ABOUT TWO years ago and the record shows a release of these young people back to their homes is double that of other comparable schools. Governor Rockefeller has recommended that immediate action be taken to extend this program to other State Schools.

THE SUBJECT of education and, particular, higher education has become one of the major issues before the 1961 Legislature.

ON PARTICULAR interest to the nursing profession are the bills to increase scholarships for nursing education. Senator Thomas Laverne, Representative of Monroe County, in his legislature report, states that he is privileged to present that portion of the program which has to do with doubling of nursing scholarships. An important part of this bill is that not only does it double the number but provides for scholarships to non-degree nursing schools.

SOME OF THE strongest needs which an individual experiences, and many of the goals toward which he strives with the greatest effort, have to do with the defense of the self. Our main goal this year is a three grade salary increase, correction of inequities and longevity increments.

THE SELF IS the most important structure in the psychological field. The need of self-esteem is very basic. We read that one of the deepest principles in human nature is the craving to be appreciated. Without such gratification, tensions will generate.

MENTAL HYGIENE employees suffer from tensions, one of which is worry re-inflation, and adequate salaries to take care of their families. How can our attendants, maintenance men, powerhouse workers, office employees (to mention only a few) properly feed, educate and protect their families with inadequate incomes?

THIS IS A problem that we have faced and apparently will have to contend with in the future. Should we be more objectively constructive in the way we handle this problem? Do we need to intensify our efforts in presenting our salary case to State officials, the Legislature and the public? Evidence would indicate so.

feeling of relief to learn that the plan, although amended, will not be severely altered.

The Association commends the legislative leaders for keeping faith with the many thousands of civil servants in the classified service.

After the many publicized statements by the State's leaders as to the need of putting State salaries on a par with industry, any deviation from that plan would have had a disastrous effect upon employee morale — particularly after the public endorsement of the findings of the private management firm of McKinsey & Associates.

For the past several weeks, the representatives of the Association have been in constant communication with both the Director of the Budget and also the legislative leaders in an attempt to protect the recommended salary plan. We are grateful that our efforts to some degree seem to be rewarded.

The Legislature is expected to adjourn this coming Saturday, March 25. Future issues of The Leader will carry results of the legislative program of the Employees Association, as reflected by Legislature action on CSEA proposals.

Day to Keep Production Measurement System

Although the postal unions would like to see the Post Office Department's work measurement system eliminated, except in the case of a specific post office falling below production norms, Postmaster Day plans to keep a modified system in effect.

Day has said that his work measurement system will be "more attractive" than that proposed in early January by the Eisenhower administration. That proposal would have had the production of postal clerks measured during one four week period each year.

Postmaster Day has said that he cannot allow higher production costs to please the unions. The National Postal has criticized the delay in modifying the work measurement system.

C.S.C. Study on Career Development is Planned

Civil Service Commission chairman John Macy outlined a pilot study of career development to be conducted by the Commission last week in an address to the training officers' conference.

This study, still in the planning stage, would focus on such problems as the retention of employees of high potential. "We hear reports," Mr. Macy said, "of able new employees who have been assigned to mediocre supervisors and who leave Government because their skills are not fully utilized. We need to know the extent to which such cases occur and what needs to be done to make better use of our talented recruits."

Other areas which could be covered by this study are the need for interagency experience; the need to fill more mid-career Classification Act jobs with people outside of the government, and the need for more integrated management training.

Monroney Knocks Pay Ceiling for U.S. Aides

Senator Mike Monroney criticized the unofficial salary ceiling which prevents Federal employee wages from rising above the pay level of members of Congress. Monroney said that this ceiling prevents the Federal government from competing with private industry for top employees.

Monroney also said that because of this the government has had to rely on private contractors and non-profit organizations for scientific research. Such salary ceiling was said to have a demoralizing effect on Federal employees. These remarks were made during the Senate hearings on the confirmation of John Macy as head of the Civil Service Commission.

Kennedy Delays Plan to Raise Pay of Top Aides

A plan to raise the pay of Cabinet members and other career executives which was proposed by the Budget Bureau, the Civil Service Commission and Congressional committee staffs has been laid aside by the Kennedy Administration.

The plan followed that recommended by McKinsey to New York State. According to the plan Cabinet members were to get salaries of $36,000, under secretaries $27,500 and assistant secretaries and commission members members $25,000.

The White House comment was that this was an inappropriate time to ask for higher salaries.

Clinchy Appointed to Minority Group Post

Ross Clinchy, executive director of the President's Committee on Government Employment policy for the last five years, was recently appointed special assistant to the executive director of the U. S. Civil Service Commission for minority group matters.

In announcing the appointment Civil Service Chairman John Macy said that Mr. Clinchy will direct a Commission program to emphasize the recruitment of minority-group members for Federal careers. At the same time, Mr. Clinchy will work toward improving minority-group career opportunity in upper grade levels, either through direct recruitment or advancement of employees on the Federal rolls. The appointment reflects the intent of the recently issued Executive order setting up the President's committee on equal employment opportunity.

The Governor Has Kept His Promise

WHEN Governor Rockefeller first took office he made a pledge to the State's civil servants that he would work toward placing them on a par with their counterparts in private employment.

To that end, the Governor engaged a private management survey firm, McKinsey & Co., to make a comparative study between State and private salaries. When the firm's work was completed, Mr. Rockefeller accepted the findings and declared he would be guided by them in fulfilling his pledge.

With his salary proposals of this year, Mr. Rockefeller did follow the suggested proposals of the McKinsey survey and did take the first step toward putting them into practice. This week the Legislature will give its stamp of approval to the Rockefeller pay plan for 1961.

Furthermore, the Governor has indicated he will finish his program of parity next year.

We believe him. Because Governor Rockefeller has shown the civil servant he is a man who keeps a promise.

Police Grievance Plan

WE, along with the New York City Patrolmens Benevolent Association, hail Mayor Wagner and Police Commissioner Murphy for setting up a police grievance procedure. We regret the exclusion from it of a truly impartial arbitration board. We also regret there is no appeal beyond the Police Commissioner.

The Legislature's proposed revision to the Condon-Wadlin anti-strike law would mandate grievance systems for all State, county and municipal employees—specifically including the police—with impartial arbitration boards and final appeal outside the agency.

We urge Mayor Wagner and the Police Commissioner to include these two provisions in their own police grievance system and get proper credit for it before the Legislature forces it on them—and takes credit for it.

It is possible of course, in spite of strong backing, that the Condon-Wadlin revision will fail to clear the Legislature or be amended to exclude these two important provisions. If that happens, the Mayor's and Police Commissioner's present plan will have to do. But it is half-way measure.

CIVIL SERVICE NOTES FROM ALL OVER

MARYLAND—Age has been eliminated as a requirement for eligibility in all state positions with the exception of the state police.

LOS ANGELES, Calif. — The first issue of an employee bulletin for city employees, The News Letter was published recently by the city's Civil Service Department.

OKLAHOMA—A District Court has held the 1957 Oklahoma Civil Service Act unconstitutional as it applies to the State Insurance Commission on the grounds that under it the legislature improperly delegated responsibility to the executive department; that it gives the Governor unlimited authority to place agencies under the act without providing any standards for his guidance. The state is appealing the decision to the State Supreme Court.

OTTAWA, Ontario—The city has replaced an earlier law that required all city employees to live in the city with one that gives preference in hiring and lay-off to city residents.

PEORIA, Ill.—The City Council has adopted a "Code of Official Conduct" for city employees, which brings together into one document the provisions of various departmental rules related to the conduct of the city's business by its employees.

RHODE ISLAND—Gov. DeSoto has approved a Career Awards Program for all state employees, which was developed by the office of the State Personnel Administrator after a nation-wide survey of such programs in 45 jurisdictions. Plans are also being formulated for a "State Government Career Week."

State Housing for Employees Suggested

Editor, The Leader:

The United States Government is a firm believer in providing adequate housing for its military servicemen and their families on all its posts. I would like to suggest that New York State follow this example by financing housing near the many of its isolated prisons, for example Green Haven, where the transfer rate of employees is high due to the excessive cost of rentals charged by gouging landlords in that area.

The State could establish housing providing occupancy by married personnel and erect a form of BOQ for single employees. Naturally, the employees would pay rent, but at a much lower rate than is now squeezed out of them by profiteering landlords. Also, this construction would increase employment and help alleviate the recession.

Long Range Public Relations Plan Urged For Future Pay Raises

Editor, The Leader:

By the time this letter is published, legislative action on the state pay raise bill will probably have been completed. However, since the question of comparable salaries is a long term problem, I believe further discussion of the subject is in order.

First, let me thank Ed Lancet (letter to the Editor March 14th) for acknowledging the existence of state pay scale inadequacies. I agree that more effort by members on their own behalf would be a big help, if the effort is directed and coordinated properly by their leadership, as part of the overall campaign or program.

However, I believe Mr. Lancet may have misunderstood my comments on several of the other points I covered in my letter of Feb. 21st. Contrary to Mr. Lancet's interpretation of my letter, I am not seeking a scapegoat, nor do I believe our present dilemma over salaries has come about suddenly, overnight, so to say.

I do know how diligently Mr. Felly and his associates have worked in carrying out their responsibilities, but I also know that the "Civil Service Leader" does not have the responsibility of representing me or any other Civil Service employee. The "Leader" is a newspaper, reporting Civil Service news, and with editorial policies consistent with the improvement of the Civil Service.

My letter, as published on Feb. 21st was meant to focus attention on the inadequacy of the 37½ million dollar state pay proposal, and on what I believed was a tactical error being contemplated by the Association at that time. This evaluation of method was, of course, merely my own opinion. My letter was not intended as an indictment of the Association's leadership. I'm sorry if it was so construed.

I do wish, however, to discuss further the evaluation of the As-

Civil Service LAW & YOU

by HAROLD L. HERZSTEIN

Mr. Herzstein is a member of the New York bar

(The views expressed in this column are those of the writer and do not necessarily constitute the views of this newspaper or of any organization).

Unity with Weakness

EVERYONE REMEMBERS the Aesop fable, "The Bundle of Sticks." The farmer proved to his sons that while the individual sticks could be broken, the bundle of sticks could not be. The fable ends, as follows: "Explanation. In union, there is strength." No one disputes the wisdom of the great Aesop.

AESOP'S EXPLANATION has stood for 2,500 years. However, since I have observed the many different employee groups in New York City in action for the past fifteen years, I would like to add to Aesop, and put it this way: "In union, there is strength; in unions, there is weakness."

MOST PEOPLE THINK of legislation as a debate in a legislature after which there is vote; and that is all. That is part of it. By far the larger part is what precedes a bill coming on to the floor; and in fact what goes before a bill actually becomes a bill. There are long processes of negotiation in the earlier stages. Many legislators like to say that legislation is a process of compromise. That is really not broad enough. Legislation is a process of negotiation.

THE FEWER THE negotiating organizations, the better it is for the civil service. The ideal is one organization. Such a situation exists in State government, and it is excellent. The Civil Service Employees Association has an exclusive. Consequently, when it deals with the Governor on salary legislation, grievance procedures, etc., the Governor knows that he is dealing with The civil service. Actually, even in private industry, where management at one time preferred a lot of weak unions, it now prefers one strong union with which to negotiate. Management then knows that the union speaks for the men, and that agreements are on a more reliable basis to keep the plant running.

IN NEW YORK CITY we have a lot of employee organizations. There is considerable over-lapping and, as a result, considerable conflict. When I was Legal Aide to its Mayor, I often heard pleas—not why a group should get an increase—but rather why one group should get an increase and another group should not.

SEVERAL MONTHS AGO I attended a meeting of the Ostrander Committee in New York City which was considering grievance legislation. Each civil service group had a spokesman. Everyone had a different idea, and some attacked on another. Since I am connected with the civil service movement, I sat there ashamed of myself. After the hearing, no one on the committee was in a position to say what the civil service wanted. It would almost have been fair to say that the civil service had no point of view. Legislators have to know what people want before they can tailor legislation for them.

IS THERE A SOLUTION? Well, I am not going to give the usual answer that the employee organizations in New York City fuse, because I know that will never happen, or at least will not happen for a long, long time. I will leave such an idealistic approach for the editorial columns. In the meantime, I think that a practical step should be taken so that the civil service in New York City presents its legislative programs after sifting the problem themselves and after uniting on the solutions.

I WOULD LIKE TO give some incidental advice to the New York City civil service people. Do not rely on the strength of muscle to hold up picket signs and the lustiness of lungs to shout epithets. This does not gain ground for the civil service. Go more by salary analyses, budget studies, legal studies, and other modern techniques.

sociation's pay raise campaign this year. Let us consider the advice of an expert in Public Relations, since this type of campaign by Civil Service employees is almost entirely a public relations problem. I wish to quote Leo J. Margolin, who coincidentally, in his column in the Leader of March 14th said, "the real skill in public relations is in the development of the public relations Program—the objectives, the research that must go with it, in the possible changing of the primary objectives if impossible to achieve, and finally, in the carrying out of the program with expert Timing, Strategy and Tactics."

I believe the association leadership would profit tremendously by a critical self-review of this year's pay raise campaign, with special attention to adequacy in planning, in programming, research, timing, strategy and tactics. I think we can improve our performance next year, if we start now to plan in detail. Let's use the many talents available in our membership, and consider hiring some specialized public relations skills to assist us in this, our most important fight.

I believe the present association leadership to be the best in my memory, but I also believe that even an inspired, diligent leadership can, and will be, improved.

Mental Hygiene Beauticians Call For Higher Pay Slot

Editor, The Leader:

Through reading this column in the previous months, and the apparently legitimate protests made here, may I also enter one which to the best of my knowledge is the overall feelings of my particular group?

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

mate complaints from the licensed practical nurses and lately, an occasional staff attendant, have been presented. Now for a word from the beauticians who work in the Department of Mental Hygiene.

To begin with, like the licensed practical nurses, we too are required to attend a specialized school for our profession. We are required to put in 1,000 hours — one half study or theory and half practical work in an approved school of beauty culture. We also then take the State Board examinations for a full day. Assuming we are successful we then receive our license to practice hairdressing and cosmetology.

We are presently in pay grade 6. This is one grade below the staff attendant. With all respect to the staff attendants, and not to degrade them in any way, one must admit that they require no State Board of Regents approved license. In fact the requirements for attendant are that they be able to read and write the English language. Surely, we who are required to be legally licensed to perform the duties of our vocation should be above those in the pay grade system who are not required to have any special schooling or a license.

In the same way that the many licensed practical nurses stood up for their rights, now is the time for the beauticians to show our combined voices in protest. Lets get the opinions of all the beauticians rolling. If we don't speak out we'll never get what is our rightful due, so start those letters and talk up.

Answers Protest of Staff Attendant

Editor, The Leader
In answer to the letter you printed recently from Mrs. Ruth

B. Moore, what about the pay an attendant receives doing the same job the staff attendant does, when the staff attendant is on a pass day, sick day, personal business day or vacation?

Also, how does Mrs. Moore get the work done with attendants she says have "no more responsibility than a certain number of patients?"

Car Dealer Builds Big Business By Catering To Civil Service

New York, Mar. 21 (NYA)—The tremendous purchasing power of civil service employees was graphically demonstrated in an interview with Irwin Schnurmacher, head of the New Yorker Automobile Co., located on 1st Avenue at 61st Street. As one of the leading dealers for Chrysler, Plymouth, Imperial, Valiant, Volvo, Saab and selected used cars, Mr. Schnurmacher stated: "Ever since we started in the automobile business, we have made a special effort to attract civil service trade. It's a desirable market, because the people are above-average intelligence, meet their obligations, appreciate a rock-bottom price and outstanding service . . . and are exceptionally loyal. By giving extra discounts and red-carpet service, we've created a large following in this field, and we consider our present position largely traceable to it." When you visit "New Yorker" or phone them at TE. 8-7766 . . . be sure you mention that you are a civil service employee. It will pay you to do so.

Jan. 1 Pay Hikes To Be Delayed Until July 1

According to the office of New York City Comptroller Lawrence E. Gerosa, City employees awarded pay raises effective Jan. 1 will not begin receiving the increase until July 1.

This includes employees raised through collective bargaining and through Career and Salary upgradings.

The Comptroller's office explained that all its time now is being taken up by preparation of the 1961-62 City budget, and therefore the budgetary authorizations for the pay hikes will have to wait.

It is expected that back pay to Jan. 1 will be included in either the first or second paychecks of July, or else will be issued at that time in the form of separate checks.

Questions Answered On Social Security

Does my disability benefit start with the month in which I file my application?

Disability benefits become payable in the seventh month of your disability. The law sets a six month waiting period before disability payments can begin.

I have my own business. I am now 71 years old. I understand that employees who work after age 72 can receive benefits no matter how much they earn. Does this also apply to people who own their own business?

Yes. Beginning with age 72 both employees and self-employed persons may receive benefits even if they still continue to work and earn any amount of money.

My husband reports me as his dependent on his income tax return. Since he is getting disability payments, why can't I get benefits as his dependent?

For you to receive benefits you must be at least 62 years old or have in your care a child entitled to benefits. If you meet either of these conditions, you should contact your local social security office.

I am a patient in a state institution, and I am receiving social security payments on my father's account. If I leave the institution and obtain a position, will these benefits be discontinued?

It is possible that during the first year of your attempting to work on the outside, you will be entitled to benefits. However, we suggest that you contact your nearest social security office to tell them of your plans, and they will give you detailed information regarding your rights and obligations.

I am a self-employed woman who retired at 65 years of age in 1956, and I did not have sufficient quarters of coverage to qualify for benefits. I was only entitled to wife's benefits. Am I eligible now under the new law to receive benefits on my own account? Will they be retroactive?

All women who reached age 65 in 1956 need only six quarters of coverage to be eligible for a benefit on their own record. The new amendments make this effective for the month of October. Call at your nearest social security office to file an application, and the question of difference in benefits and amounts involved will be answered for you.

I have a seven year old stepson. When his own father died in June 1959, we were told he could not receive benefits on his father's social security record, because he was living with and being supported by me. Has there been any change?

Yes. Benefits can now be paid to the child on his father's record, even though the child lives with and is supported by his stepfather. However, a new application must be filed.

My husband didn't like his middle name and changed it when we were married. His marriage certificate and social security card have different middle names on them. What can we do to correct this so we can draw social security benefits when the time comes?

No action is necessary now. A person has the right to decide how his name will appear on his social security card. When you claim benefits, you can explain the name change.

I understand that survivor's benefits are paid for children until they attain age 18. How long are social security benefits paid for disabled children?

Benefits for disabled children are generally paid for life as long as the child remains unmarried and so severely disabled he cannot engage in any substantial gainful employment.

I will be 62 in February 1961 and have worked about six years during World War II in a factory. My husband won't be 65 for several years. Can I draw social security now? When my husband retires at 65, can I change over and draw on his record.

Under the new law, a woman your age needs only three and one quarter years or thirteen quarters of social security credit. Since you worked six years, you may contact the local office now and apply for benefits. Later you can draw wife's benefits if they are higher than benefits based on your own work.

If it can be proved I am totally disabled, how much will be paid to me when I qualify for benefits?

The payments are based on your average monthly earnings in the years prior to the onset of your disability. As a result, payments could be anywhere from $33 to $120 a month at the present time.
