DPUI Drops Jawbreaker, Is Re-Named

The New York State Department of Labor's Division of Placement and Unemployment Insurance scrapped its jawbreaker identification and become, simply, the Division of Employment.

"The purpose is clarity," Industrial Commissioner Edward Corsi said. "We believe the public will find the new name simpler and less confusing. We hope earnestly, too, that the public will now start calling our field offices 'employment' rather than 'unemployment' offices. The Division's principal activity is to get jobs for people—which it does at the rate of close to a million a year. Only when this effort fails is its secondary responsibility the payment of unemployment benefits."

Commissioner Corsi said in order to make the change without special expense the Division will use up its present supply of tax reports and other operating forms before reordering under the new name.

The Division was created in 1936 to combine in a single agency the old New York State Employment Service and the new unemployment insurance program. It has been directed since 1938 by Milton O. Loysen.

76,500 Join 55-Year Plan Of Retirement

ALBANY, Oct. 13 — A total of 10,102 persons took advantage of the recent extension period during which they could join the State's 55-year plan, the Department of Audit and Control announced here.

The number brings the total persons who joined the plan, other than those who joined upon being employed, to 76,500 and brings the total active membership in the retirement system to 164,108.

A total of 1,566 employing agencies from the State down through county to the town and school board level are now included in the retirement system, according to Isaac Hungerford, acting director of the Division of State Retirement.

FORSYTHE NAMED TO INSURANCE FUND

ALBANY, Oct. 13 — Governor Dewey last week appointed Clelan S. Forsythe, of Syracuse, a member of the State Insurance Fund. Mr. Forsythe succeeds Dr. E. Walter Woodbury, whose term had expired.

Bright Lads Learn About N. Y. State Government From People Who Run It

ALBANY, Oct. 13 — Top government officials recently participated in a three-day training institute on New York State government. In the Assembly Chambers of the State Capitol, George Shapiro, Counsel to Governor Dewey, began the series with a discussion of the functions and organization of State government.

The institute began the formal part of the 1952-53 program for State public administration interns and employee trainees, who are selected for a year of training in the operation of government.

Outstanding Aides

Taking part in the three-day training session were 26 interns and 36 trainees. The interns, outstanding college graduates appointed July 1 following civil service examinations, are assigned to State agencies in Albany and New York City, plus one working in Sing Sing prison. The trainees, who are regular State employees selected as well qualified for intensive administrative training, are employed in a variety of jobs at different locations.

The program included a discussion of the court system in the State by Supreme Court Justice Isadore Bookstein, Third Judicial District, and a talk on the Governor's office by Guy A. Graves, Jr., Assistant Secretary to the Governor. Session director for Tuesday morning was Dr. L. K. Caldwell, Syracuse University, resident faculty adviser in Albany of the Graduate Program in Public Administration.

Financial Planning

Tuesday afternoon's schedule included a panel discussion on the State's financial planning, with State Tax Commissioner Allen J. (Continued on page 16)

Cut Rate Buying Plan For Employees Meets Enthusiastic Response

Immediate, enthusiastic response was reported this week by officials of the Employee Cut-Rate Buying Plan, Ltd., to the first announcement of the opening of its service to civil service workers.

The second announcement, including the items that were most popular last week among public employees and a number of additional items, appears this week on Pages 8 and 9. Many of the new items were arranged for in answer to specific requests from civil service employees.

Daniel Gold, manager of the Buying Plan, told The LEADER: "The success so far justifies our belief that civil service workers will join in wholeheartedly when they realize that they are making possible a plan that will substantially cut their cost of living."

Have you been reading the LEADER's interesting new column, Civil Service Newsletter? You'll find it on page 6. Make it MUST reading every week.

Mr. Gold repeated that the Buying Plan was pledged to offer the most serviceable merchandise in the market at prices unavailable elsewhere, and that this promise could be fulfilled because the Plan represents the mass purchasing power of the 600,000 public employees in New York State.

The feature of this week's offerings, Mr. Gold said, were cartons of popular brand cigarettes at $1.79 each, representing a substantial saving over prices in stores throughout New York State. Because the supply is limited, he said, only one carton would be available to each customer.

Highlights of the week's offerings, all of them found on Pages 8 and 9, he said, included a ladies raincoat at 88c, and a lucite shaving brush at $1.44.

Mr. Gold added that hundreds of items were being prepared for inclusion in the Buying Plan's catalogue, which will be available within the next several weeks, well in time for Christmas shopping. Details of this catalogue are included in the ad on Pages 8 and 9.

System of Job Applications Simplified

ALBANY, Oct. 13 — J. Edward Conway, president of the State Civil Service Commission, has announced adoption on a trial basis of a simplified procedure for processing job applications.

The new procedure will be used in classifying requests for new positions in 57 job titles in State service. These include the most populous job titles such as clerk, stenographer, typist, hospital attendant, game protector, telephone operator and truck weigher. The new system will be extended to some other titles if its success warrants.

Heretofore, every agency seeking new employees had to give a description in detail of the exact duties and activities of the person who would fill the position.

New System

Under the new system, for the titles covered, the agency requesting the new job merely lists its title and certifies that its duties and requirements conform to the standards. This eliminates the detailed description, cuts down paper work and time of processing.

Joint Effort

The more efficient method was worked out jointly by the Civil Service Department and the State Budget Division which approves or disapproves all requests for the creation of new positions.

Answers to Vets' Questions

I AM A VETERAN and have been told that veteran preference points will not be granted to me if, during the making of NYC appointments, I was passed over because I was in the military service and passed over prior to January 1, 1951, when the point-system law went into effect. K. W.

Answer — No points would be added, as there was no point-system law in effect at the time your name was passed over. But retroactive seniority would apply equal to that of the eligible next lower than you on the list who was appointed, since retroactive seniority benefit did exist prior to January 1, 1951, and does now.

IS THERE any situation under which veteran preference points are added, when one's name goes on a special military list? All the answers I get from veterans are negative. I refer to New York State law. T.C.V.

Answer — Yes. On January 1, 1951, eligible lists then in existence were revised on the basis of points added to earned scores, as required by law. If a veteran on such an eligible list was passed over subsequent to that date, and if he hadn't been passed over previously by persons entitled to the same or lesser preference, he would get preference points. This is the only instance of preference points applying to a special military list. Retroactive seniority would be based on the revised list standing, for determining the next lower eligible.

He fills the vacancy caused by the resignation of Henry A. Cohen of the Public Works Department. Mr. Cohen was chairman of the Board.

At the same time, the governor designated Dr. Frank L. Tolman, a six-year Board member, as chairman.

Mrs. Evelyn Fisher Is Art Assn. Member

ALBANY, Oct. 13 — The Special Art Show Committee of the Civil Service Employees Association regrets that an error was made in a recent release relative to the composition of the special jury chosen to pick the prize-winning exhibits. Mrs. Evelyn R. Fisher was announced as being the President of the Dutchess County Art Association. The committee has been informed that Mrs. Fisher is a member of the Association, but not the President, who is Mrs. Franklin Butts of Poughkeepsie, New York.

BASIC WAGE STATISTICS

ALBANY, Oct. 13 — The expected depressing reflection of the recent steel strike did not result as anticipated by most economists. There was relatively quick recovery of business activity that followed the end of the steel strike. As yet, there is not much evidence in statistics showing the impact of the 21c an hour wage adjustment that was made in the steel industry.

It is interesting to note that the coal industry is making substantial progress in a peaceful wage settlement. While final contracts have not been written with the northern mine owners as yet, there is indication that these contracts will be signed without work stoppage, that they'll include a $1.90 per day wage boost. This amounts to about a 13% wage adjustment. The steel industry settled for a wage increase, but it looks as if the miners will be obtaining an even greater increase.

In the electrical machinery industry, there is a lot of talk about a wage adjustment that would amount to about 6%. The rubber industry settled for a 10c an hour boost, and the oil industry secured Wage Stabilization Board approval for a 15c an hour adjustment.

These and other large industrial areas constitute a major upward wage adjustment that will, undoubtedly, be reflected throughout the economy in the near future.

Civil Service Head Lauds Art Show

ALBANY, Oct. 13 — J. Edward Conway, President of the New York State Civil Service Commission, in a letter to Joseph Rothman, Chairman of the Art Show Committee of the Civil Service Employees Association, commended the Association "for its efforts to stimulate an interest in art among the public employees." The Second Annual Art Show of the Civil Service Employees Association will be exhibited at the Albany Institute of History and Art from October 16 through November 15, 1952. On the night of October 15th, a preview showing of the exhibit, open to artists and their friends, will be held at the Institute, at which time Judge Conway will award prizes to those exhibitors whose works have been selected for special merit by a jury. More than $200 in prize monies will be distributed for art works in oils, watercolors, and ceramics. The prize money was donated in large part by the civil service chapters in the area of the Art Show, and by the Civil Service LEADER.

Pinner, senior employment consultant, DPUI; Garson Zaasmer, assistant administrative director, Civil Service Department; Mary Goode Krone, director, State Personnel Council; Dr. Anne M. Steps in the Solution Of Jr. Tax Examiners' Grievance Over Travel

ALBANY, Oct. 13 — In a story last week regarding a long awaited solution to a grievance brought by junior tax examiners in the Department of Taxation and Finance, The LEADER erred in calling it an example of a settlement through use of grievance machinery "within the department." The fact is that this particular grievance required the fullest use of the State personnel relations board.

There was no attempt on the part of this paper to whitewash the departmental machinery which, in this particular case, did not bring about the final results.

The Sequence

In sequence, the facts of the matter were these:

April 24, 1951. The junior tax examiner complained he was being required to travel on Sunday in order to arrive on time at his appointed work on Monday, and no compensatory time off was being granted.

June 4, 1951. His complaint had been processed, and request for compensatory time off denied, at all levels of the departmental grievance set-up.

Early December, 1951. Through the intercession of Susanne Long, Tax chapter chairman, and John J. Kelly Jr., CSEA assistant counsel, the matter was submitted to the personnel relations board with the consent of Tax and Finance.

Problem Is Resolved

December 27, 1951. The board found for the complainant and recommended the rescheduling of trips. This notice was sent to all parties January 18, 1952.

May 14, 1952. The department finally agreed to change its system of assigning examiners, so that the problem would be resolved.

The grievance thus has taken more than a year to process.

Job Age of 35 Under Attack

Sharp criticism has been made of the "under 35 years of age" policy of the Federal government in filling stenography and typewriting positions in Washington, D. C. and abroad.

The New York State Employment Service office, where applications for the posts are being accepted, did not disclose the name of the agency offering the jobs.

Salary is $2,950 to $3,795, plus a cost-of-living allowance and free transportation, if assigned overseas. There are more than 100 vacancies.

The NYSES reported difficulty in filling the jobs in Washington. Applicants complained of overcrowding, a shortage of accommodations and the high percentage of women to men.

Park Institute Organized By Civil Service Men

SYRACUSE, Oct. 13—Civil service men in public park work on city, county, and State levels met for their first gathering of the kind in Syracuse on September 11 and 12 and founded the Park Institute of New York State. State University College of Forestry at Syracuse was host.

In favor of a permanent organization, such as has been in existence in New England, adjacent States, and other regions of the country for years, the park men elected two co-chairmen to assign organizing tasks and plan a second two-day conference at the College of Forestry next September. The co-chairmen are Leonard L. Huttleston, assistant director of the Division of State Parks, State Conservation Department, Albany, and Prof. George J. Albrecht, head of the landscape and recreational management department at the forestry college. They and Wilbur E. Wright, director of Rochester's division of parks and recreation, and Charles F. Ames, executive secretary of Onondaga County Park and Regional Planning Board, arranged the program.

The aim of the conference, and now of the organization, is to exchange facts, ideas, and experiences to improve park planning, operation, and maintenance. The agenda included panels on recreation programming, public relations, maintenance problems, and qualifications of supervisory personnel in park work.

Civil Service Men Participates
Donald Bruce, principal personnel technician of New York State Dept. of Civil Service, was the major non-park participant on the latter panel. With him were Gordon Harvey, manager of the Genesee State Park Region, and J. Howard Shattuck, asst. exec. secy., Onondaga County Park and Regional Planning Board, under the chairmanship of Mr. Huttleston.

The Job Picture

The panelists agreed that both professional and semi-professional life careers and opportunities in public park work exist, and are increasing, in greater numbers than is realized by qualified men looking for stability and security in a job that is outdoors a good deal of the time, especially in summer. The sparsity of applicants for jobs leading to supervisory pay and responsibility was blamed as much on the false idea that park jobs are few or are purely seasonal, as it was blamed on the general scarcity of men on the labor market. The hope was expressed that the new institute would be an effective instrument of spreading word of the opportunities for park careers in the state.

As a step toward the formal organization necessary for maximum effectiveness, the newly-elected chairmen will assign organizing and other duties to various members of the charter group present at Syracuse, and point toward a 1953 conference program planned by park men from all parts of the state. State U. College of Forestry's invitation was accepted to meet in Syracuse again. The invitation was extended by Prof. Albrecht on behalf of forestry Dean Hardy L. Shirley and State U. president William S. Carlson.

The Fragility Of Federal Employment

ONCE again the fragility of Federal employment becomes apparent with the announcement that more than 2,000 civil servants in the Veterans Administration are to be dismissed, in line with a slash of funds imposed by Congress.

Question: Is it not time that Congress, so quick to cut down these positions, also enact unemployment insurance legislation for U. S. employees? The dismissed Federal aide faces the same problems, the same heartaches, the same interim period of job hunting, the same fears, as does the individual dismissed from a job in private industry. The extent of reduction-in-force dismissals is so heavy in government, that a strong case can be made for the conclusion that unemployment insurance is even more imperative today for Federal employees than for private ones.

Question: Why cannot a more intelligent program of absorption be devised for employees so dismissed? While, on the one hand, the mass firings are announced, on the other hand large recruitment projects are in progress for many of the Federal agencies. The talents, abilities, and internal experience of employees facing dismissal ought to be used by the government in filling other available positions, before outside recruiting is undertaken. In this connection, a re-examination of civil service regulations is in order; some of them are frightfully rigid, preventing quick adaptability to a new situation like that of the VA dismissals. The employees to be dismissed: In what other units of government can they be employed? Is it possible, with slight re-training, to put them on other jobs? What secondary abilities have they which will make them appropriate for other available positions?

Question: Should not Congress consider the feasibility of severance pay for employees dismissed in reduction-in force actions? Not a revolutionary proposal, the plan of severance pay is an established custom in enlightened segments of private industry.

After all, to lose a job is still a terrible thing, even when works for the government.

Question, Please

MY NAME is on a State eligible list established in May of this year. The following month I was discharged from the Air Force. I want to claim point preference, as appointments are about to be made. How shall I go about it?
T. L.

Answer — Point preference does not apply in cases where the discharge occurred after the establishment of the list. Benefits under "military rights" do apply, and for such purpose the claim of veteran status may be made at any time. These "rights" include retroactive seniority and retention.
J. J. R.

AS I AM now in the Army, and don't know just when I'll be discharged, as I've been in only a few months, what shall I do about claiming veteran preference in a large NYC exam that I am taking, the list will for which probably will not be out until a year hence.
J. J. R.

Answer — You should obtain a veteran preference claim from the Civil Service Commission, fill it out carefully and mail it to the Commission. While you do not have the status of a veteran until after discharge, that discharge may occur before the establishment of the list. There is no harm in making the preference claim, since it is not granted unless proof is produced. If later circumstances do not justify one to prosecute his preference claim, of course he would let the matter drop.

HAS ANY method of appeal been introduced in the NYC Employees Suggestion Plan? J.T.O'R.
Answer — No. All decisions of the Board are final. It would be unusual to have appeals procedures in merit award plans.

WHAT IS the situation regarding veterans who saw service during the Korean conflict only, though not necessarily in Korea, and who were passed over while they were in such service? O.K.B.
Answer — They would be entitled to retroactive seniority on the basis of the next lower eligible's appointment from the original list, since there no revision is involved. They would not be entitled to veteran preference credit (added points) because the list was established prior to their discharge from the armed forces.

PROVISIONALS AS HARDY PERENNIALS

Editor, The LEADER:

Too often too much emphasis is put on the fact that there are provisionals in government employ. These employees, appointed without passing an exam, hold on only until soon after a list of eligibles is established. To eliminate provisionals entirely, if it were at all possible to do that, so many exams would have to be held, and the early appointment prospects for eligibles would be so small, that the cost of civil service recruitment would rise sharply.

Whenever there is a difficult job market, naturally the number of provisionals would increase, for there are not enough eligibles to fill the jobs competitively, or willing to accept. Higher pay in private industry is not quickly matched by government, for, if it were, government employ, with its better stability and pensions, would be outbidding private industry.

On the other hand, no doubt in some instances departments do their best to keep favorites on the payroll. One NYC employee was on the payroll for 11 years as a provisional. As soon as a list was about to be established in the title he occupied, he'd be found occupying another title, for which no list was in sight, yet he kept on doing exactly the same work in the same office for the same administrator. But this is an exception. Alertness and severity by civil service commissions can do much to keep the number of provisionals relatively low.

In the NYC Board of Transportation there are about 3,000 provisionals in the operating division, despite an increase of 6,000 in the number of employees because of the 40-hour week. If there hadn't been a strong hand at the check-rein there'd be 9,000 provisionals there now.

The fact that, viewed on an annual basis, the number of provisionals in government is decreasing, despite the difficulty in filling many titles competitively, speaks well for the progress being made.

There must always be provisionals if government is to function, for when a job must be done, nothing takes precedence. Both the State Constitution and the State Civil Service Law recognize the necessity of provisionals. While it is well to be alert, lest appointing officers make a spoilsman's racket out of civil service, it is only fair to view the broad picture understandingly, and not complain too much about civil service commissions that themselves are vexed by the necessity of certifying eligibles for jobs that pay salaries that commissions wish were higher.

LIKES INTEGRATION WITH SOCIAL SECURITY

Editor, The LEADER:

I suppose, as you state in The LEADER, there will be much controversy this winter about integrating Social Security with existing public employee retirement systems, but I'm sure that the outcome will be integration. The extra benefits and greater benefits that Social Security would add—for instance, survivor and insurance—should be most welcome to public employees.

The danger of the Federal Government taking over State and local government retirement systems is an exaggerated theory. Some States have constitutional safeguards on this score, and many States are so sensitive about State's rights, that I'm not worrying.

COMPARES INTEGRATION WITH SOUR MILK

Editor, The LEADER:

I'm not going along at all with those who advocate integrating public employee retirement systems with Social Security. When you mix sour milk with sweet milk the result is sour milk.

Social Security may be better than nothing, for employees of private industry, but the pensions it offers are pittance, nobody could live on them, and the danger of linking worthwhile retirement systems with such a depressed pension plan as Social Security must be obvious.

It is idle to mention that integration will add certain benefits to existing ones, without regarding the possibility, or probability, that some future day will see greatly lessened benefits for new employees of government in the general retirement downgrading that integration presages.

CIVIL SERVICE

NEWS Letter

A PLAN to ask the next session of the State Legislature to raise the fees charged in civil service exams would include a provision for a complete refund after an eligible is permanently appointed or promoted. In open-competitive exams, that condition arises after the satisfactory completion of the probationary period. In promotion exams there is no probationary period. Practically all fees in such tests would be refunded. However, some employees do refuse promotion, because they'd have to leave their old friends at their present place of employment, or would have to work far from home, or don't like the type of work offered or perhaps the department to which they would be transferred.

SENATE COMMITTEE says U.S. agencies are botching up incentive award programs which supposedly encourage, with cash on promotions, employees' economy suggestions. Charging Budget Bureau, Civil Service Commission, and Congress with lethargy in advancing the program, committee said only U.S. Navy provides incentives comparable to private industry or foreign nations. Committee's indictment of existing program includes red tape, slow payment, supervisory resistance, low awards. Net result: U.S. saves far less proportionately by employee-proposed economies than private industries having similar programs.

THERE ARE 1,119,670 getting veteran preference in U.S. service. Of these 21,029 are wives, widows and mothers of soldiers. . . Non-veteran appeal right are slated for a heavy tussle at next session of Congress, with employee organizations lined up on one side, veterans groups on the other.

WATCH FOR a public battle on the use of conscientious objectors in positions normally filled by U.S. civil service employees. In one State, selective service has designated a state mental hospital as an appropriate assignment under the terms of "national health, safety and service" assignments which may be given to C.O.s. Big difficulty comes up because the C.O.'s are slated to receive the same pay as a G.I. inductee, $75 a month. The C.O. will be expected to do the same work as a regular employee whose minimum pay is $185 a month. Employee organizations are worried about this precedent. Would it, in time of stress, enable the depression of civil service wages or the displacement of regular employees?

OPPORTUNITIES are growing for girls who are interested in home economics. Trained food service managers have no trouble finding jobs. . . "Professional" agriculture, which includes the applied sciences of farming, offers unusual opportunities for young men casting around for a career.

Junk Pile Brings $300 To Employee

ALBANY, Oct. 13 — Ingenious utilization of parts salvaged from a junk pile won a $300 cash award for John Kelhi, of Public Works District No. 2, Utica. Mr. Kelhi constructed a special painting truck with a 22-foot wheelbase, carrying a 9-foot boom. Its maneuverability and capacity for travelling at ordinary highway speeds when necessary facilitates highway marking operations at lower costs and with greater safety to the operating forces.

Myrtle H. Walker, of Taxation and Finance, Albany, was also granted $300 by the State Merit Award Board for her proposal of a new procedure for processing auto accident reports. A trial run brought appreciable savings to the Motor Vehicle Bureau.

$100 Awards

$100 went to Salvatore Butero and Walter Wood, of Mental Hygiene, in New York City, for designing and constructing a stirring device of considerable versatility which greatly aided research work in pharmacology.

$50, $25 Awards

Awards of $50 each went to Aaron Nathan, DPUI, Brooklyn, and Gertrude Winkler, Tax and Finance, Albany, for designing new forms.

$25 awards have been paid to the following employees: Edward J. Brusco, DPUI, Albany; Paul Fish, Social Welfare, Chester; Phyllis Miller, State Insurance Fund, NYC; Annabelle Campbell, Tax, Brooklyn; Katherine M. Cosgrove, Agriculture and Markets, Albany; Edna S. Sanchioni, Mental Hygiene, Gowanda.

Certificates of Merit

Certificates of Merit were won by: Joseph Adler, Civil Defense, NYC; John F. Jarvis, Public Works, Scotia; Bert Blatt, Tax, NYC; Kenneth A. Valentine, Public Service, NYC; Gladys E. Whitlock, State University, Albany; and Helen Katafiaz, DPUI, Rochester.

Civil Service Assembly To Discuss Top Topics

The Civil Service Assembly of the U. S. and Canada will hold its annual international conference at the Hotel New Yorker, NYC, Monday, October 20 to Thursday, October 23. Pre-conference activities on Sunday, October 19 will include discussion of personnel problems in Canada and meetings of regional and chapter officers.

On the morning of the 21st personnel problem panels will be conducted, with discussion of job classification, pay plans and fringe benefits, recruitment and selection, employee training, personnel records, and problems of Commissioners.

On the 22nd one of the most important topics is "Extending Social Security to Public Employees." This is one of the most controversial subjects on the program. On the same day cost-of-living pay plans, evaluating intangibles in personnel selection, negotiating with labor unions in government, and the duties of a departmental personnel officer will be discussed. That day there will be a boat ride in the afternoon and hotel cabaret entertainment and dancing in the evening.

Grievance Handling

On the 23rd discussions will deal with the relations of personnel officers with budget bureaus, problems of personnel operation in the Federal Government, use of private employment facilities in public employment recruitment, and procedures for handling grievances.

At a luncheon on the 21st Dr. Leonard D. White, University of Chicago, former member of the U. S. Civil Service Commission, will discuss public administration. He will be awarded a lifetime honorary membership in the CSA.

On the 23rd the luncheon speaker will be Mayor Joseph S. Clark of Philadelphia, who, the CSA says, "has gained nationwide attention for the work being done under his administration to improve and strengthen civil service."

The host committee has a group of beautiful girls who will greet out-of-towners particularly. James E. Rossell, director, Second Regional Office, U. S. Civil Service Commission, is in charge of this activity.

Roscoe C. Griffith, retired employee of Utica State Hospital, being presented with a gift by Dr. B. B. Young, director of the hospital. Margaret M. Fenk, chairman of the dinner in Mr. Griffith's honor, looks on.

NYC Plans To Curb Job Declinations

Sweeping changes in its rule regarding declinations of job offers are planned by the NYC Civil Service Commission, but it will await public reaction to the proposals before taking any action.

The most important change would be to prevent eligibles who decline a job offer from getting their names back on the list until all the other eligibles have received a similar offer. In that way, the Commission feels, it will sharply reduce the time span between examination and appointment, and save itself the present considerable work of putting names back on lists and taking them off again. In some instances eligibles have made as many as 14 declinations and have had their names restored to the list every time.

The Commission wants to get rid of the nuisance of dealing with eligibles who, when they took the exam, never had any intention of taking the job.

Five Declination Reasons
Declinations would be accepted for the following reasons: 1. Job location; 2. pay too low; 3. job only temporary or part time (unless the exam was specifically held for filling such types of jobs); 4. nature of the duties; 5. offer is for a job in a different title than the one for which the exam was held.

In each case of declination the eligible's name would be removed from the list, and instead of being subject to restoration after the lapse of some specific period, would be governed by the rule that all other eligibles must be canvassed first.

Persons who, after appointment, resign during their probationary period, or are let out, could not have their names as readily restored to the list, since they, too would have to wait until all other eligibles were canvassed, and would have to present strong reasons for restoration even then.

Some Liberalizing Aspects
Except for those in military service, candidates who fail to show up when called to a qualifying exam or investigation, would be stricken from the list. A Commission error, being subpoenaed, or physical disability incurred in municipal employment, would be acceptable excuses, however.

The proposals would liberalize the present strict rule regarding declinations for location reasons, as the Commission realizes that there are many reasons why eligibles prefer to live in a borough other than the one in which the job is located.

Eligibles would be granted five days, instead of the present four, in which to respond to a call to a job.

Employees Swamp Board With Ideas

The Employees Suggestion Program that NYC started recently has resulted in such a large response from employees teeming with ideas that the Program Board will have to move fast to have the first substantial cash winners selected in time for Christmas. Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri, it is expected, will make the presentations at City Hall. Lesser cash awards, and certificates of merit, will be presented in the departments in which the winners work, by the Commissioner or a deputy.

Employees are seeking cash awards of $10 to $500. Hundreds of ideas have been submitted and the tide is rising.

The Board members are John Reed Kilpatrick, president of the Madison Square Garden Corporation, chairman; Comptroller Lazarus Joseph, Budget Director Abraham D. Beame and President Paul A. Brennan of the Municipal Civil Service Commission. William H. Rocker, an administrative assistant on the Commission's staff, is the executive director.

JR. PHARMACIST EXAM CLOSING ON NOV. 7

Applications will be received by the State in the junior pharmacist exam until Friday, October 17. The former closing date was October 10. The date of the written test remains Saturday, November 8th.

Mrs. Edna Sanchioni, occupational therapist at Gowanda State Homeopathic Hospital, was honored on Tuesday, September 30, when Dr. Richard V. Foster (left), hospital director, presented her with a check for $25 and a Certificate of Merit from the New York State Employees Merit Award Board. Mrs. Sanchioni's suggestion that two record forms be combined will save much time and increase efficiency in filing. Vito J. Ferro, president of the hospital's CSEA chapter, looks on.

Attendants Underpaid: Van Duzer

MIDDLETOWN, Oct. 13 — State Assemblyman Wilson Van Duzer has asked Governor Dewey to act on raising the pay of State hospital attendants.

He adds: "The raise which they received last year was a percentage raise, not the proper answer to their problems at all, in some cases meaning only an additional 90c per week to their take-home pay. "In our upstate institutions we fortunately still have a great many attendants who have made their vocation a career and a hobby... Our approach to this on the State level is not comprehensive. We are using the taxpayers' money for things that are very superficial, compared with the care of our sick, particularly our mentally ill."

apple picking, hiking, canasta and pinochle.

Lunch was glorified by Al Killian's hot dogs. Helen Lonergan brought baked beans and everyone enjoyed them. Mary Lease took charge of the dishwashing, recruiting Arlene Holzer and her sister and Blanch Norris to help. Celeste Rosenkranz made the coffee.

Catherine Bartlett and Ethel Irwin lost the canasta tournament, but received a second lunch.

Charlotte Tropman, chairman of the picnic committee and hostess, kept the fire burning. Gerry Hopkins tested the apples and compared them with the one apple growing on her tree.

The chapter hopes to hold the picnic again next year and make it an annual event.

The October meeting of the Buffalo chapter has been advanced to October 22 at 8 P.M. in the State Office Building. A special meeting of delegates on October 7 set the new date because the annual meeting in Albany conflicted with the original meeting date.
